If the whole share of the debtor is more than sufficient to satisfy the execution, the levy shall be made upon such undivided portion of such share as will, in the opinion of the appraisers, satisfy the execution, and such undivided portion shall be held in common with the debtor and the other co-tenant.

If the life estate expires before the end of the term so fixed, the creditor may have a new action on the judgment to recover the amount then due thereon.

LEVY OF EXECUTIONS ON LAND.

17 Mass. 439.

1 Section 17. If the land is under lease as aforesaid and the reversion 2 of a part only is taken, the appraisers shall determine the portion of the 3 whole annual rent to be paid to the creditor, and the lessee shall pay it 4 to him.

1 Section 18. If a judgment creditor requires an execution to be 2 levied on property which is claimed by the debtor to be as a homestead 3 exempt from such levy, and if the officer holding such execution is of 4 opinion that the premises are of greater value than eight hundred dol- 5 lars, appraisers shall be appointed to appraise the property in the manner 6 provided by section six. If, in the judgment of the appraisers, the pre- 7 mises are of greater value than eight hundred dollars, they shall set off 8 to the judgment debtor so much of the premises, including the dwelling 9 house, in whole or in part, as shall appear to them to be of the value of 10 eight hundred dollars; and the residue of the property shall be levied 11 upon and disposed of in like manner as land not exempt from levy on 12 execution; and if the property levied on is subject to a mortgage, it may 13 be set off or sold subject to the mortgage and to the estate of home- 14 stead, in like manner as land subject to a mortgage only.

1 Section 19. An officer serving an execution shall deliver to the 2 creditor or to his attorney seisin and possession of the land taken thereon, 3 so far as the nature of the estate and the title of the debtor will admit. 4 If the estate taken is a remainder, reversion or right of redemption, 5 the officer shall not oust the person lawfully in possession of the land 6 but shall assign to the creditor the right which the debtor had therein, 7 and make his return accordingly.

1 Section 20. If an execution is levied on land of which a person other 2 than the debtor is actually seized, the officer shall deliver to the creditor 3 or to his attorney such momentary seisin and possession thereof as will 4 enable the creditor to maintain an action therefor upon his own seisin; 5 but the officer shall not oust the tenant then in possession.

1 Section 21. The officer shall return the execution, with a certificate 2 of his doings endorsed thereon, to the court to which it is returnable, 3 and such execution and certificate shall be forthwith recorded. The 4 officer shall also, within three months after the levy has been completed, 5 cause the execution and return to be recorded in the registry of deeds 6 for the county or district where the land lies.

1 Section 22. Such record in the registry of deeds of an execution 2 issued by a district court, and of the levy thereon, shall be prima facie 3 evidence of the regularity of the judgment and prior proceedings in the 4 case.

1 Section 23. The return of the officer on the execution shall, in 2 addition to the other requirements of law, set forth substantially —

P. S. 172, § 24. 97 Mass. 310. 120 Mass. 7.
LEVY OF EXECUTIONS ON LAND.

First, The time when the land was taken on execution;
Second, Either that the appraisers were appointed by the officer, the creditor and the debtor, or that the debtor was absent from, or not resident in, the commonwealth and had no agent or attorney known to the officer, or neglected to appoint an appraiser, and the officer appointed one for him;

Third, That the appraisers were duly sworn, unless a certificate of the oath is endorsed on the execution and signed by the person administering it;
Fourth, That they appraised and set off the land at the value stated;
Fifth, That the officer either delivered seisin thereof to the creditor or his attorney, or assigned it to him as provided in the case of a remainder or incorporeal estate;
Sixth, The description of the land unless it is sufficiently described in the certificate of the appraisers and the return refers to and adopts that description; and Seventh, If the appraisal is signed by only two of the appraisers, that all three of them were present and acted in the appraisal.

SECTION 24. If the execution and return are not recorded in the registry of deeds within three months as aforesaid, the levy shall be void as against a creditor who has attached the same land or taken it on execution without notice of such levy, and also as against a purchaser in good faith for value and without such notice; but if such execution and return are recorded after the expiration of the three months, the levy shall be valid and effectual as against a conveyance, attachment or levy made after such recording.

SECTION 25. If the execution and return have not been returned or recorded as aforesaid, the levy shall be so far valid against the creditor that he shall not waive the levy and have a new execution, except as provided in section fifty.

LEVY BY SALE.

SECTION 26. Land and rights mentioned in section one and rights of redeeming land sold for the payment of taxes and other assessments may, if the creditor so elects, be sold on execution as provided in the four following sections, and, after satisfying the execution with the costs and charges, the surplus proceeds of the sale shall be applied and disposed of as provided upon a sale of personal property on execution under the preceding chapter. Land or rights taken on an execution in favor of the commonwealth shall in all cases be so sold.

SECTION 27. The officer authorized to serve the execution shall make the sale by public auction to the highest bidder, and convey by deed to the purchaser all the debtor's title to the land or rights so sold. Such deed shall, if the execution with the return thereon has been returned, be void as against the debtor or any person claiming under him who has actual notice thereof and, if recorded within three months after Section 28. The officer, thirty days at least before the sale, shall deliver to the debtor, if found within his precinct, a written notice of the time and place of sale and shall post such a notice in a public place in the town where the land lies and also in two adjoining towns, if there are so many in the county. The officer shall also publish such a notice once in each of three successive weeks, the first publication to be not less than twenty-one days before the day of sale, in a newspaper published in the town where the land lies.

Section 29. If, at the time appointed for the sale, the officer considers it for the interest of all persons concerned to postpone it, he may adjourn it for not more than seven days, and so from time to time until the sale is completed, giving notice of every such adjournment by a public declaration thereof at the time and place previously appointed for the sale.

Section 30. Section forty of chapter two hundred and thirty-five relative to adjournment by order of court shall apply to such sales.

Suspension of Levy.

1 Section 31. If land has been seized on execution and further service thereof is suspended by reason of a prior attachment or seizure of the same land, the officer making the later seizure shall cause a record thereof to be made in the same manner as an attachment of land on mesne process is recorded. Such record shall be sufficient notice of said seizure, and the levy on such land shall be considered as having been made at the time of such seizure if such record is made within three days afterward; otherwise, at the time when said record is made. The land shall remain bound by such seizure until set off or sold in whole or in part under the prior attachment or seizure or until that attachment or seizure is dissolved.

1 Section 32. If land is set off or sold in part under a prior attachment or seizure, or if that attachment or seizure is dissolved, the land or such part thereof as remains undisposed of shall continue bound for thirty-four days thereafter by the seizure on execution, and service of the execution may be completed as if the land had been first seized thereon within six said thirty days, although the return day thereof has passed.

1 Section 33. If land or rights have been taken and set off on execution, the debtor may within one year after the levy or, if such land or rights have been sold on execution, within one year after such sale or within the time and upon the terms provided in section forty-seven, redeem the same by paying or tendering to the creditor or purchaser, as the case may be, the amount for which they were so set off or sold, with interest thereon from the time of the levy, all amounts paid for lawful taxes and assessments, reasonable expenses incurred for repairs and improvements and, in case of levy by set-off, all amounts lawfully paid on account of any mortgage or other lien recoverable under section forty-eight, and deducting from such amount in each case the rents and profits received or which might have been received by the creditor or purchaser and with which he is lawfully chargeable. The creditor or purchaser shall thereupon deliver to the debtor a deed of release, prepared by the debtor or at his expense, of the land or rights so taken and set off or sold.

Section 34. The debtor may in all cases cause the amount due for redemption to be ascertained at his own expense by three justices of the peace in the manner following: one of the justices shall be chosen by the debtor, one by the creditor, and one by the two first chosen; or if the creditor neglects to choose one, the justice chosen by the debtor shall appoint the other two. After a hearing before the three justices, they or two of them shall make and sign a certificate of the amount which they adjudge to be due for the redemption of the land, which certificate shall be final and conclusive between the parties. A tender by the debtor of the amount so adjudged to be due shall be a sufficient tender notwithstanding any previous tender.

Section 35. If the creditor or, in case of a sale, the purchaser pays the debt due on a mortgage to which the land levied on is subject, the judgment debtor may redeem the mortgage from the creditor or purchaser at the time when, and upon the terms upon which, he might have redeemed it from the mortgagee if no execution had been levied. If the debtor does not so redeem the mortgage, the creditor or purchaser shall hold the land as an assignee of the mortgage and free from any right of redemption, notwithstanding the debtor has redeemed or offered to redeem the right taken on the execution. If the debtor does not within one year after the levy redeem the right taken on the execution, the creditor or purchaser shall hold the land against the debtor, notwithstanding the debtor has redeemed or offered to redeem the mortgage.

Section 36. Rights of redeeming land sold for the payment of taxes or other assessments may, if sold on execution, be redeemed in the same manner as rights of redeeming mortgaged land so sold.

Section 37. If an execution is levied on rents and profits of a life estate, the debtor may, at any time before the debt with interest thereon is fully satisfied, redeem the same by paying or tendering to the creditor the amount due to him; and the proceedings relative to such redemption shall be the same as are provided for the redemption of other land.

Section 38. If the creditor tenders the amount justly due for redemption, and the creditor or, in case of a sale, the purchaser does not within seven days after the tender release the land as before provided, the 4 debtor may recover it, with costs, in a writ of entry on his own seisin of disseisor; to be brought in court for the use of the creditor or purchaser the amount so tendered.

1 Section 39. The debtor may, within the year before limited for redemption and irrespective of any tender, bring in the supreme judicial court or the superior court in the county where the land lies, instead of a writ of entry, a suit in equity for redemption, under the following sections.

1 Section 40. The debtor shall in his bill offer to pay the amount found due for redemption and may set forth any tender he has made. The court shall determine the amount due, unless it has already been ascertained under section thirty-four, and shall require the debtor within such time as it may order, to deposit with the clerk for the use of the creditor or purchaser the amount due for redemption. Upon the debtor's complying with the order, he shall be entitled to judgment and execution for seisin of the land as at common law.

1 Section 41. The court may award costs to either party, but the creditor or purchaser shall not be required to pay costs, unless it appears that he has unreasonably neglected to render, when requested, a just and true account of the amount due on the judgment, the money expended in repairing and improving the land and of the rents and profits thereof; or unless it appears that a sufficient amount was tendered to him for the redemption of the land, and that he neglected for seven days thereafter to execute and deliver a release thereof as before required. If the creditor or purchaser has, before the commencement of the suit, tendered such a deed of release and alleges such tender and brings the deed into court to be delivered to the debtor, he shall recover costs.

1 Section 42. Everything required in this chapter to be done by or to a debtor or by or to a creditor or purchaser relative to the redemption of an estate taken and set off or sold on execution may be done by or to his heirs, assigns, executor, administrator or by or to any person lawfully claiming under him or them, in like manner and with like effect as if done by or to him; except that if an executor or administrator recovers the land, the recovery shall operate only as a discharge of the lien or encumbrance on the land, and the heir or other person entitled thereto shall be seized thereof under his title.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1 Section 43. A levy by set-off or sale shall be considered as made at the time when the land is taken, and the subsequent proceedings and the officer's return thereof shall be valid, although made after the return of the day or after the removal or other disability of the officer.

Section 44. Notice to the debtor under this chapter may be served upon him personally or left at his last and usual place of abode. If the debtor does not reside within the precinct of the officer serving the execution, and is not found by him therein, such officer shall, in addition to any other service required by law, send by mail, postpaid and addressed to the debtor at his residence as described in the execution, a copy of any notice service of which upon him would be required if he were found within such precinct.

Section 45. The fees and charges of levying an execution shall be added to and considered as part of the amount due on the execution, in the setting off or sale of land on execution, in the redemption thereof and in everything relative to the proceedings under the execution.

Section 46. A levy upon lands in different counties or upon rights of redemption in such lands, under the same execution, may be made by an officer of any of such counties.

Section 47. If an execution is levied on land or rights the record title to which fraudulently stands in the name of a person other than the debtor and such person is in possession claiming title thereto, the levy shall be void unless the judgment creditor to whom the land is set off or the purchaser at the sale or a person lawfully claiming under either of them commences his action to recover possession thereof within one year after the recording of the execution and return in the registry of deeds in the case of a levy by set-off or after the recording of the deed therein in the case of a levy by sale; and such land or rights set off or sold may be redeemed by the defendant in said action or by any person lawfully claiming under him, within three months from the date of the judgment recovered in said action for possession, in the manner and according to the terms and conditions provided in section thirty-three upon payment of the costs of such action for possession.

Section 48. If, after an execution has been levied by setting off land, there proves to be a mortgage or other lien on the land or an estate of homestead therein, not known or allowed for, or not fully allowed for, by the appraisers, the creditor shall nevertheless be entitled to hold the land by force of the execution, except the estate of homestead, as against the debtor, and may recover, in a new action against the debtor, the amount of the homestead estate or the amount which he may lawfully pay on account of such mortgage or other lien, or so much thereof as has not been deducted and allowed for in the estimate of the appraisers.

Section 49. The right of redeeming land taken on execution may be taken and sold on another execution, in like manner as the right of redeeming mortgaged land may be taken and sold; and the debtor and those claiming under him may redeem the right sold under such second execution in like manner as if the right so sold had been a right of redeeming mortgaged land. All proceedings in levying such second execution, the redemption of the right sold under it and all the rights and 8 obligations of the several parties relative to such levy and redemption shall be substantially the same as if the right taken and sold on such second execution had been a right of redeeming mortgaged land.

1 Section 50. If, before an execution which has been levied on land is returned and recorded, it appears that there is a defect or error in the proceedings which would defeat the levy, or that the land levied upon cannot be held thereby, the creditor may waive the levy, which shall thereupon be void, and resort to any other remedy for the satisfaction of his judgment.

1 Section 51. If, after the return of such execution, it appears to the creditor that the land levied on, or any part thereof, cannot be held thereby, he may take out from the court from which the execution issued a writ of seire facias requiring the debtor to appear and show cause why another execution should not be issued on the same judgment, and the writ may issue although there is a subsequent judgment for a part thereof not satisfied by the levy. If the debtor, after being duly summoned, moned, does not show sufficient cause to the contrary, the levy of the former execution may be set aside and another execution issued for the amount then due on the original judgment and not included in a subsequent judgment, but without interest or further costs.

1 Section 52. If at the hearing the court finds that a part only of the land levied on is held thereby, a warrant may be issued, if the creditor so requires, to an officer qualified to serve the execution, requiring him to cause the part held thereby to be appraised at its value when taken. The officer shall thereupon cause such appraisal to be made in the manner required upon the original levy, and, upon return of said warrant, the levy may be set aside so far as it relates to the part not held thereby, and, if duly recorded, shall be valid as to the remaining part. A new execution may thereupon be issued for the difference between the amount of the original appraisal of the land levied on and the amount of the appraisal of the part held by the levy, without interest or costs. If the court finds that the creditor in proceedings under this or the preceding section had no just cause for such action, the debtor shall recover costs.

1 Section 53. Land of a deceased person which has not been sold and conveyed, by deed duly recorded, by the executor or administrator of such deceased person under a license from the probate court or under a power of sale contained in the will of the deceased, may be taken on execution on a judgment against his executor or administrator for the debt of the deceased, for the costs of the action against him if the executor or administrator has not appeared therein, and for the fees and charges of the levy, and such land shall be appraised and set off or sold, in like manner as if execution had been levied against the deceased in his lifetime.

1 Section 54. Land taken as provided in the preceding section may be redeemed by the executor, administrator, heir or devisee of the deceased, or by any person lawfully claiming under him or them, in like manner as if the land had been taken on an execution against the debtor.

4. Execution for the balance, if any, due from the tenant as well as for seisin 215 Mass. 324.
5. Of the land.
WRITS OF ENTRY. [CHAP. 237.

Section 27. If the amount found due to the tenant for improvements exceeds the amount due from him for rents and profits accruing within six years, he shall be chargeable with rents and profits accruing before that time, so far as necessary to balance his claim for improvements; but in such case he shall not be liable to repay rents and profits in excess of the value of the improvements.

Section 28. The demandant shall, except as provided in the following section, before taking out execution for seisin of the land, pay to the tenant, or for his use to the recorder of the land court, the balance, if any, due the tenant for improvements after deducting the amount due from the tenant for rents and profits and other damages; but the tenant or person claiming under him shall not be liable for rents and profits accruing between the date of the judgment and payment by the demandant of said balance.

Section 29. The demandant may take out a writ of seisin before the amounts due for rents and profits or other damages or for improvements have been assessed; but if the tenant has entered on the record the suggestion of a claim for improvements, the demandant, before taking out his writ of seisin, shall furnish such security or pay into court such amount of money as the land court may order, to secure to the tenant the payment of any balance found due him for such improvements.

Section 30. If a balance is found due the tenant for such improvements, he may have judgment and execution therefor, or he may collect the same, with all reasonable costs and expenses of such collection, out of the security furnished, or may receive it out of the money paid into court, and the residue thereof shall be returned to the demandant.

Section 31. If the tenant claims an allowance for improvements as before provided, the demandant may, by an entry on the record, require the value of his estate in the land demanded, without the improvements, to be determined as provided for the assessment of rents and profits and improvements. Such value shall be the value which, at the time of assessment, the land would have had if the improvements had not been made by the tenant or a person under whom he claims.

11 Fick. 193, 219.

Section 32. After said determination of value the demandant may, at the sitting at which judgment is entered for him, enter upon the record his election to relinquish his estate in the land to the tenant at said value; and upon his motion for further time in which to make such election the land court may postpone the entry of judgment without further costs for him.

1904, 445, § 1.

Section 33. If the demandant elects to relinquish the land as before provided, the tenant shall thenceforth hold all the estate which the demandant had therein at the date of the writ, if he pays said value thereof in three equal instalments on or before the expiration of one,

5 two and three years, respectively, from the time when said election was 6 entered on the record, with interest therefrom on the amount unpaid.

R. L. 179, § 30.

1 Section 34. Said payments shall be made to the demandant or for 2 his use to the recorder of the land court; and if the tenant fails to make 3 any such payment within the time limited therefor, the demandant may:
4 within three months after default of payment, take out his writ of seisin,
5 on the judgment recovered by him, and shall take and hold the land
6 without allowance for any improvements made thereon.

1 Section 35. If the tenant or his heirs or assigns, after the land is so 2 relinquished to him, are evicted therefrom by force of a better title than 3 that of the original demandant, the person so evicted may recover from 4 such demandant, or from his executors, administrators, heirs or devisees 5 under chapter one hundred and ninety-seven, the amount so paid for 6 the land in an action for money had and received by the demandant in 7 his lifetime for the use of the plaintiff, with lawful interest thereon; but 8 in order to be so entitled to recover, the tenant or those holding under 9 him shall give notice to the person so liable to refund the purchase money 10 of the pendency of the action for the recovery of the land, so that he may 11 offer evidence tending to prove that the original demandant had the 12 better title.

DEATH OF PARTY AFTER JUDGMENT.

1 Section 36. If, after judgment for the demandant, either party
2 dies before the writ of seisin is executed, or before the case is otherwise 3 settled under this chapter, any money payable by the demandant or 4 tenant, respectively, may be paid by him or his executor or adminis-
5 trator, or by a person entitled to the estate under him, to the tenant or 6 demandant, respectively, or his executor or administrator.

R. L. 179, § 33.

1 Section 37. The writ of seisin issued in such case shall be in the 2 name of the original demandant against the original tenant, although 3 either or both of them are dead, and when executed it shall enure to the 4 benefit of the demandant or of the person entitled to the land under 5 him, as if it had been executed on the day when the judgment was 6 rendered.

LIFE TENANT OR REMAINDERMAN.

1 Section 38. If a demandant claiming an estate for life only in the 2 land pays an amount allowed to the tenant for improvements, he or his 3 executor or administrator shall, at the determination of his estate, be 4 paid by the remainderman or reversioner the value of the improvements
5 as they then exist, shall have a lien on the land for said value as if it had 6 been mortgaged for the payment of such value, and may keep possession 7 of the land until such payment is made.

1 Section 39. If the amount due from the remainderman or reversioner
2 is not agreed on by the parties, it may be determined in a suit in equity 3 brought by the remainderman or reversioner; and the proceedings shall 4 be the same as in a suit for the redemption of a mortgage.

SECTION 41. The remainderman or reversioner, or those claiming under him, shall be deemed disseized at the determination of the life estate, and the suit in equity and all other remedies by action or by entry for the recovery of the land shall be barred as in other cases of disseisin, and the limitation of three years provided for the redemption of a mortgage shall not apply.

EXECUTION TO BE RECORDED.

SECTION 42. An officer serving an execution issued upon a judgment for possession shall, within three months after the service, and before the return of the execution into the recorder’s office, cause such execution with his return thereon to be recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land affected thereby lies, and the expense thereof shall be added to his charge for service.

APPLICATION OF CHAPTER.

3 law nor assigned to her by the probate court, may recover the same by 1760–1, 22, § 1. 1783, 49, § 1.

R. S. 60, § 5; 102, § 1. P. S. 174, § 1. 1 Pick 189, 314.

1 Section 2. She shall demand her dower of the person then seized 2 of the freehold, unless such person is unknown to her or absent from 3 the commonwealth. She shall not commence an action before the ex- 4 piration of one month, nor after the expiration of one year, from such 5 demand; but she may make a new demand and commence an action 6 thereon.

1 Section 3. A demand of dower shall be sufficient if it is in writing, 2 signed by the widow or by her agent or attorney, containing a general 3 description of the land in which dower is claimed and is given to the 4 tenant of the freehold or left at his last and usual place of abode.

1 Section 4. If the demandant recovers judgment for her dower, she 2 shall in the same action recover damages for its detention, which shall 3 be assessed by a jury under the direction of the court, unless the parties 4 file in court a written agreement that the damages shall be assessed by 5 commissioners as provided in the three following sections.

1 Section 5. If the court finds that the demandant is entitled to 2 dower, it shall award an interlocutory judgment therefor and issue its 3 warrant to three disinterested commissioners to set out said dower 4 equally and impartially and as conveniently as may be, and if an agree- 5 ment has been filed under the preceding section, to award damages for 6 its detention.

1 Section 6. The commissioners, before entering upon their duties, 2 shall be sworn faithfully and impartially to execute the warrant, and 3 a certificate of the oath shall be made thereon by the person adminis- 4 tering it. They shall give notice to the parties of the time and place ap- 5 pointed for setting out the dower. All the commissioners shall meet 6 for the performance of any duties, but a majority may act.

1 Section 7. The commissioners shall make and sign a report of their 2 doings, with any damages assessed by them, and return it with the 3 warrant to the court issuing it. If the report is confirmed, judgment 4 shall be rendered that the assignment of dower shall be firm and effectual 5 during the life of the demandant, and for the damages as assessed by 6 the commissioners.

1 Section 8. A party aggrieved by a judgment rendered under section 2 five, or upon a report of the commissioners under the preceding section, 3 may appeal therefrom in any matter of law apparent upon the record to 4 the supreme judicial court; but an appeal from the judgment rendered 5 under the preceding section shall not draw in question the interlocutory 6 judgment.
SECTION 9. When final judgment has been recovered by the demandant, execution shall issue thereon for possession and for costs and, if the judgment is for damages also, for damages.

SECTION 10. The action shall be brought against the person who is tenant of the freehold at the time when it is commenced. If the demand was not made on him, he shall be liable for damages only for the time during which he held the land; but if the demandant recovers her dower and damages in the writ of dower, she may thereafter recover in tort against the prior tenant of the freehold, on whom her demand was made, rents and profits for the time during which he held the land after the demand.

SECTION 11. If the land cannot be divided without damage to the whole, dower may be assigned out of rents or profits, which shall be received by the demandant as tenant in common with the other owners.

SECTION 12. The provisions of chapter one hundred and eighty-nine relative to the land out of which dower may be claimed and the manner in which it may be barred, and those of section one of chapter two hundred and forty-two relative to the liability of the tenant for waste, shall apply to proceedings under this chapter.

SUMMARY PROCESS FOR POSSESSION OF LAND.

SECTION 1. If a foreible entry into land or tenements has been made, if a peaceable entry has been made and the possession is unlawfully held by force, if the lessee of land or tenements or a person holding under him holds possession without right after the determination of a lease by its own limitation or by notice to quit or otherwise, or if a mortgage of land has been foreclosed by a sale under a power therein contained or otherwise, the person entitled to the land or tenements may recover possession thereof under this chapter. A person in whose favor the land court has entered a decree for confirmation and registration of his title to land may in like manner recover possession thereof, except where the person in possession or any person under whom he claims has erected buildings or improvements on the land, and the land has been actually held and possessed by him or those under whom he claims for six years
14 next before the date of said decree or was held at the date of said decree 15 under a title which he had reason to believe good.

If an officer, serving an execution issued on a judgment for the plaintiff for possession of land or tenements, removes personal property, belonging to a person other than the plaintiff, from the land or tenements and places it upon the sidewalk, street or way on which the land or tenements abut, he may forthwith, and before the expiration of the time limited in any ordinance or by-law for the removal of obstructions in the street, remove such property and cause it to be stored for the benefit of the owners thereof. Whoever accepts the same on storage from such officer shall have a lien thereon for reasonable storage fees and for reasonable expenses of removing it to the place of storage, but such lien shall not be enforced by sale of the property until it has been kept on storage for at least six months. If the owner of such property is present and claims it when it is so removed from the land or tenements, the officer shall not remove and store it, and his act of placing it upon the sidewalk or street shall be deemed the act of the owner, who alone shall be held to answer therefor.

1 Section 5. If the defendant appeals from a judgment of a district court rendered for the plaintiff for the possession of the land or tenements demanded, he shall, except as provided in the following section, before such appeal is allowed, give bond in such sum as the court orders, payable to the plaintiff, with sufficient surety or sureties approved by the plaintiff or court, conditioned to enter in the action in the superior court for that county at the return day next after the appeal is taken, and to pay to the plaintiff, if final judgment is in his favor, all rent accrued at the date of the bond, all intervening rent, and all damage and loss which he may sustain by the withholding of possession of the land or tenements demanded and by any injury done thereto during such withholding, with all costs, until the delivery of possession thereof to him. Upon final judgment for the plaintiff, all money then due to him may be recovered in an action on the bond.

SECTION 6. If the action is for the possession of land after foreclosure of a mortgage thereon, the condition of the bond shall be for the entry of the action and payment to the plaintiff, if final judgment is in his favor, of all costs and of a reasonable amount as rent of the land from the day when the mortgage was foreclosed until possession of the land is obtained by the plaintiff.

Stay of proceedings.

SECTION 9. In an action of summary process to recover possession of premises occupied for dwelling purposes, other than a room or rooms in a hotel, lodging house or rooming house, where a tenancy has been terminated without fault of the tenant, either by operation of law or by act of the landlord, except by a notice to quit for nonpayment of rent as provided in section twelve of chapter one hundred and eighty-six, a discretionary stay of judgment and execution may be granted, as hereinafter provided, upon application of the tenant, for such period not exceeding one month, as the court may deem just and reasonable.

SECTION 10. Upon application for such a stay of proceedings, the court shall hear the parties, and if upon the hearing it appears that the premises of which possession is sought to be recovered are used for dwelling purposes; that the applicant cannot secure suitable premises for himself and his family elsewhere within the city or town in a neighborhood similar to that in which the premises occupied by him are situated; that he has used due and reasonable effort to secure such other premises; that his application is made in good faith and that he will abide by and comply with such terms and provisions as the court may prescribe; or 10 that by reason of other facts such action will be warranted, the court 11 may grant a stay as provided in the preceding section, on condition that 12 the terms upon which such stay is granted be complied with.

1  SECTION 11. Such stay shall be granted and continue effective only 2 upon the condition that the applicant shall make a deposit in court of 3 the entire amount, or such instalments thereof from time to time, as the 4 court may direct, for the occupation of the premises for the period of 5 the stay, at the rate to which he was liable as rent for the month im-
6 mediately prior to the expiration of his term or tenancy plus such ad-7 ditional amount, if any, as the court may determine to be reasonable.
8 The deposit shall also include all rent unpaid prior to the period of the 9 stay. The amount of the deposit shall be determined by the court at 10 the hearing upon the application for the stay, and such determination 11 shall be final and conclusive in respect only to the amount of the deposit, 12 and the amount thereof shall be paid into court, in such manner and in 13 such instalments, if any, as the court may direct. A separate account 14 shall be kept of the amount to the credit of each proceeding, and all such 15 payments shall be deposited by the clerk of the court, and paid over to 16 the landlord or his duly authorized agent, in accordance with the terms 17 of the stay or the further order of the court.

1  SECTION 12. Any provision of a lease whereby a lessee or tenant
2 waives the benefits of any provision of sections nine to thirteen, inclusive, 3 shall be deemed to be against public policy and void.
4 1927, 339, § 2.

PETITION TO REQUIRE ACTION TO TRY TITLE.

SECTION 1. If the record title of land is clouded by an adverse claim, or by the possibility thereof, a person in possession of such land claiming an estate of freehold therein or an unexpired term of not less than ten years, and a person who by force of the covenants in a deed or otherwise may be liable in damages, if such claim should be sustained, may file a petition in the land court stating his interest, describing the land, the claims and the possible adverse claimsant so far as known to him, and praying that such claimants may be summoned to show cause why they should not bring an action to try such claim. If no better description can be given, they may be described generally, as the heirs of A B or the like. Two or more persons having separate and distinct parcels of land in the same county and holding under the same source of title, or persons having separate and distinct interests in the same parcel or parcels, may join in a petition against the same supposed claimants. If the supposed claimants are residents of the commonwealth, the petition may be inserted like a declaration in a writ, and served by a copy, like a writ of original summons. Whoever is in the enjoyment of an easement shall be held to be in possession of land within the meaning of this section.

SECTION 2. If the petition is not so served, the court shall order notice thereof by publication to the supposed claimants, whether residents or non-residents of the commonwealth. Such notice shall bind all the world, but the court may also require personal or other notice, and if, upon return of the order of notice duly executed, the parties notified do not appear within the time limited or, having appeared, disobey the lawful order of the court to try their claim, the court shall enter a decree that they be forever barred from having or enforcing any such claim adversely to the petitioner, his heirs or assigns, in the land described, and may require them to execute, within such time as the court orders, a conveyance, release or acquittance duly relinquishing the same. A judgment or decree under this section may require the giving of a bond to respond to any action brought under section four within five years after the entry of such judgment or decree.

SECTION 3. If the persons notified or summoned appear and disclaim all right and title adverse to the petitioner, they shall recover costs. If 3 they claim title, they shall by answer show why they should not be 4 required to bring an action to try such title, and the court shall enter 5 an appropriate decree relative to bringing and prosecuting such action.
6 If the party or parties against whom a judgment or decree for a con-7 veyance, release or acquittance may be rendered by any court in the 8 commonwealth do not comply therewith, within the time therein limited, 9 such judgment or decree shall, subject to the following section, have 10 the same effect as if the conveyance, release or acquittance had been 11 executed conformably thereto.

1 Section 4. A party against whom, without other notice than publici-
2 cation in a newspaper, a judgment or decree has been rendered under 3 section two and whose right is barred thereby, may recover from the 4 person in whose favor such judgment or decree was entered, or from his 5 executors, administrators, heirs or devisees, in accordance with chapter 6 one hundred and ninety-seven, the value at the time action is brought 7 of any interest or right, except of improvements made by the defendants, 8 of which he may have been deprived by such judgment or decree, unless 9 at that time an action which, but for such judgment or decree, he might 10 have maintained for the recovery of such interest or the enforcement of 11 such right would have been barred by the statute of limitations.

1 Section 5. The four preceding sections shall not apply to any 2 property, right, title or interest of the commonwealth.

Suits in equity to quiet title.

1 Section 6. If, in a suit in equity in the supreme judicial or the 2 superior court, or in the land court, to quiet or establish the title to land
3 situated in the commonwealth or to remove a cloud from the title thereto,
4 it is sought to determine the claims or rights of persons unascertained, 5 not in being, unknown or out of the commonwealth, or who cannot be 6 actually served with process and made personally amenable to the de-7 cree of the court, such persons may be made defendants and, if they are 8 unascertained, not in being or unknown, may be described generally, as 9 the heirs or legal representatives of A B, or such persons as shall become 10 heirs, devisees or appointees of C D, a living person, or persons claiming 11 under A B. It shall be unnecessary for the maintenance of such suit 12 that the defendants shall have a claim or the possibility of a claim re-13 ling upon an instrument the cancellation or surrender of which would 14 afford the relief desired; but it shall be sufficient that they claim or may 15 claim by purchase, descent or otherwise, some right, title, interest or 16 estate in the land which is the subject of the suit and that their claim 17 depends upon the construction of a written instrument or cannot be met 18 by the plaintiffs without the production of evidence. Two or more 19 persons claiming to own separate and distinct parcels of land in the 20 same county by titles derived from a common source, or two or more 21 persons having separate and distinct interests in the same parcel, may 22 join as plaintiffs in any suit brought under this section.

1 Section 7. If in such suit the court finds that actual service cannot 2 be, or has not been, made upon a defendant, it may at the request of 3 the plaintiff order notice of the suit to be posted in a conspicuous place on the land or to be published in a newspaper within or without the commonwealth, or both, or to be given in such other manner as it considers most effectual, and may also require personal notice to be given.
Notice given under this section shall be constructive service on all the defendants.

SECTION 8. If, after notice has been given or served as provided in the preceding section and the time limited in such notice for the ap-appearance of the defendants has expired, the court finds that there are or may be defendants not actually served with process within the commonwealth who have not appeared in the suit, it may of its own motion, or on the representation of any party, appoint a guardian ad litem or next friend of any such defendant, and if any such defendants have or may have conflicting interests, it may appoint different guardians ad litem or next friends to represent them.

SECTION 9. The cost of appearance of any such guardian ad litem or next friend, including compensation of his counsel, shall be deter-dined by the court and paid by the plaintiff, against whom execution may issue therefor in favor of the guardian ad litem or next friend.

SECTION 10. After all the defendants have been served with proccess or notified as provided in section seven and after the appointment of a guardian ad litem or next friend, if such appointment has been made, the court may proceed as though all defendants had been actually served with process. Such suit shall be a proceeding in rem against the land, and a decree establishing or declaring the validity, nature or extent of the plaintiff's title may be entered, and shall operate directly on the land and have the force of a release made by or on behalf of all defendants of all claims inconsistent with the title established or declared thereby. This and the four preceding sections shall not prevent the court from also exercising jurisdiction in personam against defendants actually served with process who are personally amenable to its decrees.

DETERMINATION OF VALIDITY OF CERTAIN ENCUMBRANCES.

SECTION 11. If the title to land appears of record to be affected by a possible condition, restriction, reservation, stipulation or agreement made or imposed more than thirty years prior to the commencement of the proceedings hereinafter provided for, a person having a freehold estate, vested or contingent, in possession, reversion or remainder, in said land, or in any undivided or any aliquot part thereof, or any interest therein which may become a freehold estate, and any person who has conveyed such estate or any such interest therein with covenants of title or warranty, may file a petition on oath in the land court to de-terminate the validity, or define the nature and extent, of such possible condition or other encumbrance, against any person who might be entitled in any event to enforce it or avail himself thereof. Two or more persons owning in severalty different portions of such estate or different interests therein may join in such petition, or two or more such defects of the same general character in the title to the same parcel of land or to different portions of the same parcel of land may be set forth in the same petition, and if the petition is contested the court shall make an appropriate order for separate issues.
1 Section 12. If it is averred in the petition that there are necessary
2 or proper respondents whose names are unknown to the petitioner, they 3 may be described generally, as heirs or devisees of a person deceased, as 4 persons claiming under certain persons named, as the owners of cer-5 tain land, or otherwise, and if it is so averred that the true name of 6 a respondent cannot be ascertained, he shall be described as accurately 7 as practicable. If it is so averred that there are classes of necessary or 8 proper respondents whom it is impracticable and unnecessary to name 9 and to serve with process individually, they may be described gener-
10 ally. The court may, if in its opinion the petitioner can and should do 11 so, require him by amendment to name or describe respondents more 12 particularly.

1 Section 13. The court shall prescribe the notice to be given to 2 non-resident respondents, to respondents whose residences are unknown,
3 to unknown or unnamed respondents, and to any other respondents
4 upon whom for any reason service cannot be made. If the court finds 5 that there are respondents to be affected by the decree, who have not 6 had actual notice of the petition, it shall appoint a disinterested person 7 to act for them.

1 Section 14. Upon service of such notice, the court shall have juris-
2 diction of all persons made respondents to the petition in the manner
3 above provided, and shall, upon a hearing, make a decree determining 4 the validity, nature or extent of any such possible condition or other
5 encumbrance, which shall be effectual to exclude all the respondents 6 from any claim thereunder contrary to such determination, and shall 7 have the same effect as a release by such respondents of such claims.
8 The court may award costs in its discretion.

DISCHARGE OF MORTGAGES.

1 Section 15. If the record title of land or of easements or rights in 2 land held and possessed in fee simple is encumbered by an undischarged
3 mortgage or a mortgage not properly or legally discharged of record,
4 and the mortgagor and those having his estate therein have been in unin-
5 terrupted possession of the land or exercising the rights in easements or 6 other rights in land, either for any period of twenty years after the ex-7 piration of the time limited in the mortgage for the full performance of the 8 condition thereof, or for any period of twenty years after the date of a 9 mortgage not given to secure the payment of money or a debt but to 10 secure the mortgagor against a contingent liability which has so ceased to 11 exist that no person will be prejudiced by the discharge thereof, the 12 mortgagor, or those having his estate in the land, or exercising the rights 13 in easements, or any person named in section eleven, may file a petition 14 in the land court, and if, after such notice by publication or otherwise 15 as the court orders, no evidence is offered of a payment on account of 16 the debt secured by said mortgage within such period of twenty years 17 after the expiration of the time limited for the performance of the con-18 dition thereof, or of any other act within said time in recognition of its 19 existence as a valid mortgage, or if the court finds that such contingent 20 liability has ceased to exist and that the mortgage ought to be discharged, 21 it may enter a decree, reciting the facts and findings, which shall, within 22 thirty days after its entry, be recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land lies, and no action to enforce a title under said mortgage shall thereafter be maintained. Two or more persons owning in severality different portions or different interests, such as are described in section eleven, in the land subject to the mortgage may join in one petition, and two or more defects arising under different mortgages affecting one parcel of land may be set forth in the same petition. If the petition is contested, the court shall make an appropriate order for separate issues.

REGISTRATION OF LAND FREE FROM RESTRICTIONS.

SECTION 16. The land court shall have jurisdiction upon a petition to register land, or if land has been previously registered, upon a supplemental petition by the owner thereof, to hear and determine the question whether or not equitable restrictions arising under contracts, deeds or other instruments limiting or restraining the use or the manner of using land are enforceable in whole or in part.

SECTION 17. If the land court shall find and determine, after hearing, that the enforcement of any of such restrictions or limitations would be injurious to the public interests, it shall register title to the land free from said restrictions as and to the extent required by the public interests, or, in case of registered land, shall enter an appropriate order therefor; provided, that if the land court shall find and determine that any of such restrictions or limitations, though they ought not to be enforced, are nevertheless valid and have not become inoperative, it shall, before registering said land free from said restrictions or limitations or any of them, ascertain and determine whether any person or property entitled to the benefits of any of such restrictions or limitations may be damaged by the non-enforcement thereof. If so, the case shall be referred to the superior court for the assessment of such damages. Chapter seventy-nine, so far as applicable, shall govern such assessment. The amount of any damages so assessed, with interest thereon from the date of such assessment to the date of payment at the rate allowed by law upon judgments, may be paid by the owner of the land into the superior court at any time after such assessment for the benefit of the persons or property entitled thereto; and, if so paid, the clerk of the superior court shall so certify to the land court, and shall pay the sum so received by him to the parties to whom it has been awarded. If no damages shall be awarded the clerk of the superior court shall certify that fact to the land court. Upon such certification from the clerk of the superior court of the final determination of such proceedings for assessment and of the payment of any damages therein assessed, the title may be registered free from any restrictions, or in case of registered land may be freed therefrom by the entry of such order as may be appropriate therefor.

SECTION 18. Any party aggrieved by a finding or decision of the land court that the enforcement of any such restrictions or limitations would be injurious to the public interests may appeal therefrom to the supreme judicial court, which may draw from the facts and instruments stated in the record, findings or decision any inferences of fact that might have been drawn therefrom at a trial, and reverse or order such modification of said findings or decision as justice may require. The appeal shall be taken within twenty days after receipt of notice of 9 the filing of such finding or decision, and further proceedings under the 10 preceding section shall be suspended until after the determination of 11 said appeal. If an appeal is not duly prosecuted, the finding or decision 12 shall stand as if no appeal had been taken.

Determination of Boundaries of Flats.

