GENERAL PROVISIONS.
1 Section 1. The following words, as used in this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires or a different meaning is specifically prescribed, shall have the following meanings:

4 “Commissioner”, the commissioner of insurance.
5 “Company”, all corporations, associations, partnerships or individuals engaged as principals in the business of insurance.
7 “Compensation”, as used in section twelve, relates to all insurance effected under statutes providing compensation to employees for personal injuries regardless of the fault of the employer.
10 “Domestic company”, a company incorporated or formed in the commonwealth.
12 “Earned premiums”, as used in section twelve, includes gross premiums charged in all policies written, including all determined excess and additional premiums less return premiums, other than premiums returned to policyholders as dividends, and less reinsurance premiums on policies in force. But any participating company which has charged in its premiums a loading solely for dividends shall not be required to include such loading in its earned premiums; provided, that a statement of the amount of such loading has been filed with and approved by the commissioner.
22 “Foreign company”, a company formed by authority of any state or government other than this commonwealth.
24 “Insurance company” or “insurer”, the same meaning as “company”.
25 “Liability”, as used in section twelve, relates to all insurance, except compensation insurance, against loss or damage from accident to or injuries suffered by an employee or other person, for which the insured 27 is liable.

"Loss payments" and "loss expense payments", as used in said 29
section, include all payments to claimants, including payments for 30 medical and surgical attendance, legal expenses, salaries and expenses 31 of investigators, adjusters and field men, rents, stationery, telegraph and 32 telephone charges, postage, salaries and expenses of office employees, 33 home office expenses, and all other payments made on account of claims, 34 whether such payments shall be allocated to specific claims or unallocated. 35

"Net assets", the funds of a company available for the payment of its 36 obligations in the commonwealth, including, in the case of a mutual fire 37 company, its deposit notes or other contingent funds, and, in the case of a 38 mutual marine company its subscription fund and premium notes absolutely due, and also including uncollected and deferred premiums not 40 more than three months due, or in the case of business originating outside 41
the North American continent, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Cuba and the West 42 Indies not more than six months due, on policies actually in force, after 43 deducting from such funds all unpaid losses and claims, and claims for 44 losses, and all other debts and liabilities inclusive of net value of policies 45 and exclusive of capital, guaranty capital or guaranty fund, if any. 46

"Net value of policies", the liability of a company upon its insurance 47 contracts, other than accrued claims, computed by rules of valuation 48 established by sections nine to twelve, inclusive.

"Profits" of a mutual company, that portion of its cash funds not 50 required for payment of losses and expenses nor set apart for any purpose 51 allowed by law.

"Unearned premiums", the same meaning as "net value of policies". 53

Section 2. A contract of insurance is an agreement by which one 1 party for a consideration promises to pay money or its equivalent, or to 2 do an act valuable to the insured, upon the destruction, loss or injury 3 of something in which the other party has an interest.

[See § 107 as to surety bonds.]

Section 2A. Contracts of reinsurance shall be deemed contracts of 1 insurance as defined in section two, and authority to make contracts of 2 insurance shall include authority to make contracts of reinsurance covering the same classes of risks, but the hazards under such contracts shall be 3 deemed distinct in nature from the hazard originally insured. No provision of law relative to the form of insurance policies shall apply to contracts of reinsurance unless made specifically applicable thereto.

Section 3. No company shall make a contract of insurance upon or 1 relative to any property or interests or lives in the commonwealth, or 2 with any resident thereof, and no person shall negotiate, solicit, or in any 3 manner aid in the transaction of such insurance or of its continuance or 4 renewal, except as authorized by this chapter or chapter one hundred and 5 seventy-six or one hundred and seventy-eight, or except as otherwise 6 expressly authorized by law.

powers and duties of commissioner of insurance.

section 3a. the commissioner shall administer and enforce the provisions of this chapter and chapter one hundred and seventy-six, and so far as is provided therein, chapter one hundred and seventy-eight. if, upon complaint, examination or other evidence exhibited to him, he is of the opinion that any provision of said chapters has been violated, he shall forthwith report the facts to the attorney general, to the proper district attorney or to the commissioner of public safety, who shall cause the offender to be prosecuted therefor.

section 4. before granting licenses or certificates of authority to a company to issue policies of insurance or annuity or pure endowment contracts, the commissioner shall be satisfied, by such examination as he may make and such evidence as he may require, that such company, is otherwise duly qualified under the law of the commonwealth to transact business therein. he shall require every domestic company to keep its books, records, accounts and vouchers in such manner that he or his authorized representatives may readily verify its annual statements and ascertain whether the company has complied with the law.

at least once in three years, and whenever he determines it to be prudent, he shall personally, or by his deputy or examiner, visit each domestic company, and thoroughly inspect and examine its affairs to ascertain its financial condition, its ability to fulfill its obligations, whether it has complied with the law, and any other facts relating to its business methods and management, and the equity of its dealings with its policyholders.

he shall also make such examination upon the request of five or more of the stockholders, creditors, policyholders or persons peculiarly interested therein who shall make affidavit of their belief, with specifications of their reasons therefor, that such company is in an unsound condition.

if, in the course of an examination of a domestic company which maintains a branch office outside the commonwealth, it becomes necessary or expedient for the commissioner or any of his deputies or examiners to travel outside the commonwealth, such company shall pay the proper expenses of the commissioner, his deputies or examiners incurred by reason thereof. whenever he deems it advisable he shall cause a complete audit of the books of the company to be made by a disinterested expert accountant.

whenever he determines it to be prudent, for the protection of policyholders in the commonwealth, he shall in like manner visit and examine, or cause to be visited and examined by some competent persons whom he may appoint therefor, any foreign company applying for admission or already admitted to do business in the commonwealth; and such company shall pay the proper charges incurred in such examination, including the expenses of the commissioner or his deputy or examiners and the expenses and compensation of his appointees employed therein.

a report of an examination of any company made under this section may, as far as material and relevant, be admitted, in the discretion of the court, in any judicial proceeding under section five or six, as prima facie evidence of the facts stated in such report; but nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to require the commissioner to make an examination under this section before proceeding to act under section five or six.
The assets and liabilities of the company shall be allowed and computed, in any report of an examination made under this section, in accordance with sections nine to twelve, inclusive, and may be set forth therein in accordance with the items specified in the forms of annual statements prescribed by section twenty-five, so far as the commissioner may deem appropriate.

If it shall appear upon examination that any company has entered into an agreement with a corporation, domestic or foreign, or other organization whereby such corporation or organization has undertaken, except by reinsurance, to be responsible for the whole or any part of the expenses, liabilities or other obligations appertaining to the transaction of business by such company for the consideration that such company shall become liable to such corporation or organization for a part of said company's income, assets or profits, the commissioner may examine or cause to be examined such corporation or organization, and may thoroughly investigate its affairs to ascertain its financial condition, its ability to fulfill its obligation to the company, and any other facts relating to its business methods and management, and shall set forth his findings, so far as they affect the financial condition of the company, in a report which shall be a public record.

If it shall appear to the commissioner, from charges filed with him setting forth the facts on oath, that unwarranted and misleading statements, estimates and promises are being made and excessive compensation allowed for promoting the sale in the commonwealth of stock for establishing a new company, domestic or foreign, the commissioner shall investigate said charges, or may act on his own initiative in making such investigations, and shall make a record in his department of his findings in relation thereto.

The commissioner may investigate, in such manner and to such extent as he may deem expedient, any complaint of a policyholder in respect to any claim under any policy of insurance or annuity or pure endowment contract.

The commissioner or the person authorized by him to make examinations or investigations provided for by this section shall have free access to all the assets of the company, corporation or other organization for the purpose of verification and to all the books and papers relating to its business and to the books and papers of its representatives. The person authorized by him may summon and examine under oath any person who, he believes, has knowledge of the affairs, transactions or circumstances being examined or investigated; and whoever without justifiable cause neglects upon due summons to appear and testify before the commissioner or his authorized representative, and whoever obstructs said commissioner or said representative in making examinations or investigations heretofore, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

SECTION 5. If the commissioner is satisfied, upon examination or other evidence submitted to him, that any foreign company is insolvent or is in an unsound financial condition, or that its business policies or methods are unsound or improper, or that its condition or management is such as to render its further transaction of business hazardous to the public or its policyholders, or that it is transacting business fraudulently, or that its officers or agents have refused to submit to an examination

8 under section four or to perform any legal obligation relative thereto or 9 that the amount of its funds, net cash or contingent assets is deficient 10 or that its capital stock or deposit or guaranty capital is impaired, as 11 set forth in section twenty-three A, or that such capital stock, deposit 12 or guaranty capital has been reduced below the amount required by 13 section one hundred and fifty-one, he shall revoke the license issued to 14 said company under section one hundred and fifty-one and the licenses 15 issued to all of its agents under said section and sixty-three; or, 16 if he is satisfied, as aforesaid, that any foreign company has violated any 17 provision of law or has failed to comply with its charter, he may revoke
18 such licenses or suspend them for a period not exceeding the unexpired 19 terms thereof. He shall give written notice to the company specifying 20 the date on which such revocation or suspension shall be effective, the 21 term of any such suspension and the ground for such revocation or sus-22 pension; provided, that if the ground for revocation or suspension is 23 that the company has violated any provision of law or has failed to com-
24 ply with its charter, the effective date of such revocation or suspension 25 shall be not less than ten days from the date of issue of said notice, and 26 the particulars of such violation or failure to comply with its charter
27 shall be specified in said notice. Such notice may be served by registered 28 mail, sent postage prepaid, addressed to the company at its last home 29 office address or, in the case of a company described in section one hun-30 dred and fifty-five, to its resident manager in the United States at his 31 last address, appearing on the records of the commissioner. An affidavit 32 of the commissioner, in such form as he may prescribe, or of anyone 33 authorized by him to give such notice, appended to a copy thereof, that 34 such notice has been mailed as aforesaid shall be prima facie evidence 35 that such notice has been duly given. He shall also cause notice of such 36 revocation or suspension to be published in such manner as he may deem 37 necessary for the protection of the public. Such company or its agents 38 shall not make any contracts, or issue any policies, of insurance in the 39 commonwealth after such revocation or suspension is effective nor until 40 its license is restored by the commissioner. A company aggrieved by a 41 revocation or suspension of its license hereunder, may within ten days 42 from the effective date of such revocation or suspension file a petition in 43 the supreme judicial court for the county of Suffolk for a review of such 44 action of the commissioner. The court shall summarily hear and deter-
45 mine the question whether the ground for revocation or suspension 46 specified in the notice of the commissioner exists and may make any 47 appropriate order or decree. If the order or decree is adverse to the 48 petitioning company it may within ten days therefrom appeal to the 49 full court; and in case of such an appeal the revocation or suspension of 50 the license of the said company shall continue in full force until the final 51 determination of the question by the full court, unless vacated by the 52 commissioner during the pendency of such appeal.

1 Section 6. If it appears to the commissioner that the capital of a 2 domestic stock company other than a life company is impaired to the 3 extent of one quarter or more on the basis fixed by sections ten to twelve, 4 inclusive, but that the company can with safety to the public and its 5 policyholders be permitted to continue to transact business, he shall 6 notify the company in writing that its capital is legally subject to be made 7 good as provided in section sixty-nine. If such a company other than a 8 life company shall not within three months after receiving such notice satisfy the commissioner that it has fully made good its capital or reduced it as provided in section seventy-one, or, if he is satisfied that any domestic company is insolvent or in an unsound financial condition, or that its business policies or methods are unsound or improper, or that its condition or management is such as to render its further transaction of business hazardous to the public or to its policyholders or creditors, or that it is transacting business fraudulently or that it or its officers or agents have refused to submit to an examination under section four or seventy-three, or that it has attempted or is attempting to compromise with its creditors on the ground that it is financially unable to pay its claims in full, or that, when its assets are less than its liabilities, inclusive of unearned premiums but exclusive of capital, if any, it has attempted or is attempting to the disadvantage of policyholders who have sustained losses to prefer or, has preferred, by reinsurance, policyholders who have sustained no losses, he shall, or, if he is satisfied that any domestic company has exceeded its powers or has violated any provision of law, or that the amount of its funds, insurance in force or premiums or number of risks is deficient or that its guaranty capital under section ninety B is impaired, as set forth in sections twenty-three, seventy-four, ninety-three D and one hundred and sixteen, he may, apply to the supreme judicial court for an injunction restraining it in whole or in part from further proceeding with its business. The court may issue a temporary injunction forthwith and may after a full hearing make the injunction permanent and may appoint one or more receivers to take possession of the property and effects of the company and to settle its affairs, subject to such rules and orders as the court may prescribe.

The appointment of a permanent receiver or receivers under this section shall terminate the liability of the company under all of its policies or contracts in force on the date of said appointment in respect to claims arising after thirty days from said date; provided, that its liability under any motor vehicle liability policy or motor vehicle liability bond, both as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety, which is in force on said date, shall terminate on the effective date of the new certificate, if any, filed under section thirty-four H of said chapter ninety, or, if no certificate is filed as aforesaid, on the effective date of the revocation under said section thirty-four H of the registration of the motor vehicle or trailer covered by such policy or bond. The insured under any policy, other than a motor vehicle liability policy or motor vehicle liability bond, both as defined as aforesaid, which is in force on the thirtieth day following the date of the appointment of such receiver or receivers and which by its terms provides for a cancellation thereof either by the insured or the company shall be entitled, subject to the provisions of section forty-six, to a return premium calculated on a pro rata basis as of the thirtieth day following the date of said appointment, if he has paid the premium thereon to the company, or its agent who issued the policy or to the duly licensed insurance broker, if any, through whom the policy was negotiated; and the insured under a motor vehicle liability policy or the principal on a motor vehicle liability bond, both as defined as aforesaid, shall be entitled, subject to said section forty-six, if he has paid the premium thereon as aforesaid, to a return premium calculated on a pro rata basis as of the effective date of the new certificate, if any, filed by him under said section thirty-four H, or, if no certificate is filed as aforesaid, as of the effective date of the revocation under said section thirty-four H of the registration of the motor vehicle or trailer covered by such policy or bond. Nothing in this section shall be construed in any case to continue any policy or contract in force beyond its date of expiration, or to prohibit a cancellation thereof by the insured or by the receiver or receivers in accordance with law and its terms during the said period of thirty days or prior to the filing of a new certificate or the revocation of the registration as afore-said, or to affect the liability of the holder of a policy or contract to pay to the receiver or receivers the full amount of the premium due on any policy or contract or the liability of a member of a mutual company, other than a life company, to pay the full amount of any valid assessment levied on its members.

1 Section 8 A. At any hearing which the commissioner is authorized by law to hold, he may by summons require the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books, records and papers touching upon the matters in question at such hearing, and may administer oaths to such witnesses. The fees of such witnesses for attendance and travel shall be the same as for witnesses before the superior court in civil cases and shall be paid by the commonwealth upon the certificate of the commissioner filed with the comptroller. Fees of such witnesses need not be paid or tendered to them prior to their attendance and testimony. This section shall not affect any powers conferred upon the commissioner by section four.

1 Section 9. He shall each year compute the reserve liability on December thirty-first of the preceding year of every company authorized to make insurance on lives in the commonwealth, in accordance with the following rules:

1 First. The net value on the last day of December of the preceding year of all outstanding policies of life insurance in the company issued before January first, nineteen hundred and one, shall be computed upon the basis of the “Combined Experience” or “Actuaries’ Table” of mortality, with interest at four per cent per annum.

1 Second. The net value on the last day of December of the preceding year of all outstanding policies of life insurance issued after the last day of December, nineteen hundred, shall be computed upon the basis of the “American Experience Table” of mortality, with interest at three and one half per cent per annum; but any life company may at any time elect to reserve upon a three per cent basis, and thereupon its policies issued upon such reserve shall be computed upon the basis of the “American Experience Table” of mortality, with interest at three per cent per annum, and any life company receiving premiums by weekly payments may elect for such weekly payment business or any portion thereof to reserve upon any table showing a higher rate of mortality approved by the commissioner.

1 Third. In every case in which the actual premium charged for an insurance is less than the net premium for such insurance, computed according to its respective tables of mortality and rate of interest specified in this section, the company shall also be charged with the value of an annuity, the amount of which shall equal the difference between the premium charged and that required by the rules set forth in this section.
and the term of which in years shall equal the number of future annual payments due on the insurance at the date of the valuation.

Fourth, When, from reports filed with him or from other evidence, the commissioner is satisfied that a company is assuming risks that cannot be properly measured by the mortality tables specified in this section, he may compute such extra reserve as in his judgment is warranted by the extra hazard assumed, and he may further in his discretion prescribe such table or tables of mortality, other than those specified by this section, as he may deem necessary properly to measure such additional risks, with interest at not less than three per cent per annum, for the computation of the net value upon any special class or classes of risks.

Fifth, The reserve liability for the total and permanent disability provision incorporated in policies under section twenty-four shall be computed on the basis of "Hunter's Disability Table", or any similar table approved by the commissioner, with interest not exceeding three and one half per cent per annum; provided, that in no case shall said liability be less than one half of the net annual premium computed by such table for the disability benefit. The commissioner may accept a certificate of valuation from the company for the reserve liability for the total and permanent disability provision if he is satisfied by the use of general averages and percentages that such reserve has been computed in accordance with the foregoing rule.

Sixth, The value on the last day of December of the preceding year of all outstanding annuities shall be computed on the basis of "McClintock's Tables of Mortality among Annuits" or on such higher table as the commissioner may prescribe, with interest at not more than four per cent per annum; provided, that annuities issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred and seven, and annuities deferred ten or more years and written in connection with life, endowment or term insurance shall be valued on the same mortality table from which the consideration or premiums were computed. This basis of valuation shall be used in connection with the valuation as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and twenty, and all valuations thereafter.

Seventh, The reserve liability for group insurance written as yearly renewable term insurance shall be computed on a basis not lower than the "American Men Mortality Table", with interest at not more than three and one half per cent per annum.

The aggregate net value so ascertained of all the policies of any such company shall be deemed its reserve liability, to provide for which it shall hold funds of an amount equal to such net value above all its other liabilities.

All policies of life insurance issued before July first, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, by corporations formerly transacting a life insurance business on the assessment plan under chapter four hundred and twenty-one of the acts of eighteen hundred and ninety and acts in amendment thereof, and now having authority to do business in the commonwealth under this chapter, which policies are in force on December thirty-first of any year, and which contain a provision for a payment other than the premium stipulated therein, and under which the duration of the premium payment is the same as the duration of the contract, except in endowment policies, shall be valued and shall have a reserve main- tained thereon for the basis of renewable term insurance as fixed by attained age in accordance with this chapter. To the reserve liability 82 determined as above the commissioner shall add the determinate con-
83 tract reserve under any other policies issued by said corporations before 84 said July first and remaining in force on December thirty-first of any 85 year, and in the absence of such contract reserve shall value them as 86 contracts providing similar benefits are to be valued under this chapter.
87 But under no policy shall a greater aggregate reserve liability be charged 88 than is otherwise required by this section. All policies of life insurance 89 issued by any such corporation subsequent to July first, eighteen hundred 90 and ninety-nine, including those which contain a provision for a pay-91 ment other than the premiums specified therein, shall be valued and 92 a reserve maintained thereon according to this section; but all such 93 policies issued by said corporations prior to January first, nineteen 94 hundred and six, shall be valued taking the first year as one year term 95 insurance.
96 The commissioner may, in place of the computation of the reserve
97 liability of a foreign life company required by the preceding provisions of 98 this section, accept the certificate of valuation of the official having super-99 vision over insurance companies in the state where such company is incor-100 porated; provided that such valuation is made in accordance with the 101 rules set forth in said provisions or produces values at least as great as if 102 made in accordance therewith.

1 Section 10. The commissioner shall determine the liability of a 2 company other than a life company, upon its contracts of insurance, 3 excepting marine insurance, and the amount the company shall hold as 4 a reserve for reinsurance by charging as a liability fifty per cent of the 5 premiums written in its policies, or the actual unearned portions of such 6 premiums. He shall charge as a liability fifty per cent of the amount of 7 the premiums written in its policies of marine insurance upon yearly 8 risks, and upon risks covering more than one passage not terminated, 9 and the full amount of premiums written in policies upon all other 10 marine risks not terminated, except that in the case of a foreign fire and 11 marine company with less than three hundred thousand dollars capital, 12 admitted to transact fire insurance only, he shall charge as a liability
13 the full amount of premiums written in its marine and inland navigation 14 and transportation insurance policies.

3 each company as a liability all unpaid losses and claims for losses, and 4 all other debts and liabilities, including in the case of a stock company
5 its capital stock and including, in the case of a mutual company with a 6 guaranty capital or guaranty fund, such guaranty capital or guaranty 7 fund. He shall allow to the credit of a company in the account of its 8 financial condition only such assets as are available for the payment of 9 losses in this commonwealth, including all assets deposited with officers 10 of other states or countries for the security of the policyholders of such 11 company; but no holding or parcel of real estate shall be given a higher 12 value than would be adequate to yield at three per cent annual interest 13 the average amount of its net rental for three years next preceding, except 14 that if a company shows to his satisfaction that the actual value of any 15 of its real estate is greater than the value so ascertained, then the actual

15 1931, 242, § 3.
He shall not allow stockholders' obligations of any description as part of the assets or capital of any stock company, unless secured by sufficient approved collateral.

He may value all bonds or other evidences of debt having a fixed term and rate held by a life company, if amply secured and not in default as to principal or interest, as follows: if purchased at par, at the par value; if purchased above or below par, on the basis of the purchase price adjusted so as to bring the value to par at maturity and so as to yield the effective rate of interest at which the purchase was made; provided, that the purchase price shall in no case be taken at a higher figure than the actual market value when purchased; and provided, further, that the commissioner shall have full discretion in determining the method of calculating values according to the foregoing rule, and the values found by him in accordance with such method shall be final and binding; provided, also, that any such company may return such bonds or other evidences of debt at their market value or their book value, but in no event at an aggregate value exceeding the aggregate of the values calculated according to the foregoing rule.

Section 12. The commissioner shall each year compute the reserve required of liability companies for outstanding losses under insurance against loss or damage from accident to or injuries suffered by an employee or other person, for which the insured is liable, as follows:

1. For all liability suits being defended under policies written more than—

(a) Ten years prior to the date as of which the financial statement required by section twenty-five is made, fifteen hundred dollars for each suit.

(b) Five and less than ten years prior to said date, one thousand dollars for each suit.

(c) Three and less than five years prior to said date, eight hundred and fifty dollars for each suit.

2. For all liability policies written during the three years immediately preceding said date, such reserve shall be sixty per cent of the earned liability premiums of each of the said three years, less all loss and expense payments made under liability policies written in the corresponding years; but in any event the reserve shall, for the first of the said three years, be not less than seven hundred and fifty dollars for each outstanding liability suit on said year's policies.

3. For all compensation claims under policies written more than three years prior to said date, the present values at four per cent interest of the determined and the estimated future payments.

4. For all compensation claims under policies written in the three years immediately preceding said date, the said reserve shall be sixty-five per cent of the earned compensation premiums of each of the said three years, less all loss and loss expense payments made in connection with such claims under policies written in the corresponding years; but in any event in the case of the first year of any such three year period the reserve shall be not less than the present value at four per cent interest of the determined and the estimated unpaid compensation claims under policies written during that year.

All unallocated liability loss expense payments made in a given calendar year subsequent to the first four years in which an insurer has been issuing liability policies shall be distributed as follows: thirty-five per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year, forty per cent to the policies written in the preceding year, ten per cent to the policies written in the second year preceding, ten per cent to the policies written in the third year preceding, and five per cent to the policies written in the fourth year preceding; and such payments made in each of the first four calendar years in which an insurer issues liability policies shall be distributed as follows: in the first calendar year one hundred per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year, in the second calendar year fifty per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year, and fifty per cent to the policies written in the preceding year; in the third calendar year forty per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year, forty per cent to the policies written in the preceding year, and twenty per cent to the policies written in the second year preceding; and in the fourth calendar year thirty-five per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year, forty per cent to the policies written in the preceding year, fifteen per cent to the policies written in the second year preceding, and ten per cent to the policies written in the third year preceding, and a schedule showing such distribution shall be included in the annual statement.

All unallocated compensation loss expense payments made in a given calendar year subsequent to the first three years in which an insurer has been issuing compensation policies shall be distributed as follows:
forty per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year, forty-five per cent to the policies written in the preceding year, ten per cent to the policies written in the second year preceding, and five per cent to the policies written in the third year preceding; and such payments made in each of the first three calendar years in which an insurer issues compensation policies shall be distributed as follows: in the first calendar year one hundred per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year; in the second calendar year fifty per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year and fifty per cent to the policies written in the preceding year; in the third calendar year forty-five per cent shall be charged to the policies written in that year, forty-five per cent to the policies written in the preceding year, and ten per cent to the policies written in the second year preceding; and a schedule showing such distribution shall be included in the annual statement.

Whenever, in the judgment of the commissioner, the liability or compensation loss reserves of any insurer calculated in accordance with the foregoing provisions are inadequate, he may require such insurer to maintain additional reserves based upon estimated individual claims or otherwise.

Every company writing liability or compensation policies shall include in the annual statement required by section twenty-five a schedule of its experience thereunder in such form as the commissioner may prescribe.

lars, provided that such certificates shall be issued without charge for the use of the commonwealth; for each certificate under section thirty-two, two dollars; for each special license under clause (g) of section fifty-one or of section fifty-four, ten dollars; for each certificate issued by the commissioner under section seventy or seventy-one, two dollars; for filing copy of charter or deed of settlement of each foreign company under section one hundred and fifty-one, thirty dollars; for filing financial statement with the application for admission of a foreign company under said section one hundred and fifty-one, and for the filing of each annual statement by a foreign company under section twenty-five, one ten dollars; for each service of lawful process upon him as attorney for a foreign company under section one hundred and fifty-one and section one hundred and fifty-four, two dollars; provided, that such fee shall not be required for the service of process in any criminal proceeding; for each license or renewal thereof to an insurance agent of any company under section one hundred and sixty-three, two dollars; for each license or renewal thereof to an insurance broker under section one hundred and sixty-six, twenty-five dollars; for each license or renewal to a special insurance broker under section one hundred and sixty-eight, twenty-five dollars; for each license or renewal thereof to an adjuster of fire losses under section one hundred and seventy-two, one ten dollars; for each license or renewal thereof to a voluntary association under section one hundred and seventy-two, A, to a partnership under section one hundred and seventy-three or to a corporation under section one hundred and seventy-four, the fees hereinbefore prescribed for like licenses issued to individuals under said section one hundred and sixty-three, one hundred and sixty-six, one hundred and sixty-eight or one hundred and seventy-two, for each trustee, partner or officer to be covered by the license; provided, that the fee to be collected for an insurance broker's license issued under said section one hundred and seventy-three to a partnership composed entirely of residents of other states of the United States eligible therefor under said section one hundred and sixty-six, and covering all the partners, shall be twenty-five dollars and that the aggregate fees to be collected for such a license issued as aforesaid to any other partnership shall not exceed one hundred dollars; for each certificate of the valuation of the policies of any life company and for each certificate of the examination, condition or qualification of a company, two dollars; for each copy of any paper on file in the office of the commissioner, twenty cents a page and for copies of tabulations, forty cents a page and two dollars for certifying the same;
and all other fees and charges due the commonwealth for any official act or service of the commissioner.

Section 15. He shall annually, in December, furnish each company two or more blanks in form adapted for its annual statement.

Section 16. He shall preserve in a permanent form a record of his proceedings, including a concise statement of the result of official examinations of companies.

He shall furnish, upon payment of the fee prescribed by section fourteen, when required for evidence in court, certificates, under seal of the 6 division of insurance, relative to the authority of an insurance agent
7 broker or company, or an adjuster of fire losses, or a fraternal benefit 8 society, to transact business in the commonwealth on any particular 9 date or for any specified period, and such certificates shall be received 10 by the courts in lieu of the testimony of the commissioner or his repre-11 sentative.

1 Section 17. He shall annually, and as early as is consistent with 2 full and accurate preparation, make a report to the general court of his 3 official transactions, and shall include therein a report of the condition
4 of the receiverships of insolvent companies; an exhibit of the financial 5 condition and business transactions of the several companies as disclosed 6 by official examinations of the same or by their annual statements, 7 abstracts of which statements, with his valuation of life policies, shall 8 appear therein; and such other information and comments relative to 9 insurance and the public interest therein as he thinks proper.

10 The annual report of the commissioner on fire and marine insurance 11 matters shall contain the laws enacted on those subjects in the year of 12 the report, and his annual report on life and miscellaneous insurance 13 matters shall contain the laws enacted on those subjects in the year of 14 the report.

PROVISIONS COMMON TO FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMPANIES.

1 Section 18. Every company shall conduct its business in the com-
2 monwealth in its corporate name, and all policies and contracts, other 3 than contracts of corporate suretyship, issued by it shall, except as pro-4 vided in sections one hundred and two A, one hundred and eleven A and 5 one hundred and seventeen A of this chapter and in section fifty-six of 6 chapter one hundred and fifty-two, be headed or entitled only by such 7 name.

8 When any such company publishes its assets it shall in the same con-9 nection and with equal conspicuousness publish its liabilities, both com-
10 puted on the basis allowed for its annual statements, and any publication 11 purporting to show its capital shall exhibit only the amount of such 12 capital as has been actually paid in cash. Such publications shall be held 13 to include all policies, renewals, signs, circulars, cards or other means by 14 which public announcements are made.

15 A company or an officer or agent thereof who issues or circulates ad-16 vertisements in violation of this section shall be punished by a fine of 17 not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars.

1 Section 19. [Repealed, 1931, 426, § 273.]

1 Section 19A. Two or more domestic companies may merge or con-
2 solidate into one corporation, or a domestic company may merge or 3 consolidate with any company or companies organized under the laws of 4 any state of the United States into one corporation, which shall be a 5 domestic corporation. In either case the title of such new corporation
6 shall be subject to the provisions of section forty-nine. Companies 7 merging or consolidating under this section shall enter into a written 8 agreement for such merger or consolidation prescribing its terms and 9 conditions, the classes of business it proposes to transact subject to sec-10 tions forty-eight, fifty-one and fifty-four, the amount of the capital stock, if any, of the new corporation, which shall not be a larger amount than 11
the aggregate amount of the capital stock of the merged or consolidated 12 companies nor less than the minimum amount specified in said sections 13 forty-eight and fifty-one, and the number of shares into which said capital 14 stock is to be divided. In all respects, the new corporation shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter, except as otherwise expressly provided in this section. Such agreement shall be assented to by a vote of 17 the majority of the board of directors of each company and approved 18 by the votes of the stockholders, if any, owning at least two thirds of the 19 stock of each company at a meeting called for the purpose, notice of which 20 meeting shall be given in accordance with law, and also published at least 21 once a week for three successive weeks in some newspaper printed in the 22 commonwealth, and if any of the merging or consolidating companies are 23 domiciled outside of the commonwealth at least once a week for three 24 successive weeks in some newspaper printed in the town where such 25 company has its principal office, or, if there are no stockholders, such 26 agreement shall be assented to by a vote of the majority of the board of 27 directors of each company and approved by the votes of at least two 28 thirds of the policyholders of each company, actually present or represented at a meeting called for the purpose, notice of which meeting shall 30 be given as hereinafter provided. Such agreement shall be subject to 31 the written approval of the commissioner, shall be executed in duplicate 32 by the president and secretary and by a majority of the board of directors 33 of each company under its corporate seal, shall be accompanied by copies 34 of the resolutions authorizing the merger or consolidation and the execution of the agreement attested by the recording officer of each company 36 and shall, with the records of the companies pertaining thereto, be sub-mited to the commissioner. If it appears that the requirements of this 38 section have been complied with, the commissioner may so certify and 39 approve the agreement by his endorsement thereon. One of the duplicates of such agreement shall thereupon be filed with the state secretary, 41 who shall cause the same to be recorded and shall issue a certificate of 42 reincorporation to the new company with the powers retained and 43 specified in the agreement, and the other duplicate shall be retained by 44 the commissioner. No such agreement shall take effect until it has been 45 filed in the office of the state secretary as aforesaid. The new company 46 may require the return of the original certificates of stock held by each 47 stockholder in each of the companies merged or consolidated and issue in 48 lieu thereof new certificates for such number of shares of its own stock as 49 the stockholder may be entitled to receive. Upon such merger or consolidation all rights and properties of the several companies shall accrue 51 to and become the property of the new company which shall succeed to 52 all the obligations and liabilities of the merged or consolidated companies, 53 in the same manner as if they had been incurred or contracted by it. The 54 stockholders or policyholders of the merged or consolidated companies 55 shall continue to be subject to all the liabilities, claims and demands 56 existing against them at or before such merger or consolidation. No 57 action or proceeding pending at the time of the merger or consolidation 58 in which any or all of the companies merged or consolidated may be a 59 party shall abate or be discontinued by reason of the merger or consolidation, but the same may be prosecuted to final judgment in the same 61 manner as if the merger or consolidation had not taken place, or the new 62 company may be substituted in place of any company so merged or consolidated by order of the court in which the action or proceeding may be 64 pending. Nothing in this section shall authorize the merger or consolidation of stock companies with mutual companies.

1 Section 20. Any company, except as herein provided, may reinsure in any other company any part or all of any risks assumed by it, and shall file with the annual statement required by section twenty-five and at such other times as the commissioner may require, schedules of all reinsurance.

6 Such reinsurance shall not reduce the taxes to be paid by the ceding company, nor, if a life company, shall it reduce the reserve to be charged to it, unless effected with a company authorized to issue policies in the commonwealth covering risks of the same kinds as those reinsured, or with a company incorporated or formed to reinsure and authorized to reinsure in the commonwealth risks of the same kinds as those reins-sured. Such reinsurance shall not reduce the reserve or other liability to be charged to the ceding company, other than life, unless (a) it is effected with a company authorized in the commonwealth as aforesaid, or (b) with a company similarly authorized in another state or terri-ory of the United States conforming to the same standard of solvency and fulfilling the same statutory or departmental regulations which would be required of such company if, at the time such reinsurance is effected, it were authorized as aforesaid in the commonwealth, or (c) with a company incorporated or formed to reinsure and authorized to reinsure in the commonwealth; provided, that any contract of reinsurance, other than life, made by any domestic company or by any company incorporated in a foreign country and having its principal office in the commonwealth, ceding more than seventy-five per cent of its total outstanding risks, shall be subject to the written approval of the commissioner; and provided, further, that no domestic life company shall reinsure its risks without the written permission of the commissioner, but may reinsure parts of an individual risk not to exceed in any one company the amount retained by the company first writing the insurance.

When reinsurance is so effected the ceding company, other than a life company, shall thereafter be charged on the gross premium basis with an unearned premium liability, and a life company shall be charged thereafter with a reserve liability, both said unearned premium and reserve liability representing the proportion of the obligation retained by it, and the company with which the reinsurance is effected shall be charged thereafter in like manner with the proportion of the obligation assumed by it. Both the companies shall together carry the same unearned premium liability or reserve which the ceding company would have carried had it not reinsured the risk.

A company ceding reinsurance to a mutual company shall not, unless the contract of reinsurance so provides, become thereby a member of the company accepting such reinsurance or be entitled to any dividend or expiration return of premium or be subject to liability to assessment.

This section shall not permit a ceding company, other than life, to receive through the cession of the whole or any of its risks any advantage in respect to its unearned premium reserve, or, if a life company, in respect to the net value of its policies involving life contingencies that would reduce the same below the actual amount thereof.

A company and any officer or agent thereof effecting or acting in the negotiation of reinsurance in violation of this section shall severally be punished by a fine of five hundred dollars.
LIMIT OF SINGLE RISK.

SECTION 21. No company shall insure in a single risk wherever located, excepting transportation, inland navigation and ocean and coastwise marine risks, a larger amount than one tenth of its net assets, unless it has reinsured, as provided in the preceding section, the excess over said limit to take effect simultaneously with the original contract; but a domestic mutual boiler company may, except as provided in section fifty-four, insure in a single risk an amount not exceeding one fourth of its net assets. A company violating this section shall be punished by a fine of five hundred dollars.

CERTAIN PROVISIONS IN POLICIES VOID.

POLICIES PROVIDING COVERAGE FOR MORE THAN ONE CLASS OF INSURANCE, APPROVED AND CONTENTS.

SECTION 22. No company and no officer or agent thereof shall make, issue or deliver any policy of insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract containing any condition, stipulation or agreement depriving the courts of the commonwealth of jurisdiction of actions against it: limiting the time for commencing actions against it to a period of less than two years from the time when the cause of action accrues: making any person appointed and licensed as its agent the agent of the applicant or insured or holder of the policy or contract for any purpose; providing that no person shall be deemed an agent of the company unless authorized by the company in writing, or providing that any such policy or contract made in the commonwealth on lives, property or interests therein shall be governed by the laws of any state or country other than this commonwealth. Any such condition, stipulation or agreement shall be void.

POLICIES PROVIDING COVERAGE AGAINST LOSS OR DAMAGE CAUSED BY HAZARDS SPECIFIED IN MORE THAN ONE OF THE CLAUSES OF SECTION FORTY-SEVEN, UNTIL A COPY OF THE FORM OF THE POLICY HAS BEEN ON FILE FOR THIRTY DAYS WITH THE COMMISSIONER, UNLESS BEFORE THE EXPIRATION OF SAID THIRTY DAYS HE SHALL HAVE APPROVED THE FORM OF THE POLICY IN WRITING; NOR IF THE COMMISSIONER NOTIFIES THE COMPANY IN WRITING WITHIN SAID THIRTY DAYS THAT THE FORM OF THE POLICY DOES NOT COMPLY WITH THE LAWS OF THE COMMONWEALTH, SPECIFYING HIS REASONS THEREFOR, PROVIDED THAT THE OPINION OF THE COMMISSIONER SHALL BE Subject to review by the supreme judicial court; but nothing in this section shall permit the incorporation in the standard fire policy, prescribed by section ninety-nine, of coverage against loss or damage by any of the hazards specified in any of the clauses of said section forty-seven other than the first, or permit the incorporation in any policy issued under section one hundred and two A, one hundred and eleven A or one hundred and seventeen A or any policy subject to section one hundred and eight or one hundred and thirteen A, of any coverage not otherwise permitted by this chapter to be incorporated therein.

SECTION 22A. No company shall issue any policy of insurance which provides coverage against loss or damage caused by hazards specified in more than one of the clauses of section forty-seven, until a copy of the form of the policy has been on file for thirty days with the commissioner, unless before the expiration of said thirty days he shall have approved the form of the policy in writing; nor if the commissioner notifies the company in writing within said thirty days that the form of the policy does not comply with the laws of the commonwealth, specifying his reasons therefor, provided that the opinion of the commissioner shall be subject to review by the supreme judicial court; but nothing in this section shall permit the incorporation in the standard fire policy, prescribed by section ninety-nine, of coverage against loss or damage by any of the hazards specified in any of the clauses of said section forty-seven other than the first, or permit the incorporation in any policy issued under section one hundred and two A, one hundred and eleven A or one hundred and seventeen A or any policy subject to section one hundred and eight or one hundred and thirteen A, of any coverage not otherwise permitted by this chapter to be incorporated therein.

SECTION 22B. No company and no officer, agent or employee thereof, and no insurance broker, shall make, issue or deliver any policy of insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract, or make or procure the making of, solicit or accept any oral or written agreement, containing a waiver or a provision for a waiver by an applicant for, or the insured under or holder of, any such policy or contract, of any provision of this chapter, Section 23. No life company whose actual funds, exclusive of its
2 capital, are not of a net cash value equal to its liabilities, including the net
3 value of its policies, computed by the rules of valuation established by 4 sections nine and eleven, shall issue new policies of life or endowment 5 insurance or annuity or pure endowment contracts until its funds have 6 become equal to its liabilities, and it has obtained from the commissioner
7 a certificate to that effect with authority to resume business. A company 8 or any officer or agent thereof who issues any such policy or contract in 9 violation of this section shall forfeit not more than one thousand dollars.

Section 23A. Every stock company, every foreign company de-
2 scribed in section one hundred and fifty-five and every mutual company
3 having a guaranty capital or guaranty fund, other than a life company,
4 shall forthwith notify the commissioner in writing in such form and detail
5 as he may require of any impairment of its capital stock or deposit or 6 guaranty capital or guaranty fund, respectively, on the basis fixed by 7 sections ten to twelve, inclusive. Every company whose license or au-8 thority to transact business in any other state or country is suspended or 9 revoked or otherwise terminated, every foreign company against which 10 receivership or liquidation proceedings are instituted in the state or 11 country under whose laws it is organized, every foreign mutual company, 12 other than life, whose net cash assets or contingent assets become less 13 than the amount required of said company by section one hundred and 14 fifty-one, every domestic mutual company whose amount of insurance or 15 premiums in force or number of risks on its books become less than the 16 amount or number required of said company by section seventy-four,
17 ninety A, ninety-two, ninety-three, ninety-three A or ninety-three B, 18 every mutual company which levies an assessment on its members, and 19 every life company whose actual funds, exclusive of its capital, if any,
20 are not of a net cash value equal to its liabilities, including the net value
21 of its policies, computed by the rules of valuation established by sections 22 nine to twelve, inclusive, shall forthwith notify the commissioner in 23 writing as aforesaid to that effect.
24 Every foreign company shall forthwith notify the commissioner in 25 writing as aforesaid of any change of its corporate name, of the location
26 of its home or principal office or of the amount of its paid-up capital stock 27 or guaranty or deposit capital, and of any amendments to its charter or 28 articles of incorporation relative to the classes of business it may transact 29 and, in case of a foreign company described in section one hundred and 30 fifty-five, of any change of his resident manager in the United States, or 31 of the trustees, if any, appointed under section one hundred and fifty-six, 32 or of the location of his or their principal office. Every foreign company 33 shall, within thirty days after the filing of any such notice, or within such 34 further time as the commissioner may allow, file with him duly certified 35 documents executed and authenticated in a manner satisfactory to the 36 commissioner setting forth any such change or amendment, other than a 37 change of the location of its office or that of its resident manager or 38 trustees.
Sections 24 and 25. Any life company, whether or not it is authorized to transact accident and health insurance under clause sixth of section forty-seven, may provide in its policies of life, group life or endowment insurance, issued in compliance with this chapter, for the payment of an accidental death benefit consisting of a larger amount if death is caused by accident than if it results from other causes, and may incorporate therein or in its annuity or pure endowment contracts, issued in like compliance, provisions for the waiver of premiums or for the granting of special benefits in the event that the insured, or either of them, or the holder, as the case may be, becomes totally and permanently disabled from any cause. Such provisions shall state the special benefits to be granted thereunder, the cost thereof to the insured or to the holder and shall define what shall constitute total and permanent disability. The consideration for any benefits granted under this section shall be stated separately in the policy or contract.

Any such company may, in conjunction with and supplementary to any policy of life, group life or endowment insurance or annuity or pure endowment contract, issue a separate policy providing solely for any or all of the benefits permitted by this section. No such separate policy shall be issued or delivered in the commonwealth until a copy of the form thereof has been on file for thirty days with the commissioner, unless before the expiration of said thirty days he shall have approved the form of the policy in writing; nor if the commissioner notifies the company in writing, within said thirty days, that in his opinion the form of the policy does not comply with the laws of the commonwealth, specifying his reasons therefor; provided that such action of the commissioner shall be subject to review by the supreme judicial court.

The provisions of section one hundred and eight shall not apply to any policy of life, group life or endowment insurance or annuity or pure endowment contract or separate policy or contract providing for any or all of the benefits permitted by this section.

Annual Statements.

Sections 24 and 25. Every company shall annually, on or before March first, file with the commissioner a statement showing its financial condition on December thirty-first of the previous year, and its business of that year. But a life company shall not be required to file that part of its annual statement known as the gain and loss exhibit until May first following.

Such annual statement shall be in the form required by the commissioner. He shall embody therein, so far as appropriate to the several companies, the substance of the forms provided for in this section, with any additional inquiries he may require for the purpose of eliciting a complete and accurate exhibit of the condition and transactions of the companies. The assets and liabilities shall be computed and allowed in such statement in accordance with the rules stated in sections nine, ten, eleven and twelve. Such statement shall be subscribed and sworn to by the president and secretary, or, in their absence, by two of its principal officers. The commissioner may at other times require any such statements as he may deem necessary.

Life companies having both industrial and ordinary policies outstanding shall make two annual statements of receipts and disbursements, one of which shall cover the industrial department and the other the... ordinary department; but the aggregate income and disbursements of each department may be carried into its appropriate account in the statement of the other department, and the assets and liabilities of the company shall be so entered in both statements that each shall show the company’s entire assets and liabilities. The commissioner may make such further rules as he shall deem necessary for carrying out as completely as possible the separation of accounts intended by this section.

Such statement of a company of a foreign country shall embrace only its business and condition in the United States, and shall be subscribed and sworn to by its resident manager, or if its resident manager is a corporation, by the president and secretary or other duly authorized officers thereof.

The annual statement made to the commissioner, pursuant to this section, shall at least include the substance of that required by the following forms:

FORM A. — FIRE, MARINE, AND FIRE AND MARINE COMPANIES.

In addition to the schedules herein required, every life company shall furnish —

Schedule showing the largest balance carried in each bank or trust company during each month of the year covered by the statement.

Schedule showing all death claims resisted or compromised during the year covered by the statement, and all death claims resisted on December thirty-first of said year, with the reasons for contesting or resisting said claims.

Schedule showing the salaries, compensation and emoluments, of whatever amount, received during the year covered by the statement by the officers and directors, and, when said compensation or emoluments amounted to more than five thousand dollars, that received by any person, firm or corporation.

Schedule containing a gain and loss exhibit, which shall show the sources of the increase and the decrease in the surplus of the company during the year covered by the statement.

Schedule showing the rates of annual dividends paid during the year covered by the statement, and the annual premiums per one thousand dollars of insurance at ages twenty-five, thirty-five, forty-five and fifty-five, at date of issue, for each kind and plan of insurance.

Schedule showing the rates of dividends paid during the year covered by the statement upon deferred dividend policies completing their dividend periods during said year, and the annual premiums per one thousand dollars of insurance at ages twenty-five, thirty-five, forty-five and fifty-five, for each kind and plan of insurance.

Schedule showing the amounts set apart, apportioned or provisionally ascertained or calculated during the year covered by the statement, or held awaiting apportionment on policies with deferred dividend periods longer than one year, and the annual premiums per one thousand dollars of insurance at ages twenty-five, thirty-five, forty-five and fifty-five, on each kind of policy issued.

Schedule showing the unlisted assets held by the company on December thirty-first of the year covered by the statement, and which are not entered in said statement, which schedule shall show: 1. Description of the property. 2. Date acquired. 3. Date dropped from the statement. 4. Cost to the company. 5. Par value. 6. Market value when dropped. 7. Market value December thirty-first of the year covered by the statement. 8. Reasons for dropping the same.

The commissioner may exempt companies from filing schedules of mortgage loans on real estate, and may as a substitute require such other information in respect to such investments as from time to time he shall deem to be essential for determining their soundness as assets.

Section 26. A company neglecting to make and file its annual statement in the form and within the time provided by the preceding section shall forfeit one hundred dollars for each day during which such neglect continues, and, upon notice by the commissioner to that effect, its authority to do new business shall cease while such default continues without any proceedings under section five or six.
Section 27. Every company shall include in its annual statement
2 under section twenty-five a schedule of all claims under policies issued
3 by it to persons in the commonwealth which, during the year covered 4 by the statement, have been made the subject of suits and also of those 5 which at the time of making the statement are in suit. Such schedule 6 shall be in such detail as the commissioner shall prescribe.

Section 28. If, upon inspection of a schedule specified in the pre-
2 ceding section or upon any examination or investigation under section
3 four, the commissioner is satisfied that a company is making a practice
4 of unduly engaging in litigation or of unreasonably and unfairly delaying 5 the adjustment or payment of valid claims, he may, after a 6 hearing to the company, make a special report of his findings thereon to 7 the general court. Nothing in this section shall affect the provisions of 8 sections five or six or the right of the commissioner to proceed thereunder.

Provisions Respecting Domestic Companies.

General.

Section 29. All companies now or hereafter incorporated or formed 2 by authority of any general or special law of the commonwealth shall,
3 except as provided in section one hundred and fourteen and in chapter
4 one hundred and seventy-six, be subject to this chapter. Trade unions 5 and other associations of wage workers whose principal objects are to 6 deal with the relations between employers and employees relative to 7 wages, hours of labor and other conditions of employment shall not be 8 subject to this chapter or chapter one hundred and seventy-six.

Section 31A. Domestic companies incorporated by special acts, 2 whose charters grant authority to transact insurance within a limited or 3 defined territory, may, notwithstanding such limitations, transact insur-
4 ance anywhere outside the limits specified in the charter, subject to all 5 general laws applicable to such companies.

1923, 373.

Section 32. No domestic company shall make or issue any contracts
2 or policies of insurance or annuity or pure endowment contracts until it
3 has obtained from the commissioner a certificate, in such form as he may 4 prescribe, stating that the company has complied with the conditions set 5 forth in this section and all other provisions of law, and authorizing it to Domestic company to employ underwriters, accountants, etc., and obtain certificates before insuring policies.

make or issue such policies or contracts. No such certificate shall be issued until the commissioner is satisfied, by such examination as he may make and such evidence as he may require, that the company has complied with the laws of the commonwealth, adopted a proper system of accounting, employed a competent accountant and a competent and experienced underwriter, and is without liabilities except such organization expenses as the commissioner shall approve as reasonable, and except, in the case of a stock company or a mutual company with a guaranty capital, its liabilities to stockholders for the amount paid in for shares of stock, nor, in the case of a life company, until he is satisfied, as aforesaid, that the company has employed a competent and experienced actuary, and that its officers and directors are of good repute and competent to manage a life company; provided, that if the commissioner is of the opinion that the granting of such a certificate to a life company would, in any case, be prejudicial to the public interest, he may in his discretion refuse to issue it.

SECTION 33. All such policies or contracts issued by such company shall be signed by its secretary, assistant secretary, or in their absence by a temporary secretary, and by its president or vice president or in their absence by two directors. Facsimiles of the signatures of such officers imprinted thereon shall have the same validity as their written signatures.

SECTION 34. Such company shall have its home office in the place specified in its charter or agreement of association; and if it establishes agencies in other places, all signs, cards, pamphlets and advertisements exhibited or issued by it or its agents shall specify the place where the company is located.

SECTION 35. No domestic company shall pay any salary, compensation or emolument to any officer, trustee or director thereof, nor any salary, compensation or emolument amounting in any year to more than five thousand dollars to any person, unless such payment be first authorized by a vote of its board of directors. No such company shall make any agreement with any of its officers, trustees or employees whereby it agrees that for any services rendered or to be rendered he shall receive any salary, compensation or emolument that will extend beyond a period of three years from the date of such agreement; nor shall such company pay any pension except as provided in the following section.

SECTION 36. Any domestic company, when authorized so to do by a vote in each case of not less than a majority of its directors, at a meeting called for the purpose, recorded in the minutes of the board, may grant a pension to any employee who has been continuously in the service of the company for ten years and who has become incapacitated for further service by reason of physical or mental disability resulting from sickness or injury, and may grant a pension to any employee retiring by reason of the infirmities of age who has been continuously in the service of the company for not less than fifteen years. No such pension shall exceed three fourths of the average salary of the employee for three years pre-11 ceding the date of retirement, and any such pension shall be discontinued 12 when any such pensioner substantially recovers his earning capacity.
13 Any such company, with the written approval of the commissioner, 14 may also establish an employees’ savings fund or contributory pension 15 system for the benefit of its aged or disabled employees, to which fund or 16 system the employees shall contribute an amount not less than the 17 amount contributed by the company.

1 Section 37. No domestic company shall make any disbursements of 2 twenty-five dollars or more, except disbursements on account of return
3 premiums on cancelled policies, unless the same be evidenced by a 4 voucher signed by or on behalf of the person receiving the money and 5 correctly describing the consideration for the payment; and if the same
6 be for services and disbursements, setting forth the services rendered 7 and an itemized statement of the disbursements made; and if it be in 8 connection with any matter pending before any legislature or public 9 body, or before any department or officer of any government, correctly 10 describing in addition the nature of the matter and of the interest of 11 such company therein; or if such a voucher cannot be obtained, by an 12 affidavit stating the reason for not obtaining such voucher, and setting 13 forth the particulars above mentioned.

1 Section 44. If any domestic company shall not commence to issue
2 policies within one year after the date of its charter or of its certificate of 3 organization, or if after it has commenced to issue policies it shall cease
4 for the period of one year to make new insurance, its corporate powers 5 shall thereby expire; and the supreme judicial court, upon petition of the 6 commissioner or of any person interested, may fix by decree the time
7 within which it shall settle and close its affairs. A company incorporated 8 by special act shall, within one year after the date thereof, file with the 9 state secretary a written notice of its organization under its charter, or 10 the same shall be void.

1 Section 45. No domestic company shall establish an agency or ap-
2 point an agent or other person to solicit, negotiate, continue or renew 3 contracts of insurance on lives, property or interests in, or annuity or 4 pure endowment contracts with residents of, a state, district or territory
5 where such company has not been lawfully authorized to transact busi-

SECTION 46. When any domestic company becomes insolvent, or is unable to pay in full its liabilities as set forth in sections ten, eleven and twelve, claims for unpaid losses under its policies, other than life or endowment policies or annuity or pure endowment contracts, shall, in the distribution of its assets, whether liquidation is effected by a receiver or otherwise, be deemed and treated as preferred over claims for return premiums on cancelled or unexpired policies. Nothing in this section shall impair the obligation now or hereafter imposed by law upon the officers of a mutual company, other than a life company, to make assessments on its members to pay its incurred losses and expenses.

SECTION 46A. When any domestic company which has insured the payment of the compensation provided for by chapter one hundred and fifty-two becomes insolvent, or is unable to pay in full its liabilities as set forth in sections ten and twelve, unpaid losses under its workmen's compensation policies shall, in the distribution of its assets, whether liquidation is effected by a receiver or otherwise, be deemed and treated as preferred over all claims except debts due the United States and debts or taxes due the commonwealth or any city or town thereof.

SECTION 46B. Every domestic company incorporated after September first, nineteen hundred and twenty-three, shall, within thirty days after its incorporation, file with the commissioner a copy of its by-laws and amendments thereto, if any, certified under its corporate seal by its secretary, and every such company, whether existing on said date or incorporated thereafter, shall, within thirty days after the adoption of any amendment to its by-laws, file with the commissioner a copy of such amendment, certified as above provided.

Organization.

SECTION 47. Companies may be incorporated under and subject to the provisions of this chapter for the following purposes:

First, To insure against loss or damage to property by fire, smoke, lightning and other electrical disturbances, wind, tornado, tempest, cyclone, earthquake, hail, frost, snow, ice, weather or climatic conditions, including excess or deficiency of moisture, flood, rain or drought, rising of the waters of the ocean or its tributaries, bombardment, invasion, foreign enemies, insurrection, riot, sabotage, war, civil war or commotion, military or usurped power, explosion fire ensuing, and explosion fire ensuing except explosion of steam boilers and flywheels; also to insure against loss or damage by insects, disease or other causes, to trees, crops or other products of the soil; and against loss of use or occupancy due to any of said causes.
14 Second, To insure, (a) vessels, freights, goods, money, effects, and 15 money loaned on bottomry or respondentia, against the perils of the sea 16 and other perils usually insured against by marine insurance; (b) against 17 risks of inland navigation and transportation; (c) in connection with 18 marine or inland navigation or transportation insurance on any property, 19 against any risk or hazard whether to person or to property, including 20 legal liability on account of loss or damage to either, arising out of the 21 construction, repair, operation, maintenance or use of the subject matter
22 of such primary insurance; (d) a person engaged in the business or trade 23 of manufacturing, buying, selling or dealing in precious stones, jewels, 24 jewelry, gold, silver or other precious metals, silverware, musical instru-
25 ments, furs, fur garments or fine arts, or of cutting or setting precious 26 stones or jewels, whether as principal, agent, broker, factor or otherwise, 27 against any and all risks of loss or damage in respect to said articles 28 wherever the same may be, including deterioration and loss of use, arising 29 out of or in connection with such business or trade, and against legal 30 liability on account of any such loss or damage, including deterioration
31 or loss of use, or a person not so engaged who owns any of the foregoing 32 named articles or wedding presents, against any and all risks of loss or 33 damage in respect to said articles or presents wherever the same may be, 34 including deterioration and loss of use; (e) against loss or damage to, and 35 loss of use of, motor vehicles, airplanes, seaplanes, dirigibles or other 36 aircraft, their fittings and contents, whether such motor vehicles or 37 aircraft are being operated or not, and wherever the same may be, result-38 ing from accident, collision, fire, lightning, any larceny, pilferage, theft, 39 malicious mischief or vandalism, any of the perils usually insured against 40 by marine insurance or risks of inland navigation and transportation, 41 against loss or damage caused by the concealment, removal or unlawful 42 disposition or conversion of such vehicles or aircraft by a conditional 43 vendee or mortgagor or bailee in possession, and against loss or damage 44 sustained by a conditional vendor or mortgagee of such vehicles or air-45 craft arising from any default in the payment of the vendee's or mort-46 gator's indebtedness to the insured in case of the termination of the 47 vendee's or mortgagor's interest in such vehicles or aircraft; (f) against 48 loss or damage to any property caused by teams, airplanes, seaplanes, 49 dirigibles or other aircraft, motor vehicles or other vehicles, and against 50 legal liability for loss or damage caused thereby to the property of another, 51 but not including legal liability for bodily injury or death caused thereby.
52 Third, To insure against loss or damage to, and loss of use of, airplanes, 53 seaplanes, dirigibles or other aircraft, motor vehicles other than motor 54 boats, their fittings and contents, whether such vehicles or aircraft are 55 being operated or not, and wherever the same may be, resulting from 56 accident, collision, fire, lightning, any larceny, pilferage, theft, malicious 57 mischief or vandalism, any of the perils usually insured against by marine 58 insurance or risks of inland navigation and transportation, against loss or 59 damage caused by the concealment, removal or unlawful disposition or 60 conversion of such vehicles or aircraft by a conditional vendee or mort-
61 gator or bailee in possession thereof, and against loss or damage sustained 62 by a conditional vendor or mortgagee of such vehicles or aircraft arising 63 from any default in the payment of the vendee's or mortgagor's indebted-64 ness to the insured in case of the termination of the vendee's or mort-65 gator's interest in such vehicles or aircraft.
66 Fourth, (a) To guarantee the fidelity of persons in positions of trust, 67 private or public, (b) to act as surety on official bonds and for the per-

Eighth, To insure against loss or damage to any property of the insured, another, caused by the breakage of, or leakage of any fluid or substance from, sprinklers, pumps, water pipes, elevator tanks and cylinders, steam pipes and radiators, plumbing and its fixtures, heating, lighting or cooking apparatus or their connections, or conduits or containers of any fluid; or against loss or damage resulting from accidental injury from other causes than fire, explosion, lightning, bombardment or windstorm, to such 110 sprinklers, pumps, water pipes, elevator tanks and cylinders, steam pipes and radiators, plumbing and its fixtures, heating, lighting or cooking apparatus or their connections, or conduits or containers; against loss of 113 or damage to any property of the insured, and against legal liability for 114 115 loss or damage to the property of another, caused by water, hail, rain, 116 sleet or snow seeping or entering through leaks or openings in buildings, 117 or caused by the contents of any tank, or impact of any falling tank, 118 platform or supports erected in or upon any building; and against loss of 119 use and occupancy due to any of said causes.

120 Ninth, To insure against loss or damage to any property caused by 121 elevators, airplanes, scaplanes, dirigibles or other aircraft, motor or other 122 vehicles, except motor boats, and against loss of use and occupancy 123 caused thereby.

124 Tenth, To carry on the business commonly known as credit insurance 125 or guaranty, either by agreeing to purchase uncollectible debts, or other-126 wise to insure against loss or damage from the failure of persons indebted 127 to the insured to meet their liabilities.

128 Eleventh, To examine titles of real and personal property, furnish 129 information relative thereto, and insure owners and others interested 130 therein against loss by reason of encumbrances, defective title or the 131 insufficiency of any mortgage held or sold by the insurer as security for 132 the amount secured by such mortgage, or against any other loss in connec-133 tion with any such mortgage or any interest therein, and to buy and 134 sell mortgages of real property and interests therein.

135 Twelfth, To insure against property loss or damage by burglary, 136 robbery, any larceny or theft, any breaking and entry or entry without 137 breaking of any house, building, ship, vessel or railroad car, or any other 138 criminal act; against loss or damage caused by the concealment, removal
139 or unlawful disposition or conversion of property by a conditional vendee 140 or mortgagor or bailee in possession; against loss or damage caused by 141 forgery; and to make the insurance provided for in subdivision (d) of 142 clause Fourth, as set forth therein.

143 Thirteenth, To insure against loss or damage from the death from any 144 cause of horses, live stock or domestic animals, and to furnish veterinary 145 service.

146 Fourteenth, To transact outside of the territorial limits of the United 147 States any and all forms of insurance.

148 Fifteenth, To reinsure risks of every kind or description undertaken by 149 other companies.

150 Sixthteenth, To transact life insurance and to make contracts for the 151 payment of annuities and pure endowments.

1 Section 48. Ten or more persons residents of this commonwealth
2 may form a stock company (a) to transact the business set forth in any 3 one of the clauses set forth in section forty-seven, excepting the third,
4 (b) to transact the business set forth in the first and eighth clauses thereof,
5 (c) to transact the business set forth in the first and second clauses thereof, 6 or in the first, second and eighth clauses thereof, (d) to transact the 7 business set forth in any two or more of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, 8 eighth, ninth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth clauses thereof, or (e) to 9 transact the business set forth in the sixth and sixteenth clauses thereof.
Companies organized under this section shall have a paid-up capital as follows:

- $100,000.
  - Under the sixth clause, to insure only against sickness and against the bodily injury or death by accident of the insured; and under the seventh and thirteenth clauses, not less than one hundred thousand dollars.

- $200,000.
  - Under the first, first and eighth, fourth, fifth, sixth, except as otherwise provided herein, eighth, ninth, tenth, or twelfth clauses, not less than two hundred thousand dollars.

- $300,000.
  - Under the second clause, and under the first and second clauses excepting ocean marine insurance, and under the first, second excepting ocean marine insurance, and eighth clauses, not less than three hundred thousand dollars.

- $400,000.
  - Under the first and second clauses, and under the first, second and eighth clauses, not less than four hundred thousand dollars.

- $500,000.
  - Under the eleventh clause, not less than one hundred thousand dollars; and if insurance against the insufficiency of mortgages as security or against any other loss in connection with mortgages, except insurance of titles is transacted, not less than two hundred thousand dollars.

- Under the fourteenth or fifteenth clause, not less than five hundred thousand dollars.

Under two or more of the clauses enumerated herein under (d), the paid-up capital shall not be less than the largest amount required for the transaction of the kinds of business specified in any one clause which it is authorized to transact, and an additional amount equal to one half of the minimum capital required above for the transaction of the kinds of business specified in each additional clause which it is authorized to transact.

Under the sixteenth clause, not less than two hundred thousand dollars, or under the sixth and sixteenth clauses as provided under (e), not less than four hundred thousand dollars, together, in either case, with a net cash surplus of not less than two hundred thousand dollars, exclusive of said capital.

SECTION 48A. Ten or more persons, residents of this commonwealth, may form a mutual company. (a) to transact the business set forth in any one of the clauses of section forty-seven, except the eleventh, fourteenth or fifteenth; (b) to transact the business set forth in the first and third, the first and eighth, the third and eighth, or in the first, third and eighth clauses; (c) to transact the business set forth in the first and second, or in the first, second and eighth clauses; (d) to transact the business set forth in any two or more of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth clauses thereof; or (e) to transact the business set forth in the sixth and sixteenth clauses thereof, except subdivision (e) of said sixth clause.

SECTION 49. The company shall be formed in the manner described in and be subject to section nine of chapter one hundred and fifty-five, and sections six and eight to twelve, inclusive, of chapter one hundred and fifty-six, except the provisions thereof relative to the issue of capital stock, without a par value and except as otherwise expressly provided in this chapter.

The name of the corporation shall be subject to approval by the commissioner and shall contain the word “insurance” or “assurance” or, if organized on the mutual plan, the words “mutual insurance” or “mutual assurance” or, if organized under the fifteenth clause of section forty-11 seven, the word "reinsurance", and, if organized under the sixteenth 12 clause of said section forty-seven or under the sixth and sixteenth clauses 13 thereof, the word "life".
14 The agreement of association shall state the classes of insurance it
15 proposes to transact and on what business plan or principle; and, if a 16 mutual company, the amount of capital stock and the par value of shares 17 shall be omitted.
18 At the first meeting, only the directors and such other officers as the 19 by-laws require shall be chosen, and the president, secretary and such 20 other officers as the by-laws authorize them to choose shall be chosen by 21 the directors.
22 The president, secretary and a majority of the directors shall execute 23 and make oath to the articles of organization specified in section ten of 24 said chapter one hundred and fifty-six, which shall, with the records and 25 by-laws of the company, be submitted to the commissioner instead of to 26 the commissioner of corporations and taxation, and he shall have the 27 powers and perform the duties relative thereto specified in section eleven 28 of said chapter one hundred and fifty-six.
29 The certificate issued by the state secretary under section twelve of 30 said chapter one hundred and fifty-six shall be modified to conform to the 31 requirements of this section.
32 The fee to be paid to the state secretary by a stock company, or by a 33 mutual company with a guaranty capital, upon the filing of the articles 34 of organization, shall be one twentieth of one per cent of the total amount 35 of the authorized capital, but not less than one hundred dollars. The fee 36 to be paid upon such filing by any other mutual company shall be one 37 hundred dollars.
38 The commissioner shall not approve the articles of organization of a 39 company formed to transact business under the sixteenth clause of section 40 forty-seven, or under the sixth and sixteenth clauses thereof, until he is 41 satisfied by such examination as he may make and such evidence as he 42 may require, that the incorporators are of good repute and intend in good 43 faith to operate the company. He shall execute a certificate of his findings, in such form as he may prescribe, which shall be attached to the 44 articles of organization prior to the filing thereof with the state secretary.

1 Section 50. A stock company, by a two thirds vote of all its stock
2 entitled to vote, or a mutual company, by a two thirds vote of those mem-
3 bers present and voting, at a meeting duly called therefor, may alter, add 4 to or change, to the extent authorized by this chapter, the classes of 5 insurance for the transaction of which it was incorporated, may change 6 the location of its principal office or place of business in the common-
7 wealth, or, in the case of a stock company, may increase or reduce the par 8 value of the shares of its capital stock, which value shall be not less than 9 five nor more than one hundred dollars. Articles of amendment, signed 10 and sworn to by the president and secretary and a majority of the direc-
11 tors, setting forth such amendment or change and the due adoption 12 thereof, shall, within thirty days after their adoption, be submitted to the 13 commissioner, who shall examine them in the same manner and with the 14 same powers as in the case of original articles of organization. If he finds 15 that they conform to the requirements of law he shall so certify and en-16 dorse his approval thereon, and they shall thereupon be filed in the office 17 of the state secretary, who, upon the receipt of a fee of ten dollars, shall 18 cause them and the endorsement thereon to be recorded, and said articles
19 of amendment shall then be deemed to be a part of the charter or articles

Change of business, location, etc. Procedure. 1912, 139; 1924, 253; 450, § 4.
of organization of the company. No such amendment or change shall take effect until such articles of amendment have been filed in the office of the state secretary as aforesaid.

Section 51. No domestic stock company shall transact any business other than that specified in its charter or agreement of association, except that it may transact the kinds of business specified below by reference to the several clauses of section forty-seven, as follows:

1. The first and second, if authorized to transact either, provided it has a paid-up capital of not less than four hundred thousand dollars, or the first and second excepting ocean marine insurance, if authorized to transact either, provided it has a paid-up capital of not less than three hundred thousand dollars, or subdivision (d) of the second clause, if authorized to transact the first.
2. Any one or more of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth, if authorized to transact any one of said clauses, provided it conforms to the requirements of section forty-eight in respect to paid-up capital.
3. The eighth, if authorized to transact the first.
4. The sixth, if authorized to transact life insurance, provided it has a paid-up capital of not less than four hundred thousand dollars and net cash assets over all liabilities, computed on the basis fixed by sections nine to twelve, inclusive, of not less than two hundred thousand dollars, exclusive of said capital.
5. The first, if authorized to transact fire insurance.
6. The fifth, if incorporated by special act to insure against loss or damage caused by the explosion of steam boilers.
7. Such other form or forms of insurance coverage not included in the provisions of section forty-seven and not contrary to law as the commissioner may authorize and license and which shall be transacted only on such terms and conditions as he may from time to time prescribe and upon payment of the fee prescribed by section fourteen.
8. Nothing in this section shall permit any domestic stock company to combine classes of business which may not be combined under section forty-eight.

Section 53. [Repealed, 1922, 76.]

Section 54. No domestic mutual company shall transact any other kind of business than is specified in its charter or agreement of association, except that it may in addition transact the kinds of business specified below by reference to the several clauses of section forty-seven, as follows:

1. The first, if authorized to transact fire insurance; the first and third, the third and eighth, or the first, third and eighth, if authorized to transact any one of said clauses.
9 (b) The second, if authorized to transact the first and it has two million dollars of insurance in force in not less than eight hundred separate risks in the commonwealth.

10 (c) The sixth, excepting subdivision (e) thereof, if authorized to transact life insurance, whether or not it has a capital stock, provided it has net cash assets over all liabilities, computed on the basis fixed by sections 11 and 12, nine to twelve, inclusive, of not less than four hundred thousand dollars.

11 (d) The eighth, if authorized to transact the first.

17 (e) Any one or more of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth clauses, if authorized to transact business under any one of said clauses, provided that before transacting business under any such additional clause, other than the fourth, it shall have not cash assets over all its liabilities, computed on the basis fixed by sections 21, 22, 23 for each additional clause, which net cash assets shall be maintained as long as it transacts business under such additional clause; and provided further, that before transacting business under the fourth clause, it shall have a fully paid-up guaranty capital as provided in section ninety B or a guaranty fund as provided in section ninety C, and net cash assets, so computed, exclusive of said capital or fund, of not less than one hundred thousand dollars.

Any mutual company transacting business under this clause may accumulate and maintain the net cash assets required herein under in addition to the amount permitted by section eighty. The provision of section twenty-one that a mutual boiler company may insure a single risk an amount not exceeding one fourth of its net assets shall not apply to any mutual company transacting business under this clause.

36 (g) Such other form or forms of insurance coverage not included in the provisions of section forty-seven and not contrary to law as the commissioner may authorize and license and which shall be transacted only upon such terms and conditions as he may from time to time prescribe and upon payment of the fee prescribed by section fourteen.

41 Nothing in this section shall permit any domestic mutual company to combine classes of business which may not be combined under section forty-eight A.

1 Section 55. Mutual companies organized prior to April sixth, nineteen hundred and eleven, to transact employers' liability insurance may continue such business under the sixth clause of section forty-seven.

4 They may also transact all the kinds of business specified in the said sixth clause if authorized so to do by a vote of two thirds of the policyholders present and voting at a meeting called therefor.

7 Mutual companies organized prior to March first, nineteen hundred and fifteen, to transact steam boiler insurance may transact all the kinds of business specified in the fifth clause of section forty-seven.

1912, 311. 1913, 759. 1915, 178, § 1.

1 Section 56. Any domestic corporation subject to chapter one hundred and seventy-six and confining its membership to a particular order or fraternity may by a two thirds vote of its policy or certificate holders voting thereon adopt this section at a meeting called to consider the same, of which meeting written or printed notice shall be mailed to each policy or certificate holder at least thirty days before the day fixed for the meeting, and be reincorporated under this chapter as a stock company to insure only against the disability of the insured by sickness and the bodily injury and death of the insured by accident as provided in subdivisions

(a) and (d) of the sixth clause of section forty-seven. The members of such corporation may vote on this proposition by proxy, if the instrument appointing the proxy is filed with the secretary of the corporation at least five days before said meeting, and the aforesaid notice to the policy and certificate holders shall so state. A copy of such vote certified to by the 14 president, secretary and a majority of the directors of the corporation 15 shall be filed with the commissioner. If such vote be in the affirmative the recording officer shall cause a notice to be mailed to each policy or certificate holder at his last known address, reciting the substance of such vote, and stating that books for cash subscriptions for stock in said company have been opened in the home office and will continue open for sixty days from the date of said notice, and that a policy or certificate 21 holder in said corporation may have a prior right within said period to 22
subscribe for said stock; and stating also that no member shall subscribe for more than ten shares thereof, and that the par value shall be twenty-five dollars per share; and stating also, in a form satisfactory to the commis sioner, the financial condition of the corporation at the time of the 26 meeting aforesaid. If within said period of sixty days the capital, as 27 fixed, shall be oversubscribed by policy or certificate holders, the directors 28 shall allot to each his proportionate part of the amount subscribed. At 29 the expiration of said period of sixty days, the said right of priority to 30 subscribe shall cease, and subscriptions for stock then undisposed of may 31 be received from any member or certificate holder or other person and to 32 any amount. Within thirty days after the stock has been subscribed, a 33 meeting of the subscribers shall be called by a notice signed by the recording officer of the corporation, stating the time, place and purpose of 35 the meeting, a copy of which notice shall, seven days at least before the 36 day appointed for the meeting, be given to each subscriber, or left at his 37 usual place of business or residence, or deposited in the post office, postpaid, and addressed to him at his usual place of business or residence. 39
Said recording officer shall make an affidavit of his doings, which, with a 40 copy of the notice, shall be recorded in the records of the corporation. At 41 such meeting, including any necessary or reasonable adjournment thereof, 42 by-laws of such stock company shall be adopted, and the secretary, directors and such other officers as the by-laws require shall be chosen. 44
The president, treasurer and other officers that the said by-laws authorize them to choose shall be elected by the directors at a meeting held directly 46 after the adjournment of the stockholders' meeting. A certificate of 47 organization, containing a statement that the capital stock has been paid 48 in in cash, shall be signed and sworn to by the president, secretary and a 49 majority of the directors of such corporation, and shall, with the records 50 of the corporation pertaining to the reincorporation, be submitted to the 51 commissioner. If it appears that the requirements of this section have 52 been complied with, the commissioner shall so certify and approve the 53 certificate by his endorsement thereon. Such certificate shall thereupon 54 be filed with the state secretary, who, upon payment of a fee of one 55 twentieth of one per cent of the total amount of the authorized capital, 56 but not less than one hundred dollars, shall issue to such corporation a 57 certificate of reincorporation as a stock company, with the powers retained 58 and hereby conferred. Upon the issuance of such certificate such company shall cease to issue policies or certificates upon its former plan, and 59
Section 32. The company shall be subject to all the liabilities of the former corporation, and be entitled to all its assets. All policies or certificates in force at the date of reincorporation shall continue in full force and effect in all their provisions, agreements and undertakings, and shall be construed according to the laws under which they were issued, except that the policy or certificate holder shall not be liable to any extra assessment; provided, that the rates for benefits for death from natural causes may from time to time be raised if the experience of the company shows it to be necessary. Any defence or evidence relative to such policies or certificates open under such provisions shall constitute a defence, and shall be received as evidence in any controversy between the parties to or interested in such policies or certificates. No such reincorporated company shall declare a stock dividend unless its surplus thereafter would be equal to the amount of the surplus at the time of reincorporation. Any company reincorporated under this section may increase its capital stock in the manner provided in section seventy, and may, if it has sufficient capital, transact all the kinds of business permitted to domestic companies by section fifty-one.

Stock Companies.

1 Section 57. The board of directors of each domestic stock company shall consist of not less than five members, a majority of whom shall be residents of the commonwealth, chosen by ballot from the stockholders. They shall hold office for one year or for the term provided in the by-laws as authorized in the following paragraph, and until their successors are qualified. A majority of those in attendance may transact business, and not less than four shall constitute a quorum.

3 By-laws may divide directors into classes. Vacancies, how filled. 1887, 214, § 25.

4 The by-laws of such a company may divide its board of directors into one, two, three or four classes, and provide for the election thereof at its annual meetings in such manner that one class only shall retire and their successors be chosen each year. Vacancies in any class may be filled by the board by election for the unexpired term.

5 Vacancies in any other office may be filled by the directors or the stockholders as the by-laws may provide.

1 Section 58. The board of directors shall annually choose by ballot a president, who shall be a member of the board, a secretary, and, if the by-laws so provide, a treasurer, who may also be the president or secretary, and such other officers as the by-laws may provide.

2 Directors; election, number, quorum, term, classes. 1852, 95, §§ 1, 4, 5. R. S. §§ 3, 4, 6, 88.

3 By-laws may divide directors into classes. Vacancies, how filled. 1852, 95, §§ 1, 3, 5. R. S. § 7. §§ 3, 5.

4 They shall call special meetings when written requests therefor, signed by owners of one fifth of the capital or by twenty stockholders, are filed 1854, 433, § 2, 1854, 199, § 41, R. S. § 37, §§ 1, 2, 3.
in the office of the company. All matters proposed to be acted upon at any meeting of the company shall be specified in the call therefor.

They shall at each annual meeting of the company submit a full statement of the transactions of the company during the previous year and of its financial condition.

SECTION 59. The president, or in his absence the vice president, if any, shall preside at all meetings of the directors or stockholders. In the absence of both said officers a temporary president may be chosen.

The secretary shall keep a list of stockholders and of the number of shares standing in the name of each and a record of the transfers thereof. He shall keep a record of the votes, which shall show whether cast in person or by proxy; a record of all other proceedings of all meetings of the directors or the stockholders; a record of all policies issued and of all authorized assignments, transfers and cancellations thereof; and such other books and records as the president and directors may require. The records so kept shall be evidence of all elections and of the transactions to which they relate, and shall be open to the inspection of any interested person. A secretary who wilfully makes a false record shall be deemed guilty of perjury.

SECTION 60. The president, vice president, if any, the secretary, assistant secretary, if any, the treasurer and assistant treasurer, if any, shall be annually sworn and their oaths entered of record in the books of the company.

Each director shall file with the secretary a written acceptance of the trust before he is qualified to act.

The secretary, the treasurer, if any, and each assistant secretary and each assistant treasurer of such a company shall, before entering upon his duties, give a bond payable to the company conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties. The bond shall be executed as surety by a surety company authorized to transact business in the commonwealth and shall be in a form satisfactory to the commissioner and in such penal sum as the directors shall prescribe. If the authority of any such surety company to transact business in the commonwealth is terminated, each officer bonded as aforesaid by such surety company shall forthwith execute a new bond in compliance with this section. A secretary or assistant secretary or treasurer or assistant treasurer who enters upon or performs any of the duties of his office without having previously executed a bond in compliance with this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars.

SECTION 61. Each stockholder of such a company shall be entitled to one vote for each share he holds in the choice of directors and at all meetings of the company.
4 Proxies may be authorized by written power of attorney.

1 SECTION 62. The directors or other officers of such a company making 2 or authorizing an investment or loan in violation of sections sixty-three,
3 sixty-five or sixty-six shall be personally liable to the stockholders for any 4 loss caused thereby.
5 If they allow to be insured on a single risk a larger amount than 6 authorized by section twenty-one, they shall be personally liable for 7 any loss in excess of the amount to which they might lawfully insure.
8 If they make or assent to further insurance knowing that the accrued
9 losses of the company equal its net assets, they shall be personally liable 10 for any loss under such insurance.

Investments of All Companies.
1 SECTION 63. The capital stock and, in the case of a domestic stock
2 life company, the net cash surplus required by section forty-eight shall 3 be paid in cash within twelve months after the date of the charter or 4 certificate of organization, but no certificates of full shares and no policies 5 shall be issued until the whole capital and net cash surplus as aforesaid is 6 paid in. A majority of the directors shall certify on oath that the money 7 has been paid by the stockholders for their respective shares, and that the 8 same is held as the capital of the company, invested and to be invested as 9 required by this section.

The capital of any domestic company, other than life, and three fourths 11 of the reserve of any domestic stock or mutual life company, shall be 12 invested only as follows:

1. In the public funds of the United States or District of Columbia, or 13 of any state of the United States.
14 2. (a) In the legally authorized bonds or notes of any county, city, 15 town, school or water district in the commonwealth.
16 (b) In the bonds or notes of any county, city, school or water district, 17 or other political subdivision, located in any other state in the United 18 States, and having a population, according to the last national or state 19 census preceding the date of such investment, of more than one hundred 20 thousand inhabitants, provided that such notes or bonds are legally 21 authorized and are a direct obligation of the county, city, school or water 22 district or political subdivision issuing the same.
23 (c) In the bonds or notes of any county, city, town, school or water 24 district, or other political subdivision, located in any other state of the 25 United States and having an indebtedness, after deducting the amount of 26 its water debt and securities in the sinking funds available for payment 27 of its bonds, not in excess of five per cent of the valuation of property 28 therein as assessed for taxation next preceding the date of such invest-29 ment, provided that such bonds or notes are legally authorized and are a 30 direct obligation of the county, city, town, school or water district or 31 other political subdivision issuing the same.
32 3. In securities of the same classes as those described in paragraph one 33 and clauses (b) and (c) of paragraph two, and subject to the limitations
In unexpired building

4. In the bonds or notes of any railroad or street railway corporation incorporated or located wholly or in part in the commonwealth, or in the mortgage bonds of any railroad corporation located wholly or in part in any state of the United States whose capital stock equals at least one third of its funded indebtedness, which has paid regularly for the five years next preceding the date of such investment all interest charges on said funded indebtedness, and which has paid regularly for such period dividends of at least four per cent per annum upon all its issues of capital stock, or in the mortgage bonds of any railroad, railway or terminal corporation which have been, both as to principal and interest, assumed or guaranteed by any such railroad or railway corporation.

5. In the mortgage bonds of any railroad corporation located wholly or in part in any state of the United States whose liens junior to such mortgage bonds equal at least one third of the funded indebtedness secured by such mortgage bonds and bonds prior thereto which has paid regularly for the five years next preceding the date of such investment all interest charges on the said funded indebtedness, and which has paid regularly for such period at least four per cent interest on such junior securities.

6. In the notes of any equipment trust created in behalf of any railroad coming within the terms of paragraph four or five, provided that the plan of such trust, in case of any railroad coming within the terms of paragraph four, includes an initial cash payment of at least twenty-five per cent, and, in case of any railroad coming within the terms of paragraph five, of at least forty per cent, and that such notes mature not later than fifteen years from the date of issue.

7. In loans upon improved and unencumbered real property in any state of the United States and upon leasehold estates in improved real property for a term of ninety-nine years or more where fifty years or more of the term is unexpired and where unencumbered except by rentals accruing therefrom to the owner of the fee, and where the mortgagee is entitled to be subrogated to all the rights under the leasehold. No loan on such real property or such leasehold estate shall exceed sixty per cent of the fair market value thereof at the time of such loan, and a certificate of the value of such property shall be executed before making such loan by the persons making or authorizing such loan on behalf of the company, which certificate shall be recorded on the books of the company. Real property shall not be deemed to be encumbered within the meaning of this paragraph by reason of the existence of instruments reserving mineral, oil or timber rights, rights of way, sewer rights, rights in walls, nor by reason of building restrictions or other restrictive covenants, nor by the reason that it is subject to lease under which rents or profits are reserved to the owner, provided that the security for such loan is a first lien upon such real property and that there is no condition or right of re-entry or forfeiture under which such lien can be cut off, subordinated or otherwise disturbed.

8. In such real property as shall be required for the convenient accommodation in the transaction of its business, subject to section sixty-four.

9. In bonds of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and first mortgage bonds of its subsidiary operating companies.

10. In banker’s acceptances and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities made eligible by law for rediscount with federal reserve banks, provided that the same are accepted by a bank or trust company incorpo-

89 rated under the laws of the United States or this commonwealth or any other bank or trust company which is a member of the Federal Reserve System.
92 11. In mortgage bonds issued by light and power companies operating in states having commissions or other regulating bodies whose approval is necessary to the issue of such securities, provided that such companies have gross earnings for the preceding year in excess of one million dollars and net earnings, after deducting operating expenses, and taxes but not deducting depreciation charges, of at least twice the interest charges on the bonds in question and all underlying issues, including rentals.
90 12. In loans upon the security of its own policies not exceeding at the time of making the loan the legal reserve on the policy.
91 13. In the capital stock of companies organized under the fourteenth clause of section forty-seven; provided that the above specified proportionate part of the reserve of any domestic stock or mutual life company shall not be invested in such capital stock.
92 14. In farm loan bonds lawfully issued by federal land banks incorporated under the act of congress approved July seventeenth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, entitled "An Act to provide capital for agricultural development, to create standard forms of investment based upon farm mortgage, to equalize rates of interest upon farm loans, to furnish a market for United States bonds, to create government depositaries and financial agents for the United States, and for other purposes."
93 15. In loans secured by collateral security consisting of any of the above.

1 Section 64. All investments and deposits of the funds of any such company shall be made in its corporate name; and no director or other officer thereof, and no member of a committee having any authority in the investment or disposition of its funds, shall accept, or be the beneficiary, either directly or remotely, of any fee, brokerage, commission, gift or other consideration for or on account of any loan, deposit, purchase, sale, payment or exchange made by or in behalf of such company; or be pecuniarily interested in any such purchase, sale or loan, either as borrower, principal, co-principal, agent or beneficiary, except that, if a policyholder, he shall be entitled to all the benefits accruing under the terms of his contract.

1 No investment, sale or loan, except loans on its own policies, shall be made which has not first been authorized by the board of directors, or by a committee thereof charged with the duty of investing or loaning the funds of the company; nor shall any deposit be made in a bank or banking institution unless such bank or banking institution has first been approved as a bank of deposit by the board of directors or said committee thereof, and unless the vote authorizing such investment, sale or loan or approval of the place of deposit has been duly recorded in the books of the company.

1 No domestic company hereafter acquiring title to real estate under the conditions of any mortgage owned by it, or by purchase or set-off on execution upon judgment for debts due it previously contracted in the course of its business, or by other process in settlement for debts, shall hold it for a longer period than five years without the written permission of the commissioner; nor shall any such company invest in real estate except to the extent that may be necessary for its convenient accommodation in the transaction of its business, and then in no case to exceed ten per cent of its invested assets, including cash in banks.

Such company shall not engage in buying or selling goods, wares or merchandise, except articles insured by it on which losses are claimed, and except in replacing, rebuilding or repairing insured property as provided in its policies.

Section 65. No domestic company shall, except in effecting the sale of real estate owned by it, and then only with the approval of the commissioner, invest any of its funds in loans upon mortgages except upon the conditions expressed in the seventh paragraph of section sixty-three.

Section 66. Except as otherwise provided, no domestic life company shall invest any of its funds in any unincorporated business or enterprise, or in the stocks or evidence of indebtedness of any corporation the owners or holders of which stock or evidence of indebtedness may in any event be or become liable on account thereof to any assessment except for taxes, nor shall such life company invest any of its funds in its own stock or in the stock of any other insurance company. No such life company shall invest in, acquire or hold directly or indirectly more than ten per cent of the capital stock of any corporation, nor shall more than ten per cent of its capital and surplus be invested in the stock of any one corporation. No such life company shall subscribe to or participate in any underwriting of the purchase or sale of securities or property, or enter into any transaction for such purchase or sale on account of said company jointly with any other person, nor shall any such life company enter into any agreement to withhold from sale any of its property, but the disposition of its property shall be at all times within the control of its board of directors.

Nothing in this section or in section sixty-three shall prevent such a life company from investing or loaning any funds, not required to be invested as provided in section sixty-three, in any manner that the directors may determine; provided, that no loan of such funds shall be made to an individual or firm unless it is secured by collateral security and provided further, that such funds shall not be invested in the purchase of stock or evidence of indebtedness prohibited by the preceding paragraph, except as hereinafter provided. Any such life company may invest such funds in the capital stock of a trust company incorporated in and doing business in the commonwealth or of a national banking association incorporated under federal law and located in any one of the New England states, if such trust company or association has paid dividends in cash of not less than four per cent on its capital stock in each of the five years next preceding the date of the investment and if the amount of surplus of such trust company or association is at least equal to fifty per cent of the amount of its capital stock; but no such life company shall invest in the aggregate an amount in excess of two and one half per cent of its reserve in the purchase of stock of such trust companies and national banking associations, nor shall it invest an amount in excess of two per cent of its reserve in the purchase of the stock of any one such trust company or association, except that if two or more such trust companies or associations merge or consolidate or one or more such trust companies is merged or consolidated with one or more such associations, such a life company may acquire stock of the absorbing or consolidating trust company or national banking association to an amount in excess of...
43 two per cent but not in excess of two and one half per cent of the reserve 44 of such life company, if such stock is received in exchange for stock of the 45 consolidating or merging companies or associations owned by the life 46 company at the time of the merger or consolidation.
47 Nothing in this section or in section sixty-three shall prevent any such 48 life company from entering into an agreement for the purpose of protect-49 ing the interests of the company in securities lawfully held by it, or for 50 the purpose of reorganization of a corporation which issued securities so 51 held, and from depositing such securities with a committee or depositaries 52 appointed under such agreement, nor from accepting corporate stock or 53 bonds or other securities which may be distributed pursuant to any such 54 agreement, or to any plan of reorganization; and nothing in this section 55 or section sixty-three shall prevent any such life company from acquiring 56 or holding any property acquired in satisfaction of any debt previously 57 contracted, or that shall be obtained by sale or foreclosure of any security
58 held by it; provided, that if the property owned be such as is prohibited 59 for investment by such company, it shall dispose of such property, if 60 personal, within one year, and if real estate, within five years, from the 61 date when it acquired title to the same, unless the commissioner shall 62 extend the time for such disposition for the reason that the interests of the 63 company will suffer materially by a forced sale of such property.
64 A record of such extension shall be made by the commissioner, which 65 shall state the time of the extension, and in that event the sale of said 66 property may be made at any time before the expiration of the time of 67 such extension.

1 Section 67. Nothing in the charter of any domestic mutual life
2 company shall limit the investments of such company unless such 3 limitation is contained in the general insurance laws in force at the 4 time of making the investment.
6 Section 68. All property held by any domestic company the in-
7 vestment in or loan on which by such company is prohibited by this 8 chapter shall be sold and disposed of forthwith unless the time be ex-9 tended by the commissioner in the manner provided in section sixty-10 six or has been so extended.

Provisions as to Capital Stock.

1 Section 69. If the net assets of the company do not amount to more 2 than three fourths of its capital, it may make good its capital by assess-3 ment of its stock.
4 Shares on which such assessment is not paid within sixty days after 5 demand shall be forfeitable, and may be cancelled by a vote of the direc-
6 tors, and new shares issued to make up the deficiency.
7 If such company shall not, within three months after notice from 8 the commissioner, make good its capital as aforesaid, or reduce the same 9 as provided in section seventy-one, its authority to transact new business 10 shall cease.

1 Section 70. Such company may issue pro rata to its stockholders
2 certificates of any portion of its actual net surplus it may decide to divide, 3 which shall be deemed to be an increase of its capital to the amount of such certificates, or such company may, at a meeting called therefor, vote to increase the amount and number of shares of its capital stock, and to issue certificates thereof when paid in full. If a company shall vote to increase its capital in the second of the two ways set forth in this section, the directors shall fix the price, not less than par, at which, and the time, not less than thirty days after the date of such vote to increase, within which the new stock may be taken by the stockholders. And the directors shall forthwith give written notice to each stockholder who was such at the time of the vote to increase, stating the amount of the increase, the number of shares or fractions of shares of new stock that such stockholder is entitled to take, the price at which and the time within which such new stock may be taken. Within said time each stockholder may take, at the price fixed as aforesaid, his proportion of such new shares at the date of such vote to increase. If at the expiration of such time any shares remain untaken, the directors may sell the same for the benefit of the corporation in such manner and for such price, not less than the price fixed as aforesaid, as they may determine. In whichever mode the increase is made, the company shall, within thirty days after the issue of such certificates, submit to the commissioner a certificate setting forth the proceedings thereof and the amount of such increase, signed and sworn to by its president and secretary and a majority of its directors. If the commissioner finds that the increase is made in conformity to law, he shall endorse his approval thereon; and upon filing such certificate so endorsed with the state secretary and the payment of a fee of one twentieth of one per cent of the amount by which the capital is increased for filing the same, the company may transact business upon the capital as increased, and the commissioner shall, upon payment of the fee prescribed by section fourteen, issue his certificate to that effect.

Section 71. Any company may, upon a vote of a majority of the stock represented at a meeting legally called for that purpose, reduce its capital stock by decreasing the number of the shares thereof, or by reducing the par value of its shares to an amount not less than five dollars without changing the number thereof; but no part of its assets and property shall be distributed to its stockholders, nor shall its capital stock, except as hereinafter provided, be reduced to an amount less than that required by section forty-eight or fifty-one. Within ten days after such meeting, the company shall submit to the commissioner a certificate setting forth the proceedings thereof, the method of reduction and the amount thereof and of the assets and liabilities of the company, signed and sworn to by its president, secretary and a majority of its directors. If the commissioner finds that the reduction is made in conformity to law and that it will not be prejudicial to the public, he shall endorse his approval thereon and, except as hereinafter otherwise provided, upon filing the certificate, so endorsed, with the state secretary and paying a fee of twenty-five dollars for the filing thereof, the company may transact business upon the capital as reduced, and the commissioner shall, upon payment of the fee prescribed by section fourteen, issue his certificate to that effect.

A company may, by a majority vote of its directors, after a reduction by a decrease of the number of its shares, require the return of the original certificates of stock held by each stockholder in exchange for new certificates which it may issue in lieu thereof for such number of shares as each stockholder is entitled to in the proportion that the reduced capital bears...
26 to the original capital, or, after a reduction by reducing the par value of 27 its shares, require the return of the original certificates of stock held by 28 each stockholder in exchange for new certificates of stock of the reduced 29 par value.
30 Any company may temporarily reduce the amount of its capital stock 31 below the minimum required by section forty-eight or fifty-one, by 32 decreasing the par value of its shares; provided, that concurrently with 33 such reduction it also increases its capital stock to an amount at least 34 equal to said minimum in the second mode prescribed in section seventy;
35 and, if, after such reduction and increase, the total capital stock actually 36 paid in is of the same amount as prior thereto, no certificate of such reduc-
37 tion and increase need be filed with the state secretary, and no certificate 38 need be issued by the commissioner, but a certificate signed and sworn 39 to by the president, secretary and a majority of the directors setting forth 40 such proceedings shall within sixty days after the meeting at which they 41 are taken, be filed with the commissioner.

1 Section 72. No stock company shall make a dividend, either in 2 cash or stock certificates, except from its actual net surplus computed 3 as required by law in its annual statement, nor shall any such com-4 pany which has ceased to do new business divide any portion of its 5 assets, except surplus, to its stockholders until it shall have performed
6 or cancelled its policy obligations. Any such company may declare 7 and pay, annually or semi-annually from its surplus, cash dividends to 8 its stockholders of not more than ten per cent of its capital stock in 9 a year, and if the dividends in any year are less than ten per cent the 10 difference may be made up in any subsequent year from surplus accumu-
11 lations; but any such company may pay such dividend as the directors 12 may consider prudent out of any surplus remaining after deducting from 13 the assets all securities and book accounts on which no part of the prin-14 cipal or interest has been paid within the last year and for which fore-15 closure or suit has not been commenced for collection, or which after 16 judgment obtained thereon shall have remained more than two years 17 unsatisfied and on which interest shall not have been paid, and also 18 deducting all interest due and unpaid on any property of the company.

Mutual Companies.
1 Section 73. No policy shall be issued by a mutual fire company
2 organized subsequent to April twenty-third, eighteen hundred and 3 ninety-four, and having no guaranty capital or having a guaranty capital
4 of less than one hundred thousand dollars, until not less than one million
5 dollars of insurance, in not less than four hundred separate risks upon 6 property located in the commonwealth, has been subscribed for and 7 entered on its books, nor until a list of the subscribers for insurance, with 8 such other information as the commissioner may require, shall have been 9 filed with him, nor until the president and secretary of the company shall 10 have certified on oath that every subscription for insurance in the list so 11 filed is genuine and made under an agreement in writing with the sub-12 scriber for insurance that he will accept the policies subscribed for by him 13 and pay the full mutual premiums thereon in cash within thirty days of 14 the granting by the commissioner of a certificate to issue policies as pro-
15 vided by section thirty-two. If such officers shall make a false oath 16 relative to such list, they shall be guilty of perjury.
No such company and no officer, director, agent or other representative thereof shall solicit any subscriptions for insurance until a copy of the form of subscription agreement and of the receipt hereinafter mentioned has been filed with and approved by the commissioner, nor until it has been furnished security in such form and such amount as the commissioner may require for the repayment of any premiums paid to it or any of its officers, directors, agents or representatives in advance as hereinafter provided, nor until it has received from the commissioner a preliminary certificate, in such form as he may prescribe, authorizing it to solicit subscriptions.

If any subscriber shall pay in whole or in part the premium on the policy for which he has subscribed, prior to the issue of the certificate required by section thirty-two, the company or the officer, director, agent or other representative receiving such payment shall at the time of such payment deliver to the subscriber a receipt in a form approved by the commissioner evidencing such payment signed by the officer, director, agent or other representative, and any payment so made, shall be deemed payment to the company.

All premiums or parts thereof paid in advance by the subscribers shall be held in trust by the company pending the issue of the certificate required by said section thirty-two, shall not be used for any purpose prior to the issue thereof and shall, if such certificate is not issued within the time fixed by section forty-four, be refunded in full to the subscribers. Such premiums shall not be deemed a liability under said section thirty-two.

The president and treasurer of the company shall execute under oath and file with the commissioner whenever he shall require in writing a statement in such form as he may prescribe of all moneys received by the company or its officers, directors, agents or other representatives from subscribers prior to the issue of a certificate under said section thirty-two.

The commissioner may at any time prior to the issue of such certificate examine the books, records and accounts of any such company and for this purpose he shall have all of the powers conferred by section four.

The provisions of section one hundred and sixty-three shall apply to all persons, except the officers or directors of the company, soliciting subscriptions on behalf of such company.

Any officer or director who uses or permits the use of such advance payments in violation of this section shall be personally liable to any subscriber for the amount of his payment and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not less than one month nor more than two and one half years, or by both.

Any officer, director, agent or other representative who solicits subscriptions in violation of this section, or who uses a form of subscription agreement or receipt not approved by the commissioner, or who accepts a payment in whole or in part of a premium from a subscriber and does not give to such subscriber a receipt as hereinafter provided, shall be personally liable to any subscriber for the amount of his payment. A company, or any officer, director, agent or other representative thereof violating any provision of this section shall, except as otherwise provided herein, be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both.
1 SECTION 74. No mutual fire company operating on the cash premium plan as provided in section eighty-one, nor any mutual fire company with a guaranty capital of less than one hundred thousand dollars, either of which has become insolvent, or through reinsurance or cancellation of expiration of risks has on its books less than one million dollars of insurance in force, not reinsured, or has less than four hundred separate risks in the commonwealth, shall make any further insurance until it has secured applications for policies which, together with the unreinsured risks in force, shall amount to not less than one million dollars in not less than four hundred separate risks in the commonwealth, said applications to be subject to the provisions of the preceding section applying to the subscriptions for insurance in a new company; provided, that whenever such reinsurance has been effected for the purpose of reducing the company's liability on account of excessive loss, the number and amount of said applications for policies shall not be required within one year thereafter. Upon the filing of applications under this section with the commissioner, he may make such investigation as he deems proper, and, if his findings warrant it, grant a certificate to such company to issue policies.

1 SECTION 75. No officer or other person whose duty it is to determine the character of the risks, and upon whose decision the application shall be accepted or rejected by a mutual fire company, shall receive any part of his compensation a commission upon the premiums; but his compensation shall be a fixed salary, and, if the directors so determine, a share of the net profits. Nor shall such officer or person aforesaid be an employee of any officer or agent of the company.

1 SECTION 76. Every person insured by a mutual fire company shall be a member while his policy is in force, entitled to one vote for each policy he holds, and shall be notified of the time and place of holding its meetings by a written notice or by an imprint, in type not smaller than long primer, upon the filing-back of each policy, receipt or certificate of renewal, as follows:

The assured is hereby notified that by virtue of this policy he is a member of the Insurance Company, and is entitled to vote either in person or by proxy at any and all meetings of said company. The annual meetings are held at its home office on the day of in each year, at o'clock.

7 The blanks shall be duly filled in print, and shall be a sufficient notice.

8 Any city or town or other political subdivision of the commonwealth or any other corporation becoming a member of such a company may authorize any person to represent it in such company, and such representative shall have all the rights of any individual member. The contingent liability of any city or town or other political subdivision of the commonwealth becoming a member of such a company shall not be deemed a liability within the meaning of section thirty-one of chapter forty-four. The commissioner shall, upon request of any official of a city or town or other political subdivision of the commonwealth, furnish a list of the mutual companies authorized to transact business in the commonwealth.
Any person holding property in trust may insure the same in such company, and as such trustee assume the liabilities and be entitled to the rights of a member, but shall not be personally liable upon such contract of insurance.

Members may vote by proxies dated and executed within three months, and returned and recorded on the books of the company three days or more, before the meeting at which they are to be used. No person shall, as attorney or otherwise, cast more than twenty votes, and no officer shall, himself or by another, ask for, receive, procure to be obtained or use a proxy to vote.

Section 77. Every such company shall elect by ballot a board of directors as provided in and subject to section fifty-seven, except that it shall consist of not less than seven members and that five shall constitute a quorum. After the first election members only shall be eligible, but no director shall be disqualified from serving the term for which he was elected by reason of the termination of his policy. Such companies having a guaranty capital shall choose one half of the directors from the stockholders.

Such board may call special meetings of the company, of which each member shall have such notice as the by-laws provide, and they shall call such meetings when requested in writing by twenty members or by the owners of one fifth of the guaranty capital, stating the purpose thereof.

Vacancies in any office may be filled in such manner as the by-laws provide.

Section 78. Such companies shall be subject to the first paragraph of section fifty-eight, except that a treasurer shall be chosen, and to the second paragraph of section fifty-nine, except that the secretary shall keep a record of all proceedings of the meetings of the members, and to the first and third paragraphs of section sixty.

Section 79. A mutual fire company may be formed with, or an existing mutual fire company may establish, a guaranty capital of not less than twenty-five thousand nor more than two hundred thousand dollars, divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, to be invested as provided by this chapter for the investment of the capital stock of domestic companies. The stockholders of the guaranty capital shall be entitled to a semi-annual dividend of not more than three and one half per cent on their respective shares if the net profits or unused premiums, left after all expenses, losses and liabilities then incurred, with the reserve for reinsurance, are provided for, shall be sufficient to pay the same. The guaranty capital shall be applied to the payment of losses only when the company has exhausted its assets, exclusive of uncollected premiums; and when thus impaired, the directors may make good the whole or any part of it by assessments upon the contingent funds of the company at the date of such impairment. Shareholders and members of such companies shall be subject to the same provisions of law relative to their right to vote as apply respectively to shareholders in stock companies and policyholders in mutual companies; and said guaranty capital shall be retired when the profits accumulated under section eighty equal two per cent of its insurance in force; and said guaranty capital may be reduced or retired by vote of the policyholders of the company and the written assent of the commissioner, if the net assets of the company above its reinsurance reserve and all other claims and obligations, exclusive of guaranty capital, for two years last preceding and including the date of its last annual statement, shall be not less than twenty-five per cent of the guaranty capital. Due notice of such proposed action on the part of the company shall be mailed to each policyholder of the company not less than thirty days before the meeting when such action may be taken, and shall also be advertised in two papers of general circulation, approved by the commissioner, not less than three times a week for a period of not less than four weeks before said meeting. No company with a guaranty capital which has ceased to do new business shall divide among its stockholders any part of its assets or guaranty capital, except income from investments, until it shall have performed or cancelled its policy obligations.

Section 80. From time to time the directors of a mutual fire company may by vote fix and determine the percentages of dividend or expiry return of premium to be paid on expiring or cancelled policies which may, in their discretion, and with the written approval of the commissioner, and upon such conditions, if any, as he may prescribe, be different for policies insuring for the same term against the different kinds of risks mentioned in the several provisions of the clause or clauses of section forty-seven under which such a company may transact business; and the percentage aforesaid for fire policies insuring farm risks, fireproof risks, including risks equipped with automatic sprinkler and fire alarm systems, or manufacturing or storage risks, or manufacturing or storage risks confined to lumber and woodworking only, may in like manner be different from that for policies insuring other risks against fire for the same term.

13. Policies insuring risks in this Commonwealth in the same classification shall have an equal rate of dividend or return of premium. If an assessment is levied under section eighty-three the rate thereof may be different for policies insuring risks in any classification from that for policies insuring other classifications of risks for the same term; but policies insuring risks in the same classification shall have the same rate of assessment, and all funds of the company, actual and contingent, shall be available for the payment of any claim against it. Every policy placed in any classification made under this section shall, when issued, bear an endorsement, satisfactory to the commissioner, to the effect that it is so classified.

Any such company may accumulate and hold profits, but only until such profits equal four per cent of its insurance in force; and such accumulation shall be subject to the laws relative to the investment of the capital stock of domestic companies, except that it may also be invested in shares of co-operative banks, in deposits in savings banks, and in deposits in savings departments of trust companies, chartered under the laws of this commonwealth, subject as to such deposits to the laws, rules and regula-

Sections governing the same. Such accumulation may be used from time to time in the payment of losses, dividends and expenses.
Every policyholder of a domestic company and every policyholder in this commonwealth of a foreign company shall be notified, at his last known address, within six months after the expiration of his policy, of the amount of any dividend declared and payable thereon, unless in the meantime such dividend has been paid in cash or applied in payment of the premium on the renewal of the policy.

Section 81. Mutual fire companies, except as provided in the following section, shall charge and collect upon their policies a full mutual premium in cash or, except as provided in section seventy-three, in notes absolutely payable. Any such company shall in its by-laws and policies fix the contingent mutual liability of its members for the payment of losses and expenses not provided for by its cash funds, which liability shall not be less than an amount equal to and in addition to the cash premium written in his policy. The total amount of the liability of the policyholder shall be plainly and legibly stated upon the filing-back of each policy. Whenever any reduction is made in the contingent liability of members, such reduction shall apply proportionally to all policies in force.

Section 82. Mutual fire companies organized prior to May twenty-first, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, and now lawfully doing business upon the plan of taking deposit notes for a percentage of the amount insured by their policies, and making a call or assessment thereon for expenses and for the payment of losses only after such losses are incurred, may continue such system of business, and such deposit notes shall constitute the entire liability of their members.

Section 83. If a mutual fire company is not possessed of assets above its unearned premiums sufficient for the payment of incurred losses and expenses, it shall make an assessment upon its members liable to assessment therefor, in proportion to their several liabilities, for the amount needed to pay such losses and expenses.

The company shall cause to be recorded in a book kept therefor the order for such assessment, with a statement setting forth the condition of the company at the date of the order, the amount of its cash assets and of its deposit notes or other contingent funds liable to the assessment, the amount which the assessment calls for, and the particular losses or other liabilities for which it is to provide. The said order shall be made and signed by the directors voting for the order, before which any part of the assessment is collected, and any person liable to the assessment may inspect and take a copy of the same.

If by reason of any depreciation or loss of its funds or otherwise the assets of such a company, after providing for its other debts, are less than its unearned premiums upon its policies, it shall make good the deficiency by assessment in the mode above provided; or the directors may, instead of such assessment, make two assessments, the first determining what 19 each policyholder must equitably pay or receive in case of his withdrawal from the company and the cancellation of his policy, the second determining what further amount each must pay to continue the policy for its 22 unexpired term, and being for such proportion of the unearned premium as the directors may fix by vote, but in no event to exceed the amount of such unearned premium. Each policyholder shall pay or receive according to the first assessment, and his policy shall then be cancelled unless he pays the further amount determined by the second assessment, in which case his policy shall continue in force for its unexpired term; but in neither case shall a policyholder receive or have credited to him more than he would have received on having his policy cancelled by the company in accordance with the terms of the policy.

If within two months after such alternative assessments have become collectible the amount of the policies whose holders have settled for both assessments is less than one million dollars, the company shall cease to issue policies; and all policies whose holders have not settled for both assessments shall be void, and the company shall continue only for the purpose of adjusting the deficiency or excess of premiums among the members and settling outstanding claims.

Each policyholder shall be liable to pay his proportional part of any assessments laid by the company in accordance with law and his contract, on account of losses and expenses incurred while a member, if he is notified of such assessment within one year after the expiration or cancelation of his policy; and when an assessment is ordered, the directors shall forthwith cause written notice and demand for payment to be made upon each person subject thereto, by mail or personal service.

Section 84. If the directors by authority of law make an assessment or call on the members for money, or vote that there exists a necessity therefor, they or any person interested in the company as an officer, policyholder or creditor may apply to the supreme judicial court for any county, by a petition in equity, praying the court to examine such assessment or call, the necessity therefor, and all matters connected therewith, and to confirm, amend or annul the assessment or call, or to order the same to be made as law and justice may require; but if an application is made by any party except the company, or a receiver, or the commissioner, the court may decline to exercise jurisdiction thereof. If the directors unreasonably neglect to make an assessment or call to satisfy an admitted or ascertained claim upon the company, any judgment creditor, or any person holding such claim, or the commissioner, may make the application to the court. Upon such application, if made by the directors, or upon an order of the court, if made by any other person, the directors shall set forth the claims against the company, its assets, and all other facts and particulars appertaining thereto.

The court shall order notice by publication or otherwise to all parties interested, and upon the return thereof shall examine the assessment or call, or the necessity therefor, and all matters connected therewith.
Any parties interested may appear and be heard thereon. All questions arising shall be heard and determined as in other equity cases.

The application shall be referred to an auditor, who shall appoint a time and place to hear all parties interested, and shall give personal written notice thereof to the commissioner, and by mail, so far as he is able, to all persons liable upon said assessment or call. The auditor shall hear the parties, and report upon the correctness of the assessment or call, and all matters connected therewith. The court may confirm, amend or annul the assessment or call, or order one to be made, and may make such orders and decrees as under all the circumstances justice and equity require. If the assessment or call is altered or amended, or one is ordered to be made, the directors shall forthwith proceed to vote the same in legal form, and the record of such vote shall be set forth in a supplemental bill or answer.

When an assessment or call has been so confirmed, ascertained or established, a decree shall be entered which shall be final and conclusive upon the company and all persons liable to the assessment or call as to its necessity, the authority of the company to make or collect it, the amount thereof, and all formalities connected therewith. An assessment or call altered or amended by vote of directors and decree of the court thereon shall be binding upon all parties who would have been liable under it as originally made, and in all legal proceedings shall be held to be such original assessment or call. All such proceedings shall be at the cost of the company unless the court for cause otherwise orders, and in all cases the court may control the disposition of the funds collected under such proceedings.

If the court finds that the net proceeds of any assessment or call will be insufficient to furnish substantial relief to those having claims against the company, it may decree that no assessment shall be collected; and if, upon the application of the commissioner or a member of the company or of any person interested, the court is of opinion that further attempts to collect an assessment then partially collected will not benefit those having claims against the company, it may stay the further collection of said assessment.

SECTION 85. A director or other officer of a mutual fire company who officially or privately gives a guaranty to a policyholder thereof against an assessment to which he would otherwise be liable shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

If the directors of any such company neglect or omit for six months to lay and collect with all practicable diligence any assessment they are required to make by sections eighty-three and eighty-four, they shall be personally liable for all debts and claims then outstanding against the company, or that may accrue until such assessment is laid and put in process of collection.

If the treasurer of such company unreasonably neglects to collect an assessment made by order of the directors, and to apply the same to the payment of the claims for which it was made, he shall be personally liable to the person having such claims for the amount of the assessment, and he may repay himself out of any money afterward received for the company on account of said assessment.

If sufficient property of any such company cannot be found to satisfy an execution against it, and it has property belonging to the period assessed the proceeds of which can be applied to satisfy such execution, if the directors neglect to pay the same, or neglect for thirty days after the rendition of judgment to make an assessment and deliver the same to the treasurer for collection, or to apply such assessment when collected to the payment of the execution, they shall be personally liable for the amount of the execution.
25 If the directors of any such company are liable to pay an execution 26 against it, the creditor may recover the same by a suit in equity or by 27 an action at law against the directors. The director who pays an execu-28 tion against the company for which he is personally liable may sue in 29 equity for contribution any of the directors for their proportion, and 30 also the company or the individual members thereof to the extent of 31 their several liability to assessment therefor.
1907, 376, §§ 52, 122. 106 Mass. 314.

1 Section 86. A mutual marine company formed under the second
2 clause of section forty-seven shall have an agreement under the seal of 3 each subscriber thereto, substantially as follows:

The subscribers severally agree to pay to the Insurance Company on demand the whole or such part of the amounts set against our names as may be called from time to time for the use of said company in the payment of its losses and expenses not otherwise provided for.

4 Such company shall not issue policies until the amount of three hun-5 dred thousand dollars, which shall be the total of such subscriptions, shall 6 have been so subscribed, and a certificate, signed by the president and a 7 majority of the directors, certifying that the subscribers are known to 8 them and that they believe them to be solvent and able to pay their sub-9 scriptions, has been deposited with and approved by the commissioner.
10 If a subscriber dies or becomes insolvent, his subscription shall be can-11 celled; and if the amount of the subscription fund is thereby or other-12 wise reduced, the deficiency shall be made good by new subscriptions 13 certified in the same manner as the original. Subscribers shall be entitled 14 to annual dividends of two per cent upon the amount of their subscrip-15 tions from the profits of the company, and shall also be reimbursed from 16 future profits for all amounts of money they may pay the company for 17 its uses under their agreement, with lawful interest thereon.
18 The net profits or divisible surplus of such companies shall annually 19 be divided among the insured whose policies terminated within the year, 20 in proportion to the contribution of each to such profits or surplus, and 21 such dividends shall be made only in scrip certificates payable only out 22 of the accumulation of net profits or surplus, which accumulation shall 23 constitute and be kept and invested by the company as a separate fund
24 in trust for the redemption of such scrip certificates and the contingent
25 payment of losses and expenses as herein provided. Such certificates 26 until redeemed shall be subject to future losses and expenses of the com-27 pany and to be reduced if the redemption fund is drawn upon for the 28 payment of such losses and expenses. But no part of the redemption
29 fund shall be used for the payment of losses or expenses unless the cash
30 assets of the company are insufficient therefor, and except to the extent 31 of the deficiency; and if any portion thereof shall be used for such pay-32 ment, the outstanding certificates shall be reduced in proportion, so that 33 the redemption fund shall at all times equal the amount of the unre-34 deemed certificates. The net income of the redemption fund shall be 35 divided annually among the holders of its certificates, or the company 36 may make such certificates with a specific rate of interest payable from 37 the income of its invested funds. As such profits accumulate and are 38 invested, subscriptions of an equal amount shall be cancelled. The 39 maximum of such accumulation of profits shall be three hundred thousand dollars, and all excess of profits above said amount shall be applied annually to the payment of the certificates in the order of their issue, The certificates shall forthwith be payable when the company shall cease to issue policies and the fund is no longer liable to be drawn upon for the payment of losses.

Section 87. A mutual marine and a mutual fire and marine company organized prior to May twenty-first, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, under any law of the commonwealth shall remain subject to the provisions applicable to each contained in sections one hundred and seventeen to one hundred and thirty, inclusive, of chapter one hundred and nineteen of the Public Statutes, notwithstanding the repeal of said chapter. Any such company may redeem its certificates of dividends of profits when its permanent fund has been paid in cash and invested and its surplus is sufficient therefor. The shareholders of the permanent fund of any such company shall be entitled to not more than five per cent semi-annual dividends thereon.

Section 88. Sections seventy-six, seventy-seven and seventy-eight shall apply to all domestic mutual marine companies, and each subscriber to the agreement specified in section eighty-six shall be a member of the company during the term of his subscription and entitled to one vote.

Section 89. If a subscriber to the agreement specified in section eighty-six fails to pay his subscription or any assessment thereon, and it is proved that the president or a director certified falsely under said section in regard to such subscriber, the person certifying shall be liable to the company for such amount as the subscriber fails to pay.

If any such company is at any time liable for losses beyond the amount of its assets, the president and directors shall personally be liable for all losses on insurance effected while the company was in such condition.

Section 90. Mutual companies, other than life, formed to transact or transacting business under any one or more of clauses three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, twelve and thirteen of section forty-seven, or under clause (a), (b), (d) or (f) of section fifty-four, and the officers, directors, agents and members of such companies shall, except as provided in clause (f) of said section fifty-four and in sections ninety A, ninety B, ninety-two, ninety-three, ninety-three A, ninety-three B, ninety-three C, ninety-three D and one hundred and thirteen B, be subject to all the provisions of this chapter relating to mutual fire companies and their officers, directors, agents and members, so far as applicable.

A policyholder in any domestic mutual company specified in the first paragraph of section fifty-five or in any domestic mutual company incorporated on or after April sixth, nineteen hundred and eleven and prior to January first, nineteen hundred and twenty-seven under a special charter and authorized to transact the same kinds of business as the mutual companies specified as aforesaid shall not be liable to pay his proportionate part of any assessments which may be laid by such companies unless he is notified of such assessment within one year after the expiration or cancellation of his policy.
Section 90A. No policy shall be issued by a mutual company formed to transact business under the third clause of section forty-seven, or under clause (b) or (c) of section forty-eight A, and having no guaranty capital or having a guaranty capital of less than one hundred thousand dollars, until not less than one million dollars of insurance in not less than four hundred separate risks upon property located in the commonwealth, in case of a company formed under said third clause or said clause (b), or not less than two million dollars of insurance in not less than eight hundred separate risks as aforesaid, in case of a company formed under said clause (c), has been subscribed for and entered on its books.

Section 90B. No policy shall be issued by a mutual company formed to transact business under the fourth clause of section forty-seven until it has established a fully paid-up guaranty capital of not less than two hundred thousand dollars, which shall be subject to the provisions of section seventy-nine, except as hereinafter and in section ninety-three D provided. Such guaranty capital shall be maintained while the company transacts business under said clause and the provisions of said section seventy-nine relative to the retirement of the guaranty capital of a mutual fire company shall not apply thereto. The principal on any bond or obligation executed by a mutual company as surety shall be deemed the member of the company under sections seventy-six, seventy-nine, eighty, eighty-one, eighty-three to eighty-five, inclusive, and ninety.

Section 90C. Any mutual company empowered by subdivision (c) of section fifty-four to transact the kinds of business set forth in the fourth clause of section forty-seven, which has not established a guaranty capital under section ninety B as required by said subdivision (c) and which has net cash assets, computed on the basis fixed by sections ten to twelve, inclusive, of not less than two million dollars may, in lieu of establishing a guaranty capital as aforesaid, if previously authorized by a vote of its policyholders at any meeting and with the written approval of the commissioner, segregate a portion of its net cash assets to an amount of not less than two hundred thousand nor more than five hundred thousand dollars and constitute said amount a guaranty fund. Any such fund shall be maintained so long as the company transacts business under said clause fourth, shall be invested as provided by this chapter for the investment of the capital stock of domestic stock companies, and shall not be reduced or dissolved except with the written approval of the commissioner. The said fund shall be applied solely to the payment of claims under policies or contracts issued or executed under said clause fourth, but only in case the company has exhausted its assets, exclusive of uncollected premiums. No company with such a guaranty fund which ceases to transact business shall divide among its policyholders any of its assets or guaranty fund, until it shall have performed or cancelled all obligations under its policies and contracts. Any company whose guaranty fund aforesaid is less than five hundred thousand dollars may, subject to the provisions of this section, from time to time increase it to an amount not exceeding said sum; provided, that no such increase shall be made unless the net cash assets of the company, computed as aforesaid, inclusive of the amount of such fund, amount to at least two million dollars at the time the increase is made.

SECTION 92. No policy shall be issued by a mutual company formed to transact business under the fifth clause of section forty-seven until insurance has been applied for to the amount of one million dollars upon not less than one hundred separate risks, nor until such company has made arrangements for its protection from extraordinary losses caused by any one disaster by reinsurance as provided in section twenty.

SECTION 93. No policy shall be issued by a mutual company formed to transact business under any one or more of the several subdivisions of the sixth clause of section forty-seven until it has secured applications for insurance upon risks in the commonwealth the premiums on which shall amount to not less than one hundred thousand dollars and it has satisfied the commissioner that such premiums have been actually paid to it in full in cash, nor, if it proposes to transact business under subdivision (e) of said clause, until it has made arrangements satisfactory to the commissioner, by reinsurance, as provided in section twenty, to protect it from extraordinary losses caused by any one disaster.

The liability of any policyholder in such a company to pay his proportionate part of any assessments which may be made by the company, in accordance with law and his contract, on account of losses and expenses incurred while he was a member, shall continue so long as there are outstanding any obligations incurred while he was such a member.

SECTION 93A. No policy shall be issued by a mutual company formed to transact business under the seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, twelfth or thirteenth clause of section forty-seven until it has secured applications for insurance upon not less than two hundred separate risks in the commonwealth against the hazards specified in said clause, the premiums on which shall amount to not less than twenty-five thousand dollars.

SECTION 93B. No policy shall be issued by a mutual company formed to transact business under clause (d) of section forty-eight A, until it has secured the applications for insurance required by sections ninety-two, ninety-three and ninety-three A, or any of them, in respect to the classes of business which it proposes to transact and until it has established the guaranty capital required by section ninety B, if it proposes to transact business under the fourth clause of section forty-seven.

SECTION 93C. Any mutual company formed or authorized to transact business under the third, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, twelfth or thirteenth clause of section forty-seven or under clause (b), (c) or (d) of section forty-eight A may, except as provided in section ninety B, at any time establish a guaranty capital as provided in and subject to the provisions of section seventy-nine.

SECTION 93D. No domestic mutual company transacting business under clause three five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, twelve or thirteen of section forty-seven, or under clause (b), (c) or (d) of section forty-eight A, whose amount of insurance in force or premiums or number of 5 risks on its books become at any time from any cause less than the 6 amounts or number required by section ninety A, ninety-two, ninety-
7 three, ninety-three A, or ninety-three B, and no mutual company trans-8 acting business under the fourth clause of said section forty-seven whose 9 guaranty capital required by said section ninety B or whose guaranty fund
10 established under section ninety C is impaired on the basis fixed by 11 sections ten to twelve, inclusive, shall make any further insurance until 12 it has secured applications for policies which shall restore the amount of 13 insurance or premiums or number of risks to the amounts and number 14 required by said section ninety A, ninety-two, ninety-three, ninety-
15 three A and ninety-three B, nor until such guaranty capital or guaranty 16 fund is restored to the amount required by said section ninety B or 17 ninety C, nor until such company in any case has obtained a certificate 18 as provided in section seventy-four.

1 SECTION 93E. No policy shall be issued by a mutual company formed 2 to transact business under the sixteenth clause of section forty-seven, or 3 or under clause (c) of section forty-eight A, until it has established a 4 fully paid-up guaranty capital of not less than two hundred thousand 5 dollars, if it proposes to transact business under said sixteenth clause, or 6 four hundred thousand dollars, if it proposes to transact business under 7 said clause (c), together, in either case, with a net cash surplus of not 8 less than two hundred thousand dollars, exclusive of said guaranty capi-9 tal. Such guaranty capital shall be divided into shares of one hundred 10 dollars each, to be invested as provided by this chapter for the invest-11 ment of the capital stock of domestic companies, other than life. Stock-12 holders of such guaranty capital and policyholders of such a company 13 shall be subject to the same provisions of law relative to their right to 14 vote as apply respectively to stockholders in stock companies and policy-
15 holders in mutual companies. The stockholders of such guaranty capi-16 tal shall be entitled to annual dividends, not exceeding eight per cent, 17 payable from the net surplus of the company, and such guaranty capital
18 shall be redeemed by an appropriation of net surplus for that purpose
19 whenever the net surplus, computed on the basis fixed by sections nine 20 to twelve, inclusive, is twice the amount of said guaranty capital.

1 SECTION 94. Except as provided in section one hundred and thirty-2 seven, every person insured by a domestic mutual life company shall 3 be a member entitled to one vote, and one vote additional for each five 4 thousand dollars of insurance in excess of the first five thousand dollars, 5 and shall be notified of its annual meetings by written notice or by an 6 imprint in the form prescribed in section seventy-six upon the filing-back, 7 or, in case of policies on which the premiums are payable monthly or 8 oftener, on some other prominent place of each policy, and also upon 9 receipts or certificates of renewal.

10 Members and shareholders may vote by proxies dated and executed 11 within three months and returned and recorded on the books of the 12 company seven days or more before the meeting at which they are to 13 be used; but no person shall, as attorney or otherwise, cast more than 14 twenty votes, and no officer shall, himself or by another, ask for, receive, 15 procure to be obtained or use a proxy vote.
16 Two thirds of the directors shall always be residents of the common-17 wealth, and, after the first election, the directors shall be chosen by and 18 from the policyholders; provided, that in case of a company having etc., or guaranty capital impaired.

outstanding a guaranty capital, one third of the directors may be chosen by and from the stockholders thereof. No person shall be qualified to serve as a director after he ceases to be such a policyholder or stockholder, as the case may be.

The provisions of section sixty shall apply to the officers of every such company.

Section 95. No company, and no officer or agent thereof, and no insurance broker shall knowingly issue, negotiate, continue or renew or cause or permit to be issued, negotiated, continued or renewed any fire insurance policy upon property or interests within the commonwealth of an amount which, with any existing insurance thereon, exceeds the fair value of the property, nor for a longer term than seven years.

Section 96. If buildings within the commonwealth insured against loss by fire are totally destroyed by fire, the company shall not be liable beyond the actual value of the insured property at the time of the loss or damage; and if it shall appear that the insured has paid premiums on an amount in excess of said actual value, he shall be reimbursed the proportionate excess of premiums paid on the difference between the amount named in the policy and said actual value, with interest at six per cent per annum from the date of issue; and said excess of premiums and interest thereon shall be allowed the insured from the time any companies carrying said insurance at the time of the loss have continuously carried the insurance on the destroyed buildings, whether under policies existing at the time of the loss or under previous policies in the same companies.

Section 97. If, by an agreement with the insured or by the terms of a fire insurance policy taken out by a mortgagor, the whole or any part of the loss thereon is payable to mortgagees of the property for their benefit, the company shall, upon satisfactory proof of the rights and title of the parties, in accordance with such terms or agreement, pay all mortgagees protected by such policy in the order of their priority of claim as their claim shall appear, not beyond the amount for which the company is liable, and such payment shall be to the extent thereof payment and satisfaction of the liability of the company under such policy.

Section 98. In all insurance against loss by fire, neither the application of the insured nor the by-laws of the company shall be considered as a warranty or a part of the contract except so far as they are incorporated in full in the policy as provided in the ninth clause of the following section.

Section 99. No fire company shall issue fire insurance policies on property or interests in the commonwealth, other than those of the standard form herein set forth, except as provided in section one hundred and two A and except as follows:
First, A company may print on or in its policies its name, location, date of incorporation, plan of operation, whether stock or mutual, and if the former, the amount of its paid-up capital stock. A company may also print on or in its policies the names of its officers and agents, the number and date of the policy, the words "Amount $" Rate, Premium $" and, if the policy is issued through an agent, the words "This policy shall not be valid until countersigned by the duly authorized agent of the company at and may in lieu of inserting the date in the teste clause specified in the said standard form, add to the phrase hereinbefore quoted the words "Countersigned at , this day of , 19 ."

Agent." A mutual company shall fix the contingent mutual liability of its members for the payment of losses and expenses not provided for by its cash funds and shall print on the filing-back of its policies the notice required by section seventy-six, the endorsement required by section eighty-eight, and the statement required by section eighty-one.

A company described in the first paragraph of section one hundred and fifty-five may in lieu of said teste clause use the following:— "In witness whereof, the said company has caused this policy to be signed by its resident manager in the United States at their office in " (date)."

Second, A company may print or use in its policies printed forms of description and specification of the property insured.

Third, A company insuring against damage by lightning may print, in the clause enumerating the perils insured against, the additional words "Also any damage by lightning, whether fire ensues or not", and in the clause providing for an apportionment of loss in case of other insurance, the words "whether by fire, lightning or both."

Fourth, A domestic company may print in its policies any provisions which it is authorized or required by law to insert therein; and any foreign company may, with the approval of the commissioner, so print any provision required by its charter or deed of settlement, or by the laws of its own state or country not contrary to the laws of this commonwealth; but the commissioner shall require any provision which in his opinion modifies the contract of insurance in such way as to affect the question of loss to be appended to the policy by a slip or rider as hereinafter provided.

Fifth, The blanks in said standard form may be filled in print or writing.

Sixth, A company may print upon policies issued in compliance with this section the words "Massachusetts Standard Policy".

Seventh, There shall be printed or stamped on the filing-back of every policy, in clear type not smaller than long primer, the words "In case of fire notify the company or its local agent at once in writing".

Eighth, There shall be printed on the margin of the policy near the part thereof that relates to cancellation, in type not smaller than long primer, or attached to such policy by rider as hereinafter provided, the following: "If the premium on this policy has not been paid to the company or its agent or to the duly licensed insurance broker through whom the contract of insurance was negotiated, this policy may be cancelled by the company in the manner herein provided without tendering to the assured any part of the premium".
Ninth, A company may write upon the margin or across the face of a policy, or write, or print in type not smaller than long primer, upon separate slips or riders to be attached thereto, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form; and all such slips, 61 riders and provisions shall be signed by the officers or agents of the 62 company so using them.

Said standard form of policy shall be plainly printed, and no portion thereof shall be in type smaller than long primer, and shall be as follows: 65

No. (Corporate name of the company; its principal place or places of business.) This company shall not be liable beyond the actual value of the insured property at the time any loss or damage happens, in consideration of dollars to it paid by the insured, hereinafter named, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, does insure and legal representatives against loss or damage by fire, to the amount of dollars.

Said property is insured for the term of beginning on the day of , in the year nineteen hundred and , at noon, and continuing until the day of , in the year nineteen hundred and , at noon, against all loss or damage by Fire originating from any cause except invasion, foreign enemies, civil commotions, riots or any military or usurped power whatever; the amount of said loss or damage to be estimated according to the actual value of the insured property at the time when such loss or damage happens, but not to include loss or damage caused by explosions of any kind unless fire ensues, and then to include that caused by fire only.

This policy shall be Void if any material fact or circumstance stated in writing has not been fairly represented by the insured; or if the insured now has or shall hereafter make any other insurance on the said property without the assent in writing or in print of the company; or if, without such assent, the said property shall be removed, except that, if such removal be necessary for the preservation of the property from fire, this policy shall be valid without such assent for five days thereafter; or if, without such assent, the situation or circumstances affecting the risk shall, by or with the knowledge, advice, agency or consent of the insured, be so altered as to cause an increase of such risks, or if, without such assent, the said property shall be sold, or this policy assigned, or if the premises hereby insured shall become vacant by the removal of the owner or occupant, and so remain vacant for more than thirty days without such assent, or if it be a manufacturing establishment, running, in whole or in part, extra time, except that such establishments may run, in whole or in part, extra hours not later than nine o'clock p.m., or if such establishments shall cease operation for more than thirty days without permission in writing endorsed hereon, or if the insured shall make any attempt to defraud the company either before or after the loss; or if gunpowder or other articles subject to legal restriction shall be kept in quantities or manner different from those allowed or prescribed by law; or if camphene, benzine, naphtha, or other chemical oils or burning fluids shall be kept or used by the insured on the premises insured, except that what is known as refined petroleum, kerosene or coal oil may be used for lighting, and in dwelling houses kerosene oil stoves may be used for domestic purposes, to be filled when cold, by daylight, and with oil of lawful fire test only.

If the insured property shall be exposed to loss or damage by fire, the insured shall make all reasonable exertions to save and protect the same.

In ease of any loss or damage under this policy, a Statement in writing, signed and sworn to by the insured, shall be forthwith rendered to the company, setting forth the value of the property insured, the interest of the insured therein, all other insurance thereon in detail, the purposes for which and the persons by whom the building insured, or containing the property insured, was used, and the time at which and manner in which the fire originated, so far as known to the insured. The company may also examine the books of account and vouchers of the insured, and make extracts from the same.

212 Mass. 318. 266 Mass. 545.

In case of any loss or damage, the company, within sixty days after the insured shall have submitted a statement, as provided in the preceding clause, shall either pay the amount for which it shall be liable, which amount, if not agreed upon, shall be ascertained by award of referees as hereinafter provided, or replace the property with other of the same kind and goodness; or it may, within fifteen days after such statement is submitted, notify the insured of its intention to rebuild or repair the premises, or any portion thereof separately insured by this policy, and shall thereupon enter upon said premises and proceed to rebuild or repair the same with reasonable expedition. It is moreover understood that there can be no abandonment of the property insured to the company, and that the company shall not in any case be liable for more than the sum insured, with interest thereon from the time when the loss shall become payable, as above provided.

If there shall be any Other Insurance on the property insured, whether prior or subsequent, the insured shall recover on this policy no greater proportion of the loss sustained than the sum hereby insured bears to the whole amount insured thereon. And whenever the company shall pay any loss, the insured shall assign to it, to the extent of the amount so paid, all rights to recover satisfaction for the loss or damage from any person, town or other corporation, excepting other insurers; or the insured, if requested, shall prosecute therefor at the charge and for the account of the company.

If this policy shall be made payable to a mortgagee of the insured real estate, no act or default of any person other than such mortgagee or his agents, or those claiming under him, shall affect such mortgagee's right to recover in case of loss on such real estate: provided, that the mortgagee shall on demand pay according to the established scale of rates for any increase of risks not paid for by the insured: and whenever this company shall be liable to a mortgagee for any sum for loss under this policy, for which no liability exists as to the mortgagor, or owner, and this company shall elect by itself, or with others, to pay the mortgagee the full amount secured by such mortgage, then the mortgagee shall assign and transfer to the companies interested, upon such payment, the said mortgage, together with the note and debt thereby secured.

This policy may be CANCELLED at any time at the request of the insured, who shall thereupon be entitled to a return of the portion of the above premium remaining, after deducting the customary monthly short rates for the time this policy shall have been in force. The company also reserves the right, after giving written notice to the insured and to any mortgagee to whom this policy is made payable, and tendering to the insured a ratable proportion of the premium, to cancel this policy as to all risks subsequent to the expiration of ten days from such notice, and no mortgagee shall then have the right to recover as to such risks.

In case of loss under this policy and a failure of the parties to agree as to the amount of loss, it is mutually agreed that the amount of such loss shall be referred to three disinterested men, the company and the insured each choosing one out of three persons to be named by the other, and the third being selected by the two so chosen; the award in writing by a majority of the referees shall be conclusive and final upon the parties as to the amount of loss or damage, and such reference, unless waived by the parties, shall be a condition precedent to any right of action in law or equity to recover for such loss; but no person shall be chosen or act as a referee, against the objection of either party, who has acted in a like capacity within four months.

No suit or action against this company for the recovery of any claim by virtue of this policy shall be sustained in any court of law or equity in this commonwealth unless commenced within two years from the time the loss occurred: provided, however, that if, within said two years, in accordance with the provisions of the preceding paragraph, the amount of the loss shall have been referred to arbitration after failure of the parties to agree thereon, the limitation of time for bringing such suit or action shall in no event be less than ninety days after a valid award has been made upon such reference or after such reference or award has been expressly waived by the parties. If suit or action upon this policy is enjoined or abated, suit or action may be commenced at any time within one year after the dissolution of such injunction, or the abatement of such suit or action, to the same extent as would be possible if there was no limitation of time provided herein for the bringing of such suit or action.

In witness whereof the said company has caused this policy to be signed by its president and attested by its secretary (or by such proper officers as may be designated), at their office in (date).

The word "noon", occurring in the standard form above set forth, shall be construed to be the noon of standard time of the place where the property covered by the policy is situated.

SECTION 100. If a claim is presented under any policy of fire insurance issued on property or interests in the commonwealth in the standard form set forth in the preceding section, and if the parties fail to agree as to the amount of loss, the company shall, within ten days after receiving a written demand from the insured for the reference of the amount of loss to three referees as provided in such policy, submit in writing the names and addresses of three persons to the insured, who shall, within ten days after receiving such names, notify the company in writing of his choice of one of the said persons to act as one of said referees.

The insured shall submit in writing the names and addresses of three persons to the company, which shall, within ten days after receiving such names, notify the insured in writing of its choice of one of said persons to act as one of said referees.

If, at the expiration of ten days from the choice of the second referee, the two referees chosen as hereinbefore provided, shall not have agreed upon and selected a person to act as the third referee, then either of the said referees or parties may make written application on oath to the commissioner in such form as he may prescribe, for the appointment of the third referee and the commissioner shall, after such summary inquiry or hearing, if any, as he may deem expedient, appoint a person to serve as the third referee and shall notify such person and the parties in writing of such appointment.

SECTION 100A. If, before an award is determined upon by the referees, any referee, including a referee appointed under this section, dies, resigns, is incapacitated, removes from the commonwealth or for any other reason is unable or refuses to serve, the company, if such referee was chosen by the insured, or the insured, if such referee was chosen by the company, or the company, the insured or the two referees chosen by the insured and the company, if such referee is a third referee chosen by the said two referees, or the company, the insured or either of said two referees, if such referee is the third referee appointed by the commissioner, shall forthwith make written application on oath to the commissioner in such form as he may prescribe for the appointment of another referee.

The application, unless it seeks the appointment of a third referee to succeed a third referee appointed by the commissioner, shall specify the full names and addresses of three persons. The commissioner shall, after such summary inquiry or hearing, if any, as he may deem expedient, appoint a referee to fill the vacancy, but if the application specifies names as aforesaid, he shall appoint one of the persons so specified. The commissioner shall give written notice of the appointment to the appointee, to the parties and to the other referees. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the insured and the company from filling any vacancy by mutual agreement.
SEC. 100B. Every person nominated, specified or appointed under 2 either of the two preceding sections shall be disinterested, a resident of the 3 commonwealth and willing to act as referee. Service as referee for either
4 party within four months prior to the date of nomination or specification
5 for appointment, or, in case of a third referee chosen by the two referees,
6 the date of the choice of the second referee, or, if appointed by the com-7 missioner without specification, the date of application for appointment, 8 shall be a disqualification for nomination, specification or appointment as 9 aforesaid, unless with the written consent of the insured in case of a referee 10 nominated by the company, of the company in case of a referee nomi-
11 rated by the insured, and of both in case of a third referee. No person 12 shall be specified in an application to the commissioner who has been 13 previously nominated by either party in connection with the reference 14 proceedings to which the application relates.

SEC. 101. The referees chosen, selected or appointed under section 2 one hundred or one hundred A shall within ten days after the selection or 3 appointment of the third referee meet to hear the evidence in the case.
4 They may adjourn the hearing from time to time but not more than one 5 week shall elapse between hearings except by unanimous agreement of 6 said referees.

SEC. 101A. The referees shall reduce their award to writing and 2 execute it in duplicate. The third referee shall forthwith publish the 3 same by delivering one of the duplicates to the company, and one to the 4 insured, but the same may be published in any other lawful manner.

SEC. 101B. The company and the insured shall, if an award is 2 rendered by the referees in favor of the insured, each be liable to the third 3 referee for one half of his charges for compensation and expenses. The 4 company shall, if an award is rendered in its favor or if no award is render-5 ed, be liable to the third referee for the full amount thereof, but in such 6 case, if the company makes any payment to the insured in settlement of 7 his claim, it may deduct therefrom one half of such charges. The third 8 referee shall forthwith, upon the publication of an award in favor of the 9 insured, furnish the company and the insured with a written statement 10 specifying in detail his charges for compensation and expenses, and he 11 shall forthwith upon the publication of an award in favor of the company, 12 or if no award is rendered, furnish such a statement to the company
13 alone. The company or the insured, if aggrieved by said charges, may 14 within ten days from such publication, or, if no award is rendered, from 15 the rendition of said statement, file with the commissioner, in such form 16 as he may prescribe, a petition for a review thereof. After due hearing, 17 notice of which shall be given forthwith by the commissioner to all parties 18 in interest, the commissioner shall forthwith review and approve or dis-
19 Approve said charges, in whole or in part, and his findings and decision 20 shall be forthwith communicated in writing to the parties and shall, as 21 well as all findings of fact made by him under section one hundred, one 22 hundred A or one hundred B, be final and conclusive.

SEC. 101C. Payment of the third referee's charges, which shall 2 be due and payable, except as hereinafter provided, upon the expiration 3 of the ten day period provided by section one hundred and one B for filing a petition for review, shall in all cases be made by the company, deducting from any award in favor of the insured his share of such charges. Neither payment of such charges to the referee or of an award to the insured, whether or not the sixty day period prescribed in said standard form of policy or in section one hundred and two has expired, shall be made prior to the expiration of said ten day period unless the insured in writing waives his right to petition for a review under section one hundred and one B, nor until notice of the commissioner's decision on such review if a petition therefor is filed as aforesaid; but the company shall not be liable for interest on an award during said period of ten days or pending said decision.

The payment of the compensation or expenses, or both, of any referee shall not in any case preclude the insured or the company from contesting the validity of the award.

Section 101D. If a policy of fire insurance contains a reduced rate or co-insurance clause, and if, in case of loss, the parties do not agree as to the sound value of the property affected, such value shall be determined by the referees chosen to determine the loss. If the parties agree as to the loss, but do not agree as to the amount of the sound value, said value shall be determined by referees appointed as provided in and subject to the provisions of sections one hundred to one hundred and one G, inclusive, and of said standard form. An award in writing of a majority of the referees shall be final and conclusive on the parties as to the amount of the sound value.

Section 101E. A company which in compliance with section one hundred or one hundred and one D joins in reference proceedings shall not thereby be held to have waived any legal defence to the claim in respect to which the reference proceedings are held and such proceedings shall fix only the amount of the loss sustained by the insured or the sound value of the property, as the case may be, unless both parties shall agree in writing that the reference shall be held and shall proceed under the provisions of chapter two hundred and fifty-one.

Section 101F. A company, or an officer, agent, adjuster or representative thereof having authority to represent the company in respect to a reference proceeding, who wilfully refuses to comply with the provisions of sections one hundred, one hundred A, or one hundred and one D, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars.

Section 101G. The appointment of a receiver for a domestic fire company, whether before or after any referees are chosen, selected or appointed under sections one hundred to one hundred and one E, inclusive, shall not affect the requirements of said sections, and the receiver shall be under the same duties and obligations and have the same rights and powers in relation to referees as are imposed and conferred by said sections upon the company. Any claim of a referee, whether chosen or appointed before or after the receiver's appointment, for his compensation and expenses due from the company or the receiver shall be deemed and treated as preferred over claims for losses.
1 Section 102. In case of loss under any fire insurance policy in the 2 standard form prescribed by section ninety-nine, the company shall not,
3 in defence of any action, avail itself of the omission on the part of the 4 insured to furnish forthwith to the company the sworn statement
5 required by said standard form, provided the insured has, after such loss, 6 forthwith in writing notified the company, at its home office or at the 7 office of the agency issuing the policy, of the fire, and the location thereof, 8 and provided further that the insured, if the company, after receiving 9 notice in writing as aforesaid, requests him in writing so to do, furnishes 10 the company with said sworn statement. If, after receiving written notice 11 as aforesaid from the insured, the company does not forthwith request of 12 the insured said sworn statement, the periods of time within which the 13 company shall, as provided in the policy, pay the amount for which it is 14 liable, or replace the property, or notify the insured of its intention to 15 rebuild or repair the premises, shall be computed from the time when the 16 company received said written notice.

1 Section 102A. Two or more stock or two or more mutual fire com-
2 panies may issue a single policy of insurance against loss or damage by 3 fire, or by fire and lightning, on property or interests in the commonwealth
4 on which each company shall be severally liable for a specified percentage
5 of any loss or claim. Such policy shall be executed by the duly author-6 ized officers of each company, subject to the provisions of section thirty-7 three in the case of a domestic company.
8 No such policy shall be issued or delivered until a copy of the form 9 thereof has been on file for thirty days with the commissioner, unless 10 before the expiration of said thirty days he shall have approved the form 11 of the policy in writing; nor if the commissioner notifies the company in 12 writing within said thirty days that in his opinion the form of the policy 13 does not comply with the laws of the commonwealth, specifying his 14 reasons therefor; provided, that such action of the commissioner shall be 15 subject to review by the supreme judicial court; nor unless it is headed 16 by the corporate name of each company; nor unless it contains in sub-17 stance the provisions of the seventh and eighth clauses of section ninety-18 nine and is, except as hereinafter provided, in the standard form pre-19 scribed by said section; provided, that said provisions and said standard 20 form may be modified as to form and arrangement but only in such 21 manner as the commissioner may prescribe; nor unless it contains in 22 substance:
23 (1) A provision plainly specifying the percentage of any loss or claim 24 for which each such company shall be liable.
25 (2) A provision that the sworn statement required by said standard 26 form, the written request by the insured for a reference under section one 27 hundred or the notice of any claim authorized by section one hundred and 28 two may be rendered, made or given to any one of such companies or, 29 in the case of said notice, to the agent of any one of such companies, and 30 that such statement, request or notice so rendered, made or given shall 31 be valid and binding as to all of such companies.
32 (3) A provision that, in any action or suit under the policy, service of 33 process may be made on any one of such companies and that such service 34 shall be deemed valid and binding service upon all of such companies.
35 (4) A provision, in the case of a policy issued by mutual companies, 36 that the contingent mutual liability of the insured to each such company
37 shall be based on such proportion of the total premium as the amount Combination fire policies. Approval and contents. 1924, c. 283, § 1.

insured by each such company bears to the total amount insured under the policy.

(5) A provision that upon cancellation by any company of its liability under the policy the return premium, if any, to be paid or tendered to the insured shall be based on such proportion of the total premium stated in the policy as the amount insured by the cancelling company bears to the total amount insured under the policy.

The said provisions shall be printed in or on the policy under the caption: — "Provisions Specially Applicable to this Combination Policy" or such other distinctive caption as the commissioner may prescribe.

Such policies shall be subject to the first to sixth, inclusive, and ninth clauses, of said section ninety-nine, except as otherwise provided herein and except that there may be printed on or in said policies or on the filing-back thereof such device or devices and such distinctive title of the policy as the commissioner may approve, together with the names, locations, dates of incorporation, plan of operation, the amounts of the paid-up capital stock in case of stock companies, and the names of the officers and agents of each such company.

SECTION 102B. The provisions of sections seventy-six, eighty, eighty-one, eighty-three, ninety-six, ninety-eight, one hundred, one hundred and one and one hundred and two shall apply to policies issued under section one hundred and two A, to dividends and assessments and to reference proceedings and to claims thereunder except as hereinafter provided.

The person insured under such a policy issued by mutual companies shall be deemed to be a member of each company while the policy is in force and entitled to one vote at the meetings of each company.

The notice, endorsement and statement required by said sections seventy-six, eighty and eighty-one, respectively, shall be in such form and in such place on the policy as the commissioner may prescribe.

The dividends under said section eighty, the contingent mutual liability of the insured fixed by said sections eighty-one and eighty-three and the liability of each company for the proportionate excess mentioned in said section ninety-six shall be computed or based on such proportion of the total premium for the policy as the amount insured by such company bears to the total amount insured under the policy.

The notice to policyholders required by said section eighty shall be sent by each such company to the insured. The provisions of section ninety-eight shall apply to the application, if any, of the insured to each such company and to their by-laws.

The written request by the insured for a reference under said section one hundred, the written notice of a claim authorized by said section one hundred and two or the sworn statement upon the written demand by a company as provided in said section one hundred and two may be made or given to any one of such companies or, in the case of said notice, to the agent of any one of such companies, and such request, notice or statement so made or given shall be deemed valid and sufficient as to all such companies. The request for a sworn statement under said section one hundred and two may be made by any such company, and such request shall be deemed a sufficient request upon the insured as to all of such companies. All such companies shall, upon the written request under section one hundred being made to any one of such companies, join in the reference proceeding and shall jointly exercise the powers and perform the duties imposed upon a company by said section.
Nothing in this section shall be construed as affecting, except as provided herein, any provision of law relative to the rights, powers, duties and liabilities of mutual fire companies and persons insured thereby.

1 Section 104. Any person aggrieved by any rating of a fire company or board making premium rates for fire insurance may file a written complaint with the commissioner, who shall notify the board of appeal on fire insurance rates. The complaint shall state in detail the grounds upon which the complainant asks relief. The said board shall notify in writing all parties whom it deems to be interested, and shall fix a time, not earlier than seven days after the date of the notice, and a place for hearing the complaint. After due hearing the board shall make a finding as to whether the established rate is excessive, unfair or discriminatory, and shall make such recommendations as it deems advisable. The finding and recommendation in each case shall be made a matter of record and shall be open to public inspection.

FIDELITY INSURANCE AND CORPORATE SURETYSHIP.

1 Section 105. A company organized under the fourth clause of section forty-seven or corresponding provisions of earlier laws may make contracts of insurance to guarantee the fidelity of persons holding positions of trust in private or public employment or responsibility, and may, if accepted and approved by the court, magistrate, obligee or person competent to approve such bond, act as joint or sole surety upon the official bond or the bond, recognition or other undertaking in civil and criminal procedure of any person or corporation to the United States, to the commonwealth or to any county, city, town, judge of probate and insolvency or other court, sheriff, magistrate or other public officer, or to any corporation or association public or private; and also may act as joint or sole surety upon any bond or undertaking to any person or corporation or to the commonwealth conditioned upon the performance of any duty or trust, or for the doing or not doing of anything in said bond specified, and upon bonds to indemnify against loss to any person or persons who are responsible as surety or sureties upon a written instrument or otherwise for the performance by others of any office, employment, contract or trust. If by law two or more sureties are required upon any obligation upon which such company is authorized to act as surety, it may act as joint or sole surety thereon, and may be accepted as such by the court, justice, magistrate or other officer or person authorized to approve the sufficiency of such bond or undertaking; and so much of section nine of chapter two hundred and five as requires that sureties on bonds to a judge of probate shall be residents of the commonwealth shall not forbid the acceptance of a qualified foreign company as joint or sole surety on any such bond. A bond given by it under section twenty of chapter one hundred and fifty-eight, section twenty-four of chapter one hundred and sixty-eight or section nine of chapter one hundred and seventy shall be in a form approved by the commissioner of corporations and taxation or the commissioner of banks, respectively, and an attested copy of such bond, with a certificate of the custodian that the original is in his possession, shall be filed with the commissioner concerned. No such company shall incur in behalf or on account of any one person a liability for an amount larger than one tenth of its net assets, unless it shall be secured from loss thereon beyond that amount by suitable and sufficient collateral agreements of indemnity, by agreements of other joint surety or sureties relative to the amount of liability assumed by it or them, by deposit with it in pledge or conveyance to it in trust for its protection of property equal in value to the excess of its liability over such limit, or, if such liability is incurred in behalf or on account of a fiduciary holding property in a trust capacity, by such deposit or other disposition of a suitable and sufficient portion of the estate so held that no further sale, mortgage, pledge or other disposition can be made thereof without such company’s approval, except by the decree of a court having proper jurisdiction.

In cases where an individual surety would be required to make an oral recognizance in open court or before a justice or other magistrate, a company authorized by this section to act on such recognizance as sole surety shall, instead of recognizing orally by an officer or agent, enter into a bond duly executed by the principal, and in behalf of such company acting as surety, by its officer or agent thereto duly authorized, and sealed with its corporate seal, and neither the principal nor the surety shall recognize orally. The condition of the bond shall be the same as that of an oral recognizance taken in such cases from an individual surety, and the bond shall be subject to the approval of the court, justice or other magistrate, who shall endorse his approval on it. Such bond, if approved by the court, justice or other magistrate, shall not be defeated by reason of the failure of the principal to execute the bond, or by any failure to comply with the provisions of this section that would not defeat the bond at common law as against the company acting as surety.

The commissioner shall transmit forthwith to each register of probate and insolvency, to the clerk of each district court, to each clerk of the courts, to the clerks of the superior court for civil and criminal business in the county of Suffolk and to the clerk of the supreme judicial court for the county of Suffolk, the names of all corporate surety companies as they become or cease to be qualified to do business in the commonwealth.

This section shall apply to all companies authorized to transact the business specified in the fourth clause of section forty-seven.

SECTION 106. A foreign company of the class designated in the preceding section shall not be admitted and authorized to transact business in the commonwealth if it has satisfied the commissioner that it has made a deposit with the state treasurer, or the proper officer or board of some other state of the United States, for the protection of its policyholders in the United States of an amount not less than one hundred thousand dollars, which, if so on deposit in the commonwealth, shall not be returned to the company while it has any liabilities outstanding in the commonwealth, nor until the commissioner has given his written consent to such return.

SECTION 107. The bonds on which such company becomes surety shall not be deemed insurance contracts as defined in section two, but the company shall otherwise be subject to this chapter so far as appli-
4. Cable, and insurance agents and brokers shall in respect to such bonds be
5. subject to all the provisions of this chapter applying to them in respect
6. to insurance contracts.

ACCIDENT AND HEALTH INSURANCE.

1. Section 108. No policy of insurance against loss or damage from
2. disease or by the bodily injury or death by accident of the insured shall
3. be issued or delivered in the commonwealth: (a) until a copy of the
4. policy and the table of rates or manual of risks of the company has been
5. on file with the commissioner for at least thirty days, unless before the
6. expiration of said thirty days the commissioner shall have approved the
7. policy in writing; nor (b) if the commissioner notifies the company in
8. writing that in his opinion the form of said policy does not comply with
9. the laws of the commonwealth, specifying the reasons for his opinion,
10. provided that such action of the commissioner shall be subject to review
11. by the supreme judicial court; nor (c) unless every part is plainly printed
12. in type not smaller than long primer or ten point type; nor (d) unless
13. there is printed on the first page thereof and on its filing-back, in type
14. not smaller than eighteen point or great primer, a brief description of
15. the policy; nor (e) unless the exceptions be printed with the same promi-
16. nence as the benefits to which such exceptions apply; nor (f) unless it
17. contains in substance the following provisions:

18. 1. A provision that such policy and such papers as may be attached
19. to or endorsed thereon shall constitute the whole contract of insurance,
20. except as the same may be affected by any table of rates or classification
21. of risks filed by the company with the commissioner.

22. 2. A provision that no statement made by the applicant which is not
23. incorporated in or endorsed on the policy issued to such applicant shall
24. avoid the policy or be used in evidence, and that no provision of the
25. charter, constitution or by-laws shall be used in defense of any claims
26. arising under any such policy unless such provisions are incorporated in
27. the policy; but this requirement shall not be deemed to apply to
28. the table of rates or manual of classification of risks of any company filed
29. with the commissioner prior to the date of the occurrence of the injury
30. or commencement of the sickness for which indemnity is claimed.

31. 3. A provision specifying the time within which notice of accident or
32. disability shall be given, which shall not be less than twenty days from
33. the date of the accident nor less than ten days from the date of the be-
34. ginning of the disability from sickness upon which the claim is based;
35. provided, that in case of accidental death immediate notice thereof may
36. be required, unless the notice as herein specified may be shown not to
37. have been reasonably possible.

38. 4. A provision that notice of a claim for indemnity shall be deemed
39. sufficient when given to the office or agent of the company specified in the
40. policy.

41. 5. A provision that under every such policy, if a past due premium
42. shall be accepted by the company or by a branch office or by a duly au-
43. thorized agent of the company in the town or county where the insured
44. shall reside, or by the duly authorized agent of the company who ac-
45. cepted the last premium on the policy, if so authorized at the time of the
46. acceptance of the past due premium, such acceptance shall reinstate
47. the policy in full as to disability resulting from accidental bodily injuries
48. thereafter sustained, but shall only reinstate the policy as to disability from disease beginning more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

6. A provision that if the insured is injured or contracts disease after 51 having changed his occupation to one classified by the company as more 52 hazardous than that stated in the policy, or while he is doing any act 53 or thing pertaining to any occupation so classified, except ordinary 54 duties about his residence or while engaged in recreation, the company 55 will pay such proportion of the indemnities provided in the policy as the. 56 premium paid would have purchased at the rate, but within the limits 57 fixed by the company, for such more hazardous occupation according to 58 the company's rates and classification of risks filed with the commissioner prior to the occurrence of the injury or the commencement of the 59 disease for which indemnity is claimed. As an alternative to the provisions of this paragraph the policy may provide that no reduction shall 60 be made in any indemnity therein provided for by reason of any change 61 in the occupation of the insured or by reason of his doing any act or thing 62 pertaining to any other occupation.

7. A provision that the company will pay the benefit promised for 66 specified disabilities or accidental death within sixty days of the receipt 67 of due proofs thereof; or in lieu thereof a provision, at the option of the 68 insured, that such benefit for a specified amount shall be payable in instalments, the provision to state the time within which the first instalment 69 shall be paid, which shall not exceed sixty days from the receipt of due 70 proofs by the company, the time for payment of subsequent instalments 71 and the number thereof; also a provision, which may be incorporated 72 in the body of the policy or made a part of the contract by an endorsement or rider, that the company will pay to any person entitled thereto, 73 at least once in thirty days, the amount which has accrued on account 74 of sickness or accident, upon receipt of due proof thereof.

8. A provision that cancellation may be effected by the company only 78 by written notice delivered to the insured or mailed, postpaid, to him at 79 his last address, as shown by the records of the company, and the tender 80 cash or the company's check for the unearned portion of the premium, 81 but such cancellation shall be without prejudice to any claim arising on 82 account of disability commencing prior to the date on which the cancellation takes effect. The foregoing provision shall be used only in policies 84 providing for cancellation by the company.

9. A provision specifying the time within which proofs of claim shall 86 be furnished to the company, which shall be not less than ninety days 87 from the date of death, dismemberment or loss of sight or from the termination of any other disability.

A policy shall be deemed to contain any such provision in substance, 90 when, in the opinion of the commissioner, the provision is stated in terms 91 more favorable to the insured or his beneficiary than are herein set forth. 92

Section 109. No policy insuring against accidental bodily injuries or 1 disease or death from accident shall be issued or delivered in the commonwealth if it contains in substance any of the following provisions:

1. A provision that shall authorize the deduction of any premium or 4 assessment from any indemnity payable under the terms of the policy, 5 except such premium or assessment as may be due or covered by written 6 order or note at the time of payment of the indemnity.

2. A provision limiting the amount of indemnity to be paid to a sum 8 less than the indemnity as stated in the policy and for which the premium 10 has been paid; provided, that if the insured shall carry other insurance
11 covering the hazard without giving written notice to the companies 12 issuing the policies, then and in that case each company may stipulate 13 that it will be liable only for such proportionate amount of benefits as 14 the indemnity promised bears to the total amount of indemnity in all 15 the policies covering such hazard and for the return of such part of the 16 premium paid as shall exceed the pro rata of the premium for the benefits 17 paid.

1 Section 110. Nothing in the two preceding sections shall apply to 2 or affect any general or blanket policy of insurance issued to any em-3ployer, whether an individual, corporation, co-partnership, or assoca-4tion, or to any municipal corporation or department thereof, or to a 5police or fire department, or to any college, school or other institution 6of learning or to the head or principal thereof, or to any organization 7for health, recreational or military instruction or treatment, under-8writers' corps, salvage bureau or like organization, where the officers, 9members or employees or classes or departments thereof or the students 10or patients are insured against specified accidental bodily injuries or 11diseases while exposed to the hazards of the occupation, course of in-12struction or treatment, or otherwise, for a premium intended to cover 13the risks of all the persons insured under such policy. Where the pre-14mium is to be paid by the employer and the employees jointly and the 15benefits of the policy are offered to all eligible employees, a policy cov-16ering not less than seventy-five per cent of such employees, or covering 17members of an association of such employees if the members so insured 18in fact constitute not less than seventy-five per cent of all eligible em-19ployees, shall be considered a general or blanket policy within the mean-20ing of this section.

1 Section 111. The beneficiary under a policy of insurance against 2loss or damage from disease or by the bodily injury or death by accident 3of the insured may maintain an action thereon in his own name.

LIABILITY INSURANCE.

1 Section 111A. Two or more stock companies may issue a single 2policy of insurance against loss or damage on account of the hazards 3specified in subdivision (b) and (c) of the sixth clause of section forty-4seven on which such companies shall be jointly and severally liable for 5any loss or claim, or two or more mutual companies may issue such a 6policy on which each such company shall be severally liable for a speci-7fied percentage of any loss or claim. Such policies shall be executed by 8the duly authorized officers of each company, subject to the provisions 9of section thirty-three in the case of a domestic company.
10No such policy shall be issued or delivered until a copy of the form 11thereof has been on file for thirty days with the commissioner, unless 12before the expiration of said thirty days he shall have approved the 13form of the policy in writing; nor if the commissioner notifies the com-14panies in writing within said thirty days, that in his opinion the form of 15the policy does not comply with the laws of the commonwealth specify-16ing his reasons therefor; provided, that such action of the commissioner 17shall be subject to review by the supreme judicial court, nor unless it is head ed by the corporate names of all the companies; nor unless it contains in substance:—

(1) A provision plainly specifying, in the case of a policy issued by stock companies, that the companies are jointly and severally liable for any loss or claim or, in the case of a policy issued by mutual companies, the percentage of any loss or claim for which each such mutual company shall be liable.

(2) A provision that any notice, sworn statement or proof of loss which may be required by the provisions of said policy may be rendered, made or given to any one of such companies or to a duly authorized agent of any one of such companies, and that such notice, sworn statement or proof of loss so rendered, made or given shall be valid and binding as to all of such companies.

(3) The provisions numbered (3) and (5) in section one hundred and two A.

(4) The provision, in the case of a policy issued by a mutual company, numbered (4) in said section one hundred and two A.

Nothing in this section shall permit two or more companies to issue a single motor vehicle liability policy as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety.

Section 111B. Policies issued by mutual companies under section one hundred and eleven A and persons insured under such policies and dividends and assessments thereunder shall be subject to the provisions of the second, third, fourth and fifth paragraphs of section one hundred and two B and, except as otherwise provided in said paragraphs, sections seventy-six, eighty so far as applicable, eighty-one and ninety-eight, the last paragraph of section ninety-three and so much of section eighty-three as is not inconsistent with said last paragraph of section ninety-three, relative to policies issued by mutual fire companies, persons and liabilities of mutual liability companies and persons insured thereby.

Section 112. The liability of any company under a motor vehicle liability policy, as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety, or under any other policy insuring against liability for loss or damage on account of bodily injury or death, or for loss or damage resulting therefrom, or on account of damage to property, shall become absolute whenever the loss or damage for which the insured is responsible occurs, and the satisfaction by the insured of a final judgment for such loss or damage shall not be a condition precedent to the right or duty of the company to make payment on account of said loss or damage. No such contract of insurance shall be cancelled or annulled by any agreement between the company and the insured after the said insured has become responsible for such loss or damage, and any such cancellation or annulment shall be void.

Section 113. Upon the recovery of a final judgment against any person by any person, including executors or administrators, for any loss or damage specified in the preceding section, if the judgment debtor was at the accrual of the cause of action insured against liability there-
5 for, the judgment creditor shall be entitled to have the insurance money
6 applied to the satisfaction of the judgment as provided in the tenth 7 clause of section three of chapter two hundred and fourteen.

Compulsory Motor Vehicle Liability Insurance.

1 Section 113A. No motor vehicle liability policy as defined in section 2 thirty-four of chapter ninety shall be issued or delivered in the com-
3 monwealth until a copy of the form of the policy has been on file with the 4 commissioner for at least thirty days, unless before the expiration of said
5 period the commissioner shall have approved the form of the policy in 6 writing, nor if the commissioner notifies the company in writing that in 7 his opinion the form of said policy does not comply with the laws of the 8 commonwealth, specifying his reasons therefor, provided that he shall 9 notify the company in writing within said period of his approval or dis-10 approval thereof, and provided, further, that such action of the com-11 missioner shall be subject to review by the supreme judicial court; nor 12 if it contains any exceptions or exclusions as to specified accidents or 13 injuries or causes thereof; nor unless it contains in substance the follow-14 ing provisions:

15 (1) That the policy be subject to the provisions of sections one hun-
16 dred and twelve and one hundred and thirteen, as respects both the owner 17 of a motor vehicle or trailer insured thereunder and any person responsi-18 ble for its operation with the express or implied consent of such owner.

19 (2) That no cancellation of the policy, whether by the company or by 20 the insured, shall be valid unless written notice thereof is given by the 21 party proposing cancellation to the other party and, except when the 22 intended effective date thereof is the date of expiration of the registra-23 tion of the motor vehicle or trailer covered by the policy, to the registrar of 24 motor vehicles in such form as the department of public works may 25 prescribe, at least fifteen days in each case prior to the intended effective 26 date thereof, which date shall be expressed in said notice, and that, in 27 the event of a cancellation by the insured, he shall, if he has paid the 28 premium on the policy to the company, or to its agent who issued the 29 policy, or to the duly licensed insurance broker, if any, by whom the 30 policy was negotiated, be entitled to receive a return premium after de-31 ducting the customary monthly short rates for the time the policy shall 32 have been in force, or in the event of cancellation by the company, the 33 insured shall, if he has paid the premium as aforesaid, be entitled to 34 receive a return premium calculated on a pro rata basis; provided, that 35 if the insured after receiving a notice of cancellation by the company files
36 a new certificate under section thirty-four H of said chapter ninety prior 37 to the intended effective date of such cancellation, the filing of said 38 certificate shall operate to terminate the policy on the date of said filing, 39 and the return premium, if any, payable to the insured shall be com-40 puted as of the date of said filing, instead of the intended effective date of 41 cancellation expressed in the notice thereof; and provided further, that 42 if the final effective date of a cancellation by the company is fixed by an 43 order of the board of appeal on motor vehicle liability policies and bonds 44 or of the superior court, or a justice thereof, as provided in section one 45 hundred and thirteen D, the return premium, if any, payable to the 46 insured shall be computed as of such final effective date.
(3) That if the company shall cease for any reason to be authorized to transact business in the commonwealth the insured shall, if he has paid the premium as aforesaid, be entitled to a return premium calculated on a pro rata basis as of the effective date of the new certificate, if any, filed by him under said section thirty-four H, or, if no certificate is filed as aforesaid, as of the effective date of the revocation under said section thirty-four H of the registration of the motor vehicle or trailer covered by the policy.

(4) That the policy, the written application therefor, if any, and any rider or endorsement, which shall not conflict with the provisions of this chapter or said section thirty-four A, shall constitute the entire contract between the parties.

(5) That no statement made by the insured or on his behalf, either in securing the policy or in securing registration of the motor vehicle or trailer covered thereby, no violation of the terms of the policy and no act or default of the insured, either prior or subsequent to the issue of the policy, shall operate to defeat or avoid the policy so as to bar recovery within the limit provided in the policy by a judgment creditor proceeding under the provisions of said section one hundred and thirteen and clause (10) of section three of chapter two hundred and fourteen.

(6) That if the death, insolvency or bankruptcy of the insured shall occur within the policy period, the policy during the unexpired portion of such period shall cover the legal representatives of the insured.

Any such motor vehicle liability policy shall be deemed to contain any such provision in substance when in the opinion of the commissioner the provision is stated in terms more favorable to the insured or to a judgment creditor than herein set forth, and such policy may contain such other provisions not inconsistent with this chapter or said section thirty-four A as may be approved by the commissioner.

Motor vehicle liability policies may be issued, subject to the provisions of section thirty-four C of said chapter ninety, covering more than one motor vehicle or trailer.

Any company authorized to issue motor vehicle liability policies, as defined in said section thirty-four A, may, pending the issue of such a policy, execute an agreement, to be known as a binder, which shall during such time provide indemnity or protection in like manner and to the same extent as such a policy. The provisions of this section shall apply to such binders, except that provisions numbered (1) to (6), inclusive, need not be expressly stated therein but may be incorporated by reference in a manner approved by the commissioner, and the provisions of sections one hundred and thirteen B and one hundred and thirteen D relative to such motor vehicle liability policies shall likewise apply to such binders.

The provisions of this section, except provisions numbered (1), (4) and (5), shall apply to motor vehicle liability bonds as defined in said section thirty-four A, and every such bond shall contain a provision that no statement made by the principal on such bond or on his behalf either in securing the bond or in securing registration of the motor vehicle or trailer covered thereby, and no violation of the terms of the bond and no act or default of the principal, either prior or subsequent to the execution of the bond, shall operate to defeat or avoid such bond as against a judgment creditor of such principal or of a person responsible for the operation of the principal's motor vehicle or trailer with his express or implied consent.
1 Section 113B. The commissioner shall, annually on or before Sep-
2 tember fifteenth, after due hearing and investigation, fix and establish 3 fair and reasonable classifications of risks and adequate, just, reasonable 4 and non-discriminatory premium charges to be used and charged by 5 companies in connection with the issue or execution of motor vehicle 6 liability policies or bonds, both as defined in section thirty-four A of 7 chapter ninety, for the ensuing calendar year or any part thereof. He 8 shall, on or before said date, sign memoranda of the classifications and 9 premium charges fixed and established by him in such form as he may 10 prescribe and file the same in his office, and cause a duly certified copy 11 of such classifications and schedule of premium charges forthwith to be 12 transmitted to each company authorized to issue such policies or to 13 execute such bonds. During said calendar year, the classifications and 14 premium charges fixed and established by the commissioner for such 15 policies shall be used by all companies issuing such policies, and the 16 classifications and premium charges for such bonds shall be used by all 17 companies acting as surety on such bonds.
18 The commissioner shall cause notice of every such hearing to be given 19 by advertising the date thereof once in at least one newspaper printed 20 in each of the cities of Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Newburyport, 21 Gloucester, Pittsfield, Fall River, New Bedford, Haverhill and Lawrence, 22 at least ten days prior to said date, and he shall incorporate in such 23 notice or publish therewith a schedule clearly and precisely setting forth 24 the premium charges proposed to be fixed and established for the ensuing 25 calendar year. Such notice and schedule shall be in such form as the 26 commissioner may deem expedient.
27 The commissioner may make, and, at any time, alter or amend,
28 reasonable rules and regulations to facilitate the operation of this section 29 and enforce the application of the classifications and premium charges
30 fixed and established by him, and to govern hearings and investigations 31 under this section. He may at any time require any company to file 32 with him such data, statistics, schedules or information as he may deem 33 proper or necessary to enable him to fix and establish or secure and 34 maintain fair and reasonable classifications of risks and adequate, just,
35 reasonable and non-discriminatory premium charges for such policies 36 or bonds. He may issue such orders as he finds proper, expedient or 37 necessary to enforce and administer the provisions of this section, to 38 secure compliance with any rules or regulations made thereunder, and 39 to enforce adherence to the classifications and premium charges fixed 40 and established by him. The supreme judicial court for the county of 41 Suffolk shall have jurisdiction in equity upon the petition of the com-42 missioner and upon a summary hearing, to enforce all lawful orders of 43 the commissioner. Memoranda of all actions, orders, findings and 44 decisions of the commissioner shall be signed by him and filed in his 45 office as public records open to public inspection.
46 Any person or company aggrieved by any action, order, finding or 47 decision of the commissioner under this section may, within twenty days
48 from the filing of such memorandum thereof in his office, file a petition 49 in the supreme judicial court for the county of Suffolk for a review of 50 such action, order, finding or decision. An order of notice returnable 51 not later than seven days from the filing of such petition shall forth-52 with issue and be served upon the commissioner. Within ten days after 53 the return of said order of notice, the petition shall be assigned for a 54 speedy and summary hearing on the merits. The action, order, finding or decision of the commissioner shall remain in full force and effect pending the final decision of the court unless the court or a justice thereof after notice to the commissioner shall by a special order otherwise direct. The court shall have jurisdiction in equity to modify, amend, annul, reverse or affirm such action, order, finding or decision, shall review all questions of fact and of law involved therein and may make any appropriate order or decree. The decision of the court shall be final and conclusive on the parties. The court may make such order as to costs as it deems equitable. The court shall make such rules or orders as it deems proper governing proceedings under this section to secure prompt and speedy hearings and to expedite final decisions thereon.

If, for any reason, classifications of risks and premium charges fixed and established as aforesaid on or before September fifteenth in any year for the ensuing calendar year are not effective for the said year, the classifications of risks and premium charges in effect for the then ensuing calendar year shall remain in full force and effect, and shall be used and charged in connection with the issue or execution of motor vehicle liability policies or bonds for said ensuing calendar year until classifications of risks and premium charges for said ensuing calendar year are finally fixed and established. Classifications of risks and premium charges when finally fixed and established for said ensuing calendar year shall become effective as of January first of said year, and all premium charges affected by any change thereby made which have been paid or incurred prior to the time when such charges are finally fixed and established shall be adjusted in accordance with such change, as of said January first.

The commissioner, his deputies or examiners shall at all times have access to the certificates defined in said section thirty-four A filed with the registrar of motor vehicles. Every mutual company issuing or executing motor vehicle liability policies or bonds, both as defined in said section thirty-four A, shall constitute such policies or bonds as a separate class of business for the purpose of paying dividends. Any dividends on such policies or bonds shall be declared on the profits of the company from said class of business.

Section 113C. The commissioner shall forthwith notify the registrar of motor vehicles of the names of all companies as they become or cease to be authorized to issue motor vehicle liability policies or to act as surety upon motor vehicle liability bonds, both as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety.

Section 113D. Any person aggrieved by the issue by any company of a notice purporting to cancel a motor vehicle liability policy or bond, both as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety, or by the refusal of any company, or an agent thereof on its behalf, to issue such a policy or to execute or to act as surety on such a bond, may, within ten days after receiving written notice purporting to cancel such policy or bond, unless he has secured a certificate as defined in said section thirty-four A from another company, or within a like period after such refusal, file a written complaint with the commissioner. The complaint shall be in such form and contain such information, including the address of the complainant, as the commissioner may prescribe. If it relates to a cancellation, it shall specify the registration number of the motor vehicle or trailer covered by the policy or bond and the date on which the complainant received said written notice, and, if it relates to a refusal as aforesaid, the date thereof. The board of appeal on motor vehicle liability policies and bonds, hereinafter called the board, may allow such complaint to be amended.

The commissioner shall cause the other members of the board to be notified of the complaint and written notice to be given to the parties of the time and place of the hearing thereon, which time shall be not less than five days from the filing of the complaint, unless the parties agree in writing that the hearing may be held sooner.

If the complaint relates to the cancellation of such a policy or bond, the filing of the complaint shall operate to continue the policy or bond in full force and effect, but not beyond its date of expiration in any case, pending the finding and order of the board, and pending the decree of the superior court or a justice thereof if an appeal from such finding and order is taken as hereinafter provided; and the commissioner shall cause a copy of such complaint, attested in such manner as he may prescribe, forthwith to be sent to the registrar of motor vehicles or his office and to the company.

A complaint may allege that a cancellation is invalid, or improper and unreasonable, or both, or that a refusal to issue or execute such a policy or bond is improper and unreasonable. The board shall after due hearing forthwith make a finding in respect to the issue or issues raised by the complaint, and it may also, in any case, make a finding as to whether or not the complainant is a proper and suitable person to whom to issue such a policy or on behalf of whom to execute such a bond as surety. The board shall in all cases enter, in such form as it may prescribe, an appropriate order. If the board finds in favor of the company in the case of such a cancellation, the order shall, unless the policy or bond has expired, affirm the cancellation and specify a date, not less than fifteen nor more than twenty days from the filing of a memorandum of the finding and order in the office of the commissioner as hereinafter provided, on which the cancellation shall be effective.

The commissioner, as soon as may be after the rendition thereof, shall cause a written memorandum of all findings and the orders entered thereon signed by the asenting members of the board to be filed in his office as a public record, and he shall on the date of said filing cause a copy of the finding and order, duly attested by the board or a member or the secretary thereof, with the date of said filing endorsed thereon, to be sent to each of the parties and, if the finding and order relates to the cancellation of such a policy or bond, to the registrar of motor vehicles or his office.

Any person or company aggrieved by any finding or order of the board, other than a finding that the complainant is or is not a suitable and proper person to whom to issue such a policy or on behalf of whom to execute such a bond as surety, may, within ten days after the filing of the memorandum thereof in the office of the commissioner, unless the policy or bond has expired or will expire prior to the expiration of said period, and any person or company aggrieved by any finding of the board that a complainant is or is not a suitable and proper person as aforesaid may, in any case, within said period, appeal therefrom to the superior court or any justice thereof, in any county. The appellant shall file a duly certified copy of the complaint and of the finding and order thereon, and, if the appeal is taken from a finding and order of the board in respect to a cancellation, the clerk of the court shall forthwith upon the filing of such an appeal, give written notice of the filing thereof to said registrar. The court or justice shall, after such notice to the parties as it deems reasonable, give a summary hearing on such appeal and shall have jurisdiction in equity to review all questions of fact and law, and to affirm or reverse such finding or order and may make any appropriate decree. The court or justice may allow such complaint, finding or order to be amended. The decision of the court or justice shall be final. A decree of the court or justice affirming a cancellation shall specify in such decree a date not earlier than five days from the entry thereof unless it appears that the policy or bond has expired or will sooner expire, on which the cancellation shall become effective. The clerk shall, within two days after the entry thereof, send an attested copy of the decree to each of the parties and, in the case of a decree rendered upon an appeal in respect to the cancellation of such a policy or bond, to said registrar, or his office. The court or justice may make such order as to costs as it or he deems equitable. The superior court may make reasonable rules to secure prompt hearings on such appeals and a speedy disposition thereof.

The attested copy of a complaint, a finding and order of the board or a decree of the superior court, or a justice thereof, may be sent to the complainant, to the company and to said registrar by registered mail, postage prepaid, and any notice required by this section may be sent by mail, postage prepaid, addressed, in the case of the complainant, to his address specified in the complaint and, in the case of the company, to its last home office address appearing on the records of the commissioner, or, in the case of a company of a foreign country, to its resident manager in the United States, at the last address appearing on said records, or to such other person as may previously have been designated by the company by a written notice filed in the office of the commissioner.

If a company, within ten days after receipt of an attested copy of a finding and order of the board in favor of the complainant in case of a refusal to issue such a policy or to execute such a bond as surety, if no appeal therefrom has been taken as hereinbefore provided, or, if such an appeal has been taken, within five days after the entry of a decree of the superior court, or a justice thereof, affirming such a finding and order, fails to comply with said order or decree, or, if a company after receipt of an attested copy of a finding and order of the board in favor of the complainant in case of a cancellation of such a policy or bond, if no appeal therefrom has been taken as hereinbefore provided, or, if such an appeal has been taken, after the entry of a decree of the superior court, or a justice thereof, affirming such a finding and order, refuses to abide by such order or decree, the commissioner, after such inquiry as he may deem expedient, shall, in the case of a foreign company, revoke or suspend the license issued to it under section one hundred and fifty-one and the licenses issued to all of its agents under section one hundred and sixty-three, as provided in and subject to all the provisions of section five, until it shall comply with such order or decree and, in case of a domestic company, he shall apply to the supreme judicial court for an injunction, and such court shall have jurisdiction to restrain such company from the further transaction of its business until it shall comply with such order or decree.
TITLE INSURANCE.

1 Section 114. A company organized under the eleventh clause of section forty-seven or under earlier laws relating to such companies shall not be subject to this chapter, except this section and sections three A, four, six, fifteen, sixteen, eighteen, nineteen, and twenty-two, twenty-five, thirty-six, thirty-three, forty-four, forty-six, seven forty-nine, inclusive, fifty-seven to sixty-one, inclusive, sixty-two, nine to seventy-two, inclusive, one hundred and sixteen, one hundred and eight, eighty-nine, and the first paragraph of section sixty-two. Such company may transact all the kinds of business specified in said eleventh clause.

1 Section 116. Every such company shall set apart an amount not less than two-fifths of its capital, and not less than one hundred thousand dollars in any case, as a title guaranty fund, and shall invest it subject to the limitations imposed by this chapter upon the investment of the capital of other domestic insurance companies, and shall issue no title policy and make no contract of title guaranty or title insurance until such amount is so set apart and invested.

The principal of such title guaranty fund shall be a trust for the prescription of title policyholders, and shall be applied only to the payment of losses and expenses incurred by reason of the title guaranty or title insurance contracts of the company. Whenever the company shall increase its capital, two fifths or a sufficient part of the increase shall be set apart and duly invested and added to the title guaranty fund so that such fund shall always be not less in amount than two fifths of the entire capital.

If by reason of losses or other cause the title guaranty fund becomes less than the minimum amount required by this section, the company shall forthwith give written notice thereof to the commissioner, and shall make no further contract of title guaranty or title insurance until the said fund has been restored nor until it has received a certificate from the commissioner to that effect and authorizing it to make such contracts.

1 Section 116A. A foreign company admitted to transact business under the eleventh clause of section forty-seven shall not be subject to this chapter except this section and sections three A, four, five, fifteen, sixteen, eighteen, nineteen, and twenty-two, twenty-five, twenty-six, thirty-six, thirty-three, forty-four, forty-six, seven forty-nine, inclusive, fifty-one and fifty-one, fifty-five, one hundred and fifty-one, one hundred and fifty-one, except subdivision six of clause Second, one hundred and fifty-four, one hundred and fifty-five, five, one hundred and fifty-six, one hundred and fifty-eight, one hundred and fifty-nine, one hundred and eighty-nine, one hundred and ninety-three A and one hundred and ninety-four; provided, however, that nothing contained in section one hundred and fifty or one hundred and fifty-one shall be construed to require any person acting as an insurance agent of such a company to be licensed under section one hundred and sixty-three. Such company may transact all the kinds of business specified in said eleventh clause.
STEAM BOILER INSURANCE.

SECTION 117. No company shall issue a policy of insurance on a steam boiler for a longer period than three years.

SPRINKLER LEAKAGE INSURANCE.

SECTION 117A. Two or more stock or two or more mutual fire companies authorized to transact business under the eightieth clause of section forty-seven may issue a single policy of insurance against loss or damage caused by any or all of the hazards specified in said eightieth clause on property or interests in the commonwealth on which each company shall be severally liable for a specified percentage of any loss or claim. Such policy shall be executed by the duly authorized officers of each company subject to the provisions of section thirty-three in the case of a domestic company.

No such policy shall be issued or delivered until a copy of the form thereof has been on file for thirty days with the commissioner, unless before the expiration of said thirty days he shall approve the form of the policy in writing; nor if the commissioner notifies the company in writing within thirty days that in his opinion the form of the policy does not comply with the laws of the commonwealth, specifying his reasons therefor, provided, that such action of the commissioner shall be subject to review by the supreme judicial court; nor unless it is headed by the corporate name of each company, nor unless it contains in substance the provisions numbered (1), (3), (4) and (5) in section one hundred and nineteen of two A and a provision that any notice, sworn statement or proof of loss, which may be required by the provisions of said policy may be rendered, made or given to any one of such companies or to a duly authorized agent of any one of such companies, and that such notice, sworn statement or proof of loss so rendered, made or given shall be valid and binding as to all of such companies.

The provisions of sections seventy-six, eighty, eighty-one, eighty-three and ninety-eight applicable to policies issued by mutual fire companies, persons insured under such policies and dividends and assessments thereunder shall apply to each policy issued under this section by mutual companies, to persons insured thereunder and to dividends and assessments thereunder, except as hereinafter provided.

The person insured under such a policy issued as aforesaid by mutual companies shall be deemed to be a member of each such company while the policy is in force and entitled to one vote at the meetings of each company.

The notice, endorsement and statement required by said sections seventy-six, eighty and eighty-one, respectively, shall be in such form and in such place on the policy as the commissioner shall prescribe.

The dividend under said section eighty and the contingent mutual liability of the insured fixed by said sections eighty-one and eighty-three in respect to each such company shall be computed or based on such proportion of the total premium for the policy as the amount insured by such company bears to the full amount insured under the policy.

The notice to policyholders required by said section eighty shall be sent by each such company to the insured. The provisions of said section ninety-eight shall apply to the application, if any, of the insured 47 to each such company and to their by-laws.
48 Nothing in this section shall be construed as affecting, except as pro-
49 vided herein, any provision of law relative to the rights, powers, duties 50 and liabilities of mutual fire companies and persons insured thereby.

LIFE INSURANCE.

1 Section 118. All companies doing business in the commonwealth
2 under any charter, compact, agreement or statute of this or any other 3 state, involving the payment of money or other thing of value to fam-4 ilies or representatives of policy and certificate holders or members, 5 conditioned upon the continuance or cessation of human life, or involving 6 an insurance, guaranty, contract or pledge for the payment of endow-7 ments or annuities, shall be deemed to be life companies, and shall not 8 make any such insurance, guaranty, contract or pledge in the common-9 wealth, or to or with any resident thereof, which does not distinctly state 10 the amount of benefits payable, the manner of payment and the con-
11 sideration therefor, nor any such insurance, guaranty, contract or pledge 12 the performance of which is contingent upon the payment of assess-13 ments made upon survivors; provided that corporations incorporated 14 for any educational, charitable, benevolent or religious purpose shall 15 not be deemed life companies and shall not be subject to this chapter.
16 Nothing herein relating to the consideration for the policy shall apply 17 to any extra compensation which may be charged by a company to the 18 insured for engaging in military or naval service in time of war.
19 All life insurance hereafter transacted by the corporations which 20 formerly issued policies on the assessment plan under chapter four 21 hundred and twenty-one of the acts of eighteen hundred and ninety 22 and acts in amendment thereof shall be carried on in accordance with 23 this chapter; but such corporations may carry out in good faith their 24 assessment contracts made with their members prior to July first,
25 eighteen hundred and ninety-nine.

1 Section 119. Domestic life companies may make pure endowment
2 contracts, and grant, purchase and dispose of annuities.

1917, 117.

1 Section 119A. If, under the terms of any annuity contract or policy
2 of life insurance, or under any written agreement supplemental thereto,
3 issued by any life company, the proceeds are retained by such company
4 at maturity or otherwise, no person entitled to any part of such pro-5 ceeds, or any instalment of interest due or to become due thereon, shall 6 be permitted to commute, anticipate, encumber, alienate or assign the 7 same, or any part thereof, if such permission is expressly withheld by 8 the terms of such contract, policy or supplemental agreement; and if 9 such contract, policy or supplemental agreement so provides, no pay-10 ments of interest or of principal shall be in any way subject to such 11 person's debts, contracts or engagements, nor to any judicial processes 12 to levy upon or attach the same for payment thereof. No such company 13 shall be required to segregate such funds but may hold them as a part 14 of its general corporate funds.
Section 120. No life company and no officer or agent thereof shall make or permit any distinction or discrimination in favor of individuals between insurants of the same class and equal expectation of life in the amount or payment of premiums or rates charged for policies of life or endowment insurance, or annuity or pure endowment contracts, or in the dividends or other benefits payable thereon, or in any other of the terms and conditions of the contracts it makes.

Section 121. No life company and no officer or agent thereof and no insurance broker shall make any contract of life or endowment insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract or any agreement as to such contract other than as plainly expressed in the policy issued thereon; or give, sell or purchase, or offer to give, sell or purchase, as inducement to placing or negotiating any such contract or the continuance or renewal thereof or in connection therewith, any stocks, bonds or other securities of any company or other corporation, association or partnership, or any dividends or profits accrued thereon.

Section 122. No life company shall make any distinction or discrimination between white persons and colored persons wholly or partly of African descent as to the premiums or rates charged for policies upon the lives of such persons; nor shall any such company demand or require greater premiums from such colored persons than are at that time required by such company from white persons of the same age, sex, general condition of health and prospect of longevity; nor shall any such company make or require any rebate, diminution or discount upon the amount to be paid on such policy in case of the death of such colored person insured, nor insert in the policy any condition, nor make any stipulation whereby such person insured shall bind himself or his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns to accept any amount less than the full value or amount of such policy in case of a claim accruing thereon, by reason of the death of such person insured, other than such as are imposed upon white persons in similar cases; and any such stipulation or condition so made or inserted shall be void.

Any such company which shall refuse the application of any such colored person for insurance upon such person’s life shall furnish such person, on his request therefor, with the certificate of a regular examining physician of such company who made the examination, stating that such refusal was not because such applicant is a person of color, but solely upon such grounds of the general health and prospect of longevity of such person as would be applicable to white persons of the same age and sex.

A company or an officer or agent thereof who violates any provision hereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

Section 123. No life company shall, except as herein and in sections one hundred and thirty-three and one hundred and thirty-four provided, issue any policy or policies of life or endowment insurance upon a life within the commonwealth without having within ninety days prior thereto made or caused to be made a prescribed medical examination of the insured by a registered medical practitioner; provided, that an inspection by a competent person of a group of employees and their environment may be substituted for such medical examination in case of a...
9 policy of group life insurance as defined in section one hundred and thirty-three.
10 The foregoing requirement for medical examination shall not apply to 11 the issuance of a policy or policies of industrial insurance aggregating in 12 amount five hundred dollars or less, exclusive of dividend additions 13 thereon, upon any one life, nor to the issuance of contracts based upon 14 the continuance of life, such as annuity or pure endowment contracts, 15 whether or not they embody an agreement to refund, upon the death of 16 the holder, to his estate or to a specified payee, any sum not exceeding 17 the premiums paid thereon with compound interest; provided, however,
18 that no industrial policy shall be issued without medical examination 19 except upon a written application therefor signed by the person to be 20 insured, or, in the case of a minor, by the parent, guardian, or other per-21 son having the legal custody of said minor. Any company violating this 22 section, or any officer, agent or other person soliciting or effecting, or 23 attempting to effect, a contract of insurance contrary to the provisions 24 hereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

1 Section 124. In any claim arising under a policy issued in the com-
2 monwealth by any life company, without previous medical examination,
3 or without the knowledge and consent of the insured, or, if said insured
4 is a minor, without the consent of the parent, guardian or other person 5 having legal custody of said minor, the statements made in the applica-
6 tion as to the age, physical condition and family history of the insured
7 shall be held to be valid and binding on the company; but the company
8 shall not be debarred from proving as a defense to such claim that said 9 statements were wilfully false, fraudulent or misleading.

1 Section 125. If a policy of life or endowment insurance is effected by 2 any person on his own life or on another life, in favor of a person other 3 than himself having an insurable interest therein, the lawful beneficiary, 4 thereof, other than himself or his legal representatives, shall be entitled
5 to its proceeds against the creditors and representatives of the person
6 effecting the same, whether or not the right to change the named benefi-
7 ciary is reserved by or permitted to such person; provided, that, subject 8 to the statute of limitations, the amount of any premiums for said insur-9 ance paid in fraud of creditors, with interest thereon, shall enure to their 10 benefit from the proceeds of the policy; but the company issuing the 11 policy shall be discharged of all liability thereon by payment of its pro-12 ceeds in accordance with its terms, unless before such payment the com-13 pany shall have written notice, by or on behalf of a creditor, of a claim to 14 recover for certain premiums paid in fraud of creditors, with specifica-15 tion of the amount claimed. No court, and no trustee or assignee for the 16 benefit of creditors, shall elect for the person effecting such insurance to 17 exercise such right to change the named beneficiary.
18 Any person to whom a policy of life or endowment insurance, issued 19 subsequent to April eleventh, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, is made 20 payable may maintain an action thereon in his own name.

Policy payable to married woman enures
to her benefit.
1944, 87,
1854, 453, § 28.

1 Section 126. Every policy of life or endowment insurance made 2 payable to or for the benefit of a married woman, or after its 3 issue assigned, transferred or in any way made payable to a married 4 woman, or to any person in trust for her or for her benefit, whether prov-cured by herself, her husband or by any other person, and whether the assignment or transfer is made by her husband or by any other person, and whether or not the right to change the named beneficiary is reserved by or permitted to the person effecting such insurance, shall enure to her separate use and benefit, and to that of her children, subject to the provisions of the preceding section relative to premiums paid in fraud of creditors and to sections one hundred and forty-four to one hundred and forty-eight, inclusive. No court, and no trustee or assignee for the benefit of creditors, shall elect for the person effecting such insurance to exercise such right to change the named beneficiary.

Section 127. An insurance agent, examining physician or other person who knowingly or wilfully makes a false or fraudulent statement or representation in or relative to any application for life or endowment insurance, or who makes any such statement for the purpose of obtaining a fee, commission or money, or benefit in a company transacting such business under this chapter, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not less than one month nor more than one year, or both; and a person who wilfully makes a false statement of any material fact or thing in a sworn statement as to the death or disability of a policyholder in any such company, for the purpose of procuring payment of a benefit named in the policy, shall be guilty of perjury.

Section 128. No party to any contract of life or endowment insurance made after March thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, upon the life of such party, for the benefit of the insured, or for the benefit of the wife, husband, children, father, mother, brother or sister of the insured, shall, because of infancy, be entitled to avoid or repudiate the contract or to avoid or repudiate any discharge or receipt given by him for any benefit accrued or accruing, or for any money paid or payable under the contract; provided, that such party had attained the age of fifteen when the contract was effected.

Section 129. No life company and no officer or agent thereof shall issue a policy of life or endowment insurance or an annuity or pure endowment policy to a resident of the commonwealth not bearing in bold letters upon its face a plain description of the policy, so fully defining its character, including dividend periods and other peculiarities, that the holder thereof shall not be likely to mistake the nature or scope of the contract.

Section 130. No policy of life or endowment insurance shall be issued or delivered in the commonwealth if it shall purport to be issued or to take effect at an age lower, and no annuity or pure endowment contract shall be so issued or delivered if it shall purport to be issued or to take effect at an age higher, than the age of the applicant at his nearest birthday at the time of the original written application.

Section 131. Unless a correct copy of the application is endorsed upon or attached to a policy of life or endowment insurance, when issued, the application shall not be considered a part of the policy or received in evidence for any purpose. Every such policy which con-
5 tains a reference to the application, either as a part of the policy or as 6 having any bearing thereon, shall have endorsed thereon or attached 7 thereto, when issued, a correct copy of the application.

1 1 Section 132. No policy of life or endowment insurance and no
2 annuity or pure endowment policy shall be issued or delivered in the 3 commonwealth until a copy of the form thereof has been on file for 4 thirty days with the commissioner, unless before the expiration of said
5 thirty days he shall have approved the form of the policy in writing;
6 nor if the commissioner notifies the company in writing, within said
7 thirty days, that in his opinion the form of the policy does not comply 8 with the laws of the commonwealth, specifying his reasons therefore,
9 provided that such action of the commissioner shall be subject to review
10 by the supreme judicial court; nor shall such policy, except policies of 11 industrial insurance, on which the premiums are payable monthly or 12 oftener, and except annuity or pure endowment policies, whether or 13 not they embody an agreement to refund to the estate of the holder
14 upon his death or to a specified payee any sum not exceeding the premiums 15 paid thereon with compound interest, be so issued or delivered unless 16 it contains in substance the following:
17 1. A provision that the insured is entitled to thirty days of grace 18 within which the payment of any premium after the first year may be 19 made, subject at the option of the company to an interest charge not in 20 excess of six per cent per annum for the number of days of grace elapsing 21 before the payment of the premium, during which period of grace the 22 policy shall continue in full force; but if the policy becomes a claim during 23 the said period of grace before the overdue premium or the deferred 24 premiums of the current policy year, if any, are paid, the amount of 25 such premiums, with interest on any overdue premium, may be taken 26 from the face of the policy in settlement.
27 2. A provision that the policy shall be incontestable after it has been 28 in force during the lifetime of the insured for a period of two years from 29 its date of issue except for non-payment of premiums or violation of the 30 conditions of the policy relating to military or naval service in time of 31 war and except, if the company so elects, for the purpose of contesting
32 claims for total and permanent disability benefits or additional benefits 33 specifically granted in case of death by accident.
34 3. A provision that the policy and the application therefor shall con-
35 stitute the entire contract between the parties, and that no statement 36 made by the insured or on his behalf shall be used in defence to a claim 37 under the policy unless it is contained in a written application, and a 38 copy of such application is endorsed upon or attached to the policy 39 when issued.
40 4. A provision that if the age of the insured has been misstated the 41 amount payable under the policy shall be such as the premium would 42 have purchased at the correct age.
43 5. A provision that the policy shall participate in the surplus of the 44 company annually, beginning not later than the end of the third policy 45 year.
46 6. A provision specifying the options to which the policyholder is 47 entitled in the event of default in a premium payment after three full 48 annual premiums shall have been paid.
7. A provision that not later than the third anniversary of the policy the holder of the policy shall, upon a proper assignment thereof to the company, be entitled to borrow of the company, on the security of the policy, a sum not more than ninety-five per cent of the cash surrender value thereof, less any indebtedness to the company, with interest at a rate not exceeding six per cent per annum or, at the option of the company, with interest as aforesaid compounded semi-annually. Said provision shall include such other conditions as, in conformity to the laws of the commonwealth, the company will impose when the application for the loan is made.