1. Section 19. One or more persons holding land or flats adjacent to

3 be sworn to faithfully and impartially execute the warrant, and a certifi-
4 cate of such oath shall be made on the warrant by the person administer-5 ing it. The commissioners shall notify all persons interested, by personal 6 service or by publication as the court orders, to appear at a time and 7 place named and be heard relative to a proposed survey of such flats, 8 and thereafter shall survey the flats of the petitioners and all adjacent 9 flats owned by other parties whose rights may be affected by a deter-10 mination of the lines of the flats of the petitioners, shall determine the 11 boundary lines thereof and report to the court the boundaries established 12 for each owner, with a plan of the several portions of flats showing the 13 lines established for each owner, which, after its approval, shall by order 14 of the court be recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or dis-

Determinations of Questions Relating to Power to Convey or Mortgage Real Estate Under Written Instruments.

Section 27. Any person having, in a representative or fiduciary capacity or otherwise, a power or authority created by any written instrument to sell, convey, mortgage or otherwise transfer any interest in real estate may file a petition in the land court setting forth the act or acts which he proposes to do by virtue of such power or authority, and praying that his power or authority under such written instrument to do such act or acts may be established.

Section 28. Upon such petition, after such notice as the court may direct, it may determine the existence and extent of the power or authority of the petitioner to do such act or acts, including the existence of the necessity for its exercise and also any other fact or circumstance required for the exercise of such power or authority.

SECTION 3. If a case is within the jurisdiction of the probate court in two or more counties, the court in which proceedings are first begun shall retain jurisdiction thereof, which shall exclude the jurisdiction of probate courts of other counties; but this shall not prevent the probate court in any other county where a part of the common land lies, not included in the original petition, from making partition thereof.

R. L. 184, § 46. 1917, 279, §§ 3, 40. 11 Allen, 187.

Partition may be made of all or part of land. 1742-3, 24, §§ 11, 29, § 1. 1752, 13, § 1. 1783, 36, § 12. R. S. 103, §§ 2, 50, 55. G. S. 136, §§ 2, 48, 54.

Notice to be filed in the registry of deeds. 1917, 279, § 7.

SECTION 4. The court may make partition of all or any portion of the land included in the petition of which the parties thereto are co-tenants; but if all of the common land is not included in the petition, the court may, upon request of any party thereto, seasonably filed, cause any other part of the common land to be included, unless a petition for partition thereof is pending in another county.

SECTION 5. The court may set off to the petitioner his share, leaving the residue of the land for the persons entitled thereto, subject to a future partition; or it may set off to the persons entitled to the residue their respective shares therein. If two or more co-tenants consent to hold their shares undivided, such shares may be so set off.

SECTION 6. The petition shall set forth on oath the nature and extent of the share of each co-tenant, so far as known to the petitioner, stating whether he has an estate of inheritance, for life or for years, whether in possession, remainder or reversion, and whether vested or contingent. It shall contain a description of each parcel of land sufficiently specific for identification. If the common title is derived by will or inheritance from a common ancestor, the name of the testator or common ancestor shall be given; if under a deed, reference shall be made thereto. The petition shall be in the alternative, praying for division of the land or for the sale, either public or private, of all or any part thereof which the court may find cannot be advantageously divided. If a private sale is desired, the minimum sum for which the sale may be made shall be stated. Only persons having legal title to an estate for years, for life or in fee, whether in possession, reversion or remainder, shall be necessary or proper parties. Mortgagees, lienors, attaching creditors and other persons having or claiming encumbrances on the land shall not be parties, but shall be named in the petition and given such notice as the court may order, and shall be permitted to intervene so far as may be necessary to protect their interests in the land or to establish their rights in the proceeds of a sale.

SECTION 7. Upon the filing of a petition for partition, the petitioner shall forthwith cause to be filed, in the registry of deeds for each registry district where any of the land included in the petition lies, a notice of the same, containing a brief description of the land in such district included 5 therein, and the names of all persons appearing in the petition as parties.
6 If the probate proceedings are at any time amended, either by the in-
7 clusion of more land or by adding new parties, a further notice thereof
8 shall be filed forthwith in the registry district where said land lies. No
9 interlocutory decree for partition or sale shall be made by the court 10 until it appears by affidavit that such notices have been filed. If any 11 part of the land is registered land, the petitioner shall, in filing said 12 notices, comply with section eighty-six of chapter one hundred and 13 eighty-five.

1 Section 8. Notice shall be given by a citation containing a brief
2 description of the land, and the minimum price in case it is desired to 3 sell the land or any part thereof at private sale. The citation shall be 4 addressed to all known respondents by name, and, in addition, in ex-
5 press terms to all other persons interested. Said notice shall be given 6 to each respondent, whether within or without the commonwealth, 7 whose address is known, by serving the same, either personally or by 8 registered mail, fourteen days at least before the return day; and if 9 any party is not so served, by publishing the notice once in each of 10 three successive weeks in such newspaper as the court shall order, the 11 last publication to be one day at least before the return day, and by 12 mailing a copy thereof to the last known address of such party fourteen 13 days at least before the return day. Proof of service and notice shall 14 be made by affidavit, setting forth the particulars of the service on each 15 respondent, and any other notice given, and if actual notice has been 16 given by registered mail the affidavit shall so state. The court may in 17 its discretion cause further notice to be given.

1 Section 9. If any party named in the petition has not been served 2 personally with the citation and has not appeared, or is a minor or 3 under other disability and has no guardian or other legal representative 4 within the commonwealth, or if any person whose name is unknown, or 5 who is unascertained or not in being, appears by the record in the case 6 to have an estate, vested or contingent, as a co-tenant of the land of 7 which partition is sought, the court shall appoint a suitable person to 8 act for him in the proceedings.

1 Section 10. If it is found that the petitioner is entitled to have 2 partition for the share claimed or for any less share, the court shall 3 make the interlocutory decree that partition be made, and therein
4 determine the persons to whom and the proportions in which the shares
5 shall be set off. The petition shall not be defeated by the payment by a 6 party of a mortgage, lien, tax or other encumbrance upon the land, if 7 the other parties are entitled to redeem from such payment; but the 8 interlocutory decree shall contain such terms and conditions relative to 9 redemption by a contribution on account of any such payment as the 10 court may deem equitable.

1 Section 11. If the ownership of any share appears to be in dispute
2 or uncertain, the court may, in its discretion, without determination 3 of such question, order the partition to proceed by setting off the re-remaining shares, or by sale. The land not set off, or the proceeds of the share in dispute or uncertain, may be left for the parties entitled thereto in a further partition or distribution in such manner and upon such proceedings as the court may order. The interlocutory decree shall not preclude the parties sharing in the partition from any share to which they may be entitled in a subsequent partition or distribution.

SECTION 12. If the court determines the petitioner entitled to partition, it shall thereupon appoint one or more disinterested commissioners and issue a warrant to them to make partition. The commissioners, before entering upon their duties, shall be sworn to execute the warrant faithfully and impartially, and a certificate of the oath shall be made on the warrant by the person administering it. They shall give at least seven days' notice of the time and place appointed for making the partition, either personally or by registered mail, to all known persons interested therein, and shall make and sign a report of their doings and return it with their warrant.

SECTION 13. If the land lies in different counties, the court may in its discretion issue separate warrants and appoint different commissioners for each county, or for two or more counties together, in which case the partition shall be made of the land in each county, or group of counties, as if there were no other land to be divided.

SECTION 14. If a part of the land cannot be divided without great inconvenience to the owners, or is of greater value than the share of any party, or if all the land cannot be divided without such inconvenience, the whole or any part thereof may be set off to any one or more of the parties, with or his or their consent, upon payment by him or them to any one or more of the others of such amounts of money as the commissioners may make the partition just and equal.

SECTION 15. If money is awarded to make the partition just and equal, the court shall be satisfied, before the partition is confirmed, that the money has been paid or secured to the parties entitled thereto.
Money awarded on account of shares in dispute or uncertain may be ordered to be deposited in the manner provided in section thirty-four.

16 Mass. 122. 7 Pick. 269. 8 Met. 365. 3 Gray. 536.

SECTION 16. The court may after hearing accept and confirm the return of the commissioners, or set it aside and commit the case anew to the same or to other commissioners having the same powers as those originally appointed; or it may, after a hearing, amend the return, and accept and confirm it as amended. After the return of the commissioners has been accepted and confirmed, the court shall thereupon enter a decree that the partition be firm and effectual forever. If the partition is by division, the commissioners shall record a copy of the decree, certified by the register of probate, in the registry of deeds for each district where any of the land lies, together with so much of the return, as finally confirmed, as relates thereto; or, if any part of the 12 Land is registered land, they shall in recording the same comply with section ninety-two of chapter one hundred and eighty-five.

11 Allen, 187.

Section 17. The court may at any time direct an examination of the title, or the making of a plan, of any land included in the petition, or such investigation relating to the description or title of any of it as seems useful or desirable for its better division or sale. If it appears from the report of a title examiner or from any other source that there are necessary parties, as defined in section six, who were not made parties to the petition, and have not appeared, the court shall, before proceeding further, cause the petitioner to amend his petition by making such persons parties, and to give notice to them in the manner provided in section eight. The court may also cause notice to be given to any encumbrancer whose interest may be disclosed by the examination or otherwise. If it appears at any stage of the proceedings that the land is improperly described, the court may, before proceeding further, require the petitioner to amend his petition by inserting a correct description.

Section 18. The partition by division, when confirmed and established by a final decree under section sixteen, or the sale if partition is made by sale, shall be conclusive upon all persons named in the petition or interested in the land therein described who appeared in the case or who waived notice or assented in writing to the same, or to whom due notice was given in accordance with section six or eight, or who were represented as provided in section nine, and upon all persons claiming through or under them or any of them, and, if the common title is derived through the settlement of the estate of a deceased person in any probate court within the commonwealth, upon all the heirs and devisees of such deceased person to whom the notice aforesaid was given or who were so represented, and upon all persons claiming through or under them.

Section 19. A person who was not made a party and has not appeared, who claims the whole or any part of the share assigned to or left for any of the supposed co-tenants in the decree for partition, shall be concluded by the decree, so far as it relates to the partition and the assignment of the shares, as if he had been a party to the proceedings; but he may bring his action for the share claimed by him against the person to whom it was assigned or for whom it was left. Such action shall be brought against the tenant in possession, as if the demandant had originally claimed the specific parcel demanded instead of an undivided part of the land; and it may be brought within the time in which it might have been brought if no such decree for partition had been rendered.
If partition is made by sale, the claimant may recover the share of the proceeds to which he is entitled by action against the persons to whom the proceeds were paid, or, before such payment, by a petition in equity in the probate court in which the partition was made, to which the commissioner or commissioners and all known claimants of such share shall be made parties defendant.

Section 20. A person who was not made a party and has not appeared and who claims part of the land as a co-tenant with any of those who were parties to the action, shall, if the share so claimed was unknown or not allowed and left for him in the process of partition, be concluded by the decree so far as it relates to the partition, but may, subject to section eighteen, bring an action for the share claimed by him against each of the persons holding any part of the land under the decree for partition; and, if he prevails, shall recover against each the same proportion of the part so held that he was entitled to claim out of all the land before the partition. If the partition was made by sale, he may in like manner recover his portion of the proceeds, as provided in the preceding section.

SECTION 21. A person who has not appeared and who claims to hold by title paramount to that under which the petitioner claims as a cotenant shall not be concluded by the partition, but may maintain his action for the land against any or all of the parties, or persons holding under them, within the time in which he might have brought such action if the petition for partition had not been filed.

SECTION 22. The reasonable expenses and charges of partition proceedings, including examination of title and preparation of plan ordered by the court under section seventeen, and the fees of counsel, of the commissioners, and of all agents, guardians and other persons appointed to represent interests in accordance with section nine, shall be determined by the court, and in case of sale paid by the commissioners out of the proceeds; and in case of partition by division shall be paid by the petitioner, who shall be entitled to contribution from the parties to whom shares of the land are set off who take a vested, and not contingent, interest. Such contribution shall be in proportion to the interests of the parties unless the court finds a different proportion more equitable. Costs may also be awarded under section forty-five of chapter two hundred and fifteen. Execution may issue for said contribution and costs.

SECTION 23. If the court in which partition proceedings are pending finds that one of the co-tenants has erected any buildings or made other permanent improvements on the common land, it may, if justice and equity so require, award such compensation as it deems proper for the value of such buildings or other improvements, not exceeding, however, the actual amount by which the market value of the common land has been increased thereby; and in awarding such compensation the court may deduct any benefit which the party claiming compensation has received from the common land. The court may make orders and decrees for the enforcement or protection of any such claim, and in case of partition by division may order the improved part set off to the party who made the improvement, and the land divided as if the improvement had not been made.

SECTION 24. If after a first partition improvements have been made on a part of the land which, by a new partition, is taken from the share of the party who made the improvements, he shall be entitled to compensation therefor, to be awarded and enforced as provided in the preceding section.

1 Section 25. The probate court in which a petition has been brought under this chapter shall have jurisdiction in equity over all matters relating to the partition, and, in case of sale, over the distribution of the proceeds thereof; also to hear and determine all matters of accounting between the parties to the petition in reference to the common land, and to appoint one or more receivers to take possession of the common land or any part thereof, and collect the rents and profits therefrom. Such jurisdiction may be exercised upon petition according to the usual course of proceedings in the probate court. Such receiver shall give bond in such amount and with such sureties as the court shall order, and shall distribute the rents among the co-tenants, or otherwise hold or dispose of the same in such manner as the court shall determine by its decree.

1 Section 26. If a party named in the petition has died prior to the filing thereof, or dies during its pendency, and such fact did not appear during the proceedings, his heir or devisee shall be entitled to the share of land set off to him or his share of the proceeds of a sale. If his death is made known to the court during the proceedings, the share or portion formerly belonging to him may be assigned or set off in his name to be held and disposed of as if the partition had been made prior to his decease, and his heir or devisee may recover the portion assigned to him, or his share of the proceeds, by proper action. The court may, however, in any case arising hereunder, if there has been a sale, order his share of the proceeds to be paid to his personal representatives pending settlement of his estate, or deposited under section thirty-four to await their appointment.

1 Section 27. If a person to or for whom a part of the land has been set off is evicted by one who, at the time of the partition, had a paramount title to that parcel, but not to the whole land, the person so evicted may have a new partition of the remaining land not subject to the paramount title, as if partition had not been made.

1 Section 28. A person having a mortgage, attachment or other lien on the share of a co-tenant shall be concluded by the decree, so far as it relates to the partition and the assignment of the shares; but his lien shall remain in full force upon the part assigned to or left for such co-tenant, or, in the event of a sale, upon the share of such part owner in the proceeds, and may be enforced in the manner provided in section nineteen.

1 Section 29. A person holding land under a partition made under this chapter shall, in case of an eviction, be entitled to compensation for improvements made thereon, as provided in chapter two hundred and thirty-seven.

1 Section 30. The fact that a co-tenant is, alone or jointly with others, as trustee or in any other representative capacity, the holder of the legal title to a share in which he has no beneficial interest shall not prevent partition.
SECTION 31. In partition proceedings the court may order the commissioners to sell and convey the whole or any part of the land which cannot be divided advantageously, upon such terms and conditions and with such securities for the proceeds of the sale as the court may order, and to distribute the proceeds so as to make the partition just and equal. The sale shall be made by public auction, after like notice as is required for the sale of land by an administrator, and the evidence thereof may be perpetuated in like manner by returns filed with the register of the court in which the proceedings are had; or the sale may be a private sale, upon such terms as the court orders, if it finds after notice, as provided in section eight, and a hearing, or after receiving the written assent of all parties in interest, that the interests of all parties will be promoted thereby. If the sale is by auction, section nineteen of chapter two hundred and four shall apply thereto.

SECTION 32. If the commissioners, after making a sale in accordance with the preceding section, distribute the proceeds in accordance with the order or decree of the court before learning of any conveyance, mortgage, lien or other encumbrance of or upon the share of any of the joint owners, they shall not be liable to such claimant. If they are in doubt as to the existence or the validity of any such claim against the share of any co-tenant in the proceeds they may ask for instructions by the court.

SECTION 33. Whoever receives any proceeds of a sale of land under this chapter after having sold or mortgaged his interest therein, or with knowledge that it has been attached or liened, without disclosing such fact to the commissioners or the court, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

SECTION 34. If the proceeds of a sale, or any share thereof, cannot be paid to the persons entitled thereto, the commissioners shall deposit the same in the name of the judge of probate for the county where the proceedings are had, in such savings bank or other like institution as the court orders, to accumulate for the persons entitled thereto. The deposit shall be subject to sections twenty-five to twenty-eight, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and six, so far as applicable.

SECTION 35. If in any share there are estates in succession, the court making partition may, upon petition of any party interested, appoint a trustee to receive, hold, manage and invest the proceeds of the sale of such share. The annual income of such share shall be paid to the owner of each successive estate for years or for life until it terminates, and the principal, after termination of prior estates, shall be paid to the parties entitled to the fee. The trustee shall, before entering upon the duties of his trust, give to the judge of probate and his successors a bond, with sufficient surety and in such penal sum as the court orders, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, and, upon breach of the condition, an action may, by order of the probate court, be brought for the use of the persons interested in the trust property, as upon a bond of an administrator.

entitled to hold or claim the land under the mortgagor or his assignee, 3
he shall not redeem the land nor have a conditional judgment, except 4 with the consent of the plaintiff, but the action shall be conducted like 5 a writ of entry, and in all cases the judgment for the plaintiff may be 6 money, or if a part only of the money, the payment of which is secured 3 by the mortgage, is due, the court shall vary the terms of the judgment 4

1 Section 7. If, after an execution on a judgment for possession has 2 been levied, the amount due on the mortgage and costs are paid in full, 3 the mortgagee, his executor, administrator or assigns shall, at the ex- 4 pense of the mortgagee, enter on the margin of the record of the execution 5 an acknowledgment of satisfaction or make to the mortgagor a deed of 6 release, which shall be recorded with notes of reference to the execution 7 discharged thereby.
Section 8. The entry may be made or the action brought by an assignee of the mortgagee. The action for possession may be brought like a writ of entry against the tenant of the freehold, and shall be conducted as if brought by the original mortgagee. The mortgagor may be joined therein as a defendant irrespective of his estate in the land; but if he has no estate in the land and makes no defence to the action, he shall not be liable for costs.

Section 9. This chapter shall not prevent a mortgagee or person claiming under him from entering on the land or from recovering possession thereof before breach of condition of the mortgage, if there is no agreement to the contrary; but if the debt is afterward paid or the mortgage redeemed, the amount of the clear rents and profits from the time of the entry shall be accounted for and deducted from the amount due on the mortgage.

Section 10. A mortgagee, or a person claiming under him in possession under the preceding section, may, after breach of condition, make a new formal entry for breach of condition, or bring an action, under section one, with the same effect as if he were not in possession; or he may foreclose the right of redemption by giving, after breach of condition, to the mortgagor, or person claiming under him, a written notice that he will thenceforward hold the land for the purpose of foreclosure and causing a certificate in proof thereof to be recorded within thirty days after such notice as in case of an original entry. If such notice is given and recorded, the three years limited for redemption shall run from the date of giving the notice.

Section 11. If a conditional judgment has been entered upon a mortgage containing a power of sale, the court shall, instead of issuing a writ of possession, at the request of the plaintiff order the property to be sold pursuant to such power. The plaintiff shall thereupon execute the power and do all things required by it or by the court.

Section 12. The person selling shall, within ten days after the sale, file in the clerk’s office a report on oath of the sale and of his doings, and the court may confirm the sale or set it aside and order a re-sale. Any person interested may appear or be summoned, and the order of the court confirming the sale shall be conclusive evidence against all persons that the power of sale was duly executed.

Section 13. Unless the defendant is seized in fee simple in possession of the whole equity of redemption of the land demanded, an order for a sale shall not be made until all parties interested in the equity of redemption and whose estate or interest therein would be affected by such sale, including a person having a right or possibility of curtesy or dower, have been summoned to appear.

Section 14. The mortgagee or person having his estate in the land mortgaged, or a person authorized by the power of sale, or the attorney duly authorized by a writing under seal, or the legal guardian or conservator of such mortgagee or person acting in the name of such mortgagee or person, may, upon breach of condition and without action, do all the acts authorized or required by the power; but no sale under such power shall be effectual to foreclose a mortgage, unless, previous to such sale, notice thereof has been published once in each of three successive weeks, the first publication to be not less than twenty-one days before the day of sale, in a newspaper, if any, published in the town where the land lies. If no newspaper is published in such town, otice may be published in a newspaper published in the county where the land lies, and this provision shall be implied in every power of sale, mortgage in which it is not expressly set forth. A newspaper which by its title page purports to be printed or published in such town, city or county, and having a circulation therein, shall be sufficient for the purpose.

altered as circumstances require; but nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the use of other forms.

A notice of sale in the above form, published in accordance with the power in the mortgage and with this chapter, together with such other or further notice, if any, as is required by the mortgage, shall be a sufficient notice of the sale; and the premises shall be deemed to have been sold, and the deed thereunder shall convey the premises, subject to and with the benefit of all restrictions, easements, improvements, outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, liens or claims in the nature of liens, and existing encumbrances of record created prior to the mortgage, whether or not reference to such restrictions, easements, improvements, liens or encumbrances is made in the deed; but no purchaser at the sale shall be bound to complete the purchase if there are encumbrances, other than those named in the mortgage and included in the notice of sale, which are not stated at the sale and included in the auctioneer's contract with the purchaser.

SECTION 15. The person selling, or the attorney duly authorized by a writing under seal, or the legal guardian or conservator of such person, shall, within thirty days after the sale, cause a copy of the notice and his affidavit, fully and particularly stating his acts, or the acts of his principal or ward, to be recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land lies, with a note of reference thereto on the margin of the record of the mortgage deed, if it is recorded in the same registry. If the affidavit shows that the requirements of the power of sale and of the statute have in all respects been complied with, the affidavit or a certified copy of the record thereof, shall be admitted as evidence that the power of sale was duly executed.

SECTION 16. If the mortgagor had at the time of the execution of the mortgage no husband or wife or if, being married, the husband or wife joined in the deed in token of his or her release of curtesy or dower, the sale in either of the modes aforesaid shall bar all right and possibility of curtesy or dower in the land.

SECTION 17. A sale or transfer by the mortgagor shall not impair or annul any right or power of attorney given in the mortgage to the mortgagor to sell or transfer the land as attorney or agent of the mortgagor.

REDEMPTION.

SECTION 18. The mortgagor or person claiming or holding under him may, after breach of condition, redeem the land mortgaged, unless the mortgagee, or person claiming or holding under him, has obtained possession of the land for breach of condition and has continued that possession for three years, or unless the land has been sold pursuant to a power of sale contained in the mortgage deed.

SECTION 19. The person entitled to redeem shall pay or tender to the mortgagee, or person claiming or holding under him, the whole amount then due and payable on the mortgage, and shall perform or tender performance of every other condition contained therein; and if there has been an action to recover the land he shall pay or tender the costs of such action if unpaid.

SECTION 20. If the mortgagor or person claiming or holding under him has had possession of the land, he shall account for rents and profits, and be allowed for all amounts expended in reasonable repairs and improvements, for all lawful taxes and assessments paid and for all other...
5 necessary expenses in the care and management of the land. A balance 6 of such account, if due from him, shall be deducted from the debt due on 7 the mortgage; if due to him, shall be added to the debt, and paid or ten-8 dered as such.

1 Section 21. The tender may be made before the expiration of the 2 three years limited for redemption, and before or after entry for breach of 3 condition, and before a sale pursuant to a power contained in the 4 mortgage; but if the mortgagee or person claiming or holding under him 5 does not accept the tender and discharge the mortgage, the tender shall 6 not prevent the foreclosure unless, within one year after the tender, the 7 mortgagee or person claiming or holding under him commences suit for 8 redemption and when he commences suit pays to the clerk of the court 9 the amount tendered for the use of the party entitled thereto.

1 Section 22. The person entitled to redeem may, before the expira-
2 tion of the three years limited for redemption, and before or after an 3 entry for breach of condition, and before a sale pursuant to a power 4 contained in the mortgage, commence suit for redemption without pre-5 vious tender, and may in such suit offer to pay such amount as shall be 6 found due from him, or to perform such other condition as the case may 7 require; but a mortgagee who has published a notice of sale prior to the 8 commencement of such suit may proceed with said sale unless the amount 9 due is paid into court or the sale enjoined.

1 Section 23. The court may determine, by a reference to a master or 2 otherwise, whether any and what amount due on the mortgage is not 3 in dispute, and may by an interlocutory decree order it paid to the 4 mortgagee, or for his use to the clerk of the court.

1 Section 24. The court may award costs in the suit for redemption
2 to either party: but if suit is brought without previous tender and it is 3 found that the condition of the mortgage has not been performed, the 4 plaintiff shall pay costs of suit, unless the court finds that the defendant 5 has unreasonably refused or neglected, when requested, to render a just 6 and true account of the money due upon the mortgage and of rents and 7 profits and amounts paid for taxes, repairs, improvements and other 8 necessary expenses, or that he otherwise by his default prevented the 9 plaintiff from performing or tendering performance of the condition 10 before commencement of suit.

| 260 Mass. 33. |  |

1 Section 25. If suit was commenced before the expiration of the three 2 years limited for redemption, and before or after entry for breach of 3 condition, the plaintiff shall, although the tender alleged is found to 4 be insufficient, be entitled to a decree for redemption as if no previous 5 tender had been alleged.

| 16 Pick. 46. | 4 Met. 246, 458. | 20 Pick. 458. |
SECTION 26. Except as provided in section forty, a suit for redemption shall be brought in the county where the land or any part thereof lies. If the bill is inserted in a writ, and the writ or a copy thereof, attested by the officer, with or without the bill but with a description of the land sought to be redeemed, is deposited, within three days after the day on which the service is made, in the office of the clerk of the court to which the writ is returnable, the service shall be the commencement of the suit; otherwise, the deposit of such copy or writ shall be the commencement of the suit.

SECTION 27. If the court finds the plaintiff entitled to redeem, it shall determine the amount due on the mortgage or what condition the plaintiff is bound to perform for the redemption of the land, and shall enter a decree that, upon payment of such amount or performance of such condition within such time as it shall order, the plaintiff shall have execution for possession of the land and shall hold it discharged of the mortgage.

SECTION 28. If the court finds that the mortgagee has not unreasonably neglected or refused to render a true account of rents and profits of the land mortgaged, it may award him the balance found due on the mortgage, with interest thereon at a rate of not more than twelve per cent a year from the expiration of three years after the entry to the date of the decree.

SECTION 29. The court may at the same time decree that, if the defendant neglects or refuses to accept the money or other act required by the decree to be paid or performed, the money shall be left for his use with the clerk of the court, or such other act done as the case requires; and the plaintiff, having performed all acts required by the decree, may have execution for possession of the land.

SECTION 30. If the court finds that the defendant has received from rents and profits of the land or otherwise more than is due on the mortgage, it shall award judgment and execution against him for the amount due to the plaintiff; and if there are several defendants, such judgment and execution may be awarded against them, either jointly or severally, for the amounts received by them or any of them, respectively.

SECTION 31. The court may order the amount found due the plaintiff for rents and profits or costs, if any, to be deducted from the amount found due the defendant, to whom the balance only shall be paid from any money tendered or brought into court, and the residue, if any, shall be paid to the plaintiff.

SECTION 32. If a person, other than the parties to a suit for redemption, is interested therein, the court may, upon terms, cause him to be made a party and may order a subpoena to be issued and served on him to appear and answer.
1 Section 33. If the person entitled to redeem a mortgaged estate dies, his heirs, devisees, executor or administrator may make a tender or commence or prosecute a suit for redemption which the decased might have made, commenced or prosecuted.

1 Section 34. A tender may be made to a guardian or conservator, who may, upon satisfaction, execute a release of the mortgage.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1 Section 35. If, after the foreclosure of a mortgage not containing a power of sale, the person entitled to the debt recovers judgment for any part thereof on the ground that the value of the land mortgaged at the time of the foreclosure was less than the amount due, such recovery shall open the foreclosure, and the person entitled may redeem the land although the three years limited therefor have expired, if suit for redemption is brought within one year after the recovery of such judgment.

1 Section 36. If a mortgagee or personal claiming or holding under him receives from rents and profits of the land, or upon a tender made to him, or in any other manner, more than is due on the mortgage, and if no suit for redemption is brought against him, the mortgagor or other person entitled to such excess may recover it in an action of contract.

MORTGAGES TO THE COMMONWEALTH.

1 Section 37. If a mortgage is held by the commonwealth, the state treasurer may demand and receive the money due, and upon payment shall make and acknowledge a discharge.

MORTGAGES.

1 Section 38. If the condition of such mortgage is not duly performed, the state treasurer may cause an entry for breach of condition to be made in the name and behalf of the commonwealth by himself or a person whom he appoints, or he may bring an action in the name of the commonwealth to recover possession of the land mortgaged; and possession obtained by entry or by action shall have the same effect in foreclosing the right of redemption as a similar possession by any other mortgagee.

1 Section 39. The mortgagor or his assigns may redeem the land in like manner and upon like terms as if held by any other mortgagee, and the payment or performance of the condition shall be made or tendered to the state treasurer.

1 Section 40. If the state treasurer and the person applying to redeem the mortgage do not agree upon the amount due, the person so applying may bring in the supreme judicial or the superior court, for the county.
of Suffolk, a suit in equity against the commonwealth for the redemption. The process shall be served on the state treasurer, who shall appear and answer in behalf of the commonwealth; and like proceedings shall be had and like judgment rendered as in case of other mortgages, except that the state treasurer shall accept any payment due the commonwealth, and upon receipt thereof, or upon performance of such other condition as the court orders, shall discharge the mortgage in like manner as when the debt is paid without suit.

INFORMATIONS BY THE COMMONWEALTH.

SECTION 1. If a person unlawfully enters upon or holds land belonging to the commonwealth, it may be recovered upon an information filed by the attorney general or by a district attorney in the superior court in any county, describing the land and setting forth the title and claim of the commonwealth thereto. A summons returnable in the county where the land lies shall thereupon issue to the defendants.

SECTION 2. If the title of the commonwealth is founded on a forfeiture for breach of a condition in a grant or conveyance by the commonwealth or by the province or colony of Massachusetts bay, no action for the recovery thereof shall be commenced unless by direction of the governor, with the advice and consent of the council; but in all other cases the attorney general or district attorney may prosecute an action therefor if he believes that the claim of the commonwealth can be established.

SECTION 3. Service of the summons and all other proceedings shall, except as otherwise provided, be substantially the same as in real actions.

SECTION 4. If, in case of a supposed escheat, no person appears as the heir of the person last seized, or if in any case there is reason to suppose that there is a person claiming an estate or interest in the land, whose name is unknown, who is absent from the commonwealth or who cannot be found therein to be served with process, the court shall, in addition to any other service, order the substance of the information with the order of the court thereon to be published once in each of three successive weeks in a newspaper designated by it, the first publication to be at least ninety days before the time appointed for the appearance of the parties.
Section 5. A person claiming an estate or interest in the land, although not named in the information nor served with process, may appear and answer thereto; but a defendant not named shall not recover costs against the commonwealth, unless it appears that he has an estate or interest in the land, although the commonwealth fails to establish its claim thereto. If there are several defendants, the court may award costs for or against any one, as if he were the sole defendant.

Section 6. If the commonwealth prevails, the defendant shall be chargeable for rents and profits and be entitled to an allowance for improvements as provided in chapter two hundred and thirty-seven.

Section 7. The commonwealth shall be actually seized and possessed of the land as soon as judgment is rendered in its favor, without a writ of possession.

Section 8. The judgment shall be conclusive between the commonwealth and the defendants who appear and answer, and against every person named as a defendant upon whom the summons has been duly served within the commonwealth and against all persons claiming under such defendants.

Section 9. A person not concluded by a judgment for the commonwealth under the preceding section may, until his claim is barred by law for the limitation of real actions or otherwise, bring a writ of entry to recover the land from the commonwealth or from any person then holding under it. He may deny and disprove any facts alleged and proved in the first action and allege and prove other facts in support of his claim and shall, if it appears that he is entitled to the land, have judgment and execution therefor.

Section 10. If the commonwealth continues seized of the land when such new action is commenced, such action shall be brought against the tenant or occupant thereof, and, in addition to the service on him, a copy of the original writ or summons shall be left with the attorney general or district attorney at least fourteen days before the return day. If the commonwealth has granted away the land, the action shall be brought against the tenant of the freehold. In either case it shall be conducted and disposed of as if no such information had been filed.

Section 11. If the demandant recovers judgment, he shall be entitled to rents and profits and chargeable for improvements as provided in chapter two hundred and thirty-seven, although the land has not been held and possessed for six years under the adverse title.

Section 12. Costs shall be awarded and taxed for the prevailing party. If judgment is for the commonwealth, an execution for costs shall issue; if it is for the defendant, the costs shall be paid by the commonwealth.

an inhabitants of the commonwealth, or a foreign corporation or association, shall not be so summoned unless he or it has a usual place of business in the commonwealth.

Section 2. If, in an action, suit or proceeding commenced in the supreme judicial or superior court by trustee process, all the persons named in the writ as trustees dwell or have usual places of business in one county, the writ shall be returnable in such county; otherwise, it may be returnable in any county where any one of them dwells or has a usual place of business.

Section 3. If, in an action, suit or proceeding commenced in the supreme judicial or superior court by trustee process, the court finds that the trustee was made a party in order to give the court jurisdiction of the cause in the county where the trustee dwells or has a usual place of business, and that neither the plaintiff nor the principal defendant dwells or has a usual place of business therein, it may, upon motion of the defendant at any time before trial, order the cause and all papers relating thereto transferred to a county where some one of the principal parties dwells or has a usual place of business, upon terms. The cause shall thereupon be entered and prosecuted in the same court for that county as if originally returnable therein, and all prior proceedings otherwise regularly taken shall thereafter be valid.

Section 4. No person shall be held to answer as a trustee in an action in a district court, except as provided in section fifty-four of chapter two hundred and eighteen, in any county other than that where he dwells or has a usual place of business; and if a person summoned as a trustee in such court is out of the county at the time of the service of the original writ upon him, and does not return before final judgment in the action, he shall not be chargeable as trustee.

Section 4A. Whenever an action is commenced by trustee process in a district court in the district in which the party named in the writ as trustee lives or has his usual place of business, which could not be brought in that district except because of the residence or place of business of the trustee, the court may on motion of any party thereto transfer such action for trial and final disposition to any other district court in which the action might have been commenced had there been no trustee named in the writ.

1 Section 6. When a foreign corporation having a usual place of business in the commonwealth is summoned as trustee in an action against one of its employees, service of the writ may be made as provided in section thirty-eight or thirty-nine of chapter two hundred and twenty-three, or upon any paymaster or other officer or agent of the corporation whose duty it is to pay such employee, and such service shall be as binding upon the corporation as if it had been made upon the commissioner of corporations and taxation or the commissioner of insurance.

1 Section 7. A trustee writ issued by a district court shall be returnable able not more than thirty days after the date thereof and be served seven days at least before the return day. If co-partners are summoned as trustees and the partnership is properly described in the writ, service of the writ upon one partner shall be sufficient.

1 Section 8. The plaintiff may at any time insert the names of other two trustees in the writ and cause the writ to be served upon them; and, after service upon a trustee, he may cause the writ to be again served upon him in like manner and with the same effect as if it had not been previously served. A writ served upon a trustee after service upon the defendant shall be again served upon the defendant.

1 Section 9. The plaintiff may proceed in the action against the defendant if the writ has been served upon him or if he has had notice of the action or has appeared and answered thereto, although all the trustees have been discharged.

G. S. 142, § 7. 1 Pick. 350. 5 Gray. 309.

APPEARANCE AND ANSWER OF TRUSTEE.

1 Section 10. A person summoned as trustee in the supreme judicial court or superior court shall appear and file his answer within ten days, or in the municipal court of the city of Boston within two days, or in any other district court within three days, after the return day of the writ, unless further time is allowed by the court. The answer shall disclose plainly and particularly what goods, effects or credits, if any, of the defendant were in the hands or possession of the trustee when the writ was served upon him.

4 Cush. 267. 10 Allen. 160.

1 Section 11. Such answer shall be signed and sworn to by the trustee, or, in lieu of being sworn to, shall contain his written declaration, subject to the penalty prescribed by section one A of chapter two hundred and sixty-eight, that the answer is made under the penalties of perjury.

SECTION 12. The plaintiff may from time to time examine the alleged trustee upon written interrogatories filed in the clerk's office. The answers thereto shall be signed, sworn to and filed in said office within seven days after notice to the trustee or his attorney of the filing of the interrogatories, unless the court otherwise orders. If the answers are not so filed, the court may make such order as the case may require.

Section 13. If the answer of the alleged trustee shows that at the time of service of the writ upon him he had not in his hands or possession any goods, effects or credits of the defendant, and the plaintiff declines to examine him, or if upon examination his answer appears to be true, he shall be discharged.

SECTION 14. A person summoned as trustee who admits that he has in his hands any goods, effects or credits of the defendant, or who wishes to submit the question to the court whether he is chargeable upon the facts, may make a written statement, on oath, of such facts as are material. The plaintiff may then examine him, on oath, upon written interrogatories, and the statement, interrogatories and answers shall be filed in the clerk's office.

SECTION 15. A corporation summoned as trustee may appear and answer by its cashier, treasurer, clerk or such other officer as it shall appoint or as the court shall require to attend for that purpose, and his answer and examination, on oath, shall be received as the answer and examination of the corporation.

SECTION 16. The answer and statements of a trustee, on oath, shall be considered as true in determining how far he is chargeable; but either party may allege and prove any facts material in determining such question and not stated or denied by the trustee.

SECTION 17. A question of fact arising upon such additional allegations may be tried and determined by the court, or it may be submitted to a jury in such manner as the court orders.

SECTION 18. A person who, being duly summoned as a trustee, neglects to appear and answer as hereinbefore provided shall be defaulted and adjudged a trustee.

SECTION 19. If a person summoned as trustee, his executor or administrator, or if an officer, agent or other person who appears and answers for 3 a corporation so summoned, knowingly and willfully swears falsely in his answer or upon his examination, he shall be liable in tort to the plaintiff in the trustee process, or to his executor or administrator, for the full amount due on the judgment recovered therein, with interest, to be paid 7 out of his own goods and estate.

PROPERTY LIABLE TO ATTACHMENT BY TRUSTEE PROCESS.

1 Section 20. The goods, effects or credits of the defendant intrusted to, or deposited in the hands or possession of, a person summoned as his trustee shall, except as hereinafter provided, be attached and held to the original writ of attachment.

1 Section 21. Debits, legacies, goods, effects or credits due from or in the hands of an executor or administrator as such may be attached in the hands by trustee process.

1 Section 22. After a dividend on the estate of an insolvent debtor has been declared, it may, unless it is upon a claim for wages which would have been exempt from attachment by trustee process in the hands of the insolvent debtor, be so attached in the hands of the assignee.

1 Section 23. Funds, credits or dividends due from or in the hands of receivers appointed by a court may be so attached after an order has been made for their distribution.

1 Section 24. Money or any other thing due to the defendant absolutely and without any contingency may be so attached before it has become payable, but the trustee shall not be compelled to pay or deliver it before the time appointed by the contract.

1 Section 25. A person summoned as trustee having goods, effects or credits of the defendant in his possession by a conveyance or title void as to the creditors of the defendant may be adjudged a trustee, chargeable if conveyance to him fraudulent.

If such wages are attached on a claim for such necessaries and the writ contains a statement to that effect, an amount not exceeding ten dollars shall be so reserved; but if the writ contains no such statement, an amount not exceeding twenty dollars shall be so reserved.

SECTION 30. Whoever wilfully causes, or aids and abets in causing, wages for personal services exempt from attachment to be attached by trustee process in order to unlawfully hinder or delay their payment to the person to whom they belong shall, on complaint of the person injured thereby or of the guardian or other person having the lawful custody of any such person incompetent to act, be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars, to the use of the person injured thereby.
11 Sect. 31. If a savings bank is charged as trustee, and the court finds that the answer creates a doubt as to the identity of the defendant, it may require the plaintiff to give bond, with surety approved by the court, conditioned to indemnify such bank from any loss by reason of payment by it pursuant to the court's order.

1 Sect. 32. No person shall be adjudged a trustee in the following cases:
1 First, By reason of having drawn, accepted, made or endorsed a negotiable bill, draft, note or other security which at the date of the writ was negotiable to a holder in due course under the provisions of chapter one hundred and seven.
2 Second, By reason of having received or collected money or any other thing as a sheriff or other officer upon an execution or other legal process in favor of the defendant in the trustee process, although it may have been demanded of him by the defendant.
3 Third, By reason of having money in his hands as a public officer, for which he is accountable to the defendant merely as such officer.
4 Fourth, By reason of money or any other thing due from him to the defendant, unless it is, at the time of service of the writ upon him, due absolutely and without any contingency.
5 Fifth, By reason of a debt due from him upon a judgment, so long as he is liable to an execution thereon.
6 Sixth, By reason of money or credits due for the wages of personal labor or services of the wife or minor children of the defendant.
7 Seventh, By reason of money or credits due or accruing to the defendant as wages or lay as a seaman; but this clause shall not apply to the wages or lay due or accruing to a fisherman.

ADVERSE CLAIMANTS.
1 Sect. 33. If a person claiming, by assignment from the defendant, or otherwise, goods, effects or credits in the hands of a supposed trustee enters an appearance, he shall be admitted as a party in order to determine his title to such goods, effects or credits, and may allege and prove any facts which have not been stated or denied by the supposed trustee. Such allegations shall be tried and determined as provided in section seventeen upon depositions or oral testimony as the court orders.

Pro Ecclesiis
If he does not voluntarily enter an appearance, the court may issue an order of notice to him.

SECTION 34. If it appears that the claimant holds a valid assignment from the principal defendant only as security for a debt, the court shall, at the request of the plaintiff, ascertain and determine the amount due upon such debt at the time of service of the writ upon the trustee, and the claimant shall have judgment and execution for the amount so found to be due him and for his costs; and after said judgment and execution have been satisfied, the residue, if any, of the goods, effects or credits in the hands of the trustee shall be subject to the attachment in the execution process. If judgment by default has been rendered against the trustee and it appears that he has paid over, upon execution issued on the original judgment, any part of the goods, effects or credits in his hands liable to attachment, he shall be liable to the adverse claimant only for the residue in his hands.

SECTION 35. If, while an action is pending, the defendant is summoned in another action as trustee of the plaintiff, the earlier action may proceed so far as to ascertain by a verdict, award or otherwise the amount due from the defendant, and it shall not be delayed on account of the trustee process, unless the court continues it for judgment until the termination of the trust process or until the attachment therein is dissolved by the discharge of the trustee, by the satisfaction of the judgment or otherwise. The court may, upon application of the plaintiff in the trust process, so continue such pending action upon terms.

SECTION 36. If the action is not so continued and judgment is rendered against the defendant, he shall not afterward, while liable to an execution thereon, be adjudged a trustee on account of the demand so recovered against him.

SECTION 37. If, before final judgment in such pending action, the defendant therein is adjudged a trustee in the trust process, and pays thereon the money demanded in the pending action, or any part thereof, such fact shall be stated on the record of the action, and judgment therein shall be rendered for the costs due to the plaintiff and for the part of the debt or damages remaining due and unpaid.

SECTION 38. If, while an action is pending, the plaintiff is summoned as trustee of the defendant on account of a demand filed in set-off therein, such pending action shall be subject to the three preceding sections in the same manner and with the same effect as if it were an action brought upon such demand in set-off by the defendant against the plaintiff.
JUDGMENT AND EXECUTION.

1 Section 39. If a person is adjudged a trustee, the amount for which he is chargeable need not be specified in the judgment.

Section 40. If the goods, effects and credits in the hands of a person adjudged a trustee are not demanded of him by force of the execution within thirty days after final judgment, they shall be liable to another attachment, whether made before or after the judgment; or if there has been no such second attachment, they may be recovered by the demand of the defendant.

Section 41. If no such second attachment of the goods, effects and credits has been made, and no action has been brought therefor by the defendant, and if they have not been paid or delivered to the demandant before they are demanded of the trustee by the officer, the trustee shall be liable to pay and deliver the same, when so demanded, although said thirty days have expired.

Section 42. If the trustee cannot be found in the commonwealth by the officer, the execution is committed for service, a copy of which, and the execution left at his dwelling house or at his last and usual place of abode, with a notice to him, endorsed thereon and signed by the officer, that he is required to pay and deliver, toward satisfying the execution, the goods, effects and credits for which he is liable shall be a sufficient demand for the purposes of the two preceding sections.

Section 43. The judgment against a trustee shall acquit and discharge him from all demands by the defendant, his executor or administrator, for all goods, effects and credits paid, delivered or accounted for by the trustee by force of such judgment.

Section 44. If a person summoned as trustee is discharged, the judgment shall be no bar to an action brought against him by the defendant for the same demand.

SCIRE FACIAS AGAINST TRUSTEE.

Section 45. If a person adjudged a trustee does not, upon demand made over to the officer goods, effects or credits sufficient to satisfy the execution and if the execution is not otherwise satisfied, the plaintiff may sue out from the court where the judgment was rendered a writ of scire facias against him or all, or a separate writ against each of the trustees, to show cause why judgment and execution should not be awarded against them or him and their or his own goods and estate for the amount remaining unsatisfied on the judgment against the defendant. Such writ may be Discharge of trustee no bar to action by defendant.

Seire facias against trustee.

be sued out at any time after thirty days from the date of judgment and may be issued by the court where the judgment was rendered, although the amount of the debt and costs therein exceeds its jurisdiction.

Section 46. If a trustee, duly served with the scire facias, neglects to appear and answer, he shall be defaulted; and if he did not answer, and was not examined in the original action, judgment shall be rendered against him upon such default for the whole amount remaining unsatisfied on the judgment against the defendant.

Proceedings upon default of trustee on scire facias. 1708-9, 7, § 5. 1728-9, 5, § 3. 1748-9, 6. 1758-9, 10, § 5. 1791, 65, § 7.

Section 47. If a trustee defaulted on the scire facias has been examined, or has answered and not been examined, in the original action, judgment in the scire facias shall be rendered upon the facts stated upon such examination or in such answer, respectively, for any part remaining in his hands of the goods, effects or credits for which he was chargeable as trustee, or for so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy the amount then remaining due on the original judgment.

Section 49. A writ of scire facias shall not be maintained against a person adjudged a trustee, unless served upon him within two years after judgment in the original action; or if the money or other thing is not payable when the judgment is rendered, unless so served within one year after such money or other thing becomes payable.

Section 50. If a person summoned as trustee in his own right dies before the judgment recovered by the plaintiff has been fully satisfied, the goods, effects and credits in his hands at the time of the attachment shall remain bound thereby, and his executor or administrator shall be liable therefor as if the writ were originally served on him.

Section 51. If a person so summoned dies before judgment in the original action, his executor or administrator may appear voluntarily or may be cited to appear, as in other cases. The further proceedings shall then be conducted in the same manner as if the executor or administrator had been originally summoned as trustee, except that the examination of the deceased, if any has been filed, shall have the same effect as if he were living.
1 Section 52. If the executor or administrator does not appear, the plaintiff, instead of suggesting the death of the trustee, may take judgment against him by default or otherwise as if he were living, and the executor or administrator shall pay upon the execution the amount which the deceased would have been liable to pay to the defendant, and shall be thereby discharged for the amount so paid. If he does not voluntarily pay the amount in his hands, the plaintiff may proceed against him by scire facias.

1 Section 53. If a person summoned as trustee dies after judgment in the original action, his executor or administrator may pay upon the execution the amount which the deceased would have been liable to pay if he were living, and he shall be discharged from all further demands on account thereof in the manner before mentioned. If he refuses to make such payment, the plaintiff may proceed against him by scire facias.

1 Section 54. If a person, against whom as trustee execution has been issued, is not living at the expiration of thirty days after final judgment in the trust process, a demand, for the purpose of holding the attachment, may be made upon the executor or administrator of such deceased person within thirty days after his appointment, and shall have the same effect as if made within thirty days after the judgment.

PROCEEDINGS IF AN EXECUTOR IS CHARGED AS TRUSTEE.

1 Section 55. If an executor or administrator as such is adjudged a trustee, the execution shall not be served on his own goods or estate nor on his person, and he shall be liable for the amount in his hands only in like manner and to the same extent as he would have been liable to the defendant if there had been no trustee process.

1 Section 56. If, after final judgment against an executor or administrator for a sum certain due from him as trustee, he fails to pay the same, the original plaintiff in the trust process shall have the same remedy for recovering the amount, either upon a suggestion of waste or by a suit on the administration bond, as the defendant in the trust process would have had upon a judgment recovered by himself for the same demand against the executor or administrator.

PROCEEDINGS IF TRUSTEE HAS SPECIFIC PROPERTY.

1 Section 57. If a person is charged as trustee by reason of personal property other than money, which he holds or is bound to deliver to the defendant, he shall deliver it, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to the officer holding the execution, who shall sell the property and apply and account for the proceeds in the same manner as if the property had been taken on execution.

1 Section 58. The value of any property so delivered shall be ascertained and fixed, as between the trustee and defendant, in like manner and upon the same principles as if delivered to the defendant. Upon the application of either party, the court may, pending the original action or upon the scire facias, determine the value, and make any other order relative to such property and to the delivery thereof necessary or proper to protect the rights of the trustee and of the defendant.

Section 59. If a person summoned as trustee is bound by contract to deliver specific property to the defendant at a certain time and place within the commonwealth, he shall not be required by reason of the trustee process to deliver it at any other time or place; and he may, notwithstanding such process, tender or deliver it to the person entitled thereto under the contract at the time and place therein mentioned, unless he has been previously adjudged a trustee on account thereof.

187 Mass. 566. 211 Mass. 146.

Section 60. If the court finds that property in the hands of a person summoned as trustee is mortgaged, pledged or in any way liable for the payment of a debt to the person so summoned, it may allow the attaching creditor to pay or tender the amount due to the trustee, who shall thereupon deliver the property, in the manner before provided, to the officer holding the execution.

9 Gray, 45. 11 Allen, 354. 173 Mass. 439. 188 Mass. 70.

Section 61. If the court finds that the property is held for any purpose other than to secure the payment of money and that the contract, condition or other thing to be performed is such that it can be performed by the attaching creditor without damage to the other parties, it may make an order for the performance thereof by him. Upon such performance, or upon a tender, the trustee shall deliver the property, in the manner before provided, to the officer holding the execution.

Section 62. Property received by an officer under either of the two preceding sections shall be sold and disposed of as if it had been taken on execution, except that from the proceeds of the sale the officer shall repay the attaching creditor the amount paid by him to the trustee for the redemption of the property, with interest thereon, or shall indemnify the creditor for any other act or thing by him done or performed pursuant to the order of the court for the redemption of the property.

Section 63. The preceding sections shall not prevent the trustee from selling the property in his hands for payment of the claim for which it is mortgaged, pledged or otherwise liable at any time before the amount due him is paid or tendered as provided in section sixty or sixty-one, if such sale would be valid as between him and the defendant.

Section 64. If a trustee refuses or neglects to deliver any property in his hands when lawfully required by the officer serving the execution, he shall, after deducting the amount of any lien he has on such property, be liable to the plaintiff upon a scire facias.

Dissolution of Attachment by Trustee Process.

Section 66. A person having an interest in money or credits attached by the trustee process in an action against another, may, at any time before final judgment, dissolve such attachment or a part thereof by giving bond, in a sum not exceeding the damages demanded, with sufficient sureties to be approved in writing by the plaintiff or his attorney, by a master in chancery or by a justice of a court, if the attachment is made within the jurisdiction thereof, conditioned to pay to the plaintiff, within thirty days after final judgment, or after a special judgment entered under section twenty-five of chapter two hundred and thirty-five, the amount for which the trustee may be charged, not exceeding the value of the property in his hands, or so much thereof as will satisfy the amount which may be recovered by the plaintiff. If there are several trustees, such bonds may be made to apply to one or more. The provisions of sections one hundred and twenty-five and twenty-six, relative to notice, hearing, fees and the filing of the bond, shall apply to bonds given under this section.

Section 67. After the filing of such bond, the trustee may deliver to the person by whom or in whose behalf the bond was given, the money or other thing in his hands, or that part thereof to which the bond applies, and shall not after such delivery be liable to the plaintiff therefor, nor shall any execution therefor issue against him. No action on such bond shall be commenced after the expiration of six years from the date thereof.

Costs.

Section 68. A person summoned as a trustee in the supreme judicial court, or superior court, who appears and answers pursuant to this chapter, shall be allowed his costs for travel and term fees, and such further amount for counsel fees and other necessary expenses as the court may allow; if summoned in a district court, he shall be allowed the costs fixed by section twenty-seven of chapter two hundred and sixty-one. If there has been a trial between the plaintiff and the alleged trustee upon an issue of fact, the court may award costs to either party.

Section 69. If a person is adjudged a trustee, his costs and charges shall be deducted from the goods, effects and credits in his hands, and he shall be chargeable for the balance only to be paid on the execution. If such goods, effects and credits are not of sufficient value to discharge the costs taxed in his favor, he shall have judgment and execution against the plaintiff for the balance of such costs, after deducting the amount disclosed, in the same manner as if he had been discharged.

5 chapter one hundred and eight, be held liable to the owner or consignee by reason of his or its failure to transport and to deliver said goods, until the attachment is dissolved or the carrier is discharged as trustee.

Dissolution of Attachment by Trustee Process.

Section 66. A person having an interest in money or credits attached by the trustee process in an action against another, may, at any time before final judgment, dissolve such attachment or a part thereof by giving bond, in a sum not exceeding the damages demanded, with sufficient sureties to be approved in writing by the plaintiff or his attorney, by a master in chancery or by a justice of a court, if the attachment is made within the jurisdiction thereof, conditioned to pay to the plaintiff, within thirty days after final judgment, or after a special judgment entered under section twenty-five of chapter two hundred and thirty-five, the amount for which the trustee may be charged, not exceeding the value of the property in his hands, or so much thereof as will satisfy the amount which may be recovered by the plaintiff. If there are several trustees, such bonds may be made to apply to one or more. The provisions of sections one hundred and twenty-five and twenty-six, relative to notice, hearing, fees and the filing of the bond, shall apply to bonds given under this section.

Section 67. After the filing of such bond, the trustee may deliver to the person by whom or in whose behalf the bond was given, the money or other thing in his hands, or that part thereof to which the bond applies, and shall not after such delivery be liable to the plaintiff therefor, nor shall any execution therefor issue against him. No action on such bond shall be commenced after the expiration of six years from the date thereof.

Costs.

Section 68. A person summoned as a trustee in the supreme judicial court, or superior court, who appears and answers pursuant to this chapter, shall be allowed his costs for travel and term fees, and such further amount for counsel fees and other necessary expenses as the court may allow; if summoned in a district court, he shall be allowed the costs fixed by section twenty-seven of chapter two hundred and sixty-one. If there has been a trial between the plaintiff and the alleged trustee upon an issue of fact, the court may award costs to either party.

Section 69. If a person is adjudged a trustee, his costs and charges shall be deducted from the goods, effects and credits in his hands, and he shall be chargeable for the balance only to be paid on the execution. If such goods, effects and credits are not of sufficient value to discharge the costs taxed in his favor, he shall have judgment and execution against the plaintiff for the balance of such costs, after deducting the amount disclosed, in the same manner as if he had been discharged.
SECTION 70. If a person summoned as trustee is discharged, he shall have judgment and execution for his costs and charges against the plaintiff.

SECTION 71. If a person so summoned in an action pending in the supreme judicial or superior court is out of the commonwealth at the time of service of the original writ upon him, and appears and answers within ten days after his return, or if he is so summoned in an action pending in a district court, and appears and answers within three days after his return, he shall be allowed his costs and charges.

SECTION 72. If a person so summoned does not dwell or have a usual place of business in the county where the writ is returnable, he shall, if he appears at any time in the original action or upon a scire facias, be allowed his costs and charges, which shall be retained or recovered as before provided.

SECTION 73. A person so summoned, who dwells or has a usual place of business in the county where the writ is returnable, and who neglects, without sufficient reason, to appear and answer within the time provided, shall be liable, if the plaintiff recovers judgment and does not otherwise receive his costs, for all costs for the plaintiff’s travel and term fees until he appears.

SECTION 74. If a person so summoned does not pay the costs when demanded by the officer serving the execution, the officer shall state the fact in his return, and if it also appears by the return that the costs have not been paid, the court shall award a new execution against him for the costs.

SECTION 75. If several persons are summoned as trustees who are liable for costs under any provision of the two preceding sections, the second execution shall be awarded against them jointly; and if any one pays more than his proportion, the others shall contribute equally to indemnify him for the excess.

SECTION 76. If, while an action by the trustee process is pending, the original defendant therein or any other person brings an action against the alleged trustee to recover the goods, effects or credits or any part thereof in his hands or possession, costs in the later action shall be in the discretion of the court.

SECTION 77. If a person summoned as trustee, who dwells or has a usual place of business in the county where the writ is returnable, is defaulted in the original action, and if a writ of scire facias issues against him, he shall be liable out of his own goods and estate for all costs on the scire facias, although he is not adjudged a trustee, except as provided in the following sections.

193 Mass. 479.
1 Section 78. He shall not be liable for costs on the seire facias, nor shall he be entitled to recover costs, if the court finds that he had goods, effects or credits in his hands liable to attachment, and has paid and delivered, on the execution issued on the original judgment, the full amount thereof.

1 Section 79. He shall not be liable for costs on the seire facias if he was prevented from appearing in the original action by his absence from the commonwealth or by any other sufficient cause, but the court may allow him his costs as if he had appeared in the original action.

3 he is at the same time liable for the plaintiff's costs in the original action,
4 one execution shall be issued against him for both amounts.

P. S. 183, § 84.  R. L. 189, § 79.

1 Section 81. If several trustees are liable on the seire facias, and the 2 plaintiff, without sufficient reason, sues out two or more writs when he 3 might have joined all the trustees in one writ, he shall recover no more 4 costs than if he had sued out one writ, and the court may apportion the 5 costs among all the trustees liable therefor.

1 Section 82. If an adverse claimant is admitted as a party, the court
2 may award costs between him, the plaintiff and the supposed trustee, or 3 any of them.

1 Section 83. If the damages recovered in an action brought under 2 trustee process do not exceed ten dollars, exclusive of all costs in any REPLEVIN.

REPLEVIN OF BEASTS DISTRAINED.

1. Replevin of beasts distrained.
2. Bond.
3. Appraisal of property replevied.
4. Return of writ, etc.
5. Form of judgment for defendant.
6. Form of judgment for plaintiff.

REPLEVIN OF OTHER PROPERTY.

7. Replevin of goods unlawfully taken or attached.
8. Bond.
10. Damages, how assessed.
11. Disposal of money recovered by officer after replevin of goods attached, etc.

SECTION 1. A person whose beasts have been distrained or impounded in order to recover a penalty or forfeiture supposed to have been incurred by their going at large or to obtain satisfaction for damages alleged to have been done by them may cause them to be repleved.

SECTION 2. Before the officer serving the writ delivers the beasts to the plaintiff, he shall take from the plaintiff or a person in his behalf a bond payable to the defendant in a sum equal to double the value of the beasts, with sufficient sureties, conditioned to prosecute the replevin to final judgment and to pay such damages and costs as the defendant shall recover and to return the beasts if such shall be the final judgment.

SECTION 3. The writ shall require that the bond be given for double the value of the beasts but shall not express the amount for which it shall be given. If the parties do not agree as to the value of the beasts, it shall be ascertained by three disinterested appraisers, who shall be appointed and sworn by the officer, and the penalty of the bond shall be double the value ascertained by such appraisers or by a majority of them.

SECTION 4. The officer shall return such bond with the writ to the court to which the writ is returnable, for the use of the defendant; and he shall include in his return, endorsed on the writ, a certificate of the appointment of the appraisers, of the appraisal and of the expenses thereof.

SECTION 5. If the court finds that the beasts were lawfully taken or distrained, the defendant shall have judgment for the amount found to be due from the plaintiff for the penalty or forfeiture or for the damages.
4 for which the beasts were impounded, with the legal fees, costs, charges
5 and expenses incurred by reason of the distress, and with the costs of the 6 action of replevin; or, instead thereof, the court may render a judgment 7 for a return of the beasts, to be held by the defendant irrevocably by 8 the plaintiff, and for the damages for the taking of the beasts by the re-9 plevin and for the defendant’s costs. If so returned, the beasts shall be 10 held and disposed of as if they had not been replevied.

1 Section 6. If the court finds that the beasts were unlawfully taken 2 or distrained, the plaintiff shall have judgment for damages caused by 3 such taking and detaining and for costs.

REPLEVIN OF OTHER PROPERTY.

1 Section 7. If goods exceeding twenty dollars in value are unlawfully
2 taken or detained from the owner or person entitled to their possession, or 3 if goods of that value, which have been attached on mesne process or taken 4 on execution, are claimed by a person other than the defendant in the 5 action in which they have been so attached or taken, the owner or such 6 other person may cause them to be replevied.

1 Section 8. Except as otherwise provided in section thirty-seven of 2 chapter two hundred and fifty-five, before the officer serving the writ
3 delivers the goods to the plaintiff, he shall take from the plaintiff or a 4 person in his behalf a bond payable to the defendant in a sum equal to 5 double the value of the goods, with sufficient sureties, conditioned to 6 prosecute the replevin to final judgment and to pay such damages and 7 costs as the defendant shall recover and to return the goods if such shall 8 be the final judgment. The officer shall appraise the goods and allow the 9 writ in the manner provided in sections three and four; but if the 10 writ is returnable to the superior court, the bond shall be left with the 11 clerk of the court for the use of the defendant.

1 Section 9. If the court finds that the defendant is entitled to a re-
2 turn of the goods, judgment shall be rendered therefor and for the dam-3 ages caused by the taking by the replevin and for costs.

1 Section 10. If the goods when replevied had been taken on execu-
2 tion, or if they had been attached and judgment is afterward rendered for 3 the attaching creditor, and if in either case the service of the execution 4 is delayed by reason of the replevin, the damages to be assessed for the defendant upon a judgment for a return shall be at the rate of not less than twelve per cent a year on the value of the goods for the time during which the service of the execution was so delayed.

Section 11. Money recovered by an officer in an action of replevin for goods attached or taken on execution by him or recovered by him in an action upon the replevin bond shall be applied as follows:

First, To pay the lawful fees and charges of the officer and the reasonable expenses of the action of replevin and of the action on the bond, so far as such expenses are not reimbursed by the costs recovered.

Second, To pay to the creditor at whose suit the goods were attached or taken on execution the amount recovered by him in that action, or so much thereof as remains unpaid, with interest thereon at the rate of twelve per cent a year for the time during which the money has been withheld from him, or the service of his execution has been delayed by reason of the replevin.

If the attaching creditor in such case does not recover judgment in the action in which the attachment was made, or if a balance remains of the money so recovered by the officer after paying what is due to the creditor, such money shall be applied in the same manner as the surplus, if any, of the proceeds of sale would and ought to have been applied had the goods been sold on execution.

Section 12. All amounts received by such creditor from the proceeds of the sale of goods attached or taken on execution and afterward returned, or received by him for the value of goods not returned, or recovered from the officer for the insufficiency of the sureties on the bond, shall be applied to the discharge of the judgment recovered by the creditor; and all amounts received as interest or damages for the delay of his execution shall be applied, one half to the sole use of the creditor, and the other half in discharge of the judgment.

Section 13. If the court finds that the goods were unlawfully taken or attached or unlawfully detained by the defendant, the plaintiff shall have judgment for his damages caused thereby and for costs.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Section 14. Sureties on a replevin bond may be approved in writing by the officer who serves the writ or by the defendant or by a justice of a district court or by a master in chancery, and, if approved otherwise than by the officer, he shall not be responsible for their sufficiency.

142 Mass. 519.
144 Mass. 32.

Section 15. If such sureties are to be approved by a justice of a district court or by a master in chancery, the officer who serves the writ shall give written notice to the defendant or to the person from whose custody the property has been taken, stating the time and place of hearing thereon and the names and residences of the proposed sureties, allowing not less than one hour before the time appointed for the hearing and at the rate of one hour additional for each mile of travel.
Section 16. The fee of the master for the hearing and decision shall be as prescribed in section twenty-three of chapter two hundred and sixty-two; and, if the bond is approved, such fee shall be taxed in the plaintiff's costs, if he prevails in the action.

Section 17. An action of replevin shall not be dismissed by reason of a defect in the form or substance of the bond taken therein, if the court is satisfied that such bond was intended in good faith as a compliance with the law requiring a bond to be taken before service of the writ and if the plaintiff, within such time and upon such terms as the court orders, files a new bond such as is required by law, approved by the court or in the manner provided in section fourteen.

Section 18. An action shall not be maintained against a surety on a replevin bond, unless the writ is served on him within one year after the final judgment in the action of replevin. If the writ of replevin is not entered, an action on the bond shall not be maintained against a surety unless it is entered within one year after the return day of the writ of replevin.

Section 19. Damages in replevin shall be assessed by the jury by which the cause is tried, if there is a trial by jury; otherwise, by the court or by a jury impanelled therefor.

Section 20. If the goods repleved had been attached, they shall, upon a judgment for a return, be held liable to the attachment until the final judgment in the action in which they were attached, and for thirty days thereafter, so that they may be taken on execution. If such final judgment is rendered before the return of the goods, or if the goods when repleved were seized and held on execution, they shall be held subject to the same attachment or seizure for thirty days after the return, in order that the execution may be served thereon, or the service thereof completed, in like manner as it might have been if the goods had not been repleved.

Section 21. The writ of return in actions of replevin shall be substantially in the form heretofore established and used in like cases.

Section 22. The foregoing provisions shall not preclude the defendant from his remedy on the replevin bond, nor, except as provided in section fourteen, from his remedy against the officer for the insufficiency of the sureties on the bond, to recover the value of the goods and the loss or damage caused by the replevin, although he has endeavored to recover the same by the writ of return as before provided.

8. If the imprisonment or restraint is by virtue of a warrant or other process, a copy thereof shall be annexed, unless it appears that such copy has been demanded and refused or that, for a sufficient reason, a demand therefor could not be made.

1 Section 4. The court or magistrate to whom the petition is presented shall, without delay, issue a writ of habeas corpus, substantially in the form heretofore established and used in the commonwealth, and returnable forthwith to the supreme judicial court, or a justice thereof, at such place as shall be designated in the writ.

1 Section 5. If the imprisonment or restraint is not by a sheriff, deputy sheriff or jailer, the writ shall be in the following form:

1 Section 8. The person restrained shall be designated by name, if known; otherwise, he may be so described as to identify him.

1 Section 9. If the person restrained is confined in jail or is in the custody of a civil officer, the court or magistrate granting the writ shall certify thereon the amount to be paid for the expense of transporting him from the place of imprisonment, and the officer shall not be bound to obey the writ unless that amount is paid or tendered to him.
SECTION 10. Any person to whom the writ is directed shall receive it, and, upon payment or tender of the charges demandable for its execution, shall make due return thereof within five days after receiving it.

R. L. 191, § 10.

SECTION 11. The person in whose custody the prisoner is found shall state in writing, plainly and unequivocally, to the court or justice before whom the writ is returnable —

The statement shall be signed by him and, unless he is a sworn public officer and makes the statement in his official capacity, shall be sworn to by him.

SECTION 12. The person who makes the statement shall at the same time produce the prisoner, if in his custody or power or under his restraint, according to the command of the writ, unless prevented by the illness or infirmity of the prisoner.

SECTION 13. If by reason of the illusion or infirmity of the prisoner he cannot without danger be taken to the place appointed for the return of the writ, that fact shall be stated in the statement and, if proved, the judge may proceed to the place where the prisoner is confined and there make his examination; or he may postpone the examination or may make such other order in the case as law and justice require.

SECTION 14. If the court to which the writ is returnable is not sitting for the transaction of business when the writ is returned, the return shall be made before a justice thereof. If the writ is returned before a justice when the court is sitting for the transaction of business, he may adjourn the case into the court, to be there heard and determined.

SECTION 15. After the writ has been returned, the prisoner may deny any of the facts set forth in the statement and may allege any other material facts; and the court or justice shall examine summarily and without delay the causes of the imprisonment or restraint, hear the evidence produced by any persons interested or authorized to appear and dispose of the prisoner as law and justice require, and may adjourn the examination from time to time.

SECTION 16. If it appears from the return of the writ or otherwise that the prisoner is detained on a process under which another person has an interest in continuing his imprisonment or restraint, he shall not be discharged until notice has been given to such other person or his attorney, if within the commonwealth. If such person or his attorney is not within the commonwealth the court may order notice to be given 7 to him.

1 Section 17. If it appears from the return of the writ or otherwise
2 that the prisoner is imprisoned on a criminal accusation, he shall not be 3 discharged until notice has been given to the attorney general or other 4 attorney for the commonwealth.

1 Section 18. Until judgment is given, the court or justice may remand 2 the prisoner, bail him to appear from day to day, commit him to the 3 sheriff of the county, or place him under such other care and custody as 4 the circumstances of the case require.

1 Section 19. If the prisoner is detained for a cause or crime for 2 which he is bailable, he shall be admitted to bail if sufficient bail is offered;
3 and if not, he shall be remanded with an order of the court or justice
4 expressing the amount in which he shall be held to bail and the court
5 at which he shall be required to appear; and any magistrate authorized 6 to admit to bail may, at any time before the sitting of said court, bail 7 the prisoner pursuant to such order.

1 Section 20. If the prisoner has been committed on mesne process
2 in a civil action for want of bail, and it appears that the amount for which 3 bail was required is excessive and unreasonable, the court or justice shall 4 decide how much bail is reasonable, and shall order that on giving such 5 bail the prisoner shall be discharged.

1 Section 21. If a person is committed to jail on a criminal accusa-
2 tion for want of bail, a justice of the superior court or of a district court
3 or a trial justice may issue a writ of habeas corpus and cause the prisoner
4 to be brought before him, when it is necessary for the purpose of admitting 5 him to bail pursuant to chapter two hundred and seventy-six.

1 Section 22. If the prisoner is lawfully imprisoned or restrained and 2 is not entitled to be admitted to bail, he shall be remanded to the person
3 from whose custody he was taken or any other person or officer author-

2 straint, the court or justice shall discharge the prisoner.

10 Gray, 249.

1 Section 24. No person who has been discharged upon a habeas 2 corpus shall be again imprisoned or restrained for the same cause, unless 3 indicted therefor, convicted thereof, or committed for want of bail by a 4 court of record having jurisdiction of the cause; or unless, after a dis-
5 charge for defect of proof or for some material defect in the commitment 6 in a criminal case, he is again arrested on sufficient proof and committed 7 by legal process.
SECTION 25. This chapter shall not affect the power of the supreme judicial court, or of a justice thereof, to issue a writ of habeas corpus at discretion, and thereupon to bail a person for whatever cause he has been committed or restrained or to discharge him as law and justice require, unless he has been committed by the governor and council, the senate or the house of representatives, in the manner and for the causes mentioned in the constitution; nor affect the power of any court or magistrate to issue a writ of habeas corpus, when necessary to bring before it or him a prisoner for trial in a criminal case pending before it or him; or to bring in a prisoner to be examined as a witness in a suit or proceeding, civil or criminal, pending before it or him, if the personal attendance and examination of the witness is necessary for the attainment of justice.

SECTION 26. An officer who refuses or neglects for six hours to deliver a true copy of the warrant or process by which he detains a prisoner to any person who demands such copy and tenders the fees therefor shall forfeit two hundred dollars to such person.

SECTION 27. If a person to whom a writ of habeas corpus is directed refuses to receive it, or neglects to execute it according to the provisions of this chapter and no sufficient excuse is shown therefor, the court or justice before whom the writ was returnable shall forthwith by process of attachment, as for a contempt, compel obedience to the writ, and punish the person guilty of the contempt.

SECTION 28. If such attachment is issued against a sheriff or his deputy, it may be directed to a special sheriff or to some other person designated therein, who shall have full power to execute it; and if the sheriff or his deputy is to be committed upon such process, he may be committed to the jail of any county other than his own.

SECTION 29. Upon the refusal or neglect of the person to whom the writ of habeas corpus is directed to receive and execute it, the court or justice may issue a precept to any officer or other person designated therein, commanding him to bring the prisoner forthwith before such court or justice, who shall thereupon discharge, bail or remand the prisoner as if he had been brought in upon the writ of habeas corpus.

SECTION 30. Whoever refuses or neglects to receive and execute a writ of habeas corpus shall forfeit four hundred dollars to the party aggrieved thereby.

SECTION 31. Whoever resists the service of the writ of habeas corpus, or disobeys it when served, shall be liable to attachment as for a contempt of the court or justice before whom the writ is returnable.

Penalty for removing or concealing prisoner. R. S. 111, §32.

SECTION 32. Whoever, having in his custody or power a person entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, transfers him to the custody, or places him under the power or control, of another person, conceals him or changes 4 the place of his confinement, with intent to evade the service of such 5 writ or to avoid the effect thereof, whether the writ has been issued or 6 not, shall forfeit four hundred dollars to the party aggrieved thereby.

1 Section 33. The recovery of any penalty imposed by the foregoing 2 provisions of this chapter shall not bar an action at common law for 3 false imprisonment, or for a false return to the writ of habeas corpus, or 4 for any other injury or damage sustained by the aggrieved party.

G. S. 144, § 40.

P. S. 185, § 37.

R. L. 191, § 33.

1 Section 34. This chapter shall not authorize the taking of a person by 2 writ of habeas corpus out of the custody of the United States marshal, or 3 his deputy, who holds him by legal and sufficient process issued by any 4 court or magistrate of competent jurisdiction; but this section shall not 5 affect the authority of the supreme judicial court or of its justices, in 6 accordance with the provisions of the constitution of the United States
7 and of the commonwealth, to investigate and determine the validity and 8 legal effect of any process which may be relied on to defeat the writ, or 9 any other matter properly arising.

Personal Liberty.

1 Section 35. No person shall be deprived of his liberty or held in 2 custody by any person or in any place against his will or, if he is a minor, 3 against the will of his parents, guardian or other person entitled to his 4 custody, except by due process of law; but this section shall not apply
5 to persons who have been legally convicted of crime and are serving 6 sentence therefor.

1 Section 36. Whoever has reason to believe that another person is 2 deprived of his liberty or held in custody in violation of the preceding 3 section may file a petition, on the oath of the petitioner, in the pro-
4 bate court for the county where such person is believed to be detained,
5 stating his name, age and general description, where, when and under 6 what circumstances he was deprived of his liberty, where he is believed 7 to be detained, the name of the person so depriving him of his liberty, 8 if known, the name of his supposed custodian and any other material 9 facts and circumstances.

1 Section 37. Upon the filing of such petition, the court shall cause
2 notice to be served upon all the supposed custodians or persons alleged 3 to be detaining or holding in custody said person, as stated in said petition,
4 or as otherwise known, ordering them to appear before said court at a 5 time and place named therein, to be examined as said court shall order;
6 and may cause said person to be brought before it for examination as 7 to his desire to be released and as to any other relevant matters.

1 Section 38. The court may examine the witnesses separately and 2 may permit the petitioner, parent, guardian or other person entitled to 3 the custody of a person deprived of his liberty, in person or by counsel, 4 to examine publicly his alleged custodian as to the condition of such per-5 son and the place where he is detained or held in custody; and may also 6 examine separately and apart, or publicly, such person, and may make orders for his release or permitting correspondence or personal interviews between him and his friends or relatives, and may modify its orders upon notice to the parties.

SECTION 39. The probate court may request the district attorney for the district where it is held to attend the examination under the preceding section, and to conduct or assist in conducting the examination. If the court is unable to obtain satisfactory information, or to satisfactorily determine the questions involved or to furnish proper relief, it shall notify the district attorney, who may institute proceedings under sections one to thirty-four, inclusive, or such other proceedings as the case may require. The provisions of said sections shall apply to all proceedings under the four preceding sections so far as appropriate.

SECTION 40. The fees for the service of process and notices and for summoning witnesses shall, upon the approval of the court or district attorney, be paid by the county where such person is detained, if the petitioner is not able to pay them.

AUDITA QUERELA.

SECTION 1. The writ of audita querela for the purpose of preventing, setting aside or annulling any proceedings upon a judgment or execution shall be sued out and be returnable to the court in which the judgment was rendered. It shall be sued out and served like an original writ, the forms of process shall be the same as those heretofore established and used in the commonwealth, the proceedings so far as appropriate shall be the same as in personal actions and the court, after the writ has been sued out, may issue an injunction.

SECTION 2. If the plaintiff prevails upon a writ sued out to set aside or annul proceedings upon an execution, he shall recover the damages sustained by said proceedings, and the judgment upon the audita querela shall be a bar to any other action thereafter brought for the same damages.
Section 3. If the plaintiff is imprisoned on the execution or other process complained of, the court may release him upon his giving bond 3 to the defendant in such sum as the court orders, with two or more 4 sureties approved by the court, conditioned that if final judgment upon 5 the audita querela is rendered for the defendant, he will, within thirty 6 days thereafter, surrender himself to the jailer or other officer by whom 7 he was imprisoned to be detained in custody under the former execution 8 or process or shall within that time pay the amount due on the former 9 execution or process, with the costs. If the plaintiff so surrenders himself, 10 he shall be in custody under the execution or other process on which 11 he was imprisoned as if the writ had not been sued out.

CERTIORARI.

Section 4. A petition for a writ of certiorari to correct errors in 2 proceedings which are not according to the course of the common law, 3 may be presented to a justice of the supreme judicial court, and he may,
4 after notice, hear and determine the same. The writ shall not be issued 5 unless the petition therefor is presented within six years next after the 6 proceedings complained of. It may be issued from the clerk's office in 7 any county and shall be returnable as the court orders. The court at 8 any time after the petition is presented may impose costs upon any 9 party, may issue an injunction and may order the proceedings brought 10 up; and, after they are brought up, may quash or affirm them, or may 11 make such order, judgment or decree as law and justice may require.

MANDAMUS.

Section 5. A petition for a writ of mandamus may be presented to 2 a justice of the supreme judicial court, and he may, after notice, hear 3 and determine the same. Upon the return of the order of notice, the 4 person required to appear shall file an answer showing cause why the 5 writ should not issue, and the petitioner may traverse any material
6 facts alleged in the answer or may demur thereto. The court may re-
7 quire a third person who has or claims a right or interest in the subject 8 matter to appear and answer and to stand as the real party. If the 9 petitioner prevails, his damages shall be assessed and judgment shall be 10 rendered therefor, with costs, and for a peremptory writ of mandamus;
11 otherwise, the party answering shall recover costs of the petitioner. No 12 action shall be maintained for a false answer. All writs and processes 13 may be issued from the clerk's office in any county and shall be return-14 able as the court orders.

QUO WARRANTO.

Section 6. A person whose private right or interest has been injured
2 or is put in hazard, by the exercise of a franchise or privilege not conferred corporation, whether he is a member of such corporation or not, may apply to a justice of the supreme judicial court in any county for leave to file an information in the nature of a quo warranto.

SECTION 7. The court shall give a summary hearing and if it appears that there is probable cause to believe that the respondent has exercised a franchise or privilege not conferred by law, whereby the private right or interest of the complainant has been injured or is put in hazard, shall grant leave to file the information, which shall be filed in the county where the respondent has its principal place of business. A copy of the information, with an order of notice returnable and to be served when and as it directs, shall be served on the respondent and on the attorney general.

SECTION 8. If leave is given to file such information, the court, at any time before final judgment, may issue a writ of injunction restraining the respondent from exercising the franchise or privilege in question until the further order of the court.

SECTION 9. If the attorney general believes that there has been a usurpation of a franchise or privilege not conferred by law, he may intervene, control the subsequent proceedings and demand a judgment of fine and forfeiture, and the complainant shall no longer be liable for costs. The court shall enter judgment according to the principles of the common law.

SECTION 10. If the attorney general does not intervene, and the court finds that the respondent has exercised a franchise or privilege not conferred by law, judgment of forfeiture shall not be entered, but judgment shall be entered that the corporation, or the persons claiming to be such, be perpetually excluded from the exercise of such franchise or privilege, and that the directors, managers or agents, guilty of the usurpation, pay the costs of the complainant.

SECTION 11. If the court finds that the respondent has not exercised a franchise or privilege not conferred by law, he shall recover costs.

SECTION 12. The supreme judicial court shall have jurisdiction of informations in the nature of quo warranto filed by the attorney general against a person holding or claiming the right to hold an office or employment, the salary or compensation of which is payable by the commonwealth, a county, city or town.

SECTION 13. This chapter shall not affect the duty of the attorney general to proceed in all cases in which he might otherwise act.

Section 4. A judgment in a civil action shall not be reversed on a writ of error for error arising upon a plea or answer in abatement or for a defect of form which might by law have been amended; nor by reason of a mistake relative to the venue of the action; nor because the judgment is not in conformity with the pleadings, if it is in conformity with the verdict; nor for any error in law if the defendant appeared and a verdict was rendered, unless it occurred after verdict. The sufficiency of the sureties and the amount of the bond shall be determined by a justice of the supreme judicial court or by the clerk from whose office the writ issued.

Section 7. Such bond shall be filed in the clerk's office for the use of the defendant in error and no execution shall be thereafter issued upon the judgment while the writ of error is pending. If execution has been already issued, the clerk shall make an entry of the issuing of the writ of error and of the filing of the bond, and issue a certificate thereof; and, after notice of such entry to the officer holding the execution, all further proceedings therein shall be stayed.