8. A table showing in figures the loan values, if any, and the options available under the policy each year upon default in premium payments, during at least twenty years of the policy, beginning with the year in which such values and options first become available.

9. A provision that the company may at its option defer the granting of any loan other than to pay premiums on the policies in the company, and may at its option defer the granting of any cash surrender value for a period not exceeding ninety days from the date of the application for such loan or surrender value.

10. In case the proceeds of a policy are payable in installments or as an annuity, a table showing the amounts of the installments and annuity payments.

11. A provision that the holder of a policy shall be entitled to have the policy reinstated at any time within three years from the date of default, unless the cash surrender value has been duly paid or the extension period has expired, upon the production of evidence of insurability satisfactory to the company and the payment of all overdue premiums and any other indebtedness to the company upon said policy, with interest at the rate of not exceeding six per cent per annum or, at the option of the company, with interest as aforesaid compounded semi-annually.

Group life insurance defined. 1918, 112, § 1. 1921, 141. 1928, 244, § 1. 1929, 121. 267 Mass. 135.

SECTION 133. Group life insurance is hereby defined to be that form of life insurance covering (a) not less than fifty employees, with or without medical examination, written under a policy issued to the employer, the premium on which is to be paid by the employer or by the employer and employees jointly, and insuring only all of his employees, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to the employment, or by duration of service in which case no employee shall be excluded if he has been for one year or more in the employ of the person taking out the policy, for amounts of insurance based upon some plan precluding individual selection, and for the benefit of persons other than the employer, provided, that when the premium is to be paid by the employer and employees jointly and the benefits of the policy are offered to all eligible employees, not less than seventy-five per cent of such employees may be so insured, or not less than forty per cent if each employee belonging to the insured group has been medically examined and found acceptable for ordinary insurance by an individual policy; or (b) the members of any trade union or other association of wage workers described in section twenty-nine, with or without medical examination, written under a policy issued to such union or association, the premium on which is to be paid by the union or association or by the union or association and the members thereof jointly, and insuring all of the members thereof for amounts of insurance based upon some plan which will preclude individual selection, and for the benefit of persons other than 24 the union or association or any officers thereof, provided, that when the 25 premium is to be paid by the union or association and its members jointly 26 and the benefits of the policy are offered to all members, not less than 27 seventy-five per cent of such members may be so insured, and provided 28 further that any member or members insured under the policy may apply 29 for amounts of insurance additional to those granted by said policy, in 30 which case any percentage of the members may be insured for additional 31 amounts if they pass satisfactory medical examinations.

1 Section 134. No policy of group life insurance shall be issued or 2 delivered in the commonwealth until a copy of the form thereof has 3 been on file for thirty days with the commissioner, unless, before the 4 expiration of said thirty days, he shall have approved the policy in 5 writing; nor if the commissioner notifies the company in writing, within 6 said thirty days, that in his opinion the form of the policy does not com-7 ply with the laws of the commonwealth, specifying his reasons therefor,
8 provided, that this action of the commissioner shall be subject to review 9 by the supreme judicial court; nor shall any such policy be so issued or 10 delivered unless it contains in substance the following provisions:
11 1. That the policy shall be incontestable after two years from its 12 date of issue except for non-payment of premiums or violation of the 13 conditions of the policy relating to military or naval service in time of 14 war.
15 2. That the policy, the application of the employer and the indi-16 vidual applications, if any, of the employees insured shall constitute the 17 entire contract between the parties, and that no statement made by the 18 employer or any employee or on their behalf shall be used in defence to a 19 claim under the policy unless contained in a written application.
20 3. That the premium or the amount of insurance payable in the event 21 of a misstatement of the age of an employee shall be equitably adjusted.
22 4. That the company will issue to the employer, for delivery to the 23 employee whose life is insured under the policy, an individual certifi-24 cate setting forth a statement as to the insurance protection to which 25 he is entitled and to whom payable, together with a provision to the 26 effect that if the employment is terminated for any reason whatsoever 27 the employee shall be entitled to have issued to him by the company, 28 without evidence of insurability, and upon application made to the 29 company within thirty-one days after such termination, and upon the 30 payment of the premium applicable to the class of risk to which he 31 belongs and to the form and amount of the policy at his then attained 32 age, a policy of life insurance in any one of the forms customarily issued 33 by the company, except term insurance, in an amount equal to the 34 amount of his insurance under such group policy at the time of such 35 termination.
36 5. That to the group or class thereof originally insured shall be added
37 from time to time all new employees of the employer eligible to insurance 38 in such group or class.
39 A policy shall be deemed to contain any such provision in substance 40 when, in the opinion of the commissioner, the provision is stated in 41 terms more favorable to the employer or employee than are herein set 42 forth.
43 The word "employer", as used in this section and in section one hun-
44 dred and thirty-seven, shall include a trade union or association of wage 45 workers described in section twenty-nine and the word "employee", as used in this section and in section one hundred and thirty-five, shall include a member of such a union or association.

SECTION 135. No such policy, or the proceeds thereof when paid to any employee or employees thereunder, or to their beneficiaries, shall be liable to attachment, trustee process or other process, or to be seized, taken, appropriated or applied by any legal or equitable process or operation of law to pay any debt or liabilities of such employee or his beneficiary or any other person having right thereunder either before or after payment; nor shall the proceeds thereof, when not made payable to any beneficiary, constitute a part of the estate of the employee for the payment of his debts.

SECTION 136. Such policies shall be exempt from any loan provision or requirement. Any equity of the insured in a group life insurance policy at the time of default in the payment of a premium, whether that equity exists by reason of the terms of the policy or by law, shall be applied to purchase extended or paid-up insurance for each of the insured at attained age on the basis of the mortality table and rate of interest used in computing the premium for the group.

SECTION 137. Under any group policy issued by a domestic mutual life company, the employer only shall be a member of the company, and entitled to one vote by virtue of such policy at the meetings of the company.

SECTION 138. So much of this chapter as is inconsistent with sections one hundred and thirty-three to one hundred and thirty-seven, inclusive, shall not apply to policies issued under said sections.

SECTION 139. Any life company may, at the request of the policyholder, exchange, alter or convert any policy of life or endowment insurance issued by it for or into any policy conforming (a) with the laws in force when said first mentioned policy was issued, if the rewritten policy bear the date thereof, or (b) with the laws in force when said exchange, alteration or conversion is effected, if the rewritten policy bear a then current date; provided, however, that if such rewritten policy bears the date of said original policy, the amount of insurance under said rewritten policy shall not exceed the amount of insurance under said original policy or the amount of insurance which the premium paid for the original policy would have purchased if the rewritten policy had been originally applied for, whichever is the greater. Nothing in section one hundred and twenty shall be construed to prohibit the exchange, alteration or conversion of policies of life or endowment insurance under this section, and sections one hundred and twenty-three and one hundred and thirty shall not apply to the issue of any policy rewritten under authority of this section.

SECTION 140. Except as provided in this section, every domestic life company heretofore or hereafter organized, anything in its charter or its certificate of incorporation or special act to the contrary notwithstanding, shall provide in every policy of life or endowment insurance hereafter issued that the proportion of the divisible surplus of the company contributed by said policy shall be ascertained and distributed 7 annually, and not otherwise, except as hereinafter provided, beginning
8 not later than the end of the third policy year; but such distribution
9 shall not be made contingent upon the payment of any further premium
10 except that if dividends are allowed on an anniversary of the policy 11 preceding the third, such dividends may be made subject to the pay-12 ment of the succeeding year's premium. Every such company shall on 13 December thirty-first of each year or as soon thereafter as practicable, 14 after providing for the reserve required by sections nine and eleven and 15 for all other liabilities, including dividends declared upon the capital
16 stock, if any, and such sum as may be held on account of existing deferred 17 dividend policies, and providing also for a contingency reserve not in 18 excess of the limit prescribed in the following section, apportion its 19 remaining funds upon the contribution to surplus plan, as dividends, to 20 all other policies entitled to share therein. Each such dividend shall annu-21 ally, at the option of the holder of the policy, (a) be payable in cash, or 22 (b) applied in reduction of premiums, or (c) to the purchase of a paid-up 23 addition, or (d) be left with the company to accumulate to the credit of 24 the policy and be payable at the maturity thereof, or be withdrawable
25 in cash on demand by the holder of the policy, or applied as hereinafter 26 set forth; but if no election is made by the holder of the policy prior to 27 any anniversary thereof, the dividend for that anniversary shall be 28 held by the company as provided in option (d); and if any premium on 29 the policy is not paid at the expiration of the days of grace, the company
30 shall keep the policy in force by applying the dividend accumulations 31 to the payment due on the policy if such accumulations are sufficient to 32 make said payment in full, and shall forthwith mail a notice to the 33 holder thereof at his last known address, stating what amount has been 34 so applied, and if a balance of the dividend accumulations remains to 35 the credit of the policy, the amount thereof, provided that the share of 36 the surplus so apportioned to a term policy shall not be available for the 37 purchase of a paid-up addition, and provided that nothing herein con-38 tained shall operate to continue a policy in force beyond the period which 39 any dividend accumulation so applied would carry the policy under its 40 full premium rate, nor beyond the term for which the policy was origi-41 nally issued, and that the affidavit of any officer, clerk or agent of the 42 company, or of any one authorized to mail such notice, that the notice 43 required by this section has been duly mailed by the company, shall be 44 prima facie evidence that such notice was duly given.
45 On policies of industrial insurance on which premiums are payable 46 weekly the annual surplus distribution shall begin not later than the end 47 of the fifth policy year, and be applied to the payment of any premiums, 48 or at the option of the holder of the policy be made in cash, but such 49 distribution shall not be made contingent upon the payment of future 50 premiums.
51 This section shall not apply to contracts of pure endowment or an-52 nities nor to any stock life company issuing only non-participating 53 policies. A foreign life company which does not provide in every partici-54 pating policy hereafter issued or delivered in the commonwealth that 55 the proportion of the surplus accruing upon said policy shall be ascer-
56 tained and distributed annually and not otherwise, except as hereinafter 57 provided, either by payment in cash of the amount apportioned to a 58 policy, or by its application to the payment of premiums or to the pur-59 chase of paid-up additions, or for the accumulation of the amounts from 60 time to time apportioned, said accumulations to be subject to withdrawal by the policyholder, shall not be permitted to do new business within 61 the commonwealth.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the payment 63 upon or after the death of the insured of a dividend for the current 64 policy year.

Section 141. Any domestic life company may from its surplus funds or profits accumulate and hold, or hold if already accumulated, as a safety fund, an amount not in excess of twelve per cent of its reserve or one hundred thousand dollars, whichever is greater, and, in addition thereto any surplus that may have been contributed by the holders of the guaranty stock of the company, or which has been accumulated for the retirement of said guaranty stock and the margin of the market value of its securities over their book value, provided that in cases where the existing surplus or safety fund, exclusive of all accumulations held on account of existing deferred dividend policies, exceeds the limit above designated, the company shall be entitled to retain said surplus or safety fund, but shall not be entitled to add thereto so long as it exceeds said limit, and provided that for cause shown, the commissioner may at any time and from time to time permit any company to accumulate and maintain a safety fund in excess of the limit above mentioned, for a prescribed period not exceeding one year in any one permission, by filing in his office a 16 decision stating his reasons therefor, and causing the same to be published in his next annual report.

This section shall not apply to any company issuing only non-participating policies.

Section 142. After three full annual premiums have been paid on any policy of life or endowment insurance issued by a domestic life company after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and seven, the holder thereof, upon its proper assignment to the company, shall within ninety days of the application therefor be entitled to a loan from the company, on the sole security of the policy, with interest at a rate not exceeding six per cent per annum or, at the option of the company, with interest as aforesaid compounded semi-annually, of a sum not exceeding its loan value, which loan value shall not be less than ninety-five per cent of the cash surrender value of the policy at the end of the policy year during which the application for the loan is made, computed as prescribed by section one hundred and forty-four, and of all dividend additions thereto, less any indebtedness to the company and any unpaid portion of the premium for the then current policy year. Failure to repay any such loan or to pay interest thereon shall not avoid the policy while the total indebtedness thereon is less than such loan value at the time said default in payment occurs, nor until thirty days after notice has 17 been mailed by the company to the last known address of the insured. 18
The affidavit of any officer, clerk or agent of the company, or of any one authorized to mail such notice, that the notice required by this section has been duly mailed by the company, shall be prima facie evidence 21 that such notice was duly given. Nothing in this section shall require any company to make a loan upon any policy for less than twenty-five 23 dollars.

This section shall not apply to term policies nor to those in force as extended insurance as provided in clause (e) of section one hundred and forty-four.

1 Section 144. After three full annual premiums have been paid on any policy of life or endowment insurance issued by a domestic life company after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and seven, the holder thereof, within thirty days after any default in the payment of a subsequent premium, may elect, by a writing filed with the company at its home office, (a) to surrender the policy and, with the written assent of the person to whom it is made payable, receive its value in cash, or (b) take paid-up insurance which shall be participating if the policy is on a participating basis, payable at the same time and on the same conditions as in the original contract, or (c) have the policy continued in force as extended term insurance from the anniversary date last passed for its face amount, including any outstanding dividend additions and less any indebtedness thereon or secured thereby, but without the right to loans; provided, that a policy whose proceeds are payable in instalments or as an annuity may provide that if either option (b) or (c) becomes operative the proceeds of the policy shall be payable in one sum.

The cash surrender value shall be the reserve on the policy at the end of the last policy year for which the premium was paid in full, plus a proportionate part of the increase in the cash value at the end of the succeeding year if any installment not less than a quarterly installment of the premium for that year has been paid, and of any dividend additions thereto, computed on the mortality and interest assumption upon which the company elects to reserve as prescribed by section nine, less a surrender charge of not more than five per cent of the present value of the future net premiums, which by its terms the policy is exposed to pay in case of its continuance, computed upon the aforesaid mortality and interest basis, and less any existing indebtedness to the company on the policy or secured thereby. The company may reserve the right to defer the payment of such cash value for not exceeding ninety days after the application therefor is made. The term for which the policy will be continued or the amount of the paid-up policy will be such as the cash value will purchase as a net single premium at attained age of the insured according to the mortality and interest basis heretofore designated. But in case of an endowment policy, if the sum applicable to the purchase of extended term insurance shall be more than sufficient to continue the insurance to the end of the endowment term named in the policy, the excess shall be used to purchase in the same manner non-participating paid-up pure endowment, payable at the end of the endowment term on the same conditions.

If the holder shall not within thirty days from default surrender the policy to the company for cash as provided in option (a), or elect, by a writing filed with the company at its home office, to take extended term insurance as provided in option (c), the insurance will be binding upon the company from the date of default without any further stipulation or act as provided in option (b). The paid-up or extended term insurance granted by the terms of the policy shall have a cash surrender value which shall be its net value less any indebtedness to the company.
on account of such policy or secured thereby, and the holder thereof may, within ninety days of the application therefor, and with the written assent of the person to whom the policy is payable, claim and receive in cash such surrender value.

Every such policy which by its terms has become paid up shall have a cash surrender value which shall be its net value, less not more than five per cent of one net annual premium on a ten payment life policy at the age of entry of the insured, and less any indebtedness to the company on such policy or secured thereby; and the holder thereof may, within ninety days of the application therefor and with the written assent of the person to whom the policy is payable, claim and receive in cash such surrender value.

This section shall not apply to annuity or pure endowment contracts with or without return of premiums, or of premiums and interest, whether simple or compound, or to survivorship insurance, and, in the case of a policy providing for both insurance and an annuity, shall apply only to that part of the contract providing for insurance; but every such contract providing for a deferred annuity on the life of the insured only shall, unless paid for by a single premium, provide that, in the event of the non-payment of any premium after three full years' premiums shall have been paid, the annuity shall automatically become converted into a paid-up annuity for such proportion of the original annuity as the number of completed years' premiums paid bears to the total number of premiums required under the contract.

SECTION 145. On policies of industrial insurance issued on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and eleven, by a domestic life company on which premiums are paid weekly and are not more than fifty cents each, the surrender value shall be its net value, less not more than five cents of one net annual premium on a ten payment life policy at the age of entry of the insured, and less any indebtedness to the company on such policy or secured thereby; and the holder thereof may, within ninety days after the lapse of any policy which has a surrender value and upon which a settlement has not been made, the company shall send a notice thereof to the last known address of the holder of said policy, which shall state the amount of the surrender value of said 10 policy. The affidavit of any officer, clerk or agent of the company, or any one authorized to mail such notice, that the notice required herein has been duly mailed by the company, shall be prima facie evidence that such notice was duly given.

SECTION 146. After premiums have been paid for three full years on any policy of industrial insurance issued by a domestic life company after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and eleven, in case of failure to pay any subsequent premium the policy shall be binding upon the company from the date of default, without any further stipulation or act, as extended term insurance for its face amount, from the date to which premiums have been paid, for such term as will be purchased at the attained age of the insured by a net single premium, which shall be the full reserve on the policy at the end of the last policy year for which the premiums were paid in full, plus a proportionate part of the increase in the reserve of the succeeding year for each additional thirteen weeks' premium paid, computed upon the mortality and interest assumption on which the company elects to reserve as prescribed by section nine, less an amount not exceeding two and one half per cent of the sum in-15 sured, and less any indebtedness to the company on the policy or secured 16 thereby. But in case of an endowment policy, if the sum applicable to 17 the purchase of extended term insurance shall be more than sufficient 18 to continue the insurance to the end of the endowment term named in 19 the policy, the excess shall be used to purchase in the same manner 20 non-participating paid-up pure endowment, payable at the end of the 21 endowment term on the same conditions.

1 Section 147. After premiums have been paid for five full years upon 2 any such policy of industrial insurance, the holder thereof, in case of 3 any default in the payment of a subsequent premium, may, by writing
4 filed with the company at its home office, within the term of extension
5 and not later than thirteen weeks from the date to which premiums
6 have been paid, elect in lieu of extended term insurance, (1) to surrender
7 the policy to the company and receive in exchange therefor a paid-up
8 policy of not less value according to the mortality and interest basis 9 aforesaid, payable at the same time and on the same conditions as the 10 original policy, or (2) to surrender the policy, with the written assent of 11 the person to whom it is payable, and receive its value in cash within 12 sixty days after the demand therefor. Said cash surrender value shall be 13 equal to the net single premium computed in the manner provided in 14 the preceding section in the case of extended insurance. Any such policy
15 of industrial insurance which shall, after five years from its original date 16 of issue, become extended term insurance or a paid-up policy shall have 17 a cash surrender value which shall be its net value at the date of the 18 application therefor, less any indebtedness to the company then existing 19 thereon or secured thereby, which the holder thereof may, with the 20 written assent of the person to whom the policy is payable, claim and 21 receive in cash within sixty days after written demand therefor.

1 Section 147A. No domestic life company shall issue or deliver any 2 policy of industrial life or endowment insurance unless it contains a table, 3 in a form satisfactory to the commissioner, plainly showing in figures the 4 extended term and paid-up insurance and the cash surrender values pro-5 vided for by the two preceding sections.

1 Section 148. [Repealed (except as to existing policies), 1928,
2 148, § 2.]

1 Section 149. No domestic stock or mutual life company, issuing or 2 professing to issue on or after January first, nineteen hundred and eight,
3 any participating policies, shall issue any policies of life or endowment
4 insurance which do not by their terms give to the holders thereof full 5 right to participate in the accumulations of said company as provided 6 in section one hundred and forty. This section shall not apply to annuity 7 or pure endowment contracts.
8 A domestic life company issuing its policies on the non-participating 9 plan may provide therein that, in addition to the rate of interest guar-10 anteed by the company to be paid on deferred payments of the proceeds, 11 excess interest may be paid thereon at such rate as the company may 12 annually declare; and the inclusion in any non-participating policy of 13 such provision shall not be construed to make the policy participating.
FOREIGN COMPANIES.

SECTION 150. Foreign companies, upon complying with the conditions herein set forth applicable to such companies, may be admitted to transact in the commonwealth, as provided in section one hundred and fifty-seven, any kinds of business authorized by this chapter, subject to all general laws now or hereafter in force relative to insurance companies, and subject to all laws applicable to the transaction of such business by foreign companies and their agents; provided, that no provision of law which by its terms applies specifically to domestic life companies shall thereby become applicable to foreign life companies; and provided, further, that the provisions of section eighty-one relative to the contingent mutual liability of members shall not apply to any foreign mutual fire company which had been admitted to transact business in the commonwealth prior to January first, nineteen hundred and twenty-one and was then actually transacting business therein without complying with said provisions.

SECTION 151. No foreign company shall be admitted and authorized to do business until —

First, It has deposited with the commissioner a certified copy of its charter or deed of settlement and a statement of its financial condition and business, in the form prescribed by section twenty-five, and signed and sworn to as provided in said section, and has paid for the filing of such copy and statement the fees prescribed by section fourteen.

Second, It has satisfied the commissioner that (1) it is fully and legally organized under the laws of its state or government to do the business it proposes to transact; that (2) it has, if a stock company, other than a life company, a fully paid-up capital, exclusive of stockholders' obligations of any description, unimpaired on the basis fixed by sections ten to twelve, inclusive, of an amount not less than is required by sections forty-eight and fifty-one of domestic stock companies transacting the same classes of business; that (3), it has, if a mutual company, other than a life company, and (a), if it proposes to transact business under any one of the sixteen clauses of section forty-seven, except the fourth, sixth, eleventh, fourteenth or fifteenth, or under the first and eighth clauses thereof, net cash assets computed on the basis fixed by sections ten to twelve, inclusive, at least equal to the amount of capital required by sections forty-eight and fifty-one of a domestic stock company transacting the same classes of business, or net cash assets, so computed, of not less than fifty thousand dollars and contingent assets of not less than three hundred thousand dollars, or net cash assets, so computed, of not less than seventy-five thousand dollars and contingent assets of not less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars; or (b), if it proposes to transact business under the fourth clause of said section forty-seven, a fully paid-up guaranty capital unimpaired on the basis fixed by sections ten to twelve, inclusive, of not less than two hundred thousand dollars and net cash assets, so computed, exclusive of said guaranty capital, of not less than one hundred thousand dollars; or (c), if it proposes to transact business under the sixth...
clause of said section forty-seven, net cash assets, so computed, of not less than two hundred thousand dollars, or net cash assets, so computed, of not less than one hundred thousand dollars and contingent assets of not less than four hundred thousand dollars; or (d), if it proposes to transact business under the first and second, or under the first, second and eighth clauses of said section forty-seven, net cash assets, so computed, at least equal to the amount of capital required by said sections forty-eight and fifty-one of a domestic stock company transacting the same classes of business, or net cash assets, so computed, of not less than two hundred thousand dollars and contingent assets of not less than four hundred thousand dollars, or (e), if it proposes to transact business under the first, third, the third and eighth, or the first, third and eighth clauses of said section forty-seven, net cash assets, computed as aforesaid, at least equal to the amount of capital required by said sections ten to twelve, inclusive, of not less than three hundred thousand dollars, or net cash assets, so computed, of not less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars and contingent assets of not less than three hundred thousand dollars; or (f), if it proposes to transact business under any two or more of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth clauses of said section forty-seven, net cash assets, computed as aforesaid, at least equal to the amount of capital required by said sections forty-eight and fifty-one of a domestic stock company transacting the same classes of business, or net cash assets, so computed, of not less than seventy-five thousand dollars, and contingent assets of not less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, for each clause under which it proposes to transact business, in addition, in any case, to the guaranty capital and net cash assets required by (b) hereof if it proposes to transact business under said fourth clause, and in addition to the net cash or net cash and contingent assets required by (c) hereof if it proposes to transact business under said sixth clause; that (4) such capital and assets, other than contingent, are well invested and available for the payment of losses in the commonwealth, that the company is in a sound financial condition and that its business policies, methods and management are sound and proper; and (5) that it insures in a single risk wherever located an amount no larger than one tenth of its net assets except as provided in section twenty-one.

Third, It has filed with the commissioner a power of attorney constituting and appointing the commissioner or his successor its true and lawful attorney, upon whom all lawful processes in any action or legal proceeding against it may be served, and wherein shall agree that any lawful process against it which may be served upon its said attorney shall be of the same force and validity as if served on the company, and that the authority thereof shall continue in force irrevocable so long as any liability of the company remains outstanding in the commonwealth. The power of attorney shall be executed by the president and secretary of the company, or other officers duly authorized thereto, under its corporate seal, and shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the resolution of the board of directors of the company making said appointment and authorizing the execution of said power of attorney which shall be in a form prescribed by the commissioner. The service of such process shall be made by leaving the same in duplicate in the hands or office of the commissioner. One of the duplicates of such process, certified by the commissioner as having been served upon him, shall be deemed sufficient evidence thereof, and service upon such attorney shall be deemed service upon the principal.

Fourth, It has appointed as provided in section one hundred and sixty-three a resident or residents of the commonwealth as its agent or agents therein.

Fifth, It has obtained from the commissioner a license stating that it has complied with the laws of the commonwealth and specifying the kinds of business it is authorized to transact, which the commissioner may refuse to issue if he is of the opinion that such refusal will be in the public interest. Every license shall expire on June thirtieth of each year, unless sooner revoked or suspended as provided in section five, but may be renewed by the commissioner on or before said date upon written application of the company, subject to all the provisions of this chapter excepting the provisions of the first and third clauses of this section, applicable to the issue of a new license.

Section 152. No foreign company shall transact in this commonwealth any kind of business not specified in its charter and in its license. Any foreign stock company, or any company described in section one hundred and fifty-five, admitted to the commonwealth, may, if its charter permits, be licensed to transact the kinds of business permitted to domestic stock companies under section fifty-one, subject to the provisions of clause (d) of said section fifty-one and of subdivision (2) of the second clause of section one hundred and fifty-one and of the first clause of said section one hundred and fifty-five. Any foreign mutual company admitted to the commonwealth may, if its charter permits, be licensed to transact the classes of business permitted to domestic mutual companies under section fifty-four, subject to the provisions of clause (c) of said section fifty-four and of subdivision (3) of the second clause of said section one hundred and fifty-one. Any foreign life company admitted to the commonwealth may, if its charter permits, be licensed to transact the kinds of business permitted to domestic life companies under section one hundred and nineteen.

Section 153. A company organized under the laws of any other state of the United States for the transaction of life insurance may, subject to all the provisions of section one hundred and fifty-one so far as applicable to a life company, be admitted and authorized to do business in this commonwealth if, in the opinion of the commissioner, it has the requisite funds of a life company and has policies in force upon not less than one thousand lives in the United States for an aggregate amount of not less than one million dollars. Any such company organized under the laws of a state or government other than one of the United States may be so admitted and authorized, subject to all the provisions of section one hundred and fifty-one as aforesaid, if, in addition to fulfilling all the requirements of this section, it complies with section one hundred and fifty-five, and if it shall have and keep on deposit as provided in section one hundred and fifty-five in the hands of trustees as provided in section one hundred and fifty-six, in exclusive trust for the security of its contracts with policyholders in the United States, funds of an amount equal to the net value of all its policies in the United States, less all indebtedness thereon, and not less than two hundred thousand dollars.
Section 154. When legal process is served upon the commissioner as attorney for a foreign company under the third clause of section one hundred and fifty-one, he shall forthwith forward by mail, postage prepaid, one of the duplicate copies of the process served on him, addressed to the company at its last home office address appearing on his records, or, in the case of a company of a foreign country, to its resident manager in the United States, addressed to him at the last address appearing on said records, or to such other person as may previously have been designated by the company by written notice filed in the office of the commissioner. As a condition of valid and effectual service and of the duty of the commissioner in the premises, there shall be paid to him, except as provided in section fourteen, at the time of service thereof the fee prescribed by said section, which the plaintiff shall recover as taxable costs if he prevails in his suit. The commissioner shall keep a record of all legal processes showing the day and hour of service.

Section 155. A foreign company, if formed under the laws of any government or state other than the United States or one of the United States, shall not be admitted and authorized to do business until, besides complying with the conditions of section one hundred and fifty-one—

First, It has satisfied the commissioner that it has made a deposit with the state treasurer or with the proper board or officer of some other state of the United States of an amount not less than the capital required of domestic companies by sections forty-eight and fifty-one. Such deposit shall be in exclusive trust for the benefit and security of all the company’s policyholders and creditors in the United States, and may be made in the securities and subject to the limitations specified in sections sixty-three and sixty-six. Of such deposit an amount equal to the capital required of domestic companies by this chapter shall be regarded as the deposit capital in the company’s annual statement the same as the capital stock of domestic companies, but the excess of any such deposit shall not be charged to the company as a liability for deposit capital.

Second, It has appointed, as its resident manager in the United States, a citizen or corporation of the United States approved by the commissioner, and has filed with him a certified copy of the record of the appointment of such manager by the directors of the company and a duplicate original of the power of attorney to the United States manager which shall be in a form satisfactory to the commissioner.

Third, It has filed with the commissioner, in such form and detail as he may require, a statement of its trustees appointed under section one hundred and fifty-six showing the funds held by such trustees, signed and sworn to by them, or if the trustee is a corporation, signed and sworn to by its president and secretary or other duly authorized officers.

The documents required by this section and sections one hundred and twenty-five and one hundred and fifty-six shall be executed and authenticated in a manner satisfactory to the commissioner.

Section 156. Any such company may appoint trustees, who are citizens or corporations of the United States and approved by the commissioner, to hold funds in trust for the benefit of its policyholders and creditors in the United States. Said trustees shall be named by the directors of the company, and a certified copy of the record of the appointment of such trustees and a duplicate original of the deed of trust relative thereto in the same manner as he may examine the officers, agents, assets and affairs of companies. The funds so held by such trustees, and all assets held by or for such company within the United States for the benefit of its policyholders and creditors in the United States, so far as the same are in securities, money or credits admissible as sound assets

SECTION 156A. Every foreign company, other than a life company, whose capital stock or guaranty or deposit capital is reduced below the amounts required by section one hundred and fifty-one, one hundred and fifty-two or one hundred and fifty-five, or is impaired on the basis fixed by sections ten to twelve, inclusive, or whose net cash assets, computed on said basis, or whose contingent assets, required by said section one hundred and fifty-one or one hundred and fifty-two, become at any time from any cause less than the amounts required as aforesaid, or whose license has been revoked or suspended as provided in section five, tal or assets have been restored to the amounts required as aforesaid, or said license has been restored by the commissioner, as the case may

Any company or any officer or agent thereof, issuing any policy or making any contract of insurance contrary to this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand

SECTION 157. Foreign companies admitted to do business in the commonwealth shall make contracts of insurance upon lives, property or interests therein, and annuity or pure endowment contracts with residents thereof, only by lawfully constituted and licensed resident agents.

SECTION 158. No policy of insurance and no annuity or pure endowment contract issued to a resident of the commonwealth by an authorized company organized under the laws of a foreign country shall be invaliddated by war between such foreign country and the United States.

SECTION 159. If by the laws of any other state any taxes, fines, penalties, licenses, fees, deposits or other obligations or prohibitions, additional to or in excess of those imposed by the laws of this commonwealth upon foreign companies and their agents, are imposed on domestic companies and their agents doing business in such state, like obligations and prohibitions shall be imposed upon all companies of such state and 7 their agents doing business in this commonwealth so long as such laws remain in force.

1 Section 160. Whoever, for a person other than himself, acts or aids in any manner in the negotiation, continuation, or renewal of a policy of insurance or an annuity or pure endowment contract with a foreign company not lawfully admitted to issue such policies or contracts in this commonwealth shall, except as provided in section one hundred and sixty-eight, be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars; but this section shall not apply to a duly licensed special insurance broker acting under said section one hundred and sixty-eight, nor to any act of a duly licensed insurance broker in negotiating, continuing or renewing policies of insurance on transportation, inland navigation and ocean and coastwise marine risks, or to any insurance appertaining thereto which cannot, to the advantage of the insured, be placed in authorized companies. A person, other than the commissioner or his deputy, upon whose complaint a conviction is had for violation of this section, shall be entitled to one half of the fine recovered upon sentence therefor. 169 Mass. 412. 168 Mass. 506. 173 Mass. 119. 175 Mass. 154. 212 Mass. 450. 183 U. Definitions.

Whoever, for compensation, not being an attorney at law acting in the usual course of his profession, or a trustee or agent of the property insured, directly or indirectly solicits from the insured or his representatives the settlement of a loss under a fire insurance policy shall be an adjuster of fire losses.

1 Section 163. Upon written notice by a company authorized to transact business in the commonwealth of its appointment of a person to act as an agent of the company, the person so appointed shall be immediately entitled to receive from the company all information necessary to enable him to discharge the duties of his office.
as its agent herein, the commissioner shall, if he is satisfied that the appointee is a suitable and competent person of full age and intends to hold himself out and carry on business in good faith as an insurance agent and upon payment by the company of the fee prescribed by section fourteen, issue to him a license which shall state in substance that the company is authorized to do business in the commonwealth, and that the person named therein is the constituted agent of the company in the commonwealth for the transaction of such business as it is authorized to transact therein. Such notice shall be upon a form furnished by the 11 commissioner, and shall be accompanied by a statement executed on 12 oath by the appointee which shall give his name, age, residence, present 13 occupation, his occupation for the five years next preceding the date of 14 the notice, and such other information as the commissioner may require 15 upon a form furnished by him. Such license may limit the authority of 16 the licensee to one or more of the classes of business which the company 17 is authorized to transact, in which case the notice of appointment shall 18 specify, in a manner satisfactory to the commissioner, the class or classes 19 of business to be transacted by the appointee. One or more of such 20 licenses may be issued to the same person. The commissioner may, 21 except as provided in section five, at any time, for cause shown and after 22 a hearing, revoke the license or suspend it for a period not exceeding the 23 unexpired term thereof, and may, for cause shown and after a hearing, 24 revoke the license while so suspended, and shall notify both the company 25 and the agent in writing of such revocation or suspension. A license issued 26 hereunder shall expire on the thirtieth day of June next after its issue, 27 unless sooner revoked or suspended as aforesaid, or unless the company, 28 by a written notice filed with the commissioner, cancels the authority
29 of the agent to act for it. Such license may, in the discretion of the com-30 missioner and upon payment by the company of said fee, be renewed for 31 any succeeding year by a renewal certificate without requiring anew the 32 detailed information hereinbefore specified. Every company shall be 33 bound by the acts of the person named in the license within the scope of 34 his apparent authority as its acknowledged agent while such license 35 remains in force. Whoever, not being a duly licensed insurance broker 36 or an officer of a domestic company acting under section one hundred and 37 sixty-five, acts as an insurance agent as defined in the preceding section, 38 without such license or during a suspension of his license, shall be punished 39 by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than five hundred dollars. 40

Section 164. A collector of premiums who does not solicit applications for or the renewal or continuance of insurance contracts, or act or 1 aid in negotiating such contracts or the continuance or renewal thereof, 2 may carry on such business without a license therefor, provided that the 3 collection fee does not exceed five per cent of any amount collected. 4

Section 165. An officer of a domestic company may without a license act for such company in the negotiation of any contract of insurance 1 or an annuity or pure endowment contract, which it may lawfully make, 2 or in the negotiation of the continuance or renewal of such contracts. 3

Section 166. The commissioner may, upon the payment of the fee 1 prescribed by section fourteen, issue to any suitable person of full age 2 resident in the commonwealth, or resident in any other state of the 3
The commissioner may, in addition to issuing brokers’ licenses giving full authority to the licensee as set forth in the preceding section, issue insurance brokers’ licenses which limit the authority of the licensee to the extent agreed upon with him and set forth in the license, but in other respects the granting of such licenses and the brokers so licensed shall be governed by the laws relating to insurance brokers.

Limited licenses of brokers. 1913, 181.

No fee for a license issued under section one hundred and sixty-six, one hundred and sixty-seven or one hundred and seventy-three shall be required of or on account of any soldier, sailor or marine resident in this commonwealth who has served in the army or navy of the United States in time of war or insurrection and received an honorable discharge therefrom or release from active duty therein, if he presents to the commissioner satisfactory evidence of his identity.

Veterans exempt from payment of certain license fees 1924, 450, § 12. 1929, 232.
SECTION 168. The commissioner may, upon the payment of the fee prescribed by section fourteen, issue to any suitable person of full age resident in the commonwealth, a license to act as a special insurance broker to negotiate, continue or renew contracts of insurance against any of the hazards specified in clause first, fifth, eighth or thirteenth of section forty-seven, on property or interests in this commonwealth in foreign companies not authorized to transact such business therein, upon the following conditions: The applicant for the license shall file with the commissioner a written application as prescribed by section one hundred and sixty-six, which shall be executed on oath by the applicant and kept on file by the commissioner. If the commissioner is satisfied that the applicant is trustworthy and competent, he shall issue the license, subject to suspension or revocation at the pleasure of the commissioner, which shall expire in one year from its date, unless sooner suspended or revoked as aforesaid. The license may, in the discretion of the commissioner, be renewed for each succeeding year, upon the payment of the fee prescribed by section fourteen, without requiring anew the detailed information specified by section one hundred and sixty-six. Before the person named in such license shall procure any insurance in such companies on any such property or interests, he shall in every case execute, and within five days thereafter file with the commissioner, an affidavit, which shall have force and effect for one year only from the date of said affidavit, that he is unable to procure, in companies admitted to do business in the commonwealth, the amount of insurance necessary to protect said property or interests, and that he will procure insurance under such license only after he has procured insurance in companies admitted to do business as aforesaid to the full amount which said companies are willing to write on said property or interests; but such licensed person shall not be required to file such affidavit if one relative to the same property or interests has been filed within the preceding twelve months by any broker licensed under this section, nor to offer any portion of such insurance to any company not possessed of net cash assets of at least twenty-five thousand dollars, nor to one which has within the preceding twelve months been in an impaired condition. Each person so licensed shall keep a separate account of the business done under the license, a certified copy of which account he shall forthwith file with the commissioner, showing the exact amount of such insurance placed for each person, the gross premium charged thereon, the companies in which the same is placed, the date of the policies and the term thereof, and also a report in the same detail of all such policies cancelled, with the gross return premiums thereon, and before receiving such license shall execute and deliver to the state treasurer a bond in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, with such sureties as he shall approve, conditioned that the licensee will faithfully comply with all the requirements of this section, and will annually, in January, file with the state treasurer a sworn statement of the gross premiums charged for insurance procured or placed and the gross return premiums on such insurance cancelled under such license during the year ending on December thirty-first last preceding, and at the time of filing such statement will pay to the commonwealth an amount equal to four per cent of such gross premiums, less such return premiums so reported.

A person licensed under this section who negotiates, continues or renews any such contract of insurance in any unauthorized foreign 54 company, and who neglects to make and file the affidavit and statements 55 required by this section, or who willfully makes a false affidavit or state-56 ment, or who negotiates, continues or renews any such contract of 57 insurance after the revocation or during the suspension of his license, 58 shall forfeit his license if not previously revoked and be punished by a 59 fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars or 60 by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

1 Section 169. An insurance agent or broker acting for a person other 2 than himself in negotiating, continuing or renewing any policy of insur-
3 ance or any annuity or pure endowment contract shall, for the purpose
4 of receiving any premium therefor, be held to be the agent of the com-
5 pany, whatever conditions or stipulations may be inserted in the policy 6 or contract.

1 Section 172. The commissioner may, upon the payment of the fee
2 prescribed by section fourteen, issue to any suitable person of full age a 3 license to act as an adjuster of fire losses upon the following conditions:
4 The applicant for the license shall file with the commissioner a written 5 application as prescribed by section one hundred and sixty-six, which 6 shall be executed on oath by the applicant, and kept on file by the com-7 missioner. If the commissioner is satisfied that the applicant is trust-8 worthy and competent, he shall issue the license, which shall expire in 9 one year from its date, unless sooner revoked or suspended as provided 10 herein. The license may, in the discretion of the commissioner and upon 11 the payment of the fee prescribed by section fourteen, be renewed for 12 any succeeding year without requiring anew the detailed information 13 specified by section one hundred and sixty-six. The commissioner may 14 at any time, for cause shown and after a hearing, revoke the license or 15 suspend it for a period not exceeding the unexpired term thereof, and 16 may, for cause shown and after a hearing, revoke the license while so 17 suspended, and shall notify the licensee in writing of such revocation or 18 suspension. Whoever acts as an adjuster of fire losses, as defined in sec-19 tion one hundred and sixty-two, without such license or during a sus-20 pension of his license, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two 21 hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months.
SECTION 172A. The licenses described in sections one hundred and sixty-three, one hundred and sixty-six, one hundred and sixty-seven, one hundred and sixty-eight and one hundred and seventy-two may, upon payment of the fees prescribed by section fourteen, be issued to any voluntary association, as defined in section one of chapter one hundred and eighty-two, which is organized exclusively for the purpose of acting as insurance agent or broker, or adjuster of fire losses and which, in case of an association organized to act as an insurance agent or broker, by its written instrument or declaration of trust limits the holding and ownership of shares or certificates of participation therein to resident insurance agents and brokers. All the trustees shall be residents of the commonwealth. Such association and the trustees thereof shall be subject to section six of said chapter one hundred and eighty-two. Such licenses, together with the association and the trustees thereof named in the license, shall be subject to the sections of this chapter hereinbefore mentioned, except as otherwise provided herein. Each license shall specify the trustees, not exceeding five, who may act thereunder in the name and on the behalf of the association. Each trustee shall file the statement or application required by law. A duplicate original of the written instrument or declaration of trust creating the association and a certified copy of the by-laws thereof, if any, shall be filed with said statements or applications. The license may be revoked or suspended as to the association or as to any trustee named therein. The trustees shall file with the commissioner within thirty days after the adoption thereof, duplicate originals of all amendments to the written instrument or declaration of trust and certified copies of all amendments to the by-laws, if any. The trustees shall at once notify the commissioner in writing in case of the termination of the association, and upon receipt of such notice the commissioner shall forthwith revoke the license of the association without a hearing. Each trustee specified in the license shall be personally liable to the penalties of the insurance laws for any violation thereof, although the act of violation is done in the name or in the behalf of the association, and shall be personally liable for all of the debts and obligations of the association, notwithstanding any provision in the written instrument or declaration of trust of such association limiting the liability of the trustees thereunder, and such provision, if any, shall be deemed to have been waived by the trustees by their filing the aforesaid statements or applications. The commissioner may at any time require such information as he deems necessary in respect to the association, its trustees, agents or affairs, and may make such examination of its books, records and affairs as he deems necessary and for the aforesaid purposes shall have all the powers conferred by section four. Whoever, being a trustee of an association licensed under this section, fails to file with the commissioner copies of all amendments to the written instrument or declaration of trust, or to the by-laws, if any, or fails to notify the commissioner of the termination of such association, or whoever knowingly or wilfully files with the commissioner false copies of the written instrument or declaration of trust or amendments thereof, or of the by-laws, if any, or amendments thereof, or whoever, being specified in the license of such association as a trustee thereof, acts under said license after the termination of such association, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than five hundred dollars. Sections one hundred and seventy-four A and one hundred and seventy-four B shall apply to licenses issued under this section.
SECTION 173. The licenses described in sections one hundred and sixty-three, one hundred and sixty-six, one hundred and sixty-seven, one hundred and sixty-eight and one hundred and seventy-two may, upon payment of the fees prescribed by section fourteen, be issued to partnerships upon the conditions specified in and subject to said sections, except as otherwise provided herein. Each member of the partnership shall file the statement or application required by law, including a written request that the license be issued in the partnership name. Together with said statements or applications, there shall be filed a duplicate original of the written partnership agreement signed by all the partners. The license shall be issued in the partnership name, and may be revoked or suspended as to one or all members of the partnership. Minors who are parties to the written articles of partnership may be included in the partnership license, provided that there is one adult member of the firm. If the partnership is terminated prior to the expiration of the license, the partners shall forthwith give notice thereof to the commissioner, who shall thereupon without a hearing revoke the license. Each partner shall be personally liable to the penalties of the insurance laws for any violation thereof, although the act of violation is done in the name of or in behalf of the partnership. Whoever, being licensed as a partner under this section, fails to give notice as required herein of the termination of the partnership, or after the partnership is terminated acts under such license, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than five hundred dollars.

SECTION 174. The licenses described in sections one hundred and sixty-three, one hundred and sixty-six, one hundred and sixty-seven, one hundred and sixty-eight and one hundred and seventy-two may, upon payment of the fees prescribed by section fourteen, be issued to any corporation which is incorporated exclusively for the purpose of acting as an insurance agent, broker or adjuster of fire losses, except that no foreign corporation shall be licensed as an insurance agent of a foreign company under said section one hundred and sixty-three or as a special insurance broker under said section one hundred and sixty-eight. Every such license, together with the corporation and officers or directors of the corporation named in the license, shall be subject to said sections, except as otherwise provided herein. Each license shall specify the officers or directors, not exceeding five, who may act thereunder in the name and on behalf of the corporation. Minors may be designated as such officers or directors in the license. Each officer or director to be specified in the license shall file the statement or application required by law. A certified copy of the articles of organization and of the certificate of incorporation shall be filed with the said statements or applications. The license may be revoked or suspended as to the corporation or as to any officer or director specified therein. Every officer or director specified in the license shall be personally liable to the penalties of the insurance laws for any violation thereof, although the act of violation is done in the name and in behalf of the corporation. The corporation shall be liable for any such violation, the responsibility for which cannot be placed on any individual officer or director. The commissioner may at any time require such information as he deems necessary in respect to the corporation, its officers, directors or affairs, and may make such examination of its books and affairs as he deems necessary, and for this purpose shall have the powers conferred upon him by law.
by section four. Any officer, director, agent or employee of such 30 corporation, who fails or refuses to furnish the commissioner any such 31 information within ten days after written request therefor, and in such 32 form as he may require, or who refuses to submit to such examination, 33 or who obstructs the commissioner or any of his deputies or examiners 34 in the making of such examination, shall be punished by the penalty 35 provided in section four.

The clerk or other corresponding officer shall file with the commis- 37 sioner, within thirty days after the adoption thereof, certified copies of 38 all amendments to the articles of organization and shall at once notify 39 the commissioner in writing in case of the dissolution of the corporation. 40 Upon receipt of such notice, the commissioner shall forthwith revoke 41 its license without a hearing. Whoever, being clerk or corresponding 42 officer of a corporation licensed under this section, fails to file with the 43 commissioner duly certified copies of all amendments to the articles of 44 organization of such corporation as provided herein, or fails to notify 45 the commissioner of the dissolution of the corporation, or whoever, being 46 specified in the license of such corporation as an officer or director, acts 47 under said license after the dissolution of such corporation, shall be 48 punished by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than five hundred 49 dollars.

No corporation licensed under this section, and no officer, director, 51 agent or employee thereof, shall directly or indirectly issue, place or 52 negotiate, or negotiate the continuance or renewal of, or offer to issue, 53 place or negotiate, or offer to negotiate the continuance or renewal of, 54 any policy of insurance insuring or in favor of any stockholder in such 55 corporation, except an officer or director thereof specified in its license; 56 and no stockholder thereof, except as aforesaid, shall directly or indi- 57 rectly place or procure through, or accept from, such corporation or any 58 officer, director, agent or employee thereof, any policy of insurance, or 59 any continuance or renewal thereof, insuring or in favor of such stock- 60 holder. No such corporation, and no officer, director, agent or employee 61 thereof, shall directly or indirectly issue, sell or give, or asent to, or 62 record the transfer of, or offer to issue, sell, give or transfer, and no 63 stockholder of such corporation shall directly or indirectly sell, give or 64 transfer, or offer to sell, give or transfer, any of the shares of its capital 65 stock to any person except an officer or director of such corporation 66 specified as aforesaid, if there is in effect a policy of insurance issued, 67 placed or negotiated, or the continuance or renewal whereof was nego- 68 tiated, by or on behalf of such corporation insuring such person or in 69 his favor, and no person, except an officer or director of such corpora- 70 tion specified as aforesaid, shall directly or indirectly accept or hold any 71 of the shares of such capital stock if there is in effect any such insurance 72 policy insuring him or in his favor. A corporation violating any of the 73 provisions of this paragraph shall be punished by a fine of not less than 74 two hundred nor more than one thousand dollars. Any individual 75 violating any of said provisions shall be punished by a fine of not less 76 than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars or by imprison- 77 ment for not more than thirty days, or both.

Section 174A. Notices of hearings required by section one hundred 1 and sixty-three, one hundred and sixty-six, one hundred and sixty-seven, 2 one hundred and seventy-two, one hundred and seventy-three or one 3 hundred and seventy-four or of the revocation or suspension of any 4 5 license issued under any of said sections shall be deemed sufficient when 6 sent postpaid by registered mail to the last business or residence address
7 of the licensee appearing on the records of the commissioner. The affi-8 davit of the commissioner or of any person authorized by him to send 9 such notice that such notice has been sent in accordance with this section 10 shall be prima facie evidence that such notice was duly given.

1 Section 174B. A person licensed under section one hundred and 2 sixty-three, one hundred and sixty-six, one hundred and sixty-seven,
3 one hundred and sixty-eight or one hundred and seventy-two shall, upon 4 the revocation of his license and upon written demand therefor, and a 5 partnership licensed under section one hundred and seventy-three or a 6 corporation licensed under section one hundred and seventy-four shall,
7 upon the revocation of its license as to all the members of the firm or as 8 to the corporation and upon such demand, forthwith surrender his or 9 its license or the renewal certificate thereof to the commissioner. Such 10 partnership or corporation shall, upon the revocation of its license as 11 to less than all of its members or officers and upon such demand, forth-12 with surrender its license or renewal certificate to the commissioner, 13 and he shall thereupon cancel it, and issue an amended license or renewal 14 certificate covering the remaining partners or other officers of the cor-
15 poration and running for the unexpired term of the surrendered license 16 or renewal certificate. Demands hereunder may be served as provided 17 in section one hundred and seventy-four A. If the license or renewal 18 certificate has been lost, stolen or destroyed, an affidavit to that effect 19 shall be filed with the commissioner in such form as he may require.
20 Whoever neglects or refuses to comply with this section or know-
21 ingly and wilfully makes a false affidavit hereunder shall be punished 22 by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred 23 dollars.

1 Section 175. Whoever, not being duly licensed as an insurance agent
2 or broker or as an adjuster of fire losses, represents or holds himself out
3 to the public as being such an agent, broker or adjuster, or as being 4 engaged in the insurance business, by means of advertisements, cards, 5 circulars, letterheads, signs or other methods, or whoever, being duly 6 licensed as such agent, broker or adjuster, advertises as aforesaid or 7 carries on such business in any other name than that stated in his license,
8 shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hun-
9 dred dollars.

1 Section 176. An insurance agent or broker who acts in negotiating
2 or renewing or continuing a policy of insurance or an annuity or pure 3 endowment contract issued by a company lawfully doing business in the 4 commonwealth, and who receives any money or substitute for money
5 as a premium for such a policy or contract from the insured or holder 6 thereof, shall be deemed to hold such premium in trust for the company.
7 If he fails to pay the same over to the company after written demand 8 made upon him therefor, less his commission and any deductions to 9 which, by the written consent of the company, he may be entitled, such 10 failure shall be prima facie evidence that he has used or applied the said 11 premium for a purpose other than paying the same over to the company, 12 and upon conviction thereof he shall be guilty of larceny.
SECTION 177. No company and no officer, agent or employee thereof, and no duly licensed insurance broker, shall, directly or indirectly, pay or allow or offer or agree to pay or allow compensation or anything of value to any person, excepting an officer of a domestic company acting under section one hundred and sixty-five, for acting in this commonwealth as an insurance agent or as an insurance broker, both as defined in section one hundred and sixty-two, who is not then duly licensed as an insurance agent of the company for which he assumes to act or as an insurance broker. Nothing in this section shall affect sections one hundred and eighty-two to one hundred and eighty-four, inclusive. Whoever violates any provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than two hundred dollars.

SECTION 178. The compensation of receivers of insolvent companies shall be fixed by the supreme judicial court. All accounts rendered to the court by such receivers, except those rendered by the commissioner when appointed under section one hundred and seventy-nine, shall be referred to the commissioner.

Such receivers, at the expiration of one year after final settlement ordered by the court, shall report to the court the names and residences, if known, of the persons entitled to money or dividends from the estate of such companies remaining in their hands uncalled for, with the amount due to each. The court shall thereupon order a notice to be given by the receivers and, upon the expiration of one year after the time of giving such notice, the receivers shall in like manner report the amounts still uncalled for. Unless cause shall appear for decreeing otherwise, such amounts shall then be ordered to be paid to the commonwealth, and schedules signed by the receivers shall at the same time be deposited with the state treasurer and comptroller, setting forth the decree of the court and the names and residences, so far as known, of the persons or parties entitled thereto, alphabetically arranged, and the amount due to each. The comptroller shall forthwith cause notice of such deposit to be mailed to such persons, and, upon certification by him that a claimant is entitled to any part of said deposit, it shall be paid in the same manner as other claims against the commonwealth. Upon the payment to the commonwealth of such unclaimed money or dividends by the receiver and the allowance by the court of his final account, or at the expiration of one year after the final settlement ordered by the court, if he then has in his hands no unclaimed money or dividends, he shall deposit with the commissioner all books and papers of such company, including those relative to his receivership, which shall be preserved by the commissioner.

SECTION 179. In any proceeding in which application is made by or at the relation of the commissioner for the appointment, either temporary or permanent, of a receiver of a company, the commissioner or one of his deputies or assistants may, in the discretion of the court, be appointed receiver, and when so appointed shall serve without compensation other than his official salary. When authorized in advance by the court, counsel may be employed, and paid, from the assets of the company, such sums as the court may fix. Expenses, other than those incurred for services in the settlement of the affairs of the company shall, subject to the approval of the court, be paid from its assets.
1 Section 180. The commissioner, his deputy or examiner shall annual or oftener examine the accounts and transactions of all receivers of insolvent companies; and shall also carefully examine all accounts of such receivers referred to him under section one hundred and seventy-five, and make report thereof to the court.

6 For the above purposes, he, his deputy or examiner shall have free access to the official books and papers of such receivers relative to their transactions and shall have all the powers conferred by section four.

9 If in his opinion a receiver has violated his duty in office, or further proceedings by receivers to collect an assessment will not offer substantial relief to creditors, the commissioner shall certify the facts to the court.

1 Section 180A. The receiver of any domestic company shall, within twenty days after his appointment, give notice thereof to all policyholders of the company by written notice, in a form prescribed by the commissioner, sent by mail, postage prepaid, to the last address of the insured appearing on the records of the company, to the address or location given in the policy, or to the last business residence or other address known to the receiver, and also shall within said period cause notice thereof to be published in such form and in such newspapers published in the commonwealth as the commissioner may direct.

Misrepresentations and Rebates.

1 Section 181. No company, no officer or agent thereof and no insurance broker shall make, issue, circulate or use, or cause or permit to be made, issued, circulated or used, any written or oral statement misrepresenting the terms of any policy of insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract issued or to be issued by any company, or the benefits or privileges promised thereunder. No such company, officer, agent or broker shall make any written or oral statement misrepresenting the terms, privileges or benefits of any policy of insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract to any person insured under such policy or holding such contract in any company, in order to induce, or which would tend to induce, any such person to lapse, forfeit or surrender such policy or contract. Violation of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

2 Section 182. No company, no officer or agent thereof and no insurance broker shall pay or allow, or offer to pay or allow, in connection with placing or negotiating any policy of insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract or the continuance or renewal thereof, any valuable consideration or inducement not specified in the policy or contract, or any special favor or advantage in the dividends or other benefits to accrue thereon; or shall give, sell or purchase, anything of value whatsoever not specified in the policy; or shall give, sell, negotiate, deliver, issue, or authorize to issue or offer to give, sell, negotiate, deliver, issue, or authorize to issue any policy of workmen's compensation insurance, or any motor vehicle liability bond or any motor vehicle liability policy, both as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety, at a rate different from that...
fixed, established or approved by the commissioner. No such company, officer, agent or broker shall at any time pay or allow, or offer to pay or allow, any rebate of any premium paid or payable on any policy of insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract.

SECTION 183. No person shall receive or accept from any company or officer or agent thereof, or any insurance broker, or any other person, any such rebate of premium paid or payable on the policy or contract, or any special favor or advantage in the dividends or other benefits to accrue thereon, or any valuable consideration or inducement not specified in the policy or contract or any policy of workmen's compensation insurance, or any motor vehicle liability bond or any motor vehicle liability policy, both as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety, at a rate different from that fixed, established or approved by the commissioner. No person shall be excused from testifying, or from producing any books, papers, contracts, agreements or documents at the trial of any other person charged with violating any provision of this and the preceding section, on the ground that such testimony or evidence may tend to incriminate himself; but no person shall be prosecuted for any act concerning which he shall be compelled so to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, except for perjury committed in so testifying.

SECTION 184. The two preceding sections shall apply to all kinds of insurance, including contracts of corporate suretyship, except those specified in subdivisions (a), (b) and (c) of the second clause of section forty-seven. The said sections shall not prohibit any company from paying a commission to another company or to any person who is duly licensed as an insurance agent of such company or as an insurance broker and who holds himself out and carries on business in good faith as such, or prohibit any such person or any company from receiving a commission in respect to any policy under which he or it is insured, or in respect to any annuity or pure endowment contract held by him; nor shall said sections apply to (1) a distribution, without special favor or advantage, by mutual companies to policyholders of savings, earnings or surplus without specification thereof in the policy, or (2) the furnishing to the insured of information or advice by any company, officer, agent or broker with regard to any risk for the purpose of reducing the liability of loss, or the payment or allowance to the insured of a return premium upon the cancellation or surrender of a policy, or of a cash surrender or other value upon the lapse or surrender of a policy of life or endowment insurance or upon the exchange, alteration or conversion of any such policy under section one hundred and thirty-nine.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

SECTION 185. The state treasurer in his official capacity shall take and hold in trust deposits made by any domestic company for the purpose of complying with the laws of any other state or country to enable such company to do business in such state or country, and also in like manner take and hold any deposit made by a foreign company under any law of this commonwealth. The company making such deposit shall be entitled to the income thereof, and may from time to time, with the consent of the treasurer, when not forbidden by the law under which the 9 deposit is made, change in whole or in part the securities composing the 10 deposit for other approved securities of equal par value.

11 Upon request of any domestic company the state treasurer may return 12 to such company the whole or any portion of the securities of such 13 company held by him on deposit if he shall be satisfied that the securities 14 so asked to be returned are subject to no liability and are not required to 15 be longer held by any provision of law or for the purpose of the original 16 deposit. And he may return to the trustees, or other representative 17 authorized for that purpose, of a foreign company any deposit made by 18 such company if it shall appear that such company has ceased to do 19 business in this commonwealth, and is under no obligation to policy- 20 holders or other persons in this commonwealth or in the United States 21 for whose benefit such deposit was made.

22 A company which has made such deposit, or its trustees or resident 23 manager in the United States, or the commissioner, or any creditor of 24 such company may at any time bring, in the supreme judicial court for 25 the county of Suffolk, a suit in equity against the commonwealth and 26 other parties properly joined therein to enforce, administer or terminate 27 the trust created by such deposit. The process in such suit shall be 28 served on the state treasurer, who shall appear and answer on behalf of 29 the commonwealth and perform such orders and decrees as the court may 30 make thereon.

1 Section 156. No oral or written misrepresentation or warranty 2 made in the negotiation of a policy of insurance by the insured or in his 3 behalf shall be deemed material or defeat or avoid the policy or prevent 4 its attaching unless such misrepresentation or warranty is made with 5 actual intent to deceive, or unless the matter misrepresented or made a 6 warranty increased the risk of loss.

1 Section 157. Policies of life or endowment insurance, group life 2 insurance or insurance against accidental injury or disease issued by a 3 foreign company in this commonwealth may, with the approval of the 4 commissioner, contain any provision required by the law of the state, 5 territory or district of the United States under which the company is 6 organized, which is not contrary to the laws of this commonwealth; and 7 such policies of a domestic company issued in any other state, territory, 8 district or country may contain any provision required by the laws of the 9 state, territory, district or country in which the same are issued.

1 Section 157A. If a suit or action on a policy of insurance, duly com- 2 menced within the time limited by any valid clause of such policy for 3 commencing suits or actions against the company, shall be enjoined or 4 abated, suit or action may be commenced at any time within one year 5 after the dissolution of such injunction or the abatement of such suit 6 or action, to the same extent as if there were no limitation of time pro- 7 vided in the policy for the bringing of such suit or action.
SECTION 187B. A company, or any officer, agent or employee thereof, having actual knowledge that the insured under any policy of insurance has paid the premium thereon to the company, or to its agent who issued the policy, or to the duly licensed insurance broker who negotiated it or its continuance or renewal, who cancels or offers or attempts to cancel any such policy, which provides for cancellation by the company upon giving written notice and paying or tendering to the insured a return premium, without paying or tendering to him with said notice the full return premium thereunder according to its terms without any deductions, or who refuses to pay or tender to the insured the full return premium according to its terms without any deductions upon demand after cancellation by the insured of any such policy which provides for cancellation by the insured and for the payment to him of a return premium, or who refuses to pay or tender to the insured the full return premium according to the terms of the policy without any deductions, upon demand after the full return premium has been ascertained, in the case of such a policy which provides for cancellation by the company upon written notice without paying or tendering the return premium until it has been ascertained, or upon demand after cancellation in the case of such a policy which provides for cancellation by the company upon giving written notice and for the payment of the return premium upon demand after cancellation, shall be punished for the first offence by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars and for each subsequent offence by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars and by imprisonment for not more than six months.

SECTION 187C. A company issuing any policy of insurance which is subject to cancellation by the company shall effect cancellation by serving the notice thereof provided by the policy and by paying or tendering, except as provided in this and the following section, the full return premium due thereunder in accordance with its terms without any deductions. Such notice and return premium, if any, shall be delivered in hand to the insured, or be left at his last address as shown by the company's records or, if its records contain no such address, at his last business, residence or other address known to the company, or be forwarded to said address by registered mail, postage prepaid. A check of the company or its duly authorized agent shall be deemed a sufficient tender. The affidavit of any officer, agent or employee of the company, duly authorized for that purpose, that such notice has been served and such return premium, if any, has been paid or tendered, as provided in this section, shall be prima facie evidence that cancellation has been duly effected.

If a policy is made payable to a mortgagee or any person other than the insured, notice shall be given as above provided to the payee as well as to the insured.

Policies subject to cancellation by the insured upon giving notice to the company may be cancelled by serving such notice in the manner herein provided upon the company or upon its agent who issued the policy.

Whoever knowingly and wilfully makes a false affidavit under this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

This section shall not apply to nor be deemed to prevent the termination of any policy by mutual consent of the parties, nor shall it require the
28. payment or tender of a return premium upon the cancellation of a policy
29. which provides for the payment of a return premium when ascertained
30. or upon demand after cancellation.

1. Section 187D. A company issuing any policy of insurance which
2. provides for cancellation by the company upon giving written notice to
3. the insured and for the payment or tender to the insured of a return
4. premium at any time either before, at or after cancellation, may cancel
5. such policy by giving the notice provided therein in the manner pre-
6. scribed by section one hundred and eighty-seven C without tendering
7. or paying at any time or in any case any return premium thereon, if the
8. insured has not prior to the date of such notice, actually paid the premium
9. thereon either to the company, or to its agent who issued the policy, or
10. to the duly licensed insurance broker who negotiated it or its continuance
11. or renewal.

1. Section 188. A paid officer of a domestic mutual company who
2. asks for, receives or procures to be obtained or uses a proxy to vote in
3. violation of any provision of section seventy-six or ninety-four shall be
4. punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than three
5. hundred dollars.

1. Section 189. A company or any officer or agent thereof who makes
2. issues or delivers a policy of insurance or an annuity or pure endowment
3. contract in violation of this chapter shall, except as otherwise provided,
4. forfeit not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars.

1907, 576, § 29. 1920, 150. 1924, 406, § 16.

1. Section 190. [Repealed, 1924, 406, § 17.]

1. Section 191. The commissioner may require a company to submit
2. for his inspection copies of any policy form used by the company; a
3. form of any rider, endorsement or application used in connection there-
4. with, and copies of any circular or other advertising matter issued by
5. it in the commonwealth. A company, or any officer or agent thereof
6. who, within thirty days after receipt of a written request therefor,
7. neglects or refuses to comply with this section shall be punished by a
8. fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars.

1. Section 192. All provisions of law relative to the filing of policy
2. forms with, and the approval of such forms by, the commissioner shall
3. also apply to all forms of riders, endorsements and applications designed
4. to be attached to such policy forms and when so attached to constitute
5. a part of the contract; provided, that riders or endorsements used at the
6. request of individual policyholders in connection with policies of life or
7. endowment insurance relative to the distribution of benefits payable
8. under their policies or to the reservation of rights or benefits thereunder,
9. and riders or endorsements used under the ninth clause of section ninety-
10. nine in connection with policies of fire insurance issued under section
11. one hundred and two A, may be used, so far as consistent with law,
12. without such approval.
Section 193. Any policy of insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract issued in violation of any provision of this chapter shall be valid and binding upon the company issuing it, and the rights, duties and obligations of the parties thereto shall be determined by this chapter.

Information in equity in superior court to enforce this chapter.
1922, 417, § 1.

Section 193A. The superior court shall have jurisdiction in equity, upon an information filed by the attorney general at the relation of the commissioner, to restrain all violations of this chapter and to enforce compliance with the provisions thereof and payment of all fines, forfeitures or penalties provided thereby. The remedy herein provided shall be in addition to all other remedies otherwise provided by law or by this chapter, and not in substitution therefor.

General penalty.

Section 194. Whoever violates any provision of this chapter, the penalty whereof is not specifically provided for herein, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars.

Section 1. In this chapter the following words shall have the following meanings:

"Commissioner", the commissioner of insurance.
"Fraternal benefit society" or "society", any corporation, association, society, order, fraternity or other organization without capital stock, organized and carried on solely for the mutual benefit of its members or their beneficiaries, and not for profit, and either with a lodge system, with ritualistic form of work and representative form of government, or without a lodge system, under the direct control of its members, which makes provision for the payment of death or disability benefits or both.

Section 2. Any such society shall be deemed to be operating on the lodge system when it has a supreme governing or legislative body, and subordinate lodges or branches, by whatever name known, to which members are elected, initiated and admitted in accordance with its constitution, by-laws, and prescribed ritualistic ceremonies, and the subordinate lodges or branches of which are required by the by-laws of such society to hold regular or stated meetings at least once in each month.

Section 3. Any such society shall be deemed to have a representative form of government when it shall provide in its constitution and by-laws for a supreme legislative or governing body, composed of representatives elected either by the members or by delegates elected directly or indirectly by the members, together with such other members as may be prescribed by its constitution and by-laws; provided, that the elective members shall have not less than two thirds of the votes nor less than the number of votes required to amend its constitution and by-laws; and provided, further, that the meetings of the supreme governing body and the election of officers, representatives or delegates shall be held as often as once in four years. The members, offic-

Section 4. A corporation which limits its membership to the members of a particular fraternal beneficiary corporation, fraternity or religious denomination, or to the graduates of a designated professional or vocational school, or to the employees or ex-employees of cities or towns or of the commonwealth or of the federal government, or to the employees or ex-employees of a designated firm, business house or corporation, or of any department of a designated firm, business house or corporation, or to persons of the same foreign extraction retaining common national interests and designation, or to persons of the same occupation, may be on the lodge system, and if not on the lodge system shall be governed by a direct vote of its members without the lodge system. A corporation not so limiting its membership shall be on the lodge system, with a representative form of government as defined in sections two and three.

Section 5. Societies shall be governed by this chapter, and shall be exempt from all other provisions of the insurance laws of the commonwealth except sections sixteen and one hundred and seventy-eight to one hundred and eighty, inclusive, of chapter one hundred and seventy-five, not only in governmental relations with the commonwealth, but for every other purpose; and no law hereafter enacted shall apply to them unless they are expressly designated therein.

Section 6. Seven or more persons, residents of the commonwealth, may form a corporation for the purposes set forth in this chapter. The agreement of association shall state that the subscribers thereto associate themselves with the intention of forming a corporation, the corporate name assumed, the purpose for which it is formed, and the town, which shall be in the commonwealth, in which it is established or situated. The name shall not so closely resemble the name of any corporation or insurance company already transacting business in the commonwealth as to mislead the public or lead to confusion. Any lawful social, intellectual, educational, charitable, benevolent, moral or religious advantages may be set forth among the purposes of the corporation. If the corporation limits its membership as provided in section four, the agreement of association shall state the maximum amounts of benefits to be paid, and shall designate to which one of the classes mentioned in said section its membership is restricted.

Section 7. The first meeting of the associates shall be called by a notice, signed by one or more of the subscribers to the agreement, stating the time, place and purpose of the meeting; a copy of the notice shall, seven days at least before the date appointed for the meeting, be given to each subscriber, or left at his usual place of business or place of residence, or deposited in the post office, postpaid, addressed to him at his usual place of business or residence. Whoever gives such notice shall make an affidavit of his doings, which shall be recorded in the records of the corporation. At such first meeting, including any reasonable adjournment thereof, an organization shall be effected by the choice by ballot of a temporary clerk, who shall be sworn, and by the adoption of...
12 of by-laws, and the election by ballot of directors, president, secretary 13 and treasurer, or other officers corresponding thereto, with powers and 14 duties similar to those of such officers, and such other officers as the 15 by-laws may provide for; but at such election no person shall be eligi-
16 ble as a director or other officer who has not subscribed the agreement 17 of association. The temporary clerk shall make and attest a record of 18 the proceedings until the secretary has been chosen and sworn, including 19 a record of such choice and qualification. The president, secretary 20 and a majority of the directors, or other officers corresponding thereto, 21 shall forthwith make, sign and swear to a certificate of organization 22 in duplicate, setting forth a true copy of the agreement of association, 23 with the names of the subscribers thereto, the date of the first meeting
24 and of the successive adjournments thereof, if any; and said certificate
25 of organization and duly certified copy of the by-laws, and copies of all 26 proposed forms of benefit certificates, applications therefor and litera-27 ture to be issued by the corporation shall be filed with the commis-28 sioner, who may require such further information as he deems neces-29 sary; and if the purposes and by-laws of the corporation conform to 30 the requirements of this chapter and all its provisions have been com-31 plied with, the commissioner shall so certify, and place on file the agree-32 ment of association, one of the duplicate certificates of organization, 33 and a copy of the by-laws approved by him.

1 Section 5. The commissioner shall then furnish the incorporators
2 of any such society, if on the lodge plan, with a preliminary license, 3 authorizing it to solicit members for the purpose of completing its or-4 ganization. It shall collect from each applicant the amount of not 5 more than one periodical benefit assessment or payment, in accordance 6 with its tables of rates as provided by its constitution and by-laws, 7 and shall issue to every such applicant a receipt for the amount so 8 collected. But no such society shall incur any liability other than 9 for such advance payments, nor issue any benefit certificate, nor pay or 10 allow, or offer or promise to pay or allow, to any person any death or 11 disability benefit until actual bona fide applications for death or disa-12 ability benefit certificates, as the case may be, have been secured from 13 at least five hundred persons, and all such applicants for death bene-14 fits shall have been regularly examined by legally qualified practicing 15 physicians, and certificates of such examinations have been duly filed 16 and approved by the chief medical examiner of the society; nor until 17 there shall be established ten subordinate lodges or branches, in which 18 said five hundred applicants have been initiated; nor until there has 19 been submitted to the commissioner, on oath of the president and secre-20 tary or corresponding officers of such society, a list of the said appli-21 cents, giving their names, addresses, date of examination, date of ap-22 proval, date of initiation, name and number of the subordinate branch 23 of which each applicant is a member, amount of benefits to be granted, 24 and rate of regular payments or assessments, which for societies offering 25 death benefits shall not be lower for death benefits than those required 26 by the National Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality as adopted by 27 the National Fraternal Congress August twenty-third, eighteen hundred 28 and ninety-nine, or any higher standard at the option of the society, 29 with an interest assumption not higher than four per cent per annum;
30 nor until it shall be shown to the commissioner, by the sworn statement 31 of the treasurer or corresponding officer of such society, that at least five hundred applicants for death benefits have each paid in cash one regular 32 payment or assessment as herein provided, and the payments in the 33 aggregate shall amount to at least twenty-five hundred dollars, all of 34 which shall be credited to the mortuary or disability fund on account of 35 the applicants, and no part of which may be used for expenses. Such 36 advance payments shall, during the period of organization, be held in trust 37 for the applicants, and, if the organization is not completed within one 38 year as hereinafter provided, shall be returned to them. The commissioner may make such examination and require such further information 40 as he deems advisable; and upon presentation of satisfactory evidence 41 that the society has complied with all the provisions of this chapter, he 42 shall issue to the society a certificate to that effect.
39
43

SECTION 9. The society shall file a certificate of organization, with the 44 certificate of the commissioner endorsed thereon, and if on the lodge plan 45 also the certificate required by the preceding section, in the office of the 46 state secretary, who, upon the receipt of five dollars, shall issue a certifi-47 cate in the following form:
48

Be it known that whereas (here the names of the subscribers to the agreement of the association shall be inserted) have associated themselves with the intention of forming a corporation under the name of (here the name of the commissioner shall be inserted), for the purpose (here the purpose declared in the agreement of association shall be inserted), and have complied with the provisions of the statutes of the commonwealth in such case made and provided, as appears from the certificate of officers of said corporation, duly certified by the commissioner of insurance and recorded in this office: Now, therefore, I (here the name of the secretary shall be inserted), secretary of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, do hereby certify that said (here the names of the subscribers to the agreement of association shall be inserted), their associates and successors, are legally organized and established as, and are hereby made a corporation, under the name of (here the name of the corporation shall be inserted), with the powers, rights and privileges, and subject to the limitations, duties and restrictions which by law appertain thereto. Witness my official signature hereunto subscribed, and the great seal of the commonwealth of Massachusetts hereunto affixed, this day of in the year

(In these blanks the day, month and year of the execution of the certificate shall be inserted.)

The state secretary shall sign the same and cause the seal of the commonwealth to be affixed thereto, and the certificate shall be conclusive evidence of the existence of the corporation at the date of the certificate.
He shall also cause a record of the certificate to be made, and a certified copy of the record may be given in evidence with like effect as the original.

SECTION 10. If any society fails to secure its certificate of incorporation and to begin business within one year after the date of receiving the certificate of the commissioner, as provided in section seven, its agreement of association and all proceedings thereunder shall become null and void; and if any domestic corporation subject to this chapter ceases to do business for the period of one year, its charter or certificate of incorporation shall become null and void.

SECTION 11. A domestic fraternal benefit corporation may, with the approval of the commissioner, change the purposes for which it was 3 incorporated so as to permit it to transact any business authorized by this chapter. Upon such approval the presiding, financial and recording officers, and a majority of its other officers having the powers of directors, shall file in the office of the state secretary a certificate, with the approval of the commissioner endorsed thereon, setting forth the change in the purposes of the corporation. The state secretary shall, upon receipt of five dollars, cause such certificate to be filed in his office.

10 Every domestic fraternal beneficiary corporation may exercise all the rights, powers and privileges conferred by this chapter, including the powers specified in section thirty-two, or its certificate of incorporation or charter, not inconsistent herewith, and shall be subject to this chapter, as if reincorporated hereunder.

1 Section 12. No domestic society shall merge with or accept the transfer of the membership or funds of any other society unless such merger or transfer is evidenced by a written contract, setting out in full the terms and conditions of the merger or transfer, and filed with the commissioner, together with a sworn statement by the president and secretary, or corresponding officers, of each of said societies of its financial condition, and a sworn certificate of the said officers of each of the contracting societies that the merger or transfer has been approved by a vote of two thirds of the members of the supreme legislative or governing body of each of said societies.

11 Upon the submission of said contract, financial statements and certificates, the commissioner shall examine them, and if he shall find the said financial statements correct, and the said contract in conformity with this section, and that the merger or transfer is just and equitable to the members of each of said societies, he shall approve the merger or transfer, issue his certificate to that effect, and thereupon the said contract of merger or transfer shall be of full force and effect; provided, that no such merger proposed by two societies not incorporated in the same state shall go into effect until approved by the commissioner, or corresponding officer, of each state incorporating the societies involved in the proposed transaction, nor until their joint certificate of approval of the contract therefor is issued.

1 Section 13. Any society may create, maintain, invest, disburse and apply a death fund, any part of which may in accordance with the by-laws of the society be designated and set apart as an emergency fund, a surplus or other similar fund, and a disability fund. Such funds shall be held, invested and disursed for the use and benefit of the society, and no member or beneficiary shall have or acquire individual rights therein, or become entitled to any part thereof, except as provided in section sixteen, seventeen or nineteen. The funds from which benefits shall be paid shall be derived and the fund from which the expenses of the society shall be defrayed may be derived from periodical or other payments by the members of the society and accretions of said funds, provided, that no society shall be incorporated, and no society not authorized on January first, nineteen hundred and twelve, to do business in the commonwealth shall be admitted to transact business therein, which does not provide for stated periodical contributions sufficient to meet the mortuary obligations contracted, when valued upon the basis of the National Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality as adopted by the National Fraternal Congress August twenty-third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, or any higher standard, with interest assumption not more than four per cent per annum, except societies providing benefits for disability or death from accident only.

Section 14. Every provision of the by-laws of the society for payment by members of such society, in whatever form made, shall distinctly state the purposes of the same and the proportion thereof which may be used for expenses, and no part of the money collected for mortuary or disability purposes or the net accretions of either or any of said funds shall be used for expenses.

Section 15. Deferred payments or instalments of claims shall be considered as fixed liabilities on the happening of the contingency upon which such payments or instalments are thereafter to be paid. Such liability shall be the present value of such future payments or instalments upon the rate of interest and mortality assumed by the society for establishing contributions and for valuation; and every society shall at once, upon the filing of due proofs of the happening of the contingency, set apart a fund to meet such deferred payments, regardless of proposed future collections to meet any such payments, and hold such fund, with its interest accretions, in trust for the beneficiary entitled thereto.

No society shall provide for such deferred payments or instalments unless it possesses the full reserve specified in the following section, or, if paying accident benefits only, has assets sufficient to pay all its liabilities.

Section 16. Any society which shows by the annual valuation hereinafter provided for that it is accumulating and maintaining the tabular reserve required by a table of mortality not lower than the National Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality as adopted by the National Fraternal Congress August twenty-third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine and four per cent interest, and which has provided for stated periodical mortuary contributions based on said standard, or which shows that its stated periodical mortuary contributions for the period of the five years next preceding, at rates at no time higher than those in use following said period, were sufficient to pay the actual claims and maintain the aforesaid reserve for said period without recourse to the reserves released by the lapsing of certificates, and without falling below said standard for any two consecutive years of said period, may grant to its members such extended or paid-up protection or such withdrawal of its constitution and by-laws may provide; provided, that such grants shall be equitable, and shall in no case exceed in value the portion of the reserve derived from the payments of the individual members to whom they are made.

Section 17. Whenever it appears by a valuation certified to by a competent actuary that the actual assets of a society exceed its liabilities, including in liabilities the tabular reserves computed on the basis specified in the preceding section, by an amount equal to five per cent of said reserves, increased by an amount equal to all its other mortuary
6 liabilities, it may, by vote of its officers having the powers of directors, 7 and for such period as its assets are maintained as aforesaid, waive the 8 further collection of the regular mortuary contributions from its mem- 9 bers. A society maintaining a surplus of assets in excess of such amount 10 as enables it to waive contributions as aforesaid may pay back to its 11 several members an equitable portion of such surplus in such manner as 12 may be determined by vote of said officers.

1 Section 18. Every society shall invest its funds in securities per- 2 mitted by chapter one hundred and seventy-five for the investment of 3 the capital of insurance companies or may deposit the same in any sav- 4 ings bank, or savings department of a trust company, chartered under 5 the laws of the commonwealth; provided, that any foreign society per- 6 mitted or seeking to do business in the commonwealth may invest its 7 funds in accordance with the laws of the state where it is incorporated, 8 and provided, further, that a part thereof, not exceeding twenty per 9 cent of its death fund, may be invested in a building for use and occu- 10 pation by the society as its home office; and that a society having 11 branches situated in the Dominion of Canada may invest a part of its 12 death fund in the public funds of the Dominion of Canada, or of any 13 province of the Dominion of Canada, not exceeding in the aggregate an 14 amount equal to the sum of its collected premiums for the four months 15 last past.

1 Section 19. Every society may provide for the payment of death 2 benefits, and may provide for the payment of benefits in case of tempo- 3 rary or permanent physical disability, either as the result of disease, 4 accident or old age; provided, that the period of life at which the pay- 5 ment of benefits for disability on account of old age shall commence 6 shall not be under seventy years. Such society may give a member, 7 when permanently disabled, or on attaining the age of seventy, all or 8 such portion of the face value of his certificate as the by-laws of the 9 society may provide; provided, that this chapter shall not prevent the 10 issuing of benefit certificates, for a term of years less than the whole 11 of life, which are payable upon the death or permanent disability of the 12 member occurring within the term for which the benefit certificate is 13 issued. Such society may, upon written application of a member, accept 14 a part of the periodical contributions for mortuary purposes in cash and 15 charge the remainder, not exceeding one half of the periodical contri- 16 butions, against the certificate, with interest payable or compounded 17 annually at a rate not lower than four per cent per annum; provided, 18 that this privilege shall not be exercised except by societies which have 19 readjusted or may hereafter readjust their rates of contributions, and 20 then only as to contracts affected by such readjustment, and provided, 21 further, that the yearly amount and the amount in the aggregate of 22 such charges against the certificates of members, including interest 23 charged, as cannot be collected on account of the lapsing of members 24 against whose certificates such charges have been made, shall be stated 25 in the records of the proceedings of the annual or other regular meet- 26 ings of the society. Such society providing on January first, nineteen 27 hundred and twelve, for tombstones to the memory of deceased members 28 may continue such provision, but not at an expense in excess of one 29 hundred dollars for any member.
Section 20. A certificate issued by any society shall specify the amount of death benefit provided thereby; and the certificate, the charter or articles of organization, or, if it is a voluntary association, the articles of association, the constitution and by-laws of the society and the application for membership and medical examination, if any, signed by the applicant, and all amendments to each thereof, shall constitute the agreement between the society and the members; and copies of the same, certified by the secretary of the society or corresponding officer, shall be received in evidence of the terms and conditions thereof.

Any changes, additions or amendments to said charter, articles of incorporation, or articles of association, constitution or by-laws duly made or enacted subsequent to the issuance of a benefit certificate shall bind the member and his beneficiaries, and shall govern and control the agreement in all respects in the same manner as if such changes, additions or amendments had been made prior to and were in force at the time of the application for membership. The foregoing provision shall be incorporated in substance in every benefit certificate hereafter issued.

Section 21. Death benefits shall be payable only to the wife, husband, relative by blood, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, stepfather, stepmother, stepchild, betrothed, adopted children or adoptive parents, or to persons dependent upon the member; provided, that if after the issuance of the original certificate the member, his wife or minor children shall become dependent upon an incorporated charitable institution or upon a home situated within the commonwealth and incorporated under the laws thereof and maintained and supported by any secret fraternity or order for the care and maintenance of its aged, infirm, indigent or unfortunate members, or for the care and support of a wife or widow of such a member, or for the care, support and education of minor children of such members or of deceased members, the member shall have the privilege, with the consent of the society, of making such institution or home his beneficiary to the full amount becoming due or payable under said certificate, or to the extent of the amount disbursed for the benefit of said member, his wife, widow or child, by such charitable institution or home at the rate of average cost of maintenance or care thereof during the period such member, his wife, widow or children shall be so cared for, together with any sums expended by such institution or home for assessments, dues, tax or other payments by reason of such benefit certificate and, subject to the limitation of this section, another person as beneficiary of the remainder. Within the above restrictions each member shall have the right to designate his beneficiary, and from time to time have the same changed in accordance with the by-laws of the society; and no beneficiary shall have or obtain any vested interest in the said benefit until the same has become due and payable upon the death of the said member; provided, that any society may by its by-laws limit the scope of beneficiaries within the above classes. If a benefit certificate has been lawfully issued and the beneficiary therein named, and the husband, wife, betrothed, child, adopted child, parent, adoptive parent, or persons dependent upon the member named in the benefit certificate have all died, the member, with the consent of the officers of the society and under such rules as they may prescribe,

Section 22. Any society may provide in its by-laws that a part of 2 the amount payable as a death benefit may be used to pay the funeral 3 expenses of the insured; provided, that the amount so paid shall not 4 exceed one hundred dollars, and shall be deducted from the amount 5 payable as a death benefit.

Section 23. Any society operating on the lodge system may provide 2 in its constitution and by-laws, in addition to other benefits provided 3 for therein, for the payment of death, endowment or annuity benefits 4 upon the lives of children between the ages of one and eighteen years at 5 the next birthday, for whose support and maintenance a member of the 6 society is responsible. Any such society may at its option organize and 7 operate branches for such children, and membership in local lodges and 8 initiation therein shall not be required of such children, nor shall they 9 have any voice in the management of the society. The total death ben- 10 fits payable as above provided shall in no case exceed the following 11 amounts at ages at the next birthday after death, respectively, as fol- 12 lows: one, twenty-five dollars; two, fifty dollars; three, seventy-five 13 dollars; four, one hundred dollars; five, one hundred and thirty dollars; 14 six, one hundred and seventy-five dollars; seven, two hundred dollars; 15 eight, two hundred and fifty dollars; nine, three hundred and twenty- 16 five dollars; ten, four hundred dollars; eleven, five hundred dollars; 17 twelve, six hundred dollars; thirteen, seven hundred dollars; fourteen, 18 eight hundred dollars; fifteen, nine hundred dollars; and sixteen to 19 eighteen years, where not otherwise authorized by law, one thousand 20 dollars.

Section 24. No death benefit certificate as to any child shall take 2 effect until after medical examination or inspection by a licensed medical 3 practitioner, in accordance with the by-laws of the society, nor shall any 4 such benefit certificate be issued unless the society shall simultaneously 5 put in force at least five hundred such certificates, on each of which at 6 least one assessment has been paid, nor where the number of lives repre- 7 sented by such certificates falls below five hundred. The death benefit 8 contributions to be made upon such certificate shall be based upon the 9 Standard Industrial Mortality Table or the English Life Table Number 10 Six, with a rate of interest not greater than four per cent per annum, or 11 upon a higher standard; provided, that contributions may be waived 12 or returns may be made from any surplus held in excess of reserve and 13 other liabilities, as provided in the by-laws; and provided, further, 14 that extra contributions shall be made if the reserves provided for in 15 the following section become impaired. Such a society may grant to the 16 holder of such a certificate such extended or paid-up protection or such 17 withdrawal equities as its constitution and by-laws may provide, but in 18 no case to exceed in value the reserve held against the individual 19 certificate.
Sect. 25. Any society entering into insurance agreements under section twenty-three shall maintain on all such contracts the reserve required by the standard of mortality and interest adopted by the society for computing contributions as provided in section twenty-four; and the funds representing the benefit contributions and all accretions thereto shall be kept as separate and distinct funds, independent of the other funds of the society, and shall not be liable for nor used for payment of the debts and obligations of the society other than the benefits herein authorized; provided, that a society may provide that when a child reaches the minimum age for initiation into membership in such society, any benefit certificate issued under sections twenty-three to twenty-eight, inclusive, may be surrendered for cancellation and exchanged for any other form of certificate issued by the society; provided, also, that such surrender will not reduce the number of lives insured in any children's branch below five hundred, and upon the issuance of such new certificate any reserve upon the original certificate herein provided for shall be transferred to the credit of the new certificate. Neither the person who originally made application for benefits on account of such child, nor the beneficiary named in such original certificate, nor the person who paid the contribution shall have any vested right in such new certificate, the free nomination of a beneficiary under the new certificate being left to the child so admitted to benefit membership.

Sect. 26. An entirely separate financial statement of the business transactions, and of assets and liabilities arising therefrom, shall be made in its annual statement to the commissioner by any society availing itself of sections twenty-three to twenty-eight, inclusive. The separation of assets, funds and liabilities required hereby shall not be terminated, rescinded or modified, nor shall the funds be diverted for any use other than as specified in the preceding section, as long as any certificates issued under sections twenty-three to twenty-eight, inclusive, remain in force; and this requirement shall be recognized and enforced in any liquidation, reinsurance, merger or other change in the condition or status of the society.

Sect. 27. Any society may provide in its by-laws and in the certificate issued under sections twenty-three to twenty-eight, inclusive, for specified payments on account of the expense or general fund, which may be mingled with the general fund of the society or not as its constitution and by-laws may provide.

Sect. 28. In case of the termination of membership in the society by the person responsible for the support of any child on whose account a certificate has been issued under sections twenty-three to twenty-eight, inclusive, the certificate may be continued for the benefit of the estate of the child, or for the benefit of any other person responsible for the support and maintenance of such child, provided the contributions are continued.

Sect. 29. The beneficiary under a certificate issued by any society may maintain an action thereon in his own name.
Section 30. Money or other benefit, charity or relief or aid, to be paid, provided or rendered by any society, shall not be attached or taken upon execution or other process or by operation of law to pay any debt or liability of a member or beneficiary, or of any other person who may have a right thereunder, either before or after payment.

Section 31. Except as provided in sections twenty-three to twenty-eight, inclusive, any society may admit to beneficial membership any person, not less than sixteen and not more than sixty years of age, who has been examined by a legally qualified physician if the examination has been supervised and approved in accordance with the by-laws of the society; provided, that any member of such society who shall apply for a certificate providing for benefits on account of disability from sickness or injury, or death by accident only, need not be required to pass a medical examination therefor. This section shall not prevent such society from accepting general or social members.

Section 32. Every society may, subject to this chapter, make a constitution and by-laws for its government, admission of members, management of its affairs, and the fixing and readjusting of the rates and contributions of its members from time to time, and may amend its constitution and by-laws, and it shall have such other powers as are necessary or incidental to carry into effect its objects and purposes. The constitution and by-laws may prescribe the officers and elected members of standing committees, who may be ex officiis directors or other officers corresponding thereto.

Section 33. Any domestic society may provide that the meetings of its legislative or governing body may be held in any state or province wherein such society has subordinate branches, and all business transacted at such meetings shall be as valid in all respects as if such meetings were held in this Commonwealth. But its principal office shall be situated in this Commonwealth.

Section 34. The constitution and by-laws of the society shall be binding on it, on every member thereof, and on all beneficiaries of members, and shall provide that no subordinate body nor any of its subordinate officers or members shall have power or authority to waive any provision thereof, and otherwise there shall be no waiver excepting as provided in this constitution and by-laws of the supreme body shall specifically permit.

Section 35. The recording officer of every society shall file with the commissioner a duly certified copy, in English, of all amendments of or additions to its constitution and by-laws, within ninety days after their adoption. Printed copies of the constitution and by-laws, as amended, changed or added to, certified by the secretary or corresponding officer of the society, shall be prima facie evidence of the same and of the legal adoption thereof.
Section 36. The commissioner, or any person designated by him, may examine the affairs of any domestic society. He may employ assistants for the purpose of such examination, and he or any person designated by him shall have free access to all the books, papers and documents relating to the business of the society, and may summon and qualify as witnesses on oath and examine its officers, agents and employees and other persons in relation to the affairs, transactions and condition of the society. Whoever, without justifiable cause, neglects, when duly summoned as aforesaid, to appear and testify before the commissioner or his authorized representative, or whoever obstructs the said commissioner or his representative in making an examination under this section, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

Whenever the commissioner is satisfied that any domestic society has failed to comply with any provision of this chapter, or that it has exceeded its powers, or that it is not carrying out its contracts in good faith, or that it is transacting business fraudulently, or that its management or condition is such as to render its further transaction of business hazardous to the public, its members or creditors, or whenever any such society, after the existence of one year or more, shall have a membership of less than four hundred, or shall determine to discontinue business, or whenever any such society, or any of its officers or agents, refuses to submit to an examination under this section or to perform any legal obligation relative thereto, the commissioner may present the relevant facts to the attorney general, who shall, if he deems the circumstances warrant, begin a quo warranto proceeding in the supreme judicial court. The court may forthwith issue a temporary injunction restraining the society from further transacting any business, and it may, after a full hearing, if it then appears that the society should be dissolved, make the injunction permanent, and appoint one or more receivers to take possession of the books, papers, moneys and other assets of the society, and to settle its affairs, and to distribute its funds to those entitled thereto, subject to such rules and orders as the court may prescribe.

No such proceedings shall be begun by the attorney general until after the commissioner has given written notice to the chief executive officers of the society and has afforded a reasonable opportunity, on a date named in such notice, to show cause why such a proceeding should not be begun, nor shall such a proceeding be entertained unless brought by the attorney general.

Section 37. After an examination of any society, either domestic or foreign, has been begun, the commissioner shall make public no financial statement, report or finding affecting the status, standing or rights of the society until a copy thereof shall have been served upon the society at its home office, and the society shall have been afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard regarding such financial statement, report or finding; but the commissioner may use such facts as come to his knowledge for the purpose of securing an injunction as provided in the preceding section.

A report of an examination made under section thirty-six or forty-four may, as far as material and relevant, be admitted, in the discretion of the court, in any judicial proceeding under section thirty-six or forty-three, as prima facie evidence of the facts set forth in such report; but nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to require the commissioner to make an examination of a domestic society under section thirty-six before presenting the facts to the attorney general under said section, or to make an examination of a foreign society under section forty-four before re-suing to issue a license to such a society under section forty-one or revoxing the license of such a society under section forty-three.

1 Section 38. Every society shall annually, on or before March first, file with the commissioner, in such form as he may require, a statement on oath of its president, secretary, treasurer and chief accountant or corresponding officers, of its condition and standing on December thirty-first next preceding, and of its transactions for the year ending on that date; and also shall furnish such other information as the commissioner may deem necessary to a proper exhibit of its business and plan of working. The commissioner may at other times require any further statement relating to such society which he may deem necessary.

1 Section 39. In addition to the annual statement required by the preceding section, every society on the lodge system authorized to pay benefits in the commonwealth upon the death of its members, except those societies which do not pay benefits for death from natural causes, shall annually report to the commissioner a valuation of its certificates providing for death benefits in force on December thirty-first next preceding. The report shall show, as contingent liabilities, the present mid-year value of the death benefits promised in the outstanding contracts of the society, and as contingent assets, the present mid-year value of the future net mortuary contributions provided in the constitution and by-laws as the same are in practice actually collected, not including therein any value for the right to make extra assessments.
At the option of any such society, in lieu of the above, the valuation may show the net mid-year value of the outstanding contracts; and said net value, when computed in case of monthly contributions, may be the mean of the terminal values for the end of the preceding and of the current insurance years, the right to make extra assessments being excluded from consideration. The valuation shall be certified by a competent accountant or actuary, or at the request and expense of the society, verified by the actuary of the department of insurance of the home state of the society, and shall be filed with the commissioner on or before April thirtieth next after the submission of the last preceding annual statement. The legal minimum standard of valuation shall be the National Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality as adopted by the National Fraternal Congress August twenty-third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine; or, at the option of the society, any higher mortality table; or, at its option, it may use a mortality table based on the society’s own experience of at least twenty years, and covering not less than one hundred thousand lives, with interest assumption not higher than four per cent per annum, whichever mortality table is adopted. Every such report shall set forth clearly and fully the mortality and interest basis and the method of valuation. Any society providing for disability or accidental death benefits, or both, shall keep the net contributions for such benefits in a fund separate and apart from all other benefit funds and from expense funds. The valuation herein provided for shall not be considered or regarded in any action that may arise as a test of the financial solvency of the society, but each society shall be held to be legally solvent so long as the funds in its possession are equal to or in excess of its liabilities, not including in the term "liabilities" any charge for reserve computed as in this section required.

Such report of valuation and an explanation of the facts concerning the condition of the society thereby disclosed shall be sent to each member of the governing body of the society not later than June first of each year; or in lieu thereof, such report of valuation and showing of the society's condition as thereby disclosed may be published in the society's official paper, and the issue containing the same shall be mailed to each beneficiary member of the society.

Section 39A. Any society may, in the annual statement required by section thirty-eight, value its bonds or other evidences of debt having a fixed term and rate and not in default as to principal or interest and if amply secured, in accordance with the following rule: — If purchased at par, at the par value; if purchased above or below par, on the basis of the purchase price adjusted so as to bring the value to par at maturity and so as to yield meantime the effective rate of interest at which the purchase was made; provided that the purchase price shall in no case be taken at a higher figure than the actual market value at the time of purchase, and provided, further, that the commissioner shall have discretion in determining the method of calculating values according to the foregoing rule; and provided, also, that any society may return such bonds or other evidences of debt at either their market or their book value but in no event at any aggregate value exceeding the aggregate of the values calculated according to the foregoing rule.

Section 40. If the stated periodical contributions of the members of such society are insufficient to pay all reported death and disability claims in full, and to provide for the creation and maintenance of the funds required by its by-laws or by this chapter, additional contributions or additional, increased or extra rates of contribution shall be collected from its members to meet the deficiency, and the by-laws of the society shall so provide; and such by-laws may provide that upon the written application or consent of the member his certificate may be charged with its proportion of any deficiency disclosed by valuation, with interest not exceeding five per cent per annum.