Section 8. The prevailing party shall be entitled to costs, and, if the judgment is affirmed, the court shall award to the defendant in error damages for his delay at a rate of not less than six nor more than twelve per cent a year on the amount recovered by the former judgment, and may award him double costs.

Section 17. Except as hereinafter provided, the petitioner shall, before judgment is vacated under such petition and before execution is stayed or superseded, give bond to the adverse party with security approved by the court, conditioned, if the obligor is the prevailing party, that if final judgment shall be thereafter rendered for the obligee, the obligor shall pay his costs and, if the obligee is the prevailing party, that if the judgment is not vacated on said petition, the obligor shall satisfy said judgment and all costs accrued on any execution issued thereunder, and that if it is so vacated, he shall satisfy the execution that shall issue in favor of the obligee on any judgment thereafter rendered in said action, or if a special judgment shall be entered in favor of the obligee in accordance with section twenty-six of chapter two hundred and thirty-five, he will pay to the plaintiff within thirty days after the entry of such judgment the amount for which it shall be entered.

Section 18. If the petitioner had no actual knowledge before the judgment was entered that the action was pending against him and there was no attachment of property in the original action, the judgment may be vacated and the execution stayed or superseded without security; but if there was such attachment, the amount of the bond shall be fixed at the actual value of the property attached, as agreed upon by the parties or as determined by the court upon a summary hearing after notice to the adverse party.

Section 19. The court may impose costs or terms upon either party to a motion or petition to vacate a judgment.

Section 20. The liability upon an attachment made, bond given or bail taken in the original action shall not continue after the original judgment has been vacated, except that if a judgment is vacated under section fourteen within thirty days after the entry thereof, such liability shall, if a subsequent judgment is rendered, continue during such time thereafter as it would have continued upon the original judgment had it not been vacated.

WRITS OF REVIEW.

Section 21. If judgment is rendered, as provided in chapter two hundred and twenty-seven, upon the default of a defendant upon whom service has not been made by reason of his being out of the commonwealth or by reason of his residence being unknown, he may, within one year after the judgment, as of right and without any petition therefor, take a writ of review out of the court in which the judgment was rendered.

Section 22. After the entry of final judgment in a civil action, the court in which the judgment was entered may, upon petition, grant a writ of review. If judgment was rendered in the absence of the petitioner and without his knowledge, the petition shall be filed within one year after the petitioner first had notice of the judgment; otherwise, within 6 one year after the judgment was rendered. In the supreme judicial court, the petition shall be filed in the county where the judgment was entered.

1 Section 23. After the filing of the petition for a writ of review, the court may order notice thereof returnable at such time and to be served in such manner as it directs, and may issue a stay or supersedeas of an execution on such judgment and an order for the return thereof to the court with a certificate of the proceedings thereon.

1 Section 24. Except as hereinafter provided, the petitioner for a writ of review shall, before execution is stayed or superseded, give bond to the adverse party with security approved by the court, conditioned that if a writ of review is not granted the obligor shall satisfy the judgment and costs. If the judgment has been rendered by the court without a trial, the petition may be without security, and the order of the court for supersedeas shall be vacated and the execution renewed. If the judgment is confirmed, the petitioner shall pay, or give bond for the payment of, the costs of the proceedings in the court of the lower order, and shall pay the costs of the proceedings in the court of the higher order, or give bond therefor. If the judgment is reversed or modified, the petitioner shall pay the costs of the proceedings in the court of the higher order, or give bond therefor.

1 Section 25. If the petitioner had no actual knowledge before the judgment was entered that the action was pending against him and that he would be bound by its result, the court shall order that judgment for the bond be vacated or superseded without security; but if there was such knowledge, the amount of the bond shall be fixed at the actual value of the property attached, as agreed upon by the parties or as determined by the court upon a summary hearing after notice to the adverse party. Except as provided in this and the preceding section, the execution shall not be stayed or superseded by the writ of review.

1 Section 26. The court may grant a writ of review upon terms and if the review is not granted may impose costs.

1 Section 27. The writ of review shall be sued out within three months after the order granting the petition; otherwise, such order and any stay or supersedeas previously ordered in the proceedings shall be thereby vacated and the original judgment shall be in full force.

1788, 11, §§ 3, 9.

1788, 11, § 5.

SECTION 28. It shall not be necessary to recite at length the declaration and other proceedings in the original action, but the form of writ of review shall be substantially as follows:

Summon A to answer B in the review of an action of contract (tort or replevin), brought by said A against said B, in which action said A by the consideration of the justices of our court, held at C within and for our said county of M on the day of , recovered judgment against said B for the sum of dollars, debt (or damages), dollars, costs, which judgment said B says is wrong and erroneous.

Or the former judgment may be briefly described in any manner provided by the rules of the courts.

SECTION 29. The writ shall be served in the same manner as an original writ, except that if the defendant is not an inhabitant of the commonwealth, or is not found therein, it may be served on the person who appeared as his attorney in the original action, and the court may continue the case to enable the absent party to appear and answer.

SECTION 30. If the writ is sued out by the original plaintiff, the defendant's goods and estate may be attached as they might have been in the original action, and for this purpose the writ of review may be so framed as to require an attachment in the common form, and that the defendant be summoned. An attachment made, bond given or bail taken in the original suit shall not be held to satisfy the judgment on the review.

SECTION 31. If an issue of fact was joined in the original action, the case shall be tried on the review upon the same issue, unless the court allows such amendments of the original pleadings by either party as might have been allowed in the original action.

SECTION 32. If judgment in the original action was rendered without a joinder of issue, the parties shall plead or answer upon the review in like manner as they might have done in the original action, and the cause shall be tried upon any issue of fact or law joined upon such pleadings or answer.

SECTION 33. Judgment shall be given upon the review as the merits of the case upon the law and the evidence require. If the amount recovered by the plaintiff in the original action is reduced on the review, the original defendant shall have judgment and execution for the difference, with costs; or, if the former judgment has not been satisfied, one judgment may be set off against the other, and an execution issued for the balance. If the original plaintiff recovers a greater amount than was awarded to him in the original action, he shall have judgment and execution for the excess.

All expenses of arbitration under this chapter shall be borne by the parties.

1 Section 12. An appeal founded on matter of law apparent upon the record shall be allowed from any order or judgment of the superior court on an award made under this chapter; or a party aggrieved may bring a writ of error for any error in law or fact as in other cases. 1 Section 13. Fees in court shall be the same as for like services relative to an award made under a rule of court.

If it is necessary or useful (1) to drain or flow a meadow, swamp, marsh, beach or other low land held by two or more proprietors, or (2) to remove obstructions in rivers or streams leading thereto or therefrom, or (3) to eradicate mosquitoes in any area infested thereby, including, in respect to each such purpose, purposes incidental thereto, such improvements may be made as provided in the following eighteen sections, except as hereinafter otherwise provided.

2. Section 2. One employee of the department of public health designated by it, one employee of the department of agriculture designated by it and a third member designated by the heads of said departments acting jointly and with the approval of the governor and council shall constitute the state reclamation board, in the fourteen following sections of the board. The designation of any member of said board may be revoked at any time, and in such case or in case of the resignation or disability of any member his successor shall be designated in the same manner as in the original designation. The board shall serve in the department of agriculture, and the members thereof shall receive no additional compensation for service on said board, but shall be entitled to their reasonable traveling and other expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

3. Section 3. The board may investigate the question of utilizing wet lands, including meadows, swamps, marshes, beaches and other low lands, and may ascertain what lands, if any, may advantageously be drained for agricultural or industrial uses, the protection of the public health, the utilization of deposits therein, or for other purposes. It may publish and disseminate facts of general interest ascertained in the conduct of any such investigation, and may make and publish surveys of tracts of land.
in need of drainage, showing their situation, areas and outlets, the best methods and the cost of draining them, the uses to which they are best adapted, and such other details as it deems advisable. It shall make an annual report.

SECTION 4. In carrying out the provisions of sections one to fourteen B, inclusive, the board may employ necessary engineers, assistants or other agents, who may enter on land which the board desires to survey or examine. The board shall also be allowed other necessary expenses incurred in the performance of its duties.

SECTION 4A. The commonwealth, acting through one or more state departments, or through the metropolitan district commission in respect to the metropolitan parks or water district or either metropolitan sewer-age district, and any city, town or district, or any combination thereof, to the extent of their ownership of any area described in section one, may be parties, in their proprietary capacity, to proceedings under sections one to fourteen C, inclusive, in respect to any purpose set forth in said section one, to the same extent as individual proprietors. Said bodies politic, or any combination thereof, may also institute proceedings under said sections in their governmental capacity, in any case where it appears that the public health, safety or convenience will be promoted by improvements to effect any of said purposes, but in such proceedings no district shall be organized, and the improvements shall be constructed and maintained as provided in section five A. The petition in such a proceeding need cover only matters pertinent to the project therein set forth, and the provisions of section five requiring that the petitioners constitute a majority ownership of the lands affected shall not apply to such petition. Individuals and corporations qualifying as proprietors may join in any petition authorized in this section. Action by any such body politic hereunder shall be taken by the administrative head of the state department or commission, or by the mayor, selectmen, or prudential committee or other governing body, as the case may be. Notice of the hearing before said board on such a petition shall be given as provided in the first paragraph of section five to all petitioners and to the administrative heads of such state departments and commissions, mayors of such cities, selectmen of such towns, and the prudential committees or other governing bodies of such districts, as the said board may determine, and to all other known proprietors of lands to be affected by such improvements. Cities, towns and districts are hereby authorized to raise and appropriate money for such purposes.

Upon receipt of said petition and of a sum sufficient to meet its expenses therefore, the board shall proceed to make such investigations and such surveys of said lands as may be necessary to determine the approximate area and boundaries thereof, the need of the proposed improvements, the probable benefit, if any, to the public health, the agricultural or other uses to which the lands can be put and their probable value for such uses after the improvements are completed, and in general the practicability and advisability of undertaking the proposed improvements. Any unexpended balance of the amount so received shall be reimbursed to the contributors in proportion to their contributions. If such improvements appear to the board to be advisable and practicable, the board shall give notice of the petition therefor by publication in a newspaper published in the county where the greater part of the land lies and by registered mail to each known proprietor, stating the date of a hearing to be held by the board not less than seven days after the publication of said notice and the date of mailing notices to the proprietors. After the hearing, if the board approves the proposed improvements, it shall dedtermine whether or not the organization of a reclamation district is necessary to construct and maintain said improvements.

If the board decides that a district should be organized, it shall issue a certificate appointing three, five or seven district commissioners, who shall be sworn to the faithful performance of their duties, and shall authorize said commissioners to form a reclamation district under the following section. The board shall fix the compensation of said commissioners, which shall not exceed five dollars for each day of actual service, and shall allow them their necessary traveling expenses incurred in the performance of their duties. Such compensation and expenses shall be paid by the district and the district shall reimburse the contributors to the expenses of the board the amounts of their several contributions less any unex-35 pended balances returned to them as hereinbefore provided, and said 36 expenditures shall be a part of the total expense of the improvements.
Any commissioner may be removed by the board for cause and the board may fill vacancies. The certificate of appointment of said commissioners shall be revoked by the board when the objects for which they were appointed have been accomplished. For the purpose of this and the 111 following sections, a mortgagor or mortgagee in possession shall be deemed a proprietor.

1 Section 5A. If the board determines that the proposed improvements should be undertaken and that their construction and maintenance may be effected without the formation of a district, and in every such case where the board is petitioned by a body politic in its governmental capacity under section four A, it shall notify all persons and bodies politic to be benefited thereby of the estimated expense of constructing the proposed improvements, including land damages, if any, and of the maintenance thereof. Upon receipt of sums of money sufficient to cover such estimated construction expense, or of any money which can be used for such purposes to the advantage of the contributors, the board shall designate an identifying name under which said improvements shall be made and shall deposit the money so received with the state treasurer, who shall hold such money in a special fund or funds for such purpose, and shall disburse the same on warrants drawn by the board. The board shall thereupon issue a certificate appointing one or more commissioners, who shall be sworn to the faithful performance of their duties, and shall authorize said commissioners to proceed to make the improvements, which may be made at such places, either within or without the commonwealth, as may be necessary or convenient to make the improvements effective; and said commissioners shall thereupon proceed so to do. The board shall fix the compensation of said commissioners and shall allow them their necessary travel and other expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties. Such compensation and expenses shall constitute a part of the expense of making and maintaining such improvements.
Any commissioner may be removed by the board for cause and the board may fill vacancies. The board may discharge the commissioners when the improvements are completed and may appoint others to care for maintenance. Any excess funds received under authority of this section shall be returned to the contributors thereof in proportion to the contributions. If the sums so estimated are not sufficient to complete such improvements, the board shall determine the amount of the estimated additional cost thereof and shall notify the original contributors of their shares of such additional cost. The board shall instruct the commissi-ners not to continue with such improvements until such additional funds are received by the board, and such commissioners, after receipt of such instructions, shall incur no further expense in connection with such improvements until authorized so to do by the board. If one or more, but less than all, of several petitioners provide their respective proportions of the fund estimated as necessary to make such improvements, the board may appoint commissioners to make such portion of such improvements as, in its opinion, will benefit the contributors. For the purpose of effecting such improvements and providing for their maintenance as provided in this section, the board shall have all the powers conferred by sections two, three, four, five, except the last paragraph thereof, and eight, and the commissioners by it appointed shall have all the powers conferred upon district commissioners under sections twelve and thirteen, provided that in taking by eminent domain or acquiring by purchase, gift or otherwise, land or other property or any interest therein, the commissioners so appointed shall take or acquire the same in the name and on behalf of the city or town wherein the land or other property or interests are situated, but not until such city or town has duly authorized such taking, has assumed all liability for damages therefor and has complied with all provisions of law applicable to land takings by cities or towns. All amounts for which a city or town may be liable hereunder, together with interest and costs, may be contributed by persons or bodies politic benefiting by such improvements in proportion to their respective benefits or otherwise.

Section 5B. The board of health of a city or town, not then included in an area designated by an identifying name for the purposes of section five A, or the commissioners appointed to make improvements on behalf of a mosquito control project under such a name as provided in said section, may determine any mosquito breeding area within the limits of such city or town or of such a project, to be a public nuisance, and the board of health or the commissioners, as the case may be, may abate such nuisance, in such manner as may be approved by the board, and may maintain such works as may be necessary to prevent its recurrence.
Before proceeding with such abatement, the board of health or the said commissioners shall notify the owners of such breeding area of the intended abatement, by publication in a newspaper published in the town wherein such area is situated, and shall appoint in the notice a time and place for hearing, and shall at such time and place hear all interested parties. In case an owner of any such area wherein it is proposed to undertake such an abatement objects thereto, he may appeal, not later than fourteen days after the date of said hearing, to the county commissioners, who shall, not later than fourteen days after receipt of notice of such appeal, hear the party or parties aggrieved, the board of health or the said commissioners, and the board or its agent. If the county commissioners shall, within two weeks thereafter, determine that the proposed abatement is required for the promotion of the public health, safety or convenience, the abatement may proceed, but not otherwise. A person damaged in his property by any work undertaken under this section may recover his damages in the manner provided in chapter seventy-nine from the city or town whose board of health undertakes such work, or from the county or counties wherein any city or town included in the mosquito control project is situated, in case such work is undertaken by the commissioners under section five A; provided, that the petition to recover said damages shall be filed within thirty days after the right to the same has vested. All damages paid as aforesaid by the county commissioners shall be assessed upon the cities and towns included in the project on the basis of their taxable valuations as an addition to their respective quotas of the county tax.

1 Section 6. The district commissioners, in this and the ten following sections called the commissioners, after being sworn, shall call a meeting of the proprietors of the lands to be improved, by giving in such manner as the board may order, a notice to each known proprietor, signed by the commissioners and setting forth the time and place of a meeting for the purpose of organizing a reclamation district to carry out the proposed improvements and maintain the same after they are completed. The notice shall be in the form of a warrant specifying the matters upon which action is to be taken at the meeting. The chairman of the commissioners or another commissioner designated by him shall call the meeting to order and shall determine whether or not proprietors constituting a majority in interest, in either value or area, are present or represented by proxies duly executed and placed in the hands of other proprietors prior to said meeting. Lacking such a majority, the meeting shall have no power to act, but the commissioners may, in the manner above provided, call additional meetings for the same purpose. The meeting shall elect a temporary clerk, who shall be sworn, and a moderator. The moderator shall submit to the proprietors present the question of accepting sections one to fourteen B, inclusive, and of organizing a reclamation district, and if a majority of those present in person or by proxy and voting on the question, vote to accept and to organize such district the provisions of said sections shall take full effect. The vote shall be recorded and a copy thereof shall be filed with the board. The meeting may then proceed to act upon the other articles, if any, contained in the warrant. Such district shall at the same meeting elect by ballot a district clerk and a district treasurer, who may be the same person, to hold office until one year from the next succeeding annual meeting and at each annual meeting after the first a clerk and treasurer shall be elected by ballot for one year. There shall also be elected by ballot a prudential committee of three members who shall hold office, one for three years, one for two years, and one for one year, from the next succeeding annual meeting. At each annual meeting after the first a member of said committee shall be elected by ballot for three years. The aforesaid officers of the district shall hold office until their successors are elected and qualified. The district may also, at the first or any subsequent meeting, borrow for preliminary or current expenses such sums as may be necessary and may issue therefor notes payable in not more than two years from their dates. Notes issued under this provision shall be subject to the provisions of chapter forty-four and to the other requirements for district notes imposed by section ten. The proceeds of such notes shall be held by the treasurer of the district, and payments therefrom shall be made only on vouchers duly approved by a majority of the prudential committee.

Subsequent meetings of the district shall be called by the clerk at the request of the commissioners or any two or more proprietors, or, in case the clerk neglects or refuses to call a meeting when so requested such meeting may upon application by said commissioners or two or more proprietors be called upon a warrant from a justice of the peace directed to one of the applicants and requiring him to give notice of said meeting as hereinafter provided. Notices of meetings shall be given by posting copies of the warrant in two or more public places within the district or by mailing copies of said warrant to each known proprietor at least seven days before the time set for the meeting. At each meeting a moderator shall be chosen who shall have the powers of the moderator of a town meeting so far as may be necessary. The clerk shall preside at each meeting after the first until a moderator is chosen.

The officers of the district shall be sworn to the faithful performance of their duties. Any vacancy occurring in the office of clerk, treasurer, or member of the prudential committee may be filled by the district for the remainder of the unexpired term at any legal meeting called for the purpose, or in case of a vacancy in the office of clerk or treasurer or disability affecting either of said officers the prudential committee may appoint a director to fill said vacancy until an election can be held or the disability is removed. Such temporary appointee shall be sworn and shall perform duties of the office to which he is appointed during his tenure thereof.

The prudential committee shall have charge of expenditures on account of the district for maintenance of the improvements made under sections one to fourteen B, inclusive, and shall exercise the authority conferred upon the district by law except as otherwise expressly provided, and subject to the by-laws of the district and such instructions, rules and regulations as the district may impose by its vote.

The treasurer shall give bond for the faithful performance of his official duties in a sum and with sureties approved by the prudential committee.
He shall receive all money belonging to the district except as otherwise specified in this and the ten following sections and shall make payments and account for the same in accordance with the requirements of sections one to fourteen B, inclusive, and of chapter forty-four so far as applicable, under direction of the district or of the prudential committee. A temporary treasurer appointed to fill a vacancy, as above provided, shall give bond in the same manner as the treasurer.

A district organized under the provisions of this section may adopt by-laws consistent with the laws applicable to such district and subject to the approval of the board. Such by-laws may provide for proxy voting by the members at any or all meetings of the district. The district shall have such rights and powers as may be necessary and proper for operating and maintaining the improvements made by the commissioners, and for making, operating and maintaining such further improvements as may be authorized under section fourteen A. The members of the district shall be the proprietors from time to time of lands lying within its limits.
90 No such district shall dissolve without specific authorization by the 91 general court, which shall not be given until provision has been made for 92 payment of the obligations of said district.

1 Section 7. As soon as the district shall have been organized under 2 the provisions of the preceding section the commissioners shall, under 3 direction of the board, cause the necessary surveys and investigations to 4 be made and shall prepare a plan showing in detail the boundaries of the 5 district and the improvements to be effected. On the basis of such 6 surveys and investigations the commissioners shall prepare an esti-7 mate of the total expense of the proposed improvements and shall 8 determine the percentage of such expense to be paid by each pro-9 prictor, based on the estimated special benefit to his land in excess of 10 the damage thereto by the use thereof for the proposed improvements.
11 If such damage to the land of any proprietor exceeds the special benefit 12 thereto they shall award him damages for such excess. They shall report 13 their plan, estimate and determination to the board, which shall approve, 14 disapprove or modify such plan and estimate. The commissioners shall 15 also notify each proprietor of such determination by delivering a copy 16 thereof at his residence or by sending the same by registered mail to his 17 last known address and shall certify to the board the date on which such 18 notice is given. If any proprietor is aggrieved by the determination of 19 the commissioners he may, within fifteen days after notice thereof, file 20 with the board his objections thereto and if no such objections are filed by 21 any proprietor within the fifteen days above specified then the determina-22 tion of the commissioners shall be final. The board shall, within thirty 23 days after receiving notice of objections by any proprietor against the 24 determination, notify all the proprietors that such objections have been 25 received and shall hold a hearing thereon, but such hearing shall not be 26 held within seven days after notice is given to all the proprietors that 27 objections have been filed. If objections are made by more than one 28 proprietor all such objections shall be considered in one hearing. After 29 such hearing the board may confirm or modify the determination and shall 30 notify the proprietors of its decision. If any proprietor is dissatisfied 31 with the action of the board he may petition the superior court in the 32 county in which the greater part of the land included within the district
33 is situated, making all the proprietors who have not joined in his petition 34 parties respondent and praying for a revision of such decision, provided 35 that such petition shall be entered not later than thirty days after notice
36 of the decision. The court sitting without jury shall hear the petition 37 and shall confirm or alter the percentages previously determined to be 38 payable by any or all said proprietors, as justice may require. Such 39 petition shall not operate to suspend or delay other proceedings by the 40 board or commissioners on the land to be improved. The expenses in-41 curred under this section shall constitute a part of the total expense of the 42 improvements and shall be paid by the district in the same manner as the 43 remainder of such expense.

As soon as the percentages payable as aforesaid by said proprietors in the case of original and of further improvements have been finally determined in accordance with this section the board shall on behalf of the reclamation district cause to be recorded in the registry of deeds of every county or district in which the benefited area is situated a description sufficiently accurate for identification of such area, a copy of a plan to which reference shall be made and also an estimate of the total amount to be assessed on each parcel of land within such area, all as set forth in section two of chapter eighty. No original or further improvements shall be approved by the board until after such recording.

Section 8. Should the board be of the opinion that a part of the expense of the improvements made under sections one to fourteen B, inclusive, should be paid by the commonwealth for the benefit of the public health of said commonwealth as a whole it shall estimate the amount which in its opinion should be so paid and shall include the same in its estimates under section four of chapter twenty-nine.

Section 9. As soon as possible after the recording of the description, plan and estimate as provided in section seven, the commissioners shall request the clerk to call a meeting of the district for the purpose of deciding upon a method of financing such improvements in accordance with this or the following section; provided, that the commissioners may in their discretion insert an article covering this question in the warrant for the meeting called to organize the district and the district at said meeting or any adjournment thereof may decide upon a method of financing. Any action under this chapter which involves expenditure by the district shall require a vote of proprietors representing a majority in interest both in acreage and value of the area included in the district. The commissioners shall, if the district so votes, petition the county commissioners of the county where the greater part of the land lies, annexing a certified copy of the petition under section five and of the determination of the board thereon, and a statement of the estimated expense of the proposed improvements and shall request the county commissioners to vote to pay in the first instance the total expense involved in making the improvements approved by the board, and the said county commissioners may so vote. To defray any expense incurred by said county commissioners under such vote, the county treasurer, with the approval of the county commissioners, may issue bonds or notes of the county to an amount not exceeding such expense, payable in such period, not exceeding twenty-five years from their dates of issue, as the county commissioners may determine. Such bonds or notes shall be signed by the county treasurer and countersigned by a majority of the county commissioners. The county may sell the said securities at public or private sale upon such terms and conditions as the county commissioners may deem proper, but not for less than their par value. The first payment on account of the principal may, if the county commissioners so decide, be deferred for not more than five years after the date of issue of the bonds or notes, but such bonds or notes shall be subject to the provisions of chapter thirty-five except as otherwise provided herein. Payments on account of principal and interest shall be made by the county and repaid to the county by the district.

Section 10. The district may vote to adopt any of the three methods of financing hereinafter specified. (1) If all the members of the district agree, the district may raise by assessments upon the proprietors or by voluntary contributions and deposit with the state treasurer the total sum required to meet the estimated expense of the improvements. Such deposits shall be held by the state treasurer to the credit of the district, Section 11. The clerk of the district shall certify to the assessors of the town or towns in which the land of the district lies all sums of money voted to be raised and all sums payable annually on account of the principal and interest due on bonds or notes issued under the provisions of section nine or ten, together with the amount to be paid by each proprietor according to the determination made under section seven, and said clerk shall also file an attested copy of such certification with the board. The amounts so certified shall be assessed upon the lands of the several proprietors within the area, and be committed to the collector of taxes of the town wherein the land is assessed, who shall have and exercise the same powers and duties in relation to the collection of such assessments as he has and exercises relative to the collection of town taxes. The collector shall remit weekly to the district treasurer all sums collected by him on account of such assessments. An assessment made hereunder shall be a lien upon the land assessed therefor, and such lien shall take effect upon the recording of the description, plan and estimate under section seven, and shall continue for a period of two years from July first of the year of assessment.
Section 12. If sections one to seven, inclusive, have been complied with, and payment of the expense of the improvements has been arranged under section nine or ten, the commissioners shall carry out said improvements in such manner as the board may approve. The commissioners may employ suitable persons to perform the work under their direction. So far as may be necessary to effect the improvements as approved by the board, the commissioners may take on behalf of the district, in the manner provided by chapter seventy-nine, lands, easements and rights in lands, if the improvements are for a public use, and may purchase and convey real and personal property both within and beyond the limits of the commonwealth. Any person damaged in his property by any action under this or the following section may recover his damages from the district in the manner provided by said chapter seventy-nine and such damages shall constitute a part of the total expense of the improvements.

Section 13. If the commissioners find it necessary or expedient to lower or raise the water to obtain a view of the land or for the more convenient or expedients removal of obstructions, they may open the flood gates of any mill or make other needful passages through or around the dam thereof, or erect a temporary dam on the land of a person not a party to the proceedings, and may maintain such dam or passages as long as necessary for such purposes; but before so doing, they shall give to such person reasonable written notice of their intention. If such person appeals from the decision and gives reasonable written notice thereof to any commissioner, the commissioners shall suspend all proceedings upon his land until such appeal is decided; provided, that the petition therefore is entered in the superior court for the county where the greater part of the land improved lies not later than thirty days after the time of giving such notice.

Section 14. The commissioners shall at least once a month at such time as the board may require submit to it the accounts and vouchers for expenses incurred in meeting the cost of required improvements under sections one to fourteen B, inclusive. Such accounts and vouchers shall be inspected by the board and if it approves the same it shall forward them to the county treasurer or to the state treasurer, as the case may be, for payment from any funds which may be available for the purpose. Expenses for maintenance or for further improvements incurred under the direction of the prudential committee of the district as provided in section fourteen A shall be paid by the district treasurer on presentation by the prudential committee of accounts and vouchers for such expenses; provided, that accounts and vouchers for expenses incurred in connection with further improvements shall be subject to the approval of the board before payment. The commissioners appointed under said section fourteen A to make further improvements shall present their accounts and vouchers to the board for approval in the same manner as the commissioners appointed under section five to make the original improvements.

Section 14A. A reclamation district organized under this chapter may from time to time at a legal meeting called for the purpose, vote to undertake further improvements within the district, to raise money by assessment to meet the expense thereof and to incur debt therefor in the 5 manner provided by section ten. Such vote shall not be passed until after 6 completion of the original improvements. The district may also vote to 7 request the board to appoint commissioners to carry out the proposed 8 further improvements. Such commissioners shall be appointed by certifi-9 cate of the board as provided in section five. The district may, however,
10 authorize its prudential committee to carry out such further improve-11 ments. The commissioners or prudential committee acting under this 12 section shall have and exercise, so far as necessary, the powers of commis-13 sioners appointed under section five to make original improvements.
14 The clerk of the district shall notify the board of the vote taken and the 15 commissioners or prudential committee shall submit to the board within 16 a reasonable time the plan or plans for such improvements, which shall 17 not be undertaken until the board approves the same. The district may 18 assess upon its members such sums as may be necessary to pay for im-
19 provements so voted and for the maintenance of all improvements made 20 under sections one to fourteen B, inclusive, in the manner provided in 21 section eleven for assessment of the expense of the original improvements.
22 Such assessment shall be subject to the same provisions as the assessment
23 authorized in said section eleven, shall be collected in the same manner 24 and shall be paid to the treasurer of the district.

1 Section 14B. No person obtaining an additional water power or 2 water supply by the doing of any work contemplated by sections one to 3 fourteen B, inclusive, shall gain a prescriptive right to the use thereof,
4 nor be entitled to any compensation for the taking thereof under said
5 sections by the removal of any dam or flashboards or by the changing of 6 the height or dimensions of any dam. No water power may be developed 7 in a reclamation district organized under this chapter except by vote of 8 the district and approval by the board.

1922, 349, § 8. 1923, 457, § 11.

1 Section 14C. Whoever obstructs or injures any ditch, tide gate,
2 dike or other structure constructed or used for any purpose authorized
3 by any provision of sections one to fourteen B, inclusive, shall be punished
4 by a fine of not less than ten dollars. The state reclamation board may 5 also recover, in the name of the commonwealth, for any such obstruction
6 or injury, in an action of contract, the amount of the damages sustained
7 by reason thereof, and the provisions of section five A, relative to the dis-8 position of money therein referred to, shall govern the disposition of 9 money recovered in such action.

CONSTRUCTION OF ROADS, ETC., TO SWAMPS, ETC.

1 Section 15. A town or person owning low land, ponds, swamps,
2 quarries, mines or mineral deposits, which, on account of adjacent lands
3 belonging to other persons or occupied as a highway, cannot be ap-4 proached, worked, cultivated, drained or used to advantage in the 5 ordinary manner without crossing such land or highway, may construct 6 roads, drains, ditches, tunnels and railways thereto and, when the con-7 struction of such improvements is required by public convenience and 8 necessity, may take the land of such other persons for the location of 9 such improvements as hereinafter provided.
SECTION 16. A party desiring to make such improvements shall file a petition therefor with the county commissioners for the county where the greater part of the land lies, setting forth the names of the persons interested, if known to the petitioner, and also in detail the nature of the proposed improvement and the situation of the adjoining land. The petitioner shall give such county security satisfactory to the commissioners that he will indemnify such county from all damages and charges which it is obliged to pay by reason thereof.

SECTION 17. The commissioners at their first meeting after the filing of the petition shall order notice of the time and place of meeting, to consider the petition, to be published once in each of three successive weeks in a newspaper, if any, published in the county; otherwise, in a newspaper published in an adjacent county. They shall also give notice thereof to the clerk of each town where the land lies.

SECTION 18. If, after examination, inspection and a hearing, they find that the improvements prayed for are required by the public convenience and necessity they shall so lay out and establish the same as to do as little injury as practicable, and if it is necessary to take private property for such improvements may take it on behalf of such county under chapter seventy-nine. Any person sustaining damage in his property by the laying out or establishment of such improvements shall be entitled to recover the same under said chapter.

SECTION 19. The commissioners shall assess the amount awarded as damages upon the persons for whose use the improvements are to be made, in proportion to the benefit to be received by each; but no person shall be assessed an amount greater than the benefit to be received by him. The provisions of chapter eighty relative to the abatement and collection of betterments shall apply to assessments made under this section.

SECTION 20. If it is necessary to repair an improvement so made, a majority of the persons benefited by it may cause such repairs to be made, and may by bill in equity compel contribution on the basis of the award from the owner of each parcel of land for the use of which the improvement was made.

SECTION 21. If the land mentioned in section fifteen lies entirely in one town, the petition may be made to the mayor and aldermen or selectmen thereof, who shall proceed thereon in all respects as above provided for county commissioners, except that they need not give notice to their town. Such petition shall be filed in the office of the town clerk before proceedings are had thereon; and the petition with the order thereon shall be recorded in said office within two months after the order has been made.

SECTION 22. The mayor and aldermen or selectmen shall each receive two dollars for each day's services upon such petition, and the town clerk shall receive for recording a petition or order thereon the same fees as are provided for registers of deeds by section thirty-eight of chapter two hundred and sixty-two.
1. Section 23. A party aggrieved by the refusal of the mayor and 2 aldermen or selectmen to make such order, may, within one year there 3 after, petition the county commissioners, who shall thereupon proceed 4 in all respects as though the petition had been originally filed with them.

MILLS AND MILL DAMS.

Section 1. A person may, as heretofore provided, erect and maintain a water mill and a dam to raise water for working it, upon and across any stream not navigable.

Section 2. Such dam shall not be erected to the injury of a mill lawfully existing above or below it on the same stream, nor to the injury of a mill site on the same stream on which a mill or mill dam has been lawfully erected and used, unless the right to maintain a mill on such last mentioned site has been lost by abandonment or otherwise; nor shall a mill dam be erected or raised to the injury of any such mill site which has been occupied as such by the owner thereof, if, within a reasonable time after commencing such occupation, he completes and puts in operation a mill for the working of which the water of such stream is applied; nor shall a mill or dam be placed on the land of any person without such grant, conveyance or authority from the owner as would be necessary to convey land.

Section 3. The height to which the water may be raised and the period of time for which it may be kept up in each year may be determined by jury.

Section 4. The owner or occupant of land which has been overflowed or otherwise injured by such dam may obtain compensation therefor if, within three years thereafter, he files a petition in the superior court for the county where the land or any part thereof lies describing the land alleged to have been overflowed or injured and stating the damages sustained so that the record will show with sufficient certainty the matter heard and determined. If the land overflowed or injured is outside the commonwealth such petition shall be filed in the superior court for the county where the dam or any part thereof is maintained.

Section 5. Notice of the filing of such petition shall be given by an officer qualified to serve civil process by delivering, fourteen days at least before the return day thereof, to the owner or occupant of such mill or dam, or leaving at his place of abode, or, if he is not found within the commonwealth and has no place of abode therein, at the mill, an attested copy of the petition.

Section 6. The respondent may answer in bar that he has a right to maintain such dam, that the petitioner has no interest in the land alleged to be flowed or injured or any other matter which may show that the petitioner cannot maintain the petition; but he shall not answer.
5 that the land described is not injured by the dam. If a plea or answer is filed, the subsequent pleadings and the trial shall be conducted as in an action at law.

1 Section 7. If the respondent is defaulted or if the issue is decided in favor of the petitioner, the case shall be tried by a jury; and, if either party requires it, the jury shall, under the direction of the court, view the land alleged to be injured.

1 Section 8. The jury shall assess the amount of damages sustained within three years last preceding the filing of the petition and to the date of their verdict, taking into consideration any damage caused by the dam to other land of the petitioner as well as the damage caused thereby to the land overflowed; and they shall also allow by way of set-off any benefit caused thereby to the petitioner's land. Upon the acceptance and recording of their verdict, judgment and execution shall be issued in accordance therewith.

If it is alleged in the petition that the dam has been raised to an unreasonable height, or that it ought not to be kept up and closed during the whole year, the jury shall determine by their verdict how much the dam shall be lowered and whether it shall be left open, and if so, during what part of the year.

After the expiration of said three months, and until payment of said damages and interest, such owner or occupant shall lose all benefit of the provisions of this chapter.

MILLS, DAMS AND RESERVOIRS.

SECTION 13. If the petitioner does not within said three months make his election, as aforesaid, he and all persons claiming under him shall, so long as the dam is kept up and maintained, be entitled to receive from the owner or occupant of the mill the annual compensation so established by the jury, unless the amount is increased or diminished upon a new petition, as hereinafter provided.

SECTION 14. The person who is entitled to receive said annual compensation or gross damages shall have a lien therefor, from the time of the filing of the original petition, on the mill and mill dam with their appurtenances and on the land under and adjoining the same and used therewith; but such lien shall not extend to any amount due more than three years before the commencement of an action therefor.

SECTION 15. Such person may recover, in contract in the superior court from the person who owns or occupies the mill when the action is brought, the whole amount due and unpaid for the three years last preceding, and costs, although the amount recovered is less than one hundred dollars.

SECTION 16. The execution issued on such judgment, if not otherwise satisfied, may, within thirty days after judgment, be levied on the land so subject to the lien; and the officer may thereupon sell, in the manner provided for the sale of land on execution, such land or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy the execution and the expenses of the levy. Such sale shall be valid against any claim which has accrued within the three years covered by the lien.

SECTION 17. A person who is entitled to the land so sold may redeem the same within one year after the sale, upon paying to the purchaser or to the person holding under him the amount paid therefor, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent a year.

SECTION 18. The party prevailing upon such petition shall be entitled to costs, except as otherwise provided.

SECTION 19. No action shall be maintained at common law for the recovery of damages for the creation, maintenance or use of a mill or mill dam, if a remedy therefor is provided in this chapter.

SECTION 20. This chapter shall not, except as herein expressly provided, affect the right to keep up, maintain and use any lawfully existing water mill and mill dam; but if the owner or occupant thereof makes any material change by raising the dam or by altering the machinery or the manner of using the water, so as to cause additional damage to the land of another, it shall be considered a new mill or dam, in respect to such additional damage, and the remedy for compensation therefor shall be substantially the same as in the case of a new dam.
1 Section 21. If either party is dissatisfied with the annual compensation established by proceedings upon a petition under this chapter or the corresponding provisions of earlier laws, a new petition may be filed for the increase or diminution of such compensation or for ascertaining the gross amount of the damages, and the proceedings shall be conducted substantially in the manner provided for an original petition; but if a petitioner has declined to accept gross damages which have been awarded to him, they shall not be again assessed within ten years thereafter.

1 Section 23. The owner of the mill or dam may, within said month, offer in writing to the owner of the land any increase of said annual compensation; and if the owner of the land does not agree to accept it, but files a new petition to obtain an increase, he shall pay the costs, unless he recovers a greater annual compensation than was so offered.

1 Section 24. The owner of the land may, within said month, offer in writing to the owner of the mill or dam to accept a smaller amount than that established as said annual compensation; and if the owner of the mill or dam does not agree to pay such reduced compensation, but files a new petition to obtain a diminution thereof, he shall pay the costs, unless the annual compensation is reduced by the verdict to an amount less than the offer.

1 Section 25. Such offers may be made by or to the respective tenants or occupants of the land and of the mill or dam, in like manner and with like effect as if made by or to the respective owners, except that no agreement founded thereon shall bind said owners unless made with their consent.

1 Section 26. If the offer so made by either party is accepted by the other, it shall establish the annual compensation to be thereafter paid, as if it had been established by a judgment upon a petition, if a memorandum of such offer and acceptance and of the agreement, signed by the respective parties or by persons authorized by them, is filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the court in which the former judgment was rendered, with a note of reference on the record of the former judgment to the book in which the agreement is recorded.

1 Section 27. If, upon a petition by the owner of the land, the jury return a verdict that he is not entitled to any annual compensation, the judgment thereon shall not bar a new petition for damages alleged to have arisen after such verdict and for compensation for damages therefor after sustained.

Section 28. In every original petition brought by the owner of land alleged to be injured by a mill dam, the respondent may bring into court and there tender any amount which he considers proper to be paid to the petitioner for the damages incurred up to the time of such tender, and may also offer to pay any certain annual compensation for the damages which may be thereafter caused by the dam. If the petitioner does not accept the amount so tendered with his costs to that time, he shall, unless he recovers greater damages or greater annual compensation than was so offered, be entitled to his costs to the time of the tender, and the respondent shall be entitled to his costs after said time.

A petition shall not be abated by the death of any party, but it may be prosecuted or defended by the surviving petitioners or respondents, or by the executor or administrator of the deceased.

Section 32. If a petition is abated or defeated for any matter of form, or if a judgment for the petitioner is reversed for error, the petitioner, or any person claiming under him, may file a new petition for the same cause within one year after the abatement or other determination of the original petition or after the reversal of the judgment, and recover all damages sustained during the three years last preceding or at any time after the filing of the first petition.

Section 33. If a person who owns, erects or maintains a water mill or a dam to raise water for working such mill upon or across a stream not navigable desires to raise, erect or maintain a dam at such a height or in such a manner as to overflow or otherwise injure an existing public way, he may apply by petition to the county commissioners of the county where such way is located, stating the height at which it is desired to maintain such dam and the ways which may be injured thereby, and asking for the alteration, change of grade or specific repairs of such ways.

Section 34. Notice of the hearing upon such petition shall be given to the towns where the ways are situated, and to the owners or occupants of the land affected thereby, in like manner as notice of the laying out of highways is given.
1 Section 35. Said commissioners may, after a hearing, order such alteration, repairs or change of grade of such ways as will in their judgment enable the petitioner to raise, erect and maintain such dam without out overflowing or otherwise injuring such ways, and they may give written direction and authority to the petitioner to make at his own expense such alterations, changes of grade and repairs within a reasonable time. They shall record all such orders and shall cause certified copies thereof to be filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of each town in which such alterations, changes of grade or repairs are ordered.

1 Section 36. The commissioners shall assess and order the petitioner to pay all damages sustained by any person or town by reason of the alterations, changes of grade or repairs ordered by them, and any person aggrieved by such assessment may, on application within one year from the entry of such order, have the damages assessed by a jury in the manner provided in chapter seventy-nine.

1 Section 37. The costs of proceedings under the four preceding sections shall be paid by the petitioners, who may be required by the county commissioners to give bond with sufficient sureties for the payment thereof.

1 Section 38. The order of the county commissioners, duly issued under section thirty-five, shall authorize the petitioner to do all acts necessary to be done in compliance therewith; and if it is shown that the petitioner has substantially complied with such order, no indictment shall be maintained for the flowage of, or injury to, the ways mentioned in such order, which may be caused by the dam.

CRANBERRY LAND AND ICE PONDS.

1 Section 39. An owner or lessee of land appropriated or which he desires to appropriate to the cultivation and growth of cranberries may erect and maintain a dam upon and across a stream to flow and irrigate said land, subject to this chapter so far as applicable; but he shall not erect and maintain a dam across a navigable stream or across the outlet of a great pond, without a license therefor from the department of public works.

1 Section 40. If a dam has been so erected or maintained or if a person has at his own expense made, kept open or repaired any ditches or drains for the improvement or cultivation of such tract of land, any owner or lessee of a like tract, who uses such dam, ditches or drains or who by more remote means receives benefit thereby for the flowage, irrigating or draining of such last mentioned tract, shall pay to the person who has erected or maintained such dam or incurred such expense his proportionate part thereof, which shall be determined by the aldermen of the city or the selectmen of the town and certified to such owner or lessee. Any person aggrieved by such determination may within three months after notice thereof appeal therefrom to the superior court for the county where the dam, ditches or drains are situated, and shall be entitled to a jury trial; but before taking his appeal he shall give one month's notice, in writing, to the aldermen or selectmen of his intention so to appeal, and shall therein specify particularly his objections to the determination, to which specification he shall be confined upon the hearing by jury. If such owner or lessee fails to pay to the person entitled such proportionate part as finally determined, within said three months if there is no appeal, otherwise within seven days after final determination, he shall pay double the amount so determined with all expenses arising from such failure; and such person may recover the same in contract in his own name. But no covenants or agreements by or between the owners or lessees of such land shall be affected by this section.

SECTION 41. An owner or lessee of land used for an ice pond may erect and, between November first and March first, maintain a dam across a stream not navigable, for the purpose of making an ice pond by flowing adjoining land, subject to this chapter so far as applicable, if he annually pays to the owner of land which may be overflowed or injured thereby the amount of the tax which may from time to time be assessed on such land; but such dam shall not be erected without the consent of all of the owners of the land which would be overflowed by it, unless the person proposing to erect it shall furnish to such owners as do not consent to the erection security, satisfactory to them or approved by a justice of a court of record or by a master in chancery, for the payment of any damages which may be caused by flowing the land of such owners.

DAMS OF RESERVOIR CORPORATIONS.

SECTION 42. A domestic reservoir corporation may flow the land of other persons by its reservoir dam, and a person whose land or property has been flowed or injured by such dam, unless compensation has been otherwise made, may obtain compensation therefor as provided in this chapter.

SECTION 43. The court in which a petition for such compensation is pending shall, if requested by the petitioner, require such corporation to give satisfactory security for the payment of all damages and costs which may be awarded thereto, and if, upon petition and notice to the corporation, the court finds that the security has become insufficient, it shall require the corporation to give further security. If the corporation neglects for one month or for such further time as the court allows to comply with any such order, it shall lose all rights under this chapter, and the court may restrain it from flowing or injuring such land or property until such security has been given.

SAFETY OF RESERVOIRS AND DAMS.

SECTION 44. A reservoir, reservoir dam or mill dam shall not be constructed or materially altered until plans and specifications of the proposed work have been filed with and approved by the county commissioners of the county where it is situated. Said commissioners shall retain and record such plans and specifications and shall inspect the work during its progress; and if at any time it appears that the plans and specifications are not faithfully adhered to, they may appoint an inspector to be constantly engaged at the expense of the owners in the supervision of the work. Upon a refusal of the owners or of their agents 10 to adhere to said plans and specifications, said inspector may order the 11 discontinuance of the work. This and the six following sections shall 12 not apply to small dams, constructed for irrigation or for other purposes, 13 the breaking of which would involve no risk to life or property, nor to 14 standpipes or tanks, nor to a dam where the area draining into the pond
15 formed thereby does not exceed one square mile, unless the dam is more 16 than ten feet in height above the natural bed of the stream at any point 17 or unless the quantity of water which the dam impounds exceeds one 18 million gallons.

1 Section 45. The county commissioners shall, as often as once in 2 two years, cause a thorough examination to be made of every reservoir, 3 reservoir dam and mill dam by the breaking of which loss of life or 4 damage to a road or bridge is likely to be caused, and they shall at any 5 time cause such examination to be made upon written application by 6 the mayor and aldermen of a city or the selectmen of a town where such 7 damage is likely to be caused. Any party whose property is likely to 8 be damaged by the breaking of any such structure may make a written 9 application to the commissioners, setting forth the facts and the owner-10 ship of such structure which is believed to be unsafe, and the commis-11 sioners may thereupon cause said structure to be examined. If upon 12 examination the structure is deemed safe, the costs of such application 13 and examination may be ordered paid by the party making the applica-14 tion. The commissioners shall cause every examination to be made 15 by a competent engineer who shall report to them in writing whether 16 he considers the structure safe and in good condition, and if not, its 17 condition in detail and the work or the chances required for safety and 18 the public good. The engineer shall be allowed by the commissioners a 19 reasonable compensation for his services which shall be paid by the 20 county in the first instance. Ownership of the structure shall be ascer-21 tained and, so far as possible, examinations shall be made in co-operation 22 with the owner or his agent.

1 Section 46. If, upon such examination, the structure is not, in the 2 judgment of the commissioners, sufficiently strong to resist the action
3 of the water under any circumstances which may reasonably be expected 4 to occur, they shall, with the advice of an engineer, determine and 5 direct what alterations or repairs are required to make the structure 6 permanent and secure, and shall in writing order the owners thereof to 7 make such alterations or repairs within a reasonable time, and the re-8 sults of such examination and the orders thereon shall be duly recorded 9 by said commissioners.

1 Section 47. If, after notice in writing to the owner of a reservoir or 2 dam which has been so examined and adjudged to be unsafe, the said
3 owner refuses or neglects to make such alterations or repairs as the 4 commissioners order, they may, at the expense of the county, cause
5 such reservoir or dam to be altered and repaired or any part thereof
6 removed or the water drawn off, whichever they may consider necessary 7 for the safety of life, property, roads or bridges on the stream below;
8 After such removal, no structure shall be erected except in compliance
9 with the three preceding sections, and after the water has been drawn 10 off, the reservoir shall not be filled again until the orders of the com-11 missioners have been complied with.
SECTION 48. The commissioners shall make such orders as they may deem just as to the payment by the owner, county or other party of the costs and expenses incurred by them under the three preceding sections, and if the reservoir or dam was adjudged to be unsafe, said costs and expenses may be ordered paid by the owner, with interest, from the time they were paid by the county. Notice shall be given the county treasurer and the owner or other party of the amount due the county.

SECTION 49. No order, approval, request or advice of the county commissioners shall impair the legal duties and obligations of the owners of reservoirs, reservoir dams or mill dams or their liability for the consequences of their illegal acts or of the neglect or mismanagement of their servants or agents.

SECTION 50. The supreme judicial and the superior courts shall have jurisdiction in equity to enforce the six preceding sections.

REPAIRING AND REBUILDING MILLS AND MILL DAMS.

SECTION 51. If a mill which is owned by joint tenants or tenants in common, or the dam or appurtenances of such mill, require repairs or rebuilding in whole or in part, and all the proprietors do not agree to join therein, a majority in interest of the proprietors may cause the work to be done at the expense of the whole in proportion to their respective interests.

SECTION 52. One or more of the proprietors may call a meeting by a notice signed by the person or persons who call it, addressed to each of the other proprietors, stating that the mill, dam or appurtenances require repairs or rebuilding and that their attendance is requested at a meeting of the proprietors thereof at the mill at a time named to consult and agree upon the measures to be taken for such purpose.

SECTION 53. The notice shall be served by an officer qualified to serve civil process by delivering an attested copy thereof to each proprietor, or by leaving such copy at his last and usual place of abode, not less than seven nor more than thirty days before the day appointed for the meeting, and such officer's return, specifying the persons on whom he has served the notice and the time and manner of the service on each, shall be sufficient evidence thereof.

SECTION 54. At such meeting, or at any adjournment thereof, the majority in interest of the proprietors of the mill may take measures to cause the mill or the dam or appurtenances thereof to be repaired or rebuilt, as they shall consider most for the interest of all concerned therein.

SECTION 55. Each proprietor shall, upon demand, after the work is completed, pay to the proprietors by whom it has been advanced his just and equal part of the expense of such repair or rebuilding, in proportion to his share or interest in the mill, with interest from the time of the advance.
1 Section 56. The proprietors who advance the money so expended shall have a lien therefor on the rents and profits of the mill and may retain so much thereof as belongs to any proprietor indebted to them for such advance, to be applied to the payment of his debt; or they may maintain an action for the debt or for as much thereof as has not been received from the rents and profits.

1 Section 57. The guardian of a proprietor may act for him in calling or attending a meeting of the proprietors, and may there vote and do all such other acts as the ward could do if competent to act.

1 Section 58. The bond shall describe the land in such detail as is required in a common conveyance of land, and shall be in form substantially as follows:

The bond may be enforced by a bill in equity in the superior court brought by any party in interest. The petitioner shall bring his bill in his own behalf and in behalf of all other persons in interest who shall become parties. A copy of the subpoena shall be filed and recorded in the registry of deeds.

Section 13. The rights of an attaching creditor shall not prevail as against a lien under section one, nor against the claim of a lienor where notice or notices of contract have been filed or recorded in the registry of deeds under sections two and four prior to the recording of the attachment.

An attachment recorded prior to the filing or recording of the notice of contract shall prevail against a lien, other than for personal labor, to the extent of the value of the buildings and land as they were at the time when the labor was commenced or the material furnished for the construction thereof, or such part thereof as may be necessary, shall be applied upon his execution, and the residue, if any, shall be disposed of in the same manner as if there had been no such attachment. If the interest of the owner of the property is attached after the filing of the notice, the proceeds of any sale of the property under said section eighteen, after discharging all prior liens and claims, shall be applied to satisfy the execution of the attaching creditor, provided the lienor or the officer making the sale has actual notice of the attachment. Several attaching creditors as between themselves shall be paid according to the order of their attachments.

It shall be recorded, and may then be taken from the registry by the obligee.

Section 15. If it appears to the court that no person is entitled to a lien, or that every lien has been discharged by payment thereof, the court shall forthwith cause a decree to be entered to the effect that the lien is dissolved, and a certificate to that effect shall be sent forthwith by the clerk to the register of deeds. Such certificate shall be filed and recorded in the manner provided in sections eight and nine.
SECTION 16. The court shall determine all claims in a summary manner according to equity procedure but without abridging the right of jury trial.

CONDITIONAL SALES.

SECTION 11. Except as otherwise provided in chapter one hundred and fifty-nine, if a contract for the sale of personal property is made on condition that the title thereto shall not pass until the purchase money has been fully paid and the vendor upon default takes from the vendee possession of the property, the vendee may, within fifteen days after such taking, redeem the property so taken by paying to the vendor the full amount then unpaid, with interest and all lawful charges and expenses due to the vendor.

Redemption in case of default.
1854, 222.
P. S. 192, § 13.
R. L. 198, § 11.
254 Mass. 144.
1. Section 12. Such contracts for the sale of furniture or other house-
2. hold effects in the form of a lease or otherwise shall be in writing and a
3. copy thereof shall be furnished to the vendee by the vendor at the time
4. of such sale; and all payments made by or in behalf of the vendee and
5. all charges in the nature of interest or otherwise, as they accrue, shall, if
6. the vendee so requests, be endorsed by the vendor or his agent upon such
7. copy. A failure of the vendor through negligence or mismanagement with any
8. provision of this section shall suspend his rights under the contract while
9. the failure continues. His refusal or willful or fraudulent failure so to
10. comply shall be a waiver by him of the condition of the sale.

1. Section 13. Thirty days at least before taking possession of said
2. furniture or effects for default of the vendee, the vendor shall demand in
3. writing of the vendee or other person in charge of said furniture or effects
4. the balance then due, and shall furnish to said vendee or other person an
5. itemized statement of the account showing the amount due therein.
6. If said vendee or other person can by the exercise of reasonable care and
7. diligence be found by the vendor, the fifteen days during which his right
8. of redemption exists under section eleven shall not begin to run until
9. said demand has been made, said statement furnished and said thirty
10. days have expired. If seventy-five per cent or more of the contract price
11. has been paid by a vendee whose right of redemption has expired, the
12. furniture or effects shall, if the vendee or his legal representative in writ-
13. ing so requests the vendor, be sold by public auction after due advertise-
14. ment, which shall be published at least three days prior to the sale in one
15. of the principal newspapers, if any, published in the town, otherwise in
16. one of the principal newspapers published in the county, where the furni-
17. ture or effects are situated. If the vendor refuses or neglects to make
18. the sale as provided herein, the right of redemption shall not be fore-
19. closed. If a balance of the proceeds of the sale remains after deducting
20. the actual expenses of the sale by auction and paying from said proceeds
21. to the vendor the balance of the contract price due him, it shall be paid
22. to the vendee or his legal representative.

LIENS ON VESSELS.

1. Section 14. If by virtue of a contract, express or implied, with the
2. owners of a vessel or with the agents, contractors or sub-contractors of
3. such owners, or with any of them, or with a person who has been em-
4. ployed to construct, repair or launch a vessel or to assist therein, money
5. is due for labor performed, materials used or labor and materials furnished
6. in the construction, launching or repairs of, or in the construction of the
7. launching ways for, or for provisions, stores or other articles furnished
8. for or on account of such vessel in the commonwealth, the person to whom
9. such money is due shall have a lien upon the vessel, her tackle, apparel
10. and furniture to secure the payment of such debt, and such lien shall be
11. preferred to all others on such vessel, except that for mariners' wages, and
12. shall continue until the debt is satisfied.

- 157 Mass. 523.
- 167 U. S. 696.

* [See U. S. Comp. Sts. §§ 7783-7787.]

1. Section 15. Such lien shall be dissolved unless the person claiming
2. it within thirty days after the vessel departs from the port at which she
3. was when the debt was contracted, files in the office of the clerk of the
151. Section 16. A place in which the vessel is wholly or partly constructed shall be held to be the port where she was when the debt was contracted. The lien shall not be affected by any inaccuracy in the description of the vessel, if she can be recognized thereby, nor in stating the amount due for labor or materials, unless it is found that the person filing the statement has knowingly claimed more than is due.

151. Section 17. A person having such lien, unless the contract described in section fourteen is a maritime contract and the enforcement of the lien is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, may enforce the lien by a bill in equity in the superior court for the county where the vessel was at the time when the debt was contracted or where she is at the time of filing the bill. The subsequent proceedings shall, except as hereinafter provided, be as prescribed in chapter two hundred and fifty-four so far as applicable. Upon the filing of the petition, a process of attachment against such vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, shall issue, and the attachment may be dissolved as in a civil action, but such dissolution shall not dissolve the lien.

151. Section 18. The bill shall contain a brief statement of the labor, materials or work done or furnished, or of the stores, provisions or other articles furnished, and of the amount due therefor, with a description of the vessel which is subject to the lien, and all other material facts and circumstances, and shall prayed that the vessel may be sold and the proceeds of the sale applied to the discharge of the debt.

[See U. S. Comp. Sts. §§ 7783-7787.]

151. Section 19. Two or more persons having such liens upon the same vessel may join in one bill in equity to enforce them, and the proceedings shall be the same and the respondent may defend as to each petitioner as if each had filed a separate bill.

151. Section 20. If money is due to more than one person holding such lien and all parties interested have been cited to appear and answer, the claims of all shall be marshalled, and the court shall make such order or decree as may be necessary to prevent the enforcement of a double lien for the same labor, materials, stores, provisions or other articles, and to...
6 secure the rights of each. The proceeds from the sale of the vessel, after 7 deducting all costs and expenses, shall be distributed among the several 8 claimants according to the amount of their respective debts, except that, 9 if such proceeds are insufficient to satisfy the liens of all, those who have 10 liens for labor shall receive a percentage on their respective claims one 11 third greater, as near as may be, than those who have liens for materials, 12 stores or other articles.

1 Section 21. If a contractor or sub-contractor unreasonably neglects
2 or refuses to pay for labor procured by him to be performed in construct-3 ing, repairing or launching a vessel upon which a lien exists therefor and 4 the owner or other person who made the agreement with such contractor 5 or sub-contractor pays the debt secured by the lien, he shall have the 6 same claim against such contractor or sub-contractor as if the lien had 7 been enforced by judgment.

[See U. S. Comp. Sts §§ 7785-7787.]

[See U. S. Comp. Sts §§ 7785-7787.]

OTHER LIENS.

1 Section 23. Boarding house or lodging house keepers shall have a lien on the baggage and effects brought to their houses and belonging to their guests, boarders or lodgers, except mariners, for all proper charges due for fare and board or lodging, which may be enforced as provided in sections twenty-six to thirty, inclusive.

1807, 292.  10 Allen, 360.  115 Mass. 70.

1 Section 24. Persons having proper charges due them for pasturing, boarding or keeping horses or other domestic animals which are brought to their premises or placed in their care by or with the consent of the owners thereof shall have a lien on such animals for such charges.

1877, 66.  1878, 208.  1898, 46.  1913, 300, § 1.

1 Section 25. Persons maintaining public garages for the storage and care of motor vehicles brought to their premises or placed in their care by or with the consent of the owners thereof shall have a lien upon such motor vehicles for proper charges due them for the storage and care of the same.

161 Mass. 512.  268 Mass. 582.

1 Section 26. A person who has a lien, which is not described in sections fourteen to twenty-two, inclusive, or in chapter two hundred and fifty-four, for money due to him on account of work and labor, storage, care and diligence, or money expended on or about personal property under a contract express or implied, if such money is not paid, in the case of a lien described in section twenty-four or twenty-five within ten days, or in other cases within sixty days, after a demand in writing delivered to the debtor or left at his usual place of abode, if within the commonwealth, or mailed postpaid to him at his usual place of abode without the commonwealth, may file a petition in the superior court or in a district court within the jurisdiction of which the petitioner resides or has his usual place of business for an order for the sale of the property in satisfaction of the debt.

SECTION 27. The court shall thereupon issue a notice to the owner of the property to appear at a time and place designated, which shall be served by an officer qualified to serve civil process or by a disinterested person by delivering to the owner or by leaving at his usual place of abode, if within the commonwealth, a copy thereof seven days before the hearing in proceedings to enforce liens described in section twenty-four or twenty-five or fourteen days before the hearing in other cases.
The return, if not made by an officer, shall be on oath.

SECTION 28. If the owner or his usual place of abode is unknown, the petition may be filed sixty days after the money becomes due, and the notice describing the property may be issued "to the unknown owner", or to the owner, naming him, "whose usual place of abode is unknown".
If the owner resides out of the commonwealth or he or his usual place of abode is unknown, the notice may be given by publication, as provided in section five.

SECTION 29. If, upon default or a hearing, it is found that a lien exists upon the property and that the property ought to be sold for the satisfaction of the debt, the court may make an order for such sale, determine and record the amount then due and award costs to the prevailing party. Any proceeds of the sale remaining after satisfying the debt, costs and charges, shall be paid to the owner upon demand.

SECTION 30. [Repealed, 1931, 426, § 123.]

SECTION 31. The eight preceding sections shall not restrict the right of a person who has a lien upon property to hold or dispose of it in any other lawful manner.

SECTION 31A. A lien on account of work, labor and materials furnished in the spinning, throwing, manufacturing, bleaching, mercerizing, dyeing, printing, finishing or otherwise processing of cotton, wool, silk or artificial silk, or of goods of which cotton, wool, silk or artificial silk forms a component part, as against goods in the lienor's possession, shall extend to any unpaid balance of account for work, labor and materials furnished in the course of any such process in respect of any other such goods of the same owner whereof the lienor's possession has terminated.
The word "owner", as used in this and in the following section, shall include a factor, consignee or other agent intrusted with the possession of the goods held under said lien or of a bill of lading consigning the same at his place of business to sell the same, and delivered by such factor, or agent or consignee to the lienor for the purposes aforesaid.

SECTION 31B. If any part of the amount for which goods are held under said lien remains unpaid for a period of three months after the 3 earliest item of said amount became due and payable, the lienor may sell 4 said goods at public auction, first publishing a notice of the time and place
5 of said sale once in each of two successive weeks in a newspaper published 6 in the town, if any, otherwise in the county, in which said goods are 7 situated, the last publication to be not less than five days prior to the 8 sale, and also giving five days' notice of said sale by posting in five or 9 more public places in said county, one whereof shall be in the town or 10 city ward in which said goods are situated, and, if the residence or busi-11 ness address of the owner of said goods is known or can be ascertained, 12 sending by registered mail a copy of such notice to said owner at such 13 address at least five days before the day of sale; provided, that if said 14 goods are readily divisible, no more thereof shall be so sold than is 15 necessary to discharge the underlying indebtedness and cover the ex-16 penses of the sale. The proceeds of said sale shall be applied to the 17 payment of said indebtedness and said expenses, and the balance, if 18 any, shall be paid to the owner or person entitled thereto. The remedy 19 herein provided to enforce said lien shall be in addition to any other 20 provided by law.

1 Section 31C. A person engaged in performing work upon any watch,
2 clock, silverware or jewelry for a price shall have a lien upon such watch,
3 clock, silverware or jewelry for the amount of any account that may be 4 due for such work: provided, that he gives to the person delivering to 5 him such watch, clock, silverware or jewelry a receipt for the same having 6 printed thereon in clear legible type a copy of this section. Such lien
7 shall also include the value or agreed price, if any, of all materials furnished 8 by the lienor in connection with such work, whether added to such 9 article or articles or otherwise. If any such account remains unpaid for 10 one year after the completion of the work, the lienor may, upon thirty 11 days' notice in writing to the owner specifying the amount due and in-12 forming him that payment of such amount within thirty days will 13 entitle him to redeem the article or articles covered by such lien, sell the 14 same at public or bona fide private sale to satisfy the account. The 15 proceeds of the sale, after paying the expenses thereof, shall be applied 16 in satisfaction of the indebtedness secured by such lien and the balance, 17 if any, shall be paid over to the owner. Such notice may be served by 18 mail, directed to the owner's last known address, or, if the owner or his 19 address be unknown, it may be posted in two public places in the town 20 where the property is located. The remedy herein provided to enforce 21 such lien shall be in addition to any other provided by law.

1 Section 32. Liens claimed by public warehousemen and others
2 upon personal property for storage thereof, by innkeepers, boarding house
3 keepers and lodging house keepers upon the baggage and effects of guests, 4 boarders or lodgers, by stable keepers and others for the boarding, keeping 5 or pasturage of horses or other domestic animals, by persons maintaining 6 public garages for the storage and care of motor vehicles, by agents, con-
7 signees and factors for advances, disbursements or expenses upon mer-
8 chandise, by attorneys at law upon books, papers, documents or other 9 personal property, and by any other persons for money due to them on 10 account of work and labor, care and diligence, or money expended on or 11 about personal property under a contract express or implied, may, ex-12 cept as otherwise provided in section thirty-four, be dissolved as pro-13 vided in the following section.
SECTION 33. A person who owns or has an interest in any personal property upon which such a lien has been claimed may, at any time after a petition is brought for its enforcement and before the property is lawfully sold to satisfy said lien, dissolve the lien upon his interest in the whole or any part of said property by giving bond to the person claiming the lien, with sufficient sureties, who shall be approved in writing by the claimant or by his attorney, or by a justice of a district court or master in chancery, conditioned to pay to such person within thirty days after the final judgment or order of sale of said property or the interest therein or part thereof for which said bond may be given, an amount fixed as the value of said interest or such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount for which said interest or part thereof may be subject to said lien. The property upon which the lien is to be dissolved shall be described in the bond. If the parties do not agree as to the value of the property or of the part to be released from said lien, the value may be determined in accordance with the provisions of sections one hundred and twenty-five and one hundred and twenty-six of chapter two hundred and twenty-three. If the said property, or the part to be released from said lien, consists of books, papers, documents or other similar property and the parties do not agree upon the amount for which said bond shall be given, it may be fixed in like manner at such amount as may be reasonable, giving due consideration to the amount for which said lien is claimed, and upon the delivery of the bond in accordance with the provisions hereof the lien upon the property described therein shall be dissolved. The person claiming a lien upon said personal property shall, upon demand therefor, furnish the person owning or having an interest in said property with a statement of the amount and reasons, or other considerations, for which the lien is claimed.

SECTION 34. The lien of a bailee of personal property exceeding twenty dollars in value to secure a claim for which he has a lien, shall, if the amount of such claim has been agreed upon or otherwise established, terminate upon tender, at any time before the property is lawfully sold to satisfy the lien, by the bailor or upon his behalf, or by any other person otherwise having the right of possession, of a bond in a penal sum equal to twice the amount of such claim, signed by a surety company qualified to act in the commonwealth, or by sureties approved by a justice of a district court or a master in chancery in the county where the property is held, and conditioned to pay the amount found due on such claim to the bailee within thirty days after final judgment, or order of sale of such property. In any suit to recover any such property held to secure such a claim, a bond as described herein shall satisfy the requirements of section eight of chapter two hundred and forty-seven.

SECTION 35. As against a conditional vendor or lessor, or person claiming under him, the lien of a bailee of the vendee or lessee or person claiming under him on property exceeding twenty dollars in value, for consideration furnished, without actual notice of the conditional sale or lease, shall prevail; provided, that the property was delivered to the bailee prior to the breach of any condition of the sale or lease.

SECTION 36. If personal property exceeding twenty dollars in value is detained from the owner, or person otherwise entitled to its posses-
3 sion, under the claim of a lien, and the contract under which the alleged 4 claim arose did not specifically state in writing the aggregate amount of 5 charges to accrue for the services or materials to be furnished, the owner 6 or such other person may cause the said property to be replevied in the 7 manner and subject to the provisions set forth in sections seven to twenty-8 two, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and forty-seven, so far as the 9 same may be applicable, except as is otherwise provided in the three 10 following sections.

1 Section 37. Before the officer serving the writ delivers the goods to 2 the plaintiff he shall take from the plaintiff, or from a person acting in 3 his behalf, a bond payable to the defendant in such sum and with such 4 surety or sureties as may be satisfactory to the defendant, or as may be 5 approved by a justice of a district court or a master in chancery in the 6 county where the action is brought. If the sureties are to be so approved, 7 the officer who serves the writ shall give written notice to the defendant
8 or to the person from whose custody the property has been taken, stating 9 the time and place of hearing thereon and the names and residences of the 10 proposed sureties, allowing not less than one hour before the time ap-11 pointed for the hearing and at the rate of one hour additional for each 12 mile of travel. The amount of the bond required shall not exceed twice 13 the sum for which a lien is claimed by the defendant. If the defendant 14 or his agent or attorney does not appear in person, and does not state in 15 writing the amount of his claim, no bond shall be required.

1 Section 38. If the court finds that the defendant has a lien on the 2 property but that the defendant is not otherwise entitled to possession 3 of the property, judgment shall be rendered for the defendant for the 4 amount due under the contract, together with, or deducting, costs as 5 determined by the following section. Upon payment of this amount 6 to the defendant the bond provided for in the preceding section shall be 7 held satisfied, and shall be delivered to the plaintiff.

1 Section 39. In actions of replevin brought under section thirty-six, the 2 costs shall be taxed against the plaintiff in cases where the court decides 3 that the claim of the defendant for which he asserted a lien was no greater 4 than the amount due under the contract. In all other cases costs shall be 5 taxed against the defendant.
RECOGNIZANCES FOR DEBTS.

6. Death of conusor.

Sect. 7. Death of one of several conusors or conuses.
8. Limitation of time for issue of original execution.

Be it remembered that on this day of , personally appeared before and acknowledged himself to be indebted to of in the sum of to be paid to said on the day of (or in years, or in months, from this day) with interest from this day; and, if not then paid, to be levied upon his goods, chattels, lands and tenements, and, for want thereof, upon his body. In witness whereof said hath hereto set his hand.

The clause as to the payment of interest may be altered or omitted according to the agreement of the parties; but, unless the recognizance otherwise expressly provides, interest shall be allowed for any delay after the time for payment.

SECTION 2. The recognizance shall be attested by the clerk of the court, shall be recorded at length in a book kept for the purpose and the original shall then be delivered to the conusor. It shall not be taken unless the justice who takes it knows or has satisfactory evidence that the person offering to enter into it is the person whom he represents himself to be and who is described as the conusor.

SECTION 3. If the debt is not paid at the time named in the recognizance, the court may issue an execution in favor of the conusor for the amount due, which shall be directed, served and returned in like manner and have like effect as an execution issued upon a judgment of said court. Such execution may be levied and shall be obeyed in any county to which it is directed. The conusor shall be entitled to an alias and other successive executions as in a civil action.

SECTION 4. Before such execution issues, the original recognizance shall be filed with the clerk, who shall compute the amount, deducting any payments endorsed, and shall issue an execution therefor in common form except that it shall recite the recognizance and state the amount then due. Such execution may be issued by the clerk without a special order of the court.

1 Section 7. If one or more of several conusees or conusors dies before the debt is satisfied, the rights and obligations of the survivors and the proceedings for the recovery of the debt shall be substantially the same as in the case of the death of one or more joint judgment creditors or debtors.

1 Section 8. No original execution shall issue as of course upon such recognizance after the expiration of three years from the time therein named for payment of the debt or from the time of the last payment endorsed thereon, but the conusor or his executor or administrator may after that time have a scire facias or an action of contract on it against the party liable, in like manner and with like effect as upon a judgment.

1 Section 9. A person who is injured by the wrongful issue or levy of an execution under this chapter may have a writ of audita querela or other remedy as if the execution had been issued upon a judgment; and, except as otherwise expressly provided, the parties to such recognizance and their representatives shall be entitled and liable to the remedies provided for judgment creditors and debtors.

Section 5. If a defendant brings money into court and offers it in satisfaction of the damages, the plaintiff shall in all cases recover the costs which had previously accrued.

Section 6. The prevailing party in a real action or in replevin shall recover costs irrespective of the amount of damages recovered.

Section 7. A plaintiff who brings several actions in the same or in different courts against the same defendant upon causes of action which might have been joined in one action, or who brings separate actions against defendants who might have been joined, shall recover costs in one action only, unless the court, after a hearing, otherwise orders.

Section 8. If two or more cases are tried together in the supreme judicial court, in the superior court or in a district court, the presiding justice may reduce the witness fees and other costs; but not less than the ordinary witness fees and other costs recoverable in one of the cases which are so tried together shall be allowed.

Section 9. If a verdict is rendered for the plaintiff upon one or more counts upon several and distinct causes of action, and for the defendant upon any other, each party shall recover costs for the travel and attendance of witnesses, for depositions and for other evidence produced, examined or used on the trial of the counts upon which the verdict is in his favor, but shall not recover for the like charges incurred on the trial of the other counts.

Section 10. 4 of the taxable costs shall be doubled or trebled.

1 Section 12. In suits in equity in which, as to one or more of the 2 defendants, the plaintiff seeks merely for a discovery of facts which are 3 material to his rights and interests in a pending or anticipated suit, and 4 not for a decree against them, the court shall allow such defendants all 5 their reasonable costs and expenditures, according to the usual course of 6 proceedings in equity in like cases, and likewise although the plaintiff
7 prays for a decree, if the court is satisfied that the prayer is frivolous, a 8 mere pretence, or is not essentially connected with the subject matter of 9 the discovery.

1 Section 13. In suits in equity and in other civil actions and pro-
2 ceedings in which no provision is expressly made by law, the costs shall 3 be wholly in the discretion of the court, but no greater amount shall be

1 Section 15. A private person at whose relation, for whose use or 2 in whose behalf an action or proceeding is commenced in the name of the 3 commonwealth or of the attorney general shall be liable for costs, as if 4 it had been begun in his own name.

SECTION 50. No officer in attendance on any court, sheriff, deputy sheriff, jailer, constable, city marshal or other police officer who receives a salary or an allowance by the day or hour from the commonwealth or from a county, city or town shall, except as otherwise hereinafter provided, be paid any fee or extra compensation for official services performed by him in any criminal case; or for aid rendered to another officer; or for testifying as a witness in a criminal case during the time for which he receives such salary or allowance; or for services or as a witness at an autopsy or inquest; or in proceedings for commitment of insane persons; but his expenses, necessarily and actually incurred, and 10 actually disbursed by him in a criminal case tried in the superior court, shall, except as provided in section fifty-two, be paid by the county where the trial is held, or in a criminal case tried in a district court or before a trial justice, by the town where the crime was committed. SECTION 61. A sheriff, deputy sheriff or other officer who takes the certificates of witnesses in criminal cases shall not purchase or discount or have any interest in orders drawn or demands upon the treasury by such witnesses.

Such complaint, indictment or action shall be commenced within two years after the offence is committed.

CRIMES, PUNISHMENTS AND PROCEEDINGS IN CRIMINAL CASES.

CRIMES AND PUNISHMENTS.

CHAPTER 263. RIGHTS OF PERSONS ACCUSED OF CRIME.

Section 1. Whoever is arrested by virtue of process, or whoever is taken into custody by an officer, has a right to know from the officer who arrests or claims to detain him the true ground on which the arrest is made; and an officer who refuses to answer a question relative to the reason for such arrest, or answers such question untruly, or assigns to the person arrested an untrue reason for the arrest, or neglects upon request to exhibit to the person arrested, or to any other person acting in his behalf, the precept by virtue of which such arrest has been made, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

SECTION 2. An officer who arrests or takes into or detains in custody a person, pretending to have a process if he has none, or pretending to have a different process from that which he has, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

SECTION 3. No action, except for use of excessive force, shall lie against any officer other than the arresting officer, by reason of the fact that, in good faith and in the performance of his duties, he participates in the arrest or imprisonment of any person believed to be guilty of a crime unless it can be shown that such other officer in the performance of his duties took an active part in the arrest or imprisonment as aforesaid, either by ordering or directing that said arrest or imprisonment take place or be made, or by actually initiating the making and carrying out of said arrest and imprisonment. No action, except for use of excessive force, shall lie against any bystander assisting an officer in making an arrest, at the request of the officer.

SECTION 4. No person shall be held to answer in any court for an alleged crime, except upon an indictment by a grand jury or upon a complaint before a district court or trial justice or in proceedings before a court-martial.

SECTION 5. A person accused of crime shall at his trial be allowed to be heard by counsel, to defend himself, to produce witnesses and proofs in his favor and to meet the witnesses produced against him face to face.

SECTION 6. A person indicted for a crime shall not be convicted thereof except by confessing his guilt in open court, by admitting the truth of the charge against him by his plea or demurrer or by the verdict of a jury accepted and recorded by the court or, in any criminal case other than a capital case, by judgment of the court rendered as hereinafter provided. Any defendant in the superior court in a criminal case other than a capital case, whether begun by indictment or upon complaint, may, if he shall so elect, when called upon to plead, or later and before a jury has been impanelled to try him upon such indictment or complaint, waive his right to trial by jury by signing a written waiver thereof and filing the same with the clerk of the court, whereupon he shall be tried by the court instead of by a jury, but not, however, unless all the defendants, if there are two or more, shall have exercised such election before a jury has been impanelled to try any of the defendants; and in every such case the court shall have jurisdiction to hear and try such cause and render judgment and sentence thereon.

SECTION 7. A person shall not be held to answer on a second indictment or complaint for a crime of which he has been acquitted upon the facts and merits; but he may plead such acquittal in bar of any subsequent prosecution for the same crime, notwithstanding any defect in the form or substance of the indictment or complaint on which he was acquitted.

SECTION 8. If a person has been acquitted by reason of a variance
2 between the indictment or complaint and the proof, or by reason of a 3 defect of form or substance in the indictment or complaint, he may be 4 again arraigned, tried and convicted for the same crime on a new indict-
5 ment or complaint, notwithstanding such former acquittal.

SECTION 23. If a person makes oath before a district court or a trial justice that he suspects or has probable cause to suspect that a house or other building, room or place is used as and for a common gaming house, for gaming for money or other property, or is occupied, used or kept for promoting a lottery, or for the sale of lottery tickets, or for promoting the game known as policy lottery or policy, or for the buying or selling of pools or registering of bets upon any race, game, contest, act or event, and that persons resort thereto for any such purpose, such court or trial justice, whether the names of the persons last mentioned are known to the complainant or not, shall, if satisfactory evidence is presented, issue a warrant commanding the sheriff or his deputy or any constable or police officer to enter such house, building, room or place, and to arrest the keepers thereof, all persons in any way assisting in keeping the same, whether as janitor, doorkeeper, watchman or otherwise, all persons who are there found participating in any form of gaming and all persons present whether so participating or not, if any lottery, policy or pool tickets, slips, checks, manifold books or sheets, memoranda of any bet, or other implements, apparatus or materials of any form of gaming are found in said place, and to take into their custody all the implements, apparatus or materials of gaming, as aforesaid, and all the personal property, furniture and fixtures there found, and to keep said persons, implements, apparatus or materials, property, furniture and fixtures so that they may be forthcoming before some court or magistrate to be dealt with according to law. The provisions of chapter two hundred and seventy-six relative to disposal of gaming articles seized upon search warrants shall apply to all articles and property seized as herein provided for.

1 Section 24. This chapter shall not authorize the arrest or conviction of the owner or proprietor of a race track or trotting course for the reason that another person has without his knowledge or consent violated any of its provisions relative to the buying and selling of pools or the registering or making of bets or to any offense mentioned in the preceding section; nor the arrest or conviction of a person for being present on a race track or trotting course where pools are sold or bets registered or made on trials of speed or endurance between horses or other animals; but this exception shall not apply to a person in any way participating or assisting in the buying or selling of pools or registering of bets.

1 Section 26. If, within one year after removal of said obstruction, the premises are again obstructed as above defined, the captain of police or marshal or chief of police shall have the same power of removal as provided in the preceding section, and in addition the owner or agent when such second order of removal is given, either by personal service or by posting on the building, shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred and fifty nor more than five hundred dollars, and the amount of said fine shall be a lien upon said building and be collected in like manner as provided in the preceding section. And for every subsequent obstruction as above defined, at any time within two years of the giving of the second notice, as above provided, said officers shall have the same powers as provided in the preceding section for removing the obstructions, and the owner or agent at the time such third or subsequent order of removal is given, either by personal service or by posting on the building, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars or more than one thousand dollars or may be punished by imprisonment for one day.

Section 28. No plea of misnomer shall be received to a complaint or indictment for violation of any law relative to lotteries, policy lotteries or policy, the selling of pools or registering of bets, or any form of gaming; but the defendant may be arraigned, tried, sentenced and punished under any name by which he is complained of or indicted. No such complaint or indictment shall be abated, quashed or held insufficient by reason of any alleged defect, either of form or substance, if the same is sufficient to enable the defendant to understand the charge and to prepare his defence. No variance between such complaint or indictment and the evidence shall be deemed material, unless in some matter of substance essential to the charge under the rule above prescribed.

Section 29. Whoever sells, exchanges or disposes of any property, or offers or attempts so to do, upon a representation, advertisement, notice or inducement that anything other than what is specifically stated to be the subject of the sale or exchange is or is to be delivered or received, or is in any way connected with or is a part of the transaction, or whoever gives a stamp, coupon or other device which entitles a purchaser to demand or receive from a person or company other than the merchant dealing in the goods purchased or the manufacturer thereof, any other property than that actually sold or exchanged, or whoever delivers by any person or company other than the merchant dealing in the goods purchased, or the manufacturer thereof, goods, wares or merchandise upon the presentation of such stamp, coupon or other device, shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than five hundred dollars.