In rating its members or for the purpose of placing itself on a sounder financial basis, any domestic society and any foreign society now admitted to this commonwealth, if it be not in conflict with the laws of its domicile, may, if "legally solvent" as defined in the preceding section, establish by its constitution and by-laws a separate class of members who shall make mortuary contributions on the basis prescribed in section eight, to which class all new members who from time to time join the society shall be assigned, unless such new member or members shall otherwise elect, and all present members may at their option be transferred at the prescribed rates for such class. The mortuary contributions of such class shall be placed in a separate account and used only for the benefit of the members of that class or of their beneficiaries. In case of a society which has established such higher rate class whose contributions are held and used as herein set forth the "additional contributions" or "extra rates" specified in this section shall be required only of the members of the class or classes respectively where the deficiency in con-27 tributious is apparent, and each class shall provide for its own deficiency.
28 Any class of a domestic society failing so to do shall be subject to the 29 receivership provisions set forth in section thirty-six. If a society can 30 show, by an annual valuation as hereinbefore provided, that it is ac-
31 cumulating and maintaining for all of its members who are not included
32 in the separate class of members hereinbefore referred to the tabular 33 reserve required by a table of mortality not lower than the National 34 Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality as adopted at the National Fra-35 ternal Congress August twenty-third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, 36 and four per cent interest, and which has provided for stated periodical 37 mortality contributions based on said standard, then such society may 38 abolish the segregation of members and funds hereinbefore required.
39 A foreign society which has legally established such a class in its home
40 state and whose constitution or by-laws require the segregation and use 41 of the mortuary contributions of its members as herein set forth may 42 be admitted to this commonwealth with respect to such class upon com-43 pliance with the laws of this commonwealth not in conflict with this 44 provision.

1 Section 41. No foreign society shall transact any business in the 2 commonwealth without a license from the commissioner. Every such 3 society applying for such a license shall file with the commissioner a duly 4 certified copy of its charter or articles of association; a copy of its con-
5 stitution and by-laws, certified by its secretary or corresponding officer;
6 a power of attorney to the commissioner, as provided in the following 7 section; a statement of its business, on oath of its president and secre-
8 tary, or corresponding officers, in the form required by the commissioner, 9 duly verified by an examination made by the supervising insurance 10 official of its home state or other state satisfactory to the commissioner;
11 a copy of its certificate of membership; a certificate from the proper 12 official of its home state, territory, district or country that the society 13 is legally organized; and the society shall show that the benefits are pro-14 vided for by periodical or other payments by persons holding similar 15 contracts, and that its assets are invested in accordance with the laws 16 of the state or country where it is organized, and that it has the quali-
17 fications required of domestic societies on the lodge system incorporated 18 under this chapter, provided, that a society which grants benefits for 19 disability arising from accidental injury or from sickness shall be re-20 quired to show that it has accumulated funds, usable only for the pay-21 ment of such benefits and in excess of accrued claims for such benefits, 22 not less in amount than three monthly contributions or one quarterly 23 contribution from members entitled to such benefits, and shall be re-24 quired, as a condition for the maintenance of its authority to do business 25 in this commonwealth, to maintain at all times after admission, as re-26 guards disability benefits, funds in amount as above set forth; and shall 27 furnish the commissioner such other information as he may deem neces-28 sary for the proper exhibit of its business and plan of working. Upon 29 compliance with these requirements, such foreign society shall be entitled 30 to a license to transact business in the commonwealth until July first 31 following, and such license shall, upon compliance with this chapter, be 32 renewed annually, but in all cases to terminate on July first following;
33 except that it shall continue in full force and effect until the new license 34 is issued or refused. For every such license or renewal the society shall 35 pay to the commissioner twenty dollars.

SECTION 42. Every foreign society applying for admission to the commonwealth shall, by duly executed instrument filed with the commissioner as provided in the third paragraph of section one hundred and fifty-one of chapter one hundred and seventy-five, appoint the commissioner as its attorney for the service of process upon it, which shall be served in accordance with said paragraph and section one hundred and fifty-four of said chapter. All process against a foreign society shall be served at least thirty days before the return day named therein.

SECTION 43. Whenever the commissioner is satisfied that any foreign society has exceeded its powers, or has failed to comply with any provision of this chapter, or that it is conducting business fraudulently, or that it is not carrying out its contracts in good faith, or that its condition or management is such as to render its further transaction of business hazardous to the public, to members or creditors, or that it or its officers or agents have refused to submit to an examination under section forty-four or to perform any legal obligation relative thereto, he shall notify the society of its findings, and state in writing the grounds of his dissatisfaction, and, after reasonable written notice to the society, shall require it, on a date named in such notice, to show cause why its license should not be revoked. If on said date the society does not present to the commissioner good and sufficient reasons why its license to transact business in the commonwealth should not be revoked, he may revoke such license.

Whenever the commissioner refuses to issue a license to a foreign society under section forty-one, or revokes its license under this section, he shall reduce his ruling, order or decision to writing and file it in his office, and he shall furnish a copy thereof, together with a statement of the reasons for his action, to the officers of the society upon request.

Any such society aggrieved by the refusal of the commissioner to issue a license to it, or by the revocation of its license, may, within thirty days after receiving written notice of such refusal or revocation, file a petition in the supreme judicial court for the county of Suffolk for a review of the commissioner's action. The court shall summarily hear and determine the case and may make any appropriate order or decree. If the order or decree is adverse to the petitioning society, it may within ten days therefrom appeal to the full court; and in case of such an appeal the refusal or revocation of the license shall continue in full force and effect until the final determination of the question by the full court.

The termination of the license of such a society shall not prevent it from continuing in good faith all contracts made by it in the commonwealth during the time when it was legally authorized to transact business therein.

SECTION 44. The commissioner, or any person designated by him, may examine any foreign society transacting business in the commonwealth or applying for admission. For this purpose he or the person designated by him shall have the powers given by section thirty-six relative to domestic societies. He may accept in lieu of such examination the examination of the insurance department of the state or country where the society is organized. The actual expenses of the examiners making any such examination shall be paid by the society, upon a statement furnished by the commissioner.
Section 45. Domestic fraternal benefit corporations governed by direct vote of their members and limiting their membership as provided in section four and domestic fraternal benefit corporations limiting their membership to the permanent employees of cities or towns, the commonwealth or the federal government, and not paying death benefits, but paying annuities or gratuities contingent upon disability or long service, may continue to transact business in the commonwealth. Such corporations and like societies incorporated under this chapter shall be governed by sections four to eleven, inclusive, fourteen and twenty-one, thirty-eight, domestic direct purely limited, in the confines of, With Section 51, and shall be subject to the provisions of the by-laws as far as the same are applicable, twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-nine, forty-eight and forty-nine of this chapter and section five of chapter fifty-nine, and in addition by the following provisions: The officers of such limited corporations shall be elected by ballot by the members as often as once in two years. Proxies shall not be used in voting. No person under sixteen shall be admitted to membership. The recording officer of such a corporation shall file with the commissioner amendments to its by-laws, in English, within thirty days after their adoption and shall likewise file forthwith a duly certified copy of its by-laws whenever the commissioner requires in writing. Such equitable assessments, either periodical or otherwise, shall be made upon the members as shall be necessary to carry out the purposes of the organization. Paid agents shall not be employed in soliciting or procuring members, except that corporations which limit their certificate holders to a particular fraternity or which provide for stated periodical contributions sufficient to meet the mortuary obligations contracted, when valued upon the basis of the National Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality as adopted by the National Fraternal Congress August twenty-third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, or any higher standard, with interest assumption not more than four per cent per annum may pay members for securing new members, and any corporation may pay local collectors. No corporation formed after January first, eighteen hundred and twelve, unless it confines its membership to that of a particular fraternity in any one county or to a lodge of some fraternity, shall contract to pay benefits to its members until it shall satisfy the commissioner that it has received at least five hundred bona fide applications for membership. With the written approval of the commissioner and the consent of each corporation expressed by vote at a duly called meeting, any corporation governed by this section may transfer its membership and funds to any authorized similar corporation. Whoever violates any provision of this section shall be punished as provided in section fifty.

Section 46. A domestic society which limits its membership as provided in section four, or which limits its membership to the members and ex-members of any social organization having a lodge system and secret form of work; or a secret order or fraternity which operates on the lodge system with a representative form of government and grants insurance benefits as incidental only to the work of the order or fraternity; or a purely charitable association or corporation existing on May twenty-third, nineteen hundred and one, any one of which pays a death or funeral benefit limited to not more than two hundred dollars, disability benefits not exceeding ten dollars a week, or any or all of such benefits, or a domestic society which limits its membership as provided in this section shall be exempt from certain provisions of law. Payment upon death of wife of member, furnishing physicians and nurses permitted, incorporation, filing copy of by-laws, financial statements.

Penalty.
in said section four to the employees of a designated firm, business house or corporation, or any department thereof, and pays disability benefits not exceeding fifteen dollars a week, and which is not conducted as a business enterprise or for profit, and a subordinate lodge of a secret fraternity or order as defined in this section which is not conducted as a business enterprise or for profit, which pays death benefits to families or dependents of deceased members as fixed by its by-laws, but not more than two hundred dollars if the lodge membership is two hundred or less, and if over two hundred not in excess of the amount of an assessment of one dollar upon each member thereof in good standing at the time of the death of the member, and a society, either domestic or foreign, which confines its membership to members of organizations defined in the second sentence of section twenty-nine of chapter one hundred and twenty-five, and which embraces therein only persons of the same occupation, may transact business in the commonwealth without conforming to the provisions of this chapter except this section and sections twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-six, forty-seven, forty-seven A and fortyine, or to the provisions of chapter one hundred and seventy-five: provided, that no proceeding shall be instituted under said section thirty-six because such society has a membership of less than four hundred.

The seventh clause of section five of chapter fifty-nine shall apply to such a society.

Any society transacting business under this section may, in the event of the death of the wife of a member, pay to said member a part of the amount payable at said member’s death; provided that the amount so paid shall be deducted from the amount payable at the member’s death, and that the total amount so paid, both at the death of the member and of the member’s wife, shall not exceed the amount allowed by this section to be paid at the death of a member. Any such society may also furnish physicians and nurses for its members and their families.

Any such limited society may be incorporated, and limited fraternal benefit corporations may be formed, in the manner prescribed in and be subject to this section and to sections six, seven, nine, ten, eleven, twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-two, thirty-six, forty-seven, forty-seven A and fortyine of this chapter and the seventh clause of section five of chapter fifty-nine; provided, that no proceeding shall be instituted under said section thirty-six because such society has a membership of less than four hundred.

The recording officer of any society subject to this section shall forthwith file with the commissioner, whenever he requires in writing, a duly certified copy of its by-laws.

A society subject to this section shall within thirty days after a written request therefor by the commissioner file with him a financial statement, in such form and detail and of such date as he may prescribe, signed and sworn to by its president and secretary and treasurer.

Any person violating any provision of this section, and any such society, or any officer or agent thereof, paying or agreeing to pay death or disability benefits in excess of the amounts herein prescribed or collecting dues or assessments therefor, shall be punished as provided in section fifty.

Section 46A. A subordinate lodge of a society with ritualistic form of work and representative form of government duly authorized to transact business in the commonwealth under this chapter may pay disability 4 benefits not exceeding ten dollars a week without conforming to the 5 provisions of this chapter or chapter one hundred and seventy-five.

1 Section 47. The superior court shall have jurisdiction in equity, 2 upon an information filed by the attorney general at the relation of the 3 commissioner, to restrain all violations of this chapter and to enforce 4 compliance with the provisions thereof and payment of all fines, for 5 forfeitures or penalties provided thereby. The remedy herein provided 6 shall be in addition to all other remedies otherwise provided by law or 7 by this chapter, and not in substitution therefor.

1 Section 47A. Any contract of insurance or any benefit certificate
2 made, issued or delivered by any society in violation of any provision of 3 this chapter, or any provision of its charter, articles of association, con-
4 stitution or by-laws, shall nevertheless be valid and binding upon it
5 and its members, but the rights, duties and obligations of the parties 6 thereto shall be determined by the provisions of this chapter and of the 7 charter, articles of association, constitution and by-laws of the society.

1 Section 48. Any person, officer, member or examining physician of 2 any society who shall knowingly or willfully make any false or fraudu-
3 lent statement or representation in or with reference to any application 4 for membership, or in order to obtain money from or benefit in any 5 society, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor 6 more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in jail for not less 7 than one month or more than one year, or both; and any person wil-8 fully making a false statement of any material fact or thing in a sworn 9 statement as to the death or disability of a certificate holder in any 10 society for the purpose of procuring payment of a benefit named in the 11 certificate of such holder shall be guilty of perjury; and any person 12 who willfully makes any false statement in any verified report or declara-
13 tion on oath required or authorized by this chapter shall be punished
14 by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars or by imprisonment 15 for not more than two and one half years, or both.

1 Section 49. Whoever solicits membership in any society not duly 2 authorized to transact business in the commonwealth, or, whoever, for 3 a person other than himself, or as an agent, solicitor, organizer, officer or 4 other representative of any such society or of any local or subordinate 5 lodge or branch thereof, acts or aids in any manner in the issue, delivery,
6 negotiation, continuance or renewal of any contract of insurance or bene-7 fit certificate in such society, or whoever, as such agent, solicitor, organ-8 izer, officer or other representative, acts or aids in any manner in the 9 transaction of any business on behalf of such society or of any local or 10 subordinate lodge or branch thereof, by the collection or transmission 11 of dues or assessments, the calling or holding of meetings, or otherwise, 12 shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than five hun-
13 dred dollars.

14 Whoever, by the means of cards, circulars, letterheads, advertisements, 15 signs or other methods, represents or holds himself out to the public as 16 being an agent, solicitor, organizer, officer or other representative of 17 any such society or of any local or subordinate lodge or branch thereof 18 shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than one 19 hundred dollars.
SECTION 50. Whoever violates any provision of this chapter for which a specific penalty is not provided shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars.

Definitions. 1907, 501, § 1.

SECTION 1. The following words as used in this chapter shall, unless the context otherwise requires, have the following meanings:

1. Definitions.
"Savings bank", a savings bank incorporated under the laws of the commonwealth, including institutions for savings incorporated as such in the commonwealth.

"Savings and insurance bank", a savings bank which has established an insurance department.

"Savings department", that department of a savings and insurance bank in which the business done by savings banks other than that provided for by this chapter is conducted.

"Insurance department", the department of a savings and insurance bank in which the business of issuing life insurance and the granting of annuities is conducted.

"Trustees", trustees of the savings bank or savings and insurance bank.

"Treasurer", the treasurer of the savings bank or savings and insurance bank.

Section 2. Any savings bank may, upon complying with the provisions hereinafter set forth, establish an insurance department if its board of trustees has, at a meeting specially called for the purpose, voted so to do by a majority of two thirds of its trustees present at the meeting and voting, and if such vote has been ratified by vote of a majority of the incorporators present and voting at a meeting duly called therefor. The notice of such trustees' meeting shall be given at least thirty days prior to the date of the meeting, and shall be otherwise in accordance with any laws and by-laws governing the calling of special meetings of trustees.

Copies of the vote of the trustees to establish the insurance department and of the vote of the incorporators ratifying the same, certified to by the clerk of the bank and sworn to by the president or vice president and the treasurer or assistant treasurer, shall be filed with the commissioner of banks and with the commissioner of insurance within thirty days after the adoption thereof; and if said commissioners shall find said votes to be in conformity with law, and that the conditions provided by the following section have been complied with, and if in the opinion of the commissioner of banks the financial condition of the bank presents no objection to the establishment of an insurance department, they shall issue a joint certificate declaring said insurance department established.

Section 3. The certificate establishing the insurance department shall not be issued until there shall have been provided (a) a special expense guaranty fund as set forth in the following section and (b) either a special insurance guaranty fund as set forth in section five or a guaranty contract under section nineteen; and until (c) a certificate in duplicate, under the oath of the treasurer, shall have been filed with the commissioner of insurance and the commissioner of banks certifying that said special expense guaranty fund and said special insurance guaranty fund or guaranty contract have been furnished, and (d) said commissioners shall, upon investigation, have made a joint finding that said requirements have duly been complied with.

Section 4. The special expense guaranty fund mentioned in the preceding section shall consist of not less than five thousand dollars in cash, advanced to and placed at the risk of said department as a guaranty fund to be applied in payment of the expenses thereof, if and so far as the amounts contributed from the loading in the insurance premium and in annuity charges, together with any membership fee and surrender and death charges, shall prove insufficient to pay the expenses of said insurance department. The original amount of such guaranty fund shall be fixed by the trustees, with the approval of the state actuary of the division of savings bank life insurance of the department of banking and insurance, and the guaranty fund may be increased at any time thereafter by the trustees. The amounts advanced as a special expense guaranty fund shall be evidenced by certificates of the par value of one hundred dollars, and the holders thereof shall be credited with interest thereto annually, with annual rests, at a rate equal to the average rate paid in that year upon its deposits by the savings department. If in any year ending October thirty-first the profits remaining, after setting aside amounts for surplus as provided in section twenty-one, shall be sufficient therefor, the trustees shall from such profits reimburse said expense guaranty fund for any amounts theretofore drawn from it to defray expenses of the insurance department; and if, after so reimbursing said fund, and after reimbursing the special insurance guaranty fund for amounts theretofore drawn from it, the balance of profits shall be sufficient therefor, the trustees shall pay to the holders of the certificates of said expense guaranty fund the interest accrued thereon, or such part thereof as the amount may suffice to cover. Said expense guaranty fund may be retired, with the approval of the commissioner of banks and the commisssioner of insurance, whenever in the opinion of the trustees it is no longer required. The amount so advanced as an expense guaranty fund shall be repaid and the interest credited shall be paid only as above provided, or under section twenty-five, and shall not be deemed a liability of the insurance department in determining the solvency thereof.

Section 5. The special insurance guaranty fund mentioned in section three shall consist of not less than twenty thousand dollars in cash, advanced to and placed at the risk of the insurance department, which shall be applicable to the payment and satisfaction of all losses or other obligations arising out of policies or annuity contracts if and whenever the liabilities of said department, including the insurance reserve, are in excess of its assets. The original amount of such special insurance guaranty fund shall be fixed by the trustees, with the approval of the state actuary, and the guaranty fund may be increased at any time thereafter by vote of the trustees. The amounts advanced to such special insurance guaranty fund shall be represented by certificates of the par value of one hundred dollars; and the holders thereof shall be credited with interest thereon annually, with annual rests, at the rate equal to the average rate paid in that year upon its deposits by the savings department. If in any year ending October thirty-first the profits remaining are sufficient therefor, after setting aside amounts for the surplus as provided in section twenty-one, and reimbursing the special expense guaranty fund and said special insurance guaranty fund for all amounts theretofore drawn from them or either of them, and paying interest on the certificates representing the special expense guaranty fund, the trustees may pay the interest accrued on said insurance guaranty certificates or such part thereof as the amount may suffice to cover. After the special expense guaranty fund has been retired as provided in section four, said special insurance guaranty fund may, with the approval of the commissioner of insurance, be retired by the trustees as soon as the insurance department shall have accumulated a surplus in excess of all its liabilities equal to the amount of such guaranty fund, including any interest accrued thereon remaining unpaid; and said insurance guaranty fund may, with like approval, be retired from time to time, in part, but the balance of such guaranty fund, including unpaid interest plus the surplus on hand, shall at no time be less than the amount of the original insurance guaranty fund.

The amounts so advanced as an insurance guaranty fund shall be repaid and the interest credited thereon shall be paid only as above provided, or under section twenty-five, and shall not be deemed a liability of the insurance department in determining the solvency thereof.

Section 6. Any savings and insurance bank acting through its insurance department, after the issue of the license provided for in the following section, may make and issue policies upon the lives of persons and grant or sell annuities with all the rights, powers and privileges and subject to all the duties, liabilities and restrictions in respect to the conduct of the business of life insurance conferred or imposed by general laws relating to domestic life insurance companies, so far as the same are applicable and except as is otherwise provided herein. The insurance department shall in all respects, except as is otherwise provided herein, be managed as savings banks are managed under general laws relating to savings banks. Such insurance department may decline particular classes of risks or reject any particular application.

Section 7. A license to issue policies and make annuity contracts shall, upon the application of the trustees, be granted by the commissioner of insurance to any savings and insurance bank which has duly complied with the requirement set forth in section three; but the said license shall be revocable by said commissioner at his discretion and after having given thirty days' written notice to said trustees provided not more than twenty thousand dollars of insurance on not less than one hundred lives of residents of the commonwealth, on which all payments due by the terms thereof have been made thereon, shall have been applied for and issued, and then remain outstanding. A list showing the amount of outstanding policies, with the names of the holders thereof, shall be filed by the treasurer of the said bank with said commissioner at the close of each month until the above limits as to amount of insurance and number of persons insured and holding policies standing in full force by reason of the due payment of premium, have been exceeded. Upon the filing of every such list, the correctness of which shall be certified by the treasurer on oath, the said commissioner may make such investigations as he deems proper, in order to ascertain the truth of the facts thus certified by the treasurer.

The revocation of the license of any bank under the terms of this section shall not affect the right and the obligation of the bank to continue and fulfill its existing contracts, or the right, with the approval of said commissioner, to reinsure them or to transfer them to another bank or company holding a license to do insurance business in the commonwealth.

Section 8. The assets of the savings department shall be liable for and applicable to the payment and satisfaction of the liabilities, obligations and expenses of the savings department only. The assets of the

The savings department shall be liable for and applicable to the payment and satisfaction of the liabilities, obligations and expenses of the insurance department only. The savings department and the insurance department shall be kept distinct also in matters of accounting and of investment. Expenses pertaining to the conduct of both the savings department and the insurance department, such as office rent and the salaries of general officers, shall be apportioned by the trustees equitably between the two departments.

SECTION 9. The funds of the insurance department, whether arising from premiums, annuity contracts, guaranty funds, or from the income thereof, and whether constituting insurance reserve or surplus, shall be invested in the same classes of securities and in the same manner in which the deposits of the savings department are required by law to be invested, except that it may make loans upon any policy of insurance or annuity contract issued by it to the extent specified in section fifteen.

SECTION 10. No savings and insurance bank shall write any policy or annuity contract binding it to pay more than one thousand dollars, exclusive of dividends or profits, upon the death of any one person, except for such amount, if any, as it may be bound to pay upon the death of such person under an employees' group policy, or under an annuity contract embodying an agreement to refund, upon the death of the holder, to his estate or to a specified payee, a sum not exceeding the premiums paid thereon with compound interest, nor shall it write any annuity contract otherwise binding it to pay in any one year more than two hundred dollars, exclusive of dividends or profits.

SECTION 11. No policy of life or endowment insurance or annuity contract issued by any savings and insurance bank shall become forfeit or void for non-payment of premium after six full months' premiums have been paid thereon; and in case of default in the payment of any subsequent premium, then, without any further stipulation or act, such policy shall be binding upon the bank at the option of the insured, either (a) for the cash surrender value or (b) for the amount of paid-up insurance which the then net value of the policy and all dividend additions thereon, less any indebtedness to the bank on account of said policy, and less a surrender charge of not more than one per cent of the face value of the policy, will purchase as a net single premium for life or endowment insurance, maturing or terminating at the time and in the manner provided for in the original policy contract, or (c) for the amount of paid-up term insurance which such net value would purchase.

SECTION 12. No policy or annuity contract shall be issued except upon the life and for the benefit of a resident of the commonwealth or of a person regularly employed therein. If the holder of any policy or annuity issued by such a bank becomes a resident of another state or country, it shall be necessary, unless the bank otherwise provides, for such a policy holder or such an annuitant, or his duly authorized representative, or the beneficiary entitled to a claim for loss under such a policy, to make or receive payments at the bank, or by correspondence, without notice from the bank. Should a lapse occur by reason of the failure of any such person to do so seasonably, the liability of the bank, in case of a policy of insurance, shall be only for the amount of its previ-
Savings Bank Life Insurance.

12. Only acquired paid-up insurance value, or, on demand, for the stipulated
13. Cash surrender value thereof.

1. Section 13. Savings and insurance banks shall not employ solicitors
2. of insurance, and shall not employ persons to make house to house col-
3. lections of premiums; but the trustees may establish such agencies and
4. means for the receipt of applications for insurance and of deposits and of
5. premium and annuity payments, at such convenient places and times,
6. of such nature and upon such terms as the commissioner of banks and
7. the commissioner of insurance may approve. The trustees may also,
8. with like approval, appoint any savings bank or savings and insurance
9. bank its agent to make, so far as thereunto authorized, payments due on
10. policies of insurance and on contracts for annuities, and to perform other
11. services for the insurance department. All savings banks and all savings
12. and insurance banks may, with like approval, act as such agents. The
13. business of the insurance department may, in the discretion of the trus-
14. tees, be carried on either in the same building with that of the savings
15. department or in a different building.

1. Section 14. The General Insurance Guaranty Fund shall be a
2. body corporate, with the powers specifically provided in this chapter and
3. with all the general corporate powers incident thereto. It shall be man-
4. aged by the board of trustees appointed under section ten of chapter
5. twenty-six. The trustees of the fund shall adopt a code of by-laws.

1. Section 15. The state actuary, appointed under section eleven of
2. chapter twenty-six, with the advice of the attorney general as to matters
3. of legal form, shall prepare standard forms of life insurance policies and
4. life annuity contracts, including a whole life policy, a limited payment
5. life policy, a limited term policy, an endowment policy, an annuity con-
6. tract, and any combination of life insurance policy and deferred annuity
7. contract, and such others as may from time to time, in the opinion of the
8. commissioner of insurance, be desirable. Every policy and annuity con-
9. tract shall provide that the issuing bank may make any payment there-
10. under by placing to the credit of the account of the registered beneficiary
11. in the savings department the amount payable. Such standard forms
12. shall be used as the uniform and exclusive forms of policies by all savings
13. and insurance banks. He shall also prepare the form of blanks for appli-
14. cations for life insurance policies and life annuity contracts and for proof
15. of loss, and all other forms necessary for the efficient prosecution of the
16. business, also books of record and of account, and all schedules and all
17. reports, not otherwise provided for, required in the conduct of the busi-
18. ness, and these shall be used as the uniform and exclusive form of blanks,
19. books, schedules and reports in the insurance departments of all savings
20. and insurance banks. He shall also, consistently with the law govern-
21. ing domestic legal reserve life insurance companies, determine and pre-
22. pare the table of premium rates for all kinds of life insurance policies,
23. and the purchase rates for annuities, and the amount of the member-
24. ship fee, the surrender and any proof of death charges, and the premium
25. rates for reinsurance. The rates, fees and charges so fixed shall be
26. adopted as the uniform and exclusive premiums, annuity rates, the initia-
27. tion, the surrender, and the proof of death charges. He shall also deter-
28. mine and prepare tables showing the amounts which may be loaned on
29. insurance policies, and the reinsurance rates to be charged by all savings and insurance banks, and the guaranty charges to be made by the General Insurance Guaranty Fund, but the loan value shall in no event exceed the reserve on any policy. He shall also prepare or procure tables for computing the legal reserve to be held under insurance and annuity contracts, and for this purpose may, with the approval of the commissioner of insurance, adopt a table of mortality which may be deemed more suitable than the American Experience Table for policies of insurance of the character and amounts to which the risks of the banks are limited; and shall in all other respects, except as otherwise provided, perform the duties of insurance actuary for all the savings and insurance banks and the General Insurance Guaranty Fund. The ordinary actuarial routine work of the banks, including an annual and other valuations of their policies, shall be performed by their clerks, guided and assisted, so far as may be necessary, by the advice and instruction of the state actuary; but an annual valuation of all the policies of the banks and of the condition of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund as of October thirty-first of each year shall be made in the office of the state actuary under his direction, and from schedules of policy data on blanks furnished by him and prepared by the banks in accordance with his instructions. The state actuary shall also furnish to the savings and insurance banks and to the General Insurance Guaranty Fund all blanks for policies, applications, schedules, and other papers and books which the state actuary is required to prepare, as herein provided. The state actuary shall for each year ending October thirty-first determine the ratio of actual to expected mortality claims for all of the savings and insurance banks combined, and shall determine a similar ratio for each of the savings and insurance banks separately. Both calculations shall be based upon the mortality tables and the rate of interest used by the banks in the calculation of the premiums, or upon such other bases as shall be approved by the commissioner of insurance. If the calculation of the ratio pertaining to any savings and insurance bank shows that the actual mortality experienced is less than the mortality expected to be experienced by all of the banks combined, the state actuary shall send to such bank a certificate setting forth the amount of such difference, and thereupon such bank shall send to the General Insurance Guaranty Fund in cash the amount of such certificate. The state actuary shall also furnish to the trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund a certificate in respect to any savings and insurance bank in which the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality has exceeded the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality for all of the banks combined, and thereupon the trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund shall pay to such bank the amount of such excess as evidenced by such certificate.

In determining the net profits, as defined in section twenty-one, to be distributed to the holders of the policies and annuity contracts each year for each savings and insurance bank, the state actuary shall consider as a mortality factor the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality for all of the savings and insurance banks combined.

SECTION 16. The state medical director, appointed under section twelve of chapter twenty-six, shall, subject to the supervision and control of the commissioner of insurance, prescribe the rules relating to health or acceptability of the applicant for insurance, and shall act as supervising and advising physician for the medical department of all the savings and insurance banks.
1 Section 17. There shall be paid to the commonwealth on account of 2 sums expended by it for the division of savings bank life insurance during 3 the year ended on November, thirtieth next preceding, the following
4 amounts: On December fifteenth, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, a 5 sum equal to twenty-five per cent thereof; on December fifteenth, nine-
6 teen hundred and thirty, a sum equal to forty per cent; on December 7 fifteenth, nineteen hundred and thirty-one, a sum equal to fifty-five per 8 cent; on December fifteenth, nineteen hundred and thirty-two, a sum 9 equal to seventy per cent; on December fifteenth, nineteen hundred and 10 thirty-three, a sum equal to eighty-five per cent; on December fifteenth, 11 nineteen hundred and thirty-four, and on December fifteenth in each 12 year thereafter, a sum equal to the total amount. Said sums so to be 13 repaid to the commonwealth shall be apportioned by the trustees of the 14 General Insurance Guaranty Fund among the savings and insurance 15 banks in proportion to their premium income, or on such other basis as 16 the said trustees shall deem equitable and proper, and said banks shall 17 be assessed therefor in accordance with such apportionment; provided, 18 that no savings and insurance bank shall be assessed for any part of said
19 expenditure unless and until it shall have accumulated in its insurance 20 department a surplus fund of not less than twenty thousand dollars as 21 provided in sections five, nineteen and twenty-one, or unless and until 22 five years shall have elapsed from the date when it shall have been 23 licensed by the commissioner of insurance to issue policies and make 24 annuity contracts, whichever event shall sooner happen. Any sum so 25 apportioned to banks so exempted shall be paid to the commonwealth by 26 the trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund from the interest 27 income thereof on or before December fifteenth in each year as above 28 provided.

1 Section 18. Every savings and insurance bank shall, on the third
2 Wednesday of each month, pay to the General Insurance Guaranty 3 Fund an amount equal to four per cent of all amounts paid to it as 4 premiums on policies or in the purchase of annuities during the pre-
5 ceding month. Said sums shall be held as a guaranty for all obligations
6 on policies or annuity contracts of the insurance departments of all
7 savings and insurance banks; and so much thereof shall be paid over 8 to any bank, to be applied in the payment of losses or satisfaction of 9 other obligations on said policies or annuity contracts, as may be re-10 quired to prevent or to make good an impairment of its insurance reserve.
11 Any amount so paid to any bank shall be charged to its account, and be 12 repaid, with interest compounded semi-annually at the rate of five per 13 cent per annum out of the surplus funds of said insurance department as 14 soon and so far as an adequate surplus exists. The amounts so advanced 15 by the General Insurance Guaranty Fund to any bank shall be repaid 16 only as above provided, and shall not be deemed a liability in determining 17 the solvency of its insurance department.

1 Section 19. Whenever the funds held by the General Insurance
2 Guaranty Fund are, in the opinion of both the commissioner of insur-
3 ance and the commissioner of banks, sufficient therefor, the trustees of 4 the fund may enter into a contract with any savings bank desiring to 5 establish an insurance department to guarantee all the risks of such 6 bank until such time as it shall have a surplus of not less than twenty 7 thousand dollars nor less than ten per cent of the aggregate insurance reserve. If such guaranty contract is entered into by any bank, it shall not be necessary to provide the special insurance guaranty fund provided for in section five before the commissioner of insurance and the commissioner of banks are entitled to issue the certificate establishing the insurance department as provided in section three.

Section 20. The funds of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund shall be invested in the same classes of securities and in the same manner in which the deposits of the savings department are required by law to be invested; but the trustees of said fund shall be at liberty to deposit in any savings bank any funds on hand which, by reason of the smallness of the amount or for any other reason, cannot, in the opinion of said trustees, otherwise properly be invested at that time.

Section 21. Each savings and insurance bank shall annually set apart as a surplus from the net profits, if any, which have been earned in its insurance department, an amount not less than twenty nor more than seventy-five per cent thereof, until such fund equals ten per cent of its net insurance reserve, or the amount of its special insurance guaranty fund, whichever is the greater. Thereafter each such bank may add in any year to its said surplus fund not more than fifteen per cent of the net profits, if any, which have been earned in its insurance department in such year; provided, that no such bank shall so add to its said surplus fund if it equals ten per cent of the net insurance reserve of said bank. Such surplus fund shall thereafter be maintained and held or used so far as necessary to meet losses in its insurance department whether from unexpectedly great mortality, depreciation in its securities, or otherwise, and for the maintenance of a stable dividend scale. The balance of the net profits of each year shall annually be distributed equitably among the holders of its policies and annuity contracts, such distribution to be made at the option of the policy holder in accordance with section one hundred and forty of chapter one hundred and seventy-five.

Section 22. Life insurance policies and annuity contracts may be signed on behalf of the savings and insurance banks by the treasurer or assistant treasurer, or by such other officer or employee of the savings and insurance banks as the trustees may from time to time determine.

Section 23. Whenever the net assets of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund over all liabilities exceed one hundred thousand dollars or five per cent of the aggregate outstanding insurance reserve of all savings and insurance banks, whichever is the greater, the trustees of said fund may, with the approval of the commissioner of insurance, reduce the percentage of premiums on insurance and annuities so payable to it or altogether discontinue the same; but said trustees may require at any time thereafter said contribution to be made at a rate not exceeding that provided for in section eighteen.

Section 24. Any suit brought on or in respect to any policy or annuity contract issued by any savings and insurance bank shall be brought in the county where such bank is located, and within two years after the date of the alleged cause of action.
Section 25. Any savings and insurance bank may at any time discontinue the issuing of insurance policies and annuity contracts if its board of trustees has, at a meeting duly called for the purpose, voted so to do by a majority of two thirds of its trustees present at the meeting and voting. The notice of such meeting shall be given at least thirty days prior to the date thereof, and shall be otherwise in accordance with any laws or by-laws governing the calling of special meetings of trustees. A copy of the vote to discontinue said business, certified by the clerk of the bank and sworn to by its president or vice president and its treasurer or assistant treasurer, shall be filed with the commissioner of banks and also with the commissioner of insurance. A bank which has so voted may reinsure all outstanding policies and annuity contracts in any other savings and insurance bank, or, with the approval of the commissioner of insurance and the commissioner of banks, in any purely mutual legal reserve life insurance company organized under the laws of the commonwealth, if such company does not employ solicitors of insurance or make house to house collection of premiums, and does not provide for the payment of interest on its guaranty capital of more than four per cent, if it makes provision satisfactory to the commissioner of insurance for carrying out with reasonable convenience to policy holders and annuitants its existing contracts. When a bank which has voted to discontinue said business has so reinsured its outstanding policies and annuity contracts, or fully performed the same, it shall transfer to the General Insurance Guaranty Fund all the assets of the insurance department remaining after paying all its liabilities, including special guaranty fund certificates issued under section four or five.

Section 26. The commissioner of insurance and the commissioner of banks shall, at least once in each year and whenever they consider it expedient, either alone or together, personally or by deputy or assistant, examine the insurance department of each savings and insurance bank and the General Insurance Guaranty Fund. At such examination they shall have free access to the vaults, books and papers, and shall thoroughly inspect and examine the affairs of any such corporation to ascertain its condition, its transactions, its ability to fulfill its obligations, and whether it has complied with all the provisions of law applicable to it. They shall preserve in a permanent form a full record of their proceedings, including a statement of the condition of the insurance department of each of said banks.

Section 27. Either of said commissioners, or his deputy or assistant specially authorized by him in writing, may summon the trustees, officers or agents of any such corporation, and such other witnesses as he thinks proper, and examine them relative to the affairs, transactions and condition of the insurance department or of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund, and for that purpose may administer oaths. Whoever without justifiable cause refuses to appear and testify when so required, and whoever obstructs a commissioner in the performance of his duty, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

Section 28. If upon examination the insurance department of any savings and insurance bank appears to both the commissioner of banks and commissioner of insurance to be grossly deficient in the conduct of its affairs, the commissioner of insurance may order the same to be examined in like manner, and if in his opinion it thereby appears that the bank is not able to continue its business, he may issue an order for the immediate liquidation thereof.
and the commissioner of insurance to be insolvent, or if they find its condition such as to render the continuance of its business hazardous to the public or to the holders of its policies or contracts, the commissioners shall apply or, if such bank appears to have exceeded its powers or failed to comply with any provision of law, may apply to the supreme judicial court, which shall have jurisdiction in equity of such application, for an injunction to restrain such department, in whole or in part, from further proceeding with its business. The court may appoint one or more receivers to take possession of the property of the insurance department, subject to such directions as may from time to time be prescribed by the court, without in any respect affecting the operations of the savings department.

A report of an examination made under section twenty-six may, as far as material and relevant, be admitted, in the discretion of the court, in any proceeding under this section, as prima facie evidence of the facts set forth in such report.

Section 29. The treasurer shall annually, within fifty days after the last business day in October, file with the commissioner of insurance and the commissioner of banks a statement showing the financial condition of the insurance department on the last business day of October. Such annual statement shall be in the form required by the commissioners, who shall embody therein so much of the forms now prescribed for life insurance companies and for savings banks as may seem to them appropriate, with any additional inquiries they may require for the purpose of eliciting a complete and accurate exhibit of the condition and transactions of the banks. The assets and liabilities shall be computed and allowed in such statement in accordance with the rules governing insurance companies, except as herein otherwise provided. The president or vice president of the savings and insurance bank and five or more of its trustees shall make oath that the report is correct according to the best of their knowledge and belief. The commissioner of insurance and the commissioner of banks may also at any time require the treasurer to make such other statement of condition or furnish such other information concerning the insurance department as they deem necessary.

Section 30. The treasurer of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund shall annually, within thirty days after the last business day of October, file with the commissioner of insurance and the commissioner of banks a statement, in such form as said commissioners shall prescribe, showing its financial condition on the last business day of October, and shall also at any time make such statement of condition and furnish such other information concerning its business as said commissioners deem necessary. The president of said fund and three or more trustees thereof shall make oath that the report is correct to the best of their knowledge and belief.

Section 31. The commissioner of insurance and the commissioner of banks shall prepare annually from the said reports concerning insurance departments and the General Insurance Guaranty Fund, and communicate to the general court on or before the first Wednesday in February, a statement of the condition of each savings and insurance bank and of said General Insurance Guaranty Fund, and shall make such suggestions as they consider expedient relative to the general conduct and condition of each bank visited by them.

1 Section 16. A final division of the common property shall not dis-
2 solve the corporation until the expiration of ten years thereafter; but 3 the proprietors at the time of the division and their heirs shall retain their 4 corporate powers for the purpose of collecting all assessments, debts and 5 effects due or belonging to the corporation, and shall be liable for its 6 debts.

261 Mass. 125.

1 Section 17. The proprietors may, within ten years after such divi-
2 sion, call and hold meetings and vote and raise money by assessments,
3 as before provided, for the payment of their debts and all other charges
4 and demands against them, and may do all other lawful acts necessary 5 for closing their business.

GENERAL FIELDS.

1 Section 18. If several distinct lots or parcels of land are enclosed 2 and fenced in one common field, or if all the proprietors of such lands agree so to enclose them, the proprietors, if not less than five, may, in the manner hereinafter provided, hold regular meetings for the purpose of managing their common concerns.

Section 20. The proprietors may from time to time choose a clerk, three or more assessors, a collector and such other officers as they find to be necessary; each of whom shall continue in office until removed by the proprietors or until his successor is qualified. The clerk and assessors shall be sworn.

Section 21. They may choose one or more field drivers, who shall have and exercise the same powers with respect to the general fields as field drivers chosen by a town.

Section 22. They may adopt such rules as to pasturing the land and as to other matters in which they have a common interest as they consider just and equitable and most for the general good; but in all other respects each proprietor may manage and cultivate his land as he thinks best.

Section 23. At meetings of proprietors for adopting rules or regulations as to pasturing, land of a proprietor enclosed for his exclusive benefit shall not be valued or reckoned in determining his right to vote on questions relative to pasturing his land.

Section 24. If a proprietor puts horses, cattle or other beasts into the general field contrary to the regulations of the proprietors, either by putting in more than the number allowed him, or by putting them in before the day fixed therefor, or by keeping them therein longer than the time limited, he shall be considered a trespasser, and his beasts may be impounded as taken doing damage.

Section 25. The proprietors may from time to time raise money for defraying their common charges and managing their affairs, which shall be assessed by the assessors upon the several proprietors in proportion to their respective interests; and a proprietor aggrieved by such assessment may apply for an abatement to the county commissioners, who shall hear and determine the case, and whose judgment thereon shall be final.

Section 26. The clerk shall issue his warrant to the collector, requiring him to collect all amounts so assessed and to pay them over to the clerk or other proper officer according to the orders of the proprietors.
The collector shall collect said amounts in the same manner as collectors of towns are authorized to collect town taxes.

Section 27. A proprietor injured in his lands by the beasts of a stranger shall have the same remedy therefor as if his land had been enclosed and used separately.

Section 28. The whole fence enclosing such general field shall, so far as found convenient, be apportioned among the proprietors according to the number of acres held and cultivated or otherwise used by each; and the part to be maintained by each proprietor shall be apportioned to him by two or more fence viewers, unless the proprietors agree on such apportionment. The proportion of fence of each proprietor shall be recorded in the books of the proprietors by the clerk, if any; otherwise, by the clerk of the town where the general field is situated.

Section 29. A proprietor shall not, so long as he declines to cultivate his land or use it for pasturing, for the growth of wood or otherwise, be required to maintain any part of the fence or to pay any assessment on account of his land.

Section 30. The expense of apportioning the fence and also of making and maintaining such part thereof as cannot be conveniently and justly apportioned to any one proprietor shall be borne by all the proprietors liable to be assessed in proportion to their respective interests; and the part apportioned to each proprietor shall be made and maintained by him so long as he uses his part of the general field for pasturing, planting, mowing or otherwise.

Section 31. If the part of the fence apportioned to a proprietor becomes deficient and he does not repair it within three days after notice of such deficiency has been given to him by a fence viewer of the town, it may be repaired by any other proprietor. Two or more fence viewers may examine such repairs, and, if they adjudge them sufficient, may ascertain and determine the cost of the same and make a signed statement thereof and of the amount of their fees.

Section 32. The person making such repairs may demand of the proprietor bound to make them, or of the tenant holding under him, double the cost of the repairs and of the fees of the fence viewers so ascertained; and if they are not paid within one month after notice and demand, he may recover them in tort.

Section 33. If a part of the fence is suddenly blown down or carried away by a flood or tempest at a time when the crops of grain or grass in the field are thereby exposed to immediate destruction or injury, the proprietor to whom such part of the fence was assigned shall repair it within twenty-four hours after notice thereof given to him by a fence viewer; and if he fails so to do, the fence may be repaired by any other proprietor, who may recover double the cost of the repairs and fees, as provided in the preceding section.

SECTION 34. A proprietor may enclose his land at his own expense; and, so long as he keeps it enclosed with a sufficient fence, may cultivate and use it as he thinks fit; and during such period, so far as such enclosed land is concerned, he shall neither be assessed for any expenses incident to the common field nor exercise any control over the portion thereof not enclosed.

SECTION 35. Every proprietor of land lying unfenced in a general field shall once in every two years, if requested by the owner of the adjoining land, run lines with such owner between their lots and make and keep up the boundaries between them by sufficient bound stones, at their joint expense. If he fails so to do after seven days’ notice by the adjoining owner, he shall forfeit two dollars to the use of such adjoining owner.

SECTION 36. If it is for the interest of the proprietors of five or more parcels of land to enclose them in one common field, the superior court for the county where the land or any part of it lies may, upon the application of a majority in interest of the proprietors, after notice to all other persons interested and a hearing, order it to be so enclosed, if it appears to be for the common benefit of the parties.

R. L. 123, § 36.

SECTION 37. After a common or general field is so established by an order of the court, the further proceedings in relation thereto shall be the same as are provided when a field is so enclosed by the consent of the proprietors; and the proprietors shall be entitled to the privileges and be subject to the duties before provided in this chapter relative to the proprietors of fields enclosed by consent.

SECTION 38. Three or more proprietors of lots in a general field lying within one general fence or enclosure may, by a written petition to the proprietors of such field at a meeting of said proprietors legally warned for the purpose, request to have their lots, either alone or jointly with any other lots in such field, divided from the remainder of the field in order to be enclosed by one common fence and occupied by them as an entire field separately from the other proprietors. If the majority of proprietors in interest present at such meeting withhold or refuse their assent to such division, the superior court may, upon like application, appoint five disinterested and suitable persons within the county where the general field is situated, to be a committee to make the division, if they deem it expedient, and to assign to each field its proportion of the partition fence which by reason of such division should be kept up and maintained by the proprietors of the said general fields respectively.

SECTION 39. The committee shall, as soon as may be after their appointment, make return of their doings under their hands to the court; and after its acceptance by the court, the fields so divided shall be deemed separate general fields and the proprietors of the field set off, and the remaining proprietors of the original field, respectively, shall be distinct and separate proprietary bodies, having like powers and privileges and 7 subject to like duties and liabilities as the proprietors of the original 8 general field before the division; but no order for such division shall 9 be made, and no such committee appointed, until the other proprietors 10 have had notice of the petition for such division. Such notice shall be 11 given by serving upon the clerk of the proprietors a copy of the petition 12 at least thirty days before such order or appointment is made.

1 Section 40. A majority in interest of the proprietors of a common 2 field, whether established by consent or by order of court, may discon-
3 tinue it at a legal meeting warned for the purpose; but the discontinu-4 ance shall not take effect until the expiration of six months after such 5 vote.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1 Section 1. Seven or more persons, a majority of whom are residents of the commonwealth, may form a corporation for any of the purposes named in the following section.

1869, 276. 1874, 375, § 1. R. L. 123, § 1.
CHARITABLE, ETC., CORPORATIONS.

SECTION 2. Such corporation may be formed for any civic, educational, charitable, benevolent or religious purpose; for the prosecution of any antiquarian, historical, literary, scientific, medical, artistic, monumental or musical purpose; for establishing and maintaining libraries; for supporting any missionary enterprise having for its object the dissemination of religious or educational instruction in foreign countries; for promoting temperance or morality in the commonwealth; for encouraging athletic exercises or yachting; for encouraging the raising of choice breeds of domestic animals and poultry; for the association and accommodation of societies of Free Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias or other charitable or social bodies of a like character and purpose; for the establishment and maintenance of places for reading rooms, libraries or social meetings; for establishing boards of trade, chambers of commerce and bodies of like nature.

SECTION 3. The corporation shall be formed in the manner prescribed in and subject to section nine of chapter one hundred and fifty-five and sections six and eight to twelve, inclusive, of chapter one hundred and fifty-six, except as follows:

The capital stock, if any, shall not exceed five hundred thousand dollars.

The agreement of association of a corporation having no capital stock may omit the statement of the amount of the capital stock and the par value and number of its shares. The par value of its shares, if any, may be ten, twenty-five, fifty or one hundred dollars. The fee to be paid to the state secretary upon the filing of the certificate of organization shall be twenty-five dollars.

SECTION 4. Ten or more persons in any county, city or town may form a corporation under section three for the purpose of encouraging agriculture or horticulture; or for the purpose of improving and ornamenting the streets and public squares of any city or town by planting and cultivating ornamental trees therein and also otherwise improving the physical aspects of such city or town and furthering the recreation and enjoyment of the inhabitants thereof.

SECTION 5. Before making and issuing a certificate of incorporation to a corporation formed for any of the purposes described in section two or approving the change of name of any corporation formed as aforesaid which is subject to section twenty-six, the state secretary may forward a statement to the aldermen of any city, except Boston, or to the selectmen of any town, where such corporation occupies or uses or is to occupy or use any premises for the transaction of any of its corporate activities, and, if such premises are or are to be in Boston, to the police commissioner, giving a list of the applicants for incorporation or the officers of the corporation seeking to change its name, the purposes of such proposed incorporation or change of name as stated by them, the location of the premises occupied or used or proposed to be occupied or used, which shall include the street and number, if any, and all other facts which may be stated in the application for incorporation or the petition for approval of change of name. The mayor and aldermen, selectmen or police commissioner, upon the receipt of such statement, shall immediately make an investigation for the purpose of ascertaining whether 18 any of the proposed incorporators, or officers of the petitioning corpora-19 tion, or any other persons known to be, or apparently, identified with 20 the said proposed or petitioning corporation as members, stockholders, 21 employees or otherwise, and actually participating or to participate in 22 the management of its affairs, or in the direction of its business, have 23 been engaged in the illegal selling of intoxicating liquor or in keeping 24 places or tenements used for illegal gaming, or in any other business or 25 vocation prohibited by law, or are persons of ill repute, or whether any 26 location to be occupied is unsuitable, and shall forthwith report to the 27 state secretary all the facts ascertained. If, in his opinion, it appears 28 from said report or otherwise that a probable purpose or probable result 29 of the formation of the proposed corporation or of the proposed change 30 of name is or will be to cover or shield any illegal business or practices, 31 or any business not within the scope of the expressed corporate purposes, 32 he shall refuse to issue a certificate of incorporation or approve the 33 change of name, as the case may be.

1 Section 6. Before making and issuing a certificate for the incor-
2 poration of a charitable corporation the state secretary shall also forward 3 the statement described in the preceding section to the department of 4 public welfare, which shall immediately make an investigation as to the 5 applicants for incorporation and as to the purposes thereof, and any 6 other material facts relative thereto, and shall give them a public hearing,
7 notice of which shall be published once a week for three successive weeks 8 in some paper published in the county where the corporation is to have 9 its principal office or rooms, and if said office or rooms are to be in Boston, 10 in some Boston daily paper, the last publication to be at least three days
11 before the day set for the hearing, and shall forthwith report to the state
12 secretary all the facts ascertained by it. If it appears to him from said 13 report or otherwise that the probable purpose of the formation of the 14 proposed incorporation is to cover any illegal business, or that the persons 15 asking for incorporation are not suitable persons, from lack of financial 16 ability or from any other cause, he shall refuse to issue his certificate.
17 If he refuses, the applicants may appeal to the superior court, which 18 shall hear the case and finally determine whether or not the certificate 19 of incorporation shall be issued.

1 Section 7. The corporation may prescribe by its by-laws the manner
2 in which, and the officers and agents by whom, its purposes may be ac-
3 complished, and, instead of the directors and other officers to be chosen 4 at the first meeting, it may have a board of other officers with the powers 5 of directors, and presiding, financial and recording officers with the 6 powers of president, treasurer and clerk; and its certificate of organiza-
7 tion may be made, signed and sworn to by its presiding, financial and 8 recording officers and a majority of its other officers having the powers 9 of directors; and the certificate issued by the state secretary under sec-10 tion twelve of chapter one hundred and fifty-six shall be modified to 11 correspond with the facts in each case.

1 Section 8. Such corporation, if organized under general laws, at a
2 meeting called for the purpose may increase the amount of its capital
3 stock and the number of shares therein to an amount not exceeding five 4 hundred thousand dollars.
Section 9. Any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized under general or special laws for any of the purposes mentioned in this chapter may hold real and personal estate to an amount not exceeding five million dollars, which estate or its income shall be devoted to the purposes set forth in its charter or agreement of association or in any amendment thereof, and it may receive and hold, in trust or otherwise, funds received by gift or bequest to be devoted by it to such purposes. This section shall not limit the amount of property which may be held by a corporation in excess of said amount under the authority of any special law and shall be applicable notwithstanding the specification of a less amount in such a law, heretofore or hereafter enacted.

Section 9A. Corporations organized under this chapter, or corresponding provisions of earlier laws, exclusively for religious purposes shall have the right to purchase, hold, preserve and maintain burial grounds; provided, that no land shall be so used for burial purposes unless such use shall have been permitted and approved in accordance with the provisions of chapter one hundred and fourteen.

Section 10. Such corporation may, at a meeting duly called for the purpose, by vote of all its members, add to or change the purpose for which it was incorporated, if the additional or new purpose is authorized by section two. The presiding, financial and recording officers and a majority of its other officers having the powers of directors shall forthwith make, sign and swear to a certificate setting forth such addition to or change of purpose, which, having been submitted to the commissioner of corporations and taxation and approved by him, shall thereupon be filed and recorded in the office of the state secretary.

Section 11. A corporation organized under general or special laws for any of the purposes specified in section two, if unable to comply with section ten of chapter one hundred and fifty-five, may petition the commissioner of corporations and taxation for a change of name. The petition shall contain a list of the officers and stockholders or members of the corporation, so far as they are known, with their addresses; shall state why the said section cannot be complied with and the name proposed to be adopted by the corporation. It shall be signed and sworn to by the president or one member of the board of directors. The commissioner may require the petitioner to give him information as to what attempt, if any, has been made to secure the approval of two thirds of the stockholders or members, or of such proportion thereof as the by-laws of the corporation may prescribe, for the proposed change of name. The commissioner may also require any other information which may assist in determining the matter before him. He may direct the petitioner or the officers of the corporation to give any further notice to the members thereof of the proposed change of name and to report to him the result of such notice. If the commissioner is satisfied that the proposed name of the corporation is approved by such members or stockholders thereof as have expressed an opinion in relation thereto, or of a reasonable proportion thereof, he shall endorse his approval on the petition, and thereupon it shall be filed in the office of the state secretary, who shall direct publication thereof and grant a certificate of name as

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23
24 provided in said section. No petition hereunder for a change of name of a 25 corporation subject to section twenty-six shall be considered by the com-26 missioner of corporations and taxation until after such change of name has 27 been approved by the state secretary.

1 Section 12. A charitable corporation incorporated in this common-
2 wealth whose personal property is exempt from taxation shall annually,
3 on or before November first, make to the department of public welfare 4 a written report for its last financial year, showing its property, its 5 receipts and expenditures, the whole number and the average number 6 of its beneficiaries and such other information as the department requires.
7 If any corporation subject to this section fails for two successive years 8 to file said report, the supreme judicial court, upon application by the 9 department, after notice and hearing, may decree a dissolution of the 10 corporation.

1 Section 12A. A charitable corporation established, organized or 2 chartered under laws other than those of the commonwealth, except the 3 Grand Army of the Republic, the United Spanish War Veterans, The 4 American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States,
5 shall, before engaging in charitable work or raising funds in the com-6 monwealth, file with the department of public welfare a copy of its 7 charter, articles or certificate of incorporation, certified under the seal 8 of the state or country where such corporation is incorporated, by the 9 secretary of state thereof or by the officer having charge of the original 10 record therein, and a true copy of its constitution and by-laws, and shall 11 also file with the department such other information as may from time
12 to time be required by it. Such a corporation shall annually, on or before 13 November first, make to said department a written report such as is 14 required by section twelve to be made by charitable corporations sub-15 ject thereto. Every officer of such a corporation which fails to comply 16 with the requirements of this section who authorizes or transacts, and 17 every agent of such a corporation who transacts, business in behalf of 18 such corporation in this commonwealth, shall be punished by a fine of 19 not more than five hundred dollars. Upon an information in equity in 20 the name of the attorney general at the relation of the commissioner of 21 public welfare, the supreme judicial or superior court may restrain the 22 violation of this section by such a corporation or the transaction of any 23 business in its behalf by any officer or agent while such violation continues.

MEDICAL CORPORATION.

1 Section 13. A corporation organized under this chapter for medical 2 purposes shall not confer degrees, or issue diplomas or certificates con-
3 ferring or purporting to confer degrees, unless specially authorized 4 thereto by the general court. An officer, agent or servant of such cor-
5 poration or any other person who confers degrees, or signs, issues or 6 authorizes the signing or issuing of any diploma or certificate purporting 7 to confer any degree of medicine or surgery, in violation hereof, shall 8 be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred nor more than one 9 thousand dollars.
HORSE BREEDING CORPORATIONS.

Section 14. Corporations formed under this chapter for encouraging the raising of choice breeds of horses may establish and maintain grounds suitable for exhibitions and trials of the speed or strength of horses; may arrange for and advertise such exhibitions and trials upon such grounds, may collect admission fees thereto and may award purses or premiums to the participants therein, if such purses or premiums are raised only from voluntary subscriptions to the funds of the corporation, admission fees or fees for entering horses in such exhibitions or trials.

LABOR OR TRADE ORGANIZATIONS.

Section 15. Corporations may be formed under this chapter for improving the condition of any employees in any one or more trades or employments, either relative to their employment or to the promotion of education, temperance, morality or social intercourse among them, or for paying benefits to sick or unemployed members, or to persons dependent upon deceased members or otherwise.

Section 16. The commissioner of corporations and taxation shall not endorse his approval upon the certificate of organization of any such corporation, unless satisfied that the purposes thereof are lawful, that its by-laws are consistent with law and conform to the requirements of the two following sections.

Section 17. The by-laws shall contain clear and distinct provisions relative to the election, admission and expulsion of members; the titles, duties, powers and tenure of the officers of the corporation and their election and removal; the number of members required for a quorum; the call for special meetings; the adoption, amendment and repeal of by-laws; the purposes to which the funds of the corporation may be applied and for which assessments may be laid upon the members; the conditions upon which a member or persons dependent upon a deceased member shall be entitled to benefits, if any are to be given by the corporation; the imposition of fines and forfeitures, if any; the deposit, investment and custody of the funds of the corporation; the periodical audit of the accounts of the treasurer and the method of voting on shares of stock, if any are issued by the corporation. A by-law shall not be repealed or amended, or an additional by-law adopted, unless notice of such proposed action shall have been given at a previous meeting; and such repeal, amendment or adoption shall not take effect until it has been approved by the commissioner of corporations and taxation as conformable to law.

Section 18. No member of such corporation shall be expelled by vote of less than a majority of all the members thereof, nor by vote of less than three quarters of the members present and voting upon such expulsion. Every member of such corporation and every person who has an interest in its funds shall be entitled to examine its books and records.

Section 19. No fine or notice of intention to impose a fine by any union or any other association, incorporated or unincorporated, or by any authorized representative thereof, upon any member, according to the 4 rules to which such member has agreed to conform, shall be held to be 5 unlawful or coercive as to such member or as to any other person; pro-6 vided, that such fine is reasonable in amount and is for a legal purpose.

MEDICAL MILK COMMISSION.

1 Section 20. For the purpose of supervising the production of milk,
2 any five or more registered physicians may form a corporation under this 3 chapter. The members of the board of health of any town where such 4 corporation is formed shall be ex officiis members of the corporation. At 5 least one member of said board of health shall be a member of the board
6 of directors thereof.

1 Section 21. The name of any such corporation shall be "Medical 2 Milk Commission of 3 town where such corporation is established, and, if more than one such 4 corporation shall be organized in any town, the subsequent corpora-5 tions shall use the name designated herein, but shall indicate in such 6 name its proper sequence in incorporation by adding thereto the words
7 "Number Two" or "Number Three" and so forth.

1 Section 22. No member of any such corporation shall receive di-
2 rectly or indirectly therefrom, or from any dairymen producing milk
3 under agreement with the corporation, any salary or emolument or any 4 compensation of any kind for any services rendered as a member of 5 such corporation, or for any services rendered under sections twenty to 6 twenty-five, inclusive. Whoever violates this section shall be punished 7 by a fine of one hundred dollars, and shall be removed from his office as 8 a member of said corporation and thereafter be disqualified from be-9 coming a member of any such corporation.

1 Section 23. Every such corporation may enter into written agree-
2 ments with any dairymen for the production of milk under the super-3 vision of such corporation and prescribe in such agreements the condi-
4 tions under which such milk shall be produced, which, however, shall be 5 approved by the department of public health and shall not fall below the 6 standards of purity and quality for certified milk as fixed by the American
7 Association of Medical Milk Commissions and the standards for milk 8 fixed by law.

1 Section 24. The working methods of any such corporation and the 2 dairies in which milk is produced under contract with it shall at all times
3 be subject to investigation by the department of public health.

1 Section 25. Whoever sells or exchanges, or offers or exposes for 2 sale or exchange as and for certified milk any milk not conforming to the 3 regulations prescribed by and bearing the certification of a corporation
4 organized under sections twenty to twenty-five, inclusive, shall be pun-5 ished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.
MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

Section 26. No corporation organized under general laws for the purpose of fostering, encouraging or engaging in athletic exercises or for the establishment and maintenance of places for reading rooms, libraries or social meetings shall change its location from the town where it is located to another town within the commonwealth, nor change its location within any town, until written consent therefor has been obtained from the police commissioner in Boston, the aldermen in any other city or the selectmen in the town where the corporation proposes to acquire a new location. Such consent shall not take effect until a copy thereof, duly attested by the clerk or secretary of the board or officer consenting thereto, has been filed in the office of the state secretary. A change of location by a corporation contrary to this section shall be sufficient cause for the revocation of its charter by the state secretary.

Section 27. If any person is convicted of exposing and keeping for sale or selling intoxicating liquor on the premises occupied by any club or organization described in section two or of illegal gaming upon said premises or of being present where implements of gaming are found upon said premises, or if any liquor, casks or other vessels or implements of sale and furniture used or kept and provided to be used in the illegal keeping or sale of liquor, or implements of gaming, are seized on said premises and are forfeited, the selectmen, or the aldermen, in the place where such club or organization is situated, except Boston, and in Boston the police commissioner, shall immediately give notice to the state secretary, who, upon receipt thereof, shall declare the charter of such club or organization void, and shall publish a notice in at least one newspaper published in the county where such club or organization is located that such incorporation is void and of no further effect.

Section 28. If any person is convicted of illegally engaging in, giving or promoting a public or private boxing match or sparring exhibition, the contestants in which have received or have been promised any pecuniary reward, remuneration or consideration whatsoever, directly or indirectly, under the auspices of or on the premises occupied by any club or organization described in section two, the commissioner of public safety, the selectmen or the aldermen in the town where such club or organization is situated, except in Boston, and in Boston the police commissioner, shall immediately give notice to the state secretary, who, upon receipt thereof, shall declare the charter of such club or organization void, and shall publish a notice in at least one newspaper published in the county where the club or organization is situated that such incorporation is void.

Section 29. Cities and towns may by ordinance or by-law regulate the conducting within their respective limits of entertainments, dances and other diversions and amusements not required by law to be licensed, including the hours of holding the same, by corporations which are subject to section twenty-six, and may affix penalties for breaches thereof not exceeding twenty dollars for each offence, subject as to recovery and disposition to section twenty-one of chapter forty.
CHAPTER 181.
FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.

Definitions.
1. Definitions.
2. Foreign corporations forbidden to do business which domestic corporations may not do.
3. Commissioner to be appointed attorney for service of process.
3A. Certain foreign corporations failing to register to be deemed to have appointed commissioner attorney for service of process.
4. Notice of service of process to be given by commissioner.
5. Copy of charter, etc., to be filed.
6. Commissioner, etc., shall refuse to receive papers for filing from a foreign corporation doing an illegal business or having same name as domestic corporation.
8. Suits against foreign corporations.
9. Foreign corporations may hold real estate.
10. Issue of stock based on property, etc., of domestic corporations regulated.

1 SECTION 1. The following words as used in this chapter shall, except when otherwise specifically prescribed, have the following meanings:
2 “Commissioner”, the commissioner of corporations and taxation.
4 “Foreign corporation”, a corporation, association or organization, except an insurance company or a corporation organized for a purpose for which domestic corporations can be organized under chapter one hundred and eighty, which has been established, organized or chartered under laws other than those of the commonwealth.

2 SECTION 2. A foreign corporation, including an insurance company, shall not engage or continue in any kind of business in this commonwealth the transaction of which by domestic corporations is not permitted by the laws of this commonwealth.

3 SECTION 3. Every foreign corporation, which has a usual place of business in this commonwealth, or owns real property therein without having such a usual place of business, or which is engaged therein, permanently or temporarily, and with or without a usual place of business therein, in the construction, erection, alteration or repair of a building, bridge, railroad, railway or structure of any kind, or in the construction or repair of roads or highways, shall, before doing business in this commonwealth, in writing appoint the commissioner and his successor in office to be appointed attorney for service of process.

office to be its true and lawful attorney upon whom all lawful processes in any action or proceeding against it may be served, and in such writing shall agree that any lawful process against it which is served on said attorney shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on the corporation, and that the authority shall continue in force so long as any liability remains outstanding against the corporation in this commonwealth. The power of attorney and a copy of the vote authorizing its execution, duly certified and authenticated, shall be filed in the office of the commissioner, and copies certified by him shall be sufficient evidence thereof. Service of such process shall be made by leaving a copy of the process with a fee of two dollars in the hands of the commissioner, or of his deputy or second deputy when acting under section six of chapter fourteen or in the office of the commissioner, and such service shall be sufficient service upon the corporation.

Certain foreign corporations failing to register to be deemed to have appointed commissioner attorney for service of process. 1928, 99, § 1.

SECTION 3A. Any such corporation which does business in this commonwealth without complying with the provisions of section three, including a corporation as to which the commissioner is required by section six to refuse appointment as attorney for service, shall, without affecting any penalty, liability or disability imposed by section five, be deemed and held, in relation to any cause of action or proceeding arising out of such business, to have appointed the commissioner and his successor in office to be its true and lawful attorney, and any process in any such action or proceeding against it served upon the commissioner or his successor in office shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on such corporation.

SECTION 4. When legal process against any such corporation is served upon the commissioner, he shall immediately give notice to the corporation of such service by mail, postage prepaid, directed, in the case of a corporation established in a foreign country, to the resident manager, if any, in the United States; and shall, within two days after such service, forward in the same manner a copy of the process served upon him to such corporation or manager, or to any other person designated by the corporation by a writing filed in the office of the commissioner. The fee of two dollars paid by the plaintiff to the commissioner at the time of the service shall be taxed in his costs, if he prevails in the suit. The commissioner shall keep a record of all such processes, which shall show the day and hour of service.

SECTION 5. Every foreign corporation of the classes described in section three, before transacting business in this commonwealth, shall, upon payment of the fee provided by section twenty-three, file with the commissioner a copy of its charter, articles or certificate of incorporation, certified under the seal of the state or country where such corporation is incorporated by the secretary of state thereof or by the officer having charge of the original record therein, a true copy of its by-laws, and a certificate in such form as the commissioner requires, setting forth: (a) the name of the corporation; (b) the location of its principal office; (c) the names and addresses of its president, treasurer, clerk or secretary and of the members of its board of directors; (d) the date of its annual meeting for the election of officers; (e) the amount of its capital stock; authorized and issued, the number and par value of its shares, the amount paid in thereon to its treasurer, and, if any part of such payment has been made otherwise than in money, the details of such payment, so far as practicable, in accordance with section ten of chapter one hundred and fifty-six. Said certificate shall be subscribed and sworn to by its president, treasurer and a majority of its directors or officers having the powers usually exercised by directors. The officers and directors of such corporation shall be subject to the same penalties and liabilities for false and fraudulent statements and returns as officers and directors of a domestic corporation subject to said chapter. Every officer of such a corporation which fails to comply with the requirements of this section and of sections three and twelve, who authorizes or transacts, and every agent thereof who transacts business in behalf of such corporation in this commonwealth, shall, for such failure, be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, and shall also be liable, jointly and severally, in contract, without prior proceedings against the corporation, for all debts and contracts of the corporation, except such as relate to interstate commerce, contracted or entered into within this commonwealth for the purpose of being performed therein, so long as such failure continues. Such failure shall not affect the validity of any contract with such corporation, but no action shall be maintained or recovery had in any of the courts of this commonwealth by any such foreign corporation so long as it fails to comply with said sections.

1 Section 6. The commissioner, the commissioner of insurance and any other officer of this commonwealth whose duty it is to examine and determine whether a foreign corporation, including an insurance company, is entitled to file any papers under section three or five, section forty-one of chapter one hundred and seventy-six, or chapter one hundred and seventy-five, shall refuse to accept or file the charter, financial statement or other papers of, or accept appointment as attorney for service for, any such corporation which does a business in this commonwealth or for the transaction of which by domestic corporations is not then permitted by the laws of this commonwealth, or which has the same name as that of another corporation established under the laws of the commonwealth or of another corporation or of a firm, association or person carrying on business in the commonwealth, or a name so similar thereto as to be likely to be mistaken for it, unless such other corporation or such firm, association or person shall have previously filed with the commissioner, the commissioner of insurance or such other officer written consent to the use of such name.

1 Section 7. A foreign corporation which carries on a banking, mortgage, loan and investment or trust business shall indicate in letters equally conspicuous with its name, upon all signs, advertisements, circulars, letterheads and other documents which contain its name, the state or country where it is chartered or incorporated. No such corporation and no person who is engaged in such business shall carry it on in or under a name which, previous to such use, was in lawful use by a corporation established under the laws of this commonwealth and carrying on the same or a similar business or in or under a name so similar thereto as to be likely to be mistaken for it. The supreme judicial or superior court shall have jurisdiction in equity to enforce the foregoing provisions.

Names of certain foreign corporations regulated.

Foreign corporations may hold real estate. Iss. 321.

of this section. Whoever violates any provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars.

SECTION 8. Foreign corporations having property in this commonwealth shall be liable to be sued and to have their property attached in the same manner and to the same extent as individuals who are residents of other states and who have property in this commonwealth. The service of the writ shall be made in the manner provided in chapters two hundred and twenty-three and two hundred and twenty-seven, with such further service as the court to which the writ is returnable orders.

SECTION 9. Foreign corporations which have complied with sections three and five may purchase and hold such real estate in this commonwealth as may be necessary for conducting their business.

SECTION 10. If a foreign corporation which owns or controls a majority of the capital stock of a domestic street railway, gas or electric company issues stock, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness based upon or secured by the property, franchise or stock of such domestic company, unless such issue is authorized by the law of this commonwealth, the supreme judicial court shall have jurisdiction in equity to dissolve such domestic company. If it appears to the attorney general that such issue has been made, he shall institute proceedings for such dissolution and for the proper disposition of the assets of such company. This section shall not affect the right of foreign corporations, their officers or agents to issue stock and bonds in fulfilment of contracts existing on July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety-four.

SECTION 11. All foreign corporations of the classes described in section three, other than those required by section eleven of chapter one hundred and sixty-six to make annual returns to the department of public utilities shall, within thirty days after the payment into its treasury for an increase of capital stock, upon paying the fee provided in section twenty-three, file in the office of the state secretary a certificate of the amount of such increase and the fact of such payment, signed and sworn to by its president, treasurer and a majority of its directors or officers having the powers usually exercised by directors. Within thirty days after the vote of such corporation authorizing a reduction of its capital stock, a copy of such vote, signed and sworn to by the clerk of the corporation, shall, upon paying the fee provided in section twenty-three, be filed in the office of the state secretary.

SECTION 12. Every foreign corporation, other than one which is required by section eleven of chapter one hundred and sixty-six to make annual returns to the department of public utilities shall annually, within thirty days after the date fixed for its annual meeting, or within thirty days after the final adjournment thereof, but not more than three months after the date so fixed for said meeting, prepare and file in the office of the state secretary, upon payment of the fee provided in section twenty-three, a certificate signed and sworn to by its president, treasurer, and by a majority of its board of directors, showing the amount of its authorized capital stock, and its assets and liabilities as of a date not more than 11 ninety days prior to said annual meeting, in such form as is required of.
12 domestic business corporations under section forty-seven of chapter one.
13 hundred and fifty-six, and the changes, if any, in the other particulars
14 included in the certificate required by section five of this chapter, made 15 since the filing of said certificate or of the last annual report.

1 Section 13. A certificate required to be filed under the preceding 2 section shall be accompanied by a written statement on oath by an 3 auditor as provided in section forty-nine of chapter one hundred and 4 fifty-six, except that such auditor shall in all cases be chosen by the 5 board of directors. Before the certificate is filed as required by the 6 preceding section it shall be submitted to the commissioner, who shall 7 endorse his approval thereon if he finds that it complies with the pre-8 ceding section.

1 Section 14. The officers and members or stockholders of all foreign 2 corporations which have a usual place of business in this commonwealth, 3 except those mentioned in section seventeen, and except such as had 4 such place of business on May twelfth, eighteen hundred and ninety-six,
5 shall be jointly and severally liable for its debts and contracts on the 6 same conditions and in the same manner as is provided for domestic 7 corporations by sections forty-four to fifty-four, inclusive, of chapter 8 one hundred and fifty-eight, except the fourth clause of section forty-four.

1 Section 15. If the capital stock of a foreign corporation subject to 2 the preceding section has been paid in by a conveyance to the corpora-
3 tion of property, real or personal, at an unfair valuation, the officers, 4 members or stockholders who participate in such conveyance or in the 5 taking of such property at such unfair valuation, or who have purchased 6 or received shares with knowledge of said fact, shall be jointly and sever-7 ally liable for its debts or contracts.

1 Section 16. The extent, conditions and manner of enforcing the 2 liability imposed by either of the two preceding sections shall be the 3 same as is provided by sections forty-four to fifty-four, inclusive, of chap-4 ter one hundred and fifty-eight, except the fourth clause of section forty-5 four. No officer, member or stockholder shall be liable under any pro-6 vision of the two preceding sections for any bonded or mortgage debt of 7 a foreign corporation.

1 Section 17. The officers of foreign corporations organized for the 2 purposes for which domestic corporations may be organized under sec-
3 tion six of chapter one hundred and fifty-six, and coming within the 4 classes described in section three, shall be jointly and severally liable
5 for all the debts and contracts of the corporation contracted or entered 6 into while they are officers thereof, if any statement or report which is 7 required by this chapter is made by them which is false in any material
8 representation and which they know to be false; but only the officers 9 who sign such statement or report shall be so liable. Such liability shall 10 be enforced upon the conditions and in the manner prescribed by sec-11 tions thirty-eight and thirty-nine of chapter one hundred and fifty-six.

1 Section 18. Whenever any change is made altering the date fixed
2 in the by-laws for the annual meeting of a foreign corporation organized for the purposes for which domestic corporations may be organized under section six of chapter one hundred and fifty-six, the corporation shall forthwith file in the office of the commissioner a certificate of such change signed and sworn to by the clerk of the corporation. Any corporation which omits to make and file a certificate as aforesaid within thirty days after such a change has been made shall forfeit not more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered in the manner prescribed by section twenty-two.

Section 19. Upon an information in equity in the name of the attorney general, at the relation of the commissioner, the supreme judicial court may restrain any foreign corporation from assuming or exercising any corporate rights, privileges or franchises in this commonwealth until sections three and five have been complied with.

Section 20. Foreign corporations shall be subject to sections forty-eight and forty-nine of chapter one hundred and fifty-five.

Section 21. If a foreign corporation omits to file a certificate as required by section twelve, the commissioner shall give notice by mail, postage prepaid, to the corporation of its default, directed, in the case of a corporation established in a foreign country, to the resident manager, or, if any, in the United States, or to any other person designated by the corporation by a writing filed in the office of the commissioner. The notice shall contain a copy of this section and sections twelve and thirteen. If such foreign corporation fails to file such certificate within thirty days after such notice of default has been given or mailed, it shall forfeit to the commonwealth not less than five nor more than ten dollars for each day for fifteen days after the expiration of the said thirty days, and not less than ten nor more than two hundred dollars for each day thereafter during which such default continues, or any other sum, not greater than the maximum penalty of forfeiture, which the court may deem just and equitable, which shall be recovered as provided in the following section.

Section 22. Penalties and forfeitures incurred by a foreign corporation which omits to file a certificate required by section five or twelve may be recovered in an action brought in Suffolk county in the name of the commonwealth or they may be recovered by an information in equity in the name of the attorney general at the relation of the commissioner brought in the supreme judicial court in Suffolk county. Upon such information, the court may issue an injunction restraining the further prosecution of the business of the corporation until such penalties and forfeitures with interest and costs have been paid and until the certificates required by said sections have been filed.

Section 23. Every foreign corporation shall pay for filing a copy of its charter, by-laws and the certificate required by section five, fifty dollars to the commissioner, and for filing all other certificates and statements, including the annual certificate of condition required by section twelve, ten dollars to the state secretary.

1 Section 1. The following words, as used in this chapter, shall, except as otherwise expressly provided in section two A, have the following meanings: "Association", a voluntary association under a written instrument or declaration of trust, the beneficial interest under which is divided into transferable certificates of participation or shares. "Commissioner", the commissioner of corporations and taxation. "Department", the department of public utilities. When used in sections two to seven, inclusive, of this chapter, the word "trust" shall, except as otherwise expressly provided in section two A, mean a trust operating under a written instrument or declaration of trust, the beneficial interest under which is divided into transferable certificates of participation or shares, other than a trust established for the sole purpose of exercising the voting rights pertaining to corporate stock or other securities in accordance with the terms of a written instrument.

1 Section 2. The trustees of an association or trust shall file a copy of the written instrument or declaration of trust creating it with the commissioner and with the clerk of every town where such association or trust has a usual place of business. The fee for filing said copy with the commissioner shall be fifty dollars. Such trustees shall also, within thirty days after the adoption of any amendment thereof, file a copy of said amendment with said commissioner and said clerk. The trustees of every association or trust, whose written instrument or declaration of trust creating it is not filed as required in this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than three months.

1 Section 2A. No association or trust shall assume the name of any corporation established under the laws of the commonwealth, or of a corporation, firm, or association or trust whether or not as defined in section one, or of an individual, carrying on business in the commonwealth at the time when the association or trust is created or within three years prior thereto, or assume a name so similar thereto as to be likely to be mistaken for it, except with the written consent of such existing corporation, firm, association or trust or of such individual, previously filed with the commissioner; and the commissioner shall refuse to receive for filing the written instrument or declaration of trust of an association or trust if it appears to him to have assumed a name in violation hereof. The supreme judicial or superior court shall have jurisdiction in equity, upon the application of any person interested or affected, to enjoin an association or trust from doing business under any name assumed in violation hereof, although the written instrument or declaration of trust of such association or trust has been received for filing as aforesaid.

SECTION 3. The trustees of an association or trust who own or control a majority of the capital stock of a gas or electric company shall also file a copy of the written instrument or declaration of trust creating it with the department and shall also within thirty days after the adoption of any amendment of such instrument or declaration file a copy thereof with the department. Every such trustee who fails to comply with the foregoing requirements shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for three months.

SECTION 4. The trustees of an association or trust who own or control a majority of the capital stock of a railroad, street railway, gas or electric company shall annually on or before April first file with the commissioner and with the department a statement showing the number of shares of such company owned or controlled by them and the stockholders of record on the books of such company in whose names such shares are held. Every such trustee who fails to comply with this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for three months.

SECTION 6. An association or trust may be sued in an action at law for debts and other obligations or liabilities contracted or incurred by the trustees, or by the duly authorized agents of such trustees, or by any duly authorized officer of the association or trust, in the performance of their respective duties under such written instruments or declarations of trust, and for any damages to persons or property resulting from the negligence of such trustees, agents or officers acting in the performance of their respective duties, and its property shall be subject to attachment and execution in like manner as if it were a corporation, and service of process upon one of the trustees shall be sufficient.

An association or trust may have a seal, which it may alter at pleasure, and which may be used by the trustee or trustees of such association or trust as his or their seal. An impression of a seal purporting to be the seal of such an association or trust shall be sufficient for all purposes without the use of a wafer or wax.

SECTION 7. The department may by its members or duly authorized employees investigate and examine the books, accounts, contracts, records and memoranda of the trustees of any association or trust, who own or hold the capital stock or any part thereof of a railroad, street railway, electric railroad or elevated railway corporation or gas or 6 electric company, and may require said trustees to furnish such reports
7 and information as the department shall from time to time direct with 8 respect to the relations and dealings between such trustees and any 9 such corporation or company.

1 Section 8. The department may by its members or duly author-
2 ized employees investigate and examine the books, accounts, contracts,
3 records and memoranda of any partnership, express trust, voluntary 4 association or corporation which is under the same ownership, control, 5 or management as a railroad, street railway, electric railroad or elevated 6 railway corporation or gas or electric company, in respect of the relations 7 and of any contracts and dealings between such railroad, street rail-
8 way, electric railroad or elevated railway corporation or gas or electric 9 company and such partnership, express trust, voluntary association or 10 corporation, and in relation thereto may require from such partnership, 11 express trust, voluntary association or corporation such reports and in-12 formation as the department shall from time to time direct.

1 Section 9. A railroad, street railway, electric railroad, elevated 2 railway, gas or electric company, or a partnership or corporation or the 3 trustees of an express trust or voluntary association, described in the 4 two preceding sections, which refuses or neglects to submit its or their 5 books, accounts, contracts, records and memoranda to the investiga-6 tion and examination of the department, or to furnish such reports and 7 information as it shall from time to time direct and require, shall be 8 punished by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars.

1 Section 10. The supreme judicial court shall have jurisdiction in 2 equity to enforce compliance with the three preceding sections, and with 3 all orders of the department made under authority thereof.

1913, 509, § 6. 1914, 742, §§ 153, 199.

1 Section 11. Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed
2 as authorizing, requiring or justifying the department in making any 3 recommendations, rulings or orders with respect to the rates charged 4 or the service furnished by any corporation subject to its supervision, 5 to take into consideration in any respect whatsoever any certificates of 6 participation or shares issued under a declaration of trust and repre-
7 senting the beneficial interest in the stock, bonds, notes or other securi-8 ties of such corporation, or the investment in such certificates or shares.

Section 5. The record of a deed, lease, power of attorney or other instrument, duly acknowledged or proved as provided in this chapter, and purporting to affect the title to land, shall be conclusive evidence of the delivery of such instrument, in favor of purchasers for value without notice claiming thereunder.

Section 5A. A statement of a person's married or unmarried status, kinship or lack of kinship, or of the date of his birth or death, which relates or purports to relate to the title to land and is sworn to before any officer authorized by law to administer oaths may be filed for record and shall be recorded in the registry of deeds for the county where the land or any part thereof lies. Any such statement, if so recorded, or a certified copy of the record thereof, in so far as the facts stated therein bear on the title to land, shall be admissible in evidence in support of such title in any court in the commonwealth in proceedings relating to such title.

Grantee's name, residence and post office

Section 6. Every deed presented for record shall contain or have endorsed upon it the full name, residence and post office address of the Section 7. A conveyance of land, if otherwise valid, shall, notwithstanding standing disseisin or adverse possession, be as effectual to transfer the title of the grantor as if he were actually seized and possessed of such land, and shall vest in the grantee the rights of entry and of action for recovery of the estate incident to such title.

Section 8. The forms set forth in the appendix to this chapter may be used and shall be sufficient for their respective purposes. They shall be known as "Statutory Forms" and may be referred to as such. They may be altered as circumstances require, and the authorization of such forms shall not prevent the use of other forms. Wherever the phrase "incorporation by reference" is used in the following sections, the method of incorporation as indicated in said forms shall be sufficient, but shall not preclude other methods.

Section 9. For the purpose of avoiding the unnecessary use of words in deeds or other instruments relating to real estate, whether statutory form or other forms are used, the rules and definitions contained in sections ten to twenty-eight, inclusive, shall apply to all such instruments executed or delivered on or after January first, nineteen hundred and thirteen.

Section 10. A deed in substance following the form entitled "Warranty Deed" shall when duly executed have the force and effect of a deed in fee simple to the grantee, his heirs and assigns, to him and their own use, with covenants on the part of the grantor, for himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and successors, with the grantee, his heirs, successors and assigns, that, at the time of the delivery of such deed, (1) he was lawfully seized in fee simple of the granted premises, (2) that the granted premises were free from all encumbrances, (3) that he had good right to sell and convey the same to the grantee and his heirs and assigns, (4) that he will, and his heirs, executors and administrators shall, warrant and defend the same to the grantee and his heirs and assigns against the lawful claims and demands of all persons.

Section 11. A deed in substance following the form entitled "Quitclaim Deed" shall when duly executed have the force and effect of a deed in fee simple to the grantee, his heirs and assigns, to him and their own use, with covenants on the part of the grantor, for himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and successors, with the grantee, his heirs, successors and assigns, that at the time of the delivery of such deed the premises were free from all encumbrances made by him, and that he will, and his heirs, executors and administrators shall, warrant and defend the same to the grantee and his heirs and assigns forever against the lawful claims and demands of all persons claiming by, through or under the grantor, but against none other.

Section 12. A section of the Statute of Frauds shall be inserted in every deed to be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of any county in the commonwealth, and such deed shall be deemed to be a written agreement in perpetuity to the same extent as if such section had been described in the body of the deed.
SECTION 12. In a conveyance of real estate the word “grant” shall be a sufficient word of conveyance without the use of the words “give, bargain, sell and convey”, and no covenant shall be implied from the use of the word “grant”.

SECTION 13. In a conveyance or reservation of real estate the terms “heirs”, “assigns” or other technical words of inheritance shall not be necessary to convey or reserve an estate in fee. A deed or reservation of real estate shall be construed to convey or reserve an estate in fee simple, unless a different intention clearly appears in the deed.

SECTION 14. When a conveyance or devise of real estate is made to a grantee or devisee to a use intended to be executed by the statute of uses, the word “use” shall be employed in declaring the use; and provisions introduced by the words “in trust”, or other expressions that might otherwise create uses, shall be deemed to create trusts and not uses. If no use is declared in a conveyance or devise of real estate, the same shall take effect as if it were expressed to be for the use of the grantee or devisee.

SECTION 15. In a conveyance of real estate all rights, easements, privileges and appurtenances belonging to the granted estate shall be included in the conveyance, unless the contrary shall be stated in the deed, and it shall be unnecessary to enumerate or mention them either generally or specifically.

SECTION 16. In a conveyance of real estate the words “warranty covenants” shall have the full force, meaning and effect of the following words: “The grantor, for himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and successors, covenants with the grantee, his heirs, successors and assigns, that he is lawfully seized in fee simple of the granted premises; that they are free from all encumbrances; that he has good right to sell and convey the same, and that he will, and his heirs, executors, administrators and successors shall, warrant and defend the same to the grantee and his heirs, successors and assigns forever against the lawful claims and demands of all persons”.

SECTION 17. In a conveyance of real estate the words “quitclaim covenants” or the words “limited covenants” shall have the full force, meaning and effect of the following words: “The grantor, for himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and successors, covenants with the grantee, his heirs, successors and assigns, that the granted premises are free from all encumbrances made by the grantor, and that he will, and his heirs, executors, administrators and successors shall, warrant and defend the same to the grantee and his heirs, successors and assigns forever against the lawful claims and demands of all persons claiming by, through or under the grantor, but against none other”.

SECTION 18. A deed in substance following the form entitled “Mortgage Deed” shall when duly executed have the force and effect of a mortgage deed to the use of the mortgagor and his heirs and assigns with mortgage covenants and upon the statutory condition and with the statutory power of sale, as defined in the three following sections, to secure the payment of the money or the performance of any obligation.
ALIENATION OF LAND.

7 therein specified. The parties may insert in such mortgage any other 8 lawful agreement or condition.

1 Section 19. In a conveyance of real estate the words "mortgage 2 covenants" shall have the full force, meaning and effect of the following 3 words, and shall be applied and construed accordingly: "The mort- 4 gage, for himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and successors, 5 covenants with the mortgagee and his heirs, successors and assigns, that 6 he is lawfully seized in fee simple of the granted premises; that they 7 are free from all encumbrances; that the mortgagor has good right to 8 sell and convey the same; and that he will, and his heirs, executors, 9 administrators and successors shall, warrant and defend the same to 10 the mortgagee and his heirs, successors and assigns forever against the 11 lawful claims and demands of all persons; and that the mortgagor and 12 his heirs, successors or assigns, in case a sale shall be made under the 13 power of sale, will, upon request, execute, acknowledge and deliver to 14 the purchaser or purchasers a deed or deeds of release confirming such 15 sale; and that the mortgagee and his heirs, executors, administrators, 16 successors and assigns are appointed and constituted the attorney or 17 attorneys irrevocable of the said mortgagor to execute and deliver to 18 the said purchaser a full transfer of all policies of insurance on the build- 19 ings upon the land covered by the mortgage at the time of such sale”.

1 Section 20. The following "condition" shall be known as the 2 "Statutory Condition", and may be incorporated in any mortgage by 3 reference:

(CONDITION.)

4 Provided, nevertheless, except as otherwise specifically stated in the 5 mortgage, that if the mortgagor, or his heirs, executors, administrators, 6 successors or assigns shall pay unto the mortgagee or his executors, 7 administrators or assigns the principal and interest secured by the 8 mortgage, and shall perform any obligation secured at the time provided 9 in the note, mortgage or other instrument or any extension thereof, 10 and shall perform the condition of any prior mortgage, and until such 11 payment and performance shall pay when due and payable all taxes, 12 charges and assessments to whomsoever and whenever laid or assessed, 13 whether on the mortgaged premises or on any interest therein or on 14 the debt or obligation secured thereby; shall keep the buildings on 15 said premises insured against fire in a sum not less than the amount 16 secured by the mortgage or as otherwise provided therein for insurance 17 for the benefit of the mortgagee and his executors, administrators and 18 assigns, in such form and at such insurance offices as they shall approve, 19 and, at least two days before the expiration of any policy on said 20 premises, shall deliver to him or them a new and sufficient policy to 21 take the place of the one so expiring, and shall not commit or suffer 22 any strip or waste of the mortgaged premises or any breach of any 23 covenant contained in the mortgage or in any prior mortgage, then the 24 mortgage deed, as also the mortgage note or notes, shall be void.

1 Section 21. The following "power" shall be known as the "Statu- 2 tory Power of Sale", and may be incorporated in any mortgage by re- 3 fere:
But upon any default in the performance or observance of the foregoing or other condition, the mortgagee or his executors, administrators, successors or assigns may sell the mortgaged premises or such portion thereof as may remain subject to the mortgage in case of any partial release thereof, either as a whole or in parcels, together with all improvements that may thereon, by public auction on or near the premises then subject to the mortgage, or, if more than one parcel is then subject thereto, on or near one of said parcels, or at such place as may be designated for that purpose in the mortgage, first complying with the terms of the mortgage and with the statutes relating to the foreclosure of mortgages by the exercise of a power of sale, and may convey the same by proper deed or deeds to the purchaser or purchasers absolutely and in fee simple; and such sale shall forever bar the mortgagor and all persons claiming under him from all right and interest in the mortgaged premises, whether at law or in equity.

Section 22. A co-operative bank mortgage following in substance the form entitled "Co-operative Bank Mortgage" shall when duly executed have the force and effect of a mortgage deed to the use of the mortgagee and its successors and assigns, with mortgage covenants and upon the statutory co-operative bank mortgage condition and with the statutory co-operative bank power of sale, as defined in the two following sections, to secure the payment of the money or the performance of any obligation therein specified. If any buildings on the mortgaged premises shall be wholly or partly destroyed by a fire in respect to which the company or companies insuring the same shall deny liability to the insured, the mortgagee may at its option forfeit said shares, and, after applying the withdrawal value thereof to the payment of said loan, interest and fines, may assign the mortgage with the note and debt thereby secured to such company or companies upon payment by it or them of the balance then owing to the mortgagee on account of said loan; whereupon said note and mortgage shall forthwith become a note and mortgage payable on demand with interest at the rate set forth in said mortgage, payable semi-annually, the first payment of such interest to become due six months after the date of such assignment.

The parties may insert in such co-operative bank mortgage any lawful agreement or condition.

Section 23. The following "co-operative bank mortgage condition" shall be known as the "Statutory Co-operative Bank Mortgage Condition", and may be incorporated in any co-operative bank mortgage by reference:

(co-operative bank mortgage condition.)

Provided, nevertheless, that if the mortgagor or his heirs, executors, administrators, successors or assigns shall pay unto the said mortgagee, its successors or assigns, at its place of business, the monthly dues, interest and premium, if any, together with all fines on payments in arrears, monthly at or before the stated meetings of said bank, until said shares shall reach their matured value, or, if the mortgagor or his heirs, executors, administrators or assigns shall otherwise sooner pay 12 said loan unto the said mortgagee, its successors or assigns, together
13 with the said interest and fines to the time of the next stated monthly 14 meeting after such payment, and shall pay when due all taxes and ass-
15 sessments levied or assessed on the mortgaged premises, and all taxes 16 which the said mortgagee may be required to pay as holder of this 17 mortgage, shall keep the buildings thereon insured against fire in a 18 sum satisfactory to and for the benefit of the said mortgagee, its suc-
19 cessors or assigns, at such insurance office and by such insurance com-
20 pany as it or they shall approve, or, in default thereof, shall on demand
21 pay to the said mortgagee, its successors or assigns all such sums as it 22 shall reasonably pay for such taxes, assessments and insurance, with 23 interest, and shall not commit or suffer any strip or waste of the mort-24 gaged premises, or any breach of any covenant herein contained or in 25 any prior mortgage, then the mortgage deed, as also the mortgage note, 26 shall be void.

1 Section 24. The following "co-operative bank power" shall be 2 known as the "Statutory Co-operative Bank Power of Sale", and may be 3 incorporated in any mortgage by reference:

(CO OPERATIVE BANK POWER.)

4 But in case of non-payment of the aforesaid monthly dues, interest or 5 fines and premiums, if any, for more than four months after any payment 6 thereof shall be due, or upon any other default in the performance or 7 observance of the foregoing or other condition, the mortgagee or its suc-
8 cessors or assigns may sell the mortgaged premises or such portion thereof
9 as may remain subject to the mortgage in case of any partial release
10 thereof, either as a whole or in parcels, together with all improvements 11 that may be thereon, by public auction on or near the premises then 12 subject to the mortgage, or, if more than one parcel is then subject thereto, 13 on or near one of said parcels, or at such place as may be designated for 14 that purpose in the mortgage, first complying with the terms of the mort-15 gage and with the statutes relating to the foreclosure of mortgages by the 16 exercise of a power of sale, and may convey the same by proper deed or 17 deeds to the purchaser or purchasers absolutely and in fee simple; and 18 such sale shall forever bar the mortgagor and all persons claiming under 19 him from all right and interest in the mortgaged premises, whether at 20 law or in equity.

1 Section 25. The holder of a mortgage of real estate, or any person
2 acting in his behalf, may purchase at a foreclosure sale unless the con-
3 strary is stated in the mortgage.

1 Section 26. Until default in the performance or observance of the 2 condition of a mortgage of real estate, the mortgagor and his heirs and 3 assigns may hold and enjoy the mortgaged premises and receive the 4 rents and profits thereof, unless otherwise stated in the mortgage.

1 Section 27. The holder of a mortgage of real estate, or his representa-
2 tives, out of the money arising from a sale under the power of sale shall 3 be entitled to retain all sums then secured by the mortgage, whether 4 then or thereafter payable, including all costs, charges or expenses in-5 curred or sustained by him or them by reason of any default in the per-
ACKNOWLEDGMENT AND RECORDING OF DEEDS.

Section 28. In an assignment of a mortgage of real estate the word "assign" shall be a sufficient word to transfer the mortgage, without the words "transfer and set over".

Section 29. No deed shall be recorded unless a certificate of its acknowledgment or of the proof of its due execution, made as hereinafter provided, is endorsed upon or annexed to it, and such certificate shall be recorded at length with the deed to which it relates; but this section shall not apply to conveyances from the United States.

Section 30. The acknowledgment of a deed or other written instrument required to be acknowledged shall be by one or more of the grantors or by the attorney executing it. The officer before whom the acknowledgment is made shall endorse upon or annex to the instrument a certificate thereof. Such acknowledgment may be made—

(a) If within the commonwealth, before a justice of the peace or notary public.

(b) If without the commonwealth, in any state, territory, district or dependency of the United States, before a justice of the peace, notary public, magistrate or commissioner appointed therefor by the governor of this commonwealth, or, if a certificate of authority in the form prescribed by section thirty-three is attached thereto, before any other officer therein authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds.

(c) If without the United States or any dependency thereof, before a justice of the peace, notary, magistrate or commissioner as above provided, or before an ambassador, minister, consul, vice consul, chargé d'affaires or consular officer or agent of the United States accredited to the country where the acknowledgment is made; if made before an ambassador or other official of the United States, it shall be certified by him under his seal of office.

Section 31. The acknowledgment by a married woman may be taken in the same form as if she were sole, and without any examination separate and apart from her husband.

Section 32. The law relative to the acknowledgment and recording of deeds shall apply to letters of attorney for the conveyance of real estate.
1 Section 33. Whenever, under clause (b) of section thirty or under section forty-one, a certificate of authority is required to be attached, there shall be subjoined or attached to the certificate of proof or acknowledgment a certificate of the secretary of state of the state where the officer taking the acknowledgment resides, under the seal of such state, or a certificate of the clerk of a court of record of such state in the county where said officer resides or where he took such proof or acknowledgment, under the seal of the court, stating that said officer was, at the time of taking such proof or acknowledgment, duly authorized therefor in said state, and that said secretary of state or clerk of the court is well acquainted with his handwriting and verily believes the signature affixed to such certificate of proof or acknowledgment is genuine.

1 Section 34. If the grantor dies or removes from the commonwealth without having acknowledged his deed, the due execution thereof may be proved before any court of record in this commonwealth by the testimony of a subscribing witness thereto.

1 Section 35. If all the subscribing witnesses to the deed are also dead or out of the commonwealth, the due execution thereof may be proved before such court by the handwriting of the grantor and of a subscribing witness.

1 Section 36. If a grantor refuses to acknowledge his deed, the grantees or any person who claims under him may apply to a court of record in the county where the land lies or where the grantor or a subscribing witness to the deed resides, and such court shall thereupon issue a summons to the grantor to appear at a certain time and place to hear the testimony of the subscribing witnesses. Such summons, with a copy of the deed annexed, shall be served seven days at least before the time therein assigned for proving the deed, and at such hearing its due execution may be proved by the testimony of one or more of the subscribing witnesses.

1 Section 37. If a grantor refuses to acknowledge his deed and the subscribing witnesses thereto are all dead or out of the commonwealth, its execution may be proved before any court of record in this commonwealth by proving the handwriting of the grantor and of a subscribing witness, the court first summoning the grantor for the purpose and in the manner provided in the preceding section.