Whoever keeps or uses any live bird, to be shot at either for amusement or as a test of skill in marksmanship, or shoots at a bird kept or used as aforesaid, or is a party to such shooting, or lets any building, room, field or premises, or knowingly permits the use thereof, for the purpose of such shooting, shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one month, or both. Nothing herein contained shall apply to the shooting of wild game.

SECTION 88. If complaint is made to a court or magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases that the complainant has reasonable cause to believe that preparations are being made for an exhibition of the Section 80. Any officer authorized to serve criminal process, or special police officer duly appointed by the commissioner of public safety to Animals, may, without a warrant, enter any place, building or tenement in which there is an exhibition of the fighting of birds, dogs or other animals, or in which preparations are being made for such an exhibition, and arrest all persons there present and take possession of and remove from the place of seizure the birds, dogs or other animals engaged in fighting, or there found and intended to be used or engaged in fighting, or kept or trained for fighting, and hold the same in custody subject to the order of court as hereinafter provided.

Section 90. Persons arrested under either of the two preceding sections shall be kept in jail or other convenient place not more than twenty-four hours, Sundays and legal holidays excepted, at or before the expiration of which time they shall be taken before a district court or a trial justice and proceeded against according to law.

Section 91. After such seizure and removal of such birds, dogs or other animals, application shall be made to a district court or a trial justice for a decree of forfeiture of the same; and if, upon the hearing of such application, notice thereof having been previously given as the justice or court orders, it shall be found that such birds, dogs or other animals, or any of them, at the time of such seizure were engaged in fighting at an exhibition thereof, or were owned, kept, possessed or trained by any person with the intent that they should be so engaged, such birds, dogs or other animals shall be adjudged forfeited and such justice or court shall thereupon, unless an appeal is taken as provided in the following section, issue an order for killing them, which shall be directed to any officer authorized to serve criminal process; and the officer receiving said order shall cause such birds, dogs or other animals to be killed within twenty-four hours thereafter. Birds, dogs or other animals seized as hereinbefore provided, which are not adjudged forfeited, shall be delivered to the owner or person entitled to the possession thereof. up and after such appeal, including the right of exception, shall conform, so far as may be, to those in criminal cases, except that before such appeal is allowed the appellant shall recognize to the commonwealth in the sum of two hundred dollars, with sufficient sureties, to prosecute his appeal and to pay such expenses of the prosecution as the court may order and such expenses as may be thereafter incurred in the care and keeping of the birds, dogs or other animals claimed by such appellant if final judgment is rendered against them, and to abide the judgment of the court thereon. SECTION 95. Whoever is present at any place, building or tenement where preparations are being made for an exhibition of the fighting of birds, dogs or other animals, with intent to be present at such exhibition, or is present at, aids in or contributes to such exhibition, shall be punished by a fine of not more than twenty-five dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one month, or both.

SECTION 96. Whoever wilfully sends to the publisher of a newspaper for publication a false notice of a birth, marriage or death shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

SECTION 97. A director or officer of a corporation engaged in the business of a collection agency or in making collections from delinquent debtors or any other person who employs persons, dressed in unusual and striking costumes intended to attract public attention to the occupation of the wearers, to call upon debtors for the purpose of demanding payments of debts alleged to be due, and whoever, being so employed, calls at the house or place of business of an alleged debtor, wearing such costume, or a costume having an inscription adapted to attract attention to his occupation, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in jail for not less than three months nor more than two and one half years.

SECTION 98. Whoever makes any distinction, discrimination or restriction on account of color or race, except for good cause applicable...

7 hire, gain or reward, licensed or unlicensed, or whoever aids or incites
8 such distinction, discrimination or restriction, shall be punished by a 9 fine of not more than three hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not 10 more than one year, or both, and shall forfeit to any person aggrieved 11 thereby not less than twenty-five nor more than three hundred dol-12 lands; but such person so aggrieved shall not recover against more than 13 one person by reason of any one act of distinction, discrimination or 14 restriction.

1 Section 99. Whoever, except when authorized by written permis-2 sion of the attorney general of the commonwealth, or of the district at-3 torney for the district, secretly overhears, or attempts secretly to over-
4 hear, or to have any other person secretly overhear, any spoken words
5 in any building by using a device commonly known as a dictaphone or 6 dictaphone, or however otherwise described, or any similar device or 7 arrangement, or by tapping any wire, with intent to procure information 8 concerning any official matter or to injure another, shall be guilty of the 9 crime of eavesdropping and shall be punished by imprisonment for not 10 more than two years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, 11 or both.

1 Section 100. Whoever, except when authorized under the preced-2 ing section, either on his own account or as the servant or agent of an-
3 other, permits or acquiesces in the installing of a device commonly known 4 as a dictaphone or dictaphone or any similar device or arrangement, or

1 Section 101. Proof of the installation in any building of any device

Wives and children.

Section 1. Any husband or father who without just cause deserts his wife or minor child, whether by going into another town in the commonwealth or into another state, and leaves them or any or either of them without making reasonable provision for their support, and any husband or father who unreasonably neglects or refuses to provide for the support and maintenance of his wife or minor child, and any husband or father who abandons or leaves his wife or minor child in danger of becoming a burden upon the public, and any mother who deserts or wilfully neglects or refuses to provide for the support and maintenance of her child under the age of sixteen, and any parent whose minor child by reason of the neglect, cruelty, drunkenness, habits of crime or other vice of such parent is growing up without education, or without salutary control, or without proper physical care, or in circumstances exposing such child to lead an idle and dissolute life, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. No civil proceeding in any court shall be held to be a bar to a prosecution hereunder for desertion or non-support. In a prosecution hereunder for desertion or non-support against a husband, a decree or judgment of a probate court in a proceeding in which the husband appeared or was personally served with process, establishing the right of the wife to live apart, or her freedom to convey and deal with her property, or the right to the custody of the children, shall be admissible and shall be prima facie evidence of such right.

Section 2. Proceedings under the preceding section shall be begun, if in the superior court, in the county in which is situated the place where the husband and wife last lived together or where the husband or wife or parent of the child is living, and, if begun in a district court or before a trial justice, in the court or before the trial justice having such place within its or his judicial district.
1. SECTION 3. The court imposing a fine under section one may at any time order it paid in whole or in part to a probation officer, to be paid by him to the wife or to the city, town, corporation, society or person supporting the wife, child or children, or to the state treasurer for the use of the department of public welfare if the child has been committed to said department.

Fines may be used for support.

1. SECTION 4. The district court, or a trial justice, at any time after arraignment and before an appeal from such court or trial justice is perfected by entry in the superior court, and the superior court at any time after such entry and before final determination of the case, may, upon motion of the complainant or district attorney and upon notice to the defendant, enter such temporary order as may seem just, providing for the support of the wife, or children, or both, pendente lite, and said order, wherever made, shall continue in force until modified or revoked by the court before which the case is pending. If any such order is made by a district court, or by a trial justice, an appeal to the superior court shall not vacate such order. Violation of an order made by either court may be punished as for a contempt by the court before which the case is then pending.

Orders pendente lite.

Orders for payment.

Orders for probation.

1. SECTION 5. Before trial, with the consent of the defendant, or after entry of a plea of guilty or nolo contendere, or after conviction, if the defendant is placed on probation, with or without suspension of the execution of a sentence, the court, having regard to the circumstances and to the financial ability or earning capacity of the defendant, may make an order, which shall be subject to change from time to time as circumstances may require, directing the defendant to pay certain sums periodically, for a term not exceeding six years, to the probation officer, and may release the defendant from custody on probation. The probation officer, subject to the direction of the court, shall pay over payments received by him to the wife or guardian or custodian of the child, or to the city, town, corporation, society or person supporting the wife or child, or to the state treasurer for the use of the department of public welfare when the payments are for the support of a child committed to it. If the court be satisfied by due proof under oath that at any time the defendant has violated the terms of the order for payments, it may proceed to try the defendant upon the original charge, or sentence him under the original plea or conviction, or enforce the suspended sentence, as the case may be.

1. SECTION 6. The court, in releasing a defendant from custody on probation, may in its discretion require him to enter into a recognizance, with or without surety, in such sum as the court may order. The condition of the recognizance shall be, that if the defendant shall make his personal appearance in court, whenever ordered to do so, and shall comply with the order for payments, and with any change therein, then the recognizance shall be void, but otherwise shall be and remain of full force and effect. Suit may be brought upon such recognizance by the district attorney or any other person authorized by the court. If the defendant is admitted to bail pending trial, and the bail is forfeited, or if a recognizance under this section is forfeited, the court may order that the money forfeited or recovered be paid in whole or in part to a probation officer, to be paid by him as provided in the preceding section.
SECTION 7. No other or greater evidence shall be required to prove the marriage of the husband and wife, or that the defendant is the parent of the child, than may be required to prove the same facts in a civil action. In any prosecution begun under section one, both husband and wife shall be competent witnesses to testify against each other to any relevant matters, including the fact of their marriage and the parentage of the child; provided, that neither shall be compelled to give evidence incriminating himself. Proof of the desertion of the wife or child, or of the neglect or refusal to make reasonable provision for their support and maintenance, shall be prima facie evidence that such desertion, neglect or refusal is willful and without just cause. In no prosecution under sections one to ten, inclusive, shall any existing statute or rule of law prohibiting the disclosure of confidential communications between husband and wife apply.

SECTION 8. In proceedings under section one against a parent, relative to any minor child, it shall not of itself be a defense that the defendant has ceased to have custody or the right to custody of such child on his own acquiescence or by judicial action.

SECTION 9. If the court imposing a sentence under section one, finds the wife or child, as the case may be, of the defendant to be in destitute or needy circumstances, the superintendent, master or keeper of the reformatory or penal institution where he is confined upon such sentence shall pay over to the probation officer of such court at the end of each week, out of the annual appropriation for the maintenance of such reformatory or penal institution, a sum equal to fifty cents for the wife and an additional amount equal to twenty-five cents for each dependent minor child for each day's hard labor performed by the person so confined, and shall state the name of the person for whose labor the payment is made. The probation officer shall pay over said sum in the manner provided in section five for the payments therein provided for.

SECTION 10. The nine preceding sections shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate their general purpose to make uniform the law of those states enacting their provisions.

ILLEGITIMACY.

SECTION 11. Whoever, not being the husband of a woman, gets her with child shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Proceedings under this section or any of the eight following sections shall be begun, if in the superior court, in the county in which is situated the place where the defendant or the mother of the illegitimate child lives, and, if begun in a district court, in the court having such place within its judicial district.

SECTION 12. If the defendant pleads guilty or nolo contendere, or is found guilty, the court shall enter a judgment adjudging him the father of the child; but such adjudication shall not be made after a plea of not 4 guilty, against the objection of the defendant, until the child is born 5 or the court finds that the mother is at least six months pregnant. At 6 the sitting when such adjudication is made by a district court, if made 7 after a plea of not guilty, the defendant may appeal therefrom to the 8 superior court as in other criminal cases. The adjudication, whether any 9 sentence be imposed or not, shall be final and conclusive unless an appeal
10 therefrom be taken as hereinbefore provided, or, if such adjudication 11 be made by the superior court, unless set aside upon an appeal taken 12 not later than three days thereafter under section twenty-eight of chap-
13 ter two hundred and seventy-eight or upon exceptions. Such adjudica-
14 tion may be entered by the superior court notwithstanding exceptions 15 have been alleged or an appeal has been taken. The court making the 16 adjudication may within one year thereafter grant a new trial for any 17 cause.

1 Section 13. No law limiting adjournments or continuances shall 2 apply to any proceedings under sections eleven to nineteen, inclusive.
3 If the child has not been born at the time of the adjudication, the court 4 shall continue the case from time to time until the child is born. At any 5 time after adjudication, after inquiring into the respective means of the 6 defendant and the mother, the court having jurisdiction of the case may 7 make an order for the payment to the mother or to a probation officer of a 8 sum of money determined by the court for the expenses of the pregnancy 9 and of the confinement of the mother, whether the child is born dead or 10 alive. If the child has died, or subsequently if the child dies, the court 11 may make an order for the payment of its funeral expenses, whether or not 12 other relief is sought. For failure to comply with any such order the 13 court may order the defendant committed to jail, as for a contempt of 14 court, for a term not exceeding two months, unless he shall sooner comply 15 therewith.

1 Section 14. After the adjudication, the court may make such order
2 as may be considered expedient relative to the care and custody of the 3 child, and from time to time may revise and alter said order, as justice
4 and the welfare of the child require, which order shall be binding on all 5 persons.

1 Section 15. Any father of an illegitimate child, whether begotten
2 within or without the commonwealth, who neglects or refuses to contribute 3 reasonably to its support and maintenance, shall be guilty of a misde-4 meanor. If there has been any final adjudication of the paternity of the 5 child, such adjudication shall be conclusive on all persons in proceedings 6 under this section; otherwise, the question of paternity shall be deter-7 mined in proceedings hereunder. The duty to contribute reasonably to 8 the support of such child shall continue during its minority.

1 Section 16. After the adjudication and the birth of the child, in 2 proceedings under section eleven, or after conviction, in proceedings 3 under the preceding section, the defendant shall be subject upon the 4 original complaint or indictment in such proceedings to penalties and 5 orders for payments similar to those provided by the first ten sections 6 of this chapter; and the practice established thereby shall, so far as applicable, apply to any proceedings under sections eleven to nineteen, inclusive.

SECTION 17. If the court having jurisdiction of any case under sections eleven to nineteen, inclusive, or any of them, becomes satisfied that no living child will be born of which the defendant at the time of making the complaint was the father, or that the defendant and the mother have married each other and the child has become or will be the legitimate child of the defendant, or that adequate provision has been made for its maintenance, the case may be dismissed and any adjudication vacated; and if the court certifies that such provision has been made, no further prosecution shall be maintained under any of said sections.

SECTION 18. If money is forfeited or recovered upon a recognizance or deposit in lieu thereof given in proceedings under sections eleven to nineteen, inclusive, or any of them, the court in which such proceedings are pending may order such money paid to the probation officer and expended by him, under the direction of the court, for the support of the child.

SECTION 19. No proceedings shall be maintained under any of the eight preceding sections in any case where illegitimacy proceedings were begun before July first, nineteen hundred and thirteen.

DESTITUTE PARENTS.

SECTION 20. Any person, over twenty-one, who, being possessed of sufficient means, unreasonably neglects or refuses to provide for the support and maintenance of his parent, whether father or mother, residing in the commonwealth, when such parent through misfortune and without fault of his own is destitute of means of sustenance and unable by reason of old age, infirmity or illness to support and maintain himself, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. No such neglect or refusal shall be deemed unreasonable as to a child who shall not during his minority have been reasonably supported by such parent, if such parent was charged with the duty so to do, nor as to a child who, being one of two or more children, has made proper and reasonable contribution toward the support of such parent.

SECTION 21. Proceedings under the preceding section shall be begun, if in the superior court, in the county in which is situated the place where the defendant or the parent lives, and, if begun in a district court, in the court having such place within its judicial district. Complaints in district courts under the preceding section may be made by any such parent, by any child of such parent, by the board of public welfare of the town where such parent has a settlement, or by any public relief officer.

The justices of the supreme judicial court, of the superior court, of district courts and trial justices may cause all laws made for the preservation of the public peace to be kept; and in the execution of that power may require persons to give security to keep the peace, or for their good behavior, or both, as provided in this chapter.

1 Section 2. If complaint is made to any such court or justice that a person has threatened to commit a crime against the person or property of another, such court or justice shall examine the complainant and any witnesses who may be produced, on oath, reduce the complaint to writing and cause it to be subscribed by the complainant.

1 Section 3. If, upon such examination, it is found there is just cause to fear that such crime may be committed, such court or justice shall issue a warrant, reciting the substance of the complaint, and requiring the officer to whom it is directed forthwith to apprehend the person complained of and take him before such justice or some other.
justice or court having jurisdiction of the cause. Such warrant, if issued by a justice, shall be under his hand.

SECTION 4. If the person complained of is convicted, he may be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months. He may appeal as in other criminal cases, and section twenty-four of chapter two hundred and seventy-eight shall apply to such appeals. Instead of imposing sentence, the court or justice may order the person complained of to enter into a recognizance, with sufficient sureties, in such sum as the court or justice orders, to keep the peace toward all the people of the commonwealth, and especially toward the person requiring such security, for such term, not exceeding six months, as the court or justice may order. The court or justice may, for good cause, revoke such order or reduce the amount of the recognizance, or order that it be taken without surety.

SECTION 5. If the person complained of so recognizes, he shall be discharged, but if he refuses or neglects so to do, he shall be committed to the jail or house of correction during the period for which he was required to give security, or until within that time he so recognizes, stating in the warrant the cause of commitment and the sum and time for which security was required.

SECTION 6. If, upon such examination, it is found that there is not just cause to fear that such crime will be committed by the person complained of, he shall be forthwith discharged; and if it is found that the complaint is unfounded, frivolous or malicious, the complainant may be ordered to pay the expenses of prosecution.

SECTION 7. If a person is required to give security to keep the peace or for his good behavior, the court or justice may order him to pay the expenses of prosecution, or any part thereof, and that he shall stand committed until they are paid or he is otherwise legally discharged.

SECTION 8. Whoever is aggrieved by an order of a district court or trial justice, requiring him to recognize as aforesaid, may, upon giving the security required, appeal to the superior court, such appeal to be entered on the next return day.

SECTION 9. The court or justice shall require such witnesses as may be necessary to support the complaint to recognize for their appearance at the superior court.

SECTION 10. The superior court may affirm the order or discharge the appellant, or may require him to enter into a new recognizance, with sufficient sureties, in such sum and for such time as it may order, and may make such order relative to the expenses of prosecution as is just and reasonable.

SECTION 11. If the appellant fails to prosecute his appeal, his recognizance shall remain in full force and effect as to any breach of the condition, without an affirmation of the judgment or order of the court.
Section 12. A person committed for not finding sureties, or for refusing to recognize as required, may be discharged upon giving such security.

Section 13. The recognizance taken pursuant to the foregoing provisions shall be transmitted to the superior court on or before the next return day, and shall be there filed of record by the clerk; and upon a breach of the condition an action shall be commenced thereon by the district attorney.

Section 14. court or justice may order. The court or justice may order any article not found to have been unlawfully used or intended for unlawful use, or any article unlawfully used without the knowledge of its owner, lessor or mortgagee, to be delivered to the party legally entitled to its possession.

SECTION 8. A person aggrieved by a decree of forfeiture of a district court or trial justice may appeal therefrom to the superior court; but before his appeal is allowed, he shall recognize to the commonwealth in the sum of two hundred dollars, with sufficient surety or sureties, to prosecute his appeal and to pay all such expenses as may thereafter arise, if final judgment is rendered against the articles adjudged forfeited, and to abide the judgment of the superior court thereon; and upon such appeal, any question of fact shall be tried by a jury. REWARDS.

SECTION 9. The governor, if he deems the public good so requires, may offer a suitable reward of not more than one thousand dollars in any case to be paid by the commonwealth to any person who, in consequence of such offer, apprehends, brings back and secures a person who is convicted of or charged with a felony, who has escaped from prison in the commonwealth, or to any person who, in consequence of such offer, apprehends and secures a person charged with such crime, or for information that shall lead to the arrest and conviction of any person who has committed a felony, if the person cannot be arrested and secured in the common course of proceedings. If more than one claimant applies for the payment of such reward, the governor shall determine to whom it shall be paid, and if to more than one person, in what proportion to each, and his determination shall be final.

SECTION 10. The aldermen or the selectmen, if in their opinion the public good so requires, may offer a suitable reward of not more than five hundred dollars in any one case, to be paid by the town to any person who, in consequence of such offer, detects or secures a person who has committed a felony in such place, either before or after he has been charged therewith, and such reward shall be paid by the treasurer upon the warrant of the aldermen or selectmen. If more than one claimant applies for the payment of such reward, the aldermen or selectmen shall determine to whom it shall be paid, and if to more than one person, in what proportion to each, and their determination shall be final.

FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

SECTION 11. The governor, in any case which is authorized by the constitution and laws of the United States, may, upon demand, deliver to the executive of any other state or territory any person charged therein with treason, felony or other crime; or may, upon application, appoint an agent to demand of the executive authority of any other Section 12. Upon such demand or application, the attorney general or a district attorney shall, if the governor so requires, forthwith investigate the grounds thereof and report to the governor all the material facts which may come to his knowledge, with an abstract of the evidence in the case, and, in case of a person demanded, whether he is held in custody or is under recognizance to answer for a crime against the laws of this commonwealth or of the United States or by force of any civil process, with an opinion as to the legality or expediency of complying therewith.

Section 13. If the governor is satisfied that the demand conforms to law and ought to be complied with, he shall issue his warrant under the seal of the commonwealth to an officer authorized to serve warrants in criminal cases, directing him to arrest and deliver such person to the agent making the demand, and shall also, by the warrant, request such officers within this commonwealth to afford all needful assistance in the execution thereof.

Section 14. A person arrested upon such warrant shall not be delivered to such agent of a state or territory until he has been notified of the demand for his surrender and has had an opportunity to apply for a writ of habeas corpus, if he claims such right of the officer who makes the arrest. If such writ is applied for, notice thereof and of the time and place of hearing shall be given to the attorney general or district attorney for the district where the arrest is made. An officer who delivers a person in his custody upon such warrant for such agent for extradition without having complied with this section shall forfeit not more than one thousand dollars.

Section 15. If the application for the arrest of a fugitive from the justice of the commonwealth is complied with and an agent is appointed, his account shall be paid like other expenses in criminal cases by the county where the proceedings are pending; but the governor may direct the whole or a part thereof to be paid by the commonwealth.

Section 16. If a person found in this commonwealth is charged with a crime committed in another state or territory and is liable by the constitution and laws of the United States to be delivered upon the demand of the executive of such other state or territory, a court or justice authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may, upon complaint on oath setting forth the crime and such other matters as are necessary to bring the case within the provisions of law, issue a warrant to bring the person charged before the same or another court or justice within the commonwealth to answer to such complaint as in other cases.
ARREST, EXAMINATION, COMMITMENT, BAIL. [CHAP. 276.

Section 17. If, upon examination of the person charged, the court or justice has reasonable cause to believe that the complaint is true and that such person may be lawfully demanded of the executive, he shall, if not charged with a capital crime, be required to recognize with sufficient sureties in a reasonable sum to appear before such court or justice at a day appointed, allowing a reasonable time to obtain the warrant of the executive, and to abide the order of the court or justice.

Section 18. If he does not so recognize, he shall be committed to jail until such day, as if the crime charged had been committed within the commonwealth; and if he fails to appear according to the condition of his recognizance, he shall be defaulted and like proceedings had as in case of other recognizances entered into before such court or justice. If charged with a capital crime, he shall be committed to jail until the day so appointed for his appearance.

Section 19. If the person so recognized or committed appears before the court or justice upon the day appointed, he shall be discharged unless he is demanded by a person authorized by the warrant of the executive to receive him, or unless the court or justice has cause to commit him or to require him to recognize anew for his appearance on another day, and if, when ordered, he does not so recognize, he shall be committed and detained as before. If the person charged has recognized or is committed or discharged, a person authorized by the warrant of the executive may at any time take him into custody and the same shall be a discharge of the recognizance and not be an escape.

Section 20. The complainant in such case shall be answerable for all actual costs and charges and for the support in jail of a person so committed, which shall be paid as by a creditor for his debtor committed on execution. If the charge for support in jail is not so paid, the jailer may discharge him as if he had been committed on execution.

ARREST, EXAMINATION, COMMITMENT AND BAIL.

Section 21. Justices of the supreme judicial, superior or district courts, and trial justices, may issue process for the apprehension of persons charged with crime and to carry into effect sections twenty-two to eighty-two, inclusive.

126 Mass. 238.

Section 22. Upon complaint made to any such justice that a crime has been committed, he shall examine on oath the complainant and any witnesses produced by him, reduce the complaint to writing, and cause it to be subscribed by the complainant, and, if it appears that a crime has been committed, shall, except as otherwise provided, issue a warrant, reciting the substance of the accusation and requiring the officer to whom it is directed forthwith to arrest the accused and to take him before a court or trial justice of the county to be dealt with according to law, and to summon such witnesses as shall be therein named to appear and give evidence on the examination or trial.

Section 23. Warrants and other processes issued for the apprehension of persons charged with crime may be directed to and served in any part 3 of the commonwealth by an officer authorized to serve criminal process
4 in any county. Such officer may command aid and exercise the same 5 authority as if in his own county.

1 Section 24. Upon a complaint for a crime punishable by fine only,
2 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, with or without a fine,
3 a summons may be issued instead of a warrant for arrest, if, in the judg-

1912, 269.

2 for trial, and shall be served by an officer authorized to serve criminal 3 process by giving to the defendant in hand or by leaving at his last and 4 usual place of abode an attested copy, not less than twenty-four hours 5 before the return hour.

1 Section 26. If a defendant so summoned fails, without reasonable 2 cause, to appear and abide the orders of the court or justice, he shall 3 be considered in contempt of court, and may be punished by a fine of 4 not more than twenty dollars. A warrant, if necessary, may be issued
5 at any time after the issue of such summons, whether it has been served 6 or not.

1 Section 27. If a defendant so summoned duly appears, he may be
2 ordered to recognize for his further appearance but shall not be required
3 to give surety upon his recognizance at any stage of the prosecution 4 without a special order.

1 Section 28. Any officer authorized to serve criminal process may 2 arrest and detain a person charged with a misdemeanor, without having 3 a warrant for such arrest in his possession, if the officer making such arrest
4 and detention shall have actual knowledge that a warrant then in full 5 force and effect for the arrest of such person has in fact issued.

1 Section 29. If the crime charged in a warrant is not a felony, and 2 the defendant requests to be taken before a magistrate of the county
3 where he was arrested, for the purpose of entering into a recognizance 4 without a trial or examination, the officer who arrested him shall take

3 zance and certificate required by section sixty-one, to the officer, who 4 shall cause the same to be delivered without unnecessary delay to the 5 clerk of the court before which the defendant was recognized to appear;
6 and, upon application of the complainant, the justice who issued the 7 warrant or the district attorney shall cause such witnesses as he thinks 8 necessary to be summoned to the same court.
ARREST, EXAMINATION, COMMITMENT, BAIL. [CHAP. 276.

SECTION 31. If a person is arrested in a county other than that where the crime was committed, and the magistrate before whom he is taken refuses to admit him to bail, or if no sufficient bail is offered, the officer shall take him before the court or trial justice to which or before whom the warrant is returnable.

SECTION 32. If the crime charged in a warrant is a felony, the officer who makes the arrest in another county shall convey the prisoner to the county where the warrant was issued.

SECTION 33. Whenever a person is arrested for a crime and is taken to or confined in a jail, police station or lockup, the officer in charge thereof shall immediately examine the prisoner, and if he finds any bruises, cuts or other injuries shall forthwith make a written report thereof to the chief of police of the town concerned, or in Boston to the police commissioner, and in towns where there is no chief of police to the selectmen. If the place of confinement is under control of the metropolitan district commission, the report shall be made to it. The requirement that the prisoner be examined shall not be deemed to compel the removal of clothing. When a person is transferred from one place of confinement to another prior to his arraignment in court or to his release, the requirement that he shall be examined shall apply only to the place to which he is first taken after his arrest. Whoever violates this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than ten dollars.

SECTION 34. Whoever is arrested by warrant for a crime shall, unless other provision is made for his examination, be taken before a court or trial justice having jurisdiction where the crime was committed; and the warrant, with a proper return thereon signed by the person making the arrest, shall be delivered to the court or justice.

SECTION 35. Except in proceedings under sections eleven to nineteen, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and seventy-three, the court or justice may adjourn an examination or trial from time to time, not exceeding ten days at any one time against the objection of the defendant, and to the same or a different place in the county. In the meantime, if the defendant is charged with a crime not bailable, he shall be committed; otherwise, he may recognize in a sum and with surety or sureties to the satisfaction of the court or justice, or without surety, for his appearance for such further examination, and for want of such recognition he shall be committed.

SECTION 36. If the recognizor does not appear according to his recognition, the court or justice may issue process to bring him into court for recognition. After his failure so to appear, the court or justice may at any time order his default recorded; but it may be removed for good cause at any time to which the case may be continued. If such default is not removed, the recognizance shall be certified with a record of such default to the superior court, and like proceedings shall be had thereon as upon a breach of the condition of a recognizance for appearance before said superior court, except in cases where bank books, bonds or money have been deposited at the time of the recognition.
1 Section 37. If the defendant fails to recognize, he may be committed to jail by an order stating concisely that he is committed for further examination on a future day to be named in the order, and on the day named he may be brought before the court or justice by a verbal order to the officer who made the commitment, or by a written order to a different person.

1 Section 38. The court or justice before whom a person is taken upon a charge of crime shall, as soon as may be, examine on oath the complaining and the witnesses for the prosecution, in the presence of the defendant, relative to any material matter connected with such charge. After the testimony to support the prosecution, the witnesses for the prisoner, if any, shall be examined on oath, and he may be assisted by counsel in such examination and in the cross examination of the witnesses in support of the prosecution.

1 Section 39. The court or justice may, while examining a witness, exclude from the place of examination all other witnesses, and may if requested, or if cause therefor appears, order the witnesses for or against the prisoner to be kept separate, so that they cannot converse with each other until their examination.

1 Section 40. The testimony of the witnesses examined shall be reduced to writing by, or under the direction of, the court or justice, if he considers it necessary, and shall, if required by him, be signed by the witnesses.

1 Section 41. If it appears, upon the whole examination, that no crime has been committed or that there is not probable cause for charging the prisoner therewith, he shall be discharged.

1 Section 42. If it appears that a crime has been committed and that there is probable cause to believe the prisoner guilty, the court or justice shall, if final jurisdiction is not exercised, admit the prisoner to bail, if the crime is bailable and sufficient bail is offered; otherwise, he shall be committed to jail for trial.

1 Section 43. If the journey from the town where the prisoner is held to the town where he is to be committed on the service of a mittimus can be made by railroad, the officer may convey the prisoner through any portion of another county in the prosecution of such journey.

1 Section 44. If the defendant is held to appear before the superior court, the copies and record of proceedings sent to the superior court shall contain the details of all fees and expenses allowed or paid in the district court or before the trial justice.

1 Section 45. If the prisoner is admitted to bail or is committed, the court or justice shall bind by recognizance the material witnesses against the prisoner to appear and testify at the next sitting of the court having jurisdiction of the crime and in which the prisoner is held to answer.

SECTION 49. A witness who, when required, refuses to recognize, either with or without sureties, shall, except as provided in the following section, be committed to jail until he complies with such order or is otherwise discharged; but if the court or justice finds that the witness, unless he is the prosecutor or an accomplice, is unable to procure sureties when so ordered, he shall, except in cases of felony, be discharged upon his own recognizance. Upon a complaint or indictment for a felony, against a defendant not in custody, a material witness committed for failure to furnish sureties upon his own recognizance may be held in custody for a reasonable time, pending the pursuit and apprehension of the defendant.

The attorney for the commonwealth who will have charge of the case at the trial shall have the same notice as parties in civil actions of the time and place of taking the deposition, and the assent of the defendant shall be endorsed upon the deposition. The fees shall be the same as in civil cases and shall be paid as other expenses in criminal cases are paid. The deposition shall be seasonably transmitted to the court at which the witness was ordered to appear. If the witness is unable to attend the trial, by reason of his absence from the commonwealth, or of his death, insanity, illness or infirmity, the deposition may be read in evidence upon the trial by either party, subject to all legal objections.

Discharge on recognizance, when.
1894, 406, § 1.

SECTION 51. If a witness has been committed because of his inability to furnish sureties for his appearance before the superior court, the jailer shall forthwith give notice to the chief justice of the superior court, who shall direct the district attorney to inquire as to the importance of his testimony and the necessity for detaining him in jail, and the district attorney, if in his opinion the public interest will not suffer by the release 7 of the witness on his own recognizance, shall so report to the chief jus-
8 tice, who may thereupon order the witness to be released upon his own 9 recognizance.

1 Section 52. The commissioner of correction shall from time to 2 time make such rules relative to the diet, size of cells, amount of liberty
3 and exercise, correspondence, visits and such other matters as he con-4 siders necessary regulating the treatment of witnesses held in jail and 5 will secure their clear distinction and separation from other prisoners so
6 far as possible, consistent with their safe custody and the prevention 7 of tampering with their testimony. Said commissioner may, with the 8 approval of the district attorney, remove such witnesses from the jail 9 where they are confined to a jail in another county, and shall, at the 10 request of the district attorney, cause them to be returned to the jail 11 whence they were removed. The proceedings for such removal shall be 12 the same as for the removal of prisoners from one jail or house of corre-13 tion to another. The cost of support of a witness so removed and of both 14 removals shall be paid by the county whence he is removed.

1 Section 53. An officer who, having the custody or control of prison-
2 ers, causes or permits male and female prisoners to be transported to 3 gether to or from a court in a vehicle, in a city of more than thirty
4 thousand inhabitants according to the latest census, shall be punished
5 by a fine of not more than twenty dollars.

1 Section 54. An officer who, having the custody of a witness com-
2 mitted because of his failure to furnish sureties, causes or permits him to 3 be handcuffed to a person, held in custody, charged with or sentenced 4 for crime, or to be transported within a city to or from any court or 5 prison in a vehicle with such person, shall be punished by a fine of not 6 more than twenty dollars.

1 Section 55. If a person committed to jail is under indictment or 2 complaint for, or is under recognizance to answer to, a charge of assault
3 and battery or other misdemeanor for which he is liable in a civil action,
4 unless the offense was committed by or upon a sheriff or other officer
5 of justice, or riotously, or with intent to commit a felony, and the person 6 injured appears before the court or justice who made the commitment or 7 took the recognizance, or before which the indictment or complaint is 8 pending, and acknowledges in writing that he has received satisfaction 9 for the injury, the court or justice may in its or his discretion, upon pay-
10 ment of such expenses as it or he shall order, discharge the recognizance 11 or supersede the commitment, or discharge the defendant from the 12 indictment or complaint, and may also discharge all recognizances and 13 supersede the commitment of all witnesses in the case.

1 Section 56. Such order discharging the recognizance, indictment or 2 complaint of the person or the recognizance of witnesses shall be filed 3 in the office of the clerk before the sitting of the court at which they are 4 bound to appear; and such order superseding the commitment of the 5 person charged or of a witness shall be delivered to the keeper of the jail
6 where he is confined, who shall forthwith discharge him; and such order 7 so filed and delivered, shall forever bar a civil action for such injury.
Magistrates who may admit to bail. Money and certain securities may be deposited. 1812, 30.

Section 57. A justice of the supreme judicial or superior court, a clerk of courts or the clerk of the superior court for criminal business in the county of Suffolk, a standing or special commissioner appointed by either of said courts or, in the county of Suffolk, by the sheriff of said county with the approval of the superior court, a justice or clerk of a district court, a master in chancery or a trial justice, upon application of a prisoner or witness held under arrest or committed, either with or without a warrant, or in the custody of an officer under a mittimus, may inquire into the case and admit such prisoner or witness to bail; and may admit to bail any person committed for not finding sureties to recognize him. All persons authorized to take bail under this section shall be governed by the rules established by the supreme judicial or superior court. No person offering himself as surety shall be deemed to be insufficient if he deposits money of an amount equal to the amount of the bail required of him in such recognizance, or a bank book of a savings bank or of the savings department of a trust company or national bank, doing business in the commonwealth, properly assigned to the clerk or trial justice with whom the same is or is to be deposited, and his successors, and satisfactory to the person so authorized to take bail, or deposits non-registered bonds of the United States or of the commonwealth or of any county, city or town within the commonwealth equal at their face value to the amount of the bail required of him in such recognizance. The sheriff of Suffolk county may, with the approval of the superior court, appoint standing or special commissioners to take bail to a number not exceeding twenty and may, with like approval, remove them.

Before the amount of bail of a prisoner charged with an offence punishable by imprisonment for more than one year is fixed in court, the court shall obtain from its probation officer all available information relative to prior criminal prosecutions, if any, of the prisoner and to the disposition of each such prosecution.

Section 58. If the person is committed without an order fixing the amount of the recognizance, he shall not be admitted to bail under the preceding section until reasonable notice of his application has been given to the officer by whom he was committed, or a hearing has been given to the officer in whose custody he is held; and if committed with such order, he shall not be admitted to bail, except by the supreme judicial or superior court or by a justice of either court, for a less amount than is required by the order or by an order of either court, or of a justice thereof, revising said amount.

Section 59. After a person is committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury, he shall not be admitted to bail by a master in chancery who does not reside or have a usual place of business within the county where the jail is situated, except upon proof that written notice of the proposed application has been duly served upon the district attorney, or one of the assistant district attorneys, for the district, at least twenty-four hours before a hearing on the application, specifying the name of the person, the crime with which he is charged, the time and place of hearing, and the name, occupation and residence of the proposed sureties, or upon proof that the district attorney, or one of the assistant district attorneys, for the district has waived notice of the hearing on such proposed application.
1 Section 60. After a conviction or a plea of guilty or of nolo contendere in the superior court in Suffolk county, the prisoner shall not be admitted to bail except in open court; but when said court is not in session, bail may be taken by any judge of a court of record or by any commis sioner appointed under section fifty-seven, upon proof that written notice of the proposed application has been duly served upon the district attorney, or one of the assistant district attorneys for the Suffolk district, at least twenty-four hours before the hearing of such application, specifying the name of the prisoner, the crime of which he has been convicted, the time and place of hearing, and the name, occupation and residence of the proposed sureties. No person who has been once offered and rejected as surety shall afterward be accepted as surety for the same person in the same case.

1 Section 61. If bail is taken out of court, the person authorized to admit to bail in criminal cases shall cause a certificate to be signed and sworn to by each surety, which shall contain his name, his residence, including the name of the street and number, if any, of the dwelling house thereon, his occupation and place of business, a statement of the nature location, purchase price, assessed value and fair market value of his property, and of the encumbrances, if any, thereon, the amount of his indebtedness, the amount and number of other bonds or recognizances on which he is or may be liable and all other matters pertinent to the amount and value of such property, each and all of which statements shall be deemed to be material statements in prosecutions for perjury, and shall return such certificate or certificates and a proper recognition to the proper court. A surety may, instead of making such certificate, give his personal recognizance as surety and deposit money, bonds or a propcerly assigned bank book of the kind and in the amount and under the conditions set forth in section fifty-seven for making deposit of like nature.
A person authorized to take bail shall take such bail in the presence of the person to be bailed and the surety or sureties, except as otherwise provided in section one hundred and five of chapter one hundred and seventy-five.

On the second Monday of each calendar month, every person taking bail out of court shall transmit to the chief justice of the superior court a written statement, setting forth each separate occasion, as defined in section sixty-one B, on which each bail or surety was accepted as aforesaid during the preceding calendar month, the name and address of each bail or surety, the date of such acceptance, the name of the defendant or defendants, the offense or offenses charged, and the court or trial justice before which or whom the defendant was required to appear.

1 Section 61A. Whenever a person becomes bail or surety in a criminal and has offered real estate as his qualification for his acceptance as such bail or surety, and subsequently and while the case in which he has qualified as bail or surety is pending, desires to dispose of or encumber such real estate, he shall in writing notify the court in which the case is then pending of his desire, and shall, unless expressly authorized by the court to continue as such bail or surety, terminate his liability as such bail or surety before he disposes of or encumbers such real estate. Any person violating any provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the house of correction for not more than one year, or both. Nothing in this section shall in any wise affect the title to such real estate.
SECTION 61B. No person proposing to become bail or surety in a criminal case for hire or reward, either received or to be received, shall be accepted as such unless he shall have been approved and registered as a professional bondsman by the superior court or a justice thereof. No person proposing to become bail or surety in a criminal case in any calendar year after having become bail or surety in criminal cases on five separate occasions in said year shall be accepted thereafter during said year as bail or surety unless he shall have been approved and registered as a professional bondsman as aforesaid. A person who has been accepted as bail or surety, contrary to the provisions of this section, shall nevertheless be liable on his obligation as such bail or surety. Such approval and registration may be revoked at any time by such court or a justice thereof, and shall be revoked in case such a bondsman fails for thirty days after demand to satisfy in full a judgment recovered under section seventy-four or a new judgment entered on review under section seventy-six. The district attorney or prosecuting officer obtaining any such judgment which is not satisfied in full as aforesaid shall, forthwith upon the expiration of such period of thirty days, notify in writing the chief justice of such court. All professional bondsmen shall be governed by rules which shall be established from time to time by the superior court. Any unregistered person receiving hire or reward for his services as bail or surety in any criminal case, and any unregistered person becoming bail or surety in any criminal case in any calendar year after having become bail or surety in criminal cases on five separate occasions in said year, and any professional bondsman violating any provision of the rules established hereunder for such bondsmen, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. The provisions of this section shall not apply to surety companies or to probation officers. A person shall be deemed to have become bail or surety on a separate occasion within the meaning of this section if he becomes such: (1) for a person in respect to a single offense; or (2) for a person in respect to two or more offenses wherefor he at one and the same time offers bail or surety, or in respect to two or more offenses committed at the same time or arising out of the same transaction or course of conduct wherefor he at different times offers bail or surety; or (3) for two or more persons at the same time offering bail or surety in respect to offenses committed jointly or in common course of conduct. Becoming bail or surety for the same person or persons in subsequent proceedings in connection with prosecution for the same offense or offenses shall not be deemed an additional occasion or occasions.

SECTION 62. If application is made to a person authorized to take bail in criminal cases in Suffolk county to accept bail out of court in a case in which no amount has been fixed, he shall, if the crime charged is not within the jurisdiction of the municipal court of the city of Boston, before fixing bail, cause notice of such application to be given to the district attorney or one of the assistant district attorneys for the Suffolk district, if any of said attorneys is at the time within said district.

SECTION 63. No justice of any court, except a special justice of a district court, shall receive any fee or compensation for taking and approving bail in criminal cases, and no person authorized to admit to bail in criminal cases shall receive from any source in connection with the admitting to bail anything of value in excess of the statutory fees therefor.

6 No person shall act as attorney in any case in which he has admitted a prisoner or witness to bail.

1 Section 64. Persons held in custody or committed upon a criminal charge, if entitled to be released upon bail, may, in the discretion of the magistrate, be admitted to bail on Sunday.

1 Section 65. The condition of a recognizance of a person, either with or without surety, binding him to appear before a court or justice to answer the charge, conditioned for his appearance, by the bail rendered to the court, or by a bail of deposit, or by recognizance where required, may be increased or diminished by the court before or after the expiration of the time fixed by law for surrendering the recognizance.

2 A recognizance for his appearance or surrender may be revoked without his consent or his request, on the death of the principal, or upon the expiration of the term for the surrender of the recognizance.

3 A recognizance shall be made to the officer or justice issuing the similar recognizance, or shall be returned to the court where the recognizance is made, as directed by law.

4 Any recognizance may be revoked, in whole or in part, by the court in which it is made, or by the justice issuing it, and the principal of the recognizance
may be discharged or released.

5 Any part of a recognizance may be revoked by the court or justice, and the principal thereof
may be discharged or released.

6 Any recognizance may be revoked, in whole or in part, by the court or justice, and the principal thereof
may be discharged or released.

7 Any recognizance may be revoked, in whole or in part, by the court or justice, and the principal thereof
may be discharged or released.

8 Any recognizance may be revoked, in whole or in part, by the court or justice, and the principal thereof
may be discharged or released.

9 Any recognizance may be revoked, in whole or in part, by the court or justice, and the principal thereof
may be discharged or released.

10 Any recognizance may be revoked, in whole or in part, by the court or justice, and the principal thereof
may be discharged or released.

11 Any recognizance may be revoked, in whole or in part, by the court or justice, and the principal thereof
may be discharged or released.

the court or justice, and the principal thereof
may be discharged or released.

Section 70. If, by the act of God, of the government of the United States, of any state or by sentence of law, bail are unable without their fault to surrender their principal, they shall, upon motion before final judgment on scire facias, be exonerated and discharged by the court, with or without costs as the court deems equitable.

Section 71. If a person under recognizance to appear and answer or to prosecute an appeal in a criminal case fails to appear according to his recognizance, and if a person under recognizance to testify in a criminal prosecution fails to perform the condition of his recognizance, his default shall be recorded, his obligation and that of his sureties forfeited, and process issued against them or such of them as the prosecuting officer directs; but in such suit no costs shall be taxed for travel. No such process shall issue in cases where bank books, bonds or money have been deposited at the time of such recognizance.

Section 72. A surety in such recognizance may, by leave of the court, after default, and either before or after process has been issued against him, pay to the county treasurer or clerk of the court the amount for which he was bound as surety, with such costs as the court shall direct, and shall be thereupon forever discharged.

Section 73. If, in a suit on a recognizance to prosecute an appeal, the penalty is adjudged forfeited, or if by leave of court such penalty has been paid without suit or before judgment as provided in the preceding section, and any forfeiture accrues by law to a person by reason of the crime of which the appellant was convicted, the court may award to such person the portion of the amount paid to which he is entitled.

Section 74. If the penalty of a recognizance of a party or witness in a criminal prosecution is adjudged forfeited, the court may render judgment, upon such terms as it may order, against the principal or surety, or both, for the whole of the penalty with interest, or, in its discretion, for a part thereof, upon the filing in the case of a certificate of the district attorney or prosecuting officer stating that the interests of justice would be furthered thereby and setting forth specifically the reasons therefor; and no person shall, on behalf of the commonwealth, accept in satisfaction of any such judgment or any new judgment entered on review under section seventy-six any sum less than the full amount thereof.

Section 75. Such action shall not be barred or defeated, nor shall judgment be arrested, by reason of neglect or omission to note or record the default of any principal or surety at the time when it happens, nor by reason of a defect in the form of the recognizance, if it sufficiently appears from the tenor thereof at what court the party or witness was bound to appear, and that the court or magistrate before whom it was taken was authorized to require and take such recognizance.
1 Section 76. A court which has rendered judgment on a recognizance may, upon petition of any person interested, stating the ground relied upon and filed in said court, grant a review and a rehearing of the case, upon the surrender or recapture of the prisoner who was released, or for any sufficient cause which has occurred or been ascertained by the person interested after the rendition of such judgment, or at such time as not to have afforded opportunity for presenting the same in evidence.

The treasurer or other county officer who received or then has the amount paid shall, upon presentation of a copy of the order certified by the clerk of the court, make said repayment. Duties.
1. 1880, 129, §§ 3-5, 11.

Section 83. The superior court, the chief justice of the municipal court of the city of Boston, subject to the approval of the associate justices thereof, and the justice of each other district court and of the Boston juvenile court may appoint such male and female probation officers as they may respectively from time to time deem necessary for their respective courts; and if there is more than one probation officer in one court, one of such officers may be designated as chief probation officer. All officers so appointed shall hold office during the pleasure of the court making the appointment. The compensation of each probation officer appointed by the superior court shall be fixed by that court and by it apportioned from time to time among the counties wherein said officer performs his duties. In the municipal court of the city of Boston the chief justice of said court, subject to the approval of the associate justices thereof, and in other district courts and the Boston juvenile court, the justice thereof, shall fix the compensation of each probation officer appointed for such court, which compensation shall be subject to approval by the county commissioners and shall be paid by the county on vouchers approved respectively by the chief justice of the municipal court of the city of Boston or by the justice of such other district or juvenile courts.

Section 84. Before performing any official duty, each probation officer shall give bond to the county treasurer, in a sum to be fixed and with sufficient sureties to be approved by a justice of the superior court, conditioned to account for and pay, as and when required by law, all moneys or property received by him in the exercise of his official duty. Failure to so give bond shall be sufficient cause for removal from office.

Section 85. In addition to the other duties imposed upon him, each probation officer shall, as the court may direct, inquire into the nature
3 of every criminal case brought before the court under the appointment of 4 which he acts, and inform the court, so far as is possible, whether the 5 defendant has previously been convicted of crime and in the case of a 6 criminal prosecution before said court charging a person with an offence
7 punishable by imprisonment for more than one year the probation officer 8 shall in any event present to the court such information as the board of 9 probation has in its possession relative to prior criminal prosecutions, if 10 any, of such person and to the disposition of each such prosecution, and 11 all other available information relative thereto, before such person is 12 admitted to bail in court and also before disposition of the case against 13 him by sentence, or placing on file or probation. When it comes to the 14 knowledge of a probation officer that the defendant in a criminal case 15 before his court charged with an offence punishable by imprisonment for 16 more than one year is then on probation in another court or is then at 17 liberty on parole or on a permit to be at liberty, such probation officer 18 shall forthwith certify the fact of the presence of the defendant before his 19 court to the probation officer of such other court or the parole authorities 20 granting or issuing such parole or permit to be at liberty, as the case may 21 be. He may recommend to the justice of his own court that any person 22 convicted be placed on probation. He shall perform such other duties
23 as the court requires. He shall keep full records of all cases investigated 24 by him or placed in his care by the court, and of all duties performed by 25 him. Every person released upon probation shall be given by the prob-26 nation officer a written statement of the terms and conditions of the 27 release.

1 Section 86. The justice of the Boston juvenile court may appoint 2 as many deputy probation officers, without salary, as he may deem de-3 sirable, who shall assist probation officers in such way as the court may 4 direct in making investigations of cases of children against whom com-
5 plaints have been made, and in the care of children placed on probation.

1 Section 87. The superior court may place upon probation under any 2 of its probation officers any person before it charged with crime and any 3 court may place any person convicted before it in the care of its probation
4 officer for such time and upon such conditions as it deems proper; pro-
5 vided, that no person convicted of a felony by a district court shall be 6 placed on probation by said court in such case if it shall appear that he 7 has been previously convicted of any felony.

1 Section 88. Every court appointing probation officers may employ
2 such clerical assistance as it deems necessary to keep, index and consoli-
3 date the records required to be kept by probation officers and for such 4 other work in connection with its probation service as the court may 5 determine. The compensation for such service, together with such other 6 necessary expenses as the court shall incur in connection with such work, 7 shall be paid by the county upon vouchers approved by said court.

1 Section 89. The justice of a district court may, in the absence of a 2 probation officer, appoint a temporary probation officer, who shall have 3 the powers and perform the duties of such probation officer and shall 4 receive from the county as compensation for each day’s service an amount equal to the rate by the day of the compensation of the officer in whose place he serves; but compensation so paid to a temporary probation officer for any excess over thirty days' service in any one year shall be deducted by the county treasurer from the compensation of the probation officer in whose place such service is rendered.

SECTION 90. A probation officer shall not be an active member of the regular police force, but so far as necessary in the performance of his official duties shall, except as otherwise provided, have all the powers of a police officer, and if appointed by the superior court may, by its direction, act in any part of the commonwealth. He shall report to the court, and his records may at all times be inspected by police officials of the towns of the commonwealth.

SECTION 91. Probation officers appointed by the Boston juvenile court may serve such process as may be directed to them by the court.

SECTION 92. If a person is placed on probation upon condition that he make restitution or reparation to the person injured by him in the commission of his offence, and payment is not made at once, the court may order that it shall be made to the probation officer, who shall give receipts for and keep record of all payments made to him, pay the money to the person injured and keep his receipt therefor, and notify the clerk of the court whenever the full amount of the money is received or paid in accordance with such order or with any modification thereof.

SECTION 93. Except as provided by section one of chapter two hundred and seventy-nine, money collected by a probation officer under order of the court by which he is appointed, if unclaimed after one year from the time of its collection, shall, upon further order of the court, be paid to the treasurer of the county where the court is situated for the use of the county; provided, that any part of the said money may be paid to persons establishing a lawful claim thereto before the county commissioners within five years of its payment to said treasurer, unless sooner paid over by order of the said commissioners.

SECTION 94. The reasonable expenses incurred by probation officers of the superior court in the performance of their duties shall be approved and apportioned by the court, and paid by the county to which they are thus apportioned. Money to be used for the necessary expenses to be incurred by such a probation officer in going outside the commonwealth for the purpose of bringing back for surrender to the court a person who is on probation shall be advanced by the treasurer of the county in which such person was placed on probation, upon presentation of a certificate signed by the probation officer and approved by said court. After his return such probation officer shall account for such money by filing with said county treasurer itemized vouchers, duly sworn to, approved by the court, setting forth the necessary expenses so incurred and any unexpended balance of such money shall be paid to said county treasurer. Probation officers of district courts and of the Boston juvenile court shall be reimbursed by the county for their actual disbursements for necessary expenses incurred while in the performance of their duties, including their reason-17 able traveling expenses in attending conferences authorized by section 18 ninety-nine, not exceeding three hundred dollars to each in any one year, 19 upon vouchers approved by the court by which they are appointed.

1 Section 95. The superior court, the Boston juvenile court or a 2 district court, except the municipal court of the city of Boston, may 3 authorize a probation officer to expend such amount as the court con- 4 siders expedient for the temporary support or transportation, or both, 5 of a person placed on probation, and such amount shall be repaid to the 6 probation officer by the county upon vouchers approved by the court. 7 A record of any amount so authorized shall be entered on the clerk's 8 docket of the case.

9 The chief probation officer of the municipal court of the city of Boston 10 may provide for the temporary support or transportation, or both, of a 11 person placed on probation in said court, or for the relief of the immediate 12 distress of such person, in any manner which he may deem proper, and 13 for these purposes may annually expend a sum not exceeding two thou- 14 sand dollars for all such cases of relief. At the end of each month said 15 chief probation officer shall submit to the chief justice of said court a 16 list of the expenses so incurred, with proper vouchers, and upon approval 17 of the chief justice the amount thereof shall be paid to the chief proba- 18 tion officer by Suffolk county.

1 Section 96. Any probation officer who refuses or neglects to perform 2 any of the duties required of him shall forfeit two hundred dollars to the 3 use of the commonwealth.

1 Section 97. The fourteen preceding sections shall not authorize a 2 probation officer to interfere with any of the duties required of the depart- 3 ment of public welfare under the law relative to juvenile offenders.

 BOARD OF PROBATION.

1 Section 98. There shall be a board of probation of five persons, 2 appointed by the chief justice of the superior court, one or more of whom 3 may be justices of the courts. Said chief justice shall annually appoint 4 one member of the board to serve for five years from the second Wednes- 5 day in July. A vacancy in the board shall be filled in the same manner 6 for the unexpired term. Any member of the board may be removed by 7 the chief justice. The board shall appoint a commissioner of probation 8 as its executive officer, who shall hold office during its pleasure. He shall 9 perform such duties as may be required of him by the board and shall 10 receive such salary as it shall, subject to the approval of the governor 11 and council, determine. The board shall be provided with suitable office 12 accommodations, in the Suffolk county court house or elsewhere, and may 13 employ such assistance as is needed to perform its work. The members 14 of the board shall receive no compensation for services hereunder, but 15 they and the commissioner shall be allowed the necessary expenses in- 16 curred in the performance of their official duties. The board may expend 17 for the purposes for which it is established such sums as the general court 18 may appropriate.

Section 99. The board of probation shall prescribe the form of all records and of all reports from probation officers and of reports from trial justices, and shall make rules for the registration of reports and for the exchange of information between the courts. It shall provide for such organization and co-operation of the probation officers in the several courts as may seem advisable. To promote co-operation in the probation work of the courts, the board may call a conference of any or all of the justices of the district courts and the Boston juvenile court, or a conference of any or all of the probation officers and assistant probation officers, and a member of the board shall preside. With the approval of the board, the commissioner of correction or the department of public welfare may hold a conference with any or all of the probation officers to secure their co-operation in keeping trace of the whereabouts of persons who are at liberty from the prisons of the commonwealth. The traveling expenses of said justices or of officers in attending any conference herein named shall be paid as the other expenses of the respective courts are paid.

Section 100. Every probation officer, or the chief or senior probation officer of a court having more than one probation officer, shall transmit to the board of probation, in such form and at such times as it shall require, detailed reports regarding the work of probation in the court, and trial justices shall transmit to the board reports of cases coming before them in such form and at such times as the board may require, and the commissioner of correction, the penal institutions commissioner of Boston and the county commissioners of counties other than Suffolk shall transmit to the board, as aforesaid, detailed and complete records relative to all paroles and permits to be at liberty granted or issued by them, respectively, to the revoking of the same and to the length of time served on each sentence to imprisonment by each prisoner so released specifying the institution where each such sentence was served; and under the direction of the board a record shall be kept of all such cases as the board may require for the information of the justices and probation officers. Police officials shall co-operate with the board and the probation officers in obtaining and reporting information concerning persons on probation. The information so obtained and recorded shall be accessible at all times to the justices and officers of the courts, to the police commissioner of Boston, and to all chiefs of police and city marshals. The commissioner of correction and the department of public welfare shall at all times give to the board and the probation officers such information as may be obtained from the records concerning prisoners under sentence or who have been released.

Section 101. The board of probation shall make an annual report to the general court of the probation work of the courts for the year ending on September thirtieth preceding. The report shall include such information as the board may consider useful, with its suggestions or recommendations.

Section 102. The four preceding sections shall not affect the authority of the courts to require the keeping by their probation officers of probation records in addition to those necessary to conform to forms of records and reports prescribed by the board of probation nor the author-
5 of the courts to approve expenses and disbursements relating to the 6 probation system.

1 Section 103. Upon the appointment or removal of a probation
2 officer, the clerk of the court by which the appointment or removal is 3 made shall forthwith give notice thereof to the board of probation.

INDICTMENTS AND PROCEEDINGS BEFORE TRIAL. [CHAP. 277.

SECTION 1. The clerk of the courts for each county, except Suffolk, shall, not less than twenty-eight days before the commencement of the first sitting of the superior court for criminal business in each year, issue writs of venire facias for twenty-three grand jurors to be returned to the court, who shall serve until the first regular sitting in the year next after they have been impanelled and until another grand jury has been impanelled in their stead. In counties where sittings of the court are established for the transaction of criminal business, they shall be required to attend only at such sittings.

171 Mass. 459.

SECTION 2. The clerk of the superior court for criminal business in Suffolk county shall, not less than twenty-eight days before each sitting commencing on the first Mondays of January and July, issue writs of venire facias for twenty-three grand jurors to serve in said court, twenty-two of whom shall be drawn and returned from Boston, and one from Chelsea, Revere or Winthrop, who shall serve for each sitting thereof for six months and until another grand jury has been impanelled in their stead.

SECTION 2A. The clerk of the courts in any county, or in Suffolk the clerk of the superior court for criminal business, shall, upon written request of the attorney general accompanied by a certificate that public necessity requires such action, signed by the chief justice of the superior court, issue writs of venire facias for twenty-three grand jurors for service as a special grand jury to hear, consider and report on such matters as the attorney general may present. Said jurors shall serve for a period of six months, unless sooner discharged by the attorney general or by the said chief justice, and shall be drawn, summoned and returned in the same manner, and shall have the same powers and receive the same compensation, as grand jurors summoned for service under sections one and two, and the provisions of sections four to fourteen, so far as apt, shall apply to such jurors.
1 Section 3. Grand jurors shall be drawn, summoned and returned in the same manner as traverse jurors; and, if drawn at the same time with traverse jurors, the number of persons required whose names are first drawn shall be returned as grand jurors, and those whose names are afterward drawn shall be returned as traverse jurors.

1 Section 4. If there is a deficiency of grand jurors, writs of venire facias may be issued to the constables of such towns as the court orders to return forthwith the further number of grand jurors required.

1 Section 5. The clerk of the court shall prepare an alphabetical list of the names of all persons returned as grand jurors, and, when they are to be impaneled, the first two persons named thereon shall be first called, and the following oath shall be administered to them:

You, as grand jurors of the inquest for the body of this county do solemnly swear that you will diligently inquire, and true presentment make of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge; the commonwealth’s counsel, your fellows and your own, you shall keep secret; you shall present no man for envy, hatred or malice, neither shall you leave any man unpresented for love, favor, affection or hope of reward; but you shall present things truly, as they come to your knowledge, according to the best of your understanding; so help you God.

5 The other jurors shall then be called in such divisions as the court considers proper, and the following oath shall be administered to them:

The same oath which your fellows have taken on their part, you and each of you on your behalf shall well and truly observe and keep; so help you God.

1 Section 6. If a person who is returned as a grand juror is conscientiously scrupulous of taking the oath prescribed, he may affirm in lieu of oath.

1 Section 7. After the grand jurors have been impaneled and have received their charge from the court, they shall retire with the officers appointed to attend them, and shall forthwith, by ballot, elect one of their number as foreman and give notice thereof to the court, and the clerk shall record the same.

1 Section 8. The foreman so elected shall be foreman for the whole period the grand jurors are required to serve, but in his absence another foreman shall be elected in the same manner, who shall perform the duties during such absence, and, in case of the death of the foreman, for the residue of their period of service.

1 Section 9. The foreman of the grand jury or the prosecuting officer before them may administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses who appear to testify before the jury, and the foreman shall under his hand return to the court a list of all witnesses sworn before the grand jury during the sitting, which shall be filed of record by the clerk.
SECTION 10. The grand jury may appoint one of their number to 1 be their clerk, and he shall keep a record of their proceedings and, if 2 the jury so direct, shall deliver it to the attorney general or district 3 attorney.

SECTION 11. If the grand jury are dismissed before the court is 1 adjourned without day, they may be summoned to attend again in the 2 same sitting, at such time as the court orders.

SECTION 12. No grand juror or officer of the court shall disclose 1 the fact that an indictment has been found against any person not in 2 custody or under recognizance, otherwise than by issuing or executing 3 process on the indictment.

SECTION 13. No grand juror shall be allowed to state or testify in 1 any court in what manner he or any other member of the jury voted on 2 any question before the grand jury, or what opinion was expressed by 3 any juror relative thereto. In charging the grand jury, the court shall 4 remind them of the provisions of this and the preceding sections.

SECTION 14. No member of the grand jury which has found an indict- 1 ment shall serve upon the jury for the trial thereof.

INDICTMENTS AND COMPLAINTS.

SECTION 15. The grand jury shall, during its session, make daily re- 1 turn to the court of all cases wherein it has finally determined not to 2 present an indictment against an accused person held in custody pend- 3 ing its action, and such person shall thereupon forthwith be discharged 4 by order of the court unless he is held on other process. Whoever is held 5 in custody on a charge of crime shall be discharged if he is not indicted 6 before the end of the second sitting of the court at which he is held to 7 answer, unless the court finds that the witnesses for the prosecution have 8 been enticed or kept away, or are detained and prevented from attending 9 the court by illness or accident, and except as provided in the following 10 section.

SECTION 16. If the grand jury does not indict a person who is held 1 in custody on a charge of crime by reason of his insanity, they shall so 2 certify to the court, which, if satisfied that he is insane, may order him 3 committed to a state hospital, except the Bridgewater state hospital, 4 under such limitations as it may order; or, if the court finds that he has 5 been a criminal or is of vicious tendency, it may order him committed 6 to the Bridgewater state hospital, and if he is charged with felony his 7 expenses in any such hospital or in any state charitable institution to 8 which he may be transferred shall be paid by the commonwealth.

SECTION 17. An indictment shall contain —

First, The caption, which shall consist of the name of the common- 1 wealth, county and court in which the indictment is presented, and the 2 time of the sitting of the court. One caption shall be sufficient, although the indictment contains more than one count.
3 Second, A plain and concise description of the act which constitutes the crime, or the appropriate legal term descriptive of such act, without a detailed description thereof. The words used in a statute to define a crime, or other words conveying the same meaning, may be used.

1 Section 18. The circumstances of the act may be stated according to their legal effect, without a full description thereof.

1 Section 19. If the name of an accused person is unknown to the grand jury, he may be described by a fictitious name or by any other practicable description, with an allegation that his real name is unknown.
2 An indictment of the defendant by a fictitious or erroneous name shall not be ground for abatement; but if at any subsequent stage of the proceedings his true name is discovered, it shall be entered on the record and may be used in the subsequent proceedings, with a reference to the fact that he was indicted by the name or description mentioned in the indictment.
3 Name of defendant.

1 Section 20. The time and place of the commission of the crime need not be alleged unless it is an essential element thereof. The allegation of time in the caption shall, unless otherwise stated, be considered as an allegation that the act was committed before the finding of the indictment, after it became a crime, and within the period of limitations. The name of the county and court in the caption shall, unless otherwise stated, be considered as an allegation that the act was committed within the territorial jurisdiction of the court. All allegations of the indictment shall, unless otherwise stated, be considered to refer to the same time
2 and place.

1 Section 21. The means by which a crime is committed need not be alleged in the indictment unless an essential element of the crime.

1 Section 22. If an allegation relative to a written instrument consisting wholly or in part of writing, print or figures is necessary, it may describe such instrument by any name or designation by which it is usually known, or by the purport thereof, without setting out a copy or facsimile of the whole or of any part thereof; and no variance between such recital or description and the instrument produced at the trial shall be material, if the identity of the instrument is evident and the purport thereof is so described as not to prejudice the defendant.

1 Section 23. If an allegation relative to any bullion, money, notes, bank notes, checks, drafts, bills of exchange, obligations or other securities for money of any country, state, county, city, town, bank, corporation, partnership or person is necessary, it may describe it as money, without specifying any particulars thereof; and such descriptive allegation shall be sustained by proof of any amount of bullion, money, notes or other securities for money as aforesaid, although the particular nature thereof shall not be proved.
SECTION 24. The value or price of property need not be stated, unless an essential element of the crime. If the nature, degree or punishment of a crime depends upon the fact that the property exceeds or does not exceed a certain value, it may be described, as the case may be, of more than that value, or of not more than that value.

SECTION 25. If an indictment for a crime involving the commission or attempted commission of an injury to property describes the property with sufficient certainty in other respects to identify the act, it need not allege the name of the owner.

SECTION 26. If one element of the criminality of an act is its commission in a public place, and if such place is not more particularly defined in the statute, the act may be alleged generally to have been committed "in a public place".

SECTION 27. In an indictment for the larceny of an animal, or for any other crime in respect thereof, it may be described by the name by which it is commonly known, without stating its age or sex or whether it is alive or dead.

SECTION 28. If it is necessary to set forth the judicial proceedings in any case then or formerly pending in any court, civil or military, or any proceedings before a justice of the peace or any other magistrate, only the substance of said proceedings or such part thereof as shall constitute in whole or in part the crime charged need be alleged.

SECTION 29. An allegation that the defendant committed the act charged shall be a sufficient allegation that he was criminally responsible therefor.

SECTION 30. If an intent to injure or defraud is an essential element of a crime, an intent to injure or defraud may be alleged generally, without naming the person, corporation or government intended to be injured or defrauded. Proof of an intent to injure or defraud any person or body corporate shall be competent to support the allegation.

SECTION 31. Different means or different intents by or with which a crime may be committed may be alleged in the same count in the alternative.

SECTION 32. An allegation that a crime was committed or that certain acts were done during a certain period of time next before the finding of the indictment shall be a sufficient allegation that the crime alleged was committed or that the acts alleged were done on divers days and times within that period.

SECTION 33. Presumptions and conclusions of law, matters of which judicial notice is taken and allegations not required to be proved need not be alleged. An indictment shall not be considered defective or insufficient because it omits to allege that the crime was committed, or the act was done "traitorously", "feloniously", "burglariously", "wil-6 fully”, “maliciously”, “negligently”, “unlawfully” or otherwise similarly to describe the crime, unless such description is an element of the 7 crime charged, or because it omits to allege that the crime was com-9 mitted or done with “force and arms”, or “against the peace”, or against 10 the form of the statute or statutes, or against a by-law, ordinance, order, 11 rule or regulation of any public authority, or because it omits to state or 12 misstates the title, occupation, estate or degree of the defendant or of 13 any other person named in the indictment, or of the name of the county, 14 city, town or place of his residence, unless such omission or misstate-15 ment tends to prejudice the defendant, or by reason of describing a fine or 16 forfeiture as enuring to the use of the commonwealth instead of to the 17 use of the county, city, or town, or by reason of any misstatement as to 18 the appropriation of any fine or forfeiture, or by reason of its failure to 19 allege or recite a special statute or a by-law or ordinance of a city or 20 town or order of the mayor and aldermen or selectmen or rules or regu-21 lations of any public board of officers.

1 Section 34. An indictment shall not be quashed or be considered 2 defective or insufficient if it is sufficient to enable the defendant to under-
3 stand the charge and to prepare his defence; nor shall it be considered 4 defective or insufficient for lack of any description or information which 5 might be obtained by requiring a bill of particulars under section forty.

1 Section 35. A defendant shall not be acquitted on the ground of 2 variance between the allegations and proof if the essential elements of 3 the crime are correctly stated, unless he is thereby prejudiced in his 4 defence. He shall not be acquitted by reason of an immaterial misnomer 5 of a third party, an immaterial mistake in the description of property or 6 the ownership thereof, failure to prove unnecessary allegations in the 7 description of the crime or any other immaterial mistake in the indict-8 ment.

1 Section 35A. Upon motion of the district attorney or prosecuting
2 officer, the court may order the complaint or indictment amended in 3 relation to allegations or particulars as to which the defendant would 4 not be prejudiced in his defence.

1 Section 36. The word “oath” as used in an indictment shall include 2 an “affirmation”.

1 Section 37. An excuse, exception or proviso not stated in the enact-
2 ing clause of a statute creating a crime or stated only by reference to 3 other provisions of the statute need not be negativd in the indictment 4 unless necessary for a complete definition of the crime. If any statute 5 shall prescribe a form of indictment in which an excuse, exception or 6 proviso is not negativd, it shall be taken that it is not necessary to a 7 complete definition of the crime that they should be negativd. If a 8 statute creating a crime permits an act, therein declared to be criminal, to be performed without criminality under stated conditions, such conditions need not be negativated.

Section 38. In a prosecution under any provision of sections one hundred and ninety-seven to two hundred and thirteen, inclusive, of chapter ninety-four, for unlawfully prescribing, selling, furnishing, giving away or delivering a narcotic drug in violation of any provision of said sections, it shall be sufficient to allege that the defendant did unlawfully prescribe, sell, furnish, give away or deliver, as the case may be, the alleged narcotic drug, without any further allegations, and without naming the person prescribed for, or the amount or quantity of the drug, or the person to whom such sale, furnishing, giving away or delivery was made; but the defendant shall be entitled to a bill of particulars under section forty. In such a prosecution, a defendant relying upon a prescription, written order, registration, appointment or authority as a defence or justification shall prove the same, and until he has proved it the presumption shall be that he is not so justified or authorized.

Section 39. The words used in an indictment may, except as otherwise provided in this section, be construed according to their usual acceptance in common language; but if certain words and phrases are defined by law, they shall be used according to their legal meaning.

The following words, when used in an indictment, shall be sufficient to convey the meaning herein attached to them:

Adultery. — Sexual intercourse by a married man with a woman not his wife, by an unmarried man with a married woman, by a married woman with a man not her husband.

Affray. — Fighting together of two or more persons in a public place to the terror of the persons lawfully there.

False Pretences. — False representations made by word or act of such a character, or made under such circumstances and in such a way, with the intention of influencing the action of another, as to be punishable.

Forgery. — The false making, altering, forging or counterfeiting of any instrument described in section one of chapter two hundred and sixty-seven, or any instrument which, if genuine, would be a foundation for or release of liability of the apparent maker.

Fornication. — Sexual intercourse between a man and an unmarried woman.

Murder. — The killing of a human being, with malice aforethought.

Rape. — The unlawful forcible carnal knowledge by a man of a woman against her will or without her consent; or the carnal knowledge by a man of a female child under the statutory age of consent.

Robbery. — The taking and carrying away of personal property of another from his person and against his will, by force and violence, or by assault and putting in fear, with intent to steal.

Stealing. Larceny. — The criminal taking, obtaining or converting of personal property, with intent to defraud or deprive the owner permanently of the use of it; including all forms of larceny, criminal embezzlement and obtaining by criminal false pretences.

Section 40. The court may, upon arraignment of the defendant, or at any later stage of the proceedings, order the prosecution to file a statement of such particulars as may be necessary to give the defendant and the court reasonable knowledge of the nature and grounds of the crime
5 charged, and if it has final jurisdiction of the crime, shall so order at the 6 request of the defendant if the charge would not be otherwise fully,
7 plainly, substantially and formally set out. If there is a material variance 8 between the evidence and the bill of particulars, the court may order the 9 bill of particulars to be amended, and may postpone the trial, which may 10 be before the same or another jury, as the court may order. If, to prepare 11 for his defence, the defendant desires information as to the time and place 12 of the alleged crime or the means by which it is alleged to have been com-
13 mitted, or more specific information as to the exact nature of the property 14 described as money, or, if indicted for larceny, as to the crime which he 15 is alleged to have committed, he may apply for a bill of particulars as 16 aforesaid.

1 Section 41. In an indictment for criminal dealing with personal
2 property with intent to steal, an allegation that the defendant stole said
3 property shall be sufficient; and such indictment may be supported by 4 proof that the defendant committed larceny of the property, or embezzled
5 it, or obtained it by false pretences.

Section 42. In prosecutions for buying, receiving or aiding in the 2 concealment of stolen property known to have been stolen, it shall not 3 be necessary to allege or prove that the person who stole the property has 4 been convicted.

1 Section 43. In an indictment for perjury alleged to have been com-
2 mitted in a criminal case an allegation of the substance of the crime shall 3 be sufficient; if alleged to have been committed in a civil case, an allega-4 tion of the nature of the controversy in general terms shall be sufficient.
5 In both cases, the court or magistrate before whom the oath or affirmation 6 was taken shall be alleged, but no part of the proceeding in which, or the 7 commission or authority of the court or person before whom, the perjury 8 was committed need be alleged.

Section 44. If, in an indictment for suborning of perjury or for 2 attempting to incite or procure another person to commit perjury, it is 3 alleged that perjury has been committed, an allegation of the perjury as 4 provided in the preceding section and an allegation that the defendant
5 wilfully incited or procured said person to commit said perjury shall be 6 sufficient. If it is not alleged that such perjury has been committed, an 7 allegation of the substance of the crime with which the defendant is 8 charged shall be sufficient, without allegations as to matters or things 9 which by the preceding section are declared to be unnecessary.

Section 45. In an indictment under section thirty-five of chapter 2 two hundred and seventy-two, an allegation that the defendant com-3 mitted an unnatural and lascivious act with the person named or referred 4 to in the indictment shall be sufficient.

Section 46. Two or more counts describing different crimes depend-2 ing upon the same facts or transactions may be set forth in the same section 47. If a prisoner, under indictment for a capital crime, 1 pleads guilty, upon being arraigned, the court shall award sentence 2 against him; if he does not plead guilty, the court may assign him 3 counsel and take all other measures preparatory to a trial, which shall, 4 subject to section seventy-two, be held as soon after the finding of the 5 indictment as the other official duties of the justices will admit and the 6 circumstances of the case require.

12 Allen, 155. 104 Mass. 537.

section 48. If a defendant in a capital case does not plead guilty 1 upon being arraigned before a district court or trial justice, the superior 2 court may assign him counsel upon his petition, and upon certification 3 to the superior court of the record of the arraignment and plea by the 4 clerk of the district court, or by the trial justice before whom the 5 arraignment was held. The case shall thereupon be continued until the 6 assignment of counsel has been made, and certification thereof received 7 by the clerk of the district court or by the trial justice.

8

section 49. The superior court may allow reasonable compensation 1 for the services of counsel in the district court assigned to defend the 2 prisoner, if he is otherwise unable to procure counsel, and such compensation shall be paid by the county where the indictment is found.
3

4

section 50. An indictment for a capital crime found in Dukes or 1 Nantucket county shall be tried in Bristol county: and the court for 2 that purpose shall be convened and held, and all proceedings relative 3 thereto conducted, as though the indictment had been originally found 4 in Bristol county. The court may in such case, from time to time while 5 the indictment is pending, make orders relative to the place of confine-6 ment of the prisoner, and the expense of his keeping shall in all cases 7 be paid by the county where the indictment is found.

8

section 51. Upon petition of a person indicted for a capital crime, 1 the court may, if in its opinion an impartial trial cannot be had in the 2 county where the case is pending, order a change of venue to any county 3 adjoining the county where the indictment was found: and on such 4 order, the court shall have jurisdiction in the county to which such 5 change may be made. All other proceedings in such case shall be the 6 same, as nearly as may be, as if the indictment had been originally 7 entered in such adjoining county.

section 52. The clerk of the courts in the county where the indicrimination is pending, or, if pending in Suffolk county, the clerk of the 2 superior court for criminal business, shall forthwith, upon the entry of 3 such order upon the docket, transmit the original indictment, with the 4 papers in the case and a duly certified copy of said order, to the clerk 5 of the courts for the county to which the venue has been changed, or, 6 7 if the last named county is Suffolk county, to the clerk of the superior 8 court for criminal business; and the clerk, upon receiving the indict- 9 ment so transmitted, shall make immediate entry of the case upon the 10 docket of the superior court for such county.

1 Section 53. After the venue has been changed under the two pre- 2 ceding sections, the district attorney for the county where the indict- 3 ment was found shall have the same authority and duty in the case as 4 if the venue had not been changed.

1 Section 54. If a change of venue is ordered, the sheriff having 2 custody of the prisoner shall forthwith deliver him to the sheriff of the 3 county to which the venue has been changed, who shall receive and 4 safely keep him as if the indictment had been found in such county.

1 Section 55. A justice of the court, sitting at the trial or other 2 proceedings upon an indictment for murder, may allow reasonable 3 compensation for the services of counsel assigned to defend the pris- 4 oner if he is otherwise unable to procure counsel, and such compensa- 5 tion shall be paid by the county where the indictment is found.

1 Section 56. The reasonable expenses incurred and paid by counsel 2 assigned by the court for the defence of a person indicted for murder, 3 who is otherwise unable to procure counsel, shall be paid by the county 4 where the indictment is found after approval by a justice sitting at the 5 trial or other proceedings of the case.

VENUE OF SPECIFIC CRIMES.

1 Section 57. A crime committed on or within one hundred rods of 2 the boundary line of two counties may be alleged to have been com- 3 mitted, and may be prosecuted and punished, in either county; and 4 if committed on or within fifty rods of the boundary line of two judicial 5 districts, it may be alleged to have been committed, and may be prose- 6 cuted and punished, in either district. A crime committed upon the 7 sea within one league of the shore may be prosecuted and punished in 8 an adjacent county.

1 Section 57A. A defendant shall not be discharged for want of juris- 2 diction if the evidence discloses that the crime with which he is charged 3 was actually committed without the county or the territorial jurisdiction 4 of the court in which he is being tried; provided, that the attorney general 5 or the district attorney petitions to the court before proceeding with the 6 trial for leave to proceed, stating that he is in doubt from the state of the 7 evidence then in his possession as to whether or not the crime was com- 8 mitted within the county or the territorial jurisdiction of the court, and 9 the court after hearing said petition orders the trial to proceed.

1 Section 58. Larceny, whether at common law or as defined by 2 section thirty of chapter two hundred and sixty-six, may be prosecuted 3 and punished in any county where the defendant had possession of the 4 property alleged to have been stolen.

VENUE OF INDICTMENT FOR OBTAINING MONEY BY FALSE PRETENSES.

Section 59. The crime of obtaining money or a personal chattel by a false pretence, and the crime described in section thirty-one of chapter two hundred and sixty-six, may be alleged to have been committed, and may be prosecuted and punished, in any county where the false pretence was made, written or used, or in or through which any of the property obtained was carried, sent, transported or received by the defendant.

Section 60. If a mortal wound is given, or if other violence or injury is inflicted, or if poison is administered, in one county, by means whereof death ensues in another county, the homicide may be prosecuted and punished in either county.

Section 61. If a mortal wound is given, or if other violence or injury is inflicted, or if poison is administered, on the high seas or on land either within or without the commonwealth, by means whereof death ensues in any county thereof, the homicide may be prosecuted and punished in the county where the death happens.

Section 62. If a mortal wound is given, or if other violence or injury is inflicted, or if poison is administered, in any county of the commonwealth, by means whereof death ensues without the commonwealth, the homicide may be prosecuted and punished in the county where the act was committed.

LIMITATION OF CRIMINAL PROSECUTIONS.

Section 63. An indictment for murder may be found at any time after the death of the person alleged to have been murdered. An indictment for any other crime shall be found and filed within six years after the crime has been committed; but any period during which the defendant is not usually and publicly resident within the commonwealth shall be excluded in determining the time limited.

Section 64. If an indictment, duly found and returned within the time limited by law against a corporation to recover a pecuniary penalty, is abated or otherwise avoided or defeated by reason of any matter of form, or if after a verdict against such corporation judgment is arrested, or if a judgment against such corporation is reversed on writ of error, a new indictment for the same cause may be found and filed within one year after the abatement of the former indictment or the reversal of the judgment as aforesaid.

ARREST, ARR AIGNMENT AND OTHER PROCEEDINGS.

Section 65. After the finding of an indictment for murder, the defendant, if in custody, shall forthwith be served by the sheriff or his deputy with a copy thereof and with an order of the court notifying him that the indictment will be entered forthwith upon the docket of the superior court for the county where found, or, if found in Dukes or Nantucket county, that it will be entered forthwith upon the docket of the superior court for Bristol county.

R. L. 218, § 56.

1 Section 68. The attorney general and district attorneys may issue subpoenas under their hands for witnesses to appear and testify on behalf of the commonwealth, and such subpoenas shall have the same force, and be obeyed in the same manner, and under the same penalties, in case of default, as if issued by the clerk of the court.