1 Section 38. A person interested in a deed which has not been acknowledged may, before or during proceedings before a court for proof of its execution, file in the proper registry of deeds a copy thereof, compared with the original by the register; and the filing of such copy shall for thirty days thereafter have the same effect as the recording of the deed, if the deed is within that time duly proved and recorded; or if, at the expiration of said thirty days, such proceedings are pending, the effect of filing such copy shall continue until the expiration of seven days after the termination of such proceedings.

ALIENATION OF LAND. [CHAP. 183.

SECTION 39. The execution of a deed shall not be proved in the manner before provided unless it has at least one subscribing witness.

SECTION 40. A certificate of proof of the execution of a deed shall be endorsed upon it or annexed thereto by the clerk or register of the court or by the judge before whom such proof is made, and the certificate shall state whether the grantor was present at the hearing.

SECTION 41. The proof of a deed or other instrument, if made without the commonwealth in some state, territory, district or dependency of the United States, may be made before any of the persons enumerated in clause (b) of section thirty; provided, however, that a certificate of authority as provided in section thirty-three shall be attached thereto; if without the United States or any dependency thereof, such proof may be made before any of the persons enumerated in clause (c) of said section thirty.

SECTION 42. The forms set forth in the appendix to this chapter for taking acknowledgments to deeds and other instruments and for certifying the authority of officers taking proofs or acknowledgments may be used; but this shall not prevent the use of any other forms heretofore lawfully used.

[See Appendix, Forms (13) to (16).]

TITLE BY DECREE OF COURT.

SECTION 43. Whenever a final decree in equity shall be made by the supreme judicial or superior court directing that a deed, conveyance or release of any real estate or interest therein shall be made, and the party directed to make such deed, conveyance or release does not duly execute it within the time specified in the decree, the decree itself shall operate to vest title to the real estate or interest in the party entitled thereto by the decree as fully and completely as if such deed, conveyance or release had duly been executed by the party directed to make it.

SECTION 44. The recording or registration of a duly certified copy of such decree, attested by the clerk or assistant clerk of the court where made, in the registry of deeds of the district where said real estate is situated, shall have the same force and effect as if a duly executed deed, conveyance or release had so been recorded or registered.

BARRING OF ESTATES TAIL.

SECTION 45. A person seized of land as tenant in tail may convey such land in fee simple by a deed in common form, as if he were seized thereof in fee simple; and such conveyance shall bar the estate tail and all remainders and reversions expectant thereon.
1 Section 46. If land is held by one person for life with a vested remainder in tail in another, the tenant for life and the remainderman may convey such land in fee simple by their deed or deeds in common form, as if the remainder had been limited in fee simple; and such deed or deeds shall bar the estate tail and all remainders and reversions expectant thereon.

1 Section 47. Equitable estates tail, in possession or remainder, and all remainders and reversions expectant thereon, may be barred in the same manner as legal estates tail and the remainders and reversions of the equitable estate tail.

1 Section 48. The person to whom an equitable fee simple is conveyed pursuant to the preceding section shall, upon request therefor, be entitled to a conveyance of the outstanding legal estate from the person in whom such legal estate is then or thereafter vested in trust.

Conveyance of Estates Subject to Remainder, etc.

1 Section 49. If land is subject to a vested or contingent remainder, executory devise, conditional limitation, reversion or power of appointment, the probate court for the county where such land is situated may, upon the petition of any person having an estate or interest therein, either present or future, vested or contingent, and after notice and other proceedings as hereinafter required, appoint one or more trustees and authorize them or them to sell and convey such land or any part thereof in fee simple, if such sale and conveyance appears to the court to be necessary or expedient, or to mortgage the same for such an amount, on such terms and for such purposes as may seem to the court judicious or expedient, and such conveyance or mortgage shall be valid and binding upon all parties.

1 Section 50. Notice of a petition under the preceding section shall be given in such manner as the court may order to all persons who are or may become interested in the land to which the petition relates, and to all persons whose issue, not being, may become interested therein; and the court shall of its own motion in every case appoint a suitable person to appear and act therein as the next friend of all minors, persons not ascertained, and persons not in being, who are or may become interested in such land; and provisions of sections thirty-four and thirty-five of chapter two hundred and one consistent herewith shall apply in the case of such appointment.

1 Section 51. A trustee appointed under section forty-nine shall give bond in such form and for such amount as the court appointing him may order, and he shall receive and hold, invest or apply the proceeds of any sale or mortgage made by him for the benefit of the persons who would have been entitled to the land if such sale or mortgage had not been made, and the probate court of any county where any part of such land is situated shall have jurisdiction of all matters thereafter arising relative to such trust.

Section 52. If land is charged with the payment of money, either in fixed amounts or in annuities for a life or lives or for years, the supreme judicial or probate court for the county where any part of such land is situated may upon the petition of the persons holding title thereto subject to the charge of such payment, and after notice and a hearing, authorize them to sell and convey by private sale or public auction the whole or any portion of such land in fee simple and free from such charges, whether present or future, certain or contingent; and it shall in such case provide by its decree for the payment of the amounts charged upon such land by placing the whole or any portion of the proceeds of the sale thereof in the hands of a trustee appointed by it, by the purchase of annuities for the persons entitled to receive the amounts so charged, 12 or by any other means which shall be considered just and reasonable. 13 Such trustees shall give bond in such sum as the court may order, shall, 14 under the direction of the court, manage and account for the trust fund 15 and shall distribute the income thereof according to its decree.

INSTRUMENTS OF DEFEASANCE.

Section 53. If a deed purports to contain an absolute conveyance of land, but is made defeasible by a deed, bond or other instrument, the original deed shall not be thereby affected, as against any person other than the maker of the instrument of defeasance and his heirs and devisees and persons having actual notice of it, unless such instrument is recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land to which it relates is situated.

Discharge of mortgages.

Section 54. A mortgage may be discharged by an entry acknowledging satisfaction thereof, made on the margin of the record of the mortgage in the registry of deeds and signed by the mortgagee, his executor, administrator, successor or assignee, and his signature witnessed by the register of deeds or by the assistant register of deeds, or by some person employed in the registry of deeds designated by the register for that purpose by a writing which shall be recorded in said registry; and such entry shall have the same effect as a deed of release duly acknowledged and recorded. One of two or more joint holders of a mortgage may so discharge it or he may discharge it by a deed of release duly acknowledged and recorded. A mortgage may also be discharged by a written acknowledgment of payment or satisfaction of the debt thereby secured, or of the conditions therein contained, signed and sealed by the mortgagee, his executor, administrator, successor or assignee. Such instrument shall have the same effect as a deed of release, shall be valid if executed by one of two or more joint holders of a mortgage and may be recorded when duly acknowledged or on proof of its execution in accordance with sections thirty-four to forty-one, inclusive.

Section 55. If a mortgagee, his executor, administrator, successor or assignee, after full performance of the condition of his mortgage, whether before or after breach of such condition, refuses or neglects for 4 seven days after request therefor and after a tender of his reasonable 1783, 37, § 6.
5 charges, to make such discharge or to execute and acknowledge a deed R. S. 59, § 34.
6 of release of the mortgage, he shall be liable in tort for all damages G. S. 86, § 31.
7 caused by such neglect or refusal.

1. Aliens may take and convey real property.
2. Contingent estates to be alienable.
4. Estates tail liable for debts, etc.
5. Conveyances, etc., for life, with remainder to heirs.
6. Effect of words "die without issue", etc.
7. Conveyances and devises to two or more persons.
8. Conveyances to grantor and another jointly.
9. Deed of tenant for life or years.
10. Expectant estate not to be defeated by act of owner of precedent estate, etc.
11. Limitation of two preceding sections.
12. Removal of fixtures by life tenant.

Sect.
13. Conditional sales of fixtures, portable or sectional buildings, etc. Notice; contents, recording.
14. Provision for sale of standing wood during life estate, etc.
15. Proceedings affecting title to realty binding on third parties, when. Memorandum; contents, recording.
17. Judgments affecting land.
18. Foreclosure of liens, etc.
20. Effect of descent or discontinuance.
21. Grantor to make encumbrances known to grantee.
22. Grantor liable for damages in removing apparent encumbrance.
23. Restrictions or conditions, etc., on real property.
1 Section 1. Aliens may take, hold, transmit and convey real property, and no title to real property shall be invalid on account of the alienage of a former owner.

1852, 29; 86. P. S. 126, § 1. 15 Pick. 345. Aliens may take and convey real property.
G. S. 90, § 33. R. L. 134, § 1. 100 Mass. 527.

1 Section 2. If a contingent remainder, executory devise or other estate in expectancy is so granted or limited to a person that in case of his death before the happening of the contingency the estate would descend to his heirs in fee simple, he may, before the happening of the contingency, sell, assign or devise the land subject to the contingency.

1 Section 3. A contingent remainder shall take effect, notwithstanding any determination of the particular estate, in the same manner in which it would have taken effect if it had been an executory devise or a springing or shifting use, and shall, as well as such limitations, be subject to the rule respecting remoteness known as the rule against perpetuities, exclusive of any other supposed rule respecting limitations to successive generations or double possibilities; but this section, except so far as declaratory of existing law, shall apply only to instruments executed on or after April sixth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, and to wills and codicils revived or confirmed by a will or codicil executed on or after said date.

1 Section 4. Land held in fee tail, except an estate tail in remainder, shall be liable for the debts of the tenant in tail, both in his lifetime and after his decease, as if held in fee simple; and if taken on execution or sold by executors, administrators, guardians or conservators, the creditor or purchaser shall hold such land in fee simple.

R. L. 134, § 3. 1915, 23. 4 Mass. 189. 3 Gray, 162.

1 Section 5. If land is granted or devised to a person and after his death to his heirs in fee, however the grant or devise is expressed, an estate for life only shall vest in such first taker, and a remainder in fee simple in his heirs.

1791, 60, § 3. 9 Pick. 136. 12 Gray, 49. 149 Mass. 200. Estates tail liable for debts, etc. 1857, 60, § 29. P. S. 126, § 3.

1 Section 6. In a limitation of real or personal property by deed, will, or other instrument in writing, executed after April thirtieth, eighteen hundred and eighty-eight, the words "die without issue", or "die without leaving issue", or "have no issue", or "die without heirs of the body", or other words importing either a want or failure of issue of any person in his lifetime or at the time of his death, or an indefinite failure of issue, shall, unless a contrary intention clearly appears by the instrument creating such limitation, mean a want or failure of issue in the lifetime or at the time of the death of such person, and not an indefinite failure of his issue.

P. S. 126, § 4. 4 Gray, 353.
Section 7. A conveyance or devise of land to two or more persons or to husband and wife, except a mortgage or a devise or conveyance in trust, shall create an estate in common and not in joint tenancy, unless it is expressed in such conveyance or devise that the grantees or devisees shall take jointly, or as joint tenants, or in joint tenancy, or to them and the survivor of them, or unless it manifestly appears from the tenor of the instrument that it was intended to create an estate in joint tenancy.

Section 8. Real estate, including any interest therein, may be transferred by a person to himself jointly with another person in the same manner in which it might be transferred by him to another person.

Section 9. A conveyance by a tenant for life or years which purports to grant a greater estate than he possesses or can lawfully convey shall not work a forfeiture of his estate, but shall pass to the grantee all the estate which such tenant can lawfully convey.

Section 10. No expectant estate shall be defeated or barred by an alienation or other act of the owner of the preceding estate, nor by the destruction of such precedent estate by dispossess, forfeiture, surrender or merger.

Section 11. The two preceding sections shall not prevent the barring of estates tail in the manner provided in chapter one hundred and eighty-three, nor an expectant estate from being defeated in a manner provided for or authorized by the person creating such estate.

Section 12. Fixtures annexed to the freehold by a life tenant or by his assigns may be removed during the continuance of the life estate or within a reasonable time thereafter; and in determining what are fixtures, the common law rules prevailing between a landlord and a tenant for years shall govern. This section shall not affect the right of the owner of land to make a different provision by will or otherwise as to the removal of fixtures, nor impair or affect the provisions of any will or other instrument by which an estate for life in land is created or limited.

Section 13. No conditional sale of heating apparatus, plumbing goods, ranges, buildings of wood or metal construction of the class commonly known as portable or sectional buildings, or other articles of personal property, which are afterward wrought into or attached to real estate, whether they are fixtures at common law or not, shall be valid as against any mortgagee, purchaser or grantee of such real estate, unless not later than ten days after the delivery thereof of such personal property a notice such as is herein prescribed is recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the real estate lies. The notice 10 shall be signed by the vendor or a person claiming under him and shall 11 contain the names of the contracting parties, the name of the record 12 owner of the real estate at the time of recording the notice, the fact that 13 it is agreed that title to such personal property shall remain in the 14 vendor until the purchase price is paid, the terms of payment and the 15 amount of such purchase price remaining unpaid, and descriptions, suf-16 sufficiently accurate for identification, of such real estate and the personal 17 property delivered or to be delivered thereon. If the sale is of several 18 articles for a lump sum greater than the value of the personal property 19 delivered or to be delivered on the real estate, the notice shall also 20 state such lump sum and such value. The notice shall be indexed 21 under the name of such record owner, and a release of title in any such 22 article of personal property may be recorded at any time.

1 Section 14. If the supreme judicial court or the probate court for 2 the county where the land lies finds that wood or timber, standing on 3 land the use and improvement of which belongs, for life or otherwise,
4 to a person other than the owner of the fee therein, has ceased to im-
5 prove by growth, or ought for any cause to be cut, it may appoint a 6 trustee to sell and convey said wood or timber to be cut and carried 7 away within a time to be limited in the order of sale, to hold and invest 8 the proceeds thereof after paying therefrom the expenses of such sale, 9 to pay over the income, above the taxes and other expenses of the 10 trust, to the person entitled to such use and improvement while his 11 right thereto continues, and thereafter to pay the principal of the fund
12 to the owner of such land. If wood or timber has been cut as aforesaid, 13 no more thereof shall be cut on such land by the person entitled to such 14 use and improvement without permission from said court. Such sale, if 15 authorized by a probate court, shall be made in the manner provided by 16 law for the sale of real property by guardians; and if such sale is au-17 thorized by the supreme judicial court, the trustees shall give to such 18 person as the court shall designate a bond, for the use and benefit of the 19 persons interested in the proceeds of the sale, conditioned on the faithful 20 discharge of the trust; and the court may remove the trustee, and 21 appoint another in his stead.

1 Section 15. A writ of entry or other proceeding, either at law or in 2 equity, which affects the title to real property or the use and occupation
3 thereof or the buildings thereon, shall not have any effect except against 4 the parties thereto, their heirs and devisees and persons having actual 5 notice thereof, until a memorandum containing the names of the parties 6 to such proceeding, the court in which it is pending, the date of the 7 writ or other commencement thereof, the name of the town where the 8 real property liable to be affected thereby lies and a description of such 9 real property sufficiently accurate for identification is recorded in the 10 registry of deeds for the county or district where such real property
11 lies; but this section shall not apply to attachments, levies of execution 12 or proceedings in the probate courts.

1 Section 16. At any time after final judgment or a decree in favor of 2 the defendant, or after the discontinuance, dismissal or other final dis-
3 position, by consent of parties or otherwise, of a proceeding mentioned
4 in the preceding section, or in case of the non-entry of the writ, petition 5 or bill of complaint, the clerk of the court wherein such judgment, decree, discontinuance, dismissal or other final disposition is recorded, or out of which such writ issued or to which such petition or bill of complaint was addressed, shall upon demand give a certificate of the fact of such judgment, decree, discontinuance, dismissal, final disposal or non-entry, and such certificate may be recorded in the registry in which the original record mentioned in said section was made.

SECTION 17. A judgment or decree, at law or in equity, rendered after June eighth, eighteen hundred and ninety-two, affecting the title to real property, shall not have any effect except against the parties thereto, their heirs and devisees and persons having actual notice thereof, unless a certified copy of the record thereof has been recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land lies, with a memorandum of the town where the land lies and a description thereof sufficiently accurate for identification if the record of the judgment or decree does not give those particulars. If a notice of the pendency of the action has been duly recorded in the registry of deeds, the record of the judgment or decree may be made within sixty days after its rendition, and the entry of an ordinary attachment of real property in the registry of deeds shall be considered notice of the pendency of the action.

SECTION 18. No person shall make an entry into land or tenements except in cases where his entry is allowed by law, and in such cases he shall not enter by force, but in a peaceable manner.

SECTION 19. If real property has been conveyed by deed on a condition therein expressed, which is not a mortgage, the grantor, his heirs and devisees upon breach of such condition may enter on the granted premises in order to re vest the title; and a certificate of such entry, made and sworn to before any officer duly qualified to administer oaths by two competent witnesses and recorded within thirty days after such entry in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land lies, or a duly certified copy of the record of such certificate, shall, after the expiration of three years from such entry, be prima facie evidence of such breach and entry. If a grantor, his heirs or devisees made such entry and certificate and filed the certificate as herein required prior to June ninth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, said certificate or a duly certified copy of the record thereof shall have like force and effect.

SECTION 20. No descent or discontinuance shall take away or defeat any right of entry or of action for the recovery of real property.

SECTION 21. If real property upon which any encumbrance exists is conveyed by deed or mortgage, the grantor, in whatever capacity he may act, shall before the consideration is paid, by exception in the deed or otherwise, make known to the grantee the existence and nature of such prior encumbrance so far as he has knowledge thereof.
1 Section 22. Whoever conveys real property by a deed or mortgage which contains a covenant that it is free from all encumbrances shall, if it appears by a public record that an actual or apparent encumbrance known or unknown to him, exists thereon, be liable in an action of contract to the grantee, his heirs, executors, administrators, successors or assigns, for all damages sustained in removing the same.

1 Section 23. Conditions or restrictions, unlimited as to time, by which the title or use of real property is affected, shall be limited to the term of thirty years after the date of the deed or other instrument or the date of the probate of the will creating them, except in cases of gifts or devises for public, charitable or religious purposes. This section shall not apply to conditions or restrictions existing on July sixteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, or to those contained in a deed, gift or grant of the commonwealth.

3. (a) Petitions for the confirmation and registration and petitions for the confirmation without registration of title to land and easements or rights in land held and possessed in fee simple within the commonwealth, with power to hear and determine all questions arising upon such petitions and such other questions as may come before it under this chapter, subject to all rights to jury trial and of appeal provided by law. The proceedings upon such petitions shall be proceedings in rem against the land, and the decrees shall operate directly on the land and vest and establish title thereto. A certified copy of the decree of confirmation and registration shall be filed and registered in the registry district or districts where the land or any portion thereof lies, as provided in section forty-eight, and a certificate of title in the form prescribed by law shall be issued pursuant thereto. Immediately upon the entry of a decree of confirmation without registration, the recorder shall cause a certified copy of the same to be recorded in the registry of deeds for the district or districts where the land or any portion thereof lies, and thereafter the land therein described shall be dealt with as unregistered land.

(b) Proceedings to foreclose tax titles, under chapter sixty.

(e) Writs of entry, under chapter two hundred and thirty-seven.  21

(d) Petitions to require actions to try title to real estate, under sections one to five, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and forty.  22

(e) Petitions to determine the validity of encumbrances, under sections eleven to fourteen, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and forty.  23

(f) Petitions to discharge mortgages, under section fifteen of chapter two hundred and forty.  24

(g) Petitions under section twenty-seven of chapter two hundred and forty to establish power or authority to transfer an interest in real estate.  25

(h) Petitions to determine the boundaries of flats, under section nineteen of chapter two hundred and forty.  26

(i) Petitions under sections sixteen to eighteen, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and forty to determine whether or not equitable restrictions are enforceable.  27

(j) Petitions under section twelve of chapter forty-two to determine county, city, town or district boundaries.  28

It shall also have original jurisdiction concurrent with the supreme judicial court and the superior court of the following: —  29

(k) Suits in equity to quiet or establish the title to land or to remove a cloud from the title thereto. In the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by this clause, the land court shall have all the powers and jurisdiction conferred by sections six to ten, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and forty.  30

The court shall hold its sittings in Boston, but may adjourn from time to time to such other places as public convenience may require. In Suffolk county, the city council of Boston, and in other counties, the county commissioners, shall provide suitable rooms for the sittings of said court in the same building with, or convenient to, the probate court or the registry of deeds, and shall provide necessary books and such printed blanks, forms and stationery as the court may order.  31

The court shall have jurisdiction throughout the commonwealth, shall always be open, except on Sundays and legal holidays, and shall have a seal with which all orders, processes and papers made by or proceeding from the court and requiring a seal shall be sealed. Its notices, orders and processes may run into any county and be returnable as it directs.  32

The court shall from time to time make general rules and forms for procedure, which, before taking effect, shall be approved by the supreme judicial court or by a justice thereof.  33

Retirement of associate judges to part-time service. 1931, 419, § 2.

SECTION 2. There shall be three judges of the court, one of whom shall be appointed, commissioned and qualified as judge and the other two as associate judges, and, in addition thereto, such associate judges as shall have retired to part-time service under section two A. 1900, 334, § 1. R. L. 128, § 2. 1924, 271, § 1. 1931, 419, § 1.

SECTION 2A. An associate judge of the land court who has reached the age of sixty-five years and has served as judge or associate judge of said court for at least fifteen years may, at his request, with the approval of the governor and council, retire to part-time service in said court, subject to the call of the judge thereof. Thereafter such associate judge shall not be required under his commission to serve as an associate judge for more than one half time and for such service he shall receive from the commonwealth one half of the full salary provided in section 9 fourteen for an associate judge of said court. The judge may also call 10 upon an associate judge so retired for more than half-time service if he 11 is able and willing so to serve, and to the extent of the service so ren-12 dered he shall receive, upon certificate of the judge, an additional pro-13 portionate amount of the full salary of an associate judge.

1 Section 3. The court may be held by one judge and simultaneous 2 sessions may be held, either in the same county or in different counties.
3 and shall be so arranged as to insure a prompt discharge of its business.

1 Section 4. Processes issuing from the court shall bear teste of the 2 judge, shall be under the seal of the court and be signed by the recorder.

1 Section 5. In case of a vacancy in the office of judge, or of his in-2 terest, absence or inability to perform his duties, either of the associate 3 judges shall perform them.

1 Section 6. The governor, with the advice and consent of the coun-
2 cil, shall appoint a recorder, who shall be clerk of the court and hold 3 office for five years. He shall attend the sessions of the court, keep a 4 docket of all causes, and affix the seal of the court to all processes or 5 papers requiring it. Subject to the approval of the governor and council, 6 the judge may appoint deputy recorders, who shall perform such duties
7 as the court shall assign to them. The recorder may, with the approval 8 of the judge, appoint two assistant clerks of court who shall, under his 9 direction, perform the duties of clerk of court.

1 Section 7. The recorder shall be under the direction of the court,
2 shall have the custody and control of all papers and documents filed
3 with him in any petition for registration, action or proceeding in said
4 court, and shall carefully number and index them. Said papers and doc-
5 uments shall be kept in Boston in the recorder’s office, which shall be 6 near the land court. He may, with the court’s approval, employ neces-7 sary assistants and messengers.

1 Section 8. The recorder and any deputy recorder may act in any
2 county, and after land has been registered, may make all memoranda
3 affecting the title and enter and issue certificates of title as provided in 4 this chapter.

1 Section 9. A facsimile of the signature of the recorder, imprinted
2 by him or by such office assistant as he in writing may designate, on any 3 paper which he is required by law to certify as a true copy, except a copy 4 of a decree for transcription in a registry of deeds, and such facsimile im-
5 pressed by the recorder himself upon any writ, summons, order of notice,
6 or order of attachment, except executions, shall have the same validity
7 as his written signature.

1 Section 10. The register of deeds in each district where land has been
2 registered shall have the same authority as the recorder to make memo-
3 randa affecting the title of such land, and to enter and issue new certifi-
4 cates of title, as he is authorized by law to do. The register of deeds, duties 5 as assistant recorder.

cates of title, and to affix the seal of the court to such certificates and duplicate certificates of title; but in executing the provisions of this chapter, registers of deeds shall be subject to the general direction of the recorder, in order to secure uniformity; and, in the performance of their duties under this chapter, the official designation of registers of deeds shall be assistant recorders for their respective registry districts.

SECTION 10A. The assistant recorder in any registry district may, with the approval of the judge, appoint one or more technical assistants whose compensation shall be fixed by the judge, subject to the provisions of sections forty-eight to fifty-six, inclusive, of chapter thirty-five. Said assistants shall perform such duties as the court may from time to time assign to them.

SECTION 11. The recorder and all assistant recorders shall be sworn before the judge of the land court, and a record thereof shall be made. They shall give bond in a sum to be fixed by the court, for the faithful performance of their official duties, before entering upon the same. They may administer oaths to persons appearing before them in matters pertaining to the registration of land, if an oath is required. They shall keep accurate accounts of all money received as fees or otherwise, which shall be subject to examination by the director of accounts, in the same manner as accounts of registers of deeds. The recorder shall pay over quarterly to the state treasurer all such money received by him either directly or through the assistant recorders. In case of the absence of an assistant recorder, the assistant register for the district, or if there is no assistant register, the person acting as clerk in the office of the register of deeds, shall perform the duties of the assistant recorder, who shall be responsible for him.

SECTION 12. The judge of the land court may appoint one or more examiners of title who shall be attorneys at law and he may also appoint a chief title examiner who shall perform all the duties of an examiner of title and such other duties in connection with the work of the court as the judge or associate judge may assign. Such chief title examiner shall also in case of the absence, sickness or disability of the recorder perform, under the title of deputy recorder, all of the official duties of the recorder.

SECTION 13. Upon request of the judges, the sheriff of any county other than Suffolk shall assign a deputy to attend the sessions of the land court in that county. The judges shall appoint an officer for attendance upon the sessions of said court in Suffolk county.

SECTION 13A. At the trial of any issue of fact in the land court the presiding judge may appoint a stenographer, who shall be sworn and shall attend the trial, or such part thereof as the judge may direct, and perform like duties and receive the same compensation therefor as a stenographer appointed by the superior court who is not on salary; and the sums so payable for his attendance at court and for any transcript of his notes or part thereof furnished to the judge by his direction shall be paid by the county in which the land in question lies, upon the certificate of the judge.
1 Section 14. The judge and associate judges of the land court shall 2 each receive a salary of ten thousand dollars, except as provided in section 3 two A, and each shall annually receive, upon the certificate of the judge, 4 the amount of the expenses incurred by him in the discharge of his 5 duties, to be paid by the commonwealth. The recorder shall receive a 6 salary of sixty-five hundred dollars. Each deputy recorder shall receive 7 such compensation as shall be fixed by the judge, subject to the approval 8 of the governor and council. Except as provided in section ten A, the 9 compensation and salaries of examiners of title and all assistants and 10 messengers shall be fixed by the governor and council. The salary of the 11 officer in attendance upon the court in Suffolk county shall be twenty-four 12 hundred and eighty-four dollars, in full for all services performed by him.
13 All salaries and expenses of the court shall be paid by the commonwealth, 14 except the salaries of the assistant recorders and the expenses incurred 15 by them under this chapter and the compensation and expenses of their 16 technical assistants appointed under section ten A, which shall be paid 17 by the respective counties. All fees collected by the assistant recorders, 18 except those received upon the filing of petitions, which shall be trans-19 mitted with the petitions to the recorder, shall be paid to their respective 20 counties.

PROCEDURE.
1 Section 15. Except as provided in the following section, all causes
2 in the land court shall be tried and all questions of fact finally determined 3 by the court, unless a respondent or tenant with his answer, or a petition-4 or demandant within ten days after the time limited by law for 5 filing an appearance and answer, or within ten days after the time al-
6 lowed by the court for filing an answer, claims a trial by jury. If trial
7 by jury is claimed, issues therefor upon any material question of fact 8 shall, upon motion of either party, be framed in the land court, and 9 within thirty days after the expiration of the time for claiming a trial
10 by jury, except as otherwise provided in section sixteen and in chapter 11 two hundred and thirty-seven, copies thereof and of all other material 12 papers in the case, certified by the recorder, shall be entered by the 13 moving party in the superior court for the county where the land lies for 14 a jury trial thereon. Failure to enter the copies and papers required by 15 this or the following section or by section twenty-three of chapter 16 two hundred and thirty-seven within the times limited by said sections, 17 respectively, shall constitute a waiver of the claim to a trial by jury, 18 and thereafter the superior court shall have no further jurisdiction of the 19 case. Upon the motion of either party in the superior court the cause 20 shall be advanced for speedy hearing, but no matters shall be tried in 21 the superior court except those specified in the issues. Questions of law 22 arising in the superior court may be taken to the supreme judicial 23 court for revision by any party aggrieved by any opinion, ruling, 24 direction or judgment of the court, in the same manner as in proceedings 25 at law in said court. Questions of law arising in the land court on any 26 decision or decree may be taken by any party aggrieved directly to the 27 supreme judicial court for revision in the same manner in which ques-
28 tions of law are taken to that court from the superior court. The land 29 court, after any decision or decree dependent upon questions of law, may 30 report such decision or decree, with so much of the case as is necessary 31 for understanding such questions of law, for the determination of the 32 supreme judicial court.
SECTION 16. At any time before the expiration of thirty days from the entry of a decree in a case, any party aggrieved by such decree who files an affidavit in court that he has not received notice of the proceedings by registered mail and that any signature of his appearing on any receipt for registered mail filed with the papers in the case is neither his signature nor signed by one having authority so to do, and that in no other way did he receive actual notice, or have knowledge, of the pendency of the proceedings within the time allowed for filing an appearance and answer, may appeal from said decree for a jury trial on any question of fact. Within said thirty days after such decree, issues shall be framed in the land court and the case entered in the superior court for trial as provided in the preceding section.

SECTION 17. The clerk of the superior court, after the determination of issues from the land court, shall certify to the land court such determination, which shall be conclusive upon said court as to such issues; but the land court may hear evidence upon other material questions of fact, and arguments upon the cause, before making its decision.

SECTION 18. The clerk of the supreme judicial court, upon the determination of proceedings pending therein upon appeal or exceptions from the land court, shall certify to the land court the final decision, and the land court shall enter the final decree in the cause, in accordance with the certificate.

SECTION 19. If an appellant does not duly prosecute his appeal within the time limited, the original order, decision or decree shall stand as if no appeal had been taken.

SECTION 20. [Repealed, 1931, 387, § 2.]

SECTION 21. Costs shall be taxed and the collection enforced as in the superior court sitting in equity, unless a different provision is made.

SECTION 22. Writs, petitions, bills and pleadings in proceedings in the land court may be filed with the recorder of the land court, or with the register of deeds for the district where the land or any part thereof lies, who shall immediately index the proceedings in the general index by the names of the parties, and transmit the papers to the recorder. The recorder shall cause copies of said papers to be made and transmitted to the said register of deeds, who shall file the same, and, if the original papers were filed with the recorder, index the proceedings as above provided. Whenever such papers contain a reference to any instruments recorded in the registry of deeds where they are filed, the register of deeds shall cause a minute thereof to be made upon the margin of such record.

SECTION 23. The recorder shall transmit copies of all final decrees and executions in proceedings mentioned in the preceding section to the register of deeds for the district where the land or any part thereof lies, who shall file and index the same in the manner provided in said section.
1 Section 24. The court may refer any such proceeding to one of the 2 examiners appointed under section twelve, who shall examine and report
3 on whatever matters of title or fact the court shall designate in its order
4 of reference. Such reference, if made immediately upon the filing or entry
5 of the proceeding, shall be subject to section thirty-seven, so far as ap-6 plicable, but if made after an appearance is entered for a defendant or 7 tenant, it shall be subject to section forty-three.

1 Section 25. In all matters within its jurisdiction, the court shall have 2 all the powers which the superior court has in actions at law and suits
3 in equity, including the power to grant injunctions and restraining 4 orders in accordance with the procedure provided by chapter two hun-
5 dred and fourteen, as justice and equity may require, except that it 6 shall hold no trials by jury.

ORIGINAL REGISTRATION.

1 Section 26. Petitions for registration of title may be made by the 2 following persons:
3 First, Persons who claim, singly or collectively, to own the legal estate
4 or easements or rights in land held and possessed in fee simple.
5 Second, Persons who claim, singly or collectively, to have the power 6 of appointing or disposing of the legal estate or easements or rights in 7 land held and possessed in fee simple.
8 Third, Infants and other persons under disability, by their legally ap-
9 pointed guardians; but the person in whose behalf the petition is made 10 shall be named as petitioner.
11 Fourth, Corporations, by any officer duly authorized by a vote of the 12 directors.
13 One or more tenants for a term of years, which is regarded as a fee
14 simple in section one of chapter one hundred and eighty-six, shall not 15 petition except jointly with those who claim the reversionary interest 16 which makes up the fee simple at common law; nor shall a mortgagor, 17 except as hereinafter provided, petition without the written consent of 18 the mortgagee; nor shall a married woman petition without the written 19 consent of her husband, unless she holds the land as her separate prop-
20 erty or has a power to appoint the land in fee simple, or is living apart 21 from her husband for a justifiable cause which has been established by 22 a decree of court; nor shall one or more tenants petition who claim un-23 divided shares less than a fee simple in the whole land described in the pe-24 tition for registration. If the holder of a mortgage does not consent to 25 the petition, it may be entered nevertheless, and the title registered, 26 subject to the mortgage, which may be dealt with or foreclosed as if the 27 land subject to it had not been registered. The decree of registration 28 in such case shall describe the mortgage, and shall state that it has not 29 been registered and that registration is made subject to it, and shall pro-
30 vide that no subsequent certificate shall be issued and no further papers 31 registered relative to such land after a foreclosure of such mortgage.

1 Section 26A. Petitions for the confirmation of title without regis-2 tration may be made by the following persons:
3 First, Persons who claim, singly or collectively, to own a legal estate
4 or easement or right in land held and possessed in fee simple.

Second, Persons who claim, singly or collectively, to have the power of appointing or disposing of a legal estate or easement or right in land held and possessed in fee simple.

Third, Infants and other persons under disability, by their legally appointed guardians; but the person in whose behalf the petition is made shall be named as petitioner.

Fourth, Corporations, by any officer duly authorized by a vote of the corporation or its governing board.

SECTION 27. The petition may be filed with the recorder, or with the assistant recorder at the registry of deeds for any district where the land, or any part thereof, lies. Upon filing his petition, the petitioner shall forthwith cause to be filed in the registry of deeds for each district where any part of the land lies a memorandum stating that the petition for registration has been filed, the date and place of filing, and a copy of the description in the petition of the land or of so much thereof as is within the district. Such memorandum shall be recorded and indexed by the register with the records of deeds. Each assistant recorder shall also keep an index of all petitions in his district, and in every case where the petition is filed with him shall transmit the petition, the papers and plans filed therewith and such memorandum, when recorded, to the recorder.

SECTION 28. The petition shall be in writing, signed and sworn to by each petitioner or by a person duly authorized in his behalf. It shall contain a description of the land, and shall state whether the petitioner is married; and if married, the name of the wife or husband; and if unmarried, whether he or she has been married, and if so, when and how the marriage relation terminated; and if by divorce, when, where and by what court the divorce was granted. It shall also state the name in full and the address of the petitioner, and the names and addresses of the adjoining owners and occupants, if known; and if not known, it shall state what search has been made to find them.

SECTION 29. If the petition describes the land as bounded on a public or private way, it shall state whether or not the petitioner claims any and what land within the limits of the way, and whether the petitioner desires to have the line of the way determined.

SECTION 30. If a petition is made subject to an existing recorded mortgage, the holder of which has consented thereto, or subject to a recorded lease for a term exceeding seven years, or if the registration is to be made subject to such a mortgage or lease executed after the time of the petition and before the date of the transcription of the decree, the petitioner, before a decree of registration is entered, shall, if required by the court, file a certified copy of such mortgage or lease, and shall cause the original, or, in the discretion of the court, a certified copy thereof, to be presented for registration; and no registration fee shall be charged for registering such original mortgage or lease or such certified copy.

SECTION 31. A petition may include two or more contiguous parcels of land, or two or more parcels which constitute one holding under one
3 and the same title, within the same registry district. But two or more 4 persons, who claim in the same parcels different interests which col-
5 lectively make up the legal estate in fee simple in each parcel, shall not 6 join in one petition for more than one parcel unless their interests are 7 alike in each and every parcel. The court may at any time order a peti-8 tion to be amended by striking out one or more of the parcels, or by a 9 severance of the petition.

1 Section 32. Amendments to the petition, including joinder, substi-
2 tution, or discontinuance as to parties, shall be allowed by the court at 3 any time upon just and reasonable terms; but all amendments shall be 4 in writing, signed and sworn to, like the original.

1 Section 33. The petitioner shall file with the petition a plan of the 2 land, and all original muniments of title within his control. Such original
3 muniments as affect land not included in the petition may be withdrawn
4 upon filing certified copies thereof. If a petition is dismissed or discon-
5 tinued, the petitioner may, with the consent of the court, withdraw such 6 original muniments of title. The court may, in any case before decree, 7 require a further survey to be made for the purpose of determining bound-8 aries, and may order durable bounds to be set, and referred to in the 9 petition, by amendment. The expense of survey and bounds shall be 10 taxed in the costs of the case and may be apportioned among the parties 11 as justice may require. If no persons appear to oppose the petition, such 12 expense shall be borne by the petitioner.

1 Section 34. The court may by general rule require additional facts
2 to be stated in the petition and may require the filing of additional papers.
3 R. L. 128, § 27.

1 Section 35. If the petitioner is not a resident of the commonwealth, 2 he shall file with his petition a paper appointing an agent residing in the 3 commonwealth, giving his name in full and post office address, and shall 4 therein agree that the service of any legal process in proceedings under 5 or growing out of the petition shall be of the same legal effect if made on 6 said agent as if made on the petitioner within the commonwealth. If the 7 agent dies, or removes from the commonwealth, the petitioner shall 8 forthwith make another appointment; and if he fails so to do, the court 9 may dismiss the petition.

1 Section 36. After the filing of a petition and before registration, the 2 land therein described may be dealt with, and instruments relating thereto
3 shall be recorded in the same manner, as if no such petition had been 4 filed; but all instruments left for record which relate to such land shall 5 be indexed in the usual manner in the registry indexes and in the index
6 of petitions. As soon as a petition is disposed of, the recorder shall make 7 a memorandum stating the disposition of the case, and shall send the 8 same to the register of deeds for the proper district or districts, who shall 9 record and index it with the records of deeds and in the index of petitions.
10 If a decree of registration of title is entered the land included in the 11 decree shall, when the decree is transcribed as provided in section forty-12 eight, become registered land, and thereafter no deeds or other instru-13 ments which relate solely to such land shall be recorded with the records of deeds, but shall be registered in the registration book and filed and indexed with the records and documents relating to registered land.

Section 37. Immediately after the filing of a petition, the court shall enter an order referring it to one of the examiners of title, who shall search the records and investigate all facts stated in the petition, or otherwise brought to his notice, and shall file in the case a report thereon, concluding with a certificate of his opinion upon the title. The recorder shall give notice to the petitioner of the filing of such report. If the opinion of the examiner is adverse to the petitioner, he shall be allowed by the court a reasonable time in which to elect to proceed further or to withdraw his petition. The election shall be made in writing and filed with the recorder.

Section 38. If, in the opinion of the examiner, the petitioner has a good title as alleged, and proper for registration, or if the petitioner, after an adverse opinion of the examiner, elects to proceed further, the recorder shall, immediately upon the filing of the examiner's opinion, or upon the filing of the petitioner's election, as the case may be, cause notice of the filing of the petition to be published in a newspaper published in the district where any portion of the land lies. The notice shall be issued by order of the court, attested by the recorder, and shall be in form substantially as follows:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Land Court.

To (here insert the names of all persons known to have an adverse interest, and the adjoining owners and occupant so far as known), and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas a petition has been presented to said court by (name or names and address) to register and confirm his (or their) title in the following described land (insert description).

If you desire to make any objection or defense to said petition you or your attorney must file a written appearance and an answer under oath, setting forth clearly and specifically your objections or defense to each part of said petition, in the office of the recorder of said court in Boston, (designation of location) or in the office of the assistant recorder of said court at the registry of deeds of in the county of where a copy of the plan filed with said petition is deposited, on or before the day of next. Unless an appearance is so filed by or for you, your default will be recorded, the said petition will be taken as confessed and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, , Esquire, judge of said court, this day of in the year nineteen hundred and

Attest with the seal of said court

Recorder.

Section 39. The return day of said notice shall be not less than twenty nor more than sixty days after the date of issue. The court shall also, within seven days after publication of said notice in a newspaper, cause a copy thereof to be sent by the recorder by mailing a registered letter to every person named therein whose address is known. The court shall also cause a duly attested copy of the notice to be posted in a conspicuous place on each parcel of land included in the petition, by a sheriff or deputy sheriff, fourteen days at least before the return day thereof, and his return shall be conclusive proof of such service. If the petitioner requests to have the line of a public way determined, the court shall order notice to be given by the recorder, by mailing a registered letter to the mayor of the city or to one of the selectmen of the town or towns where the land lies, or, if the way is a highway, to one of the county commissioners of the county or counties where the land lies. If the land borders on a river, navigable stream or shore, or on an arm of the sea where a river or harbor line has been established, or on a great pond, or if it otherwise appears from the petition or the proceedings that the commonwealth may have a claim adverse to that of the petitioner, notice shall be given in the same manner to the attorney general. The court may also cause other or further notice of the petition to be given. The court shall, so far as it considers it possible, require proof of actual notice to all adjoining owners and to all persons who appear to have any interest in or claim to the land included in the petition. Notice to such persons by mail shall be by registered letter. The certificate of the recorder that he has served the notice as directed by the court, by publishing or mailing, shall be filed in the case before the return day, and shall be conclusive proof of such service.

SECTION 40. Upon the return of the notice, and upon proof of service of all orders of notice issued, the court may appoint a disinterested person

3 to act as guardian ad litem for minors, and for persons under disability, 4 and for all persons not in being, unascertained, unknown or out of the 5 commonwealth, who may have an interest. The compensation of the 6 guardian shall be determined by the court and paid as part of the expenses 7 of the court.

the notice or not, may appear and file an answer on or before the return 2 day, or within such further time as the court may allow. The answer shall 3 state all objections to the petition, shall set forth the interest claimed by 4 the person who files it, and shall be signed and sworn to by him or by a 5 person in his behalf.

SECTION 42. If no person appears and answers within the time al-
2 lowed, the court may at once upon motion of the petitioner, no reason 3 to the contrary appearing, order a general default to be recorded and the 4 petition to be taken for confessed. By the description in the notice,
5 "to all whom it may concern", all the world are made parties defendant
6 and shall be concluded by the default and order. After such default 7 and order, the court may enter a decree confirming the title of the petitioner and ordering registration thereof. The court shall not be bound 8 by the report of the examiner of title, but may require other or further 9 proof.

SECTION 43. If, in any case, an appearance is entered and answer
2 filed, the case shall be set down for hearing on the motion of either party,
3 but a default and order shall first be entered against all persons who do
4 not appear and answer, in the manner provided in the preceding section.
5 The court may refer the case or any part thereof to one of the examiners
6 of title, as master, to hear the parties and their evidence, and make report
7 thereof to the court. His report shall have the same effect as that of a 8 master appointed by the superior court in equity, and he shall proceed 9 according to the rules of said court applicable to masters, except as the same may be modified by the rules of the land court. The compensation of a master appointed under this section, and of an examiner under section twenty-four, shall be awarded by the land court, and shall be paid by the county where the land involved in the proceedings is situated, except that said compensation may be awarded by the land court in its discretion as a part of the taxable costs of the proceedings, in which case the compensation shall be paid as decreed by said court.

SECTION 44. If the court finds that the petitioner has not title proper for registration, a decree shall be entered dismissing the petition, and such decree may be ordered to be without prejudice, in whole or in part, but unless so ordered it shall bind the parties, their privies and the land in respect of any issue of fact which has been tried and determined. The petitioner may withdraw his petition at any time before final decree, upon terms fixed by the court. The court may require a petitioner who moves to withdraw his petition or to substitute some other person as petitioner, to stipulate that he shall be bound by the result of any issue of fact which has been tried and determined, and such stipulation shall bind the parties, their privies and the land itself.

SECTION 45. If the court, after hearing, finds that the petitioner has title proper for registration, a decree of confirmation and registration shall be entered, which shall bind the land and quiet the title thereto, subject only to the exceptions stated in the following section. It shall be conclusive upon and against all persons, including the commonwealth, whether mentioned by name in the petition, notice or citation, or included in the general description "to all whom it may concern". Such decree shall not be opened by reason of the absence, infancy or other disability of any person affected thereby, nor by any proceeding at law or in equity for reversing judgments or decrees; subject, however, to the right of any person deprived of land, or of any estate or interest therein, by a decree of registration obtained by fraud to file a petition for review within one year after the entry of the decree, provided no innocent purchaser for value has acquired an interest. If there is any such purchaser, the decree of registration shall not be opened but shall remain in full force and effect forever, subject only to the right of appeal as provided by law from time to time. But any person aggrieved by such decree in any case may pursue his remedy in tort against the petitioner or against any other person for fraud in procuring the decree.

SECTION 46. Every petitioner receiving a certificate of title in pursuance of a decree of registration, and every subsequent purchaser of registered land taking a certificate of title for value and in good faith, shall hold the same free from all encumbrances except those noted on the certificate, and any of the following encumbrances which may be existing:

First, Liens, claims or rights arising or existing under the laws or constitution of the United States or the statutes of this commonwealth which are not by law required to appear of record in the registry of deeds in order to be valid against subsequent purchasers or encumbrances of record.

Second, Taxes, within two years after they have been committed to the collector.
Third, Any highway, town way, or any private way laid out under section twenty-one of chapter eighty-two, if the certificate of title does not state that the boundary of such way has been determined.

Fourth, Any lease for a term not exceeding seven years.

Fifth, Any liability to assessment for betterments or other statutory liability, except for taxes payable to the commonwealth, which attaches to land in the commonwealth as a lien, but if there are easements or other rights appurtenant to a parcel of registered land which for any reason have failed to be registered, such easements or rights shall remain so appurtenant notwithstanding such failure, and shall be held to pass with the land until cut off or extinguished by the registration of the servient estate, or in any other manner.

SECTION 47. Every decree of registration shall bear date of the year, month, day, hour and minute of its entry and shall be signed by the recorder. It shall state whether the owner of the land registered is married or unmarried, and if married, the name of the husband or wife.

If such owner is under disability it shall state the nature thereof, and if a minor, shall state his age. It shall contain a description of the land as finally determined by the court, shall set forth the estate of the owner and also, in such manner as to show their relative priority, all particular estates, mortgages, easements, liens, attachments and other encumbrances, including rights of husband or wife, if any, to which the land or the owner’s estate is subject, and may contain any other matter properly to be determined in pursuance of this chapter. The decree shall be stated in a form convenient for transcription upon the certificates of title hereinafter mentioned.

SECTION 48. Immediately upon the entry of the decree of registration, the recorder shall send a certified copy thereof, under the seal of the court, to the register of deeds for the district or districts where the land lies, and the register, as assistant recorder, shall transcribe the decree in a book to be called the registration book, in which a leaf or leaves in consecutive order shall be devoted exclusively to each title, and note therein the day, hour and minute when said decree is transcribed. The entry made by the assistant recorder in this book in each case shall be the original certificate of title, shall be signed by him and sealed with the seal of the court. All certificates of title shall be numbered consecutively, beginning with number one. The assistant recorder shall in each case make an exact duplicate of the original certificate, including the seal, but putting on it the words “Owner’s duplicate certificate”, and deliver it to the owner or to his duly authorized attorney. In case of a variance between the owner’s duplicate certificate and the original certificate, the original shall prevail. The certified copy of the decree of registration shall be filed and numbered by the assistant recorder, with a reference noted on it to the place of record of the original certificate of title. If, however, a petition includes land lying in more than one district, the court shall cause the part lying in each district to be described separately by metes and bounds in the decree or decrees of registration, the recorder shall send to the assistant recorder for each registry district a copy of the decree containing a description of the land within that district, and the assistant recorder shall register the same and issue an owner’s duplicate therefor; and thereafter, for all matters pertaining to registration, the portion in each district shall be treated as a separate parcel of land.
be produced by photographic process from the original certificate of title, either in whole or in part, and the photographic copy of an assistant recorder's signature on a duplicate certificate so produced shall have the same validity as his written signature.

SECTION 49. The certificate first registered in pursuance of a decree of registration in regard to any parcel of land shall, in the registration book, be entitled "Original certificate of title, entered pursuant to decree of the land court, dated at" (stating time and place of entry of decree and the number of the case). The certificate shall take effect from the date of the transcription of the decree. Subsequent certificates relating to the same land shall be in like form, but shall be entitled "Transfer from No. " (the number of the last previous certificate relating to the same land), and also the words "Originally registered" (date, volume and page of registration).

SECTION 50. If two or more persons are registered owners as tenants in common, or otherwise, one owner's duplicate certificate may be issued for the whole land or a separate duplicate may be issued to each for his undivided share.

SECTION 51. A registered owner holding one duplicate certificate for several distinct parcels of land may surrender it, with the approval of the court, and take out several certificates for portions thereof, or if he holds separate duplicate certificates for several distinct parcels, he may surrender them and, with like approval, take out a single duplicate certificate for the whole land, or several certificates for different portions thereof. An owner who subdivides a tract of registered land into lots shall file with the recorder a plan thereof, when applying for a new certificate or certificates, and the court, before issuing the same, shall cause the plan to be verified, and require that all boundaries, streets and passageways shall be distinctly and accurately delineated thereon.

SECTION 52. The obtaining of a decree of registration and the entry of a certificate of title shall be regarded as an agreement running with the land and binding upon the petitioner and his successors in title that the land shall be and forever remain registered land and subject to this chapter and all acts in amendment thereof.

SECTION 53. No title to registered land, or easement or other right therein, in derogation of the title of the registered owner, shall be acquired by prescription or adverse possession. Nor shall a right of way by necessity be implied under a conveyance of registered land.

SECTION 54. The original certificate in the registration book, any copy thereof duly certified under the signature of the recorder or an assistant recorder and the seal of the court, and also the owner's duplicate certificate, shall be received as evidence in all courts of the commonwealth, and shall be conclusive as to all matters contained therein, except as otherwise provided in this chapter.
SECTION 55. Every certificate of title shall set forth the names of all the persons whose estates make up the estate in fee simple in the whole land, and duplicate certificates may be issued to each person, but the recorder or assistant recorder shall note in the registration book and on each duplicate, to whom such duplicate was issued.

SECTION 56. The recorder, under the direction of the court, shall make and keep indexes of all petitions and of all decrees of registration, and shall also index and classify all papers and instruments filed in his office relating to petitions and to registered titles. The recorder shall also, under the direction of the court, cause forms of indexes and registration and entry books to be prepared for the use of the assistant recorders. The court shall prepare and adopt convenient forms of certificates of title and shall also adopt general forms of memoranda to be used by the assistant recorders in registering the common forms of conveyance and other instruments to express briefly their effect.

SECTION 56A. Petitions for the confirmation of title without registration and all proceedings thereunder shall be governed by the provisions of this chapter applicable to petitions and proceedings for the confirmation and registration of title except as otherwise provided in this chapter. Upon the recording in the registry of deeds for the district where the land, or any portion thereof, lies, of a copy of the decree issued pursuant to such petition for confirmation of title without registration, the owner of such land, as determined by such decree, shall hold the title thereto free from all encumbrances except those set forth or referred to in said decree and those specified in section forty-six. Nothing contained in this chapter shall be so construed as to prevent the registration of title to land or easements or rights under the provisions thereof on proceedings commenced either prior or subsequent to a decree confirming title without registration. Section ninety-nine shall not apply to proceedings for confirmation of title without registration.

VOLUNTARY DEALING WITH LAND AFTER ORIGINAL REGISTRATION.

SECTION 57. An owner of registered land may convey, mortgage, lease, charge or otherwise deal with it as fully as if it had not been registered. He may use forms of deeds, mortgages, leases or other voluntary instruments, like those now in use, sufficient in law for the purpose intended. But no deed, mortgage or other voluntary instrument, except a will and a lease for a term not exceeding seven years, purporting to convey or affect registered land, shall take effect as a conveyance or bind the land, but shall operate only as a contract between the parties, and as evidence of authority to the recorder or assistant recorder to make registration. The act of registration only shall be the operative act to convey or affect the land, and in all cases the registration shall be made in the office of the assistant recorder for the district or districts where the land lies.

SECTION 58. Every conveyance, lien, attachment, order, decree, instrument or entry affecting registered land, which would under other provisions of law, if recorded, filed or entered in the registry of deeds, affect the land to which it relates, shall, if registered, filed or entered in the office of the assistant recorder of the district where the land to which such instrument relates lies, be notice to all persons from the time of such registering, filing or entering.

Section 59. No new certificate shall be entered or issued upon any transfer of registered land which does not divest the title in fee simple from the owner or some one of the registered owners. All interests in registered land less than an estate in fee simple shall be registered by filing with an assistant recorder the instrument which creates or transfers or claims such interest and by a brief memorandum thereof made by an assistant recorder upon the certificate of title, and signed by him. A similar memorandum shall also be made on the owner's duplicate. The cancellation or extinguishment of such interests shall be registered in the same manner.

Section 60. If the assistant recorder is in doubt upon any question, or if any party in interest does not agree as to the proper memorandum to be made in pursuance of any deed, mortgage or other voluntary instrument presented for registration, the question shall be referred to the court for decision, either on the certificate of the assistant recorder stating the question in doubt, or upon the suggestion in writing of any party in interest; and the court, after notice to all parties and a hearing, shall enter an order prescribing the form of memorandum to the assistant recorder, who shall make registration in accordance therewith.

Section 61. Every deed or other voluntary instrument presented for registration shall contain or have endorsed upon it the full name, residence and post office address of the grantee or other person acquiring or claiming an interest under such instrument, and every deed shall also state whether the grantee is married or unmarried, and if married, the name in full of the husband or wife. Any change in the residence or post office address of such person shall be endorsed by an assistant recorder on the original instrument, upon receiving a sworn statement of such change. All names and addresses shall also be entered on all certificates. Notices and processes issued in relation to registered land may be served upon any person in interest by mailing them to the address so given, and shall be binding, whether he resides within or without the 12 commonwealth.

Section 62. No new certificate of title shall be entered, and no memorandum made upon any certificate of title by the recorder or any assistant recorder, in pursuance of any deed or other voluntary instruments, unless the owner's duplicate certificate is presented with such instrument, except in cases expressly provided for in this chapter or upon the order of the court, for cause shown, and whenever such order is made, a memorandum thereof shall be entered on the new certificate of title and on the owner's duplicate. The production of the owner's duplicate certificate, whenever a voluntary instrument is presented for registration, shall be conclusive authority from the registered owner to the recorder or an assistant recorder to enter a new certificate or to make a memoradum of registration in accordance with such instrument, and the new certificate or memorandum shall be binding upon the registered owner and upon all persons claiming under him, in favor of every purchaser for value and in good faith. In all cases of registration procured by fraud, the owner may pursue all his legal and equitable remedies against the 17 parties to such fraud, without prejudice however to the rights of any 18 innocent holder for value of a certificate of title. After the transcrip-19 tion of the decree of registration on the original petition, any subsequent 20 registration procured by the presentation of a forged duplicate certificate, 21 or of a forged deed or other instrument, shall be null and void. In case 22 of the loss or theft of an owner’s duplicate certificate, notice shall be sent 23 by the owner or by a person in his behalf to the assistant recorder for the 24 district where the land lies, as soon as the loss or theft is discovered.

1 Section 63. Each assistant recorder shall keep an entry book in 2 which he shall enter, in the order of their reception, all deeds and other
3 voluntary instruments, and all copies of writs or other processes filed 4 with him relating to registered land. He shall note in such book the year,
5 month, day, hour and minute of reception of all instruments, in the order
6 in which they are received. They shall be regarded as registered from 7 the time so noted, and the memorandum of each instrument, when made 8 on the certificate of title to which it refers, shall bear the same date.
9 Every deed or other instrument, voluntary or involuntary, so filed 10 with the recorder or assistant recorder, shall be numbered and indexed, 11 and endorsed with a reference to the proper certificate of title. All 12 records and papers relative to registered land in the office of the recorder
13 or of an assistant recorder shall be open to the public in the same manner 14 as probate records, subject to such reasonable regulations as the recorder, 15 under the direction of the court, may make.
16 Duplicates of all deeds and voluntary instruments filed and registered 17 may be presented with the originals, shall be attested and sealed by the 18 recorder or an assistant recorder, endorsed with the file number and other 19 memoranda on the originals and may be taken away by the person pre-20 senting them.
21 Certified copies of all instruments filed and registered may also be ob-22 tained at any time upon payment of the assistant recorder’s fees.

CONVEYANCES IN FEE.

1 Section 64. An owner desiring to convey his registered land or any 2 portion thereof in fee shall execute a deed of conveyance, which the grantor 3 or grantee may present to the assistant recorder in the district where 4 the land lies. The grantor’s duplicate certificate shall be produced and 5 presented at the same time. The assistant recorder shall thereupon, in 6 accordance with the rules and instructions of the court, make out in the 7 registration book a new certificate of title to the grantee, and shall prepare 8 and deliver to him an owner’s duplicate certificate. The assistant re-9 corder shall note upon the original and duplicate certificates the date of 10 transfer, the volume and page of the registration book in which the new 11 certificate is registered and a reference by number to the last preceding 12 certificate. The grantor’s duplicate certificate shall be surrendered and 13 the word “cancelled” stamped upon it. The original certificate shall also 14 be stamped “cancelled”. The deed of conveyance shall be filed and en-15 dorsed with the number and place of registration of the certificate of 16 title of the land conveyed.

1 Section 65. If a deed in fee is for a part only of the land described 2 in a certificate of title, the assistant recorder shall also, in accordance 3 with the rules and instructions of the court, enter a new certificate and
issue an owner's duplicate to the grantor for the part of the land not included in the deed. In every case of transfer, the new certificate or certificates shall include all the land described in the original and surrendered certificates; but no new certificate to a grantee of a part only of the land shall be invalid by reason of the failure of the assistant recorder to enter a new certificate to the grantor for the remaining un conveyed portion. If the land described in a certificate of title is divided into lots, designated by numbers or letters, with measurements of all the bounds, and a plan of said land has been filed with the recorder and verified pursuant to section fifty-one, and a certified copy thereof is recorded in the registration book with the original certificate when the registered owner makes a deed of transfer in fee of one or more of such lots, the assistant recorder may, instead of cancelling such certificate and entering a new certificate to the grantor for the part of the land not included in the deed of transfer, enter on the original certificate and on the owner's duplicate certificate a memorandum of such deed of transfer, with a reference to the lot or lots thereby conveyed, as designated on said plan, and stating that the certificate is cancelled as to such lot or lots. Every certificate with such memorandum shall be as effectual for the purpose of showing the grantor's title to the remainder of the land not conveyed as if the old certificate had been cancelled and a new certificate of such land entered; and such process may be repeated so long as there is convenient space upon the original certificate and the owner's duplicate certificate for making such memorandum of sale of lots.

Section 66. If, at the time of any transfer, encumbrances or claims adverse to the title of the registered owner appear upon the registration book, they shall be stated in the new certificate or certificates, except so far as they may be simultaneously released or discharged.

Mortgages.

Section 67. The owner of registered land may mortgage it by executing a mortgage deed. Such deed may be assigned, extended, discharged, released in whole or in part, or otherwise dealt with by the mortgagee by any form of deed or instrument sufficient in law for the purpose. But such mortgage deed, and all instruments which assign, extend, discharge and otherwise deal with the mortgage, shall be registered, and shall take effect upon the title only from the time of registration.

Section 68. Registration of a mortgage shall be made in the following manner: The owner's duplicate certificate shall be presented to the assistant recorder with the mortgage deed, and he shall enter upon the original certificate of title and also upon the owner's duplicate certificate a memorandum of the purport of the mortgage deed, the time of filing and the file number of the deed, and shall sign the memorandum. He shall also note upon the mortgage deed the time of filing and a reference to the volume and page of the registration book in which it is registered.

Section 69. A mortgage on registered land may be discharged by the mortgagee in person on the registration book in the same manner as a mortgage on unregistered land may be discharged by an entry on the record book in the registry of deeds, and such discharge shall be attested by an assistant recorder.
1 Section 70. Mortgages of registered land may be foreclosed like mortgages of unregistered land; but in case of foreclosure by entry and possession, the certificate of entry required by section two of chapter two hundred and forty-four shall be filed and registered by an assistant recorder within thirty days after the entry, in lieu of recording. After possession has been obtained by the mortgagee or his assigns, by entry or by action, and has continued for the time required by law to complete the foreclosure, he or his assigns may petition the land court for the entry of a new certificate, and the court, after notice to all parties in interest, shall have jurisdiction to hear the case, and may order the entry of a new certificate on such terms as equity and justice may require.

In case of foreclosure by action as provided in chapter two hundred and forty-four, and by exercising the power of sale in the mortgage under the direction of the court as provided therein, a certified copy of the final decree confirming the sale may, after the time for appeal therefrom has expired, be filed with the assistant recorder, and the purchaser shall thereupon be entitled to the entry of a new certificate.

In case of foreclosure by exercising the power of sale without a previous decree of court, the affidavit required by section fifteen of chapter two hundred and forty-four shall be filed and registered with the assistant recorder, in lieu of recording. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale or his assigns may thereupon at any time present the deed under the power of sale to the assistant recorder for filing and registration, and obtain a new certificate, after the mortgagee’s duplicate, if any, has been delivered up and cancelled; but this chapter shall not prevent the mortgagor or other person in interest, prior to the entry of a new certificate of title, from directly impeaching, by bill in equity or otherwise, any foreclosure proceedings affecting registered land.

After a new certificate of title has been entered, no judgment rendered on the mortgage note for any balance due thereon shall operate to open the foreclosure or affect the title to registered land.

LEASES.

1 Section 71. Leases of registered land for a term of seven years or more shall be registered in lieu of recording.

Registration of leases of registered land.

1898, 562, § 64.
R. L. 128, § 63.
1928, 272, § 4.

TRUSTS.

1 Section 72. If a deed or other instrument is filed in order to transfer registered land in trust, or upon any equitable condition or limitation expressed therein, or to create or declare a trust or other equitable interest in such land without transfer, the particulars of the trust, condition, limitation or other equitable interest shall not be entered on the certificate; but a memorandum thereof shall be entered by the words “in trust”, or “upon condition”, or other apt words, and by a reference by number to the instrument authorizing or creating the same. A similar memorandum shall be made upon the duplicate certificate. The assistant recorder shall note upon the original instrument creating or declaring the trust or other equitable interest a reference by number to the certificate of title to which it relates, and to the volume and page in the registration book in which it is registered. If the instrument creating or declaring a trust or other equitable interest is already recorded in... the registry of deeds or of probate, a certified copy may be filed by the assistant recorder and registered.

Section 73. If the instrument creating or declaring a trust or other equitable interest contains an express power to sell, mortgage or deal with the land in any manner, such power shall be stated in the certificate of title by the words "with power to sell" or "power to mortgage", and by apt words of description in case of other powers. No instrument which transfers, mortgages or in any way deals with registered land held in trust shall be registered, unless the power thereto enabling is expressly conferred in the trust instrument, or unless the decree of a court of competent jurisdiction on a bill for instructions or other proceeding has construed the instrument in favor of the power. In such case a certified copy of such decree may be filed with the assistant recorder, and he shall make registration in accordance therewith.

Section 74. If a new trustee of registered land is appointed by the supreme judicial court, the superior court or the probate court, a new certificate shall be entered to him upon presentation to the assistant recorder of a certified copy of the decree and the surrender of the duplicate certificate.

Section 75. Whoever claims an interest in registered land by reason of any implied or constructive trust shall file for registration with the assistant recorder a statement thereof containing a description of the land, and a reference to the number of the certificate of title and the volume and page of the registration book in which it is entered. Such claim shall not affect the title of a purchaser for value and in good faith before its registration.

Section 76. A trustee may petition for registration of any land held in trust by him, unless expressly prohibited by the instrument creating the trust.

Legal Incidents of Registered Land.

Section 77. Registered land, and ownership therein, shall in all respects be subject to the burdens and incidents attaching by law to unregistered land. This chapter shall not relieve registered land or the owners thereof from any rights incident to the relation of husband and wife, or from liability to attachment on mesne process or levy on execution, or from liability to any lien of any description established by law on land and the buildings thereon, or on the interest of the owner in such land or buildings, nor shall it change the laws of descent, or the rights of partition between co-tenants, or the right to take the same by eminent domain, or relieve such land from liability to be recovered by an assignee in insolvency or trustee in bankruptcy under the laws relative to preferences, or change or affect in any way any other rights or liabilities created by law and applicable to unregistered land, except as otherwise expressly provided in this chapter.
ATTACHMENTS AND OTHER LIENS.

Section 78. A writing of any description or a copy of any writ required by law to be filed or recorded in the registry of deeds in order to create or preserve any lien, right or attachment upon unregistered land, if intended to affect registered land shall, in lieu of recording, be filed and registered in the office of the assistant recorder for the registry district where the land lies, and, in addition to any particulars required in such papers for recording with records of deeds, shall also, except in the case of attachment on mesne process, contain a reference to the number of the certificate of title of the land to be affected, and the volume and page of the registration book in which the certificate is registered, and also, if the attachment, right or lien is not claimed on all the land in any certificate of title, shall contain a description sufficiently accurate for identification of the land intended to be affected; provided, that if a notice of a federal tax lien on property and rights thereto of a delinquent taxpayer or a certificate of discharge of such a lien is filed with the register of deeds under section twenty-four of chapter thirty-six and it affects registered land in his district, the duty of properly registering such notice or certificate and proceedings incident to or in connection with such a lien shall be upon him, acting as such register and as assistant recorder of the land court.

Section 79. If an attachment or other lien or adverse claim of any description is registered, and the duplicate certificate is not presented at the time of registration to the assistant recorder, he shall, within twenty-four hours thereafter, send notice by mail to the registered owner, stating that such paper has been registered, and requiring him to send or produce his duplicate certificate so that a memorandum of the attachment or other lien or adverse claim may be made thereon. If the owner neglects or refuses to comply within a reasonable time, the assistant recorder shall suggest the fact to the court, and it shall, after notice, enter an order to the owner to produce his certificate at a time and place named therein, and may enforce the order by suitable process.

Section 80. Attachments on mesne process and liens of every description upon registered land shall be continued, reduced, dissolved and discharged or dissolved like liens on unregistered land. All certificates or other instruments permitted or required by law to be recorded in the registry of deeds to give effect to the continuance, reduction, discharge or dissolution of attachments or other liens upon registered land, or to give notice of such continuance, reduction, discharge or dissolution, shall, in the case of like liens upon registered land, be filed with the assistant recorder and registered in the registration book, in lieu of recording.

Section 81. All laws relative to attachments of real estate and leasehold estates on mesne process shall apply to registered land, except that the duties required to be performed by the register of deeds shall be performed by the assistant recorder for the registry district where the land lies, who, in lieu of recording, shall register the facts required to... be recorded, and for that purpose shall keep books similar to those required to be kept for attachments by registers of deeds, and the fees for registering attachments shall be the same as for recording them.

Section 82. If an attachment is made, the name and address of the plaintiff's attorney shall be endorsed upon the writ, and he shall be deemed to be the attorney of the plaintiff until written notice that he has ceased to be such shall have been filed for registration by the plaintiff.

Section 83. If an attachment on mesne process is continued, reduced, dissolved or otherwise affected by an order, decision or judgment of the court where the action or proceeding in which said attachment was made is pending, or by an order of a court having jurisdiction in insolvency or bankruptcy, a certificate of the entry of such order, decision or judgment from the clerk or register and under the seal of the court, shall be entitled to be registered on presentation to the assistant recorder. A like certificate of the allowance by the court of an amendment which a subsequent attaching creditor or purchaser contends had the effect of dissolving an attachment may be registered as an amendment allowed, but shall not be conclusive of dissolution, unless the court where the action or suit is pending adjudicates that the amendment dissolved the attachment, whereupon a certificate of the order, or when it becomes absolute, shall be registered as a dissolution of the attachment.

Section 84. Any lien on registered land shall be enforced in the same manner as a like lien on unregistered land. If registered land is set off or sold on execution, or taken or sold for taxes or for any ascessment, or sold to enforce a lien for labor or materials, or the lien of a mortgagee or co-tenant arising from a payment of taxes, or the lien for an assessment under chapter eighty, or for costs and charges for taking down dangerous structures under section nine of chapter one hundred and forty-three, or for erecting fences along the line of a railroad corpo-rion under section ninety-four of chapter one hundred and sixty, or for improving low land and swamps under section eleven of chapter two hundred and fifty-two, or for flowing land under section fourteen of chapter two hundred and fifty-three, or for any costs and charges incident to such liens, any execution, or copy of the execution, any officer's return, or any deed, demand, certificate or affidavit or other instrument made in the course of proceedings to enforce such liens and required by law to be recorded in the registry of deeds in the case of unregistered land, shall be filed with the assistant recorder for the district where the land lies and registered in the registration book, and a memorandum made upon the proper certificate of title in each case as an adverse claim or encumbrance.

Section 85. When the time has expired for redemption after registered land has been set off or sold on execution, or taken or sold for the enforcement of a lien of any description, the person claiming under an execution or a deed or other instrument made in the course of procedings to levy such execution or enforce any lien may petition for the entry of a new certificate to him, which may be granted. Every such new certificate shall contain a memorandum of the nature of the pro-
8. ceeding on which it is based. Before the entry of a new certificate, the
9. registered owner may pursue all legal and equitable remedies to im-
10. peach or annul proceedings under excention or to enforce liens of any
11. description.

PENDING SUITS, JUDGMENTS, DECREES AND PARTITIONS.

1. SECTION 86. No writ of entry, petition for partition, or other pro-
2. ceeding at law or in equity affecting the title to land or the use and
3. occupation thereof or the buildings thereon, and no judgment or decree,
4. or any writ of error, bill of review or other proceeding to vacate or
5. reverse any judgment or decree, shall have any effect upon registered
6. land as against persons other than the parties thereto, unless a memoran-
7. dum like that described in section fifteen of chapter one hundred and
8. eighty-four, containing also a reference to the number of the certificate
9. of title of the land affected and the volume and page of the registration
10. book in which it is entered, is filed and registered. This section shall
11. not apply to attachments, levies of execution, or to the probate of wills
12. or administration in the probate court. If notice of the pendency of the 13. proceeding has been duly registered, it shall be sufficient to register the
14. judgment or decree within sixty days after the rendition thereof.

1. SECTION 87. At any time after final judgment or decree in favor of
2. the defendant, or other disposition in the manner specified in section
3. sixteen of chapter one hundred and eighty-four, of any case where a
4. memorandum has been registered as provided in the preceding section,
5. a certificate of the clerk, stating the manner of disposal thereof, as pro-
6. vided in said section sixteen, shall be entitled to registration.

1. SECTION 88. If judgment is entered for the plaintiff or demandant
2. in a real action affecting registered land, except in ejectment, and ac-
3. tions under chapter two hundred and thirty-nine relative to terms of less
4. than seven years, such judgment shall be entitled to registration on pres-
5. entation of a certificate of the entry thereof from the clerk of the court
6. where the action is pending to the assistant recorder, who shall enter
7. a memorandum upon the certificate of title of the land to which such
8. judgment relates. If the judgment does not apply to all the land de-
9. scribed in the certificate of title, the certificate of the clerk and the
10. memorandum entered by the assistant recorder shall contain a description
11. of the land affected by the judgment.

1. SECTION 89. If an execution or writ of seisin has been issued upon
2. a writ of entry affecting registered land and served by the officer, he shall
3. cause an attested copy of the execution, with a return of his doings
4. thereon, to be filed and registered within three months after the service
5. and before the return of the execution into the clerk's office, and the
6. demandant, if the judgment was that he was entitled to an estate in fee
7. simple in the demanded premises, or in any part thereof, and for which
8. execution issued, shall thereupon be entitled to the entry of a new certifi-
9. cate of title; but in informations under chapter two hundred and forty-
10. five the commonwealth shall be entitled to have the certificate of the 11. registered owner cancelled by the land court as soon as judgment is
12. rendered in its favor.
Section 90. If, in a writ of dower, judgment is entered confirming the report of the commissioners under section seven of chapter two hundred and thirty-eight, or if, in a writ of waste, judgment is entered that the plaintiff recover the place wasted, a certificate of the entry of such judgment may be registered as an encumbrance.

Section 91. A decree of a court of competent jurisdiction affecting title or rights in registered land, whether made in the exercise of general equity jurisdiction or in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by statute, may be registered in the same manner as a judgment at law. But every court making such a decree shall, upon application of the plaintiff or petitioner, order any parties before it to execute for registration any deed or instrument necessary to give effect to its decree, and may require the registered owner to deliver his duplicate certificate to the plaintiff or petitioner to be cancelled or to have a memorandum entered upon it by the assistant recorder. If the person required to execute any deed or other instrument for the purpose of giving effect to the decree is absent from the commonwealth, or is a minor, or insane, or for any reason is not amenable to the process of the court, it may appoint a trustee to execute such instrument, which, when executed, shall be registered and shall have full force and effect to bind the land to be affected thereby.

Section 92. In proceedings for partition of registered land, or for the assignment in fee of registered land claimed by husband or wife by statutory right, after the entry of the final decree and the acceptance of the report of the commissioners, a copy of the decree and of the return of the commissioners, certified by the register, shall be filed and registered; and thereupon, if the land is set off to the owners in severalty, any owner shall be entitled to have a certificate entered of the share set off to him in severalty, and to receive an owner's duplicate therefor. If the land lies in two or more registry districts, only so much of the decree or return need be filed and registered in any district as relates to the land in that district. If the land is ordered by the court to be sold, the purchaser or his assigns shall have a certificate of title entered to him or them upon presenting the deed of the commissioners for registration; but any new certificate entered in pursuance of partition proceedings, whether by set-off or sale, shall contain a reference to the final decree of partition, and shall be conclusive as to the title to the same extent and against the same persons as such decree is made conclusive by the laws applicable thereto. A person holding such certificate or a transfer thereof may petition the court at any time before the return of the commissioners to cancel the memorandum relative to such decree, and the court, after notice and a hearing, may grant the petition. Such certificate shall thereafter be conclusive in the same manner and to the same extent as other certificates of title.

Section 93. If a certified copy of a decree for partition and of the return of the commissioners is presented for registration, and if a mortgage or lease affecting a specific portion or an undivided share of the premises had previously been registered, the tenant claiming under the mortgagee or lessee shall cause the mortgage or lease and any duplicate certificate of title issued to the mortgagee or lessee to be again presented for registration, and the assistant recorder shall endorse on each a memorandum of such partition and a description of the land set off in severalty on which such mortgage or lease remains in force. Such tenant shall not be entitled to receive his own duplicate certificate of title until such mortgage or lease has been so presented for registration.

BANKRUPTCY AND INSOLVENCY.

1. Section 94. Such notices in insolvency and copies of decrees in bankruptcy as are required in the case of unregistered land to be recorded, shall, if the debtor owns registered land, be filed with the assistant recorder and registered.

2. An assignee in insolvency or trustee in bankruptcy shall be entitled to the entry of a new certificate of registered land of the debtor or bankrupt upon presenting and filing a certified copy of the assignment in insolvency or decree of adjudication in bankruptcy with the insolvent's or bankrupt's duplicate certificate of title; but the new certificate shall state that it is entered to him as assignee in insolvency or trustee in bankruptcy.

3. Section 95. If proceedings in insolvency or bankruptcy against a registered owner, of which notice has been registered, are vacated by decree, or if the court of insolvency or bankruptcy grants a discharge in composition proceedings and orders a reconveyance of land to the debtor, or bankrupt, a certified copy of the decree, or of such discharge and order, may be filed and registered. If a new certificate has been entered in the name of the assignee in insolvency or trustee in bankruptcy as registered owner, the debtor or bankrupt shall be entitled to the entry of a new certificate in his name, and the certificate of the assignee or trustee shall be surrendered.

REVERTER.

1. Section 96. If land taken for a public use reverts by operation of law to the owner from whom it was taken or to his heirs or assigns, the court, upon petition of the person entitled to the benefit of the reversion, after notice and a hearing, may order the entry of a new certificate of title to him.

TRANSFER BY DESCENT AND DEVISE.

1. Section 97. Upon the death of a registered owner, his heirs at law or devisees, after twenty days from the granting of letters testamentary or of administration, or in case of an appeal, at any time after the entry of a final decree, may file a certified copy of the final decree of the probate court and of the will, if any, with the assistant recorder, and make an application for the entry of a new certificate. The court shall issue notice to the executor or administrator and to all other persons in interest, and may also give notice by publication in such newspaper or newspapers as it may consider proper, to all whom it may concern, and after a hearing, may direct the entry of a new certificate or certificates to the persons entitled as heirs or devisees. Any new certificate so entered before the final settlement of the estate of the deceased owner in the probate court shall state expressly that it is entered by transfer from the last certificate by descent or devise, and that the estate is in process of settlement. After the final settlement of the estate, or after the time allowed for bringing an action against an executor or administrator by creditors of the deceased, the heirs at law or devisees may petition the court for an order to cancel the memorandum upon their certificate, stating that the estate is in course of settlement, and the court, after such notice, if any, as it may order and a hearing, may grant the petition; but the liability of heirs or devisees of registered land for claims against the estate of the deceased shall not in any way be diminished or changed.

SECTION 98. This chapter shall not affect or impair the jurisdiction of the probate court to license an executor, administrator, guardian or conservator to sell or mortgage registered land for any purpose for which a license may be granted in the case of unregistered land. The purchaser or mortgagee taking a deed in pursuance of such license shall be entitled to a new certificate of title, or memorandum of registration.

ASSURANCE FUND.

SECTION 99. Upon original registration, and also upon the entry of a certificate under section ninety-seven, there shall be paid to the recorder one tenth of one per cent of the assessed value of the land, on the basis of the last assessment for municipal taxation, or, in case of the registration of an easement or right, one tenth of one per cent of the value thereof as found by the court, as an assurance fund.

SECTION 100. All money received by the recorder under the preceding section shall be paid to the state treasurer, who shall keep it invested, with the advice and approval of the governor and council, and shall make an annual report of the condition and income thereof.

SECTION 101. A person who, without negligence on his part, sustains loss or damage, or is deprived of land or of any estate or interest therein after the original registration of land, by the registration of another person as owner of such land or of any estate or interest therein, through fraud or in consequence of any error, omission, mistake or misdescription in any certificate of title or in any entry or memorandum in the registration book, may recover in contract in the superior court compensation for such loss or damage or for such land or estate or interest therein from the assurance fund; but a person so deprived of land or of any estate or interest therein, having a right of action or other remedy for the recovery of such land, estate or interest, shall exhaust such remedy before resorting to the action of contract herein provided. This section shall not deprive the plaintiff of any action of tort which he may have against any person for such loss or damage or deprivation of land or of any estate or interest therein. But if the plaintiff elects to pursue his remedy in tort, and also brings an action of contract under this chapter, the action of contract shall be continued to await the result of the action of tort.

SECTION 102. If such action of contract is brought to recover for loss or damage or for deprivation of land or of any estate or interest therein arising wholly through fraud, negligence, omission, mistake or misfeasance of the recorder, assistant recorder or of any of the examiners of title, in the performance of executive or ministerial duties, or of any of the assistants or clerks of the recorder, in the performance of their respective duties, the action shall be brought against the state treasurer.
8 as sole defendant. If such action is brought to recover for loss or damage 9 or deprivation of land or of any estate or interest therein arising wholly 10 through fraud, negligence, omission, mistake or misfeasance of some 11 person other than the recorder, assistant recorder or the other officers 12 and assistants above named, or arising jointly through the fraud, neglig-13 ence, omission, mistake or misfeasance of such other person and the 14 recorder, assistant recorder or other officers and assistants above named, 15 such action shall be brought against both the state treasurer and such 16 other person, as joint defendants.

1 Section 103. If there are defendants other than the state treasurer
2 and judgment is entered for the plaintiff against the state treasurer and 3 against any of the other defendants, execution shall issue against such 4 other defendants and be levied upon them. If the execution is returned
5 unsatisfied in whole or in part, and the officer returning the same certifies 6 that the amount due cannot be collected from the land or goods of such 7 other defendants, a justice of the superior court shall direct the clerk
8 to certify the amount due on the execution to the comptroller, who 9 shall thereupon audit and certify the amount of the execution in the same
10 manner as claims against the commonwealth, and the state treasurer
11 shall pay the amount out of the assurance fund, without any further act 12 or resolve making an appropriation therefor.
13 If judgment in such action cannot for any reason be entered against 14 any of the other defendants it may be entered against the state treas-15 urer alone, or, if it cannot be entered against all the other defendants, 16 it may be entered against him and such of the other defendants as are 17 found liable, and against whom judgment can lawfully be entered.
18 If judgment is entered against the state treasurer alone, the justice 19 of the superior court before whom the action is tried shall direct the 20 clerk to transmit to the comptroller a certificate of the entry of judg-
21 ment and of the amount due, and the state treasurer shall pay the same 22 upon the certificate of the comptroller, as above provided.

1 Section 104. If the assurance fund at any time is not sufficient to 2 meet the amount called for by such certificate of the comptroller the 3 state treasurer shall make up the deficiency from any funds in the trea-4 sury not otherwise appropriated; and, in such case, any amounts there-
5 after received by the state treasurer on account of the assurance fund
6 shall be transferred to the general funds of the treasury, until the amount 7 paid on account of the deficiency shall have been made up.

1 Section 105. In every case where payment has been made by the 2 state treasurer under section one hundred and three, the commonwealth
3 shall be subrogated to the rights of the plaintiff against any other parties 4 or securities, and the state treasurer shall enforce the same, and the 5 amounts recovered shall be placed to the account of the assurance fund.

1 Section 106. The income of the assurance fund shall be added to 2 the principal and invested; except that whenever said fund amounts to 3 two hundred thousand dollars the income thereof shall be used to def-4 ray, as far as may be, the expenses of the administration of this chapter.

Assurance fund, application of income.
1808, 552, § 101.
R. L. 128, § 100.
SECTION 107. The assurance fund shall not be liable for any loss, damage or deprivation occasioned by a breach of trust, whether express, implied or constructive, by any registered owner who is a trustee, or by the improper exercise of any power of sale in a mortgage, nor shall any plaintiff recover in contract as compensation under this chapter more than the fair market value of the land at the time when he suffered the loss, damage or deprivation thereof.

SECTION 108. Actions of contract for compensation under this chapter by reason of any loss or damage or deprivation of land or any estate or interest therein shall be begun within six years after the cause of action accrued; but the plaintiff in an action for the recovery of the land or estate or interest therein in accordance with section one hundred and two may bring the action of contract for compensation within one year after the termination of such action. Said action of contract shall survive to the personal representative of the registered owner, unless barred in his lifetime; but the proceeds thereof shall be treated as real estate.

SECTION 109. In any action to recover damages for loss or damage or deprivation of land, or of any estate or interest therein, by the registration of another person as owner of such land, or of any estate or interest therein, the assessed valuation for taxation of the land, or of the estate or interest, if assessed separately, for the three years preceding the loss, damage or deprivation may be introduced by any party as evidence of the fair market value of such land, estate or interest; but if the valuation for any one year is so introduced, the valuations for all three years shall be introduced.

POWERS OF ATTORNEY.

SECTION 110. Any person may, by attorney, procure land to be registered and convey or otherwise deal with registered land, but the letters of attorney shall be acknowledged and filed with the recorder or the assistant recorder of the proper registry district and registered. Any instrument revoking such letter shall be acknowledged and registered in like manner.

LOST DUPLICATE CERTIFICATES.

SECTION 111. If a duplicate certificate is lost or destroyed, or cannot be produced by a grantee, heir, devisee, assignee or other person applying for the entry of a new certificate to him or for the registration of any instrument, a suggestion of the fact of such loss or destruction may be filed by the registered owner or other person in interest and registered. The court may thereupon, upon the petition of the registered owner or other person in interest, after such notice, if any, as it may order and a hearing, direct the issue of a new duplicate certificate, which shall contain a memorandum of the fact that it is issued in place of a lost duplicate certificate, but shall in all respects be entitled to like faith and credit as the original duplicate, and shall thereafter be regarded as the original duplicate for all the purposes of this chapter.
ADVERSE CLAIMS.

1 Section 112. Whoever claims any right or interest in registered land adverse to the registered owner arising after the date of original registration may, if no other provision is made in this chapter for registering the same, make a written statement setting forth fully his alleged right or interest, and how or under whom it was acquired, and a reference to the volume and page of the certificate of title of the registered owner, and a description of the land in which the right or interest is claimed. The statement shall be signed and sworn to, and shall state the adverse claimant’s residence, and designate a place where all notices may be served upon him. This statement shall be entitled to registration as an adverse claim, and the court, upon the petition of any party in interest, shall grant a speedy hearing upon the validity of such adverse claim, and shall enter such decree thereon as justice and equity may require. If the claim is adjudged to be invalid, the registration shall be cancelled. If the court, after notice and a hearing, finds that a claim thus registered was frivolous or vexatious, it may tax the adverse claimant double costs.

SURRENDER OF DUPLICATE CERTIFICATES.

1 Section 113. If the recorder or any assistant recorder is requested to enter a new certificate in pursuance of an instrument purporting to be executed by the registered owner, or by reason of any instrument or proceedings which divest the title of the registered owner against his consent, and the outstanding owner’s duplicate certificate is not presented for cancellation when such request is made, the recorder or assistant recorder shall not enter a new certificate, but the person claiming to be entitled thereto may apply by petition to the court. The court, after a hearing, may order the registered owner or any person withholding the duplicate certificate to surrender it, and direct the entry of a new certificate upon such surrender. If the person withholding the duplicate certificate is not amenable to the process of the court, or if for any reason the outstanding owner’s duplicate certificate cannot be delivered up, the court may by decree annul it and order a new certificate of title to be entered. Such new certificate and all duplicates thereof shall contain a memorandum of the annulment of the outstanding duplicate.

AMENDMENT AND ALTERATION OF CERTIFICATES OF TITLE.

1 Section 114. No erasure, alteration or amendment shall be made upon the registration book after the entry of a certificate of title or of a memorandum thereon and the attestation of the same by the recorder or an assistant recorder, except by order of the court. A registered owner or other person in interest may apply by petition to the court upon the ground that registered interests of any description, whether vested, contingent, expectant or inchoate, have terminated and ceased; or that new interests not appearing upon the certificate have arisen or been created; or that any error or omission was made in entering a certificate or any memorandum thereon, or on any duplicate certificate; or that the name of any person on the certificate has been changed; or that the registered owner has married, or if registered as married, that the marriage has been terminated; or that a corporation which owned registered land and has been dissolved has not conveyed the same within three years after its dissolution; or upon any other reasonable ground; and the court may hear and determine the petition after notice to all parties in interest, and may order the entry of a new certificate, the entry or cancellation of a memorandum upon a certificate, or grant any other relief upon such terms, requiring security if necessary, as it may consider proper; but this section shall not authorize the court to open the original decree of registration, and nothing shall be done or ordered by the court which shall impair the title or other interest of a purchaser holding a certificate for value and in good faith, or his heirs or assigns, without his or their written consent.

PETITIONS, MOTIONS AND NOTICES AFTER REGISTRATION.

Section 115. Petitions and motions filed under this chapter after original registration shall be filed and entitled in the original case in which the decree of registration was entered.

Section 116. All notices required by or given under this chapter by the recorder or any assistant recorder, after original registration, shall be mailed to the person to be notified at the residence and post office address stated in the certificate of title, or in any registered instrument under which he claims an interest, in the office of the recorder or assistant recorder, relating to the parcel of land in question.

All notices and citations directed by special order of the court under this chapter, after original registration, may be served in the manner above stated, and the certificate of the recorder shall be conclusive proof of such service; but the court may in any case order different or further service, by publication or otherwise.

SECTIONAL PLANS.

Section 117. The court may make sectional plans showing registered lands, and in so doing may employ competent draftsmen and assistants.

PENALTY FOR FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCE.

Section 118. Whoever, with intent to defraud, sells and conveys registered land, knowing that an undischarged attachment or any other encumbrance exists thereon not noted by memorandum on the duplicate certificate of title, without informing the grantee of such attachment or other encumbrance before the consideration is paid, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than three years or in jail for not more than one year.
CHAPTER 186.

ESTATES FOR YEARS AND AT WILL.

Sect. 1. Estates for long term of years deemed estates in fee simple. 2. Payments when curtesy or dower is assigned out of such estate. 3. Liability of tenant at suasure for rent. 4. Liability of tenant for rent of part of land demised. 5. Form of action to recover rent. Evidence. 6. Survival of action for rent. 7. Application of certain sections.

1 Section 1. If land is demised for the term of one hundred years or more, the term shall, so long as fifty years thereof remain unexpired, be regarded as an estate in fee simple as to every thing concerning the descent and devise thereof, upon the decease of the owner, the right of dower or of curtesy therein, the sale thereof by executors, administrators, guardians, conservators or trustees, the levy of execution thereon, and the redemption thereof if mortgaged or taken on execution; and whoever holds as lessee or assignee under such a lease shall, so long as fifty years of the term remain unexpired, be regarded as a freeholder for all purposes.

178 Mass. 76.

1 Section 2. If curtesy or dower is assigned out of such land, the husband or widow and his or her assigns shall pay to the owner of the unexpired residue of the term one third of the rent reserved in the lease under which the wife or husband held the term.

1 Section 5. Such rent may be recovered in contract, and the deed of demise or other written instrument, if any, showing the provisions of the lease, may be used in evidence by either party to prove the amount of rent due from the defendant.
SECTION 6. Such action may be brought by or against executors and administrators for any arrears of rent accrued in the lifetime of the deceased parties, respectively, in the same manner as for debts due from or to the same parties in their lifetime on a personal contract.

SECTION 7. The six preceding sections shall not deprive landlords of any other legal remedy for the recovery of rents, whether secured by lease or by law.

SECTION 8. If land is held by lease of a person having an estate therein determinable on a life or on a contingency, and such estate determines before the end of a period for which rent is payable, or if an estate created by a written lease or an estate at will is determined before the end of such period by surrender, either express or by operation of law, by notice to quit for non-payment of rent, or by the death of any party, the landlord or his executor or administrator may recover in contract, a proportional part of such rent according to the portion of the last period for which such rent was accruing which had expired at such determination.

SECTION 9. If, upon the determination of a tenancy, in any manner mentioned in the preceding section, before the end of a period for which rent is payable, the rent therefor has been paid before such determination, a proportionate part thereof, according to the portion of such period then unexpired, may be recovered back in contract.

SECTION 11. Upon the neglect or refusal to pay the rent due under a written lease, fourteen days' notice to quit, given in writing by the landlord to the tenant, shall be sufficient to determine the lease, unless the tenant, at least four days before the return day of the writ, in an action by the landlord to recover possession of the premises, pays or tenders to the landlord or to his attorney all rent then due, with interest and costs of suit.

SECTION 12. Estates at will may be determined by either party by three months' notice in writing for that purpose given to the other party;
and if the rent reserved is payable at periods of less than three months, the time of such notice shall be sufficient if it is equal to the interval between the days of payment; and in case of neglect or refusal to pay the rent due from a tenant at will, fourteen days' notice to quit, given in writing by the landlord to the tenant, shall be sufficient to determine the tenancy.

EASEMENTS.

Sect. 1. Easements of light and air not to be acquired by use.

2. Easements by prescription only by twenty years uninterrupted adverse use.

Sect. 3. Prevention of easement by notice.

4. Notice as disturbance of easement.

Section 13. Whenever a tenancy at will of premises occupied for dwelling purposes, other than a room or rooms in a hotel, lodging house or rooming house is terminated, without fault of the tenant, either by operation of law or by act of the landlord except as provided in section twelve, no action to recover possession of the premises shall be brought, nor shall the tenant be dispossessed, until after the expiration of a period, equal to the interval between the days on which the rent reserved is payable, from the time when the tenant receives notice in writing of such termination; but such tenant shall be liable to pay rent for such time during the said period as he occupies or detains the premises, at the same rate as theretofore payable by him while a tenant at will.

Section 14. Any lessor of any building or part thereof occupied for dwelling purposes, other than a room or rooms in a hotel, lodging house or rooming house, who is required by the terms, expressed or implied, of any contract or lease, to furnish water, heat, light, power, elevator service or telephone service to any occupant of such building, or part thereof, who wilfully or intentionally fails to furnish such water, heat, light, power, elevator service or telephone service at any time when the same is necessary to the proper or customary use of such building, or part thereof, or any lessor who wilfully and intentionally interferes with the quiet enjoyment of any such leased premises by the occupant, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than six months.

Section 1. Whoever erects a house or other building with windows overlooking the land of another shall not, by the mere continuance of such windows, acquire an easement of light or air so as to prevent the erection of a building on such land.

Section 2. No person shall acquire by adverse use or enjoyment a right or privilege of way or other easement from, in, upon or over the land of another, unless such use or enjoyment is continued uninterruptedly for twenty years.

Section 3. If a person apprehends that a right of way or other easement in or over his land may be acquired by custom, use or otherwise by any person or class of persons, he may give public notice of his intention in writing to such person or persons, and if notice is so given, the acquisition of such easement shall be barred unless the person from, in, upon or over whose land such easement is claimed, is put in actual possession thereof, or such notice is published in any newspaper or gazette, or in any other manner prescribed by law.
Section 4. A notice given under the preceding section shall be a disturbance of the easement to which it relates entitling the person claiming such easement to an action for the purpose of trying the right; and if he prevails, he shall be entitled to full costs although he recovers only nominal damages.

CHAPTER 188.

HOMESTEADS.

Sect. 1. Nature of homestead estate.
2. Mode of acquisition.
3. Wife or minor child may occupy in certain cases.
5. Previous mortgage, etc., unaffected.

Sect. 6. Estate subject to prior mortgage.
7. Release of rights.
7A. Same subject.
8. Sale of rights of widow, etc.
9. Set-off if holder insolvent.
10. Existing rights saved.

Section 1. A householder who has a family shall be entitled to acquire an estate of homestead to the extent of eight hundred dollars in value in the land and buildings thereon owned or rightly possessed by lease or otherwise and occupied by him as a residence; and such estate shall be exempt from the laws of conveyance, descent and devise and from attachment, levy on execution and sale for the payment of his debts or legacies, except —

1. Sale for taxes.
2. (2) Attachment, levy and sale in the following cases:
   (a) For a debt contracted previous to the acquisition of said estate 10 of homestead.
   (b) For a debt contracted for the purchase thereof. 12
   (c) Upon an execution issued from the probate court to enforce its 13 decree that a husband pay a certain amount weekly or otherwise to 14 support his wife or minor children.
   (d) Where buildings on land not owned by the householder are attached, levied upon or sold for the ground rent of the lot of land wherein they stand.
1. Section 2. To acquire such estate of homestead, the fact that it is
2. designed to be held as such shall be set forth in the deed of conveyance
3. by which the property is acquired; or, after the title has been acquired,
4. such design may be declared by a writing duly signed, sealed and ac-
5. knowledged and recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or
6. district in which the property is situated. The acquisition of a new
7. estate of homestead shall defeat and discharge any such previous estate.

1. Section 3. In a case in which the probate court has entered a
2. decree that the wife is living apart from her husband for justifiable
3. cause, or the custody of his minor children or minor child has been
4. decreed to some person other than him, and the husband owns or holds
5. a homestead estate, the probate court may by its decree grant to his
6. wife or minor children, or to both, the right to use, occupy and enjoy
7. such homestead estate until the further order of the court. The record-
8. ing of the order of the probate court granting to the wife or minor chil-
9. dren, or to both, the right to use, occupy and enjoy said homestead
10. estate, together with the description thereof, in the registry of deeds
11. for the county or district where the land lies, shall operate to prevent
12. the husband from disposing of said estate until such time as the probate
13. court may revoke said decree.

1. Section 4. The estate of homestead existing at the death of a
2. householder shall continue for the benefit of his widow and minor
3. children, and shall be held and enjoyed by them, if one of them or a
4. purchaser under section eight occupies the premises, until the youngest
5. child is twenty-one and until the marriage or death of the widow; and
6. if a widow or minor children are entitled to an estate of homestead as
7. provided herein, it may be set off to them in the same manner as dower.
8. But all the right, title and interest of the deceased in the premises in
9. which such estate exists, except the estate of homestead thus continued
10. shall be subject to the laws relating to devise, descent, dower and sale
11. for the payment of debts and legacies.

1. Section 5. No estate of homestead shall affect a mortgage, lien
2. or other encumbrance previously existing.

1. Section 6. Property which is subject to a mortgage executed before
2. an estate of homestead was acquired therein, or executed afterward and
3. containing a release thereof, shall be subject to an estate of homestead
4. except as against the mortgagee and those claiming under him, in the
5. same manner as if there were no such mortgage. If the owner of the
6. equity in such property redeems the mortgage, he shall not be allowed
7. to claim under it against the owner of the estate of homestead, his
8. widow, heirs or assigns; but if said owner of the estate of homestead, his
9. widow, heirs or assigns offers to redeem the residue above the home-
10. stead estate and the mortgage from a sale or set-off on execution and
11. the judgment creditor has redeemed the mortgage, the amount paid
12. for such redemption of the mortgage, with interest and expenses, shall
13. be included in the amount to be paid for the redemption of said residue.
Section 7. Except as provided in section seven A, no conveyance of property in which an estate of homestead exists, and no release or waiver of such estate, shall convey the part so held and exempted, or defeat the right of the owner or of his wife and children to a homestead therein, unless such conveyance is by a deed in which the wife of the owner joins for the purpose of releasing such right in the manner in which she may release her dower, or unless such right is released as provided in chapter two hundred and nine; but a deed duly executed without such release shall be valid to pass, according to its terms, any title or interest in the property beyond the estate of homestead.

Section 7A. The provisions of section one A of chapter one hundred and eighty-nine relative to the release of rights of or to dower or curtesy shall, so far as applicable, apply to the release of rights under this chapter.

Section 8. The widow and the guardian of the minor children, if he has obtained a license therefrom from the probate court as in the sale of land of minors, may join in a sale of an estate of homestead; or if there is no widow entitled to rights therein, the guardian may, upon obtaining such license, make sale of such estate; and the widow may make such sale if there are no minor children. The purchaser shall enjoy and possess the premises for the full time that the widow and children or either of them might have continued to hold and enjoy them if no sale had been made. The probate court may apportion the proceeds of the sale among the parties entitled thereto.

Section 9. If the property of a debtor is assigned under the laws relative to insolvent debtors, and such debtor claims, and it appears to the court wherein the proceedings in insolvency are pending, that he is entitled to hold a part thereof as a homestead and that the property in which such estate of homestead exists is of greater value than eight hundred dollars, the court shall cause the property to be appraised by three disinterested appraisers, one of whom shall be appointed by the insolvent, one by the assignee and the third by the court; or if either the assignee or insolvent neglects to appoint, the court shall appoint for him. The appraisers shall be sworn faithfully and impartially to appraise the property, and shall appraise and set off an estate of homestead therein to the insolvent debtor in the manner prescribed in section eighteen of chapter two hundred and thirty-six in case of a judgment debtor; and the residue shall vest in and be disposed of by the assignee in the same manner as property which is not exempt by law from levy on execution. The appraisers shall be entitled to the same fees, to be paid out of the estate in insolvency, as are allowed to an appraiser of land seized upon execution.

Section 10. All existing estates of homestead which have been acquired under any law heretofore in force shall continue to be held and enjoyed notwithstanding the repeal of such law.
CHAPTER 189.

DOVER AND CURTESY.

1 Sect. 1. A husband shall upon the death of his wife hold for his life one third of all land owned by her at any time during coverture.
2 Such estate shall be known as his tenancy by curtesy, and the law relative to dower shall be applicable to curtesy, and no conveyance by a married woman of real property shall, except as provided in section thirty-five of chapter two hundred and nine, extinguish or impair his tenancy by curtesy in such property unless he joins in the conveyance or otherwise releases his right. A wife shall, upon the death of her husband, hold her dower at common law in her deceased husband's land.
3 Such estate shall be known as her tenancy by dower. To be entitled to such curtesy or dower the surviving husband or wife shall file his or her election and claim therefor in the registry of probate within six months after the date of the approval of the bond of the executor or administrator of the deceased, and shall thereupon hold instead of the interest in real property given in section one of chapter one hundred and ninety, curtesy or dower, respectively, otherwise such estate shall be held to be waived. Such curtesy and dower may be assigned by the probate court in the same manner as dower is now assigned, and the tenant by curtesy or dower shall be entitled to the possession and profits of one undivided third of the real estate of the deceased from her or his death until the assignment of curtesy or dower, and to all remedies therefor which the heirs of the deceased have in the residue of the estate.
4 Of curtesy which existed on December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and twenty-four, one, may be claimed and held in the manner above provided, but in such case the husband shall take no other interest in the real or personal property of his wife; and, except as preserved herein, curtesy as it existed prior to January first, nineteen hundred and two, is abolished.

1 Sect. 1A. A deed conveying land which is signed by the spouse of a grantor, said spouse being competent so to act, shall be held to release the right of such spouse of or to dower or curtesy in such land, unless such right is expressly reserved in said deed.

1 Sect. 9. Jointure made without wife's assent or after marriage effective unless waived.
2 Sect. 10. Assignment of dower or other undivided interest.
3 Sect. 11. Manner of assignment.
4 Sect. 12. Where husband is tenant in common.
5 Sect. 13. Widow may claim her interest after occupying in common with heirs.
7 Sect. 15. Re-endowment of woman if evicted.
DOWER AND CURTESY.

No curtesy as against purchase money mortgage.
1874, 184, § 2.
P. S. 124, § 2.

Section 2. If a deed of land is made to a married woman, who, at the time of its execution, mortgages such land to the grantor to secure the payment of the whole or a part of the purchase money, or to a third person to obtain the whole or a part of such purchase money, her seisin shall not give her husband an estate by the curtesy as against such mortgagee.

Section 3. A widow shall not be entitled to dower in wild land of which her husband dies seized, except woodlots or other land used with his farm or dwelling house, nor in such land which is conveyed by him although it is afterward cleared.

Section 4. If, upon a mortgage made by a husband, his wife has released her right of dower, or if a husband is seized of land subject to a mortgage which is valid and effectual as against his wife, she shall nevertheless be entitled to dower in the land mortgaged as against every person except the mortgagee and those claiming under him. If the heir or other person who claims under the husband redeems the mortgage, the widow shall either repay such part of the money which was paid by the person so redeeming as shall be equal to the proportion which her interest in the land mortgaged bears to the whole value thereof or, at her election, she shall be entitled to dower according to the value of the estate after deducting the money paid for redemption.

Section 5. A married woman may bar her right of dower in land conveyed by her husband or by operation of law by joining in the deed conveying the land or by releasing the land by a subsequent deed executed either separately or jointly with her husband. Her dower may also be released in the manner provided in chapter two hundred and nine.

Section 6. The signature of a married woman under twenty-one affixed by her to any instrument relating to the conveyance of land of her husband shall have the same effect as if she were over that age.

Section 9. Such jointure or pecuniary provision, if made after marriage, or made before marriage and without the assent of the intended wife, shall bar her dower, unless within six months after the death of her husband she makes her election to waive such jointure or provision. If the husband dies while absent from his wife, she shall have six months after notice of his death within which to make such election; and she shall in all cases have six months after notice of the existence of such jointure or provision within which to make such election.

Section 10. If a widow is entitled by law, by deed of jointure, or under the will of her husband, to an undivided interest in his land either for life or during widowhood, such interest may be assigned to her, in whatever counties the land lies, by the probate court for the county in which the estate of her husband is settled. Such assignment may be made upon her petition or, if she does not petition therefor within one year after the decease of her husband, upon petition by an heir or devisee of her husband, by any person having an estate in the land subject to such interest, or by the guardian or conservator of any such heir, devisee or person, or by an executor or administrator if the probate court finds that the personal property will probably be insufficient to pay the debts and legacies of the decedent or charges of administration.

Section 11. Upon such petition, the court shall issue a warrant to three disinterested persons as commissioners, who shall be sworn to perform their duty faithfully and impartially and who shall set off the widow's interest by metes and bounds if it can be so done without damage to the whole estate. But if the estate out of which a widow's interest is to be assigned consists of a mill or other tenement which cannot be divided without damage to the whole, such interest may be assigned out of the rents or profits thereof, to be had and received by the widow as a tenant in common with the other owners of the estate.

Section 12. If a widow is entitled to an undivided interest in land which is owned by her husband as tenant in common, the probate court, upon petition by her or by any person entitled to petition for assignment of her interest in her husband's land, after notice as in case of other partitions, may empower the commissioners to make partition of the land so owned in common, and then to assign to the widow her interest in the portion set off to the estate of her husband.

Section 13. If a widow is entitled to an interest in land of which her husband died seized, she may, without having her interest assigned, continue to occupy such land with the heirs or devisees of the deceased, or to receive her share of the rents or profits thereof, so long as such heirs or devisees do not object thereto; and when the heirs or devisees of the deceased or any of them desire to hold or occupy their share in severalty, the widow may claim her interest and shall have it assigned to her.

Section 14. No surviving husband or widow of a deceased person shall make claim for an interest in the real estate of such deceased, or begin any proceeding for the recovery thereof, unless such claim or limitation for claim of interest in realty.
action is made or begun within twenty years after the decease of the wife or husband, or after he or she has ceased to occupy or receive the profits of his or her share of such real estate, except that if at the time of such decease the surviving husband or widow is absent from the commonwealth, under twenty-one, insane or imprisoned, he or she may make such claim or begin such proceeding at any time within twenty years after such disability ceases.

Section 15. If a woman is lawfully evicted of land which has been assigned to her as dower or settled upon her as jointure, or is deprived of the provision made for her by will or otherwise in lieu of dower, she may be endowed anew in like manner as if such assignment, jointure or other provision had not been made.
CHAPTER 190.

DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION OF REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

1. Section 1. A surviving husband or wife shall, after the payment of the debts of the deceased and the charges of his last sickness and funeral, and of the settlement of his estate, and subject to chapter one hundred and ninety-six, be entitled to the following share in his real and personal property not disposed of by will:

(1) If the deceased leaves kindred and no issue, and it appears on determination by the probate court, as hereinafter provided, that the whole estate does not exceed five thousand dollars in value, the surviving husband or wife shall take the whole thereof; otherwise such survivor shall take five thousand dollars and one half of the remaining personal property and one half of the remaining real property. If the personal property is insufficient to pay said five thousand dollars, the deficiency shall, upon the petition of any party in interest, be paid from the sale or mortgage, in the manner provided for the payment of debts or legacies, of any interest of the deceased in real property which he could have conveyed at the time of his death; and the surviving husband or wife shall be permitted, subject to the approval of the court, to purchase at any such sale, notwithstanding the fact that he or she is the administrator of the estate of the deceased person. A further sale or mortgage of any real estate of the deceased may later be made to provide for any deficiency still remaining. Whenever it shall appear, upon petition to the probate court of any party in interest, and after such notice as the court shall order, and after a hearing thereon, that the whole amount of the estate of the deceased, as found by the inventory and upon such other evidence as the court shall deem necessary, does not exceed the sum of five thousand dollars over and above the amount necessary to pay the debts and charges of administration, the court shall itself by decree determine the value of said estate, which decree shall be binding upon all parties. If additional property is later discovered, the right or title to the estate covered by such decree shall not be affected thereby, but the court may make such further orders and decrees as are necessary to effect the distribution herein provided for.

Section 2. The personal property of a deceased person not lawfully disposed of by will shall, after the payment of his debts and the charges of his last sickness and funeral and of the settlement of the estate, and subject to the preceding section and to chapter one hundred and ninety-six, be distributed among the persons and in the proportions hereinafter prescribed for the descent of real property.

16 (4) If he leaves no issue and no father, to his mother.
17 (5) If he leaves no issue and no father or mother, to his brothers and sisters and to the issue of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation; and, if there is no surviving brother or sister of the intestate, to all the issue of his deceased brothers and sisters. If all such issue are in the same degree of kindred to the intestate, they shall share the estate equally, otherwise, according to the right of representation.

18 (6) If he leaves no issue, and no father, mother, brother or sister, and no issue of any deceased brother or sister, then to his next of kin in equal degree; but if there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree claiming through different ancestors, those claiming through the nearest ancestor shall be preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote.

19 (7) If an intestate leaves no kindred and no widow or husband, his estate shall escheat to the commonwealth.

1 Section 4. Degrees of kindred shall be computed according to the rules of the civil law; and the kindred of the half blood shall inherit equally with those of the whole blood in the same degree.

1885, 60, § 1. P. S. 125, § 2. 5 Cush. 232.

1 Section 5. An illegitimate child shall be heir of his mother and of any maternal ancestor, and the lawful issue of an illegitimate person shall represent such person and take by descent any estate which such person would have taken if living.

1 Section 6. If an illegitimate child dies intestate and without issue who may lawfully inherit his estate, such estate shall descend to his mother or, if she is not living, to the persons who would have been entitled thereto by inheritance through his mother if he had been a legitimate child.

1 Section 7. An illegitimate child whose parents have intermarried and whose father has acknowledged him as his child shall be deemed legitimate and shall be entitled to take the name of his parents to the same extent as if born in lawful wedlock.

MAKING AND REVOCATION.

SECTION 1. Every person of full age and sound mind may by his last will in writing, signed by him or by a person in his presence and by his express direction, and attested and subscribed in his presence by three or more competent witnesses, dispose of his property, real and personal, except an estate tail, and except as is provided in this chapter and in chapters one hundred and eighty-eight and one hundred and eighty-nine and in section one of chapter two hundred and nine. A 1 Section 2. Any person of sufficient understanding shall be deemed to be a competent witness to a will, notwithstanding any common law disqualification for interest or otherwise; but a beneficial devise or legacy to a subscribing witness or to the husband or wife of such witness shall be void unless there are three other subscribing witnesses to the will who are not similarly benefited thereunder.

1 Section 3. If a witness to a will is competent at the time of his attestation, his subsequent incompetency shall not prevent the probate and allowance of such will.

1 Section 4. A will made and executed in conformity with law existing at the time of its execution shall have the same effect as if made pursuant to this chapter.

1 Section 5. A last will and testament executed in the mode prescribed by the law, either of the place where the will is executed or of the testator's domicile, shall be deemed to be legally executed, and shall be of the same force and effect as if executed in the mode prescribed by the laws of this commonwealth; provided, that such last will and testament is in writing and subscribed by the testator.

1 Section 6. A soldier in actual military service or a mariner at sea shall not be incapacitated by his personal property by a nuncupative will.

1 Section 7. No will, except as provided in this chapter and in chapter two hundred and nine, shall pass any property, real or personal, or charge or in any way affect the same; and no will shall take effect against the wishes of the testator.
WILLS. [Chap. 191.

SECTION 8. No will shall be revoked except by burning, tearing, cancelling or obliterating it with the intention of revoking it, by the testator himself or by a person in his presence and by his direction; or by some other writing signed, attested and subscribed in the same manner as a will; or by subsequent changes in the condition or circumstances of the testator from which a revocation is implied by law.

SECTION 9. The marriage of a person shall act as a revocation of a will made by him previous to such marriage, unless it appears from the will that it was made in contemplation thereof. If the will is made in the exercise of a power of appointment and the real and personal property subject to the appointment would not, without the appointment, pass to the persons who would have been entitled to it if it had been the estate and property of the testator making the appointment and he had died intestate, so much of the will as makes the appointment shall not be revoked by the marriage.

CUSTODY AND PRODUCTION IN COURT.

SECTION 10. A will enclosed in a sealed wrapper, with an endorsement thereon of the name and residence of the testator and of the day when and the person by whom it is deposited, and with or without the name of a person to whom the will is to be delivered after the death of the testator, shall, on the payment of one dollar, be received by the register of probate in the county where the testator lives, who shall give a certificate of the receipt thereof, and shall keep such will; and the same shall not be opened until it is delivered to a person entitled to receive it or is otherwise disposed of as hereinafter provided.

SECTION 11. During the life of the testator such will shall be delivered only to him or in accordance with his order in writing duly verified by the oath of a subscribing witness; and after his death it shall be delivered to the person named in the endorsement, if such person demands it.

SECTION 12. If the will is not called for by the person, if any, named in the endorsement, it shall be publicly opened at the first probate court held after notice of the testator's death, and shall be retained in the registry until so opened. If the jurisdiction of the case belongs to another court, it shall be delivered to the executors or other persons entitled to the custody thereof, to be by them presented for probate in such other court.

SECTION 13. A person having custody of a will, other than a register of probate, shall, within thirty days after notice of the death of the testator, deliver such will into the probate court having jurisdiction of the 4 probate thereof, or to the executors named in the will, who shall them-
5 selves deliver it into such court within said time; and if a person neg-
6 lects without reasonable cause so to deliver a will, after being duly cited
7 for that purpose by such court, he may be committed to jail by warrant 8 of the court until he delivers it as above provided, and shall be liable to a 9 person who is aggrieved for the damage sustained by him by reason of 10 such neglect.

1 Section 14. If a person claiming to be interested in the estate of a 2 person deceased makes complaint on oath to a probate court against 3 any one suspected of retaining, concealing, or conspiring with others to 4 retain or conceal, a will or testamentary instrument of the deceased, the 5 court may cite the suspected person to appear before it and be examined
6 on oath upon the matter of the complaint. Upon such examination
7 all interrogatories and answers shall be in writing, signed by the person 8 examined, and shall be filed in the court. If the person cited refuses to 9 appear and to answer such interrogatories as are lawfully propounded to 10 him, or to obey any lawful order of the court, he may be committed 11 to jail by warrant of the court until he submits to its order. The court 12 may award costs to be paid by either party, and may issue execution 13 therefor.

RIGHTS OF SURVIVING HUSBAND OR WIFE.

1 Section 15. The surviving husband or wife of a deceased person,
2 except as provided in section thirty-five or thirty-six of chapter two 3 hundred and nine, within six months after the probate of the will of such 4 deceased, may file in the registry of probate a writing signed by him or by 5 her, waiving any provisions that may have been made in it for him or 6 for her, or claiming such portion of the estate of the deceased as he or she 7 would have taken if the deceased had died intestate, and he or she shall 8 thereupon take the same portion of the property of the deceased, real 9 and personal, that he or she would have taken if the deceased had died 10 intestate; except that if he or she would thus take real and personal 11 property to an amount exceeding ten thousand dollars in value, he or she 12 shall receive in addition to that amount only the income during his or 13 her life of the excess of his or her share of such estate above that amount, 14 the personal property to be held in trust and the real property vested in 15 him or her for life, from the death of the deceased; and except that if the 16 deceased leaves no kindred, he or she upon such waiver shall take the 17 interest he or she would have taken if the deceased had died leaving 18 kindred but no issue. If the real and personal property of the deceased 19 which the surviving husband or widow takes under the foregoing pro-
20 visions exceeds ten thousand dollars in value, the ten thousand dollars 21 above given absolutely shall be paid out of that part of the personal 22 property in which the husband or widow is interested; and if such part 23 is insufficient the deficiency shall, upon the petition of any person in-24 terested, be paid from the sale or mortgage in fee, in the manner provided 25 for the payment of debts or legacies, of that part of the real property in 26 which he or she is interested. Such sale or mortgage may be made either 27 before or after such part is set off from the other real property of the de-28 ceased for the life of the husband or widow. If, after probate of such will, 29 legal proceedings have been instituted wherein its validity or effect is 30 drawn in question, the probate court may, within said six months, on

SECTION 16. The probate court may upon application of a person interested appoint one or more trustees, who shall be subject to chapter two hundred and three so far as applicable, to hold during the life of a husband or widow any personal property to the income of which he or she may be entitled under the preceding section.

SECTION 17. A husband shall not be entitled to his curtesy in addition to the provisions of his wife's will, nor a widow to her dower in addition to the provisions of her husband's will, unless such plainly appears by the will to have been the intention of the testator.

1 Section 26. If property which is given by will is taken from a devisee or legatee for the payment of the debts of the testator, all the other devisees and legatees shall, subject to the following section, contribute their respective proportions of the loss to the person from whom such property is taken, so that the loss may fall on all the devisees and legatees in proportion to and not exceeding the value of the property received by each.

estate different from that prescribed in the preceding section, his property shall be appropriated and applied in conformity with his will, so far as such appropriation and application can be made without affecting the liability of his whole estate for the payment of his debts.

SECTION 28. If a child, or the issue of a child, omitted in the will takes under section twenty a portion of the estate of a testator, such portion of the estate shall, for the purposes of the two preceding sections and section thirty, be considered as if it had been devised or bequeathed to such child or other descendant; and he shall contribute with the devisees and legatees, and be entitled to claim contribution from them, as before provided.

SECTION 29. If a person who is liable to contribute according to the three preceding sections is insolvent or unable to pay his just proportion of the contribution required, the other persons so liable to contribute shall be severally liable for the loss occasioned by such insolvency, each one in proportion to and not exceeding the value of the property received by him from the estate of the deceased; and if a person who is so liable dies without having paid his proportion, his executors and ad-miminators shall be liable therefor in like manner as if it had been his own debt and to the extent to which he would have been liable if living.

SECTION 30. If the estate of a devisee under a will is taken for the curtesy of the husband or dower of the widow of the testator, all the other devisees and legatees shall contribute their respective proportions of the loss to the person from whom the estate is so taken, so that the loss may fall upon all the devisees and legatees in proportion to and not exceeding the value of property received by them under the will; but no devise or legatee shall contribute if exempted therefrom by the will.

CHAPTER 192.

PROBATE OF WILLS AND APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTORS.

SECT. 1. Affidavits to be annexed to certain petitions in the probate court.
2. Proof of will, etc.
3. Certain decrees conclusive after one year. Effect of subsequent decrees.
4. Letters to issue.
5. If one executor does not accept, letters may be granted to the others.

SECTION 1. A petition for the probate of a will, letters of administration or letters testamentary shall have annexed an affidavit of the petitioner or of one of the petitioners that the statements therein made are true to the best of his knowledge and belief.
1 Section 2. If it appears to the probate court, by the consent in writing of the heirs, or by other satisfactory evidence, that no person interested in the estate of a deceased person intends to object to the probate of an instrument purporting to be the will of such deceased, the court may grant probate thereof upon the testimony of one only of the subscribing witnesses; and the affidavit of such witness, taken before the register of probate, may be received as evidence. If the probate of such instrument is assented to by the widow or husband of the deceased, if any, and by all the heirs at law and next of kin, it may be allowed without testimony.

1 Section 3. A decree allowing a will, or compromise of a will, or adjudicating the intestacy of the estate of a deceased person, in any court in the commonwealth having jurisdiction thereof, shall, after one year from the rendition thereof, or, if proceedings for its reversal are had, after one year from its establishment, be final and conclusive in favor of purchasers for value, in good faith, without notice of any adverse claim, on any property, real or personal, from devisees, legatees, heirs, executors, administrators, guardians or conservators; and in favor of executors, administrators, trustees, guardians and conservators, who have settled their accounts in due form and have in good faith disposed of the assets of the estate in accordance with law; and also in favor of persons who have in good faith made payments to executors, administrators, trustees, guardians or conservators. If a subsequent decree reverses or qualifies the decree so originally rendered, heirs, devisees, legatees and distributees shall be liable to a subsequent executor, administrator or other person found entitled thereto, for any proceeds or assets of the estate received by them under the former decree, and in such case proceeds of real property shall be treated as real property. This section shall not make an adjudication of the fact of death conclusive.

1 Section 4. If a will has been duly proved and allowed, the probate court shall issue letters testamentary thereon to the executor named therein, if he is legally competent and a suitable person and accepts the trust and within thirty days gives bond to discharge the same; otherwise said court may grant letters of administration on the estate as provided in the following chapter.

1 Section 5. If a person named as executor in a will has deceased or refuses to accept the trust, or, after being duly cited for the purpose, neglects to accept the same or neglects for twenty days after the probate of the will to give bond according to law, the court shall grant letters testamentary to the other executors, if there are any competent and willing to accept the trust.

1 Section 6. If a person named as executor in a will is at the time of the probate thereof a minor, the other executor or executors, if any, shall administer the estate until the minor arrives at full age, when, upon giving bond according to law, he may be admitted as a co-executor of such will.
SECTION 7. If a judge or register of probate desires to be appointed executor of the will or administrator, or administrator with the will annexed, of the estate of his wife, child, father or mother, who at the time of their decease were inhabitants of or resident in his county, such will may be proved and allowed and appointment made and all subsequent proceedings relative to the estate may be had in the probate court of any adjoining county, and the register thereof shall forthwith transmit to the register of the county where the deceased resided, or of which said deceased was an inhabitant, a true and attested copy of all papers relating thereto filed and entered on the docket, which shall be recorded by the register to whom they are transmitted.

SECTION 8. The executor of the will of an executor shall not, as such, administer on the estate of the first testator.

SECTION 9. A person interested in a will which has been proved and allowed in any other of the United States or in a foreign country according to the laws of such state or country, or in a will which, by the laws of the state or country in which it was made, is valid without probate, may produce to the probate court in any county where there is any property, real or personal, on which such will may operate, a copy of such will and of the probate thereof, duly authenticated, or, if such will is valid without probate as aforesaid, a copy of the will or of the official record thereof duly authenticated by the proper officer having custody of such will or record in such state or country; and the court shall thereupon assign a time and place for a hearing and cause notice thereof to be given to all persons interested by publication in a newspaper three weeks successively, the first publication to be thirty days at least before the time assigned for the hearing.

SECTION 10. If at such hearing the court finds from the copies before it and any additional proof as to the authenticity and execution of the will that the instrument ought to be allowed in this commonwealth as the last will of the deceased, it shall order the copy to be filed and recorded, and the will shall then have the same effect as if it had been originally proved and allowed in the probate court in the usual manner.

SECTION 11. After allowing a will under the two preceding sections, the probate court shall grant letters testamentary on such will or letters of administration with the will annexed, and shall proceed in the settlement of the estate which may be found in this commonwealth in the manner provided in chapter one hundred and ninety-nine relative to such estates.
CHAPTER 193.

APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATORS.

ORDINARY ADMINISTRATION.

1 Section 1. Administration of the estate of a person deceased intestate shall be granted to one or more of the persons hereinafter mentioned and in the order named, if competent and suitable for the discharge of the trust and willing to undertake it, unless the court deems it proper to appoint some other person:

2 First, The widow or surviving husband of the deceased.

3 Second, The next of kin or their guardians or conservators as the court shall determine.

4 Third, If none of the above are competent or if they all renounce the administration or without sufficient cause neglect for thirty days after the death of the intestate to take administration of his estate, one or more of the principal creditors, after public notice upon the petition.

5 Fourth, If there is no widow, husband or next of kin within the commonwealth, a public administrator.

6 When granted to next of kin without notice.

6 One Section 2. Administration of the estate of an intestate may be granted to one or more of the next of kin or any suitable person, if the husband or widow and all the next of kin resident in the commonwealth, who are of full age and legal capacity, consent in writing thereto. Notice of the petition may be dispensed with as if all parties entitled thereto had signified their assent or waived notice.

9 One Section 3. If a person dies leaving an estate which may be liable to an income tax under chapter sixty-two or a legacy or succession tax under chapter sixty-five, and a will disposing of such estate is not offered for probate, or an application for administration made, within four months after the death, an income tax commissioner may apply for administration.
after his decease, the probate court, upon application by the commissioner of corporations and taxation, may appoint an administrator.

SEC. 4. Administration shall not be originally granted after the expiration of twenty years from the death of the testator or intestate, except in cases expressly authorized by law.

SEC. 5. If administration has not been taken on the estate of a testator or intestate within twenty years after his decease, and any property or claim or right thereto remains undistributed or thereafter accrues to such estate and remains to be administered, original administration may for cause be granted, but it shall affect no other property. Before granting such administration the court shall require the petitioner to furnish evidence of the death of the intestate and such other evidence as the court may require. In the absence of satisfactory evidence of death and of interest on the part of the petitioners, the probate court shall refer the matter to the attorney general, or to any district attorney, who shall investigate and report thereon for the advice and assistance of the court.

SEC. 6. If, after the granting of letters of administration as upon an intestate estate, a will of the person deceased is duly proved and allowed, such letters shall be revoked; and the executor or an administrator with the will annexed may demand, collect and sue for all the personal property of the deceased which remains undistributed.

ADMINISTRATION WITH THE WILL ANNEXED.

SEC. 7. If no executor is named in a will, or if all the executors therein named are dead or incompetent or refuse to accept the trust, or if, after being duly cited therefor, the executor neglects to accept the trust, or if he neglects for thirty days after the probate of the will to give bond according to law, the court shall commit administration of the estate, with the will annexed, to any person interested in the will of said deceased, to any creditor of the deceased or to any suitable person; but after the expiration of said thirty days, and before letters of administration with the will annexed have been granted, the court may grant letters testamentary to any person named as executor who gives the bond required by law. If a person named as executor in a will petitions for the probate of the same and dies, declines or becomes unable to act before final decree is entered on said petition, any person interested in the will of said deceased, or any creditor of the deceased, or any suitable person, may, on petition, be allowed to enter and to prosecute the original petition for probate, to apply for letters of administration with the will annexed, and to act and proceed in any proposed compromise under sections fifteen and sixteen of chapter two hundred and four. If it appears that there are no known heirs or legatees or devisees under the will of the deceased, a public administrator of the county shall be appointed to the trust.
APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATORS.

1 Section 8. If a person named as executor is at the time of the probate of the will under the age of twenty-one, administration with the 3 will annexed may be granted during his minority, unless there is another 4 executor who accepts the trust.

R. S. 63, § 6.

G. S. 93, § 7.

ADMINISTRATION DE BONIS NON.

1 Section 9. If a sole or surviving executor or administrator dies, resigns or is removed before having fully administered an estate, and there 3 is personal property of the deceased not administered to the amount of 4 twenty dollars, or debts to that amount remaining due from the estate, 5 or anything remaining to be performed in execution of the will, or if 6 there is an order of distribution in accordance with section twenty-eight 7 of chapter two hundred and six, the probate court shall grant letters
8 of administration, with the will annexed, or otherwise as the case may 9 require, to one or more suitable persons to administer the goods and 10 estate of the deceased not already administered. If it appears that there 11 are no known heirs of the deceased, a public administrator of the county 12 shall be appointed to the trust.

SPECIAL ADMINISTRATION.

1 Section 10. If the judge of probate deems it necessary or expedient,
2 he may, at any time and place, with or without notice, appoint a special
3 administrator who, in case of an appeal from the decree appointing him, 4 shall nevertheless proceed in the execution of his duties until it is other-
5 wise ordered by the supreme judicial court, and may in like manner dis-
6 charge him. Such appointment and discharge shall be entered forthwith 7 on the records of the court and notice thereof given to the executor or 8 the administrator, if any.

1 Section 11. A special administrator shall collect all the personal 2 property of the deceased and preserve the same for the executor or ad-
3 ministrator when appointed, and for that purpose may commence, main-4 tain and defend suits. If he is appointed by reason of delay in granting 5 letters testamentary, the court may authorize him to take charge of the 6 real property of the deceased or of any part thereof, and collect rents, 7 make necessary repairs and do all other things which it may consider 8 needful for the preservation of such real property and as a charge thereon.
9 His compensation shall be such as the court allows.

1 Section 12. The probate court may, upon such notice as it considers 2 reasonable, authorize or require a special administrator to sell or do such 3 other acts relative to any property or estate in his charge as it may deem 4 necessary; but this section shall not give to the special administrator 5 other or greater powers than an administrator, except that he may be 6 authorized to continue the business of the deceased for the benefit of his 7 estate.

252 Mass. 197.
259 Mass. 219.
261 Mass. 209.
SECTION 13. Upon petition of the widow or of any child of the deceased, the probate court may, after notice, make a reasonable allowance out of the real or personal property in the hands of a special administrator appointed on account of the pendency of a petition relative to the probate of a will or the appointment of an administrator or of an administrator with the will annexed, as an advancement for the support of such widow or children, not exceeding such portion of the estate as they would finally be entitled to. An appeal from a decree relative to such allowance shall not prevent the payment of the allowance, if the petitioner gives bond to the special administrator, with sureties approved by the court and conditioned to repay it if the decree is reversed.

SECTION 14. A special administrator may by leave of the probate court pay from the personal property in his hands the expenses of the last sickness and funeral of the deceased, the expenses incurred by the executor named in the will of the deceased, or by any other person presenting the same for probate, in proving the will in the probate court or in sustaining the proof thereof in the supreme judicial court and also, after notice, such debts due from the deceased as the probate court may approve.

SECTION 15. A special administrator shall not be liable to an action by a creditor of the deceased; and the time of limitation for all actions against the estate shall begin to run only after the granting of letters testamentary or of administration in the usual form in like manner and subject to the same conditions as if special administration had not been granted; but if an appeal is taken from the decree of the probate court appointing an executor or administrator the time shall run in like manner and subject to the same conditions if the decree is affirmed, from the time of the affirmation if the bond has been filed, and, if not, from the date of the filing of the bond; if the decree is reversed, from the time when an appointment is finally made or affirmed and the bond is filed.

SECTION 16. Upon the granting of letters testamentary or of administration, the powers of the special administrator shall cease. Upon the termination of his powers, the special administrator shall forthwith deliver to the executor or administrator or to such person as is otherwise lawfully authorized to receive it all the estate of the deceased in his hands; and the executor or administrator may be admitted to prosecute a suit commenced by the special administrator in like manner as an administrator de bonis non may prosecute a suit commenced by a former executor or administrator.

Section 1
There shall be in each county one or more public administrators, not exceeding six in Middlesex and in Suffolk or five in any other county, appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the council, who shall hold office for five years from the time of their appointment.

1917, 12. 1929, 85.

Section 2
A public administrator shall give bond for the faithful administration of each estate on which letters of administration may be granted to him as such public administrator, with sufficient sureties, in such form as the probate court may order, payable to the judge of said court and his successors, with condition substantially as follows:—

First, To make and return to the probate court, within three months from the time of granting to him, as public administrator, letters of administration on the estate of the deceased, a true inventory of all the real and personal property of the deceased which at the time of making thereof shall have come to his possession or knowledge;

Second, To administer according to law all personal property of the deceased which may come into his possession or into the possession of any person for him, and also the proceeds of any of the real property of the deceased which may be sold or mortgaged by him;

Third, To render on oath a true account of his administration at least once a year until his trust is fulfilled, unless he is excused therefrom in any year by the court, and also to render such account at such other times as the court orders;

Fourth, To pay the balance of such estate remaining in his hands upon the settlement of his accounts to such persons as the court may direct; and, when such estate has been fully administered, to deposit with the state treasurer the whole amount remaining in his hands to which said treasurer may be entitled under the provisions of chapter one hundred and ninety-four of the General Laws;

Fifth, Upon the appointment and qualification of an executor or administrator as his successor, to surrender into the probate court said letters of administration, with an account on oath of his doings therein; 27 and, upon a just settlement of such account, to pay over and deliver to 28 such successor all money remaining in his hands, and all property, 29 effects and credits of the deceased not then administered.

Section 3. [Repealed, 1931, 305, § 2.]

Section 4. A public administrator shall, except as hereinafter provided, take out letters of administration and faithfully administer upon the estates of persons who die intestate within his county or elsewhere, leaving property in his county to be administered, if there is no known husband, widow or heir of such deceased living in the common-wealth at the time of filing the petition. The state treasurer shall be made a party to a petition for administration by a public administrator, and shall be given due notice of all subsequent proceedings. He shall, except as otherwise provided in this chapter, administer estates and render accounts in the same manner as other administrators.

Section 5. Administration shall not be granted to a public adminis-1 trator when the husband, widow or an heir of the deceased, in writing, claims the right of administration or requests the appointment of some other suitable person to the trust, if such husband, widow, heir or other person be a person and gives the bond required, nor when the sole known assets of the estate of the deceased consist of an amount of money standing to his credit in a savings bank or in the savings department of a trust company, in case such account has not been increased by a deposit, nor decreased by a withdrawal of any part of his deposits or of any part of the interest thereon, during a period of twenty years or more next preceding the petition for such administration.

Section 6. If after citation has been issued by the probate court to a public administrator upon the estate of a deceased person, admin-1 istration shall not be granted to him for the reason set forth in the pre-1 ceeding section, or because of the finding of a will of the deceased, the judge, if satisfied that the person taking out said citation has acted in good faith and for the best interests of the estate, may allow him just 1 and reasonable compensation for his services, and reimbursement for ex-1 penses actually incurred, out of the assets of said estate.

Section 7. If, after the granting of letters of administration to a public administrator and before the final settlement of the estate, the husband, widow or an heir of the deceased, in writing, claims the right of administration or requests the appointment of some other suitable person to the trust, or if a will of the deceased is thereafter proved and allowed, the probate court shall grant letters of administration or letters testamentary; and when the person to whom such letters are so granted gives the bond required by law the powers of the public administrator over the estate shall cease.

Section 8. Upon the death, resignation or removal of a public administrator, the probate court shall issue a warrant to some other public administrator in the same county, upon his application there-4 for, requiring him to examine the accounts of such public admin-5istrator relative to the estates on which he has taken out letters of ad-6ministration, and to return to the probate court a statement of all of 7 such estates as are not fully administered and of the balance of each 8 estate remaining in the hands of such public administrator at the time 9 of his death, resignation or removal. And thereupon the court shall 10 issue to the public administrator making the return, upon his giving the 11 requisite bond, letters of administration upon such of said estates as are 12 not already administered, although the personal property remaining may 13 not amount to twenty dollars.

1 Section 9. Public administrators may be authorized to take charge
2 of the real property of the deceased or of any part thereof situated any-
3 where within the commonwealth, to lease the same, to collect the rents,
4 and to make such repairs, and do all other things which may be con-
5 sidered necessary for the preservation of such real property and as a 6 charge thereon. They may also be licensed by the probate court to 7 sell the real property for the same purposes and in the same manner
8 as other administrators. All laws relative to sales of land by adminis-
9 trators and the disposition of the proceeds shall govern such sales so far 10 as applicable, except as otherwise provided in this chapter; provided, 11 that the time limit imposed on sales by other administrators shall not 12 apply to sales by public administrators, but shall be in the discretion 13 of the court. The net proceeds of any sale after deducting the expenses 14 thereof and other administration expenses, and such amount as may be 15 required for the payment of debts in consequence of a deficiency in the 16 personal property, shall, after one year from the time of the filing of the 17 administrator's bond, or in case he has filed a general bond, after one 18 year from the date of his appointment, except as provided in the follow-19 ing section, be distributed to the persons who would have been entitled 20 to said real property in the proportions to which they would have been 21 entitled had it not been sold.

1 Section 10. When an estate has been fully administered by a 2 public administrator, or by the executor or administrator with the will 3 annexed of a person who died leaving no known heirs, he shall deposit any 4 balance in his hands with the state treasurer, who shall hold it for the 5 benefit of those who may have lawful claims thereon. The probate court
6 may, within six years thereafter, upon the application of such executor 7 or administrator, if it appears that there are reasonable grounds to be-
8 lieve that certain persons have lawful claims upon the said balance, enter 9 a decree directing that it be repaid to him; and the treasurer shall there-
10 upon pay over to him all money deposited in the treasury to the credit 11 of the estate to be administered by him as a part of the estate of the 12 deceased.

1 Section 11. The probate court in each county shall require every 2 public administrator in such county to render an account of his pro-
3 ceedings under any letters of administration at least once a year until 4 the trust is fulfilled. When, on final settlement of an estate, it appears
5 that money remains in the hands of such administrator by which law 6 should have been deposited with the state treasurer, the court shall 7 certify that fact and a statement of the amount so withheld to said 8 treasurer, who, unless such deposit is made within one month after the receipt of such notice, shall cause the bond of the administrator to be prosecuted for the recovery of such money.

SECTION 12. A public administrator shall, upon the appointment and qualification of an executor or administrator as his successor, surrender into the probate court his letters of administration in such case with an account on oath of his doings therein, and, upon a just settlement of such account, shall pay over and deliver to his successor all money remaining in his hands, and all property, effects and credits of the deceased not then administered.

SECTION 13. Public administrators shall complete, as soon as they lawfully may, the administration of estates in their hands of which the administration is not complete at the date of the expiration of their terms.

SECTION 14. If, within six years after a public administrator, or an executor or an administrator with the will annexed of a person who has died, leaving no known heirs, has deposited with the state treasurer the balance of an estate, any person petitions the probate court which granted letters of administration or letters testamentary on such estate, and shows that he is legally entitled by the will of the deceased or otherwise to the administration thereof, the court shall grant administration thereof, or, upon probate of such will, shall grant letters testamentary or of administration with the will annexed to such petitioner or at his request to some other suitable person; but before granting such letters the court shall order personal notice of the petition to be served, at least fourteen days before the hearing, upon a public administrator of the county, who shall appear in behalf of the commonwealth. In all such cases the public administrator shall receive a reasonable allowance for his services and expenses, to be determined by the probate court and paid by the state treasurer out of the money deposited to the credit of such estate, but not otherwise.

SECTION 15. After the expiration of twenty days from the appointment of an executor or administrator under the preceding section, if no appeal is claimed by any person interested, the state treasurer, after paying such sums, if any, for services and expenses as may be allowed under the preceding section, shall pay over to such executor or administrator all money deposited to the credit of such estate, to be administered in like manner as the estates of other deceased persons.

SECTION 16. If a public administrator neglects to return an inventory, settle an account or perform any other duty incumbent on him in relation to an estate, and there appears to be no heir entitled thereto, the district attorney for the district where the administrator received his letters shall, in behalf of the commonwealth, prosecute all suits and do all acts necessary to insure a prompt and faithful administration of the estate and the payment of the proceeds thereof into the state treasury; and if no heir has, within two years after the granting of letters of administration, appeared and made claim in the probate court for his interest in such estate, it shall be presumed that there is no such heir and the burden of proving his existence shall be upon the public administrator.
12. Each register of probate shall forthwith notify the proper district
13. attorney and the attorney general of any breach of duty on the part of
14. a public administrator in relation to any estate under his charge, of which
15. such register has knowledge or which the records in his registry disclose.

1. SECTION 17. If the total value of an estate which has come into the
2. control of a public administrator is less than one hundred dollars, unless
3. the same is the balance of an estate received from a prior public admin-
4. istrator, he shall forthwith reduce all such property into money, not
5. taking administration thereon, and deposit it, after deducting his reason-
6. able expenses and charges, with the state treasurer, who shall hold it
7. for the benefit of any persons who may have legal claims thereon. Such
8. claims may be presented to the comptroller within one year from such
9. payment to the treasurer, and the comptroller shall examine such claims
10. and allow such as may be proved to his satisfaction, and upon the
11. expiration of the year shall forthwith certify the same to the governor
12. and council for payment of the whole of the claims or such proportion 13. thereof as the funds will allow.

1. SECTION 18. A public administrator, upon making such deposit,
2. shall file with the state treasurer an itemized account, on oath, of all his
3. dealings, receipts, payments and charges on account of the property
4. from which the money so deposited proceeds, including the name of the
5. intestate, if known to him, and the state treasurer shall thereupon deliver
6. to him a receipt for such money. Such deposit shall exempt the public
7. administrator from all responsibility for or on account of the money so
8. deposited.

1. SECTION 1. An executor or administrator shall, within three months
2. after giving bond for the performance of his trust, cause notice of his
3. appointment to be posted in two or more public places in the town where
4. the deceased last dwelt; or he may be required by the probate court to
5. give notice by publication in a newspaper, or in such other manner as
6. the court orders.
EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS, GENERAL PROVISIONS. [Chap. 195.

Perpetuation of evidence of notice.

Section 2. An affidavit of the executor or administrator, or of a person in his behalf, filed and recorded with a copy of the notice in the registry of probate, or such affidavit made by any person and so filed and recorded with such copy by permission of the court upon satisfactory evidence that the notice was given as ordered, shall be admitted as evidence of the time, place and manner in which the notice was given.

Notice may be given after proper time, when.

Liability for omission to give notice not affected.

Inventories.

Section 3. If by accident or mistake the notice is not given, or if the evidence that it was given is not perpetuated as provided in the preceeding section, the probate court may, upon petition of the executor or administrator, order such notice to be given at any time thereafter. In such case the periods of time limited for the commencement of actions against executors and administrators and for other purposes, which run from the time of their giving bond, shall run from the date of such order.

R. L. 139, § 4. 6 Allen, 498.

Appraisers.

Section 4. An order under the preceding section shall not exempt an executor or administrator or his sureties from any liability for damages which may be incurred by reason of the omission to give notice within the three months.

R. L. 139, § 4.

Appraisers.

Section 5. Every executor, except one who gives bond under section three of chapter two hundred and five, and every administrator shall, within three months after his appointment, make on oath and return to the probate court a true inventory of the real and personal property of the deceased which at the time of making such inventory has come to his possession or knowledge.

181 Mass. 320. 265 Mass. 574.

Section 6. The property comprised in the inventory shall be appraised by one disinterested person to be appointed by the court or by the register; provided, that if a person interested requests that three appraisers be appointed or if it appears that the estate may exceed one hundred thousand dollars such property shall, unless the court otherwise orders, be appraised by three such persons so appointed. Such appraisers shall be sworn to the faithful performance of their duties.

Section 7. The probate court, upon such notice as it considers reasonable, may authorize an executor or administrator to continue the business of the deceased for the benefit of the estate for a period not exceeding one year from the date of his appointment.

Section 8. An executor or administrator who is appointed in, but resides out of, the commonwealth shall not enter upon the duties of his trust nor be entitled to receive his letter of appointment until he shall, by a writing filed in the registry of probate for the county where he is appointed, have appointed an agent residing in the commonwealth,
6 and, by such writing, shall have agreed that the service of any legal process
7 against him as such executor or administrator, or that the service of 8 any such process against him in his individual capacity in any action 9 founded upon or arising out of any of his acts or omissions as such ex-10 cecutor or administrator, shall, if made on said agent, have like effect as 11 if made on him personally within the commonwealth, and such service
12 shall have such effect. Said writing and also the notice of appointment 13 of such executor or administrator shall state the name and address of 14 the agent. An executor or administrator who, after his appointment, 15 removes from, and resides without, the commonwealth shall so appoint 16 a like agent.

1 Section 9. If an agent appointed under the preceding section dies
2 or removes from the commonwealth before the final settlement of the 3 accounts of his principal, another appointment shall be made and filed 4 as above provided, and the powers of an agent appointed under this 5 or the preceding section shall not be revoked prior to the final settle-
6 ment of the estate unless another appointment shall be made as before 7 provided.

1 Section 10. Failure by an executor or administrator to comply with 2 any provision of the two preceding sections shall be cause for removal.

1 Section 11. If an executor or administrator becomes insane or 2 otherwise incapable of performing the trust, or is unsuitable therefor, or 3 if an executor or administrator who resides out of the commonwealth, 4 having been duly cited by the probate court, neglects to render his 5 accounts and to settle the estate, the probate court may remove him;
6 and thereupon the other executor or administrator, if any, may pro-
7 ceed in performing the trust as if the one removed were dead or, if there 8 is no other executor or administrator, the court may appoint an ad-9 ministrator as provided in section nine of chapter one hundred and 10 ninety-three.

188 Mass. 201.

1 Section 12. If an executor or administrator is removed or if letters
2 of administration are revoked, all previous sales, whether of real or 3 personal property, made lawfully by the executor or administrator
4 and with good faith on the part of the purchaser, and all other lawful 5 acts done by such executor or administrator, shall remain valid and 6 effectual.

1 Section 13. An executor or administrator may resign his trust when 2 it appears to the probate court proper to allow him so to do.

1 Section 14. Whoever injuriously intermeddles with any personal
2 property of a deceased person, without being thereto authorized by law,
3 shall be liable as an executor in his own wrong to the persons aggrieved.
105 Mass. 379. 245 Mass. 47.
SECTION 15. An executor in his own wrong shall be liable to the righteous executor or administrator for the full value of the personal property of the deceased taken by him and for all damages caused to the estate by his acts; and he shall not be allowed to retain or deduct any part of such estate, except for funeral expenses or debts of the deceased or other charges actually paid by him and which the rightful executor or administrator might have been compelled to pay.

CHAPTER 196.

ALLOWANCES TO WIDOWS AND CHILDREN, AND ADVANCEMENTS.

SECTION 1. Articles of apparel and ornaments of the widow and minor children of a deceased person shall belong to them respectively. The widow may remain in the house of her husband for not more than six months next succeeding his death without being chargeable for rent.

ALLOWANCES TO WIDOWS AND CHILDREN.

SECTION 2. Such parts of the personal property of a deceased person as the probate court, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, may allow as necessaries to his widow for herself and for his family under her care or, if there is no widow, to his minor children, not exceeding one hundred dollars to any child, and also such provisions and other articles as are necessary for the reasonable sustenance of his family, and the use of his house and of the furniture therein for six months next succeeding his death, shall not be taken as assets for the payment of debts, legacies or charges of administration. After exhausting the personal property, real property may be sold to provide the amount of allowance decreed, in the same manner as it is sold for the payment of debts, if a decree authorizing such sale is made, upon the petition of any party in interest, within one year after the approval of the bond of the executor or administrator.

ADVANCEMENTS.

SECTION 3. Property, real or personal, which is given by an intestate in his lifetime as an advancement to a child or other lineal descendant shall be considered as part of the intestate’s estate in the division and distribution of the estate.
4 distribution of such estate among his issue, and shall be taken by such 5 child or other descendant toward his share of such estate; but he shall 6 not be required to restore any part thereof, although it exceeds his share.
7 The widow shall be entitled only to her share in the residue after deduct
8 ing the value of the advancement.
1 Pick. 157.

1 section 4. If such advancement is made in real property, the value
2 thereof shall be considered as part of the real property to be divided;
3 if it is in personal property, it shall be considered as part of the personal
4 property; and if in either case it exceeds the share of real or personal 5 property, respectively, which would have come to the heir so advanced,
6 he shall not restore any part of it, but shall receive so much less out of 7 the other part of the estate as will make his whole share equal to the 8 shares of the other heirs who are in the same degree with him.

1 section 5. Gifts and grants shall be held to have been made as 2 advancements, if they are expressed in the gift or grant to be so made 3 or if charged in writing as such by the intestate, or acknowledged in 4 writing as such by the party receiving them.
P. S. 128, § 3. 2 Pick. 337. 22 Pick. 508. 103 Mass. 164.

1 Mass. 527. 5 Pick. 527. 10 Gray. 104.

1 section 6. If the value of an advancement is expressed in the con
2 veyance, in the charge thereof made by the intestate or in the acknowl
3 edgment by the person receiving it, such value shall be adopted in the 4 division and distribution of the estate; otherwise it shall be determined 5 according to the value when the property was given.

1 section 7. If a child or other lineal descendant who has received
2 an advancement dies before the intestate, leaving issue, the advance
3 ment shall be considered as part of the intestate’s estate in the division
4 and distribution of such estate, and the value thereof shall be taken by 5 the representative of the heir to whom the advancement was made
6 toward his share of the estate, as if the advancement had been made 7 directly to him.
P. S. 128, § 5. 15 Mass. 437. 120 Mass. 552.

1 section 8. The probate court in which the estate of a deceased
2 person is settled may hear and determine all questions of advancements
3 arising relative to such estate, or such questions may be heard and de 4 termined upon a petition for partition; but if such question arises upon 5 a petition for partition, the court may suspend proceedings until the 6 question has been decided in the probate court in which the estate of 7 the deceased is settled.

12. Extension of time if action fails from defect in form, etc.
13. Claims accruing after one year.
14. Same subject.
15. Same subject.
16. Same subject.
17. Limitations of actions against administrators de bonis non.
18. Liability upon receipt of new assets.

PAYMENT OF DEBTS.

Section 1. An executor or administrator shall not be held to answer to an action by a creditor of the deceased commenced within six months after his giving bond for the performance of his trust, unless such action is brought for the recovery of a demand which would not be affected by the insolvency of the estate or, after the estate has been represented insolvent, for the purpose of ascertaining a contested claim.

Section 2. If an executor or administrator who has given due notice of his appointment does not within six months thereafter have notice of demands against the estate of the deceased sufficient to warrant him to represent such estate to be insolvent, he may, after the expiration of said six months, pay the debts due from the estate and shall not be personally liable to any creditor in consequence of such payments made before notice of such creditor's demand; and if such executor or administrator is in doubt as to the validity of any debt

10 may, with the approval of the probate court, after notice to all persons 11 interested, pay such debt or so much thereof as the court may authorize.

1 SECTION 3. If an executor or administrator pays under the pre-
2 ceding section, before notice of the demand of any other creditor, the 3 whole of the estate and effects of the deceased, he shall not be required 4 in consequence of such notice to represent the estate insolvent, but 5 in an action against him he shall be discharged upon proving such 6 payments.

9 Met. 150. 227 Mass. 303.

1 SECTION 4. If an executor or administrator pays, under section two,
2 so much of the estate and effects of the deceased that the remainder is 3 insufficient to satisfy a demand of which he afterward has notice, he 4 shall be liable on such last mentioned demand for only so much as may 5 then remain. If two or more such demands are exhibited, which together
6 exceed the amount of assets remaining in his hands, he may represent 7 the estate insolvent, and shall, pursuant to a decree of the probate court, divide and pay over what remains in his hands among the creditors 8 who prove their debts under the commission of insolvency; but the 9 creditors of the deceased who have been previously paid shall not be 10 liable to repay any part of the amount received by them.

1 SECTION 5. If it appears, upon the settlement of the account of an
2 executor or administrator in the probate court, that the whole estate
3 and effects which have come to his hands have been exhausted in paying 4 the charges of administration and debts or claims entitled to a 5 preference over the common creditors of the deceased, such settlement
6 shall be a bar to an action brought against him by a creditor who is not 7 entitled to such preference, although the estate has not been represented 8 insolvent.

1 SECTION 6. If a debt claimed by an executor or administrator as 2 due to him from the deceased is disputed by any person interested in 3 the estate, the claimant shall file in the probate court a statement of his 4 claim in writing, setting forth distinctly and fully the nature and grounds
5 thereof; and the same may then be submitted under an order of the 6 court to one or more arbitrators, if the claimant and the party objecting 7 agree upon the arbitrators to be appointed. The court shall have the 8 powers of courts of common law to discharge the rule for the 9 claim is referred, to reject and disallow the award or to recommit it to 10 the arbitrators. The award of such arbitrators, if accepted by the pro-11 bate court, shall be final and conclusive. The said arbitrators shall be 12 awarded reasonable compensation by the probate court, which shall be 13 paid by the county where they are appointed.

1 SECTION 7. If the parties do not agree upon the arbitrators, or if 2 the award is not confirmed by the probate court, the court shall decide 3 upon the claim.

PAYMENT OF DEBTS. [Chap. 197.

SECTION 8. If one of two or more persons who are indebted upon a joint contract, or upon a judgment founded on such contract, dies, his estate shall be liable therefor as if the contract had been joint and several or as if the judgment had been against him alone.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS BY CREDITORS.

SECTION 9. Except as provided in this chapter, an executor or administrator, after having given due notice of his appointment, shall not be held to answer to an action by a creditor of the deceased which is not commenced within one year from the time of his giving bond for the performance of his trust, or to such an action which is commenced but not entered within said year unless before the expiration thereof the writ in such action has been served by delivery in hand upon such executor or administrator or service thereof accepted by him or a notice stating the name of the estate, the name and address of the creditor, the amount of the claim and the court in which the action has been brought has been filed in the proper registry of probate. An executor, administrator or administrator de bonis non shall not be held to answer to an action by a creditor of the deceased which is commenced but not entered within any other or additional period of limitation for bringing such action provided by or under this chapter unless before the expiration of such period the writ in such action has been served by delivery in hand upon him or service thereof accepted by him or a notice as aforesaid has been filed in the proper registry of probate. The probate court may allow creditors further time for bringing actions, not exceeding two years from the time of the giving of his official bond by such executor or administrator, provided that application for such further time be made before the expiration of one year from the time of the approval of the bond.

SECTION 10. If the supreme judicial court, upon a bill in equity filed by a creditor whose claim has not been prosecuted within the time limited by the preceding section, deems that justice and equity require it and that such creditor is not chargeable with culpable neglect in not prosecuting his claim within the time so limited, it may give him judgment for the amount of his claim against the estate of the deceased person; but such judgment shall not affect any payment or distribution made before the filing of such bill.

SECTION 11. If new assets come to the hands of an executor or administrator after the expiration of one year from the time of his giving bond, he shall account for and apply the same in like manner as if they had been received within said one year, and shall be liable, on account Extension of time for creditors’ actions by receipt of new assets.

1852, 294, § 1.
5 of such new assets, to an action at law or to a proceeding in the probate court by or for the benefit of a creditor, in like manner as if such assets had been received within the one year, if such action or proceeding is commenced within six months after the creditor has notice of the receipt of such assets, and within one year after they are actually received.

8 Section 12. If an action commenced against an executor or administrator before the expiration of one year from the time of his giving bond fails of a sufficient service or return by an unavoidable accident, if the writ in such action is abated or defeated in consequence of a defect in the form thereof or of a mistake in the form of the proceeding, if, after a verdict for the plaintiff, the judgment is arrested, or, if a judgment for the plaintiff is reversed on a writ of error, the plaintiff may commence a new action for the same cause within one year after the abatement or other determination of the original action, or after the reversal of the judgment therein.

1 Section 13. A creditor of the deceased, whose right of action does not accrue within one year after the giving of the administration bond, or within such further time as may be allowed by any extension granted under section nine, or in the case of an administrator de bonis non, within the period allowed by section seventeen, may present his claim to the probate court at any time before the estate is fully administered; and if, upon examination thereof, the court finds that such claim is or may become justly due from the estate, it shall order the executor or administrator to retain in his hands sufficient assets to satisfy the same. But if a person interested in the estate offers to give bond to the alleged creditor with sufficient surety or sureties for the payment of his claim, if it is proved to be due, the court may order such bond to be taken, instead of requiring assets to be retained as aforesaid. If because of partial distribution already made, or because of inability to sell the real estate of the deceased, the executor or administrator is unable to retain sufficient assets to satisfy the claim in full as finally established, the creditor may enforce his claim for the balance under section twenty-nine, within one year from the final settlement of said estate or from the time when the amount of said balance is finally determined.

1 Section 14. The decision of the probate court upon the claim of such creditor shall not be conclusive against the executor or administrator or other person interested to oppose the allowance thereof, and he shall not be compelled to pay the same unless it is proved to be due in an action commenced by the claimant within one year after his claim becomes payable, or, if an appeal is taken from the decision of the probate court, in an action commenced within one year after the final determination of the proceedings thereon.

1 Section 15. The action referred to in the preceding section shall be brought against the executor or administrator, if he has been required to retain assets therefor; otherwise, upon the bond given under section thirteen.

127 Mass. 268. 185 Mass. 22.
SECTION 16. If the action is brought on such bond, the plaintiff shall set forth his original cause of action against the deceased in like manner as would be required in a declaration for the same demand against the executor or administrator, and may allege the non-payment of the claim as a breach of the condition of the bond; and the defendant may answer any matter of defence which would be available against the claim if prosecuted in the usual manner against the executor or administrator.

SECTION 17. An administrator de bonis non shall be liable to an action by a creditor of the deceased for the same period as provided by section nine for actions against an original executor or administrator, less the period during which the statutory limitation provided by said section nine has run against previous executors or administrators of the same estate, but in any event for not less than six months from the date of his appointment. The court may allow further time for bringing actions as provided in said section nine, provided application therefor is made before the expiration of the period herein provided. This sec-

SECTION 18. If new assets come to the hands of such administrator after the time before limited for the commencement of actions against him, he shall account for such new assets, and shall be liable on account thereof to an action at law and to proceedings in the probate court by or in behalf of a creditor, in like manner as is provided in this chapter relative to an original executor or administrator.

PAYMENT OF LEGACIES AND DISTRIBUTIVE SHARES.

SECTION 19. A legatee may recover his legacy and enforce all rights in respect to the same by proceedings in equity in the probate court in which the will was proved. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to limit the time within which such proceedings may be brought. No action at law shall be brought against the estate of the testator for such recovery.

SECTION 20. The rate of interest upon pecuniary legacies, unless otherwise provided in the will, shall be such as the supreme judicial court may by general rules establish, and in the absence of any such rules the rate shall be four per cent per annum.

SECTION 21. If an executor or administrator, within one year after giving bond for the performance of his trust, is required by a legatee or next of kin to make payment, in whole or in part, of a legacy or distributive share, the probate court may require that such legatee or next of kin shall first give bond to the executor or administrator, with surety or sureties approved by the court, and conditioned to repay the amount so to be paid or so much thereof as may be necessary to 8 satisfy any demands which may be thereafter recovered against the 9 estate of the deceased, and to indemnify the executor or administrator 10 against all loss and damage on account of such payment.

1 Section 22. If the court finds that partial distribution of the per- 2 sonal property of an estate in process of settlement therein can, without 3 detriment to such estate, be made to the persons entitled thereto, the 4 court may, subject to the rights of creditors and after notice, order such 5 partial distribution to be made.

1 Section 23. If under a will a legacy is to be distributed in whole 2 or in part among the heirs or next of kin of any person, or among persons 3 of a certain class, the probate court, upon the application of any person 4 interested, after notice, may order distribution among such persons as 5 according to the will seem to be entitled to the legacy.

1 Section 24. When the amount due a person who is next of kin or 2 a distributee of an intestate estate on account of his share of the per- 3 sonal property has been ascertained by a decree of the probate court 4 for distribution or partial distribution, or whenever any real or personal 5 estate comprised in a trust or in the estate of a deceased person is 6 ordered by the probate court to be sold and distributed under section 7 nineteen of chapter two hundred and two, section twenty-five of chapter 8 two hundred and three or section twenty-one of chapter two hundred and 9 six, or any legacy or any surplus proceeds of sale are ordered by said 10 court to be distributed or disposed of pursuant to the preceding section 11 or section nine of chapter two hundred and four, or whenever said court 12 in pursuance of any authority conferred on it orders the distribution 13 or disposal of any fund or moneys, payment of the same, by the execu- 14 tor, administrator, trustee or other person so ordered to pay or distrib- 15 ute, to the person entitled may, if the executor, administrator, trustee 16 or other person neglects upon demand to pay such amount, be en- 17 forced summarily by the probate court upon motion of the person en- 18 titled, in the same manner as a like payment under a decree in equity 19 may be enforced, and execution may also be issued therefor against the 20 executor, administrator, trustee or other person personally as upon a 21 judgment at law.

1 Section 25. A debt due the estate of a deceased person from a 2 legatee or distributee of such estate shall be set off against and deducted 3 from the legacy to such legatee or from the distributive share of such 4 distributee; and the probate court shall hear and determine the validity 5 and amount of any such debt, and may make all necessary or proper 6 decrees and orders to effect such set-off or deduction; but this section 7 shall not prejudice any remedy of an executor or administrator for the 8 recovery of such debt or affect the liability of the legatee or distributee 9 for the excess of his indebtedness over the amount of his share in or 10 claim upon the estate to which he is indebted.

1 Section 26. If an annuity, or the use, rent, income or interest of 2 property, real or personal, is given by will or by an instrument in the 3 nature thereof to or in trust for the benefit of a person for life or until 4 Annuities, etc., payable from 1848, 310, § 1.
the happening of a contingency, such person shall be entitled to receive and enjoy the same from and after the decease of the testator, unless it is otherwise provided in such will or instrument.

SECTION 27. A person entitled to an annuity, rent, interest or income, or his representative, shall have the same apportioned if his right or estate therein terminates between the days upon which it is payable, unless otherwise provided in the will or instrument by which it was created; but no action shall be brought therefor until the expiration of the period for which the apportionment is made.

LIABILITY OF HEIRS, ETC., AFTER SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

SECTION 28. After the settlement of an estate by an executor or administrator, and after the expiration of the time limited for the commencement of actions against him by the creditors of the deceased, the heirs, next of kin, devisees and legatees of the deceased shall be liable in the manner provided in the following sections for all debts for which actions could not have been brought against the executor or administrator, and for which provision is not made in the preceding sections.

SECTION 29. A creditor whose right of action accrues after the expiration of said time of limitation, and whose claim could not legally be presented to the probate court, or whose claim, if presented, has not been allowed, may, by action commenced within one year next after the time when such right of action accrues, recover such claim against the heirs and next of kin of the deceased or against the devisees and legatees under his will, each of whom shall be liable to the creditor to an amount not exceeding the value of the real or personal property which he has received from the estate of the deceased. But if by the will of the deceased any part of his estate or any one or more of the devisees or legatees is made exclusively liable for the debt in exoneracion of the residue of the estate or of other devisees or legatees, such provisions of the will shall be complied with, and the persons and estate so exempted shall be liable for only so much of the debt as cannot be recovered from those who are first chargeable therewith.

SECTION 30. If an heir, next of kin, devisee or legatee dies without having paid his just proportion of such debt, his executor or adminis-

ORDER OF PAYMENT OF DEBTS.

Section 1. If the estate of a person deceased is insufficient to pay all his debts, it shall, after discharging the necessary expenses of his funeral and last sickness and the charges of administration, be applied to the payment of his debts, which shall include equitable liabilities, in the following order:

First, Debts entitled to a preference under the laws of the United States.

Second, Public rates, taxes and excise duties.

Third, Wages or compensation, to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars, due to a clerk, servant or operative for labor performed within one year last preceding the death of such deceased person or for such labor so performed for the recovery of payment for which a judgment has been rendered.

Fourth, Debts, to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars, for necessaries furnished to such person or his family within the six months last preceding his death, or for such necessaries so furnished for the recovery of payment for which a judgment has been rendered.

Fifth, Debts due to all other persons.
PROOF OF CLAIMS.

1 Section 2. If the probate court finds from the representation of an executor or administrator that the estate of the deceased will probably be insufficient for the payment of his debts, it may appoint two or more commissioners to receive and examine all claims of creditors against such estate, and to return a list of all claims presented to them, with the amount allowed on each. All debts of the estate of said deceased not at the time of such finding barred by any statute of limitations may be allowed either by said commissioners or by said court.

2 Section 3. The commissioners shall be sworn. They shall appoint convenient times and places for their meetings to receive and examine claims, and shall by mail or otherwise give to all known creditors at least seven days' written notice of the time and place of each meeting and such other notice as the court shall order. The executor or administrator shall, fourteen days at least before the first meeting, give to the commissioners the names and residences of all known creditors. At the expiration of the time allowed for the proof of claims, the commissioners shall make their return to the court. They shall mail postpaid within seven days thereafter, or within such further time as the court orders, a written notice to all known creditors and to the administrator of the estate or the executor of the will of the deceased, and to the heirs, legatees or devisees of the deceased, of the filing of said return, and shall, within thirty days after said notice, file in the registry of probate an affidavit of having given the same, with a copy thereof.

SECTION 7. The commissioners or the court may require a claimant to make true answers under oath to all questions relative to his claim; and if he refuses to take such oath or to answer fully all questions, his claim may be disallowed. Any one of the commissioners may administer the oath to claimants and witnesses.

SECTION 7A. The claims of creditors who have received preferences voidable under section ten B shall not be allowed unless such creditors shall first surrender such preferences.

1922, 175, § 1.

SECTION 8. The probate court may, except while an appeal is pending, upon the application of the executor or administrator, examine under oath any person whose claim has been allowed as aforesaid unless such allowance has been made by the supreme judicial or superior court on appeal, may summon any person to give evidence relative thereto, and, upon notice, alter or expunge a claim which it finds is founded in whole or in part in fraud, illegality or mistake.

SECTION 9. Six months after the appointment of the commissioners or after the order of the court under section five shall be allowed for creditors to present and prove their claims; and if a new commissioner is appointed under section six, the time shall be extended until the expiration of six months from his appointment. The court may allow further time upon petition of the commissioners or any party in interest, and during such extended time presentation of claims which might have been previously presented shall not be barred by any law limiting the time within which actions by a creditor of the deceased may be brought against an executor or administrator.

SECTION 10. A creditor who does not present his claim for allowance in the manner herein provided shall be barred from recovering the same; but if new assets of the deceased come to the executor or administrator after the decree of distribution, the claim may be proved, allowed and paid as provided in this chapter for contingent claims.

R. L. 142, § 10. 1 Cash. 461. 207 Mass. 207.

PREFERENCES.

SECTION 10A. A person shall be deemed to have given a preference if, being insolvent, he has, within four months before his decease, procured or suffered a judgment to be entered against himself in favor of any person, or made a transfer of any of his property, and the effect of the enforcement of such judgment or transfer will be to enable any one of his creditors to obtain a greater percentage of his debt than any other of such creditors of the same class. Where the preference consists in a transfer, such period of four months shall not expire until four months after the date of the recording or registering of the transfer, if by law such recording or registering is required.

SECTION 10B. If a person shall have procured or suffered a judgment to be entered against him in favor of any person or has made a transfer...
3 of any of his property, and if, at the time of the transfer, or of the entry
4 of the judgment, or of the recording or registering of the transfer if by 5 law recording or registering thereof is required, and being within four 6 months before his decease, the person be insolvent and the judgment or 7 transfer then operate as a preference, and the person receiving it or to be 8 benefited thereby, or his agent acting therein, shall then have reasonable 9 cause to believe that the enforcement of such judgment or transfer would 10 effect a preference, it shall be voidable by the executor or administrator 11 of the debtor, and he may recover the property or its value from such 12 person.

1 Section 10C. If a creditor has been preferred, and afterwards in 2 good faith gives the debtor further credit without security of any kind 3 for property which becomes a part of the debtor's estate, the amount of 4 such new credit remaining unpaid at the time of his decease may be set 5 off against the amount which would otherwise be recoverable from him.

APPEALS.

1 Section 11. Where commissioners are appointed, a person whose 2 claim is disallowed in whole or in part, or an executor, administrator,
3 heir, legatee, devise or creditor who is dissatisfied with the allowance of a 4 claim, may appeal from their decision to the superior court for the county
5 where the probate or administration was granted, and the claim shall 6 thereupon be tried and determined in like manner as if an action at law
7 had been brought therefor by the supposed creditor against the executor 8 or administrator. If the court examines the claim, appeals shall be 9 under chapter two hundred and fifteen.

127 Mass. 242. 198 Mass. 136. 1

1 Section 12. Such appeal shall be claimed and notice thereof given 2 at the registry of probate within twenty days after the return of the 3 commissioners. If the appeal is by an executor or administrator, he 4 shall give notice thereof to the creditor within said twenty days. The 5 appeal shall be entered at the return day next succeeding the expiration 6 of said twenty days.

1 Section 13. Upon the entry of the appeal, the supposed creditor
2 shall file a written statement of his claim, setting forth briefly and dis-
3 tinctly all the material facts necessary in a declaration for the same 4 cause of action; and like proceedings shall thereupon be had in the 5 pleadings, trial and determination of the cause as in an action at law;
6 but no execution shall be awarded against the executor or administrator
7 for a debt found due to the claimant. The final judgment shall be 8 conclusive, and the list of debts allowed shall be altered by the probate 9 court, if necessary, to conform thereto.

1 Section 14. After claiming such appeal, the parties may waive it
2 and submit the claim to arbitrators agreed on by the parties and ap-3 pointed by the probate court, and thereupon the appeal shall not be 4 entered. The award of such arbitrators, if accepted by the court, shall 5 be as conclusive as a judgment at law.
SECTION 15. The prevailing party shall be entitled to costs, which, if recovered against the executor or administrator, may be allowed in his account.

R. L. 142, § 15.

SECTION 16. If a person whose claim has been disallowed in whole or in part by the commissioners, or if the administrator of the estate or the executor of the will of the deceased, or if an heir, legatee, devisee or creditor who is dissatisfied with the allowance of a claim by them, omits, for cause other than his own neglect, to claim or prosecute his appeal as before provided, the superior court in any county may, upon his petition filed within two years after the return of the commissioners and within four years after the date of the administration bond, allow him upon terms to enter and prosecute his appeal.

SECTION 17. The allowance of such appeal and the judgment thereon shall not affect any distribution ordered before written notice of the petition or of the intention to present the same has been given at the registry of probate or to the executor or administrator; but any debt thus proved and allowed shall be paid only out of such assets as remain in or come to the hands of the executor or administrator after payment of the amounts payable on such prior decree of distribution.

PAYMENT OF DIVIDENDS TO CREDITORS.

SECTION 18. After the expiration of the time allowed by section twelve, the probate court shall make a decree for the distribution of the estate among the creditors in accordance with this chapter. If, before making the decree, the court has notice of an appeal then claimed or pending, the decree may be suspended until the determination of the appeal, or a distribution may be ordered among the creditors whose debts are allowed, leaving an amount sufficient to pay to the claimant whose demand is disputed a proportion equal to that of the other creditors.

SECTION 19. The court may before the expiration of the time allowed for claiming appeals order dividends to be paid to creditors whose claims have been allowed, if there is left an amount sufficient to pay upon claims that may probably be proved afterward a proportion equal to what is so paid to such creditors. Such amount shall remain unappropriated until the final dividend is declared, or until a distribution is ordered.

SECTION 20. If all the assets are not distributed upon the first decree, or if new assets come to the executor or administrator, the court shall make further decrees for distribution.

SECTION 21. If the deceased was a member of a partnership, and partnership and individual claims are proved against his estate, separate lists thereof shall be made, and in decieving dividends the court shall order the joint and the separate estate to be distributed in the same manner and among the same classes of creditors as in the case of insolvent debtors under chapter two hundred and sixteen.
Section 22. When the amount due a creditor has been ascertained by a decree for distribution under this chapter, payment of the same may be enforced in the same manner as is provided by section twenty-four of chapter one hundred and ninety-seven.

Section 23. If, after the completion of the list of allowed claims, the assets prove sufficient to pay all such claims, the executor or administrator shall pay them in full; and if any other debt is afterward recovered against him, he shall be liable therefor only to the extent of such assets then remaining. If there are two or more such creditors, the assets, if insufficient to pay their demands in full, shall be divided among them pro rata.

Section 24. The executor or administrator, in an action brought against him on such demand, may prove the amount of assets in his hands, and thereupon judgment shall be rendered in the usual form; but execution shall not issue for more than the amount of such assets, and if there are two or more judgments, the court shall apportion the amount among them.

Section 25. After twenty years from the decree of distribution of an insolvent estate, the probate court, upon application by a creditor whose claim was allowed, and after notice of such application published in one or more newspapers of the county for not less than two years on such days as the court shall direct, may order any unclaimed dividends, with the interest received thereon, after deducting all expenses and charges of administration since the decree of distribution, to be distributed anew among the creditors who have received their dividends. If there is a surplus after satisfying the claims of such creditors with interest, it shall be distributed to the persons legally entitled thereto.

Section 26. If a creditor who has failed to receive his dividend as aforesaid has died, the probate court for the county where administration on his estate might have been granted shall, at any time before a decree to distribute the unclaimed dividends is passed, grant administration upon his estate, although more than twenty years may have elapsed since his death, and the administrator may receive and administer such dividend.

Section 27. If an executor or administrator neglects to render and settle his accounts in the probate court within six months after the final determination of the claims of creditors of an insolvent estate, or within such further time as the court may allow, and thereby delays a decree of distribution, such neglect shall be unfaithful administration and he may be removed.

Contingent Claims.

Section 28. If, at the expiration of the time allowed for the proof of claims, a person is liable as a surety for the deceased, or has a contingent claim against his estate which could not have been proved as a debt within said time, the court upon proof thereof shall, in ordering a dividend, leave an amount sufficient to pay to such contingent creditor a proportion equal to what is then to be paid to the other creditors.

123 Mass. 449.

SECTION 30. Upon the allowance of such claim the creditor shall be entitled to a dividend thereon equal to what has been paid to the other creditors, so far as the same can be paid without disturbing the former dividend; and if the claim is not finally established, or if the dividend upon it does not exhaust the assets, the residue shall be divided among all creditors whose claims have been allowed. Any surplus after satisfying the claims of such creditors, with interest, shall be distributed to the persons legally entitled thereto.

SECTION 31. Except as provided in the following section, no action shall be maintained against an executor or administrator after an estate has been represented insolvent, unless for a claim entitled to a preference which would not be affected by the insolvency of the estate or unless the assets prove more than sufficient to pay all the debts allowed.

If the estate is represented insolvent while an action is pending for a claim which is not entitled to such preference, the action may be discontinued without costs; or, if it is disputed, it may be tried and determined and judgment rendered thereon in the same manner and with the same effect as is provided in the case of an appeal from the allowance or disallowance of the claim of a creditor; or it may be continued without costs until it appears whether the estate is insolvent, and, if it is not insolvent, the plaintiff may prosecute the action as if no such representation had been made.

SECTION 32. If it is not ascertained at the end of nine months after the granting of letters testamentary or of administration whether an estate represented as insolvent is or is not so in fact, any creditor whose claim has not been presented for proof may commence an action therefor against the executor or administrator, and such action may be continued without costs for the defendant until it appears whether the estate is insolvent; and if it is not insolvent, the plaintiff may prosecute the action as if no such representation had been made.

SECTION 33. If judgment has been rendered against an estate which has been represented insolvent, and a certified copy from the probate court, showing such representation, has been filed in the clerk's office of the court in which the judgment was rendered, no execution shall be issued on such judgment; but such judgment may be presented for allowance in the same manner as other claims of creditors, and otherwise the proceedings relative to such judgment shall be the same as those relative to judgments rendered on appeal under section thirteen.

3 commanding him to take possession of the property named in said
4 schedule and hold it subject to the order of the court and make return
5 of said warrant as soon as may be with his doings thereon with a schedule
6 of the property so taken. The officer shall post a copy of the warrant 7 upon each parcel of land named in the schedule and cause so much of 8 the warrant as relates to land to be recorded in the registry of deeds 9 for the county and district where the land is located. He shall receive 10 such fees for serving the warrant as the court allows, but not more than 11 those established by law for similar service upon a writ of attachment.
12 If the petition is dismissed, said fees and the cost of publishing and 13 serving the notice hereinafter provided shall be paid by the petitioner;
14 if a receiver is appointed, they shall be paid by the receiver and allowed 15 in his account.

1 Section 3. Upon the return of such warrant, the court may issue a 2 notice reciting the substance of the petition, warrant and officer’s return,
3 which shall be addressed to such absentee and to all persons who claim
4 an interest in said property, and to all whom it may concern, citing 5 them to appear at a time and place named and show cause why a re-6ceiver of the property named in the officer’s schedule should not be 7 appointed and said property held and disposed of under this chapter.

1 Section 4. The return day of said notice shall be not less than 2 thirty nor more than sixty days after its date. The court shall order 3 said notice to be published once in each of three successive weeks in 4 one or more newspapers within the commonwealth, and to be posted in 5 two or more conspicuous places in the town within the commonwealth
6 where the absentee last resided or was known to have been either 7 temporarily or permanently and upon each parcel of land named in the 8 officer’s schedule, and a copy to be mailed to the last known address 9 of such absentee. The court may order other and further notice to be 10 given within or without the commonwealth.

1 Section 5. The absentee or any person who claims an interest in 2 any of the property may appear and show cause why the prayer of the 3 petition should not be granted. The court may after hearing dismiss 4 the petition and order the property in possession of the officer to be 5 returned to the person entitled thereto, or it may appoint a receiver 6 of the property which is in the possession of the officer and named in his 7 schedule. If a receiver is appointed the court shall find and record the 8 date of the disappearance or absconding of the absentee; and such re-9ceiver shall give bond to the judge of probate and his successors in office
10 in such sum and with such condition as the court orders, with a company 11 named in section one hundred and five of chapter one hundred and 12 seventy-five and approved by the court as surety thereon.

1 Section 6. After the approval of such bond the court may order
2 the sheriff or his deputy to transfer and deliver to such receiver the 3 possession of the property under the aforesaid warrant, and the receiver
4 shall file in the registry of probate a schedule of the property received 5 by him.

1 Section 7. Such receiver upon petition filed by him may be author-2ized and directed to take possession of any additional property within the commonwealth which belongs to such absentee and to demand and collect all debts due such absentee from any person within the commonwealth, and hold the same as if it had been transferred and delivered to him by the officer.

SECTION 8. If such absentee has left no corporeal property within the commonwealth, but there are debts and obligations due or owing to him from persons within the commonwealth, a petition may be filed as provided in section one, stating the nature and amount of such debts and obligations, so far as known, and praying that a receiver thereof may be appointed. The court may thereupon issue a notice as above provided, without issuing a warrant, and may, upon the return of said notice and after a hearing, dismiss the petition or appoint a receiver and authorize and direct him to demand and collect the debts and obligations specified in said petition; provided, that no public administrator shall be appointed as such receiver when the sole known assets of the estate of the absentee consist of an amount of money standing to his credit in a savings bank or in the savings department of a trust company, in case such account has not been increased by a deposit, nor decreased by a withdrawal of any part of his deposits or of any part of the interest thereon, during a period of twenty years or more next preceding the petition for appointment of a receiver. The receiver shall give bond as provided in section five, and shall hold the proceeds of such debts and obligations and all property received by him, and distribute the same as hereinafter provided. He may be further authorized and directed as provided in the preceding section.

SECTION 9. The court may make orders for the care, custody, leasing and investing of all property and its proceeds in the possession of the receiver. If any of said property consists of live animals or is perishable or cannot be kept without great or disproportionate expense, the court may, after the return of the warrant, order such property to be sold at public or private sale. After the appointment of a receiver, upon his petition and after notice, the court may order all or part of said property, including the rights of the absentee in land, to be sold at public or private sale to supply money for payments authorized by this chapter or for reinvestment approved by the court.

SECTION 10. The court may order said property or its proceeds acquired by mortgage, lease or sale to be applied in payment of charges incurred or that may be incurred in the support and maintenance of the absentee's wife and minor children, and to the discharge of such debts and claims for alimony as may be proved against said absentee.

SECTION 11. The court may authorize the receiver to adjust by arbitration or compromise any demand in favor of or against the estate of such absentee.

SECTION 12. The receiver shall be allowed such compensation and disbursements as the court orders, to be paid out of said property or proceeds. If within fourteen years after the date of the disappearance and absconding as found and recorded by the court, such absentee appears, or an administrator, executor, assignee in insolvency or trustee in bank-
6. Ruptcy of said absentee is appointed, such receiver shall account for, deliver and pay over to him the remainder of said property. If said absentee does not appear and claim said property within said fourteen years, all his right, title and interest in said property, real or personal, 10 or the proceeds thereof shall cease, and no action shall be brought by him on account thereof.

1. Section 13. If at the expiration of said fourteen years said property has not been accounted for, delivered or paid over under the preceding section, the court shall order the distribution of the remainder of the shares and proportions in which, it would have been distributed if said absentee had died intestate within the commonwealth on the day fourteen years after the date of the dissolution or absconding as found and recorded by the court.

1. Section 14. If such receiver is not appointed within thirteen years after the date found by the court under section five, the time limited for accounting for, or fixed for distributing, said property or its proceeds, or for barring actions relative thereto, shall be one year after the date of the appointment of the receiver instead of the fourteen years provided in the two preceding sections.

JURISDICTION.

Section 1. The probate court may, if it appears necessary or convenient, appoint guardians of minors, insane persons and spendthrifts and conservators of the property of persons by reason of advanced age or mental weakness unable to properly care for their property, who are inhabitants of or residents in the county or who reside out of the commonwealth and have estate within the county.

GUARDIANS OF MINORS.

Section 2. If a minor is under fourteen the probate court may nominate and appoint his guardian. If he is above that age he may nominate his own guardian, who, if approved by the court, shall be appointed accordingly. Such nomination may be made before a justice of the peace, notary public or city or town clerk within the commonwealth who shall certify the fact to the probate court. If the person nominated is not approved by the court, or if the minor resides out of the commonwealth, or if the minor after being cited neglects to nominate a suitable person, the court may nominate and appoint his guardian in the same manner as if he were under fourteen. If the minor is a married woman no guardian shall be appointed without such notice to her husband as the court may order. In the matter of said appointment and all subsequent proceedings relating thereto, the United States veterans’ bureau or its successor shall be deemed to be a party in interest and shall receive such notice as the court may order, if the ward or proposed ward is entitled to any benefit, estate or income paid or payable by or through said bureau or its successor.
Section 3. A father or mother may by will appoint, subject to the approval of the probate court, a guardian for a minor child whether born at the time of making the will or afterward, to continue during minority or for a less time. A testamentary guardian appointed by will of a parent shall have the same powers and perform the same duties relative to the property of the ward, and, if the other parent is not living, relative to the person of the ward, as a guardian appointed under section two. If application is made to the probate court for the appointment of a testamentary guardian after the appointment of a guardian, whether testamentary or otherwise, has been made by such court, notice of such application shall be given to such guardian previously appointed, and thereafter the court may remove said guardian so first appointed and appoint in his place the person applying for an appointment as a testamentary guardian or any suitable person, or it may appoint the person making such application to serve as guardian with the guardian already appointed by said court.

Section 4. The guardian of a minor unless sooner discharged according to law shall continue in office until the minor reaches twenty-one, and shall have the care and management of all his estate.

Section 5. The guardian of a minor shall have the custody of his person and the care of his education, except that the parents of the minor, jointly, or the surviving parent shall have such custody and said custody shall not be taken away without due process of law. The probate court may, upon request of the guardian, have an order issued by it to the department of mental diseases requiring the examination and care of a ward by the said department. If the court finds that a ward is insane, it may order the guardian to conduct proceedings to have the minor committed to a place of safekeeping. If the court finds that a ward is subject to mental disease, it may order the guardian to conduct proceedings to have the minor committed to a place of safekeeping.

Guardians of Insane Persons and Spendthrifts.

Section 6. Two or more relatives or friends of an insane person, or the mayor and aldermen of a city or the selectmen of a town in which he is an inhabitant or resident, or the department of mental diseases, may file a petition in the probate court asking to have a guardian appointed for him; and if after notice as provided in the following section and a hearing the court finds that he is incapable of taking care of himself, it shall appoint a guardian of his person and estate. A copy of such appointment shall be sent by mail by the register to the said department. The court may require additional medical testimony as to the mental condition of the person alleged to be insane and may require him to submit to examination. It may also appoint one or more physicians, expert in the treatment of insane persons, to conduct such examination.

Guardians of Minor Children.

Section 7. A guardian for a minor child may exercise the powers of the guardian of an adult as to the estate of the minor, as well as control of the person of the minor, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult. A guardian may also be appointed for a minor child who is a ward of the commonwealth, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult.

Guardians of Unfit Persons.

Section 8. A guardian for a person of unsound mind may exercise the powers of the guardian of an adult as to the estate of the person, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult. A guardian may also be appointed for a person of unsound mind who is a ward of the commonwealth, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult.

Guardians of Insane Persons.

Section 9. A guardian for an insane person may exercise the powers of the guardian of an adult as to the estate of the insane person, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult. A guardian may also be appointed for an insane person who is a ward of the commonwealth, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult.

Guardians of Unfit Persons.

Section 10. A guardian for a person of unsound mind may exercise the powers of the guardian of an adult as to the estate of the person, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult. A guardian may also be appointed for a person of unsound mind who is a ward of the commonwealth, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult.

Guardians of Insane Persons.

Section 11. A guardian for an insane person may exercise the powers of the guardian of an adult as to the estate of the insane person, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult. A guardian may also be appointed for an insane person who is a ward of the commonwealth, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult.

Appointment of Guardian.

Section 12. A guardian may be appointed by the court for any person who is a ward of the commonwealth, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult.

Guardians of Insane Persons.

Section 13. A guardian for an insane person may exercise the powers of the guardian of an adult as to the estate of the insane person, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult. A guardian may also be appointed for an insane person who is a ward of the commonwealth, and the estate shall be subject to the same requirements of administration as if the guardian were an adult.
insanity, to examine such person and report their conclusions to the court. Reasonable expense incurred in such examination shall be paid out of the estate of such person or by the county as may be determined by the court.

SECTION 7. Upon such petition the court shall cause not less than seven days’ notice of the time and place appointed for the hearing to be given to the alleged insane person, to the department of mental diseases, and, if the alleged insane person is entitled to any benefit, estate or income paid or payable by or through the United States veterans’ bureau or its successor, to said bureau or its successor, except that the court may, for cause shown, direct that a shorter notice be given. No appointment shall be made without such notice to the heirs apparent or presumptive of the alleged insane person, including the husband or wife, if any, as the court may order. In the matter of said petition and all subsequent proceedings relating thereto said bureau or its successor shall be deemed to be a party in interest if the alleged insane person is so entitled.

SECTION 8. A person who, by excessive drinking, gaming, idleness, or debauchery of any kind, so spends, wastes or lessens his estate as to expose himself or his family to want or suffering, or any town to charge or expense for his support or for the support of his family, may be adjudged a spendthrift. The board of public welfare of the town of which he is an inhabitant or resident, or upon which he is or may become chargeable, or a relative of the alleged spendthrift, may file a petition in the probate court, stating the facts and circumstances of the case and praying that a guardian be appointed. In towns where selectmen act as the board of public welfare they may file such petition. If after notice as provided in the following section, and after hearing, the court finds that he is a spendthrift, it shall appoint a guardian of his person and estate.

SECTION 9. Upon such petition the court shall cause not less than seven days’ notice of the time and place appointed for the hearing to be given to the alleged spendthrift, except that the court may, for cause shown, direct that a shorter notice be given. If the alleged spendthrift is a married woman, no guardian shall be appointed without such notice to her husband as the court may order.

SECTION 10. A copy of the petition, with the order of notice thereon, may be recorded in the registry of deeds for the county and district where any land of the alleged spendthrift is located; and if a guardian is appointed upon such petition, all contracts, except for necessaries or relative to land, and all gifts, sales or transfers of personal property made by the spendthrift after an order of notice upon the petition has been issued by the probate court, and all contracts relative to and sales and conveyances of land made by the spendthrift after such record in the registry of deeds for the county and district where the land lies, and before the termination of the guardianship, shall be void.
1 Section 11. Any probate court having jurisdiction of the property of a person who is under guardianship as a spendthrift may, on petition of such ward, and after such notice as the court may determine, authorize the guardian of the ward to pay or convey such portion of the ward’s real or personal estate, either principal or income, as the court may designate, to the wife or any child, or children, of the ward, and such property, when so paid or conveyed, shall become the property of the donee or grantee.

1 Section 12. The guardian of an insane person or spendthrift shall have the care and custody of the person of his ward, except as provided in section twenty-four, and the management of all his estate, and shall give the bond prescribed in section one of chapter two hundred and five, except that the conditions relative to the education of the ward shall be omitted.

1 Section 13. The guardian of an insane person or spendthrift may be discharged by the probate court, upon the application of the ward or otherwise, when it appears that the guardianship is no longer necessary; except that in the case of an insane person seven days’ notice of the petition shall be given to the department of mental diseases.

1 Section 14. Upon petition of a mayor or the selectmen, the board of public welfare, the department of mental diseases, or other person in interest, the court may, if it finds that the welfare of a minor, insane person or spendthrift requires the immediate appointment of a temporary guardian of his person and estate, appoint a temporary guardian of such minor, insane person or spendthrift, with or without notice, and may in like manner remove or discharge him or terminate the trust.

1 Section 15. Such temporary guardian shall, until otherwise ordered, have the same powers and duties relative to the person and estate of the ward as permanent guardians, and may be decreed the custody of the person of a minor, if the court finds the parent or parents unfit therefor or if it finds one of them unfit therefor and the other consents to such custody by the temporary guardian or if a temporary guardian is serving or appointed to serve in place of a temporary guardian removed. If such temporary guardian of a minor is appointed pending proceedings for an order for custody under section five or for the removal of a guardian of a minor, he shall have the sole custody and control of the ward during the pendency of such proceedings. Upon the termination of his powers, a temporary guardian shall deliver to the guardian or such person as is otherwise lawfully authorized to receive it the estate of the ward in his hands. A guardian may be admitted to prosecute an action commenced by a temporary guardian.

CONSERVATORS.

Section 16. If a person by reason of advanced age or mental weakness is unable to properly care for his property, the probate court may, upon his petition or upon the petition of one or more of his friends, if after notice as provided in the following section and after hearing it appears that such person is incapable of properly caring for his property, appoint a conservator to have charge and management of his property, subject to the direction of the court.

250 Mass. 177.

Section 17. Upon the filing of such petition the court shall appoint a time and place for a hearing, and shall cause not less than seven days' notice thereof to be given to the person for whom a conservator is to be appointed, except that the court may for cause shown direct that a shorter notice be given. No appointment shall be made without such notice to the heirs apparent or presumptive of such person, including the husband or wife, if any, and, if such person is entitled to any benefit, estate or income paid or payable by or through the United States veterans' bureau or its successor, to said bureau or its successor, as the court may order. If the person for whose property the conservator is to be appointed is himself the petitioner or asserts in writing to the petition, no notice shall be required, except to said bureau or its successor if such person is so entitled.

250 Mass. 177.

Section 18. A conservator may be discharged by the probate court upon the application of the ward, or otherwise, when it appears that the conservatorship is no longer necessary. But a conservator of the property of a married person shall not be discharged without such notice as the court may order to the husband or wife of such person.

250 Mass. 177.

Section 19. A conservator shall give bond like that required of guardians of insane persons omitting the conditions relative to the custody of the ward.

228 Mass. 225.

Section 20. A conservator shall have the same powers and duties, except as to the custody of the person, as a guardian of an insane person; and all laws relative to the jurisdiction of the probate court over the estate of a person under guardianship as an insane person, including the management, sale or mortgage of his property and the payment of his debts, shall be applicable to the estate of a person under conservatorship.

228 Mass. 225.

Section 21. Upon the petition of a person of advanced age or mental weakness or of a friend, the probate court may, if it finds that the welfare of the person of advanced age or mental weakness requires the immediate appointment of a temporary conservator of his property, appoint such temporary conservator, with or without notice, and may in like manner remove or discharge him or terminate the trust. Such temporary conservator shall, until otherwise ordered, or until his removal or the appointment of a permanent conservator or guardian, have the same GUARDIANS AND CONSERVATORS.

9 powers and duties as a permanent conservator. He shall be subject to 10 all laws relative to permanent conservators so far as applicable.

1 Section 22. If a conservator or a guardian for an insane person of spendthrift is appointed, the court shall make an allowance, to be paid 2 by the conservator or guardian, for all reasonable expenses incurred by 3 the ward in opposing the petition.

GUARDIANS AND CONSERVATORS OF MARRIED WOMEN.

1 Section 23. If a married woman owns property, real or personal, 2 a guardian or conservator may be appointed for her for the same causes 3 in the same manner, and with the same powers and duties, as if she were 4 sole, except as otherwise provided in this chapter.

1 Section 24. The guardian of a married woman shall not have the 2 care, custody or education of his ward, except in case of the insanity of 3 her husband, or of his abandoning her by absenting himself from the 4 commonwealth and making no sufficient provision for her.

GUARDIANS AND CONSERVATORS OF NON-RESIDENTS.

1 Section 27. If a person who is liable to be put under guardianship 2 or conservatorship under this chapter resides out of the commonwealth 3 and has any estate therein, a friend of such person or any one interested 4 in his estate, in expectancy or otherwise, may apply to the probate court 5 for a county where there is such estate, which, after notice to all persons 6 interested and a hearing, may appoint a guardian or conservator for him.

1 Section 28. Such guardian or conservator shall have the same 2 powers and duties relative to any estate of the ward found within the 3 commonwealth, and also in the case of a guardian, relative to the person 4 of the ward if he comes to reside therein, as other guardians or conserva- 5 tors appointed under this chapter.

GUARDIANS AND CONSERVATORS OF MARRIED WOMEN.

1 Section 25. The guardian or conservator of a married woman shall 2 not, except as provided in section ninety-six of chapter one hundred and 3 twenty-three, apply the property of his ward to the maintenance of her- 4 self and her family while she is married, unless he is thereto authorized 5 by the probate court on account of the inability of her husband suitably 6 to maintain her or them, or for other cause which the court considers 7 sufficient.

1 Section 26. If a married woman is by reason of insanity incompe- 2 tent to release her right of dower or of homestead, a guardian may be 3 appointed for her in the same manner as if she were sole, with the powers 4 and duties given to guardians of married women who own property, and 5 the husband or any suitable person may be appointed such guardian.

GUARDIANS AND CONSERVATORS OF NON-RESIDENTS.

1 Section 29. Such guardian or conservator shall give the same bond 2 as is required of other guardians and conservators appointed under this chapter, except that the conditions relative to inventory, disposal of the estate and effects, and the account to be rendered by him shall be confined to such estate and effects as come to his hands in this commonwealth.

SECTION 30. If a resident of another state is entitled to real or personal property of any description in this commonwealth, and is under the guardianship of a person, also resident in such other state, who produces to the probate court of the county where such property or the principal part thereof is situated a full and complete and duly exempli-fi ed or authenticated transcript from the records of a court of competent jurisdiction in such other state, showing that he has there appointed such guardian, and has given a bond and security in double the value of the property of such ward, such transcript may be recorded in such prob-court, and such guardian shall be entitled to receive from such court letters of guardianship of the estate of such ward in this commonwealth which shall authorize him to care for and manage the real and personal property of such ward, to collect the rents and profits therefrom and to demand, sue for and recover any such property, and to remove any of the movable property or estate of such ward out of this commonwealth, if such removal will not conflict with the terms and limitations attending the right by which the ward holds the same. Such probate court may also ord or resident guardian, executor or administrator who has any of the estate of such ward to deliver the same to any person who has taken out letters of guardianship as aforesaid.

SECTION 31. A guardian or conservator appointed within this commonwealth, whose ward removes from or resides out of this commonwealth, may transfer and pay over the whole or any part of the ward's personal property to a guardian, conservator, trustee, committee or other official appointed by competent authority in the state or country where the ward resides, upon such terms and in such manner as the probate court by which he was appointed may, after notice to all parties interested, decree upon petition filed therefor.

SECTION 32. An executor, administrator or trustee who has in his hands personal property belonging to a person under guardianship residing out of this commonwealth and having no guardian or conservator appointed therein may pay over and transfer the whole or any part of such personal property to a guardian, trustee or committee appointed by competent authority in the state or country where such person resides, upon the same terms and in the same manner as provided in the preceding section.

REMOVALS, RESIGNATIONS, ETC.

SECTION 33. If a guardian or conservator becomes insane or otherwise incapable of performing his trust or is unsuitable therefor, the probate court, after notice to him and to all other persons interested, may remove him. Upon the request of a guardian or conservator, the probate court may allow him to resign his trust. Upon such removal or resignation, and upon the death of a guardian or conservator, another may be appointed in his stead.
GUARDIAN AD LITEM AND NEXT FRIEND.

1 Section 34. If, under the terms of a written instrument or otherwise, a minor or person under disability, or a person not ascertained or not in being, may be or may become interested in any property real or personal, the court in which any action, petition or proceeding of any kind relative to or affecting any such estate is pending may, upon the representation of any party thereto, or of any person interested, appoint a guardian ad litem or next friend of such minor or person under disability or not ascertained or not in being; and a judgment, order or decree in such proceedings, made after such appointment, shall be conclusive upon all persons for whom such guardian ad litem or next friend was appointed.

1 Section 35. The reasonable expenses of such guardian ad litem or next friend, including compensation and counsel fees, shall be determined by the court and paid as it may order, either out of the estate or by the plaintiff or petitioner. If such expenses are to be paid by the plaintiff or petitioner execution therefor may issue in the name of the guardian ad litem or next friend.

1 Section 36. Nothing in this chapter shall affect the power of a court to appoint a guardian to defend the interests of a minor impleaded in such court, or interested in a suit or matter there pending, nor the power of such court to appoint or allow a person, as next friend for a minor, to commence, prosecute or defend a suit in his behalf.

R. S. 70, § 8. 1896, 456, § 3. 8 Cush. 506.

GENERAL POWERS AND DUTIES OF GUARDIANS AND CONSERVATORS.

1 Section 37. A guardian or conservator shall pay all just debts which are due from his ward out of the personal property, if sufficient, and, if not, out of the real property, upon obtaining a license for the sale thereof as provided in chapter two hundred and two. He shall settle all accounts of his ward and demand, sue for and receive all debts due to him or, with the approval of the probate court, may compromise the same and give a discharge to the debtor. He shall appear for and represent his ward in all actions, suits and proceedings, unless another person is appointed therefor as guardian ad litem or next friend.