R. L. 218, § 57.

1 Section 69. Witnesses summoned in behalf of the commonwealth shall attend without the payment of fees, and shall be punishable for non-attendance; but if the court finds that they are unable to defray their expenses, it shall order their fees which have accrued to be paid, and may make such further order for the payment of their fees as may be considered reasonable. The court may at each sitting pass a general order for the payment of the fees of such witnesses.

1 Section 70. A justice of a court of record may at any time order a witness for the commonwealth in a criminal case or in a case under sections fifty-two to sixty-four, inclusive, of chapter one hundred and nineteen, pending in such court to recognize, with or without sureties, to appear and testify at the next or any succeeding sitting of said court, and may issue a warrant to bring such witness before him to recognize as aforesaid: but a witness unable to procure sureties shall not on that account be committed to jail except in cases of felony.

1 Section 70A. Except as otherwise provided by law, a nolle prosequi entered by a district attorney or assistant district attorney in a criminal case shall be accompanied by a written statement, signed by the district attorney or assistant district attorney making such entry, setting forth the reasons for such disposition. Said statement shall be filed with the 6 pleadings.

1 Section 70B. Except as otherwise provided by law, a criminal case shall not be placed on file, on motion of a district attorney or assistant district attorney, unless such motion is accompanied by a written statement of the reasons for such disposition, signed by the district attorney or assistant district attorney, which shall be filed with the pleadings, and also accompanied by a statement of any previous criminal record of the accused.

1 Section 71. If a defendant upon arraignment refuses to plead or does not confess the indictment to be true, the court shall order a plea of... not guilty to be entered, and shall thereupon proceed as if he had pleaded not guilty. It shall not be necessary in any case to ask a prisoner how he will be tried.

SECTION 72. Whoever is held in custody upon an indictment shall, if he requires it, either be tried at the sitting of the court next after the expiration of six months from the time when he was imprisoned or be bailed upon his own recognizance, unless the court finds that the witnesses on behalf of the government have been enticed or kept away or have been detained and prevented from attending the court by illness or inevitable accident.

SECTION 73. Any person in the commonwealth kept in confinement awaiting trial for more than six months after having been indicted, and finally acquitted or discharged without trial, if the delay in trial was not at his request or with his consent, or at the request or with the consent of his attorney of record, may receive compensation for the period of his confinement after the lapse of said six months and until his acquittal or discharge; provided, that the payment of compensation is approved by the justice who presided at the trial, or in case of a discharge without trial, by a justice of the superior court sitting at a session for criminal business in and for the county where the indictment was found. Such compensation shall be paid by the county where the indictment was found and shall be equivalent to the amount which the indicted person earned or received from his regular employment for any period of equal length during the two years immediately preceding his confinement; and if he had no employment, the compensation shall be such reasonable sum as shall be determined by the justice who presided at the trial, or, in case of a discharge without trial, by a justice of the superior court sitting at a session for criminal business in and for the county where the indictment was found. The justice, upon application by the person acquitted or discharged, shall give a hearing at which such person or his representative may be present, if he so desires, and the district attorney or other officer representing the commonwealth or the county may also be present, and the person acquitted or discharged and the commonwealth or county may offer testimony as in any civil case. The decision of the justice shall be final.

SECTION 74. The court may refuse to receive a plea in abatement or other dilatory plea to an indictment until its truth has been proved by affidavit or other evidence.

SECTION 75. In a plea of autrefois acquit or autrefois convict, an allegation that, at a certain sitting of a certain court, which shall be set forth, the defendant was lawfully acquitted or convicted, as the case may be, of the same crime with which he is again charged shall be sufficient.

SECTION 76. If an issue of fact is joined upon an indictment, the court may, upon application of the defendant, grant a commission to examine any material witnesses residing out of the commonwealth, in 4 the same manner as in civil causes; and the prosecuting officer may join 5 in such commission, and may name any material witnesses to be ex-6 amined on the part of the commonwealth.

1 Section 77. When such commission is issued, the interrogatories to 2 be annexed thereto shall be settled and the commission executed and 3 returned as is provided in relation to commissions in civil cases, and 4 the depositions taken thereon and returned shall be read in the same 5 manner and with the like effect, and subject to the same exceptions, 6 as in civil cases; but if the defendant on his trial declines to use the 7 deposition so taken, the prosecuting officer shall not, without the de-8 fendant’s consent, make use of any deposition taken on behalf of the 9 commonwealth.

1 Section 78. No proceedings against a person for a crime shall bar a 2 civil action which might otherwise be maintained by a person aggrieved 3 by the commission of the crime.

1 Section 79. The provisions of this chapter, and the forms hereto
2 annexed, shall apply as well to complaints as to indictments, and such 3 forms shall be sufficient in cases to which they are applicable. In other 4 cases, forms as nearly like the forms hereto annexed as the nature of the 5 cases and the provisions of law will allow may be used; but any other 6 form of indictment or complaint authorized by law may be used.

The court may assign counsel to an inmate of any institution for the reformation of juvenile offenders who is to be tried for an offence alleged to have been committed therein; and shall, upon application, order the superintendent or other officer of such institution to produce at the trial such inmates thereof as, in the opinion of the counsel for the defence, certified in writing, or of the judge, in the absence of counsel, are material witnesses for the defence; and such officer shall obey the order and provide for the custody and safe return of such inmates.

Section 16A. At the trial of a complaint or indictment for rape, incest, carnal abuse or other crime involving sex, where a minor under eighteen years of age is the person upon, with or against whom the crime is alleged to have been committed, or at the trial of a complaint or indictment for getting a woman with child out of wedlock, or for the non-support of an illegitimate child, the presiding justice shall exclude the general public from the court room, admitting only such persons as may have a direct interest in the case.

Section 17. An objection to a complaint, indictment or other criminal process for a formal defect apparent on the face thereof shall be taken by demurrer or by motion to quash, assigning specifically the objections relied on, before a judgment has been rendered by a district court or a trial justice, or before a jury has been sworn in the superior court.

Section 18. Whoever is convicted of a crime before a district court or trial justice may appeal to the superior court, and at the time of conviction shall be notified of his right to take such appeal. The case shall be entered in the superior court on the return day next after the appeal is taken, and the appellant shall be committed to abide the sentence of said court until he recognizes to the commonwealth, in such sum and with such surety or sureties as the court or trial justice requires, with condition to appear at the superior court on said return day and at any subsequent time to which the case may be continued, if not previously surrendered and discharged, and so from time to time until the final sentence, order or decree of the court thereon, and to abide such final sentence, order or decree, and not depart without leave, and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behavior. If the appellant is committed for failure to recognize, the superior court shall thereupon have jurisdiction of the case for the purpose of revising the amount of bail required as aforesaid.

In cases of misdemeanor the appellant may, in the discretion of the court or trial justice, be held on his own recognizance. The appellant shall not be required to advance any fees upon claiming his appeal or in prosecuting the same.
SECTION 19. Upon such appeal, said courts and trial justices shall have the like power to bind witnesses in the case by recognizances as they have by chapter two hundred and seventy-six when a prisoner is admitted to bail or committed.

SECTION 20. Upon such appeal, the clerk of the district court shall transmit to the clerk of the superior court a copy of the complaint and of the record of conviction, the original recognizances, a list of the witnesses, the appearance of the attorney for the defendant, if any is entered, and a statement of the expenses; and no other papers need be transmitted.

SECTION 23. At the trial of a criminal case in the superior court, upon indictment or appeal, the fact that the defendant did not testify at the preliminary hearing or trial in the lower court, or that at such hearing or trial he waived examination or did not offer any evidence in his own defence, shall not be used as evidence against him, nor be referred to or commented upon by the prosecuting officer.

1912, 325.  235 Mass. 56.

SECTION 24. If the appellant fails to enter and prosecute his appeal, he shall be defaulted on his recognizance and the superior court may impose sentence upon him for the crime of which he was convicted, as if he had been convicted in said court, and, if he is not then in custody, may issue process to bring him into court to receive sentence.

R. L. 219, § 27.

SECTION 25. The appellant may, at any time before the next sitting of the superior court for criminal business, come personally before the court or trial justice from whose judgment the appeal was taken and withdraw his appeal. If the appellant has been committed, the officer in charge of the jail, within forty-eight hours after his commitment, shall notify him of his right to withdraw his appeal and shall furnish him with a blank form of withdrawal, which, if signed by him, shall be witnessed by said officer; thereupon, or if prior to said notice the appellant notifies the said officer of his desire to withdraw his appeal, the said officer shall forward the defendant, with the signed form of withdrawal, to the court or trial justice before whom the appeal was taken. 12 case the court or trial justice may order the appellant to comply with the 13 sentence appealed from, in the same manner as if it were then first im-14 posed, or may revise or revoke the same if satisfied that cause for such 15 revision or revocation exists; provided, that the court or trial justice 16 shall not increase the sentence as first imposed, and if sureties had re-17 cognized with the appellant to prosecute his appeal they shall be dis-18 charged. If the copy of the record of conviction has been transmitted 19 to the superior court, the court or trial justice shall notify the clerk of 20 the superior court of the withdrawal of the appeal, who shall thereupon 21 make a memorandum thereof upon the record of the superior court.

1 Section 26. In such case, compensation shall be allowed and paid
2 by the town where the crime was committed to the jailer for his expenses
3 in the conveyance and custody of the appellant, at the same rate as is 4 allowed to officers serving a mittimus. If the appeal was from a sentence
5 to pay a fine, the fees of the jailer shall be paid by the appellant if, after 6 the appeal is withdrawn, he pays the fine.

1 Section 31. Exceptions may be alleged by a defendant in a criminal 2 case who is aggrieved by an opinion, ruling, direction or judgment of the 3 superior court rendered upon any question of law arising at the trial of 4 such case or upon a motion for a new trial, but not upon a plea in abatement; provided, that exceptions alleged in any proceedings or trial upon an indictment for murder or manslaughter, or upon an indictment or complaint for any other felony by order of the justice of the superior court presiding at such proceedings or trial made subject to sections thirty-three A to thirty-three G, inclusive, shall be governed by said sections, and authority to make any such proceedings or trial subject to said sections is hereby granted to said presiding justice, and no bill of exceptions shall be entered or considered in the supreme judicial court in any such proceedings or trial. The exceptions shall be reduced to writing and filed with the clerk and notice thereof given to the commonwealth within three days after the verdict or after the opinion, ruling, direction or judgment excepted to is given, unless a further time, not exceeding five days, except by consent of the district attorney, is allowed by the court. The clerk, 17 immediately upon the filling of the exceptions, shall present them to the court, and if, upon examination thereof by the presiding justice, they are found conformable to the truth, they shall be allowed by him. In all 20 cases, the district attorney shall have an opportunity to be heard concerning the allowance of such exceptions. The provisions of sections one hundred and fifteen to one hundred and seventeen, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and thirty-one, so far as appropriate, shall apply to exceptions taken in criminal cases.

Section 32. If the defendant neglects to enter his appeal, exceptions or report in the supreme judicial court, or neglects to take the necessary measures for the hearing of the cause in the supreme judicial court, the superior court may, upon the application of the district attorney and after notice, order that the appeal, exceptions or report be dismissed and that the judgment, opinion, ruling or order appealed from, excepted to or reported be affirmed.

Section 33. Copies and papers relative to a question of law which arises in a criminal case in the superior court upon appeal, exception, report or otherwise shall be prepared by the clerk of the court at the expense of the commonwealth and shall thereupon be transmitted to and entered in the law docket of the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth, or for the proper county, as soon as may be after such question of law has been reserved and duly made matter of record in the superior court. Copies and papers as aforesaid shall be as specified by, and the number of copies to be prepared hereunder and the persons for whose use the same shall be transmitted shall be as provided in, the provisions of section one hundred and thirty-five of chapter two hundred and thirty-one relative to appellate proceedings in civil cases, except as otherwise provided in respect to the transcript of the evidence by sections thirty-three A to thirty-three G, inclusive, and the rules made thereunder, in criminal cases subject to said sections. Entry of a case hereunder shall not transfer the case, but only the question to be determined.

Section 33A. In any proceedings or trial upon an indictment for murder or manslaughter, or upon an indictment or complaint for any other felony by order of a justice of the superior court made subject to this and the six following sections as provided in section thirty-one, the evidence shall be taken by an official stenographer or by a stenographer appointed by the court, and transcribed in such number of copies as the Affirmance of § 7 court may direct. The evidence transcribed shall be designated as the 8 "Transcript of the Evidence"; shall be certified by the stenographer and 9 shall, with such corrections as are made therein by direction of the court, 10 be regarded as a true record of the evidence. Alleged errors in the trans-11 crip of the evidence must be seasonably called to the attention of the 12 court. Exceptions taken during the proceedings and trial shall be num-13 bered consecutively in the transcript of the evidence.

1 Section 33B. A defendant in a case of murder or manslaughter, or 2 other felony made subject to sections thirty-three A to thirty-three G 3 inclusive, as aforesaid, aggrieved by an opinion, ruling, direction or 4 judgment of the superior court, rendered upon any question of law arising 5 out of such case or upon a motion for a new trial, but not upon a plea in 6 abatement, who desires to appeal therefrom and whose exceptions thereto
7 have been seasonably saved shall, within twenty days after verdict, file 8 a claim of appeal in writing with the clerk, who shall forthwith notify the 9 district attorney of such claim.

1 Section 33C. Upon the filing of a claim of appeal, one copy of the 2 transcript of the evidence shall be delivered to the clerk, who shall forth-
3 with cause it to be substantially bound into volumes of convenient size
4 and inscribed with the name of the court from which the appeal is taken 5 the title and number of the case, and the term "Transcript of the Evi-6 dence". The clerk shall forthwith prepare a concise summary of the 7 record, which shall also include a copy of the indictment or complaint and 8 of such pleadings and motions as the district attorney or defendant may 9 designate. Written notice of the completion of the summary shall be 10 given by the clerk to the defendant or his counsel of record and the fact 11 that such notice was given shall be certified upon the record.

1 Section 33D. Within ten days after the notice provided for in the 2 preceding section the defendant shall file an assignment of errors. For 3 cause shown, a justice of the superior court may extend the time for filing
4 such assignment of errors; provided, that no assignment of errors may 5 be filed more than thirty days after such notice except upon order of a 6 justice of the supreme judicial court. The specific grounds upon which 7 any claim of error is based shall be set forth in a concise form. The mere 8 statement that the evidence was inadmissible or immaterial or irrelevant, 9 without other grounds, shall not be a sufficient assignment of error. There 10 shall be no statement of testimony in the assignment of errors other than 11 by reference to pages in the transcript, except when it is essential to 12 clarify the point raised.

1 Section 33E. The clerk shall, as speedily as possible but in any event
2 within ten days after the filing of the assignment of errors or within such 3 further time as a justice of the superior court may for cause allow, trans-4 mit the bound copy of the transcript of the evidence, the summary of the 5 record and the assignment of errors, which together shall constitute the 6 record on appeal, to the supreme judicial court for the county in which 7 the case is pending or to the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth
8 whenever first has a law sitting, including an adjourned sitting in the case
9 of the court for the commonwealth, after the assignment of errors is filed, 10 and upon receipt of the same such appeal shall forthwith be entered by the clerk on the docket of such court. The entry thereof shall not transfer the case but only the questions to be determined. The supreme judicial court shall consider all questions of law fairly raised.

SECTION 33F. If the defendant neglects to file an assignment of errors within the time specified in section thirty-three D, the appeal shall be dismissed by the superior court as a matter of course, unless further time is granted by a justice of the supreme judicial court, and the judgment appealed from be affirmed. If the defendant neglects to take the necessary measures for the hearing of the cause in the supreme judicial court, a justice of said court may order that the appeal be dismissed and that the judgment appealed from be affirmed or make such other orders as may be necessary to the furtherance of justice.

SECTION 33G. The supreme judicial court may make rules and regulations governing exhibits and the number of copies, form, printing, filing and disposition of all documents relating to appeals under the six preceding sections; provided, that the transcript of the evidence shall not be printed.

SECTION 34. No motion in arrest of judgment shall be allowed for a cause existing before verdict, unless it affects the jurisdiction of the court.

SECTION 35. In all trials in district courts, male and female prisoners shall not be placed at the same time in the same dock, unless they are complained of jointly.

SECTION 1. When a person convicted before a district court is sentenced to imprisonment, the court may direct that the execution of the sentence shall be suspended and that he be placed on probation for such time and on such terms and conditions as it shall fix. When a person so convicted is sentenced to pay a fine, and to stand committed until it is paid, the court may direct that the execution of the sentence be suspended for such time as it shall fix, and that he be placed on probation on condition that he pay the fine within such time. If the fine does not exceed fifteen dollars and the court finds that the defendant is unable to pay it when imposed, the execution of the sentence shall be suspended and he shall be placed on probation, unless the court shall find that he will probably default, or that such suspension will be detrimental to the interests of the public. If he is committed for non-payment of a fine, the order of commitment shall contain a recital of the findings of the court on which suspension is refused. The fine shall be paid in one payment, or in part payments, to the probation officer, and when fully paid the order of commitment shall be void. The probation officer shall give a receipt for every payment so made, shall keep a record of the same, shall pay the fine, or all sums received in part payment thereof, to the clerk of the court at the end of the period of probation or any extension thereof, and shall keep on file the clerk's receipt therefor. If during or at the end of said period the probation officer shall report that the fine is in whole or in part unpaid, and in his opinion the person is unwilling or unable to pay it, the court may either extend said period, place the case on file or revoke the suspension of the execution of the sentence. When such suspension is revoked, in a case where the fine has been paid in part, the defendant may be committed for default in payment of the balance.

The provisions of this section shall not permit the suspension of the execution of the sentence of a person convicted of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor if such offence was committed within a period of six years immediately following his final conviction of a like offence by a court or magistrate of the commonwealth, or of a person convicted of a felony if it shall appear that he has been previously convicted of any felony.

Section 1A. When a person convicted before a district court is sentenced to fine and imprisonment, the court may direct that the execution of the sentence be suspended as to the fine or the imprisonment or both, and that he be placed on probation for such time and on such terms and conditions as it shall fix; the court may direct, as one of such terms and conditions, that payment of the fine may be made to the probation officer in one payment, or in part payments, during the period of probation or any extension thereof, and when such fine shall have been fully paid the order of commitment as to the fine shall be void, but the order of commitment as to imprisonment shall not be affected by such payment. The probation officer shall give a receipt for every payment so made, shall keep a record of the same, shall pay the fine, or all sums received in part payment thereof, to the clerk of the court at the end of the period of probation or any extension thereof, and shall keep on file the clerk’s receipt therefor. If during or at the end of said period the probation officer shall report that the fine is in whole or in part unpaid, and in his opinion the person is unwilling or unable to pay it, the court may either extend said period, place the case on file or revoke the suspension of the execution of the sentence. When such suspension is revoked, in a case where the fine has been paid in part, the defendant may be committed for default in payment of the balance, and may also be committed for the term of imprisonment fixed in the original sentence. This section shall not permit the suspension of the execution of the sentence of any person convicted of a felony if it shall appear that he has been previously convicted of any felony.

Section 2. In all cases the execution of orders of commitment to the Massachusetts reformatory, the reformatory for women, any training school, however named, the Lyman school, the industrial school for boys and the department of public welfare may be suspended, and such suspension continued or revoked, in the same manner and with the same effect as the execution of sentences in criminal cases.

Section 3. At any time before final disposition of the case of a person placed on probation in the custody of a probation officer, the probation officer may arrest him without a warrant and take him before the court, or the court may issue a warrant for his arrest. When taken before the court, it may, if he has not been sentenced, sentence him or make any other lawful disposition of the case, and if he has been sentenced, it may continue or revoke the suspension of the execution of his sentence. If such suspension is revoked, the sentence shall be in full force and effect.
1. Section 3A. Not later than seven days after a plea of guilty or after a verdict of guilty and in any event before adjournment of the sitting at which such plea or verdict has been taken and recorded in a case of felony not punishable by death wherein no question of law has been reported for decision by the supreme judicial court, the district attorney shall move for a judgment of sentence.

2. Section 4. Sentence shall be imposed upon conviction of a crime not punishable by death, although exceptions have been alleged or an appeal taken. The reservation, filing or allowance of exceptions, or the entry of an appeal, shall not stay the execution of the sentence unless the justice imposing it, or a justice of the supreme judicial court, files a certificate that in his opinion there is reasonable doubt whether the judgment should stand. If sentence is so stayed, the justice may at the same time make an order relative to the custody of the prisoner or for admitting him to bail.

3. Section 4A. Before disposition by sentence or placing on file or probation of any criminal prosecution for an offence punishable by imprisonment for more than one year, the court shall obtain from its probation officer all available information relative to prior criminal convictions, if any, of the defendant and to the disposition of each such conviction.

4. Section 5. If no punishment for a crime is provided by statute, the court shall impose such sentence, according to the nature of the crime, as conforms to the common usage and practice in the commonwealth. Where a person is convicted of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment, he may, unless otherwise expressly provided, be sentenced to imprisonment either in the jail or in the house of correction.

5. Section 6. Whoever is convicted of a crime punishable wholly or in part by imprisonment in jail may be sentenced to such imprisonment in the house of correction, or to solitary imprisonment and confinement at hard labor either in the jail or house of correction; and if convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment in the house of correction sentenced there to such imprisonment in a jail.

6. Section 7. Whoever is convicted of a crime punishable by a fine and is liable to imprisonment in the jail for its non-payment, may be sentenced to such imprisonment in the house of correction, or to confinement at hard labor either in the jail or house of correction.

7. Section 8. A convict upon whom two or more sentences to imprisonment are imposed may be fully committed upon all such sentences at the same time, and shall serve them in the order named in the mittimus upon which he is committed; but when fine and imprisonment are named in one of the sentences the prisoner shall always be committed upon the term sentence first.
SECTION 8A. For the purpose only of determining the time of the taking effect of a sentence which is ordered to take effect from and after the expiration of a previous sentence, such previous sentence shall be deemed to have expired when a prisoner serving such previous sentence shall have been released therefrom by parole or otherwise. Nothing in this section shall be construed to alter or control any provision of section one hundred and thirty-one or one hundred and forty-nine of chapter one hundred and twenty-seven.

SECTION 9. If a convict is sentenced to pay a fine in more than one case and has been committed to a jail, house of correction or other prison for refusing to pay such fine, the subsequent sentence shall take effect upon the expiration of the imprisonment under the former sentence.

SECTION 10. If a person has been convicted of a crime punishable, at the discretion of the court, by fine or imprisonment in the jail or house of correction or by fine or imprisonment in the state prison, the court may impose upon him a conditional sentence, and order him to pay a fine within a limited time which shall be expressed in the sentence, and in default thereof to suffer such imprisonment as is provided by law. He shall be forthwith committed to the custody of an officer in court or to the jail, to be detained until the sentence is complied with; and if he does not within the time limited pay the fine imposed, the sheriff shall cause the other part of the sentence to be executed forthwith.

SECTION 11. Whoever is convicted of a crime, punishable by fine and imprisonment either in the jail or house of correction, except a person convicted under section thirty-three of chapter one hundred and thirty-eight, may, at the discretion of the court, be sentenced to be punished by imprisonment only, or by a fine only, if he shows to the satisfaction of the court that he has not before been convicted of a similar crime.

SECTION 12. Except as provided in section twenty-eight of chapter two hundred and eighteen and in section twenty of chapter two hundred and nineteen, if a husband is convicted of an assault upon his wife, the court may, in addition to the other penalties imposed, or in lieu thereof, order him to recognize with surety or sureties to keep the peace for any term of not more than two years, and may at any time revoke such order or reduce the amount required or order that the recognizance be taken without surety.

SECTION 13. Except as provided in section twenty-eight of chapter two hundred and eighteen and in section twenty of chapter two hundred and nineteen, whoever is convicted of a misdemeanor may, in addition to the punishment prescribed by law, be required to recognize, with sufficient sureties, in a reasonable sum to keep the peace, or to be of good behavior, or both, for any term of not more than two years, and to stand committed until he so recognizes.
1 Section 14. Such recognizance shall be filed of record in the superior court for the county, and, upon a breach of the condition thereof, the proceedings shall be as provided in chapter two hundred and seventy-five relative to recognizances to keep the peace and be of good behavior.

1 Section 15. Whoever is convicted of a crime, punishable by imprisonment in the jail or house of correction, may be sentenced to a jail or house of correction of any county, and the master or keeper shall receive and detain him in the same manner as if he had been sentenced by a court sitting in the county where such jail or house of correction is situated.

1 Section 16. A female, convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment in a jail or house of correction, may be sentenced to the reformatory for women.

1 Section 17. The court or trial justice, imposing a sentence to the reformatory for women, shall not prescribe the limit of the sentence unless it is for more than five years.

1 Section 18. A female sentenced to the reformatory for women for larceny or any felony may be held therein for not more than five years, unless she is sentenced for a longer term, in which case she may be held therein for such longer term; if sentenced to said reformatory for any other offence, she may be held therein for not more than two years.

1 Section 19. The sentence to imprisonment of a female convicted of a felony shall be executed in the reformatory for women; or the court imposing sentence in such a case may impose the sentence in a jail or house of correction provided by law in the case of male prisoners, if it does not exceed two and one half years.

255 Mass. 525. 256 Mass. 539.

1 Section 20. Subject to the preceding section, a sentence of a female convict of whatever age to confinement at hard labor shall be executed in a jail or house of correction or the reformatory for women as the court orders.

1 Section 21. [Repealed, 1931, 426, § 49.]

1 Section 22. If a boy under sixteen, convicted of felony and sentenced to solitary imprisonment and confinement at hard labor for not more than three years, has not been previously sentenced to the state prison, or to any state prison or penitentiary in the United States, the sentence shall, subject to the following section, be executed in the jail.

Section 23. No sentence of a male convict to imprisonment or confinement for more than two and one half years shall be executed in any jail or house of correction.

G. S. 174, § 16. 1919, 5. 161 Mass. 120. 238 Mass. 532.

Section 24. If a convict is sentenced to the state prison, except for life or as an habitual criminal, the court shall not fix the term of imprisonment, but shall fix a maximum and a minimum term for which he may be imprisoned. The maximum term shall not be longer than the longest term fixed by law for the punishment of the crime of which he has been convicted, and the minimum term shall not be less than two and one half years.

Section 25. Whoever has been twice convicted of crime and sentenced and committed to prison in this or another state, or once in this and once or more in another state, for terms of not less than three years each, and does not show that he has been pardoned for either crime on the ground that he was innocent, shall, upon conviction of a felony, be considered an habitual criminal and be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for the maximum term provided by law as a penalty for the felony for which he is then to be sentenced.

Section 26. A convict under sentence of imprisonment in the state prison may be sentenced for a further time of not less than one year.

Section 27. If a convict serving a sentence of imprisonment in a jail or house of correction is convicted of a felony, the court may impose sentence of imprisonment in the state prison and order it to take effect forthwith, notwithstanding the former sentence. The convict shall thereupon be removed to the state prison, and shall be discharged at the expiration of his sentence thereto.

Section 28. If a convict serving a sentence of imprisonment in the Massachusetts reformatory is convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment in the state prison or house of correction, the court may impose sentence of imprisonment therein and may order it to take effect forthwith, notwithstanding the former sentence. The convict shall thereupon be removed accordingly, and shall be discharged at the expiration of his sentence thereto.

Section 29. The form of a sentence to the state prison shall be, that the convict be punished by confinement at hard labor and by solitary imprisonment for such term, not exceeding twenty days at one time, as the court orders. In the execution of such sentence, the solitary imprisonment shall precede the punishment by hard labor, unless the court otherwise orders; but in case of severe illness of the convict, the warden, upon the certificate of the prison physician, may postpone the solitary imprisonment until the health of the convict is so far restored that his life will not be endangered thereby.
1 Section 30. If a convict sentenced by a court of the commonwealth or of the United States to imprisonment in the state prison holds an office under the constitution or laws of the commonwealth at the time of sentence, he shall be vacated from the time of sentence. If the judgment against him is reversed upon writ of error, he shall be restored to his office with all its rights and emoluments; but, if pardoned, he shall not by reason thereof be restored, unless it is so expressly ordered by the terms of the pardon.

1 Section 31. A male under thirty years of age, not previously sentenced for felony more than three times, convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment in the state prison or in a jail or house of correction may be sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory. District courts and trial justices shall have the same jurisdiction to sentence such person to said reformatory as they have to sentence him to such jail or house of correction.

1 Section 32. The court imposing a sentence of imprisonment in the Massachusetts reformatory shall not fix the term thereof unless it exceeds five years, but shall merely impose a sentence of imprisonment therein; and prisoners may be received and held therein who have been sentenced thereto by a court of the United States for a fixed or limited term.

1 Section 33. Whoever is sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory for larceny or for any felony may be held therein for not more than five years unless sentenced for a longer term, in which case he may be held therein for such longer term; if committed to said reformatory as a delinquent child he may be held therein for not more than two years; if sentenced to said reformatory for drunkenness he may be held therein for not more than one year; if sentenced to said reformatory for any other offence he may be held therein for not more than two years.

1 Section 34. When a convict is sentenced to pay a fine or to be imprisoned, the clerk of the court shall forthwith make out and deliver to the sheriff or to some officer in court a duly certified transcript from the minutes of the court of the conviction and sentence, which shall authorize the officer to execute such sentence, and he shall execute it accordingly.

1 Section 35. When a person is committed to the state prison, the Massachusetts reformatory, the reformatory for women or to any other public penal institution, on conviction of felony, the clerk of the court shall, without charge, transmit with the mittimus an attested copy of the complaint or indictment under which such person was convicted, and the names and addresses of the witnesses who testified for and against such person at the trial, together with a record containing the names and addresses of the presiding justice, district attorney and of the attorney for the defendant.

1 Section 36. In imposing a sentence of imprisonment at the state farm, the court or trial justice shall not fix or limit the duration thereof.

Whoever is sentenced to the state farm for drunkenness may be there held in custody for not more than one year, and if so sentenced for any other offence may be there held in custody for not more than two years.

SECTION 37. Every warrant for the commitment of a person sentenced by a district court or trial justice shall set forth the statutory name, if any, of the crime of which the person was convicted, and shall contain a citation of the statute, if any, under which the complaint was drawn.

SECTION 38. A sheriff, deputy sheriff or constable, when engaged in the execution of a warrant for the commitment of a person to a penal institution which is not in his own county, shall have the same powers in any county through which he may pass as he would have in his own county in the performance of a similar duty.

R. L. 220, § 32.

SECTION 39. The officer serving the precept in a criminal case shall, without charging travel therefor, return it with his doings and fees endorsed thereon to the court or magistrate issuing it, who shall tax, allow and certify the fees as a part of the expenses in the case. In case of commitment, the officer shall leave with the jailer or keeper of the prison an attested copy of the precept, with his return thereon, which shall authorize the detention of the person committed.

SECTION 40. If a convict imprisoned under sentence is again sentenced to confinement in a prison other than that in which he is then held, the warrant for his commitment in pursuance of the second sentence shall be placed in the hands of the warden, superintendent, master or keeper of the prison where the convict is held, and said warden, superintendent, master or keeper, upon the expiration of the first sentence, shall commit the convict in obedience to said warrant.

SECTION 41. If a corporation, after being duly served with process, fails to appear and answer to an indictment or complaint brought against it under the laws of the commonwealth, its default shall be recorded, the charges in the indictment or complaint taken to be true, and judgment rendered accordingly.

SECTION 42. If judgment is rendered against a corporation upon an indictment or complaint under the laws of the commonwealth, the court may issue a warrant of distress to compel payment of the penalty prescribed by law, with interest.

SECTION 43. In pronouncing sentence of death upon a person convicted of a capital crime, the court shall appoint a week within which the sentence shall be executed. The clerk of the court shall, as soon as may be, make out and deliver to the governor a certified copy of the whole record of the conviction and sentence, and shall immediately thereafter make out, sign and deliver to the sheriff of the county where the conviction was had a warrant under the seal of the court stating the conviction and sentence, and the week appointed for the execution thereof, and shall at the same time transmit to the warden of the state prison a certified copy of the warrant. Such warrant shall be directed to 10

the warden of the state prison commanding him to cause execution to be done in accordance with the provisions of such sentence upon a day within the week so appointed.

1 Section 44. After a convict has been sentenced to the punishment of death, he shall be confined in jail in the county where he was convicted until within ten days of the first day of the week appointed for the execution of the sentence of death. He shall, within such ten days, at a time chosen by the sheriff, be conveyed by him or a deputy designated by him, as secretly as may be, to the state prison, and shall, with the warrant, be delivered to the warden thereof or to the officer performing the duties thereof. He shall, unless lawfully discharged from such imprisonment, be kept in a cell provided for the purpose from the time of such delivery until the sentence of death is executed upon him, and no person shall be allowed access to him without an order of the court, except the officers and employees of the prison, his counsel, and such physicians, priest or minister of religion as the warden may approve, and the members of his family who are identified to the satisfaction of the warden. If the execution of the sentence of death is resipted by the governor, or is otherwise delayed by process of law, the convict may, in the discretion of the warden, be confined in a cell used for solitary confinement.

1 Section 45. The sentence of death shall be executed by the warden of the state prison, or by a person acting under his direction, within the week appointed by the court, unless the governor pardons the crime, commutes the punishment therefor or resiptes the execution or said execution is otherwise delayed by process of law. If the execution is respited or stayed by process of law, the sentence of death shall be executed within the week beginning on the day next after the day on which the term of respite or stay expires. The sentence of death shall be executed upon such day within the week appointed as the warden elects, at some time between midnight and sunrise; but no previous announcement thereof shall be made, except to such persons as may be permitted to be present.

1 Section 46. The punishment of death shall be inflicted by causing a current of electricity of sufficient intensity to cause death to pass through the body of the convict, and the application of such current shall be continuous until he is dead. The sentence shall be executed within an enclosure or building for that purpose adjoining the state prison and the company which furnishes the electric power or light to the state prison shall provide all necessary electricity for executions at such times as the warden orders.

1 Section 47. If a person convicted of a capital crime is, at the time when motion for sentence is made, found by the court to be insane, it may cause such person to be removed to one of the state hospitals for such term and under such limitations as it may order. If a woman convicted of a capital crime is, at the time when motion for sentence is made, found by the court to be quick with child, the court shall not pass sentence upon her until it finds that she is no longer quick with child.

council that a convict under sentence of death has become insane, the JUDGMENT AND EXECUTION. [Chap. 279.

The governor, with the advice and consent of the council, may, from time to time for stated periods, respite the execution of said sentence, until it appears to their satisfaction that the convict is no longer insane. If it appears to the satisfaction of the governor and council that a female convict under sentence of death is quick with child, the governor, with the advice and consent of the council, shall from time to time respite the execution of said sentence for stated periods until it appears to their satisfaction that she is no longer quick with child.

SECTION 49. The governor, with the advice and consent of the council, may from time to time respite the execution of a sentence of death for stated periods so long as he may consider it necessary to afford him, with the advice and consent of the council, an opportunity to pardon the convict and to investigate and consider the facts of the case for that purpose.

SECTION 49A. The execution of a sentence of death may be stayed from time to time for definite and stated periods by the supreme judicial court, or a justice thereof, pending the final determination of any judicial question arising in or out of the case in which the sentence is imposed.

SECTION 50. There shall be present at the execution of the sentence of death, in addition to the warden, deputy warden and such officers of the state prison as the warden deems necessary, the person performing the execution under the direction of the warden, the prison physician, the chief surgeon of the militia, a medical examiner for Suffolk county, or, if they are unable to be present, such physicians as the warden approves. The physicians present shall be the legal witnesses of the execution. There may also be present the sheriff of the county where the defendant was convicted or his deputy, a priest or minister of religion and, with the approval of the warden, not more than three other persons.

SECTION 51. There shall be a post mortem examination by a medical examiner for Suffolk county of the body of every person electrocuted in conformity with the sentence of a court.

SECTION 52. When the warden has executed the sentence of death upon a convict in obedience to a warrant from the court, he shall forthwith make return thereof under his hand, with the doings thereon, to the office of the clerk of said court.

2 Sections 2. A fine or forfeiture imposed by the superior court shall except as otherwise provided, be paid over to the treasurer of the county where the proceeding in which the fine or forfeiture was imposed was tried, or in Suffolk county to the collector of Boston, except in cases appealed from district courts or trial justices, in counties other than Suffolk, the fine or forfeiture shall be paid into the treasury of the county where it was imposed, and the treasurer of the said county shall pay to the town where the offence was committed the costs as certified by the clerk of the inferior court from which the case was appealed.

3 A fine or forfeiture imposed by a district court or trial justice shall, except as otherwise provided, be paid to the town where the crime or offence was committed. If the whole or any part of a fine is by law payable to a complainant or informant or to a person or corporation as beneficiary, the court or trial justice may apportion the fine or forfeiture between such complainant, informant or other beneficiary and the county or town, respectively. This section shall not apply to fines payable into the state treasury under section thirty-four of chapter ninety.

and the expense thereof shall be paid in the same manner as other expenses in the case.

SECTION 6. Before imposing a fine as a penalty or part penalty for a crime, the court or justice shall determine the reasonable and actual expense of the prosecution, including the services of officers and witnesses, the detention and support of the defendant and the expense of serving a mittimus or other warrant of commitment; and may impose a fine, not exceeding the maximum fine prescribed for the crime, which shall include the whole or any part of the amount of the expenses so found and determined. If the presiding justice is of opinion that the maximum fine is an inadequate penalty for the crime committed, he may impose such maximum fine and order the defendant to pay the whole or any part of the expenses of the prosecution. Defendants who pay such expenses after commitment shall also pay the expense of commitment.

SECTION 7. At the end of every sitting of the superior court for the transaction of criminal business, the clerk shall make and deliver to the treasurers of the respective counties, cities or towns certificates of all

SECTION 9. The clerks of all courts in Suffolk county, except those named in the preceding section, who are required to account to Boston shall, on or before the tenth day of each month, pay over to the collector of said city and account, on oath, for all fines, fees and other money received by them in any criminal proceedings during the preceding calendar month remaining after the payments therefrom allowed by law.

SECTION 10. The treasurer of Boston shall pay to the persons entitled thereto all witness fees or other money due for services rendered or expenses incurred in any of the courts named in section eight, or for any of the aforesaid officers, upon presentation to him of a certificate stating the name of the claimant, of the court and of the case, the nature of the services rendered or expenses incurred and the amount due therefor, signed by the clerk of the court or by the officer for whom the service was rendered.

1 Section 11. Except as otherwise provided in section eighty of chapter two hundred and seventy-six, fines and forfeitures imposed in criminal prosecutions by the superior court to the use of the commonwealth, or to any county, or to Boston, and all amounts found to be due on forfeited recognizances, shall, under the direction of the court, be certified by the clerk to the sheriff. The sheriff or his deputy may receive such fines and forfeitures, but the sheriff shall, except as otherwise provided by law, within ten days after the final adjournment of the sitting of the court, pay the same without deduction to the county treasurer and render to him, or in Suffolk county to the collector of Boston, an account, on oath, of all amounts which he has received since the last preceding sitting of the court for fines, forfeitures and forfeited recognizances and the names of the persons from whom received and against whom awarded. If a sheriff neglects for thirty days to render such account he shall be liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars, which shall be recovered in the manner provided in section thirteen.

1 Section 12. A sheriff who, having a person in his custody by virtue of the sentence of a court, voluntarily or negligently suffers him to escape shall be held to have received the fines, forfeitures or forfeited recognizances described in the preceding section, at the time of the escape, and shall be liable for the same, with interest and costs, as if he had received them.

1 Section 13. If a sheriff neglects to make such payment for thirty days, the county treasurer shall recover of him in contract the amount of such fines, forfeitures and forfeited recognizances, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent from the time of receiving or from the time he is held to have received the same and costs.

1 Section 14. A person committed to a jail or house of correction in default of payment of a fine may pay it to the keeper of the jail or master of the house of correction, and the warrant for his commitment shall designate the town where the offence for which the fine was imposed was committed and the use to which such fine is payable by the officer receiving it.

1 Section 15. Every keeper of a jail and master of a house of correction shall, except in Suffolk county as provided in section eight, on the first days of January, April, July and October, pay over to the persons entitled thereto all money received by him under the preceding section during the preceding three months, and render to the county treasurer an account, on oath, showing the names of the prisoners by whom payments have been so made, the court by which each was committed and the amount received from each.

SECTION 16. The county treasurer shall pay over to the persons entitled thereto all amounts allowed to them for expenses or fees in criminal prosecutions, or allowed by the courts as rewards or compensations to prosecutors, which have been duly certified by the clerks, if demanded within three years after the allowance thereof; but he shall pay no such amounts to a trial justice, or to a clerk of a district court, until the trial justice or clerk has rendered a written account of all fines received by him since his last return, and of all fees which have remained in his hands for one year after their allowance.