8 Cush. 587. 190 Mass. 117. 194 Mass. 522.

1 Section 38. He shall manage the estate of his ward frugally and support of ward and family.
2 without waste, and shall, except as otherwise provided, apply the same, so far as may be necessary, to the comfortable and suitable maintenance of the ward and his family. If the income and profits are insufficient for that purpose, he may sell the real estate upon obtaining a license therefor, and shall apply the proceeds of such sale, so far as may be necessary, for the maintenance and support of the ward and his family. Such license and the application therefor shall state whether the ward is married or single.

SECTION 39. A guardian or conservator may make partition of his ward’s real property if lying in common and undivided, either upon petition for partition or otherwise, as fully and in like manner as the ward could do if he were under no disability, may assign and set out dower in his ward’s estate to any widow entitled thereto, and may appoint an appraiser of real property on an execution either against or in favor of his ward; except that when the guardian or conservator has an interest adverse to that of his ward no partition shall be made without the appointment of a guardian ad litem.

SECTION 40. The probate court may, upon the petition of a guardian entitled to the custody of his minor ward, during the lifetime of either or both of his parents, and after notice to all parties interested, order and require said parents or either of them to contribute to the support and maintenance of such minor in such amounts and at such times as it determines are just and reasonable, and may issue process of attachment and execution on the property of the parents or either of them, and sections thirteen and fourteen of chapter two hundred and eight shall apply thereto so far as appropriate. Such parent or parents may be required to give a bond conditioned to comply with such order and payable to the judge of said court and his successors in such sum and with such sureties as the court orders. The court may from time to time, upon application of either party, revise or alter such order or make such new order or decree as the circumstances of the parents or the benefit of the minor may require.

SECTION 41. If a minor, who has a father living, has property sufficient for his maintenance and education in a manner more expensive than the father can reasonably afford, regard being had to the situation of the father’s family and to all the circumstances of the case, the probate court may order that such expenses of the maintenance and education of such child as it determines are reasonable may be defrayed out of his own estate; and, if necessary, his real property upon obtaining license therefor may be sold for that purpose by the guardian.

SECTION 42. The probate court may, upon the application of the guardian of an insane person or of a child or the guardian of a child of an insane person, after notice to all other persons interested, authorize and require the guardian of such insane person to apply to the maintenance and education of any child or children of said ward such portion as the court orders of the estate of the ward, which is not required for his maintenance and support.
Section 43. The probate court for the county where a guardian of an insane person has been appointed may make an allowance out of the estate of such insane person for the support of his wife, to be paid to her by the guardian during the continuance of the guardianship in such manner as the court orders.

Section 43A. The probate court, upon the application of the guardian or dependent parent of an insane person, and after such notice to all other persons interested as it directs, may authorize such guardian to apply towards the support of such dependent parent such portion of the estate of such insane person not required for his own maintenance and support as it may order.

Section 44. The probate court may, after notice to all persons interested, authorize a guardian or conservator to obtain by purchase the release and conveyance of a right of dower or curtesy, homestead, life estate, estate for years or other interest, vested or contingent, held or owned by any person in or to any real property of his ward, and to make any contract relative to such right or interest which may be necessary to effect such purchase.

Section 45. If property, rights or benefits given by will or by law depend upon the election, waiver or other act of a person incompetent by reason of insanity or minority to perform the same, his guardian may make such election or waiver or perform such act; provided, that no waiver of the provisions of a will under this section shall be valid until approved by the probate court after notice to such persons, if any, as the court shall deem proper and a hearing thereon, and provided also that if a power is vested in an insane person for his own benefit, or his consent is required for the exercise of any power where the power of consent is in the nature of a beneficial interest in himself, his guardian may, by order of the probate court, made after notice to such persons, if any, as the court shall deem proper, exercise the power or give the consent in such manner as shall be authorized or directed by the order.

Section 46. Upon taking an inventory, the estate and effects comprised therein shall be appraised in the manner required by section six of chapter one hundred and ninety-five.

Section 47. The probate court may, upon the application of a guardian or conservator or of any person interested in the estate of a ward, after notice to all other persons interested, authorize or require the guardian or conservator to sell and transfer any personal property held by him as guardian or conservator and to invest the proceeds thereof and all other money in his hands in such manner as may be for the best interest of all concerned. Said court, after such notice, if any, as it may require, may make such further order and give such directions as the case may require for the management, investment and disposition of the estate in the hands of the guardian or conservator.
Section 48. Upon complaint to the probate court by a guardian, conservator, ward, creditor or other person interested in the estate of a ward or by a person having claims thereto in expectancy as heir or otherwise, against any one suspected of having fraudulently received, concealed, embezzled or conveyed away any of the property, real or personal, of the ward, the court may cite and examine such suspected person, although he is the guardian or conservator, in the manner and subject to the penalties provided in section forty-four of chapter two hundred and fifteen.

Section 48A. Upon application therefor by a conservator or by a guardian of an insane person or a spendthrift, whose ward is a resident of the commonwealth, the probate court, after such notice as it deems necessary, and a hearing, may authorize him to deposit, for the purpose hereinafter stated, in a savings bank, or in the savings department of a trust company, within the commonwealth, not exceeding one hundred and fifty dollars, to be expended solely for, or towards the expense of, the burial of his ward. Such deposit shall be made in the name of the judge of probate for the time being, and shall be subject to the order of the judge and of his successors in office. The person making such deposit shall file in the probate court a memorandum thereof and the deposit book, and the amount so deposited shall, for the purpose of the accounting by such guardian or conservator, be allowed as a payment. Upon the death of such ward, the probate court may, upon application and after like notice and hearing, authorize the payment of such sum, together with any accrued interest thereon, to the executor of the will of such ward or to the administrator of his estate, to be expended by him only for the purpose hereinbefore stated; provided, that any balance remaining after the payment of such expense shall become general assets of the estate.

interests in land, which would descend to his heirs or would have been liable to attachment or execution by a creditor of the deceased in his lifetime; but the title passed by any such sale shall, except as provided in the following section, be subject to the dower of the wife or curtesy of the husband of the deceased. No claim by entry or by action to land fraudulently conveyed by the deceased shall be made unless within five years after the decease of the grantor.

SECTION 3. Upon a petition by an executor or administrator to sell real estate of a deceased person, if it shall appear that a surviving husband is or may be entitled to an estate of curtesy, or a surviving wife to an estate of dower in the premises to be sold, the probate court may, if the petitioner so requests, and after notice, license him to sell the same free and clear of any such interest or claim on the part of the surviving husband or wife. One third of the proceeds of the sale shall thereupon be set apart for the period during which such curtesy or dower may be claimed; and if a claim is duly made therefor, the court shall appoint a trustee to administer the same in accordance with section thirty-five of chapter two hundred and forty-one, unless the parties in interest shall otherwise agree upon a division of the proceeds without the appointment of a trustee, and the probate court may approve any such agreement on the part of the executor or administrator.

SECTION 4. Real estate not devised shall be first chargeable with the payment of debts, legacies or charges of administration in exoneration of real estate devised, unless a different intention appears by the will.

SECTION 5. If the personal property in the hands of a guardian or conservator is insufficient to pay the debts of the ward, with the charges of managing his estate, the guardian or conservator may be licensed to sell the ward's real estate for that purpose or for the purpose of raising money with which to pay, in whole or in part, any encumbrance existing thereon when the title thereto came to his ward, in like manner and upon like terms, except as hereinafter provided, as are provided for a sale of real estate by an executor or administrator.

SECTION 6. A license to an executor or administrator to sell the real estate of a deceased person or to a guardian or conservator to sell the real estate of his ward may be granted by the probate court appointing him.

SECTION 7. To obtain such license, the executor, administrator, guardian or conservator shall file a petition stating the value of the personal property in his hands, the amount of the charges of administration or management, the amount of debts due from the deceased or ward, as nearly as can be ascertained, and, if a person dies testate, the amount of any legacies given in his will. If it is necessary to sell a part only of the real estate, the value, description and condition of the part which it is proposed to sell may also be set forth, and the court may direct what specific part shall be sold.
Section 8. If it is represented in such petition and appears to the court to be necessary to sell a part of the real estate, and that by such partial sale the residue of the property or of a specific part or piece thereof would be greatly injured, the court may license a sale of the whole or any part thereof.

Section 9. If a will contains a provision for the payment of debts, or which may require or induce the court to marshal the assets in a manner different from that which the law would otherwise provide, the executor shall set forth in the petition a copy of the will, and the court shall marshal the assets accordingly, so far as can be done consistently with the rights of the creditors.

Section 10. No license to sell real estate shall be granted to an executor or administrator until notice of the petition and of the time and place appointed for hearing the same has been given by serving such notice personally on all persons interested in the estate at least fourteen days before the time appointed for the hearing, or by publication once in each of three successive weeks in such newspaper as the court orders.

Section 11. No license to sell real estate shall be granted to a guardian or conservator until such notice as the court orders has been given to the next of kin of the ward, to all his heirs apparent or presumptive, and to all persons interested in the estate.

Section 12. No license to sell real estate shall be granted to the guardian of a spendthrift who resides in the commonwealth, or of an insane person, unless seven days' notice of the petition therefor has been given to the board of public welfare of the town where the spendthrift resides, or, in the case of an insane person, to the department of mental diseases. Such notice may be served upon any member of said board or department.

Section 13. No license shall be granted to an executor or administrator, if any person interested in the estate gives bond to him in a sum and with sureties approved by the court, conditioned to pay, so far as the personal property of the deceased shall be insufficient therefor, all legacies mentioned in the petition, all debts therein mentioned which shall eventually be found due from the estate and charges of administration.

Section 14. Upon a petition of an executor or administrator for a license to sell real estate of the deceased or of a guardian or conservator to sell real estate of his ward, the court may, if the petitioner so requests, authorize him to sell such property at public auction and to convey to the purchaser all the estate, right, title and interest which the deceased had therein at his death and which was then chargeable with the payment of his debts or which the ward has at the time of the sale. If the petitioner requests that such property may be sold by private sale and the court, upon a hearing, finds that an advantageous offer for the purchase thereof has been made to the petitioner, and that the interests of all parties will be promoted by an acceptance thereof, it may authorize a conveyance by private sale in accordance with such offer or upon other terms; but the petitioner so authorized may nevertheless sell such property by public auction in accordance with this chapter.

Section 15. An executor, administrator, guardian or conservator shall give notice of the time and place of a sale by auction by causing notices thereof to be posted, thirty days at least before the sale, in a public place in the town where the land lies, and in two adjoining towns, if there are so many in the county, or, if the court granting the license so orders, by publishing the notice once in each of three successive weeks in a newspaper.

Section 16. An affidavit of the executor, administrator, guardian or conservator or of a person in his behalf, filed and recorded with a copy of the notice in the registry of probate, or such affidavit made by any person and filed and recorded with such copy by permission of the court upon satisfactory evidence that the notice was given as ordered, shall be admitted as evidence of the time, place and manner in which the notice was given.

Section 17. If at the time appointed for such sale the executor, administrator, guardian or conservator considers it for the interest of all persons concerned that the sale should be postponed, he may adjourn it for not more than fourteen days, and notice of such adjournment shall be given by a public declaration at the time and place first appointed for the sale. If the adjournment is for more than one day, further notice of the sale shall be given by posting or publishing, as time and circumstances may admit.

Section 18. If an executor or administrator is licensed to sell land which has been fraudulently conveyed by the deceased or is fraudulently held by another person for him, or land to which the deceased had a right of entry or of action or of which he had a right to a conveyance, he may, within one year after such license, sell the land without first obtaining possession thereof by entry or action, or he may without a formal entry bring an action to obtain possession by virtue of such license, demanding the land as executor or administrator, and may sell the same within one year after possession is obtained.

Section 19. The probate court may, upon petition of an administrator, administrator with the will annexed, or executor filed within one year after the date of the giving of the executor's or administrator's bond, or, if an administrator de bonis non shall be appointed within one year after the date of the original appointment of the executor or administrator, then within six months after the date of the giving of a bond by such administrator de bonis non, with the consent of all parties interested or after notice, license him to sell the whole or any part of the real estate or any undivided interest therein belonging to the estate of the deceased, in such manner and upon such notice as the court orders; and the net proceeds of such sale, after deducting the expenses thereof and such amount as may be required for the payment of debts, legacies and charges of administration, in consequence of a deficiency in the personal property, shall be paid over to the person or persons who would have been entitled to such real estate and in the proportions to which they would have been entitled had it not been sold. Before any such license shall be issued, the petitioner shall file in the probate court an affidavit containing the names of all persons known to him as having or claiming any interest in said real estate derived from any deed of conveyance or mortgage by, through or under any of the heirs or devisees, and if it appears that there are any such persons, they shall be made parties to the proceedings, and notified in such manner as the court orders.

1 Section 20. Whenever an executor or administrator has given due notice of his appointment, and an affidavit thereof has been filed in accordance with sections two and three of chapter one hundred and ninety-five, no interest in the real estate of the deceased conveyed absolutely or in mortgage for value and in good faith by an instrument duly recorded shall be liable to be taken on execution, or sold under any judicial proceeding for payment of his debts, costs of court or claims against his estate, except claims for taxes, municipal assessments or succession taxes, legacies or other charges created by will of the deceased, or the expenses or charges of administration, after the expiration of one year from the time of such executor or administrator giving bond for the performance of his trust, or from the passing of the order of the probate court mentioned in said section three, unless in pursuance of a license to sell granted in consequence of an order for the retention of assets passed under the provisions of section thirteen of chapter one hundred and ninety-seven, upon a petition filed within said year or before said conveyance or mortgage is recorded, or unless in pursuance of a license to sell granted upon a petition filed in the registry of probate within said year, or unless for the satisfaction in whole or in part of a claim of which notice has been filed in the registry of probate within said year, stating substantially the name and address of the claimant, the nature and amount of the claim and the court, if any, in which proceedings are pending to determine or enforce the same. Said notice shall be filed with the other proceedings in the case and entered upon the docket under the name of the estate of the deceased.

SALES BY GUARDIANS AND CONSERVATORS FOR MAINTENANCE OR INVESTMENT.

1 Section 21. If the income of the estate of a ward is insufficient to maintain him and his family or if it appears that it would be for his benefit that his real estate or any part thereof or any standing or growing wood thereon should be sold and the proceeds placed on interest or invested in a productive security, his guardian or conservator may sell such real estate or wood upon obtaining a license therefor and proceeding as hereinafter provided. If standing or growing wood is so sold, the guardian or conservator may grant to the purchaser the privilege of entering upon the land and cutting and carrying away such wood within such time as the guardian or conservator may allow.

SECTION 22. To obtain such license, the guardian or conservator shall file a petition setting forth the condition of the estate and the facts and circumstances on which the petition is founded. If after an examination, on the oath of the petitioner or otherwise, the court finds that it would be for the benefit of the ward that the sale should be made, it may grant a license therefor, specifying therein whether the sale is to be made for the maintenance of the ward and his family, or in order that the proceeds may be placed on interest or invested as aforesaid.

SECTION 23. If the sale is made for the maintenance of the ward and his family, the guardian or conservator shall apply the proceeds, so far as necessary, to that purpose, and shall place the residue on interest or invest it according to his best judgment until the capital is wanted for such maintenance; in such case, the capital may be used for that purpose as if it had been personal property.

SECTION 24. If the property is sold in order to place on interest or invest the proceeds, the guardian or conservator shall make the investment according to his best judgment, or in pursuance of any order of the court relative thereto.

SECTION 25. A sale of the property of a minor for the purpose of investment may be made upon the petition of the guardian or any friend of the minor, and the court may authorize the guardian or another person to sell and convey the property. The provisions of this chapter relative to licenses and sales upon the petitions of guardians shall, except as provided in the following section, apply to licenses and sales under this section.

SECTION 26. If the sale is made by a person other than the guardian, the proceeds shall forthwith be paid to the guardian upon his giving to the judge of probate a bond with sufficient sureties conditioned to account for such proceeds. If there is no guardian, the proceeds shall be placed on interest or invested by the person authorized to sell the property, in like manner as is required of a guardian.

SALES BY GUARDIAN OF NON-RESIDENT WARD.

SECTION 27. A guardian or conservator appointed within the commonwealth, whose ward removes from or resides out of the commonwealth, may sell the real estate of his ward and transfer and pay over the whole or any part of the proceeds of such sale to a guardian, conservator, trustee, committee or other official appointed by competent authority 6 in the state or country where the ward resides, upon such terms and in such manner as the probate court may, after notice to all parties interested, decree upon petition filed therefor. 1915, 23.

149 Mass. 57.

MORTGAGES.

1 Section 28. The probate court may, upon petition and after notice to all persons interested, if upon a hearing it appears to be for the benefit of the estate, authorize an executor, administrator with the will annexed, or an administrator to mortgage any of the real estate for the purpose of paying debts, legacies or charges of administration or for the purpose of paying an existing lien or mortgage on the estate of the deceased; or it may authorize such executor or administrator to make an agreement for the extension or renewal of such existing mortgage.

1 Section 29. The probate court may, upon petition of a guardian or conservator, if, after notice and a hearing, it appears to be necessary or expedient, authorize him to mortgage any real estate of his ward.

1915, 23.

P. L. 146, § 32.

153 Mass. 137.

1 Section 30. A petition under either of the two preceding sections shall set forth a description of the estate to be mortgaged, the amount of money necessary to be raised and the purposes for which it is required; and the decree of the court upon such petition shall fix the amount for which the mortgage may be given and the rate of interest which may be paid thereon, and may order the whole or any part of the money secured by the mortgage to be paid from time to time out of the income of the property mortgaged.

LEASES.

1 Section 31. The probate court may, upon the petition of a guardian or conservator setting forth a description of the real estate of his ward which he desires to lease, the reason why it is necessary or expedient to give a written lease thereof, and the length of the term, if, after notice and a hearing, it appears to be necessary or expedient, authorize such guardian or conservator to give a written lease of said real estate, and the decree of the court shall fix the term and the amount for which it may be leased.

POWERS OF FOREIGN EXECUTOR, ETC.

1 Section 32. An executor or administrator appointed in another state or country upon the estate of a person who was not at the time of his death a resident of this commonwealth and upon whose estate administration has not been granted in this commonwealth, duly qualified and acting, may file an authenticated copy of the record of his appointment and of his bond in the probate court for any county where there is real estate of the deceased; and such executor or administrator, after such notice to the state treasurer, creditors and all other persons interested as the court may order, may be licensed to sell real estate or an undivided interest therein in such manner and upon such notice as the court orders. But such license shall not be granted unless the court finds that six months have expired since the death of the deceased, that the executor or administrator has given a sufficient bond and will be licensed by the court.
liable to account for the proceeds of the sale in the state or country where he was appointed, and that no creditor or other person interested will be prejudiced thereby. The net proceeds of such sale, after deducting the expenses thereof and after the payment and satisfaction of all claims against said estate in this commonwealth, may be taken by said foreign executor or administrator out of the commonwealth to be accounted for in the court in which he received his appointment.

SECTION 33. If a person who resides out of the commonwealth is under guardianship or conservatorship in the state or country where he resides and has no guardian or conservator appointed in this commonwealth, the foreign guardian or conservator may file an authenticated copy of his appointment in the probate court for any county where there is real estate of the ward; after which upon petition he may be licensed to sell, mortgage or lease the real estate of the ward in any county, for the purposes, in the manner and upon the terms provided in this chapter for a guardian or conservator appointed in this commonwealth, except as provided in the following section.

SECTION 34. If the court finds that such foreign guardian or conservator has given bond with sufficient surety or sureties, in the state or country where he was appointed, to account for the proceeds of such sale, mortgage or lease, and if an authenticated copy of such bond is filed in said court, no further bond shall be required; otherwise, before such license is granted, he shall give bond payable to the judge of said court and his successors with sufficient surety or sureties and with condition to account for and dispose of said proceeds according to law.

SECTION 35. A foreign executor, administrator, guardian or conservator who has been licensed to sell real estate shall, except as otherwise provided, give notice of the time and place of sale, and otherwise proceed as is provided for an executor, administrator, guardian or conservator, appointed in this commonwealth; and the evidence of such notice may be perpetuated in the same manner.

1 SECTION 2. If a trust concerning land is created or declared by such instrument, the recording of the instrument in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land lies shall be equivalent to actual notice to every person claiming under a conveyance, attachment or execution thereafter made or levied.

1 SECTION 3. No trust concerning land, whether implied by law or created or declared by the parties, shall defeat the title of a purchaser for a valuable consideration without notice of the trust, or prevent a creditor who has no notice of the trust from attaching the land or from taking it on execution as if no such trust existed.

APPENDITION AND REMOVAL OF TRUSTEES.

SECTION 4. If a testator has omitted in his will to appoint a trustee in this commonwealth and such appointment is necessary to carry into effect the provisions of the will, the probate court may, after notice to all persons interested, appoint a trustee who shall have the same powers, rights and duties and the same title to the estate as if originally appointed by the testator.

SECTION 5. If a trustee under a written instrument declines, resigns, dies or is removed before the objects of the trust are accomplished and no adequate provision for filling the vacancy is made therein the supreme judicial court, the superior court or the probate court shall, after notice to all persons interested, appoint a new trustee to act solely or jointly with the others as the case may be.

SECTION 6. A trustee appointed under the preceding section, or appointed in the place of a former trustee in conformity with a written instrument creating a trust, shall, upon giving such bond as may be required, have the same powers, rights and duties and the same title to the estate, whether as sole or joint trustee, as if originally appointed; and the court may order any conveyances to be made by the former trustee or his representatives or by the other remaining trustees which it may find proper or convenient to vest the trust estate in the new trustee either solely or jointly with the others.

SECTION 7. The bond required of a trustee appointed by the supreme judicial or superior court under section five shall be payable to the commonwealth, and shall otherwise be in such form as the court shall require. Such bond may be enforced in the name of the commonwealth by the attorney general, or by any person interested therein and duly authorized to take such action by the court where the bond is filed after notice to the attorney general. Any sums recovered shall be paid over or administered as the court directs.

SECTION 8. If a trustee is appointed by the probate court as the successor of a prior trustee, the court may dispense with the making and return of an inventory if it appears to be unnecessary, and in such case the condition of the bond shall be altered accordingly.

SECTION 9. If an inventory is required to be returned by a trustee, the estate and effects shall be appraised in the manner provided by section six of chapter one hundred and ninety-five.
1 Section 10. If a trustee who derives his appointment or authority from a court having no jurisdiction in the commonwealth holds land in the commonwealth in trust for persons resident therein, he shall, upon petition to the probate court for the county where the land lies, and after notice, be required to take out letters of trust from said court; and upon his neglect or refusal so to do, the court shall declare such trust vacant, and shall appoint a new trustee, in whom the trust estate shall vest in like manner as if he had been originally appointed or authorized by said court.

1 Section 11. The notice to the trustee required by the preceding section may be given by serving him with a copy of the petition, and of the citation thereon, fourteen days at least before the return day of such citation, or in such other manner as the court may order.

1 Section 12. The supreme judicial court, the superior court or the probate court may, upon petition of a party beneficially interested in a trust under a written instrument, and after notice to the trustee and all persons interested, remove the trustee if it finds that such removal is for the interests of the beneficiaries of the trust or if he has become insane or otherwise incapable or is unsuitable therefor.

1 Section 13. A trustee may resign his trust, and the guardian or committee of an insane trustee, appointed by a court having jurisdiction, may on behalf of the insane person resign his trust, if the court authorized to appoint a trustee finds it proper to allow such resignation, and in the case of an insane trustee the court may accept such resignation without notice to him.

1 Section 14. A person succeeding to a trust as executor or administrator of a former trustee shall not be required to accept such trust.

Agent of Non-Resident Trustee.

1 Section 15. Sections eight, nine, and ten of chapter one hundred and ninety-five shall apply to non-resident trustees, except that said writing shall be filed in the clerk's office of the court appointing him if appointed by a court other than the probate court.

Sale of Trust Estate.

1 Section 16. If the sale and conveyance, transfer or exchange of any real or personal property held in trust appears to be necessary or expedient, the supreme judicial court, the superior court or the probate court may, upon petition of a trustee or other person interested, after notice to the other parties in interest, order such sale and conveyance, transfer or exchange to be made, and the investment, reinvestment and application of the proceeds of such sale in such manner as will best effect the objects of the trust. In the case of personal property the probate court may make such order with or without notice and without the appointment of a guardian ad litem;

or next friend as provided in the following section. The fact that the 10 trustee has the necessary authority under the terms of the instrument 11 creating the trust or by law to make such sale and conveyance, transfer 12 or exchange without order of the court shall not bar proceedings under 13 this section, but nothing herein contained shall be deemed to require a 14 license where such authority exists.

Section 17. If the court, upon proceedings under the preceding 1 section, finds that said estate may be held in trust for, or that a remainder or contingent interest therein may be limited over to, persons not 2 ascertained or not in being, notice shall be given in such manner as the 3 court may order to all persons who are or may become interested in 4 such estate, and to all persons whose issue, not then in being, may become 5 so interested; and the court shall of its own motion in every such case 6 appoint a suitable person to appear and act therein as the next friend 7 of all persons not ascertained or not in being, who arc or may become 8 interested in such estate, and the provisions of sections thirty-four and 9 twenty-five of chapter two hundred and one consistent herewith shall 10 apply to such appointment. A conveyance or transfer made after such 11 notice and proceeding shall be conclusive upon all persons for whom 12 such guardian ad litem or next friend was appointed.

Section 18. If a person who is seized or possessed of real or personal 1 property or of an interest therein upon a trust, express or implied, is a 2 minor, insane, out of the commonwealth or not amenable to the process 3 of any court therein having equity powers, and if in the opinion of the 4 supreme judicial court, the superior court or the probate court a sale 5 should be made of such property or of an interest therein, or a conveyance or transfer should be made thereof in order to carry into effect 6 the objects of the trust, the court may order such sale, conveyance or 7 transfer made and may appoint a suitable person in the place of such 8 trustee to sell, convey or transfer the same in such manner as it may require. If a person so seized or possessed of an estate or entitled thereto 9 upon a trust is within the jurisdiction of the court, he or his guardian 10 may be ordered to make such conveyances as the court orders.

Section 19. When personal property is subject to a trust contained 1 in a written instrument, the trustee or trustees may, unless there is 2 some provision therein to the contrary or unless it would be inconsistent with the purposes of the trust, change the investment of such property from time to time and for that purpose make sales and transfers 3 thereof.

Section 20. The receipt of a trustee, or of any one or more of 1 several trustees, for any money, securities or other personal property 2 or effects payable, transferable or deliverable to him or them under 3 any trust or power shall be a sufficient discharge therefor to the person 4 paying, transferring or delivering it, and no such person shall be bound 5 to see to the application thereof.

Section 21. A company or corporation, public or private, or quasi 1 corporation, or unincorporated association, or the managers of any 3 trust, or any transfer agent, registrar or other agent of such company, or corporation, quasi corporation, unincorporated association or managers, shall not be bound to see to the execution of any trust, express or constructive, to which any of its shares, bonds or securities are subject, or to ascertain or inquire whether the trust authorizes a transfer thereof to the holder, but this section shall not be a protection against liability for participating with actual knowledge in a breach of trust, and the fact that the trust is of record shall not constitute such actual knowledge.

1 Section 22. Unless otherwise expressly provided by the trust instrument, trustees' and brokers' commissions and other expenses properly incurred and paid by trustees for or in connection with the sale, exchange or purchase of property shall be charged to principal. Commissions and expenses paid by trustees for negotiating or effecting leases for terms longer than five years shall be charged to principal in the first instance, and a part thereof proportionate to the number of years of the term shall be repaid from income to principal in each year while the lease and the trust co-exist.

MORTGAGE OF TRUST ESTATE.

1 Section 23. The court having jurisdiction of a trust created by a written instrument may, upon petition and after notice to all persons interested, if upon hearing it appears to be for the benefit of the trust estate, authorize trustees to mortgage any real estate held by them in trust for the purpose of paying assessments upon the trust estate for betterments or for the expense of repairs and improvements on such estate made necessary by such betterments or by the lawful taking of such estate or of a part thereof by public authority; for the purpose of paying the expense of erecting, altering, completing, repairing or improving a building on such estate; or for the purpose of paying the expense of other improvements of a permanent nature made or to be made on such estate; or for the purpose of paying an existing lien or mortgage on such estate or on a part thereof; or it may authorize such trustees to make an agreement for the extension or renewal of such existing mortgage.

1 Section 24. Such petition shall set forth a description of the estate to be mortgaged, the amount of money necessary to be raised and the purposes for which such money is required, and, if made to a probate court, shall be made in the county where trustees were appointed, if the trust was created by will, or, if it was not so created, in the county where the estate, or a part thereof, which is the subject of the petition is situated. The decree of the court upon such petition shall fix the amount for which the mortgage may be given and the rate of interest which may be paid thereon, and may order the interest and the whole or any part of the money secured by the mortgage to be paid from time to time from the income of the property mortgaged.

DISTRIBUTION OF TRUST ESTATE.

1 Section 25. If under a written instrument a trust estate is to be distributed in whole or in part, the probate court, upon petition of a person interested, after such notice as it may direct, may order the trustee to convert said estate, both real and personal, or either, into cash and distribute it among such persons as under such instrument are entitled thereto.

SETTLEMENT OF CERTAIN TRUST ESTATES HAVING ABSENTEE BENEFICIARIES.

SECTION 26. In sections twenty-seven to thirty-nine, inclusive, the word "absentee" shall mean a beneficiary who has disappeared, absconded or is absent from the commonwealth, or has disappeared or absconded from the place without the commonwealth, where he was last known to be, and has no known agent in the commonwealth, and it is not known by the petitioner where he is, and the date of such disappearance or absconding and of the time when it was last known by the petitioner where he was and when he was last heard from or heard of shall have been more than fourteen years before the filing of the petitions provided for in said sections.

SECTION 27. If a trustee appointed under a will by a probate court of the commonwealth holds trust estate the final disposition of which depends upon the death of an absentee, such trustee, or any person who would be interested in the trust estate or any portion thereof, if such absentee were dead, may file a petition under oath in the probate court for the county where such trustee was appointed, stating to the best of his knowledge and belief the name, age, last known occupation, last known residence and address of such absentee, and the last place where he was known to be, the date and circumstances of his disappearance or absconding, and the names and residences of his wife, children and issue at the time of his disappearance or since, and of those who would have been his heirs at law and next of kin if he had died at the time of filing the petition, and the names and residence of the family of such absentee, and of other persons of whom inquiry may be made, and containing a schedule or statement of such trust estate, real and personal, so far as known, and the names and residences, so far as known, of the persons who would be entitled to the trust estate if said absentee had died intestate within the commonwealth on the day fourteen years after the date of his disappearance. Such petition shall contain as parties the name of such trustee and of such absentee and the names and residences, so far as known to the petitioner, of the persons who would be entitled to the trust estate if such absentee had died intestate within the commonwealth on said day, and of the persons who under his will or otherwise would be entitled to the trust estate if he had then died, and the description of the class of persons, if their names or existence are unknown, who might be entitled as aforesaid, and all persons whom it may concern, excepting however any of such persons or parties who are petitioners, and shall pray that the trust estate, both principal and any accumulations from unpaid income or otherwise, shall be transferred to the persons as trustees who would be entitled to such trust estate if such absentee had died within the commonwealth on the day fourteen years after the date of his disappearance, and in the proportions to which each would be entitled.

SECTION 28. If the petition is brought by such trustee, the court shall issue a notice as hereinafter provided. If brought by a person other Section 29. The return day of said notice shall be not less than six months after the date of such order. The court shall order a copy of said notice to be served upon all of said parties who may reside within the Commonwealth, within sixty days after the date of such notice. Said notice shall be published in one or more newspapers within the Commonwealth, and also, if within the United States, in one or more newspapers, if any such there be, in the town, or in the county, in case there is no newspaper published in such town, where the absentee last resided or was known to have last been. Such publication shall be at least once in each of three successive weeks, within thirty days after the date of the order in such newspaper or newspapers published within the Commonwealth, and within sixty days after the date of the order in such newspaper or newspapers published without the Commonwealth, and a copy of the notice shall be mailed within thirty days after the date of the order to the last known address of such absentee. The court may order further notice to be given within or without the Commonwealth. Proof of such service shall be made by affidavit, or in such other manner as the court may order.

Section 30. The respondents and the absentee and any person claiming an interest in the estate may appear and show cause why the prayer of the petition should not be granted, and may appear and answer on or before the return day or within such further time as the court may allow. By the description in the notice, "To all whom it may concern", all the world are made parties defendant and shall be concluded by the order or decree.

Section 31. The court may appoint a suitable person to appear and act in said proceedings as guardian ad litem for minors and for all persons and classes or descriptions of persons under disability or not ascertained or unknown or not in being or out of the Commonwealth, and who under the provisions of the will in regard to said trust estate or otherwise may be or may become interested in said trust estate, and the court shall appoint a suitable person to appear and act therein as guardian ad litem of said absentee. An order or decree in such proceedings, made after such appointment, shall be conclusive upon all persons for whom such guardian ad litem was appointed.

Section 32. The court shall find the date of the disappearance or absconding of the absentee, and any other material facts. If the court

Court to find facts, order transfer or finds that such disappearance has been continuous for more than fourteen years next preceding the filing of the petition, that upon the evidence presented the absentee has not been heard from or known of within such fourteen years, and that the facts found warrant a presumption of death, the court shall order the trust estate transferred to the persons as trustees to whom, and at the time or times and in the shares and proportions in which, it would, under the provisions of the trust of said property as set forth in the will, be distributed if said absentee had died within the commonwealth on the day fourteen years after the date of the disappear-ance or absconding, as found and recorded by the court. And by such order all the right, title and interest of said absentee in said trust estate and of all other persons, except those to whom as trustees said trust estate is to be turned over and paid in pursuance of said order, shall, as against the said trustee appointed under the will by the probate court, be barred, and no action, suit or petition in any form shall be begun by, or for the benefit of, such absentee or such other persons against the said trustee for or on account of said trust estate or its proceeds; and the court may authorize the trustee to sell at public or private sale the said trust estate or any part thereof and to convert it into money in order to make transfer thereof as aforesaid.

SECTION 33. Upon the transfer in pursuance of such decree to each of such new trustees of his portion of the trust estate or fund, he shall give bond to be filed in the court in said case, in such sum and with or without sureties as the court may order, to the judge of said court and his successors in office and with condition substantially that he will pay and deliver to such absentee, if living, or to any persons claiming under him, as his heirs at law or as named in his will as recipients of such trust estate under the exercise of any power of appointment by the said absentee or persons otherwise claiming the fund, the fund which such trustee has received, with the accumulations thereof, if any, less reason-able disbursements and compensation, if in the suit on said bond such absentee or other person shall be found to be lawfully entitled to said trust estate or fund. Such bond may be put in suit by such absentee or other persons for his or their own benefit. In every action on such bond the writ shall be endorsed by the persons for whose benefit or at whose request the action is brought or by their attorney, and the end-orsers shall be liable for the costs of the suit, and execution therefor shall be issued against them and not against the judge of said court.

SECTION 34. Such new trustee shall be liable only for gross negli-gence. He may in his discretion invest and reinvest the trust fund or estate delivered to him and sell real and personal estate at public auction or private sale and execute instruments necessary to transfer the title thereto. If such new trustee dies before the expiration of the six years named in the following section, his estate shall be liable on the bond required of such trustee.

SECTION 35. After the expiration of six years from the filing of said bond by said new trustee no action, suit or petition in any form shall be brought against him on said bond or otherwise by said absentee or person claiming under him or otherwise claiming the estate in the hands of such new trustee.
1 Section 36. If during the continuance or upon the termination of a trust under a will or written instrument one of the beneficiaries be- comes an absentee as defined in section twenty-six, the trustee may pay the income or distribute the trust estate to the known beneficiaries in the proportions to which they would be entitled if such absentee were present in the commonwealth, and as to the remaining part to which such absentee would be entitled if present, such trustee or any person who would be interested in the share of such absentee if he were dead may take like proceedings with reference to such share as are provided for in the ten preceding sections.

1 Section 37. In cases brought under the preceding section the petition, if brought on account of a trust under a will, shall be brought in the probate court for the county where the trustee was appointed, and, if brought on account of a trust under a written instrument other than a will, shall be brought in the probate court of any county where any of the parties interested in the trust reside or where any of the land held in trust is situated. If any probate court has assumed jurisdiction of the trust, the petition shall be brought in that court.

1 Section 38. The court may at any time during the continuance of the trust bring like petition and other proceedings as provided in sections twenty-six to thirty-seven, inclusive, decree that any income then accruing or thereafter accruing for the benefit of such absentee shall be paid to the persons as trustees to whom, and at the time or times and in the shares and proportions in which, it would be distributed if said absentee had died on the day fourteen years after the date of the disappearance or absconding, as found and recorded by the court.

1 Section 39. Sections twenty-six to thirty-eight, inclusive, shall apply to existing trusts heretofore established as well as to trusts hereafter established.

Trusts for the benefit of creditors.

1 Section 40. If a debtor residing in the commonwealth has made an assignment to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors, the acts of the trustee thereunder in protecting and caring for the property and converting it into money, if done in good faith and with reasonable judgment and discretion, shall, subject to the following section, be valid notwithstanding subsequent proceedings in insolvency by or against the debtor, and the assignee in insolvency shall, if such assignment is avoided by him, recover the net amount of money received for, or the price of, the property sold and converted by such trustee instead of the property itself.

1 Section 41. The preceding section shall not apply to the acts of such trustee unless the assignment conveys all the property and estate of the debtor wherever situated, either within or without the commonwealth, not exempt from attachment by the laws thereof, and provides for its distribution in substantial conformity with chapter two hundred and sixteen; nor unless a majority in number and value of the creditors, whose claims are neither secured nor preferred by said chapter, have assented in writing to the assignment; nor unless the trustee, before proceeding to act and immediately on the acceptance of his trust, gives written notice by mail or otherwise to all known creditors of the debtor of such assignment and his acceptance thereof, and deposits with the clerk of the town where the principal business of the debtor is carried on a copy of such assignment, which shall be filed and indexed by said clerk upon receiving a fee of one dollar therefor.

Section 42. If, upon petition or otherwise, the probate court for the county where letters testamentary or of administration have been granted on the estate of a deceased person finds that such person in his lifetime made a conveyance of real estate in the commonwealth in trust for the benefit of his creditors, and the trustee certifies that all the debts secured by such conveyance and due to persons other than himself have been paid or otherwise adjusted to the satisfaction of the creditors so far as known and that he desires to settle his trust account and to terminate the trust, the court shall appoint a time and place for hearing all persons interested in such trust, of which notice shall be given by publication in a newspaper published in the county, or otherwise, as the court orders. Upon such hearing the court may terminate the trust so far as the creditors and persons claiming under them are concerned, may discharge such real estate from the trust, may settle the trust account, and make any further order as to the disposition, distribution or partition of the remaining trust estate, consistent with the provisions of the original instrument creating the trust. This section shall not apply to any case where the instrument creating the trust does not bear date more than six years previous to the time appointed for the hearing; nor shall it affect the operation of the insolvent laws of the commonwealth.

CHAPTER 204.

GENERAL PROVISIONS RELATIVE TO SALES, MORTGAGES, RELEASES, COMPROMISES, ETC., BY EXECUTORS, ETC.

Sect.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1. Executor, etc., to convey real estate which testator, etc., had agreed to convey or require reconveyance if estate, etc., entitled.

2. Sale of real estate dependent upon consent of a deceased person.

3. Foreign executor, etc., may be licensed to receive and dispose of personal property.

4. How executor, etc., may release vested or contingent interests.

5. Sale or release of lots in cemeteries.

6. Form of mortgage given under license of court.

7. Venue of petitions for sales by foreign executor, etc.

Sect.

8. License to sell to remain in force for one year.

9. Surplus of proceeds of sales to be treated as real estate.

10. Costs in case of objection to the granting of a license.

11. Examination of persons licensed to sell land.

12. Sale of church, etc., property.

COMPROMISES, ETC.

13. Compromises by executors, etc., under authority of probate court.

14. Executors, etc., may be authorized to compromise controversies, etc.

15. Compromise of wills.

Section 1. If a person who has entered into a written agreement for the conveyance of real estate or holds real estate which by operation of law is subject to be conveyed to others, dies or is put under guardianship, or conservatorship or disappears or absconds with the result that a receiver of his property is appointed under chapter two hundred, without having made such conveyance, the probate court shall have jurisdiction in equity concurrent with the supreme judicial and superior courts to enforce specific performance of such agreement or obligation to convey; and, upon a petition therefor by any person interested in the conveyance, shall, after notice, if upon hearing it appears that the deceased, were he living, or the ward, were he not under guardianship, or conservatorship, or the absentee, had he not disappeared or absconded, as aforesaid, would be required to make the conveyance, order the executor, or administrator, or the guardian, conservator or receiver to make the same, which conveyance shall have like force and effect as if made by the person who agreed or was liable to convey. Such concurrent jurisdiction shall also extend to the specific enforcement of reconveyance by persons alleged to be improperly holding or retaining property belonging to the estate of a deceased person, or to a person under guardianship or conservatorship, or to a person of whose property a receiver has been appointed under said chapter two hundred, and to the cancellation of deeds, releases or other conveyances or acquittances executed by a person since deceased or by a person since placed under guardianship or conservatorship or of whose property a receiver has been appointed as aforesaid, on petition of the executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or receiver, as the case may be.

Section 2. If, under a will, the sale of real estate by a trustee, executor or administrator with the will annexed is dependent upon the consent of a person who has deceased, the probate court having jurisdiction of the settlement of the estate may, in its discretion, and if all parties interested assent, authorize the sale and conveyance of such real estate in like manner as if no such consent had been required.

Section 3. An executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee duly appointed in another state or in a foreign country and duly qualified and acting, who may be entitled to any personal property, situated in the commonwealth, may file an authenticated copy of his appointment in the probate court for any county where there is real estate of his trust, or, if there is no such real estate, in any county where there is personal property of his trust, and may upon petition to said executor, etc., to convey real estate which had agreed to convey or require reconveyance if estate, etc., entitled to receive and dispose of personal property, may be licensed to receive and dispose of personal property, court, after such notice to creditors and all persons interested as the court may order, be licensed to receive or to sell by public or private sale, upon such terms and to such person or persons as he shall think fit, or otherwise to dispose of, and to transfer and convey, shares in a corporation or other personal property, if the court finds that there is no executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee appointed in the commonwealth who is authorized so to receive and dispose of such shares or estate, and that such foreign executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee will be liable, upon and after such receipt or sale, to account for such shares or estate, or for the proceeds thereof, in the state or country where appointed; and that no person resident in this commonwealth and interested as a creditor or otherwise objects to the granting of such license or appears prejudiced thereby; but no such license shall be granted to a foreign executor or administrator until the expiration of six months after the death of his testator or intestate. The commissioner of corporations and taxation shall be made a party to any petition by a foreign executor, administrator or trustee under this section, and shall be given fourteen days' notice of the same.

SECTION 4. An executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee may, after the notice required upon a petition by him for a license to sell real estate, be authorized by the probate court to release and discharge, upon such terms and conditions as may appear to be proper, a vested, contingent or possible right or interest, if such release or discharge appears to be for the benefit of the person or estate which he represents.

SECTION 5. An executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee may be authorized by the probate court, after notice to all persons interested, to sell and convey or release upon such terms and in such manner as the court may order, lots in cemeteries belonging to the person or estate by him represented.

SECTION 6. A mortgage given by an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee under license of court may contain a power of sale, and every such mortgage shall state that it is made under license of court and the date of such license.

SECTION 7. All proceedings in probate courts relative to sales by a foreign executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee shall be in the county where an authenticated copy of his appointment is first filed.

SECTION 8. No license to sell by an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee shall be in force for more than one year after the granting thereof, except as provided in section eighteen of chapter two hundred and two.

SECTION 9. In every sale of the real estate of a deceased person or a ward by an executor, administrator, guardian or conservator, the surplus 3 of the proceeds remaining on the final settlement of the accounts shall be considered as real estate, and shall be disposed of to the same persons and in the same proportions to whom and in which the real estate if not sold would have descended or have been disposed of by law.

133 Mass. 111.

Section 11. A person authorized to sell land under license of court shall be required, upon petition to the probate court by an heir, creditor, administrator, guardian, conservator, receiver, commissioner or other person interested in the estate, to answer on oath as to all matters relative to his exercise and fulfillment of said license as fully as he is liable to account and be examined relative to personal property. If, in relation to the exercise of such license or to a sale under it, there is any neglect or misconduct in the proceedings of such person by which a person interested in the estate suffers damage, such interested person may recover compensation therefor on the probate bond or otherwise as the case may require.

Sale of church, etc., property.
R. L. 148, § 12.

Section 12. The supreme judicial court, upon petition of a party interested and after notice, may order the sale or transfer of any real or personal property held for churches, cemeteries or other like trusts and the investment or disposition of the proceeds, and may make orders and decrees necessary to secure the rights of owners of, or of other persons claiming an interest in, pews or in tombs or lots in cemeteries.

Compromises, etc.

Section 13. The probate court may authorize an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, receiver, commissioner or other fiduciary officer appointed by it, or a trustee, to adjust by arbitration or compromise any demand in favor of or against the estate by him represented.

Section 14. The supreme judicial court or the probate court may authorize an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, receiver, commissioner or other fiduciary officer appointed by the probate court, or a trustee, to adjust by arbitration or compromise any controversy or question as to the administration or distribution of the estate in his possession, or as to his accounting therefor, or as to any matter relating to said estate, or as to the construction of a will or trust created by a written instrument, or as to his power and authority thereunder, or as to any controversy growing out of said will or instrument that may arise between him and any other person or the guardian or conservator of any person interested under said will or instrument or in said estate, or between claimants or the guardians or conservators of claimants to said estate, to which arbitration or compromise, in the form of an agreement in writing, such executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, receiver, commissioner or other fiduciary officer or trustee, and all other 15 persons in being and of full age and not under guardianship, and the 16 guardian or conservator, if any, of all other persons who claim a vested interest in said estate, whose interests will, in the opinion of the court, be affected by the proposed arbitration or compromise, shall be parties. 19

An award or compromise made in writing in such a case, if found by the court to be just and reasonable in its effects upon the interests of minors 21 and persons under guardianship or conservatorship, and upon any 22 future contingent interests in said estate, shall, when approved by the 23 court, be valid and binding upon all such interests and upon the original 24 parties to said agreement, and a decree shall be entered accordingly. If 25 the court finds that any minor or person without legal capacity or under 26 guardianship, or any future contingent interests, may be affected, it may 27 appoint some person or persons to represent such minor or person without 28 legal capacity or under guardianship, or future contingent interests 29 in such controversy, question, administration or account upon such 30 conditions as to costs as it may order. 31

Section 15. The supreme judicial court or the probate court may authorize the persons named as executors in an instrument purporting to be the last will of a person deceased, or the petitioners for administration with such will annexed, to adjust by arbitration or compromise any controversy between the persons who claim as devisees or legatees under such will and the persons entitled to the estate of the deceased under the laws regulating the descent and distribution of intestate estates, to which arbitration or compromise the persons named as executors, or the petitioners for administration with the will annexed, as the case may be, those claiming as devisees or legatees whose interests will in the opinion of the court be affected by the proposed arbitration or compromise, and 11 those claiming the estate as intestate, shall be parties. 32

Section 16. If the court finds that any future contingent interests which would arise under said will if admitted to probate would be affected by the arbitration or compromise, it shall appoint some person to represent such interests in such controversy, and the court shall have like power as to any bequests made in the will for charitable purposes, if no trustees have been appointed in such will; in both cases with such conditions as to costs as the court orders. 33

Section 17. An award or compromise made in writing in any such case, if found by the court to be just and reasonable in relation to the parties in being and in its effect upon any future contingent interests that might arise under such will and upon any bequests to charities made in the same, shall be valid and binding upon such interests and upon such bequests, as well as upon the interests of all persons in being, but it shall not impair the claims of creditors. 34

Section 18. If a minor or a person under guardianship or conserva-torship is a necessary party to an arbitration or compromise under section fifteen, he shall be represented in the proceedings by his guardian or conservator, or by a guardian ad litem appointed by the court, who shall 5 in the name and in behalf of the party he represents, make and receive 6 all proper conveyances and payments necessary to carry into effect any 7 award or compromise sanctioned by the court.

IRREGULAR AND INVALID SALES, ETC., BY EXECUTORS, ETC.

1 Section 19. No sale of real estate under license of court, and no
2 title thereunder, shall be avoided for the reason that the deed was not
3 delivered within one year after the license, or on account of any irregu-
4 larity in the proceedings, if it appears —
5 First, That the license was granted by a court of competent juris-6 diction;
7 Second, That the person licensed gave a bond approved by the court
8 or judge granting such license, if a bond was required;
9 Third, That the notice of the time and place of sale was given accord-10 ing to the order of the court; and 11 Fourth, That the property was sold by public auction in accordance 12 with the notice, and is held by one who purchased it in good faith.

1 Section 20. If the validity of a sale is drawn in question by a person
2 claiming adversely to the title of the deceased or of the ward, or under 3 a title not derived from or through the deceased or the ward, the sale
4 shall not be void by reason of any irregularity in the proceedings, if the 5 executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee was licensed to 6 make the sale by a court of competent jurisdiction and executed and 7 acknowledged in legal form a deed of the property.

1 Section 21. If a license is granted by a probate court for a sale or 2 mortgage of real estate to pay the debts and charges of a deceased person
3 or a person under guardianship or conservatorship, the adjudication
4 of said court as to the existence of such debts and charges shall be final 5 so far as the same may affect any title acquired by virtue of such license, 6 but shall not affect the right of the executor, administrator, guardian or 7 conservator to contest the validity of such debts and charges.

1 Section 22. No action for the recovery of property sold by an execu-
2 tor or administrator under chapter two hundred and two shall be main-3 tained by an heir or other person claiming under the deceased unless 4 commenced within five years next after the sale; and no action for 5 property sold by a guardian or conservator under said chapter shall 6 be maintained by the ward or by any person claiming under him unless 7 commenced within five years next after the termination of the guardians-8 hip or conservatorship; but persons out of the commonwealth and 9 minors and others under legal disability to sue when their right of action
10 first accrues may commence such action at any time within five years 11 after the removal of the disability or after their return to the common-12 wealth. No entry, unless by judgment of law, shall be made upon land 13 so sold, with a view to avoid the sale, unless within the times of limi-14 tation before prescribed for the commencement of an action.

1 Section 23. If an act or proceeding of a person acting as executor, 2 administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver, commissioner or in any other fiduciary capacity under an appointment or license of a probate court is void or voidable by reason of an irregularity or of want of jurisdiction or authority in the court which made the appointment or granted the license, any person interested in or affected by such act or proceeding may have the matter heard and determined by the supreme judicial court in equity, which may confirm or set aside, in whole or in part, the act or proceeding.

Section 24. If the authority or validity of an act or proceeding of the probate court or of a person acting as executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, receiver, commissioner or other fiduciary officer appointed by the probate court, or trustee is drawn in question by reason of an alleged irregularity, defective notice or want of authority, any doctor interested in or affected by such act or proceeding may apply to the probate court having jurisdiction of the subject matter relative to which the act or proceeding has been had, and the court, after notice to all parties interested, and to the persons who may be the parents of such to parties not in being, with power to appoint a guardian or next friend to represent the interests of any person unborn or unascertained, may hear and determine the matter and confirm the act or proceeding, in whole or in part, and may authorize and empower the executor, administor, guardian, conservator, receiver, commissioner or other fiduciary officer appointed by the probate court, or trustee, or any successor or other person who may be legally appointed to act in the same capacity, to ratify and confirm such act or proceeding and to execute and deliver such deeds, releases, conveyances and other instruments as may be found necessary therefor; but no act or proceeding shall be ratified or confirm which the court might not have passed or authorized in the first instance upon due proceedings.

Section 25. An executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver, commissioner or other fiduciary officer appointed by the probate court whose appointment is invalid by reason of an irregularity or of want of jurisdiction or authority in the court which made it, shall account for all money, property or assets coming to his hands in said capacity as if the appointment had been regular and valid; and any bond given in pursuance of such appointment shall be valid and binding on the principals and sureties; and payments to or by a person so appointed, if in other respects properly made, may with the approval of the probate court be ratified and confirmed by the executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee who is afterward legally appointed.

Section 26. If an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver, commissioner or other fiduciary officer appointed by the probate court, or a person employed by him to give notice of an appointment or notice of sale of real estate, has failed to file an affidavit of such notice in the probate court and such affidavit cannot be obtained, the court may, upon petition of any person interested in real estate the title to which may be affected thereby, stating the particular failure complained of and averring that the affidavit cannot be obtained, order notice by publication to creditors of, and others interested in, the estate in the settlement of which the failure complained of occurred. If, upon return of such notice and after hearing, the court is satisfied that such notice was in fact given, it may make a decree to that effect.

1. In the case of an executor or administrator with the will annexed: 10
First, To make and return to the probate court within three months 11 a true inventory of all the testator's real and personal property which at 12 the time of making such inventory shall have come to his possession or 13 knowledge;

Second, To administer according to law and to the will of the testator 15 all personal property of the testator which may come into his possession 16 or into the possession of any person for him, and also the proceeds of any 17 of the real estate of the testator which may be sold or mortgaged by him; 18

Third, To render upon oath a true account of his administration at 19 least once a year until his trust is fulfilled, unless he is excused therefrom 20 in any year by the court, and also to render such account at such other 21 times as the court may order.

2. In the case of an administrator:
First, To make and return to the probate court within three months a 24 true inventory of all the intestate's real and personal property which at 25 the time of making such inventory shall have come to his possession or 26 knowledge;

Second, To administer according to law all the personal property of 28 the deceased which may come into his possession or into the possession 29 of any person for him, and also the proceeds of any of the real property 30 of the deceased which may be sold or mortgaged by him;

Third, To render upon oath a true account of his administration at 32 least once a year until his trust is fulfilled, unless he is excused therefrom 33 in any year by the court, and also to render such account at such other 34 times as the court orders;

Fourth, To pay to such persons as the court orders any balance 36 remaining in his hands upon the settlement of his accounts;

151 Mass. 395.

198 Mass. 401.

Fifth, To deliver his letters of administration into the court if a will 38 of the deceased is thereafter duly proved and allowed.

3. In the case of a special administrator:
That he will make and return to the probate court within such time 41 as it orders a true inventory of all the personal property of the deceased 42 which at the time of making such inventory shall have come to his 43 possession or knowledge, and that he will, whenever required by the 44 probate court, truly account on oath for all the property of the deceased 45 which may be received by him as such special administrator, and will 46 deliver the same to any person who may be appointed executor or ad- 47 ministrator of the deceased, or may be otherwise lawfully authorized to 48 receive the same.

4. In the case of a receiver of an absentee under chapter two hundred: 50 With condition substantially as provided for the bond of an executor 51 or administrator, and with the further condition to obey all orders and 52 decrees made by the probate court.

5. In the case of a temporary guardian or conservator appointed under 54 section fourteen or twenty-one of chapter two hundred and one: 55 That he will make and return to the probate court within such time as 56 it shall order a true inventory of all the personal property of the ward 57 which at the time of making such inventory shall have come to his pos-
59 session or knowledge, and that he will, whenever required by the probate court, truly account on oath for all the property of the ward which may be received by him as such temporary guardian or conservator, and will deliver it to any person who may be appointed guardian or conservator or may be otherwise lawfully authorized to receive it.

64 6. In the case of a guardian or conservator:

First, To make and return to the probate court at such time as it orders a true inventory of all the real and personal property of the ward which at the time of making such inventory shall have come to his possession or knowledge;

Second, To manage and dispose of all such property according to law and for the best interests of the ward, and faithfully to perform his trust in relation to such property and to the custody, education and maintenance of the ward;

Third, To render upon oath at least once a year until his trust is fully filled, unless he is excused therefrom in any year by the court, a true account of the property in his hands, including the proceeds of all real and personal property sold or mortgaged by him and of the management and disposition thereof, and also to render such account at such other times as shall be required by law or by the court;

Fourth, To observe all the provisions of § 169 of chapter 191 of the General Laws of Massachusetts in the management and disposition of the estate of the ward.

71 7. In the case of a trustee under a will or appointed by the probate court:

First, To make and return to the probate court at such time as it orders a true inventory of all the real and personal property belonging to the person or persons lawfully entitled thereto at the time of the making of such inventory shall have come to his possession or knowledge;

Second, To manage and dispose of all such property, and faithfully to perform his trust relative thereto according to law and to the will of the testator or the terms of the trust as the case may be;

Third, To render upon oath at least once a year until his trust is fully filled, unless he is excused therefrom in any year by the court, a true account of the property in his hands and of the management and disposition thereof, and also to render such account at such other times as shall be required by law or by the court the expiration of his trust to settle his account in the probate court or with the ward or his legal representatives, and to pay over and deliver all the property remaining in his hands, or due from him on such settlement, to the person or persons lawfully entitled thereto.

Section 2. A bond given by an administrator engaged in the administration of French spoliation awards shall contain a condition substantially as follows: "To administer according to law and the orders of the probate court all French spoliation awards which shall come to his possession as such administrator." Such bond, when satisfactory to the judge or register, shall be approved in the following form: "Approved as adequate security for the legal disbursement of a French spoliation award of dollars", stating the amount appearing then to be receivable by the administrator from the United States treasury on account of such award or awards. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to impair the validity of any bond given prior to May second, nineteen hundred and two, or to affect the rules of administration and distribution of French spoliation awards theretofore established in the commonwealth.

Section 3. If the executor of a will or an administrator with the will annexed is residuary legatee thereunder, and it appears that the bond required of him by section one is unnecessary for the protection of any person interested in the estate, the court may permit him, instead of giving such bond, to give bond in a sum and with sureties to the satisfaction of the court, and conditioned to pay all debts and legacies of the testator and such amounts as may be allowed by the court to the widow or minor children for necessaries. In such case he shall not be required to return an inventory to the court. The giving of such bond shall not discharge the lien on the real estate of the testator for the payment of debts, except on such part as may be sold by such executor or administrator to a purchaser in good faith and for a valuable consideration; and all property not so sold may be taken on execution by a creditor not otherwise satisfied, in like manner as if a bond had been given in the other form.

Section 4. An executor shall be exempt from giving a surety on his bond if the testator has ordered or requested such exemption or that no bond be required, and an executor, administrator or an administrator with the will annexed shall be so exempt if all the persons interested in the estate of full age and legal capacity, other than creditors, certify to the probate court their consent thereto; but not until all creditors of the estate, and the guardian of any minor interested therein, have been notified and have had opportunity to show cause against the same. The probate court may, however, upon or after the granting of letters testamentary or letters of administration require bond, with sufficient sureties, and failure to furnish the same within such time as the court orders shall constitute a declination of or a resignation from the trust.

Section 5. A testamentary guardian and a trustee under a will shall be exempt from giving sureties on his bond, if the testator has ordered or requested such exemption, or that no bond be required, or in case of a trustee, if all the persons beneficially interested in the trust, of full age and legal capacity, other than creditors, request such exemption; but not until the guardian of any minor interested therein...
7 and such other persons as the court orders have been notified and had 8 opportunity to show cause against the same. The probate court may, 9 however, at any time require such guardian or trustee, or a trustee ap-
10 pointed by the probate court, to give a bond with sureties. The court 11 may, with or without notice, exempt a trustee under a will holding 12 property for public charitable purposes from giving surety on his bond.

1 Section 6. If the custody of a minor is given to a guardian, under 2 section five of chapter two hundred and one, for the reason that one or 3 both of his parents are unfit to have such custody, such guardian may in 4 the discretion of the court give a bond without surety; but the court in 5 such case may, at any time if it finds that the protection of the ward's 6 interests renders it necessary, require such guardian to give bond with 7 sureties.

1 Section 6A. No surety shall be required upon bonds filed by national 2 banks, located in this commonwealth and duly permitted to act in a 3 fiduciary capacity, as executor, administrator, administrator with the 4 will annexed, receiver, assignee, guardian, conservator or trustee under 5 a will or instrument creating a trust for the care and management of 6 property, except that the court appointing such a bank as such a fiduciary,
7 other than as trustee, may upon application of an interested person re-
8 quire the bank so appointed to give such security, in addition to the lien
9 or security provided by the laws of the United States, as the court may 10 consider proper, and upon failure of such bank to give the security re-11 quired may revoke such appointment and remove such bank.

1 Section 7. A guardian or trustee not required to give bond by the 2 laws in force at the time of his appointment shall not be required to give 3 bond under the preceding sections of this chapter, except by special 4 order of the court under section five.

1 Section 7A. The various conditions set forth for the bonds of fidu-
2 ciaries specified in section one shall be known as statutory conditions
3 for their several purposes and may be incorporated by reference. All 4 bonds upon such conditions given by persons accepting appointments
5 as such fiduciaries shall be, and be interpreted as, payable to the judge 6 or the senior judge of the court making the appointment and his suc-
7 cessors for the benefit of persons interested but it shall not be necessary 8 to specify the judge or any other persons as obligees in the bonds. Such 9 bonds shall be jointly and severally binding upon the parties thereto
10 and the heirs, executors and administrators of each of them without so 11 specifying therein. No letter of appointment need be issued to any 12 fiduciary or record, but in lieu thereof an attested copy of the decree 13 of appointment with a copy of the statutory condition shall be issued to 14 the appointee. The direction to post or publish notice of appointment, 15 when necessary, may be inserted in or annexed to said decree. The 16 following forms of bonds may be used and shall be known as statutory 17 forms and shall have the same force and effect as the forms of bonds 18 heretofore in use for their respective purposes. They may be altered as 19 circumstances require.

No penal sum need be inserted in a bond without sureties. In addition to other remedies, the obligations of the several bonds provided for in this chapter may be enforced directly by any party interested in his own name by petition in equity in the probate court. The use of the 23 statutory forms above set forth may be substituted for the longer forms heretofore in use and the practice of issuing and recording letters of appointment may be dispensed with.

Section 8. A person required by the preceding sections, except section four, to give a bond who, for thirty days after his appointment or after the entry of the decree requiring him to give bond, fails to file the bond, duly approved, may be found to have declined or resigned the trust.

1889, 34, § 2.

Section 9. Sureties on probate bonds shall be inhabitants of the commonwealth, and satisfactory to the judge or register; except that companies permitted by section one hundred and five of chapter one hundred and seventy-five to act as sureties may be accepted in accordance with the provisions thereof and that, if the property of a person under guardianship or conservatorship is composed in whole or in part of any benefit, estate or income paid or payable by or through the United States veterans' bureau or its successor and exceeds five hundred dollars, the surety on the bond of the guardian or conservator shall be such a company.

Section 10. No bond required to be given to a judge of probate or to be filed in a registry of probate shall be sufficient, unless it has been examined and approved by the judge or register, and his approval over his official signature written thereon.

Section 11. Two or more persons acting jointly as executors, administrators, trustees or otherwise, who are required to give bonds, may give either separate or joint bonds.

1 SECTION 15. A surety on a probate bond may, upon the petition of 2 the surety or of the principal to the supreme judicial court or the pro-
3 bate court, be discharged from all further responsibility, if the court, 4 after notice to all persons interested, finds such discharge reasonable 5 and proper; and the principal shall thereupon give a new bond with 6 such surety or sureties as the court orders.
7 P. S. 143, § 16. 1912, 163. 139 Mass. 356.

1 SECTION 16. If, in the cases specified in the two preceding sections,
2 the principal does not give such new bond within such time as the court
3 orders, he shall be removed from his trust, and another person appointed 4 in his stead.

1 SECTION 17. If a new bond is required as above provided, the sureties
2 on the prior bond shall be liable for all breaches of the condition thereof
3 committed before the new bond is approved by the judge.

1 SECTION 18. If a surety company becomes surety on a probate bond,
2 the court may, upon the petition of any party in interest and after notice,
3 reduce the penal sum in which the principal and surety shall be liable
4 for subsequent violations of the conditions thereof.

Section 19A. Any receiver, assignee, guardian, conservator, trustee, executor, administrator or other fiduciary, or party from whom a bond is required, may agree and arrange with his sureties for the deposit for safe keeping of any or all moneys, assets and other property for which he is or may be responsible with a bank, savings bank, safe deposit or trust company authorized by law to do business as such in the commonwealth, and in such manner as to prevent the withdrawal or alienation of such money, assets or other property, or any part thereof, without the written consent of such sureties, or an order of the court in which such bond is filed, or of a judge thereof, made on such notice to such sureties as the court or judge may direct.

Actions upon bonds.

Section 20. A bond given by an executor or administrator for the performance of his trust may be put in suit by a creditor of the deceased for his own benefit, when such creditor has recovered judgment for his debt against the executor or administrator and he has neglected upon demand to pay the same or show sufficient goods or estate of the deceased to be taken on execution for that purpose.

Section 21. A creditor of an estate which has been represented insolvent may bring such action if the amount due him has been ascertained by the decree of distribution, and the executor or administrator neglects upon demand to pay it.

Section 22. Such action may be brought by a person who is next of kin to recover his share of the personal property after a decree of the probate court ascertaining the amount due him, if the executor or administrator neglects upon demand to pay it.

Section 23. If the probate court, upon the representation of a person interested in an estate, finds that the executor or administrator has failed in any manner not specified in the three preceding sections to perform the conditions of his bond, it may authorize any creditor, next of kin, legatee or other person aggrieved by such maladministration to bring an action on the bond.

Section 24. If a judge of probate is obligor, either as principal or as surety, in a bond given to a former judge of the court, any action authorized by this chapter may be brought upon such bond in the name of the money and property already in her hands by virtue of such trust; and if her sureties are so released, she shall be required to furnish a new bond to the satisfaction of said court, or shall be removed from said trust.

Agreements by fiduciaries with their sureties for joint control of trust estates authorized.

BOONDS OF EXECUTORS, TRUSTEES, ETC.
1 Section 25. The wife of a judge of probate may be a defendant in an action upon a bond given to him to or to his predecessor in such office.

1 Section 26. In every action on a bond under sections twenty, twenty-one and twenty-two, the writ shall be endorsed by the person or persons for whose benefit or at whose request the action is brought or by their attorney, and the endorsers shall be liable for the costs of suit, and execution therefor shall be issued against them and not against the judge.

If the action is brought for the benefit of creditors or next of kin, there shall be a further endorsement on the writ specifying that it is brought for the benefit of such creditors or next of kin.

1 Section 27. If the principal in the bond is a resident of the commonwealth at the commencement of the action, and is not made a defendant therein or is not served with process, the court may, at the request of any of the sureties, continue or postpone the action so long as may be necessary to summon or bring in the principal as provided in the following section.

1 Section 28. The sureties may take out a writ, in such form as the court may prescribe, to arrest the principal or to attach his goods or estate, and to summon him to appear and answer as defendant in the original action. If, after being served with such process fourteen days at least before the time appointed for him to appear and answer to the action, he neglects so to do, and if judgment is for the plaintiff, such judgment shall be rendered against the principal obligor with the other defendants in the same manner as if he had been originally a party to the action. An attachment or bail on such process shall be liable to respond to the judgment in like manner as if made or taken in the original action.

1 Section 29. Except as otherwise provided, a bond given by a guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver, commissioner or other fiduciary officer may be put in suit by order of the probate court for the benefit of any person interested, and the proceedings in such action shall be conducted in like manner as is provided relative to actions on bonds given by executors or administrators.

SECTION 31. If the court finds that there has been a breach of the condition of the bond of an executor or administrator, it shall, upon a hearing in equity, award execution in the name of the plaintiff as follows:

First, if the action is brought for the benefit of a creditor, execution shall be awarded for the use of the creditor for the amount due him upon the judgment which he has recovered, or upon the decree of distribution in his favor.

Second, if the action is brought for the benefit of a person who is next of kin, execution shall be awarded for the use of such person for the amount due him according to the decree of the probate court.

Third, if the action is brought for a breach of the condition in not accounting for the estate as required by law, execution shall be awarded, without expressing that it is for the use of any person, for the full value of all the estate of the deceased which has come to the hands of the executor or administrator and for which he does not satisfactorily account, and for all damages caused by his neglect or maladministration.

Fourth, if the action is brought for any other breach of the condition of the bond, execution shall be awarded for such amount and for the use of such person or persons, or without expressing it to be for the use of any particular person, as the court determines.

Fifth, if there are two or more persons for whose use execution is to be awarded as provided in this section, a separate execution shall be issued for the amount due each.

Sixth, the execution shall include costs of suit, as well as the debt or damages; and if there is more than one execution, costs shall be divided between them as the court orders.

SECTION 32. If an execution awarded under the preceding section is expressed to be for the use of a particular person, such person shall be considered as the judgment creditor, and may cause it to be levied in his name and for his benefit, as if the action had been brought and the judgment recovered in his name.

SECTION 33. If such execution is awarded without expressing it to be for the use of any particular person, all money received thereon shall be paid to the co-executor or co-administrator, if any, or to the person who is then the rightful executor or administrator, and shall be assets in his hands to be administered according to law.

SECTION 34. If, after execution has once been awarded in an action upon a bond, the executor or administrator commits a new breach of the condition of the bond, or if a creditor, next of kin, legatee or other person interested in the estate has a claim for further damages on account of any neglect or maladministration of the executor or administrator, a writ of sequestration on the original judgment may be sued out in like manner as is provided for the commencement of the original action; and the court shall thereupon award a new execution in like manner as might have been done in the original action.

ACCOUNTS, ETC., OF EXECUTORS, TRUSTEES, ETC. [CHAP. 206.

Section 2. Accounts rendered to the probate court by an executor, administrator, trustee, guardian or conservator shall be for a period distinctly stated therein, and consist of three schedules, of which the first shall show the amount of personal property according to the inventory, or, instead thereof, the amount of the balance of the next prior account, as the case may be, and all income and other property received and gains from the sale of any property or otherwise; the second shall show payments, charges, losses and distributions; the third shall show the investment of the balance of such account, if any, and changes of investment. A trustee shall state in his accounts the receipts of principal and income separately and also the payments and charges on account of such principal and income separately.

Section 3. An executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee or receiver may be examined on oath before the court upon any matters relative to his accounts.

Section 4. In settling an account of any executor, administrator, trustee, guardian or other fiduciary, the probate court may require him, or any of them if there are more than one, to produce during the proceedings or afterward, as the court may direct, any securities or moneys comprised in the account or any documents relating to the investments of the estate, and to replace any moneys or property that have been improperly applied or disposed of, or the value thereof, and to pay or transfer the same or any moneys or property with which he or they may be charged into a proper account or otherwise, as the court may order, in such manner that the same shall be in the control of the persons entitled thereto; and the proceedings upon every such account shall be considered for all purposes to be proceedings in equity, and orders and decrees of the court therein shall be enforceable accordingly, and execution may issue for any such moneys against the fiduciary personally as upon a judgment at law in favor of the persons entitled to the control thereof, or any of them, for the benefit of all.

Section 5. An executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee shall account for the personal property at its appraised value, except:

- 1817, 190, §§ 19, 34.
- G. S. 98, §§ 1, 2, 6, 109, § 17.

Property for which accounts chargeable:

- 1817, 190, § 34.
5 estate which is sold or mortgaged, and with all interest, profit and income
6 coming to him from the personal property.

1 Section 7. No final account or discharge of a guardian of an insane
2 person shall be allowed unless at least seven days' notice has been given 3 to the department of mental diseases. No account of a guardian of an 4 insane person or of a conservator shall be allowed without such notice
5 as the court may order to the United States veterans' bureau or its suc-6cessor if the ward is entitled to any benefit, estate or income paid or 7 payable by or through said bureau or its successor.

1 Section 8. If real estate of a deceased person is used, occupied or taken charge of by an executor or administrator, he shall account for the income and management thereof in the same manner as in the case of personal property.

1 Section 9. If a mortgagee of real estate or an assignee of such 2 mortgagee dies without having foreclosed the mortgage, the mortgaged 3 property and the debt secured thereby shall be personal assets in the 4 hands of his executor or administrator, and shall be administered and 5 accounted for as such; and the executor or administrator shall have the 6 same rights of entry and of action under said mortgage as the mortgagee or his assignee.

1 Section 10. Upon the redemption of such mortgage the money paid
2 thereon shall be received by the executor or administrator, and he shall 3 thereupon release and discharge the mortgage; and until such rede-
4 pition the executor or administrator, if possession has been taken either
5 by himself or by the deceased, shall be seized of the mortgaged property 6 in trust for the persons who would be entitled to the money if the property had been redeemed.

1 Section 11. If an executor or administrator recovers judgment for 2 a debt due the deceased, and levies on real estate, he shall be seized of 3 such real estate in trust for the persons who would have been entitled 4 if the judgment had been satisfied in money; and the real estate so 5 taken shall be considered as personal assets in his hands; and if re-
6 deemed, the money shall be received by the executor or administrator 7 who shall thereupon release the real estate.

1 Section 12. Real estate held by an executor or administrator in 2 mortgage, or taken on execution by him, may, at any time before the 3 right of redemption is foreclosed, be sold subject to such right, in the 4 same manner as personal property of a person deceased; and after such right has been foreclosed, it may be sold in the same manner as real estate of which the deceased died seized.

Section 18. If an executor or administrator, after being duly cited by the probate court, neglects to render an account of his administration, his bond may be put in suit as provided in the preceding chapter; and if he persists in such neglect, judgment shall be rendered against him, and he shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as an executor in his own wrong.
Section 19. If an account of an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee is settled in the absence of a person adversely interested and without notice to him, it may be opened upon his application at any time within six months after such settlement. Upon the settlement of an account, all former accounts of the same account which have not been settled according to section twenty-four or corresponding provisions of earlier laws may be so far opened as to correct a mistake or error therein; but a matter in dispute, previously heard and determined by the court, shall not without leave of the court be again brought in question by any of the parties to such dispute.

Section 20. The probate court may allow the account of two or more joint executors, administrators, guardians, conservators or trustees, upon the oath of one of them.

Section 21. If the estate of a deceased person is to be distributed in whole or in part, the probate court, on petition of any person interested, after such notice as it may require, may order the executor or administrator to convert the personal property into cash and distribute it among the persons entitled thereto.

Section 22. If an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee has paid or delivered to the persons entitled thereto the money or other property in his hands, as required by decree of a probate court, he may perpetuate the evidence thereof by presenting to said court, within one year after the decree is made, an account of such payments or of the delivery of such property; and said account, upon being proved to the satisfaction of the court, and verified on oath by the accountant, shall be allowed as his final discharge and ordered to be recorded. Such discharge shall forever exonerate the accountant and his sureties from all liability under such decree unless his account is impeached for fraud or manifest error.

Section 23. If without an order of court an administrator pays or delivers to the widow or husband of the deceased or to any other person any money or other property in his hands, and thereafter renders an account on oath with a full and detailed statement thereof, and after notice it appears that the persons to whom such money has been paid or property delivered would have been entitled to an order of court for such payment or delivery and that such account ought to be allowed, the probate court may make a decree which shall have the same effect to discharge and exonerate the accountant and his sureties from further liability as if such payment or delivery had been made under a previous order of the probate court.

Section 23A. When an account has been filed in the probate court and the accountant fails to take out a citation, give notice as therein ordered and make return of service to the court, the court may, upon application of any person interested, order him to do so; or the court could do so.

Section 24. If an account has been filed in the probate court and if the court finds that the items of said account should be finally determined and adjudicated, or if the accountant after two years from a former adjudication or from his appointment desires such determination and adjudication, notice of such proposed action on such account shall be given to all parties as it may order. If the interest of a person unborn, unascertained or legally incompetent to act in his own behalf is not represented except by the accountant, the court shall appoint a competent and disinterested person as guardian ad litem or next friend for such person, to represent his interest in the case. The person so appointed shall make oath to perform his duty faithfully and impartially, and shall be entitled to such reasonable compensation as the court allows.

Section 25. If money which a decree of a probate court has ordered to be paid over remains for six months unclaimed, the executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee who was ordered to pay the same may deposit it in a savings bank or other like institution, or invest it in bank stock or other stocks, as the probate court orders, to accumulate for the benefit of the person entitled thereto. Such deposit or investment shall be made in the name of the judge of probate for the time being, and shall be subject to the order of the judge and his successors in office as hereinafter provided. The person making such deposit or investment shall file in the probate court a memorandum thereof, with the original certificates or other evidences of title thereto, which shall be allowed as a sufficient voucher for such payment. When the person entitled to the money deposited satisfies the judge of his right to receive it, the judge shall cause it to be paid over and transferred to him.

Section 26. If the residence of a legatee under a will duly proved or of a person entitled to a portion of a trust fund under an order of distribution provided by section twenty-five of chapter two hundred and three is unknown or if he is a minor without legal guardian, the court may, if satisfied of such fact, order the legacy or share of the trust fund due him to be deposited or invested as provided in and subject to the preceding section.

Section 27. If an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or trustee has money which he considers it advisable to deposit in a savings bank in the name of the judge of probate for the benefit of any person, he may apply to the probate court by which he was appointed for leave so to do, and the court may in its discretion, without notice, direct such money to be so deposited. When the deposit is made the deposit book of the bank shall be filed in said court. When the person entitled to such money satisfies the court of his right to receive it, the court shall by decree direct it to be transferred to him.

Section 28. The probate court may, on petition of any person interested and after public notice, order all money or the proceeds thereof which have been deposited or invested by its authority and which shall have remained unclaimed for twenty years from the date of such deposit or investment to be paid to the residuary legatee, if any, of the testator to whose estate the money belonged, or, if such residuary legatee is dead, to his heirs living at the time of such distribution; and if no such residuary legatee or any of his heirs are then living, or if the deceased died intestate, said money and the proceeds thereof shall be disposed of and distributed among the persons entitled thereto and in the manner provided by chapter one hundred and ninety. The court shall first require from the persons to whom such money shall be ordered paid a sufficient bond of indemnity, with two sufficient sureties to be approved by it, conditioned to repay to the persons for whose benefit such deposit or investment was originally made, or to the personal representatives of such persons, all money paid over by the order of the court under this section.

Section 29. If all living parties interested as beneficiaries in a trust created by a will allowed in the commonwealth reside outside thereof, the probate court having jurisdiction of the trust may, on petition of parties in interest or of the executor, administrator or trustee, if it considers it just and expedient, authorize the executor, administrator or trustee to pay the fund to a trustee appointed by the proper court in any other state or country, if all living beneficiaries and the executor, administrator or trustee signify their consent, and the court is satisfied that the laws of such other state or country secure the due performance of said trust; and upon such payment, shown to the satisfaction of said court, the executor, administrator or trustee appointed here may be discharged from further responsibility by decree of said court.

Section 30. If there are contingent interests in such trust fund, whether the persons who may be entitled thereto are in being or not, or if any of the beneficiaries are minors, the court, before making an order or decree, shall cause such interests and minors to be properly represented by guardians ad litem or otherwise at its discretion.

Section 31. The following claims shall, in the settlement of estates by receivers, be entitled to priority in the order named:
First, Debts due the United States or debts due, or taxes assessed by,
the commonwealth or a county, city or town therein.
Second, Wages to an amount of not more than one hundred dollars due an operative, clerk or servant for labor, either performed within one year last preceding the appointment of the receiver or for the payment for which a suit, which was commenced within one year after the performance of the labor, is pending or was terminated within one year after said appointment.
Third, Debts to an amount of not more than fifty dollars due physicians for medical attendance on the debtor or his family, rendered within six months prior to said appointment.

CERTAIN MARRIAGES PROHIBITED.

1 SECTION 1. No man shall marry his mother, grandmother, daughter, granddaughter, sister, stepmother, grandfather's wife, son's wife, grand-son's wife, wife's mother, wife's grandmother, wife's daughter, wife's sister, granddaughter, brother's daughter, sister's daughter, father's or mother's sister.

2 grandchild, brother, stepfather, grandfather's husband, daughter's husband, grand-daughter's husband, husband's father, husband's grand-father, husband's son, brother's son, sister's son, father's brother or mother's brother.

3 chapter two hundred and eight, shall be void.

1 SECTION 5. An insane person, an idiot, or a feeble-minded person under commitment to an institution for the feeble-minded, to the custody or supervision of the department of mental diseases, or to an institution for mental defectives, shall be incapable of contracting marriage. The validity of a marriage shall not be questioned by reason of the insanity, idiocy or of the feeble-mindedness aforesaid of either party.
Marriage during existence of former marriage void, when.

Marriage in the trial of a collateral issue, but shall be raised only in a process instituted in the lifetime of both parties to test such validity.

SECTION 6. If a person, during the lifetime of a husband or wife with whom the marriage is in force, enters into a subsequent marriage contract with due legal ceremony and the parties thereto live together thereafter as husband and wife, and such subsequent marriage contract was entered into by one of the parties in good faith, in the full belief that the former husband or wife was dead, that the former marriage had been annulled by a divorce, or without knowledge of such former marriage, they shall, after the impediment to their marriage has been removed by the death or divorce of the other party to the former marriage, if they continue to live together as husband and wife in good faith on the part of one of them, be held to have been legally married from and after the removal of such impediment, and the issue of such subsequent marriage shall be considered as the legitimate issue of both parents.

Section 7. A magistrate or minister shall not solemnize a marriage if he has reasonable cause to believe that the male is under twenty-one or the female is under eighteen, except with the consent of the parent or guardian having the custody of the minor, if there is any such parent or guardian in the commonwealth competent to act.

Marriages void without decree, when.

Marriages between minors void after separation, etc.

Section 8. A marriage solemnized within the commonwealth which is prohibited by reason of consanguinity or affinity between the parties, or of either of them having a former wife or husband living, shall be void without a decree of divorce or other legal process.

Section 9. A marriage solemnized when either party is under fourteen if a male, or twelve if a female, shall be void without a decree of divorce or other legal process if the parties separate during such nonage and do not afterward cohabit.

R. L. 151, § 9. 1 Gray, 119.

Section 10. If any person residing and intending to continue to reside in this commonwealth is disabled or prohibited from contracting marriage under the laws of this commonwealth and goes into another jurisdiction and there contracts a marriage prohibited and declared void by the laws of this commonwealth, such marriage shall be null and void for all purposes in this commonwealth with the same effect as though such prohibited marriage had been entered into in this commonwealth.

Section 11. No marriage shall be contracted in this commonwealth by a party residing and intending to continue to reside in another jurisdiction if such marriage would be void if contracted in such other jurisdiction, and every marriage contracted in this commonwealth in violation hereof shall be null and void.
1 Section 12. Before issuing a license to marry a person who resides 2 and intends to continue to reside in another state, the officer having 3 authority to issue the license shall satisfy himself, by requiring affidavits 4 or otherwise, that such person is not prohibited from intermarrying by 5 the laws of the jurisdiction where he or she resides.

1 Section 13. The three preceding sections shall be so interpreted and 2 construed as to effectuate their general purpose to make uniform the 3 law of those states which enact like legislation.

1 Section 14. If the validity of a marriage is doubted, either party
2 may file a libel for annulling such marriage, or if it is denied or doubted
3 by either party, the other party may file a libel for affirming the mar-
4 riage. Such libel shall be filed in the same manner as a libel for divorce, 5 and all the provisions of chapter two hundred and eight relative to 6 libels for divorce shall, so far as appropriate, apply to libels under this 7 section. Upon proof of the validity or nullity of the marriage, it shall 8 be affirmed or declared void by a decree of the court, and such decree 9 of nullity may be made although the marriage was solemnized out of the 10 commonwealth, if at that time and also when the libel was filed the 11 libellant had his domicil in the commonwealth, or if he has resided in 12 this commonwealth for five years last preceding the filing of said libel, 13 unless the court finds that he has removed into this commonwealth for 14 the purpose of obtaining said decree.

Legitimacy and Care of Issue of Void Marriages.

1 Section 15. The issue of a marriage declared void by reason of 2 consanguinity or affinity between the parties shall be illegitimate.

1 Section 16. The issue of a marriage declared void by reason of 2 nonage, insanity or idiocy of either party shall be the legitimate issue
3 of the parent who was capable of contracting the marriage.

1 Section 17. If a marriage is declared void by reason of a prior
2 marriage of either party and the court finds that the second marriage 3 was contracted with the full belief of the party who was capable of 4 contracting the second marriage that the former husband or wife was 5 dead, or that the former marriage was void, or that a divorce had been 6 decreed leaving the party to the former marriage free to marry again,
7 such finding shall be stated in the decree, and the issue of the second
8 marriage, if born or begotten before the second marriage was declared
9 void, shall be the legitimate issue of the parent capable of contracting 10 the marriage.

1 Section 18. Upon or after a decree of nullity, the court shall have 2 like power to make orders relative to the care, custody and maintenance
3 of the minor children of the parties as upon a decree of divorce.

Care and maintenance of children of void marriage.
MARRIAGE.

NOTICE OF INTENTION OF MARRIAGE.

SECTION 19. Persons intending to be joined in marriage in the commonwealth shall, not less than five days before their marriage, cause notice of their intention to be filed in the office of the clerk or registrar of the town where each of them dwells, or, if they do not dwell within the commonwealth, in the office of the clerk or registrar of the town where they propose to have the marriage solemnized. In computing the five day period specified in this section and in determining the fifth day referred to in section twenty-eight, Sundays and holidays shall be counted.

SECTION 20. The clerk or registrar shall require written notice of intention of marriage, on blanks furnished by him, containing such information as is required by law and also a statement of absence of any legal impediment to the marriage, to be given him under oath, by both of the parties to such intended marriage if both dwell in his town, or, if the parties dwell in different towns within the state, or if one dwells outside the state, by the party dwelling in his town, or, if both dwell outside the state, by both such parties; provided, that if a registered physician makes affidavit to the satisfaction of the clerk or registrar that a party so required is unable, by reason of illness, to appear, such notice may be given on behalf of such party, by his or her parent or legal guardian, or, in case there is no parent or legal guardian competent to act, by the physician certifying to the illness, or by the other party irrespective of such other party's residence. The oath to such notice shall be to the truth of all the statements contained therein wherein of the party subscribing the same could have knowledge, and may be given before the clerk or registrar or before a regularly employed clerk in his office designated by him in writing and made a matter of record in the office. No fee shall be charged for administering such oath. In towns having an assistant clerk or registrar, he may administer the oath.

SECTION 21. Persons filing such notice of intention, one or both of whom have previously been married and divorced, shall file therewith a certificate or certified copy from the clerk or corresponding official of the court or other tribunal by which the divorce was granted, showing the title and location of the tribunal and the names of the parties to the proceeding for divorce, and showing which party obtained the divorce, the cause therefor and the date when the decree became absolute. If there has been more than one divorce, the said certificate or certified copy as to every such divorce shall accompany the notice of intention.

SECTION 22. If a person cannot obtain the certificate or certified copy described in the preceding section, he shall apply to the judge of probate in the county where the notice of intention is to be filed and state under oath the facts required to be stated in the said certificate or certified copy, and the reasons why such certificate or certified copy cannot be obtained. The judge of probate, if satisfied of the truth of the statements so made to him, shall thereupon grant to the party a certificate stating the facts required, and such certificate shall be filed with the notice of intention.
Section 23. The clerk or registrar need not receive notices of intention of marriage on Sunday or a legal holiday, nor at any place except his office.

1894, 409, § 3. R. L. 151, § 18.

Section 24. The clerk or registrar shall not, except as provided in the following section, receive a notice of the intention of marriage of a male under eighteen, nor of a female under sixteen.

1894, 401, § 1. R. L. 151, § 19.

Section 25. The probate court for the county where, or a district court within the judicial district of which, a minor under the age specified in the preceding section resides may, after hearing, make an order allowing the marriage of such minor, if the parents or surviving parent of such minor, or, if only one such parent resides in the commonwealth, that parent, or, if neither such parent is alive and a resident thereof, or if the parent or parents qualified as aforesaid to consent are disqualified as hereinafter provided, a legal guardian with custody of the person of such minor has consented to such order. If a parent has deserted his family, or if found to be insane and incapable of consent, or if found unfit under the provisions of section five of chapter two hundred and one to have custody of such minor, it shall not be necessary to obtain his consent to such order. If a parent whose consent would be required if living in the commonwealth lives outside thereof and the address of such parent is known, such notice of the proceedings shall be given him as the probate or district court may order. Said court may also after hearing make such order in the case of a person whose age is alleged to exceed that specified in the preceding section, but who is unable to produce an official record of birth, whereby the reasonable doubt of the clerk or registrar, as exercised under section thirty-five, may be removed. Upon receipt of a certified copy of such order by the clerk or registrar of the town where such minor resides, he shall receive the notice required by law and issue a certificate as in other cases.

Section 26. Whoever, without the consent of both parties to an intended marriage, gives the notice of their intention of marriage required by law shall be liable in damages to either of such parties whose name was so used without such consent. The superior court, upon petition of either party alleged to intend marriage in such a notice given without the consent of both parties, and not followed by their intermarriage, may, after notice and a hearing, order that such notice of intention be cancelled in the town records.

Section 27. A party to an intended marriage who has been legally adopted shall, in the notice of intention thereof, give the names of his parents by adoption; and the names of his parents may also be added. The consent of a parent by adoption to the marriage of a minor shall be sufficient if the consent of a parent of a minor is required by law as a preliminary to marriage. If the natural parents of a minor have been divorced and the consent of one of them is required by law, preliminary to the marriage of such minor, the consent of the parent having the custody of such minor shall be sufficient.
Section 28. On or after the fifth day from the filing of notice of intention of marriage, except as otherwise provided, but not in any event later than six months after such filing, the clerk or registrar shall deliver to the parties a certificate signed by him, specifying the date when notice was filed with him and all facts relative to the marriage which are required by law to be ascertained and recorded, except those relative to the person by whom the marriage is to be solemnized. Such certificate shall be delivered to the minister or magistrate before whom the marriage is to be contracted, before he proceeds to solemnize the same. If such certificate is not sooner used, it shall be returned to the office issuing it within six months after the date when notice of intention of marriage was filed.

Section 29. If either of the parties to an intended marriage has arrived as an immigrant from a foreign country within five days, the notice of intention may be filed at any time before the marriage, and the certificate required by the preceding section shall be issued at any time after the filing of such intention.

Section 30. Upon application by both of the parties to an intended marriage, when both parties are residents of the commonwealth or both parties are non-residents, or upon application of the party residing within the commonwealth when one of the parties is a resident and the other a non-resident, a judge of probate or a justice of a district court may, after hearing such evidence as is presented, grant a certificate stating that in his opinion it is expedient that the intended marriage be solemnized without delay. Upon presentation of such a certificate, or, in extraordinary or emergency cases when the death of either party is imminent, upon the authoritative request of a minister, clergyman, priest, rabbi or attending physician, the clerk or registrar of the town where the notice of intention has been filed shall at once issue the certificate prescribed in section twenty-eight.

Section 31. No alteration or erasure shall be made by any person on the certificate under section twenty-eight until it has been returned to the clerk or registrar, and then only in such form and to such extent as he may prescribe. Any such certificate may be recorded after correction in accordance herewith.

Section 32. The clerk or registrar shall not issue a certificate under section twenty-eight, if either of the parties has been previously married and divorced, unless the certificate or certified copy described in section twenty-one or the certificate described in section twenty-two is filed with the notice of intention of marriage, and in such cases, if he issues the certificate of entry of notice of intention, he shall attach thereto such certified copy or certificate, which shall be a part thereof.

Section 33. The clerk or registrar shall not issue the certificate under section twenty-eight before the time therein specified, except as otherwise provided; nor to a male under twenty-one, or to a female under eighteen, when he has reasonable cause to believe the person to be under such age, except upon the application or consent in writing of 6 the parent or guardian of such person or by order of the probate or dis-
7 trict court under section twenty-five. If there is no parent or guardian
8 in this commonwealth competent to act, a certificate may be issued 9 without such application or consent. Such certificate shall not be issued 10 if a parent or guardian whose consent is required thereto has withdrawn 11 such consent by a writing filed with the clerk or registrar.

1 Section 33A. If it appears from the statements made in the writ-
2 ten notice of intention of marriage that a party to such intended mar-
3 riage is under twenty-one, if a male, or under eighteen if a female, the 4 clerk or registrar shall not, except as required under section twenty-five, 5 issue a certificate under section twenty-eight before receiving proof of 6 the age of the parties. Such proof shall be contained in any of the fol-7 lowing documents, graded and taking precedence in the order named:
8 (1) an original or certified copy of a record of birth; (2) an original or 9 certified copy of a baptismal record; (3) a passport; (4) a life insurance 10 policy; (5) an employment certificate; (6) a school record; (7) an immi-
11 gration record; (8) a naturalization record; or (9) a court record. Doc-12 umentary evidence of a lower grade as aforesaid shall not be received 13 by the clerk or registrar unless he is satisfied that evidence of a higher 14 grade is not readily procurable. If no such documentary proof of age 15 is procurable, the consent of the parent shall be sufficient. If the clerk
16 or registrar has reasonable cause to believe that a party to an intended 17 marriage represented to be twenty-one or over, if a male, or eighteen or 18 over, if a female, is under such age, he shall, before issuing such certifi-19 cate, require documentary proof of age as aforesaid.

1 Section 34. If it is necessary to give notice in two towns of the 2 intention of marriage of a minor, the clerk or registrar who first takes 3 the consent of the parent or guardian shall take it in duplicate, retaining 4 one copy and delivering the other duly attested by him to the person
5 obtaining the certificate, to be given to the clerk or registrar issuing 6 the second certificate; and no fee shall be charged for such consent 7 or copy.

1 Section 35. The clerk or registrar may refuse to issue a certificate
2 if he has reasonable cause to believe that any of the statements con-
3 tained in the notice of intention of marriage are incorrect; but he may,
4 in his discretion, accept depositions under oath, made before him, which 5 shall be sufficient proof of the facts therein stated to authorize the 6 issuing of a certificate. He may also dispense with the statement of any 7 facts required by law to be given in a notice of intention of marriage,
8 if they do not relate to or affect the identification or age of the parties,
9 or a former marriage of either party, if he is satisfied that the same 10 cannot with reasonable effort be obtained.

1 Section 36. If a marriage is solemnized in another state between 2 parties living in this commonwealth, who return to dwell here, they 3 shall, within seven days after their return, file with the clerk or registrar
4 of the town where either of them lived at the time of their marriage a 5 certificate or declaration of their marriage, including the facts required 6 in a notice of intention of marriage.

[Penalty, § 53.]
List of impediments to marriage to be posted in office of clerk or registrar.
1913, 752, § 1.

Section 37. The state secretary shall furnish to the clerk or registrar of every town a printed list of all legal impediments to marriage, and the clerk or registrar shall forthwith post and thereafter maintain it in a conspicuous place in his office.

[Penalty, § 52.]

Solemnization of marriage.

Section 38. A marriage may be solemnized in any place within the commonwealth by a minister of the gospel who resides in the commonwealth and who is recognized by his church or denomination as duly ordained and in good and regular standing as a minister of such church or denomination; by a rabbi of the Israelitish faith, duly licensed by a congregation of said faith established in the commonwealth, who has filed with the clerk or registrar of the city or town where he resides a certificate of the establishment of the synagogue, the date of his appointment thereto and of the term of his engagement; by a justice of the peace if he is also clerk or assistant clerk of a city or town, or a registrar or assistant registrar, in the city or town where he holds such office, or, if he is also clerk or assistant clerk of a court, in the city or town where the court is authorized to be held, or, if he has been designated as provided in the following section and has received a certificate of designation and has qualified thereunder, in the city or town where he resides; and it may be solemnized among Friends or Quakers according to the usage of their societies; but no person shall solemnize a marriage in the commonwealth unless he can read and write the English language.

Churches and other religious organizations shall file in the office of the state secretary information relating to persons recognized or licensed as aforesaid, in such form and at such times as the secretary may require.

Section 39. The governor may in his discretion designate a justice of the peace in each town and such further number, not exceeding one for every five thousand inhabitants of a city or town, as he considers expedient, to solemnize marriages, and may for cause at any time revoke such designation. The state secretary, upon payment of five dollars to him by a justice of the peace so designated, shall issue to him a certificate of such designation. The governor may also in his discretion designate a minister of the gospel or rabbi who resides out of the commonwealth to solemnize a specified marriage, and the state secretary shall issue to him a certificate of such designation. A minister or rabbi so designated, after qualifying under said certificate, may solemnize said marriage in any place within the commonwealth.

Section 40. Every justice of the peace, minister, rabbi and clerk or keeper of the records of a meeting wherein marriages among Friends or Quakers are solemnized shall make and keep a record of each marriage solemnized by him, or in such meeting, and of all facts relative to the marriage required to be recorded by section one of chapter forty-six. He shall also, between the first and tenth days of the month following each marriage solemnized by him, return each certificate issued under section twenty-eight to the clerk or registrar who issued the same; and if the marriage was solemnized in a town other than the place or places where the parties to the marriage resided, return a copy of the certificate, or of either certificate if two were issued, to the clerk or registrar.
12 of the town where the marriage was solemnized. Each certificate and copy so returned shall contain a statement giving the place and date of marriage, attested by the signature of the person who solemnized the same or of said clerk or keeper of the records of a Friends or Quaker meeting. The person who solemnized the marriage shall add the title of the office by virtue of which the marriage was solemnized, as "justice of the peace", "minister of the gospel", "clergyman", "priest" or "rabbi", and his residence. All certificates or copies so returned shall be recorded by the clerk or registrar receiving them.

1 Section 41. If a certificate of marriage is found, upon its return to the clerk or registrar, to have been incorrectly filled out by the person who solemnized a marriage under it, the clerk or registrar shall have it corrected and shall enforce the penalties provided by law relative thereto. Such imperfect certificates shall be recorded and indexed by the clerk or registrar.

1 Section 42. A marriage solemnized by a person professing to be a justice of the peace having authority to solemnize marriages, a minister of the gospel or a rabbi, or solemnized among Friends or Quakers according to their usages, shall not be void, nor shall the validity thereof be in any way affected by want of authority in such person or society, or by an omission or by informality in the manner of filing the notice of intention, if the marriage is in other respects lawful and is consummated with a full belief of either of the persons so married that they have been lawfully married.

155 Mass. 534.

1 Section 43. Marriages solemnized in a foreign country by a consul or diplomatic agent of the United States shall be valid in this commonwealth.

1 Section 44. A city by ordinance and a town by vote may authorize its clerk or registrar to pay on demand, in his office, twenty-five cents to any person who has legally solemnized a marriage in the commonwealth, after the receipt by such clerk or registrar of the certificate of legal form of the solemnization of such marriage. A city or town which passes such ordinance or vote shall annually appropriate the necessary therefor, and the clerk or registrar thereof shall file quarterly with the treasurer or other proper financial officer of said city or town proper vouchers for all such payments.

EVIDENCE OF MARRIAGE.

1 Section 45. The record of a marriage made and kept as provided by law by the person by whom the marriage was solemnized, or by the clerk or registrar, or a copy thereof duly certified, shall be prima facie evidence of such marriage.

1 Section 46. A copy of the record of a marriage solemnized by a consul or diplomatic agent of the United States or a certificate from such consul or agent shall be prima facie evidence of such marriage.

SECTION 2. A divorce may also be decreed if either party has been sentenced to confinement at hard labor for life or for five years or more in the state prison, a jail, house of correction or reformatory for women; and, after a divorce for such cause, no pardon granted to the party so sentenced shall restore such party to his or her conjugal rights.

SECTION 3. A divorce may be decreed for any of the causes allowed by the two preceding sections although the libellee has been continuously absent for such time and under such circumstances as would raise a presumption of death.

SECTION 4. A divorce shall not, except as provided in the following section, be decreed if the parties have never lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth; nor for a cause which occurred in another jurisdiction, unless before such cause occurred the parties had lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, and one of them lived in this commonwealth at the time when the cause occurred.

236. Mass. 256.
Section 5. If the libellant has lived in this commonwealth for five years last preceding the filing of the libel, or if both parties were inhabitants of this commonwealth at the time of their marriage and the libellant has lived in this commonwealth for three years last preceding such filing, a divorce may be decreed for any cause allowed by law, whether it occurred in this commonwealth or elsewhere, unless it appears that the libellant has removed into this commonwealth for the purpose of obtaining a divorce.

Section 6. Libels for divorce shall be filed, heard and determined in the superior court or probate court, held for the county where one of the parties lives, except that, if the libellant has left the county where the parties lived together, the libellee still lives therein, the libel shall be heard and determined in a court held for that county.

Section 6A. Libel to be signed by the libellant, if of sound mind and of legal age to consent to marriage; otherwise, it may be signed by the guardian of the libellant or by a person admitted by the court to act as his next friend.

Section 8. The court or the clerk or the register of probate may order the libellee to be summoned to appear and answer at the court having jurisdiction of the cause, by the publication of such a form of notice, as it or he may require, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order, or by delivering to the libellee an attested copy of the libel and a summons, or in such other manner as it or he may require. If such order is made by the clerk or register, the court may order an additional notice. If the libellee does not appear and the court consents the notice defective or insufficient, it may order further notice. Personal service of the libel may be made upon the libellee, if outside of the commonwealth, by a sheriff or deputy sheriff of the commonwealth or by any duly constituted public officer qualified to serve like process in the place in which service is made, and when so made no publication shall be required.

Section 9. A person named as co-respondent in an amended libel, cross libel or answer may appear and contest the charge of adultery therein made against him.

Section 9A. Libel for divorce, wherein the commission of adultery is alleged as ground for the divorce or as the ground for contesting the divorce, no libel, cross libel or answer at the time of filing is required.
shall name any person as co-respondent. The party alleging such adultery may by motion, after the libel has been entered, upon an ex parte hearing before a justice or judge of the court having jurisdiction, obtain permission to amend his libel, cross libel or answer by inserting the name of the co-respondent if the justice or judge finds probable cause has been shown that such accused person has committed adultery as alleged, and thereupon notice shall be sent to said co-respondent and to the other party to the libel.

Section 11. The evidence produced at such ex parte hearing shall not be reported or made a part of the record in the case and the motion for said amendment shall not be read to the court during the divorce proceedings, but the clerk of the court or register of probate shall make an entry in the docket of "Motion to insert name of co-respondent allowed", or "Motion to insert name of co-respondent denied", as the case may be. If the amendment is allowed upon affidavits, they shall be retained by the court and placed in the custody of the clerk of the court for the county where the divorce proceedings are brought or of the register of probate for the county aforesaid, as the case may be, and shall be open for the purposes of inspection, and taking copies thereof, to counsel of record, or the libellee or any co-respondent named in the amended libel.

Section 12. Upon a libel by a wife for divorce for a cause accruing after marriage, the real and personal property of the husband may be attached to secure suitable support and maintenance to her and to such children as may be committed to her care and custody.

Section 13. The attachment may be made upon the summons issued upon the libel, in the same manner as attachments are made upon writs in actions at law, for an amount which shall be expressed in the summons or order of notice. The attachment may be made by trustee process, in which case there shall be inserted in the summons or order of notice a direction to attach the goods, effects and credits of the libellee in the hands of the alleged trustee, and service shall be made upon the trustee by copy. If attachment is made by trustee process, the libel shall be filed as provided in section six notwithstanding the provisions of section two of chapter two hundred and forty-six. The court may in such cases make all necessary orders to secure to the trustee his costs. The attachment may be made by injunction, as in suits in equity, to reach shares of stock or other property which cannot be reached to be attached as in an action at law, and the property so attached may thereafter, by appropriate order, be applied to the satisfaction of any order or decree for the payment of money by the husband to the wife for her support or that of the children.

Section 14. The laws relative to attachments of real or personal property shall apply to attachments herein provided for, so far as they are consistent with the two preceding sections.

Section 15. If during the pendency of a libel the libellee is insane, the court shall appoint a suitable guardian to appear and answer in like 3 manner as a guardian for an infant defendant in an action at law may be 4 appointed. The compensation of such guardian shall be determined by 5 the court and, together with his necessary expenses, shall be paid by the 6 libellant if the court so orders.

1 SECTION 16. Any justice of the superior court or judge of a probate 2 court wherein any libel for divorce is pending may appoint an attorney 3 to investigate and report to the court in relation thereto and may direct 4 such attorney, or any other attorney, to defend the libel. The attorney 5 may be appointed either before or after a decree of divorce nisi has been 6 granted, and may enter objections to such decree nisi becoming absolute 7 in the same manner as the libellee. His compensation shall be fixed by 8 the court, and shall be paid by the county where the libel is pending, 9 together with any expenses approved by the court, upon certificate by 10 a justice or the judge thereof to the county treasurer. The state police, 11 local police and probation officers shall assist the attorneys so appointed, 12 upon his request.

1 SECTION 17. The court may require the husband to pay into court 2 for the use of the wife during the pendency of the libel an amount to 3 enable her to maintain or defend the libel, and to pay to the wife alimony 4 during the pendency of the libel.

1 SECTION 18. The superior court sitting in any county or the probate 2 court in which the libel is pending may, upon petition of the wife, pro 3 hibit the husband from imposing any restraint upon her personal liberty 4 during the pendency of the libel.

1 SECTION 19. The court may in like manner, upon application of either 2 party, make such order relative to the care and custody of the minor 3 children of the parties during the pendency of the libel as it may consider 4 expedient and for the benefit of the children.

1 SECTION 20. The court may, without entering a decree of divorce, 2 order the libel continued upon the docket from time to time, and during 3 such continuance may make orders and derees relative to a temporary 4 separation of the parties, the separate maintenance of the wife and the 5 custody and support of minor children. Such orders and decrees may 6 be changed or annulled as the court may determine, and shall, while 7 they are in force, supersede any order or decree of the probate court 8 under section thirty-two of chapter two hundred and nine and may 9 suspend the right of said court to act under said section.

1 SECTION 21. Decrees of divorce shall in the first instance be decrees 2 nisi, and shall become absolute after the expiration of six months from the 3 entry thereof, unless the court within said period, for sufficient cause, 4 upon application of any party interested, otherwise orders.

DIVORCE.

Section 22. A libel for divorce for desertion shall not be defeated by a temporary return or other act of the libellee if the court finds that such return or other act was not made or done in good faith, but with intent to defeat such libel.

General provisions.

Section 23. The court granting a divorce to a woman may allow her to resume her maiden name or that of a former husband.

Section 24. After a decree of divorce has become absolute, either party may marry again as if the other were dead, except that the party from whom the divorce was granted shall not marry within two years after the decree has become absolute.

Section 25. A divorce for adultery committed by the wife shall not affect the legitimacy of the issue of the marriage, but such legitimacy, if questioned, shall be tried and determined according to the course of the common law.

Section 26. Upon a divorce for adultery committed by the wife, her title to her separate real and personal property during her life shall not be affected, except that the court may decree to the husband so much of such property as it considers necessary for the support of any minor children of the marriage decreed to the husband's custody; and if the wife afterward contracts a lawful marriage, the interest of the divorced husband in the wife's separate real and personal property, after her death, shall cease, except in so much thereof as may have been decreed to him as herein provided.

R. L. 152, § 24. 2 Pick. 316. 128 Mass. 34. 214 Mass. 204.

Section 27. After a divorce, a wife shall not be entitled to dower in the land of her husband, unless, after a decree of divorce nisi granted upon the libel of the wife, the husband dies before such decree becomes absolute; but if the divorce was for the cause of adultery committed by the husband or because of his sentence to confinement at hard labor, she shall be entitled to her dower in the same manner as if he were dead.

P. S. 146, § 29.

Section 28. Upon decree of divorce, or petition of either parent, or of a next friend in behalf of the children, after notice to both parents, after such decree, the court may make such decree as it considers expedient relative to the care, custody and maintenance of the minor children of the parties, and may determine with which of the parents the children or any of them shall remain, or may award their custody to

P. S. 146, § 29.
7 some third person if it seems expedient or for the benefit of the children;
8 and afterward may from time to time, upon the petition of either parent,
9 or of a next friend, revise and alter such decree or make a new decree, 10 as the circumstances of the parents and the benefit of the children may 11 require.

1 Section 29. If, after a divorce has been decreed in another juris-2 diction, minor children of the marriage are inhabitants of or residents in 3 this commonwealth, the superior court or a probate court for the county in 4 which said minors or any of them are inhabitants or residents, upon 5 petition of either parent or of a next friend in behalf of the children, after 6 notice to both parents, shall have the same power to make decrees relative 7 to their care, custody, education and maintenance, and to revise and 8 alter such decrees or make new decrees, as if the divorce had been de-9 creed in this commonwealth.

1 Section 30. A minor child of divorced parents who is a native of or 2 has resided five years within this commonwealth and over whose custody
3 and maintenance the superior court or a probate court has jurisdiction
4 shall not, if of suitable age to signify his consent, be removed out of this 5 commonwealth without such consent, or, if under that age, without the 6 consent of both parents, unless the court upon cause shown otherwise 7 orders. The court, upon application of any person in behalf of such 8 child, may require security and issue writs and processes to effect the 9 purposes of this and the two preceding sections.

1 Section 31. In making an order or decree relative to the custody of 2 children pending a controversy between their parents, or relative to their 3 final possession, the rights of the parents shall, in the absence of mis-
4 conduct, be held to be equal, and the happiness and welfare of the children
5 shall determine their custody or possession.

1 Section 32. Any court having jurisdiction of libels for divorce or for 2 nullity of marriage, of petitions for separate support or maintenance, or 3 of any other proceeding in which the care and custody of any child is 4 drawn in question, may issue a writ of habeas corpus to bring before 5 it such child. The writ may be made returnable forthwith before the 6 court by which it is issued, and, upon its return, said court may make 7 any appropriate order or decree relative to the child who may thus be 8 brought before it.

1 Section 33. The court may, if the course of proceeding is not 2 specially prescribed, hear and determine all matters coming within the 3 purview of this chapter according to the course of proceedings in eccle-4 siastical courts or in courts of equity, and may issue process of attach-5 ment and execution and all other proper and necessary processes.

DIVORCE. [CHAP. 208.

Section 34. Upon a divorce, or upon petition at any time after a divorce, the court may decree alimony to the wife, or a part of her estate, in the nature of alimony, to the husband.

Section 35. The court may enforce decrees for allowance, alimony or allowance in the nature of alimony, in the same manner as it may enforce decrees in equity.

Section 36. When alimony or an annual allowance is decreed for the wife or children, the court may require sufficient security for its payment according to the decree.

Section 37. After a decree for alimony or an annual allowance for the wife or children, the court may, from time to time, upon the petition of either party, revise and alter its decree relative to the amount of such alimony or annual allowance and the payment thereof, and may make any decree relative thereto which it might have made in the original suit.

Section 38. In proceedings under this chapter, the court may award costs in its discretion.

Section 39. A divorce decreed in another jurisdiction according to the laws thereof by a court having jurisdiction of the cause and of both the parties shall be valid and effectual in this commonwealth; but if an inhabitant of this commonwealth goes into another jurisdiction to obtain a divorce for a cause occurring here while the parties resided here, or for a cause which would not authorize a divorce by the laws of this commonwealth, a divorce so obtained shall be of no force or effect in this commonwealth.

Criminal Provisions.

Section 40. Persons divorced from each other cohabiting as husband and wife or living together in the same house shall be held to be guilty of adultery.

Section 41. Whoever falsely personates another or willfully and fraudulently procures a person so to do, or fraudulently procures false... testimony to be given, or makes a false or fraudulent return of service of process upon a libel for divorce or in any proceeding connected therewith, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than two years.

1 Section 42. Whoever knowingly procures or obtains or assists another to procure or obtain any false, counterfeit or fraudulent decree of divorce from a court of another state for or in favor of a person who at the time of making application therefor was a resident of this commonwealth, such court not having jurisdiction to grant such decree, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months.

1 Section 43. Whoever writes, prints or publishes, or solicits another to write, print or publish, any notice, circular or advertisement soliciting employment in the business of procuring divorces or offering inducements for the purpose of procuring such employment shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months.

1 Section 44. Whoever, except in compliance with an order of a court of competent jurisdiction, gives, signs or issues any writing purporting to be a certificate that a divorce has been granted to such persons, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the jail for not more than three years, or both.

1 Section 45. If a divorce is granted for a cause constituting a crime, other than adultery, committed within the commonwealth and within the time provided by law for making complaints and finding indictments therefor, the court granting the divorce may, in its discretion, cause notice of such facts to be given by the clerk of the court or register of probate to the district attorney for the district where such crime was committed, with a list of the witnesses proving such crime and any other information which it considers proper; but if the divorce is granted because of adultery the court shall cause notice of such facts, information and list of witnesses to be given to the district attorney, and thereupon the district attorney may cause complaint therefor to be made before a magistrate having jurisdiction thereof, or may present the evidence thereof to the grand jury.

Statistics of Divorce.

1 Section 46. The clerks of the courts, the clerk of the superior court for civil business in Suffolk county and the registers of probate shall annually, in February, make returns for the last preceding calendar year to the state secretary, upon suitable blank forms provided by him, of the number of libels pending at the beginning of the year, the number of libels filed within the year, the number of divorces granted, the number of divorces refused, the number of libels contested, the number of libels uncontested, the alleged cause for divorce in each case, the sex of

P. S. 147, § 9.

SECTION 9. Contracts made by a married woman relative to her separate property, trade, business, labor or services shall not, except as provided in the following section, bind her husband or render him or his property liable therefor; but she and her separate property shall be liable on such contracts in the same manner as if she were sole.

SECTION 10. If a married woman does or proposes to do business on her separate account, she shall cause to be recorded in the clerk’s office of the town where she does or proposes to do such business a certificate stating her name and that of her husband, the nature of the business and the place where it is or is proposed to be carried on, giving, if practicable, the street and number, and the name, which shall not be her husband’s, under which she proposes to carry on business. If the nature of the business or the place where or the name under which it is carried on is changed, a new certificate shall be recorded accordingly. If she fails to cause such certificates to be recorded her husband may do so. If such certificates are not so recorded by either husband or wife, the personal property employed in such business shall be liable to be attached as the property of the husband and to be taken on execution against him, and the husband shall be liable upon all contracts lawfully made in the prosecution of such business in the same manner and to the same extent as if such contracts had been made by him. This section shall not, however, affect the rights of any person under any certificate filed or recorded prior to August first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight.

§ 1. Section 11. The town clerk shall, upon receipt of twenty-five cents, record said certificate in a book kept therefor, noting therein and on the certificate the time when received; and a certificate shall be considered as recorded at the time when left for record. The clerk shall keep an index of all such certificates.

§ 2. Section 12. The probate court may, upon petition of a married woman having separate property, appoint a trustee to hold the same in trust for her, to whom she may thereupon convey it upon such trusts and to such uses as she may declare. The trustee may prosecute and defend all actions relative to such property brought by or against her; and the property in his hands shall be liable to be attached or taken on execution in any such action.

§ 3. Section 13. The twelve preceding sections shall not invalidate a marriage settlement or contract.

PROVISIONS IF HUSBAND OR WIFE IS UNDER DISABILITY.

§ 4. Section 14. If the guardian or conservator of a married man is licensed to sell real estate of his ward, the wife of the ward may join with the guardian or conservator in the conveyance, and release dower and homestead in the granted property, in like manner as she might have done by joining in a conveyance thereof made by her husband if he had been under no legal disability.

§ 5. Section 15. If such guardian or conservator is licensed to sell the interest of the ward in any real estate of his wife, the wife may join with the guardian or conservator in the conveyance, and convey all her estate and interest in the granted property in like manner as she might have done by a conveyance thereof made jointly with her husband, if he had been under no legal disability.

§ 6. Section 16. If the wife so releases her dower or homestead, or so conveys her own estate, the proceeds of the sale may be so invested and disposed of as to secure to her, and to the minor children of the owner if it is an estate of homestead, the same rights in the principal and income thereof as she or they would have had therein if it had not been sold. An agreement made between her and the guardian or conservator for securing and disposing of the proceeds or any part thereof for the purpose aforesaid, if approved by the probate court for the county where the guardian or conservator was appointed, or, in default of such agreement, an order therefor made by the probate court, shall be valid and binding on all persons interested in the granted property or in said proceeds, and may be enforced by the court or by an action at law.

§ 7. Section 17. The wife of a man under guardianship or conservatorship may join with his guardian or conservator, and the guardian or conservator of a woman may join with her husband, in making partition of her real estate which is held in joint tenancy or in common, and they may dispose of proceeds of such sales.
make any release or other conveyance necessary or proper therefor, as the parties might do if neither of them were under legal disability. 5

SECTION 18. The husband or wife of an insane person desiring to convey his or her real estate absolutely or by mortgage may file a petition in the probate court describing such real estate and praying that the wife's dower or homestead or the husband's curtesy therein may be released, and stating the facts and reasons why the prayer of the petition should be granted. The court may, after notice and a hearing, by a decree authorize the guardian of the insane person to make the release by joining in any deed or deeds, mortgage or mortgages of the whole or a part of said real estate which is or are made within five years after said decree by the husband or wife of the insane person or by a trustee for such husband or wife.

SECTION 19. If the guardian of an insane husband is authorized under the preceding section to release such curtesy, and the probate court finds that a portion of the proceeds of such real estate, or of an amount loaned on mortgage thereof, should be reserved for the use of such ward, it may order a certain portion, not exceeding one third of the net amount, if it is in respect of the tenancy by the curtesy by statute, or of the proceeds or amount actually realized from such sale or mortgage, exclusive of any encumbrance then existing on said real estate, to be set aside and paid over to such guardian, to be invested and held for the benefit of the husband during his life if he survives his wife. The income of such portion shall be received and enjoyed by the wife during the life of her husband, or until otherwise ordered by the court for cause. If she survives him, the principal shall upon his death be paid over to her, but if she does not survive him, to her heirs, executors or administrators.

SECTION 20. If the guardian of an insane wife is authorized under section eighteen to release the dower of his ward, and the probate court finds that a portion of the proceeds of such real estate, or of an amount loaned on mortgage thereof, should be reserved for the use of such ward, it may order a certain portion, not exceeding one third of the net amount of the proceeds or amount actually realized from such sale or mortgage, exclusive of any encumbrance then existing on said real estate, to be set aside and paid over to such guardian, to be invested and held for the benefit of the wife during her life if she survives her husband. The income of such portion shall be received and enjoyed by the husband during the life of his wife, or until otherwise ordered by the court for cause. If he survives her, the principal shall upon her death be paid over to him, but if he does not survive her, to his heirs, executors or administrators.

SECTION 21. If the guardian of an insane wife is authorized under section eighteen to release an estate of homestead, and the probate court finds that a portion of the proceeds of the real estate sold, or of an amount loaned on mortgage thereof, should be reserved for the use of the ward, it may order a certain portion, not exceeding eight hundred dollars, to be set aside and paid over to such guardian to be invested in a homestead, and held by him for the benefit of his ward, if she survives her husband; the rent or use thereof to be received and enjoyed by the husband dur-
9 ing the life of his wife, or until otherwise ordered by the court for cause; 10 and the homestead to be his, and to be conveyed to him by said guardian, 11 if he survives her.

1 Section 22. If the husband or wife of an insane person conveys real 2 estate in trust without a power of revocation and makes a provision 3 therein for the insane husband or wife, respectively, which the probate 4 court, upon petition, after notice and hearing, finds is sufficient in lieu 5 of curtesy or dower, the trustee may convey such real estate free from all 6 right of curtesy or dower.

1 Section 23. The court, under the preceding section, may find that 2 the provision for the husband or wife is sufficient in lieu of curtesy or 3 dower either in the whole or in particular portions of the real estate of 4 the husband or wife, and thereupon the guardian of such insane husband 5 or wife may be authorized to release the curtesy or dower in the whole or 6 in particular portions thereof.

1 Section 24. Proceedings under the six preceding sections shall, if 2 the husband or wife of such insane person is an inhabitant of this com- 3 monwealth, be in the county where he or she resides; otherwise, in a 4 county where any of his or her real estate is situated; and a certified copy 5 of all final orders or decrees in such proceedings shall be recorded in the 6 registry of deeds in every county or district where such real estate lies.

MARRIAGE CONTRACTS.

1 Section 25. At any time before marriage, the parties may make a 2 written contract providing that, after the marriage is solemnized, the 3 whole or any designated part of the real or personal property or any right 4 of action, of which either party may be seized or possessed at the time 5 of the marriage, shall remain or become the property of the husband or 6 wife, according to the terms of the contract. Such contract may limit 7 to the husband or wife an estate in fee or for life in the whole or any part 8 of the property, and may designate any other lawful limitations. All 9 such limitations shall take effect at the time of the marriage in like 10 manner as if they had been contained in a deed conveying the property 11 limited.

1 Section 26. A schedule of the property intended to be affected, con- 2 taining a sufficiently clear description thereof to enable a creditor of the 3 husband or wife to distinguish it from other property, shall be annexed 4 to such contract; and such contract and schedule shall, either before the 5 marriage or within ninety days thereafter, be recorded in the registry of 6 deeds for the county or district where the husband resides at the time of 7 the record, or, if he is not a resident of this commonwealth, then in the 8 registry of deeds for the county or district where the wife resides at the 9 time of the record, if it is made before the marriage, or where she last 10 resided, if made after the marriage. If the contract is not so recorded, it 11 shall be void except as between the parties thereto and their heirs and 12 personal representatives. It shall also be recorded in the registry of 13 deeds for every county or district where there is land to which it relates.

Section 27. A female minor who has become eighteen may join with her guardian in making such marriage contract, and for such purpose the guardian and ward may convey her real and personal property to trustees approved by the probate court having jurisdiction over said minor, to be held upon the trusts declared in such contract, and such conveyance shall have like effect as if said minor were of full age, and the guardian in the settlement of his accounts shall be allowed by the probate court for all property so conveyed to said trustees. The court may require said trustees to give bond with sufficient sureties for the faithful performance of their trust.

Married women coming from other states, etc.

Section 28. If a married woman comes from another state or country into this commonwealth without her husband, who has never lived with her in this commonwealth, she shall have all the rights and powers given to married women by the foregoing sections, and may transact business, make contracts, sue and be sued in her own name, and dispose of her property which may be found here, in like manner as if she were sole.

Married women abandoned by their husbands, etc.

Section 30. A probate court, upon petition of a married woman whose husband abandoning and not sufficiently maintaining her has abandoned himself from this commonwealth, or has been sentenced to confinement in the state prison, may authorize her to sell, convey, receive and receipt for her real and personal property, any personal property which may have come to her husband by reason of the marriage and remains in this commonwealth undisposed of by him or any personal property to which he is entitled in her right, and to use and dispose of the same or the proceeds thereof, during his absence or imprisonment, as if she were sole; and the authority so granted shall continue until the husband returns to this commonwealth and claims his marital rights, or is discharged from prison. Such petition may be filed, heard and determined in the probate court in any county, and notice shall be given as provided in case of divorce libels when the libellee is out of this commonwealth.

Sale of real estate by non-resident married woman. 1914, 477.
10 the petitioner to sell and convey within one year from the date of such 11 decree such real estate as if she were sole.

1 Section 32. If a husband fails, without justifiable cause, to provide
2 suitable support for his wife, or deserts her, or if the wife, for justifiable
3 cause, is actually living apart from her husband, or if the husband is 4 deserted by the wife, or is actually living apart from his wife for justifi-5 able cause, the probate court may, upon his or her petition, or if he or 6 she is insane, upon the petition of the guardian or next friend, prohibit 7 the husband or wife from imposing any restraint on the personal liberty 8 of the other during such time as the court shall by its order direct or 9 until the further order of the court thereon; and upon the application 10 of the husband or wife or of the guardian of either, the court may make 11 further orders relative to the support of the wife and the care, custody 12 and maintenance of their minor children, may determine with which of 13 their parents the children or any of them shall remain and may, from 14 time to time, upon a similar application, revise and alter such order or 15 make a new order or decree, as the circumstances of the parents or the 16 benefit of the children may require.

1 Section 32A. If in any proceedings under section thirty-two, adultery or any other specific criminal act with a third person is alleged in the petition, answer, or in any bill of particulars or specifications, or if any allegations are made in such pleadings which would be derogatory 5 to the character or reputation of a third person, if named therein, the 6 pleadings shall not contain the name of such third person. The party 7 making such allegations may, at any time after filing the pleadings containing the same, upon an ex parte hearing before a judge of the court 9 in which the proceedings are pending, obtain permission to amend such 10 pleadings by inserting the name of the person concerning whom the 11 allegations are made, if the judge finds probable cause has been shown 12 that such allegations are true; and thereupon the pleadings may be 13 amended accordingly and notice of said amendment shall be sent to all 14 parties interested.

1 Section 32B. The evidence produced at such ex parte hearing shall 2 not be reported or made a part of the record in the case, and the motion
3 for said amendment shall not be read in open court during the proceed-4 ings, but the register shall make an entry in the docket of "Motion to 5 insert name of third person allowed", or "Motion to insert name of third 6 person denied", as the case may be. If the amendment is allowed upon 7 affidavits, they shall be retained by the court and placed in the custody 8 of the register, and shall be open for the purposes of inspection and 9 taking copies thereof to counsel of record, the parties or the third person 10 named in the amendment.

1 Section 32C. Any person whose name has been inserted in the 2 pleadings by amendment in accordance with the two preceding sections 3 may appear in person or by attorney and defend himself against the 4 allegations contained in such pleadings.
HUSBAND AND WIFE.

A petition under section thirty-two or thirty-six may be brought in the county where either of the parties lives, except that if the petitioner has left the county where the parties have lived together and the respondent still lives therein, the petition shall be brought in that county.

SECTION 35. If a court having jurisdiction has entered a decree that a married woman has been deserted by her husband or is living apart from him for justifiable cause, she may convey her real estate in the same manner and with the same effect as if she were sole; and the surviving husband shall not be entitled under section fifteen of chapter one hundred and ninety-one to waive the provisions of a will made by her or to claim such portion of her estate as he would take if she had died intestate, nor shall he be entitled upon her death, if she leaves a will, to his tenancy by curtesy in her estate, as provided in section one of chapter one hundred and eighty-nine.

SECTION 36. A probate court may upon petition of a husband or, if he is insane, of his guardian or next friend, enter a decree that said husband has been deserted by his wife or that he is living apart from her for justifiable cause, and he may thereafter convey his real estate in the same manner and with the same effect as if he were sole; and the surviving wife shall not be entitled under section fifteen of chapter one hundred and ninety-one to waive the provisions of a will made by him or to claim such portion of his estate as she would take if he had died intestate, nor shall she be entitled upon his death, if he leaves a will, to dower in his estate, as provided in section one of chapter one hundred and eighty-nine. Section seventeen of chapter two hundred and eleven shall apply to proceedings upon such petition, so far as applicable.

SECTION 37. If the parents of minor children live apart from each other, not being divorced, the probate court for the county in which said minors or any of them are residents or inhabitants, upon petition of either parent, or of a next friend in behalf of the children after notice to both parents, shall have the same power to make decrees relative to their care, custody, education and maintenance, and to revise and alter such decrees or make new decrees, as the superior court has relative to children whose parents are divorced.

ADOPTION OF CHILDREN.

1 Section 1. A person of full age may petition the probate court in the county where he resides for leave to adopt as his child another person younger than himself, unless such other person is his or her wife or husband, or brother, sister, uncle or aunt, of the whole or half blood. If the petitioner has a husband or wife living, competent to join in the petition, such husband or wife shall join therein, and upon adoption the child shall in law be the child of both. If a person not an inhabitant of this commonwealth desires to adopt a child residing here, the petition may be made to the probate court in the county where the child resides.

2 Section 2. A decree for such adoption shall not be made, except as hereinafter provided, without the written consent of the child, if above the age of fourteen; of her husband, if she is a married woman; of the lawful parents or surviving parent; of the mother only of the child, if illegitimate; or of the person substituted for any of the above named by this chapter. Illegitimacy shall in no case be expressly averred upon the record. A person whose consent is hereby required shall not thereby be debarred from being the adopting parent. If the child has been previously adopted, a subsequent decree of adoption of the child shall not be made without the written consent of the previous adopting parents or parent surviving, nor unless notice of the subsequent petition for adoption has been given to the persons whose consent to the original adoption was required under this section; but such subsequent decree may be made without the consent of such persons. Notice of any petition for adoption shall be given to the guardian of the child, if 16 any.

2 Section 3. The consent of the persons named in the preceding section, other than the child or her husband, if any, shall not be required if the person to be adopted is of full age, nor shall the consent of any written consent of certain persons required.

12 Petitions for change of name. 13 Notice and certificate. 14 Annual return of changes.

ADOPTION, CHANGE OF NAMES.

Section 4. If the written consent required by the two preceding sections is not submitted to the court with the petition, the court shall order notice by personal service upon the parties of an order of notice, in such form as shall be prescribed under section thirty of chapter two hundred and fifteen, or, if the parties are not found within this commonwealth, by publication of said order of notice once in each of three successive weeks in such newspaper as the court orders, the last publication to be seven days at least before the time appointed for the hearing, and the court may require additional notice and consent. But if such child is of unknown parentage and is a foundling, publication as herein set forth shall not be required; but notice of the petition shall be given to the department of public welfare.

Section 5. If, after such notice, a person whose consent is required does not appear and object to the adoption, the court may act upon the petition without his consent, subject to his right of appeal, or it may appoint a guardian ad litem with power to give or withhold consent.

Section 5A. Upon the filing of a petition for adoption of a child under the age of fourteen, notice shall be given to the department of public welfare which shall make appropriate inquiry to determine the condition and antecedents of the child for the purpose of ascertaining whether he is a proper subject for adoption, and to determine whether the petitioners and their home are suitable for the proper rearing of the child, due regard being given the race and religion of the child and of the petitioners. The department shall submit to the court not later than thirty days after receipt of such notice, or within such further time as the court may allow, such written report as will give the court...
11 full knowledge as to the desirability of the proposed adoption. The 12 court may require such further investigation and report by the depart- 13 ment as may be necessary. All reports submitted hereunder shall be 14 filed separate and apart from the other papers in the case, and shall not 15 at any time be open to inspection except by the parties and their at- 16 torneys, unless the court, for good cause shown, shall otherwise order. 17 No decree shall be made upon such a petition until such report has been 18 received, nor until the child shall have resided for not less than six 19 months in the home of the petitioner; provided, that for good cause 20 shown the court may, in its discretion, waive the requirement of resi- 21 dence. This section shall not apply in the case of a petition for adoption 22 presented, sponsored or recommended by any charitable corporation 23 organized under general or special laws of the commonwealth for the 24 purpose of engaging in the care of children and principally so engaged.

1 Section 6. If the court is satisfied of the identity and relations of the 2 persons, and that the petitioner is of sufficient ability to bring up the 3 child and provide suitable support and education for it, and that the child 4 should be adopted, it shall make a decree, by which, except as regards 5 succession to property, all rights, duties and other legal consequences of 6 the natural relation of child and parent shall thereafter exist between the 7 child and the petitioner and his kindred, and such rights, duties and 8 legal consequences shall, except as regards marriage, incest or cohabita- 9 tion, terminate between the child so adopted and his natural parents 10 and kindred or any previous adopting parent; but such decree shall 11 not place the adopting parent or adopted child in any relation to any 12 person, except each other, different from that before existing as regards 13 marriage, or as regards rape, incest or other sexual crime committed 14 by either or both. The court may also decree such change of name as 15 the petitioner may request. If the person so adopted is of full age, he 16 shall not be freed by such decree from the obligations imposed by sec- 17 tion six of chapter one hundred and seventeen and section twenty of 18 chapter two hundred and seventy-three.

1 Section 7. A person adopted in accordance with this chapter shall 2 take the same share of the property which the adopting parent could 3 dispose of by will as he would have taken if born to such parent in lawful 4 wedlock, and he shall stand in regard to the legal descendants, but to no 5 other of the kindred of such adopting parent, in the same position as if 6 so born to him. If the person adopted dies intestate, his property ac- 7 quired by himself or by gift or inheritance from his adopting parent or 8 from the kindred of such parent shall be distributed according to chapter 9 one hundred and ninety and one hundred and ninety-six among the 10 persons who would have been his kindred if he had been born to his adopt- 11 ing parent in lawful wedlock; and property received by gift or inheritance 12 from his natural parents or kindred shall be distributed in the same man- 13 ner as if no act of adoption had taken place. The apportionment and 14 distribution shall be ascertained by the court. A person shall not by 15 adoption lose his right to inherit from his natural parents or kindred.

1 Section 8. The word "child", or its equivalent, in a grant, trust 2 settlement, entail, devise or bequest shall include a child adopted by the 3 settlor, grantor or testator, unless the contrary plainly appears by the 4 terms of the instrument; but if the settlor, grantor or testator is not such instrument, the rights of a child born in lawful wedlock to the adopting parent, unless it plainly appears to have been the intention of the settlor, grantor or testator to include an adopted child.

SECTION 9. An inhabitant of another state, adopted as a child in accordance with the laws thereof, shall upon proof of such fact be entitled in this commonwealth to the same rights of succession to property as he would have had in the state where he was adopted, except so far as such rights are in conflict with this chapter.

129 Mass. 243.

SECTION 10. If the child has been previously adopted, all the legal consequences of the former decree shall, upon a subsequent adoption, determine, except so far as any interest in property may have vested in the adopted child, and a decree to that effect shall be entered on the records of the court.

SECTION 11. The supreme judicial court may allow a parent, who, upon a petition for adoption, had no personal notice of the proceedings before the decree, to appeal therefrom within one year after actual notice thereof, if he first makes oath that he was not, at the time of filing such petition, undergoing imprisonment as specified in section three, or that, if so imprisoned, he has since been pardoned on the ground of innocence or has had his sentence reversed.

SECTION 11A. No person shall cause to be published in a newspaper circulated in the commonwealth an advertisement or notice of a child offered or wanted for adoption without first obtaining the written approval of the department of public welfare to such advertisement or notice and stating therein the fact of such approval. Violation of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten or more than one hundred dollars.

CHANGE OF NAMES.

SECTION 12. A petition for the change of name of a person may be heard by the probate court in the county where the petitioner resides.
No change of the name of a person, except upon the adoption of a child under this chapter or upon the marriage or divorce of a woman, shall be lawful unless made by said court for a sufficient reason consistent with public interests.

SECTION 13. The court shall, before decreeing a change of name, require public notice of the petition to be given and any person may be heard thereon, and, upon entry of a decree, the name as established thereby shall be the legal name of the petitioner, and the register may issue a certificate, under the seal of the court, of the name as so established.

SECTION 14. Each register of probate shall annually, in December, make a return to the state secretary of all changes of names made in his court.

Section 2. The full court shall be the supreme judicial court in banc, and four justices shall constitute a quorum to decide all matters required to be heard by it.

Section 3. The supreme judicial court shall have general superintendence of all courts of inferior jurisdiction to correct and prevent errors and abuses therein if no other remedy is expressly provided; and it may issue writs of error, certiorari, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and all other writs and processes to such courts and to corporations and individuals which may be necessary to the furtherance of justice and to the regular execution of the laws.

Section 4. A majority of the justices may, if in their judgment the public good so requires, remove from office a clerk of the courts or of their own court; and if sufficient cause is shown therefor and it appears that the public good so requires, may, upon a bill, petition or other process, upon a summary hearing or otherwise, remove a clerk of the superior court in Suffolk county, or of a district court, a county commissioner, sheriff, register of probate and insolvency or district attorney.

Questions of law arising upon exceptions or report, upon appeals from the superior court, upon cases stated or upon special verdicts and all issues in law, except as otherwise provided, shall be heard and determined by the full court.

Section 5. Questions of law arising upon a trial or other proceeding, or upon a motion for a new trial by reason of an opinion, direction, order or refusal of one justice in matter of law, may be reserved for the consideration of the full court, and so much of the case as is necessary for understanding the question shall be reported.

Section 6. Questions of law arising upon a trial or other proceeding, or upon a motion for a new trial by reason of an opinion, direction, order or refusal of one justice in matter of law, may be reserved for the consideration of the full court, and so much of the case as is necessary for understanding the question shall be reported.

7 into the supreme judicial court, there enter judgment, and remand the 8 record to the court from which it was removed to carry such judgment 9 into effect, or instead thereof, the full court may order a new trial or 10 further proceedings at the bar of the supreme judicial court, or order 11 sentence to be awarded or execution issued in said court.

1 Section 9. The records and rescripts which are made after the decision of questions of law shall contain a brief statement of the reasons therefor; and if no further opinion is written within sixty days, the reporter shall publish the case with the opinion contained in such record or rescript.

1 Section 10. If, upon the hearing of an appeal or exceptions in any proceeding, it appears that the appeal or exceptions are frivolous, im-material or intended for delay, the court may, either upon motion of a party or of its own motion, award against the appellant or excepting party double costs from the time when the appeal was taken or the exceptions were allowed, and also interest from the same time at the rate of twelve per cent a year on any amount which has been found due for debt and damages, or which he has been ordered to pay, or for which judgment has been recovered against him, or may award any part of such additional costs and interest.

1 Section 11. If, by mistake or accident, an appeal from the superior court or a bill of exceptions which has been allowed by the supreme judicial court or the superior court is not duly entered in the full court, that court, upon petition filed within one year after the appeal or bill of exceptions should have been entered, and upon terms, may allow the appellant to enter his appeal or the excepting party to enter his bill of exceptions. But no security by bond, attachment or otherwise which has been discharged by the omission to enter an appeal or bill of exceptions shall be revived or continued in force by the entry thereof.

1 Section 12. A law sitting of the court for the commonwealth shall be held annually at Boston on the first Wednesday of January and may be adjourned to places and times most conducive to the despatch of business and to the interests of the public. At such sitting, questions of law arising in criminal cases in any county in the commonwealth, questions of law arising in civil cases in the counties of Barnstable, Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk, Plymouth and Suffolk, and, by consent of the parties filed in the case, such questions arising in civil cases in other counties, and such questions for which no other provision is made, shall be entered and determined.

1 Section 13. For hearing questions of law arising in the following 2 counties, law sittings shall be held once in each year in September and 3 October at such times as the court shall by rule determine:

4 For Berkshire, at Pittsfield.
Supreme Judicial Court.

For Franklin and Hampshire, alternately at Greenfield and Northampton, the sitting at Northampton being in the even year.
For Hampden, at Springfield.
For Worcester, at Worcester.

1885, 48.

For Bristol, Dukes County and Nantucket, at Taunton.

Provided, that when no case has been set down for oral argument at least two weeks before the day determined for any one of the said sittings, 11 the sitting may be omitted; and if only one case shall have been set 12 down for oral argument, that case may be transferred to any other of 13 said sittings which may be most accessible and convenient for the parties, 14 or to a sitting for the commonwealth if the parties so agree.

Section 14. The full court sitting in any county, or for the 1 commonwealth, shall have jurisdiction of all questions of law and of all 2 cases and matters at law or in equity, civil or criminal, which arise 3 in any county other than that in or for which it is sitting, and which 4 might properly be heard and determined by it sitting for such county; 5 and, upon the application of a party, the full court may order any such 6 questions of law, or case or matter, to be entered and determined by 7 the full court sitting in any county, or for the commonwealth.

Section 15. The exceptions alleged at the trial of a criminal case in 1 any county, not subject to the provisions of sections thirty-three A to 2 thirty-three G, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and seventy-eight in 3 accordance with said provisions or not made subject thereto by order 4 of a justice of the superior court in accordance with section thirty-one 5 of said chapter, may be entered and determined either at the law sitting 6 of the supreme judicial court held for the county in which they arise, or, 7 upon the order of the justice presiding at the trial, at the sitting of the 8 court for the commonwealth including an adjourned sitting.

Section 16. If the justice before whom an action or proceeding is 1 tried in the supreme judicial court or the superior court in counties 2 other than Barnstable, Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk, Plymouth or Suffolk considers that a question of law which arises for the determination of the full court is immaterial, frivolous, or intended merely for delay, 4 or that the interests of the parties or of the public require a more speedy 5 determination thereof than can be reached in the sitting established 6 for the county in which the action or proceeding is tried, he shall 7 certify and order the question of law to be entered and heard at the 8 sitting of the court for the commonwealth; and all the other proceedings 9 shall be the same as if the question had arisen in one of the above named 10 counties.

Section 17. Jury sittings of the court shall be held by one justice, 1 who shall have all the powers not expressly reserved to the full court.

If there are pending before the court in the respective counties matters requiring trial by jury, such sittings shall be held as follows:

- For Barnstable, at Barnstable, on the first Tuesday of May.
- For Berkshire, at Pittsfield, on the second Tuesday of May.
For Bristol, Dukes County and Nantucket, at Taunton, on the third Tuesday of April, and at New Bedford, on the second Tuesday of November.
1827, 135; 1850, 210; 1877, 178, § 3; 1878, 151, § 1.

For Essex, at Salem, on the third Tuesday of April and the first Tuesday of November.
1850, 210, § 1.

For Franklin, at Greenfield, on the second Tuesday of April.
1850, 57, § 1.

For Hampden, at Springfield, on the fourth Tuesday of April.
Hampden.

For Hampshire, at Northampton, on the third Tuesday of April.
Hampshire.

For Middlesex, at Lowell, on the third Tuesday of April, and at Cambridge, on the third Tuesday of October.
Middlesex.

For Norfolk, at Dedham, on the third Tuesday of February.
Norfolk.

For Plymouth, at Plymouth, on the second Tuesday of May.
Plymouth.

For Suffolk, at Boston, on the first Tuesday of April, and the second Tuesday of September.
Suffolk.

For Worcester, at Worcester, on the second Tuesday of April.
Worcester.

SECTION 18. If the public business so requires, the court may adjourn an established sitting for the county of Bristol from either Taunton or New Bedford to Fall River, in the manner and with the effect of an adjournment to another shire town; and such adjournment shall be subject to all the provisions of law relative to adjournments to another shire town.

SECTION 19. An action, suit or proceeding arising or pending in the county of Dukes or Nantucket, which is cognizable by the supreme judicial court and which is to be heard before one justice, shall be entered, heard, tried and determined at the court held in the county of Bristol, in all respects as if the same court were held in the county of Dukes or Nantucket, as the case may be; and all matters cognizable by the full court arising or pending in the county of Dukes or Nantucket shall be heard and determined as if arising in the county of Bristol.

SECTION 20. Four or more justices present at a jury sitting shall have the powers of a full court. One justice present at a law sitting shall have the same authority as at a jury sitting.

SECTION 21. The full court, sitting for the commonwealth, shall examine and audit all accounts for services and expenses incident to said court, and they shall be paid by the commonwealth.

SECTION 22. The chief justice of the court shall receive a salary of fifteen thousand dollars and each associate justice a salary of fourteen thousand dollars, and the chief justice and each associate justice shall annually receive from the commonwealth, upon certificate of the chief justice, the amount of the expenses incurred by them in the discharge of their duties.

1856, 10. 1858, 274, § 1. 1911, 743, § 1. 1919, 288, § 1. 1920, 627, §§ 1, 4, 6.

Section 23. The justices of the court shall be allowed annually for law clerks, stenographers and other clerical assistance such amount as shall be appropriated by the general court, to be paid by the commonwealth upon the certificate of the chief justice.

Section 1. The superior court shall consist of one chief justice and thirty-one associate justices.

Sect. 2. The court shall be held by one of the justices, and when so held shall have and exercise all the power and jurisdiction committed to said court. The chief justice shall make such assignments for the attendance of a justice at the several times and places appointed for holding the court as will be most convenient and as will insure the prompt performance of its duties.

Section 3. The court shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of writs of entry for the foreclosure of mortgages, and of real and mixed actions, except those of which the land court or district courts have 4 jurisdiction, of complaints for flowing lands, and of claims against the 5 comnmwealth.

1 Section 6. The court shall have original jurisdiction of all crimes, 2 and appellate jurisdiction of crimes tried before a district court or a trial
3 justice. Crimes committed in that part of Seicuate described in chapter 4 three hundred and ninety-four of the acts of nineteen hundred and twelve
5 shall be within the territorial jurisdiction of the court both in Norfolk
6 county and in Plymouth county, and arrests and service of process in 7 such cases may be made by an officer qualified to serve criminal process
8 in Cohasset. Crimes committed in any part of Cambridge, Watertown 9 or Newton lying in the Charles river basin shall be within the territorial 10 jurisdiction of the court both in Middlesex county and in Suffolk county.

1 Section 7. The clerk of the courts for the county in which an in-2 dictment for a capital crime has been entered, or, in the county of 3 Suffolk, the clerk of the superior court for criminal business, shall forth-4 with send notice thereof, with a copy of the indictment, to the chief or 5 first justice of the court and to the attorney general. Any justice of 6 said court may thereupon appoint a time for the arraignment of the 7 prisoner, which shall take place either at a regular sitting or on a day
8 specially assigned therefor.

1 Section 8. If an appeal or a bill of exceptions in a case, civil or 2 criminal, has been duly entered in the supreme judicial court, any se-
3 curity taken in the case, by bond, attachment or otherwise, shall stand
4 as if no judgment had been rendered or exception taken in the superior
5 court, until final judgment shall be entered, unless, in the case of a bill 6 of exceptions, execution is awarded because the exceptions are im-
7 material, frivolous or intended for delay.

1 Section 9. Orders or decrees of the supreme judicial court upon
2 questions arising in a case pending in the superior court shall be entered 3 of record in the superior court, and such case shall be disposed of as 4 law and justice require, conformably to the rescript or order of the 5 supreme judicial court.
SECTION 10. Parties to an action submitted to the determination of the court may agree that the judgment therein shall be final.

SECTION 11. [Repealed, 1929, 265, § 4.]

SECTION 12. If, upon an appeal in a civil action or proceeding from a judgment of a district court, the appellant fails to enter and prosecute his appeal, the court may, upon complaint of the appellee, affirm the former judgment or render such other judgment as law and justice require.

SECTION 13. If, by mistake or accident, an appeal to the superior court is not duly entered therein, or if, for a like reason, a complaint founded on an omission to enter an appeal has not been entered by the appellee, the court, upon petition filed within one year after the appeal or complaint should have been entered, may upon terms allow the appeal or complaint to be entered; but attachments made and security given in the original action shall not thereby be revived or continued in force.

Section 17. The court may adjourn any established sitting for Bristol county from Taunton or New Bedford to Fall River, or for Plymouth county from Plymouth to Brockton, and for the hearing of jury waived cases may adjourn any established sitting for Essex county from Salem, Lawrence or Newburyport to Haverhill, or for Norfolk county from Dedham to Quincy, in the manner and with the effect of an adjournment to another shire town; and such adjournment shall be subject to all laws relative thereto.

Section 18. An adjourned sitting of each criminal term of the court for Plymouth county shall be held at Brockton, for the hearing and disposition of such criminal cases on the trial list as have arisen within the judicial district of the police court of Brockton or within the towns of Whitman, Abington and Rockland, where the defendants are not in confinement awaiting trial.

Section 19. The clerks of the courts, and in Suffolk county of the superior court, may maintain regularly established offices in such cities and towns as may be designated by the chief justice of the superior court.

Section 19A. The justices of the superior court may appoint for a term of five years, and may at any time for cause remove, a special master, who shall receive from the commonwealth a salary of five thousand dollars. He shall perform such administrative duties pertaining to the court and shall hear and dispose of such interlocutory matters relating to the assignment, postponement, continuance and order of trial of cases, at such times and places as the chief justice of said court may determine. Every order or decision of said master shall be subject to appeal to the court and the appellant shall be granted an immediate hearing.

Section 20. Except as provided in section twenty-nine, in counties in which separate sittings of the court are established for civil and criminal business, criminal cases only shall be tried by jury at the criminal sittings, and civil cases only at the civil sittings; but jurors summoned for either civil or criminal business may by order of the court be used interchangeably for either civil or criminal business as occasion may require.

Section 21. The chief justice may, by written order to the sheriff, order a special jury for a sitting for criminal business to be held in any county at such time and place as may be appointed in such order. The sheriff shall give notice thereof as directed in the order therefor; but no person under recognition to answer to an indictment or to a criminal complaint shall be held to appear at such special sitting or at any time and place other than the regular sittings of the court, unless duly notified by written summons from the clerk.

Section 22. The first Monday of every month shall be a return day for the entry of appeals in criminal cases from district courts and 3 trial justices and of suits upon recognizances and bonds in such cases. 1859, 106, § 12.
4 Such appeals shall be entered on the return day next after the appeal P. S. 114, § 18.
5 is taken. Such suits may be made returnable at the election of the dis- 1897, 176.
6 trict attorney at any such return day within three months after the date 11 Gray, 205.
7 of the writ. Trials by jury of such suits shall take place at criminal 8 sittings; and such suits shall be filed, docketed and recorded as criminal 9 cases. If said first Monday is a legal holiday, such entry shall be made 10 on the day following.

1 Section 23. The chief justice may, by written order to the sheriff Assembling of 2 cause the grand jury in any county to be assembled at a time and place 3 appointed therein.

1 Section 24. At a sitting of the court at which criminal business may Precedence of 2 be transacted, cases arising under chapters two hundred and forty-eight,
3 one hundred and thirty-eight, one hundred and thirty-nine and two hun-
4 dred and seventy-three shall have precedence in the order in which said
5 chapters are herein named, next after the cases of persons who are actually 6 confined in prison and awaiting trial; provided, that the court, on motion 7 of the district attorney, may order that the trial of any specified case of 8 crime shall take precedence over all other cases.

1 Section 25. If a criminal case is on trial at the end of a sitting, Extension of 2 such sitting may be continued, and jurors serving in such case may be 3 required to serve until the case is finished.

1 Section 26. The records of courts which are transferred to the Custody of 2 superior court shall remain in custody of its clerks. In Suffolk county,
3 the clerk of said court for civil business shall have the custody of said
4 records in civil cases, and the clerk for criminal business shall have the 5 custody of said records in criminal cases. Copies of said records may 6 be certified by said clerks respectively. Judicial writs and processes 7 which are founded upon such records shall issue under the seal of the 8 superior court, in like manner and with the same effect as similar writs 9 and processes founded upon its own records.

1 Section 27. The chief justice shall receive a salary of thirteen Salaries, etc.
2 thousand dollars and each associate justice a salary of twelve thousand 1899, 196, § 17.
3 dollars, and the chief justice and each associate justice shall annually 1897, 165.

6 the work of the court. Said chief justice may appoint and remove said 1924, 183.
7 executive clerk and define his duties.
Section 28A. In printing copies of rules of the court at the expense of the commonwealth under section twenty-eight, there may be included such notes and annotations, if any, as shall be directed by vote of the justices. Copies of general revisions of the rules not otherwise disposed of may be sold to the general public at such price per copy as shall be fixed by vote of the justices, which price may be less than, but shall not exceed, the cost of printing, binding and paper. Copies intended for sale shall be transmitted, under the direction of the chief justice, to the several clerks of the courts and to each clerk of the superior court in Suffolk county, and shall be placed on sale by them at the price so fixed. Each such clerk shall, in January, April, July and October in each year, pay into the state treasury all sums received from the sale of such copies during the preceding quarter and shall also in said months report in writing to the chief justice the number of such copies sold during the preceding quarter and the number remaining on hand at the end thereof.

Section 29. A prisoner held in jail for trial upon an indictment for an offence not punishable by death or by imprisonment for life, or so held upon an appeal, at any time except during a sitting of the superior court for criminal business in the county where he is held, may petition said court that he be brought before the court at a sitting thereof for civil business in that county in order that disposition may be made of his case. After due notice to the district attorney, and with his consent, the court may grant the petition, and the presiding justice may dispose of the case, as if he were holding a sitting of the court for criminal business, or he may continue the case to the next sitting of the court for criminal business. When a person who has a right to so petition is committed to jail, the keeper thereof shall notify him of such right, furnish him with a blank form for its exercise, and transmit it to the court, if signed by him. This section shall not apply in cases in which two or more persons are held on one complaint or indictment, unless all the defendants join in the petition.

CHAPTER 213.

PROVISIONS COMMON TO THE SUPREME JUDICIAL AND SUPERIOR COURTS.

Section 1. In case of a vacancy in the office of chief justice of the supreme judicial or the superior court, or of his illness or absence, his duties shall be performed by the senior justice present and qualified to act.
1 Section 2. If, in the opinion of a justice of either court, it is im-
2 portant that a writ or other process should be speedily issued in a case
3 pending in the court of which he is a justice, he may order it to be issued 4 by the clerk of the courts in the county in which he is sitting; and 5 such clerk shall transmit the order to the clerk of the courts of the 6 county in which the cause is pending, to be filed and recorded with the 7 other papers in the case.

1 Section 3. The courts shall, respectively, make and promulgate
2 uniform codes of rules, consistent with law, for regulating the practice
3 and conducting the business of such courts in cases not expressly pro-4 vided for by law, for the following purposes:
5 1. First, Simplifying and shortening pleadings and procedure.
6 2. Second, Prescribing the terms upon which amendments will be allowed 7 or unnecessary counts and statements stricken from the record; dis-
8 couraging negligence and deceit; preventing delay; securing parties
9 from being misled; placing the party not in fault as nearly as possible 10 in the condition in which he would have been if no mistake had been 11 made; distinguishing between form and substance; and substituting 12 fixed and certain requirements for the discretion of the court.
13 3. Third, Conducting trials.
14 4. Fourth, Presenting distinctly the questions to be tried by the jury.
15 5. Fifth, Giving a party such notice of the evidence which is intended to 16 be offered by the adverse party as will prevent surprise and enable him 17 to prepare for trial.
18 6. Sixth, Prescribing such forms of verdicts as will place upon record 19 the finding of the jury.
20 7. Seventh, The entry of judgment by the clerk under a general order 1885, 381, § 12.
21 in all cases ripe for judgment.
22 8. Eighth, Expediting the decision of causes and securing the speedy 1894, 283, § 2.
23 trial thereof.
24 9. Ninth, Remedyng abuses and imperfections in practice and di-25 minishing costs.
26 10. Tenth, Filing and hearing motions to set aside verdicts and notifying 1897, 472.
27 adverse parties thereof.
28 11. Tenth A, Providing that an action at law or a suit in equity shall not 1929, 186, § 1.
29 be open to objection on the ground that a mere judgment, order or decree 30 interpreting a written instrument or written instruments is sought 31 therein, and providing procedure under which the court may make 32 binding determinations of right interpreting the same, whether any conse-33 quential judgment or relief is or could be claimed or not, provided that 34 nothing contained herein shall be construed to authorize the change, 35 extension or alteration of the law regulating the method of obtaining 36 service on, or jurisdiction over, parties or to affect their right to jury 37 trial.
38 111. Eleventh, The superior court may also make and promulgate such 1896, 101.
39 rules for the regulation of the printing, publication and distribution of 40 trial lists and for notifying attorneys of trials in civil causes as the public 41 convenience in the several counties requires.
42 The rules of the superior court shall not conflict with those of the 43 supreme judicial court.

1 Section 4. The courts shall always be open in every county and the Courts always 2 business thereof, or of the justices thereof, may be transacted at any 1885, 381, § 2.
time; but such business shall not, except as provided in section six of chapter two hundred and twenty, be transacted on Sunday or on a legal holiday unless it relates to an application which, in the opinion of the justice to whom it is made, is of pressing necessity.

SECTION 5. The courts and the justices thereof, respectively, may in any county transact any business of such courts and direct the entry of any order, judgment or decree in an action, suit or proceeding pending in the same court in another county.

SECTION 6. Regular sittings of the courts for the transaction of civil or criminal business shall commence on the day appointed by law therefor and on the day preceding the day next appointed by law for a sitting in such county for the transaction of the same kind of business. Such regular sittings may at any time be adjourned from time to time or without day, and such adjournment shall excuse the attendance during the adjournment of all persons required to attend at the sitting, unless expressly notified to attend, but shall not otherwise terminate the sitting.

SECTION 7. Two or more simultaneous sessions of the court may be held in the same shire town or in different shire towns in the same county, if public convenience requires; and the business may be so divided as to secure its speedy and convenient disposal.

1924, 150.

SECTION 8. The courts shall, respectively, receive, examine and allow accounts for services and expenses incident to their sittings in the several counties and order payment thereof out of the respective county treasuries.

1924, 150.

SECTION 9. The justices of each court, except as otherwise provided, shall make such arrangements for the attendance of a justice at the several times and places appointed for holding their court as will be most convenient and as will insure the prompt performance of their duties.

SECTION 10. If public business requires, either court may adjourn an established sitting in one shire town to another in the same county. Persons, recognizances and processes required to appear at or to be returned to the established sitting shall appear at, be returnable to and have day in, the adjourned sitting.

SECTION 11. If no justice is present at the time and place appointed for holding a court at the beginning of a sitting or at an adjournment thereof, the sheriff of the county or any of his deputies may adjourn the court from day to day or from time to time, as circumstances require, or as ordered by any of the justices, and shall give notice of such 6 adjournment by making public proclamation in the court house, and 7 by a notice posted on the door of the court house or published in a 8 newspaper.

97 Mass. 214.

1 Section 12. In such case, any justice may by a written order re-2 quire the sheriff or his deputy to adjourn the court without day or to 3 the time expressed in the order; and the officer shall adjourn the court 4 accordingly by public proclamation in the court house.

1 Section 13. Each court may establish a seal and appoint all officers
2 necessary for the transaction of its business.

22 veniently and properly adjusted and settled in an action at law.

1821, 266. R. S. 118, § 43. 1 Cush. 82.

23 (7) Suits by creditors to reach and apply, in payment of a debt, any 24 property, right, title or interest, legal or equitable, of a debtor, within 25 or without the commonwealth, which cannot be reached to be attached
26 or taken on execution in an action at law, although the property sought 27 to be reached and applied is in the possession or control of the debtor
28 independently of any other person or cannot be reached and applied 29 until a future time or is of uncertain value, if the value can be ascer-
30 tained by sale, appraisal or by any means within the ordinary procedure 31 of the court. In such suit, the interest of the defendant in partner-
32 ship property may be reached and applied in payment of the plaintiff's 33 debt; but unless it is a judgment debt, the business of the partnership 34 shall not be enjoined or otherwise interrupted further than to restrain 35 the withdrawal of any portion of the debtor's share or interest therein 36 until the plaintiff's debt is established; and if either partner gives to 37 the plaintiff a sufficient bond, with sureties approved by the clerk, 38 conditioned to pay to the plaintiff the amount of his debt and costs
39 within thirty days after it is established, the court shall proceed no 40 further therein than to establish the debt; and upon the filing of such 41 bond, any injunction previously issued in such suit shall be dissolved.

(8) Suits to reach and apply shares or interests in corporations organized under the laws of the commonwealth or of the United States, and located or having a general office in the commonwealth, whether the plaintiff is a creditor or not, and whether the suit is founded upon a debt or not.

(9) Suits to reach and apply in payment of a debt any property, right, title or interest, real or personal, of a debtor, liable to be attached or taken on execution in an action at law against him and fraudulently conveyed by him with intent to defeat, delay or defraud his creditors, or purchased, or directly or indirectly paid for, by him, the record or other title to which is retained in the vendor or is conveyed to a third person with intent to defeat, delay or defraud the creditors of the debtor.

(10) Suits to reach and apply the obligation of an insurance company to a judgment debtor under a motor vehicle liability policy, as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety, or under any other policy insuring a judgment debtor against liability for loss or damage on account of bodily injury or death or for loss or damage resulting therefrom, or on account of damage to property, in satisfaction of a judgment covered by such policy, which has not been satisfied within thirty days after the date when it was rendered.

(11) Suits to enforce the purpose or purposes of any gift or conveyance which has been or shall have been made to and accepted by any county, city, town or subdivision of the commonwealth for a specific purpose or purposes in trust or otherwise, or the terms of such trust, or, if it shall have become impracticable to observe or carry out such purpose or purposes, or such terms, or, if the occasion therefor shall have terminated, to determine the purposes or uses to which the property involved shall be devoted and enforce the same. Such a suit shall be commenced only on petition of the attorney general, or by leave of court, on petition of ten tax-payers of such county, city, town or subdivision. The respondent in any such suit may set up such impracticability or termination and request the judgment of the court as to such other use of said property in its answer without filing a cross bill or other independent proceeding. In the case of a petition by ten tax-payers as aforesaid, the attorney general shall be served with notice of the preliminary petition for leave, and may intervene as a party at any stage of the proceedings; and the petitioners shall be liable for costs, including reasonable counsel fees in the discretion of the court, which may, also in its discretion, award to the petitioners costs, including reasonable counsel fees, to be paid by the respondent or out of the fund involved, if any.

Section 4. Each court may, if necessary to secure justice and equity, issue to courts of inferior jurisdiction, corporations and persons all general and special writs and processes required in proceedings in equity.

VENUE.

1 Section 5. Suits in equity in said courts may be brought in any county in which a transitory action between the same parties might be had at law. Provided, however, that such suits may be brought, as well as in counties in which it is elsewhere provided that such suits may be brought.

SUPERIOR COURT PRACTICE.

1 Section 6. Procedure, process and practice in equity causes originating in the superior court, or transferred thereto from any other court, shall while in the superior court be regulated by rules made from time to time by that court.

COMMENCEMENT OF SUITS, NOTICE, ETC.

1 Section 7. Suits in equity may be commenced by bill or petition with a writ of subpoena according to the usual course of proceedings in equity, or by an original writ of summons or of summons and attachment by trustee process. If the suit is commenced by bill or petition, the court may order an attachment of property or the arrest of the defendant. If commenced by a writ, an attachment may be made without special order of court, if the writ authorizes such attachment. If the writ authorizes an arrest, such arrest may be made upon compliance with section two of chapter two hundred and twenty-four. A subpoena or other writ shall be returnable on one of the return days prescribed by section twenty-four of chapter two hundred and twenty-three. When a suit in equity is commenced by an original writ as provided in this section, such writ, with the bill or petition attached thereto, may at any time after service thereof, before the return day, be entered in the court to which it is returnable, and thereupon the court may make such orders as to attachment, arrest, and injunction, or for discharging from arrest, or for dissolving an attachment or injunction, or such other orders, as the court would have had power to make if the suit had been commenced by bill or petition.

1 Section 8. If a suit in equity is commenced by bill or petition inserted in an original writ of summons or of summons and attachment, or in a writ of trustee process, the bill or petition need not be inserted in the separate summons, in the copy of the original writ to be served on the defendant, or in the copy of the writ to be deposited or left with or in the office of a register of deeds or officer of a corporation or other person for the purpose of making an attachment.

1 Section 9. No preliminary injunction shall be granted without notice to the opposite party. No temporary restraining order shall be granted without notice to the opposite party, unless it shall clearly appear from specific facts, shown by affidavit or by the verified bill, that immediate and irreparable loss or damage will result to the applicant for the same before the matter can be heard on notice. If in such a case a temporary restraining order is granted without notice, notice of the application for a preliminary injunction shall be made returnable at the earliest possible time, and in no event later than ten days from the date of the order, and shall take precedence of all matters except older matters of the same character. When the matter comes up for hearing, the party who obtained the temporary restraining order shall proceed with his application for a preliminary injunction, and if he does not do so the court shall dissolve the temporary restraining order. Upon two days' notice to the party obtaining such temporary restraining order, the opposite party may appear and move the dissolution or modification of the order, and in that event the court or judge shall proceed to hear and determine the motion as expeditiously as the ends of justice may require. Every temporary restraining order shall be filed or noted forthwith in the clerk's office. This section shall not apply to proceedings in the probate courts.

SECTION 10. Upon petitions for the construction of wills, or for instruction relative to wills, the court, instead of service according to the usual course in equity, may order notice of the petition and of the time and place for hearing to be served on such number of the parties in interest representing all possible interests as the court shall direct, and to be published for three weeks successively in such newspaper as it directs. If it appears that any possible interest is not represented, further service may be ordered until all possible interests are represented before the court or until a guardian ad litem has been appointed. If all possible interests are represented by persons before the court, it shall be unnecessary to make other persons having similar interests parties defendant.

SECTION 11. Suits in equity in the superior court shall be entered on the same docket as other cases, except in Suffolk, Middlesex and Essex counties, where they shall be entered upon a separate equity docket. All processes shall be returnable at the return day occurring next after fourteen days from the date of the process, if required to be served fourteen days before the return day, or at the return day occurring next after thirty days from such date, if required to be served thirty days before the return day, or at any return day within three months after the date of the process.

PLEADING.

SECTION 12. The material facts and circumstances relied on by the plaintiff shall be stated briefly, and immaterial and irrelevant matters omitted. The bill, unless actually inserted in a writ, shall be entitled in the proper court, with the full title of the cause, containing the names and descriptions of all the parties. It need not contain any address to the court, or the usual commencement, or any prayer for an answer, for general relief or for process. Discovery may be sought by inserting a prayer therefor in the bill or petition or by interrogatories.

SECTION 13. A defence to a suit in equity shall be made by demurrer, plea or answer. A demurrer or plea need not contain a protestation or concluding prayer. An answer, except to a bill for discovery only, or a plea, shall not be made under oath or under seal, and it need not contain any saving of exceptions to the bill, or a prayer to be dismissed or for costs. Answers to interrogatories in a bill for discovery shall be made.
7 within such time as the court orders, and questions arising thereon shall be determined by the rules applicable to bills for discovery.

111 Mass. 300.
258 Mass. 196.

1 SECTION 14. Facts well pleaded in the answer shall not be deemed to be admitted unless the case is set down for hearing upon the bill and answer without the introduction of evidence. The parties shall be deemed to be at issue when the answer is filed, and the plaintiff need not file any replication.

1 SECTION 18. A justice of either court or the full court may, if necessary, hear and determine cases pending in a county other than that in which such justice or court is sitting, or any motion therein; but a motion shall not be so heard nor a decree or order so made until reasonable notice thereof has been given to the adverse party or his counsel; and either party may transmit his reasons in writing for or against the application to the court or justice, who shall examine the same and proceed thereon as if the parties were present. All orders and decrees made on such hearings shall be transmitted to the clerk in the proper county, and be entered by him.

APPEALS.

1 SECTION 19. A party aggrieved by a final decree of a justice of the supreme judicial court or a final decree of the superior court may, within twenty days after the entry thereof, appeal therefrom. An appeal from a final decree of a justice of the supreme judicial court shall be entered on the docket of that court, and an appeal from a final decree of the superior court shall be entered in the supreme judicial court. The completion of an appeal hereunder shall be governed by section one hundred and thirty-five of chapter two hundred and thirty-one. When such appeals have been entered as aforesaid, all proceedings under such decree shall be stayed, and the cause shall thereafter be pending before the full court, which shall hear and determine the same, and affirm, reverse or modify the decree appealed from. Upon the reversal of a final decree, the court may remand the cause to a justice of the supreme judicial court or to the superior court, with necessary and proper directions for further proceeding therein.

SECTION 20. The clerk of the court for the commonwealth shall enter appeals in equity and probate matters on a separate equity and probate docket.

SECTION 21. Upon an appeal from a final decree, the justice of the superior court, the full court may, by an order, on terms or otherwise, suspend or modify or annul any order made for the protection of the rights of parties, pending the appeal; but, until such order has been modified or annulled, the justice of the superior court by whom the order or decree appealed from was made, or any other justice of said court, may make any proper interlocutory orders, pending such appeal, including orders for the appointment of receivers, of injunction, of prohibition, and orders for continuing in force such orders previously made, or for modifying or dissolving them. The justice who makes any such interlocutory orders may enforce them by appropriate proceedings, pending the appeal.

SECTION 22. After an appeal has been taken from a decree of the superior court, the full court may, by an order, on terms or otherwise, suspend the execution or operation of the decree appealed from, pending the appeal, and may modify or annul any order made for the protection of the rights of the parties, pending the appeal; but, until such order has been modified or annulled, the justice of the superior court by whom the order or decree appealed from was made, or any other justice of said court, may make any proper interlocutory orders, pending such appeal, including orders for the appointment of receivers, of injunction, of prohibition, and orders for continuing in force such orders previously made, or for modifying or dissolving them. The justice who makes any such interlocutory orders may enforce them by appropriate proceedings, pending the appeal.

SECTION 23. The justice of either court by whom a decree was made shall report the material facts found by him, on request of any party entitled to appeal therefrom made within four days after such party has been notified of the entry of the decree; otherwise, such report shall be in the discretion of the justice.

SECTION 24. Upon an appeal, the testimony of witnesses who have been examined orally before a justice of either court shall, at the request of any party made before any evidence is offered, be reported to the full court. The courts shall provide by general rules for some convenient and effectual means of having the same reported by the justice by whom the case is heard or by a person designated by him for that purpose. Except as provided in section one hundred and twenty-five of chapter 8 two hundred and thirty-one, no oral evidence shall be exhibited to the decree. 20. full court, but the cause shall be heard on appeal upon the same evidence 10 as on the original hearing.

271 Mass. 240.

1 Section 25. Upon an appeal in a suit in equity in which the evidence 2 is reported to the full court, all questions raised by exceptions taken at the 3 hearing shall be subject to revision by the court in the same manner as if 4 they were contained in a bill of exceptions, and the report of the evidence
5 shall include, as part thereof, notes of any exceptions properly taken 6 and the rulings of the judge in respect thereto, and it shall not be neces-
7 sary to file any bill of exceptions or to suspend the entry of a decree by 8 reason of any such exceptions.

1 Section 25A. In suits in equity a final decree shall be entered as 2 though exceptions have been taken or a bill of exceptions has been filed 3 and allowed, but execution and operation of the decree so entered shall be 4 stayed until the exceptions have been disposed of unless the judge who 5 made the ruling to which the exception or exceptions were taken finds 6 that the exceptions are immaterial, frivolous or intended for delay.

1 Section 26. A party aggrieved by an interlocutory decree of a 2 justice of either court may, in like manner, appeal to the full court; but 3 the appeal shall not suspend the execution of such decree, except as 4 provided in section twenty-two, nor transfer to the full court the entire 5 cause or any matter therein except the question whether the interlocutory 6 decree appealed from shall be affirmed, reversed or modified.

REPORT.

SECTION 30. If, upon making an interlocutory decree or order, the justice is of opinion that it so affects the merits of the controversy that the matter ought, before further proceedings, to be determined by the full court, he may report the question for that purpose, and stay all further proceedings except those necessary to preserve the rights of the parties.

SECTION 31. A justice of either court by whom a case is heard for final decree may reserve and report the evidence and all questions of law therein for the consideration of the full court; and thereupon like proceedings shall be had as upon appeals from final decrees.

TRANSFER OF CAUSES BETWEEN SUPREME JUDICIAL, SUPERIOR AND PROBATE COURTS.

SECTION 32. The supreme judicial court or a justice thereof may transfer for partial or final disposition in the superior court or in the probate court, respectively, any cause which is within the concurrent jurisdiction of said courts, respectively, and of the supreme judicial court, subject to appeal, exceptions or other proceedings in the nature of an appeal applicable to such case if originally brought in the court to which it is transferred. The supreme judicial court may also direct any cause which is within such concurrent jurisdiction to be transferred to the supreme judicial court in whole or in part for further action or directions, and in case of partial transfer may issue such orders or directions in regard to the part of such cause not so transferred as justice may require.

SECTION 33. [Repealed, 1922, 532, § 2.]

ISSUES TO JURY.

SECTION 34. The supreme judicial court, upon request of a party to an equity cause pending therein, may frame issues of fact to be tried by a jury and order the same to be tried in that court or in the superior court in the county in which such cause is pending, or upon the request of all parties in any other county.

SECTION 35. If there is no regular sitting of the supreme judicial court within three months after the framing of such issues, a justice thereof may order the clerk of the courts for the county in which the cause is pending to summon a jury to try such issues, and the proceedings at such trial shall be in all respects the same as in a trial at a regular sitting.
Sittings of the Courts.

1 Section 36. The superior court, upon request of a party to an equity cause pending therein, may frame issues of fact to be tried by a jury and order them to be tried in the county in which such cause is pending.

1 Section 37. A justice of the supreme judicial court and a justice of the superior court shall, at all convenient times, sit in Boston to hear and determine suits in equity and motions therein arising in any county.

P. S. 151, § 30. R. L. 159, § 40.

1 Section 38. A justice of the supreme judicial court shall sit at Springfield, on the first Monday of February, June, August and December, to hear such matters in equity as may be heard and determined at chambers, which arise in the counties of Berkshire, Franklin, Hampshire and Hampden.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

1 Section 39. A justice of either court shall not dissolve an injunction issued by the other court, or by a justice thereof, or interpose in any proceeding in the equity jurisdiction of the other court, except as provided in sections twenty-two and thirty-two.

R. L. 159, § 32. 1931, 426, § 84

1 Section 40. Every order and decree shall bear date of the day when it is entered by the clerk, and at the time of the entry he shall note such date upon the order or decree and upon the docket.

1 Section 41. The courts may issue writs of seisin and execution in a common form if such process is appropriate for the enforcement of a decree in equity.

1 Section 42. Where a bond is required of a receiver appointed by either court the provisions of section seven of chapter two hundred and three shall apply.

1917, 32.

1 Section 43. The original papers in a suit in equity pending in either court may be taken from the files in any county by counsel of record of either party, for use before the court, upon leaving a memorandum and receipt on such files, containing a short description of the papers so taken.

in cases involving in any way the estate of a deceased person or the property of any absentee whereof a receiver has been appointed under chapter two hundred or the property of a person under guardianship or conservatorship, to trusts created by parol or constructive or resulting trusts, of all matters relative to guardianship and conservatorship and of all other matters of which they now have or may hereafter be given jurisdiction. Such jurisdiction may be exercised upon petition according to the usual course of procedure in probate courts.

SECTION 6A. In any proceeding before a probate court, an attachment may be made by injunction, as in suits in equity, to reach shares of stock or other property which cannot be reached to be attached as in an action at law, and the property so attached shall thereafter be subject to such order as justice and equity may require; and in relation to such probate proceedings said court shall have all the powers which the supreme judicial and superior courts have in relation to bills to reach and apply.

SECTION 7. If a case is within the jurisdiction of the probate courts of two or more counties, the court first taking cognizance thereof by the commencement of proceedings therein shall retain jurisdiction thereof, and shall exclude the jurisdiction of the probate courts of all other counties; and the administration, guardianship or conservatorship first granted shall extend to all the estate of the deceased or ward in the commonwealth.

SECTION 8. All matters of trust of which probate courts have jurisdiction, except those arising under wills, shall be within the jurisdiction of the probate court of any county where any of the parties interested in the trust reside, or where any of the land held in trust is situated; but such jurisdiction, when once assumed, shall exclude the probate court of any other county from taking jurisdiction of any matter subsequently arising in relation to the same trust.

SECTION 8A. If it appears before final decree in any proceeding pending in a probate court that said proceeding was begun in the wrong county, said court may order the proceeding with all papers relating thereto to be removed to the probate court for the proper county, and it shall thereupon be entered and pending in the last mentioned court as if originally commenced therein, and all prior proceedings otherwise regularly taken shall thereupon be valid.

APPEALS.

SECTION 9. A person aggrieved by an order, decree or denial of a probate court made after this chapter takes effect, may, within twenty days after the entry thereof, appeal from the same to the supreme judicial court, and the appeal shall be heard and determined by the full court, which shall have like powers and authority in respect thereto 6 as upon an appeal in a suit in equity under the general equity jurisdiction.

6 as upon an appeal in a suit in equity under the general equity jurisdiction.

1 Section 10. The appeal shall be pending before the full court as soon as it has been filed in the probate court, and proper copies of papers in the proceeding, as specified in section one hundred and thirty-five of chapter two hundred and thirty-one, have been prepared by the register and transmitted to the supreme judicial court and entered in the docket of the full court under said section.

1 Section 11. The judge by whom an order, decree or denial was made shall report the material facts found by him, on request of any party entitled to appeal therefrom made within four days after such party has notice of such order, decree or denial; otherwise such report shall be in the discretion of the judge.

1 Section 12. Upon the appeal, the evidence and all questions relating thereto shall be governed by sections twenty-four and twenty-five of chapter two hundred and fourteen and section one hundred and twenty-five of chapter two hundred and thirty-one.

1 Section 13. A judge of the probate court by whom a case or matter is heard for final determination may reserve and report the evidence and all questions of law therein for consideration of the full court, and thereupon like proceedings shall be had as upon appeal. And if, upon making an interlocutory decree or order, he is of opinion that it so affects the merits of the controversy that the matter ought, before further proceedings, to be determined by the full court, he may report the question for that purpose, and stay all further proceedings except such as are necessary to preserve the rights of the parties.

1 Section 14. Interlocutory decrees not appealed from shall be open to revision upon appeals from final decrees so far only as it appears to the full court that such final decrees are erroneously affected thereby.

SECTION 15. A person who has, by accident or mistake, omitted to claim an appeal from a final decree within the time prescribed therefor may, within one year after the entry of the decree from which he desires to appeal, petition the full court for leave to appeal, which may be granted upon terms.

SECTION 16. A probate court in any proceeding, upon the application of a party and in accordance with the practice established by the supreme judicial court in like cases, may direct that any issues of fact shall be tried by a jury in the superior court for the same county, or, if there shall not be any regular sitting for such trial within three months after such order, or by consent of the parties, in any other county. The form of such issues shall be settled in the probate court, and certified copies of the issues and other material papers in the case shall be entered by the applicant in the superior court forwith, or within such time as the probate court may direct, but the same may be entered by any other party; and, if the same shall not so be entered, the probate court may discharge the order for a trial. On motion of any party in the superior court the issues shall be advanced for a speedy trial. Questions of law arising upon the trial of any such issues may be considered and determined by the supreme judicial court in the same manner and with like effect as in actions at law tried in the superior court.

SECTION 17. In the case of an estate of a deceased person represented insolvent, if the court, instead of appointing commissioners to receive and examine the claims of creditors against the estate, receives and examines such claims itself, the provisions of this chapter, so far as applicable, shall govern the proceedings for proof of the same and appeals from the allowance or disallowance thereof, exclusive of the provisions of sections eleven and sixteen of chapter one hundred and ninety-eight.

SECTION 18. At the trial of any issue of fact in a probate court the presiding judge may appoint a stenographer, who shall be sworn and shall attend the trial, or such part thereof as the judge may direct, and perform like duties and receive the same compensation therefor as a stenographer appointed by the superior court who is not on salary; and the sums so payable for his attendance at court and for any transcript of his notes or part thereof furnished to the judge by his direction shall be paid by the county upon the certificate of the judge. The judges of probate of any county, except Suffolk, may, subject to the approval of the county commissioners of such county, appoint a stenographer for the probate court of such county. The compensation and expenses of such stenographer shall be paid by the county.

SECTION 19. An appellant from decrees of a probate court settling different accounts of an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee or receiver may unite his appeals in one notice of appeal, and it 4 shall thereupon be entered as one appeal in the supreme judicial court;
5 and an appeal taken by another appellant from any of the same decrees, 6 or from another decree made at the same time or earlier, settling any 7 other account of such fiduciary, may be entered in the supreme judi-
8 cial court as part of the matter comprised in the appeal previously 9 entered. The court may, upon appeal, deal with such different accounts 10 as if they formed one continuous account, and may give effect to any 11 alterations which it may make in any account by altering the balance of 12 the last account without altering the balance of any previous account.

1 Section 20. The supreme judicial court may at any time, upon
2 terms, consolidate any separate appeals from a probate court pending 3 therein, and may thereafter deal with such consolidated appeals to-4 gether or otherwise, as justice requires.

1 Section 21. Appeals and petitions therefor shall be entered on the 2 same docket with cases in equity, and shall have the same rights as to 3 hearing and determination as such cases.

1 Section 22. After an appeal has been claimed and filed in the reg-
2 istry of probate, all proceedings in pursuance of the act appealed from 3 shall, except as otherwise expressly provided, be stayed until the deter-4 mination thereof by the supreme judicial court; but if, upon such appeal, 5 such act is affirmed, it shall thereafter be of full force and validity. An 6 appeal from an interlocutory order or decree, however, shall not suspend 7 proceedings under the same pending the appeal, except as otherwise ex-8 pressedly provided by law, but an appeal from an order granting or refusing 9 jury issues shall be heard and determined by the full court without wait-10 ing further proceedings in the probate court.

1 Section 23. An appeal from a final or interlocutory order or decree
2 in equity of a probate court made in the exercise of any jurisdiction in 3 equity shall not suspend or stay proceedings under such order or decree 4 pending the appeal. But the probate court or a justice of the supreme 5 judicial court, in case of such appeal, may stay all proceedings under 6 such order or decree and make necessary or proper orders to protect the 7 rights of persons interested pending the appeal; and any such order of 8 the probate court for a stay of proceedings or for protection of any such 9 rights may be varied or discharged by a justice of the supreme judicial 10 court upon motion, and shall not be otherwise subject to an appeal.

1 Section 24. The preceding section shall apply to orders or decrees
2 of probate courts in proceedings under chapter two hundred and eight
3 and under sections thirty-two and thirty-seven of chapter two hundred 4 and nine.

Section 25. A decree of a probate court removing an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee or receiver shall have effect, notwithstanding an appeal therefrom, until otherwise ordered by a justice of the supreme judicial court. The probate court may in such case appoint a successor to the person removed, and the latter shall forthwith deliver all the property of the estate held by him to his successor, who shall proceed in the performance of his duties in like manner as if no appeal had been taken; but if the decree of removal is reversed by a final decree of the supreme judicial court, the powers of such successor shall thereupon cease and he shall forthwith deliver to his predecessor in trust, or to such person as the court may order, all property of the estate in his hands.

Section 26. A decree of a probate court made under the preceding section shall have effect, notwithstanding an appeal therefrom, until otherwise finally determined by the supreme judicial court.

Section 27. After an appeal is claimed from an order or decree referred to in the preceding sections, and before such appeal has been finally determined, a justice of the supreme judicial court may suspend or modify such order or decree during the pendency of such appeal.

Section 28. The supreme judicial court may, upon appeal, reverse or affirm, in whole or in part, any decree or order of the probate court, and may enter such decree thereon as the probate court ought to have entered, may remand the case for further proceedings, or make any other order therein as law and justice may require.

Section 29. If an appellant fails to pay the entry fee in the supreme judicial court or otherwise fails to prosecute his appeal, the supreme judicial court, or a justice thereof, may, upon motion of any person interested, affirm the former decree or order, or make such other order as law and justice may require. If the appellant waives his appeal in writing before the copies have been transmitted to the supreme judicial court, the probate court may proceed as if no appeal had been taken; or if he fails to cause the necessary copies to be prepared or otherwise fails to perfect his appeal, the probate court from which the appeal was taken may, upon petition of any person interested, and upon such notice to the appellant as the probate court shall order, dismiss the appeal and affirm the decree or order appealed from, and further proceed as if no appeal had been taken.

General Provisions.

Section 30. The judges of the probate courts or a majority of them shall from time to time make rules for regulating the practice and for conducting the business in their courts in all cases not expressly provided for by law and shall prescribe forms, and, as soon as convenient after making or prescribing them, shall submit a copy of their rules, forms and course of proceedings to the supreme judicial court, which may alter and amend them, and from time to time make such other rules and forms for regulating the proceedings in the probate court as it considers necessary in order to secure regularity and uniformity.
Section 30A. There shall be an administrative committee of the probate courts, hereinafter called the committee, which shall consist of three judges thereof, assigned to service thereon by the chief justice of the supreme judicial court for such period of time as he may deem advisable. The committee shall be authorized to visit any probate court, as a committee or by sub-committee, to recommend uniform practice and procedure, and shall have general advisory powers in relation to such courts. To promote co-ordination in the work of such courts, the committee may from time to time call conferences of any or all of the judges thereof or of other officials connected therewith, and the traveling expenses of such judges or officials for attending such conferences, and also the necessary expenses of the members of the committee incurred in the performance of their duties as aforesaid, shall, subject to the approval of the governor and council, be paid from the state treasury.

Section 31. The supreme judicial court and the probate courts shall make rules requiring notice of any hearing, motion or other proceeding before said courts to be given to parties interested or to their attorneys of record therefor.

Section 32. Judges of the probate courts may transact business out of court at any time and place, if all parties entitled to notice thereon in writing or voluntarily appear; and in such cases their decrees shall be entered as of such sessions of the court as the convenience of the parties may require.

Section 33. Orders of notice and other official acts which are passed as of course and which do not require previous notice to an adverse party may be issued and performed at any time.

Section 34. Probate courts shall have like power and authority for enforcing orders, sentences and decrees made or pronounced in the exercise of any jurisdiction vested in them, and for punishing contempts of such orders, sentences and decrees and other contempts of their authority, as are vested for such or similar purposes in the supreme judicial or superior court in equity in relation to any suit in equity pending therein.

Section 35. A warrant or commission for the appraisal of an estate, for examining the claims against insolvent estates, for the partition of land or for the assignment of dower or curtesy or other interests in land, may be revoked by the court for sufficient cause, and a new commission may be issued or other appropriate proceedings taken.

Section 36. Decrees and orders of probate courts shall be in writing. The registers shall record in books kept therefor such decrees, orders and other proceedings in said courts and such instruments, as shall be determined by rules made from time to time under section thirty.

Section 37. Each register shall keep a docket of all cases and matters in his court, and shall enter therein every case or matter by its Docket and index. Separate index.

appropriate title and number, brief memoranda of all proceedings had and papers filed therein, the dates of such proceedings or filing of such papers, and references to the places in which the proceedings or papers are recorded, if there is a record thereof. He shall also keep a separate alphabetical index of all such cases and matters which shall refer both to said docket and to the files of the court, and a separate alphabetical index of all public administrators seeking appointment or appointed to administer any estates, with the names of such estates. Such docket and indexes shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times.

Section 38. Oaths required in proceedings in probate courts may be administered by the judge, register or assistant register in or out of court or by a justice of the peace or notary public, and, when administered out of court, a certificate thereof shall be returned and filed or recorded with the proceedings; but the judge may require any such oath to be taken before him in open court.

Probate courts to determine and enforce payment for services in connection with administration of estates, etc. 1915, 151, § 6. 224 Mass. 145. 266 Mass. 50. 340. 272 Mass. 499.

Section 39. Probate courts may ascertain and determine the amount due any person for services as appraiser, for premiums of surety companies for acting as surety upon the official bonds of administrators, executors, trustees, guardians, conservators or receivers, or for services rendered by any person in connection with the administration of the estate of a deceased person, or with the administration of any trust, guardianship, conservatorship or receivership; and payment of said amount when ascertained and determined to be due may be enforced summarily by said court upon motion of the person to whom the amount is due in the same manner as a like payment under a decree in equity may be enforced, and execution may also be issued therefor against the executor, administrator, trustee, guardian, conservator or receiver personally as upon a judgment at law.

Enforcement of delivery of property by executors, etc., who resign, etc. 1881, 140. P. S. 150, § 31. R. L. 162, § 48. 1907, 129. 1915, 23.

Section 40. If an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee or receiver resigns or is removed, and neglects or refuses to deliver to his successor all property held by him under the trust, the probate court may, upon application of such successor or any person beneficially interested, order such delivery made, and shall have like powers for enforcing such order as are given to it by section thirty-four.

Section 41. A probate court may, upon application of a person interested in an estate in process of settlement in such court, direct the temporary investment of any money belonging to such estate in securities approved by the judge; or it may authorize the money to be deposited in any bank or institution in the commonwealth empowered to receive such deposits, upon such interest as such bank or institution may agree to pay.

Section 42. A duly authorized attorney at law may enter his appearance as attorney for the party represented by him in any proceeding in a probate court, and all processes and notices served upon him shall have the same force and effect as if served upon the party whom he represents.
1 Section 43. In any proceeding in a probate court, the petitioner or respondent may at any time after the filing of the petition file interrogatories in the registry of probate for the discovery of facts and documents material to the support or defence of the proceeding. All provisions of chapter two hundred and thirty-one relative to interrogatories in civil actions shall, so far as applicable, apply to such interrogatories. If a party neglects or refuses to expunge, amend or answer according to the said chapter, the petition shall be dismissed or its prayer granted, or such other order or decree entered as may be required.

1 Section 44. Upon complaint to a probate court by a person interested in the estate of a deceased person against a person suspected of having fraudulently received, concealed, embezzled or conveyed away any property, real or personal, of the deceased, the court may cite such suspected person, although he is executor or administrator, to appear and be examined on oath upon the matter of the complaint. If the person so cited refuses to appear and submit to examination, or to answer such interrogatories as may be lawfully propounded to him, the court may commit him to jail until he submits to the order of the court. The interrogatories and answers shall be in writing, signed by the party examined, and shall be filed in the court.

1 Section 45. In contested cases before a probate court or before the supreme judicial court on appeal, costs and expenses in the discretion of the court may be awarded to either party, to be paid by the other, or may be awarded to either or both parties to be paid out of the estate which is the subject of the controversy, as justice and equity may require. In any case wherein costs and expenses, or either, may be awarded hereunder to a party, they may be awarded to his counsel or may be apportioned between them. Execution may issue for costs awarded hereunder.

1 Section 46. When personal service is required of any citation issued by a probate court, the court may direct such service to be made by registered mail addressed to the party entitled thereto at his post office address. Further service may be ordered.

1 Section 47. The notice required in any proceeding in a probate court may be dispensed with if all parties entitled thereto assent in writing to such proceeding or waive notice.

1 Section 48. In appraisals of property, the judge or register may appoint such appraiser as provided in section six of chapter one hundred and ninety-five, or appoint only one appraiser if in his opinion the nature of the property makes it advisable.
Section 49. Parties to probate proceedings may select the newspapers in which the notices ordered upon their petitions shall be published, preference to be given to a newspaper, if any, published in the town where the deceased last dwelt, unless, in the judgment of the registrar, the interests of all parties require publication in some other locality; but the court may order the notice published in one other newspaper.

Section 50. A paper or instrument, discharging a claim or purporting to acknowledge the performance of a duty or payment of money for which an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee or receiver is chargeable or accountable in a probate court, shall, upon the request of a party interested, be recorded in the registry of said court; and the registers of probate in their respective counties shall enter, record, index and certify any original paper or instrument offered as aforesaid, and shall receive for such services like compensation as registers of deeds would be entitled to demand for like services. Such compensation shall be paid by the person leaving such paper or instrument for record at the time of leaving it.

Section 51. A register shall make without charge one certified copy of any will proved, inventory returned, account settled, partition of land, assignment of dower or curtesy, and of any order or decree of the court, and shall deliver such copy upon demand to the executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver, widow, heir or other person principally interested.

Section 52. The probate court in which a will has been duly proved, allowed and recorded may, after the expiration of twenty days within which an appeal may be taken from the decree admitting such will to probate, upon the petition of the executor or of a legatee named in such will, or of any person interested in the estate of the testator, and after notice and a hearing, permit the original will, if it appears necessary, to be taken from the files of such court to establish the right or title of such executor, legatee or person to the estate of the testator in any foreign country.

Section 53. County commissioners shall provide and maintain suitable rooms for the use of the probate courts, ample fireproof rooms and suitable alcoves, cases and boxes for the safe keeping of all records, files, papers and documents belonging to the several registries of probate, and shall also provide all books necessary for keeping the records, and all printed blanks and stationery used in probate proceedings.

Section 54. If in the opinion of a justice of the supreme judicial court such fireproof rooms are insufficient, he shall, upon application of the judge or register of probate of the county, certify the need of additional accommodations to the county commissioners of such county, and they shall forthwith provide such additional fireproof rooms and other necessary accommodations.

Section 55. If in the judgment of the county commissioners, public convenience so requires, they may, at the county's expense, cause the files and records of the probate courts, except in the county of Suffolk, to be rearranged, indexed and docketed, worn or defaced docketed renewed 5 and the indexes consolidated, under the direction and supervision of the 6 registers of said courts.

1 SECTION 56. The expense of recording probate proceedings in Suffolk county, not exceeding forty-five hundred dollars in any one year, shall be paid by said county, upon the official certificate of the register, countersigned by a judge of the probate court for said county, in the amounts and to the persons named in such certificate.

1 SECTION 56A. Any judge of a probate court may appoint a guardian ad litem to investigate the facts in any proceeding pending in said court relating to or involving questions as to the care, custody or maintenance of minor children and as to any matter involving domestic relations except those for the investigation of which provision is made by section sixteen of chapter two hundred and eight. Said guardian ad litem shall, before final decree in such proceeding, report in writing to the court the results of the investigation, and such report shall be open to inspection to all the parties in such proceeding or their attorneys. The compensation shall be fixed by the court and shall be paid by the county where the proceeding is held, together with any expenses approved by the court, upon certificate by the judge to the county treasurer. The state police, local police and probation officers shall assist the guardian ad litem so appointed, upon his request.

SESSIONS OF THE COURTS.

1 SECTION 57. The judge of a probate court may keep order in court, and may punish any contempt of his authority.

1 SECTION 58. The probate courts shall always be open, except on Sundays and legal holidays, for hearings, matters in equity, proceedings in contempt and for making orders and decrees in matters before them; but the times of hearings shall be discretionary with the judges of said courts.

1901, 61. R. L. 162, § 56.

1 SECTION 59. A judge of a probate court may adjourn court as occasion requires; and if he is absent at the time appointed for holding court, the register shall adjourn it as he may consider necessary or as the judge may order. The register may also adjourn court when the office of judge is vacant.

R. L. 162, § 57.

1 SECTION 60. If the regular time for holding a probate court occurs on a legal holiday or on the day of a state election, the court shall be held, and all notices, citations, orders and other papers which would otherwise be made returnable at said regular time shall be made returnable on the next secular day thereafter.

SECTION 62. Probate courts shall be held at the following times and in the following towns, at such places therein as the judges shall designate:

For the county of —

Barnstable, at Barnstable, the second and fourth Tuesday of each month except July and August, and the second Tuesdays of July and August.

Section 1. Courts of insolvency shall be courts of record, and the judge and register of probate and insolvency for each county shall be the judge and register of the court of insolvency therefor.

P. S. 157, § 1.
R. L. 163, § 1.

Section 2. Courts of insolvency shall be courts of superior and general jurisdiction with reference to all cases and matters in which they have jurisdiction, and it shall be unnecessary for any order, decree, sentence, warrant, writ or process which may be made, issued or pronounced by them, to set out any adjudication or circumstances with greater particularity than would be required in other courts of superior and general jurisdiction, and the like presumption shall be made in favor of proceedings of the courts of insolvency as would be made in favor of proceedings of other courts of superior and general jurisdiction.

Section 3. Courts of insolvency shall have original jurisdiction in their respective counties of cases of insolvency under this chapter.

G. S. 118, § 2.
P. S. 157, § 2.
R. L. 163, § 3.

Section 4. If a petition in insolvency is within the jurisdiction of more than one court, the court in which it is first filed shall have exclusive jurisdiction thereof if a warrant is issued, and proceedings upon a petition filed in another county shall be stayed until the court in which the petition was first filed determines whether a warrant shall be issued.

Section 5. Courts of insolvency shall have equity jurisdiction, concurrent with the supreme judicial court and the superior court, of all cases and matters pending in said courts of insolvency, and such jurisdiction may be exercised upon petition, according to the usual course of proceedings in courts of insolvency.

Section 6. Courts of insolvency shall have like power to enforce orders, decrees and sentences made by them in the exercise of any authority or jurisdiction conferred upon them and to punish contempts of their authority as the supreme judicial court has in like cases.

Section 7. Courts of insolvency shall be held at the shire towns of the county at times appointed by the court, and may be held at such other places as will best promote the convenience of the public. They shall always be open, except on Sunday and legal holidays, for hearings.
5 matters in equity, contempt proceedings and for making orders and 6 decrees in all matters before them; but the times of all hearings shall 7 be discretionary with the judges of said courts. The judge or, in his 8 absence or in case of a vacancy in that office, the register may adjourn 9 any court or meeting as occasion requires, and all acts lawfully done at 10 an adjourned meeting shall have like effect as if done at the original 11 meeting.

1 SECTION 8. The judge may approve compositions and assignees' bonds, approve or order sales, receive petitions, issue notices of order 2 and warrants and do such other official acts as are done as matters of course and do not require notice.

165 Mass. 317.

1 SECTION 9. The judge may keep order in his court and punish any 2 contempt of his authority, administer oaths, issue commissions, compel
3 the attendance of witnesses and the giving of evidence in like manner
4 as the superior court; and may appoint necessary officers to attend upon 5 the court to keep order therein and transact its business.

1 SECTION 10. Proceedings in courts of insolvency shall be matters
2 of record, and the assignment and certificate of discharge shall be re-3 corded in full. Other proceedings need not be so recorded, but shall be 4 carefully numbered, filed and kept in the office of the register. Copies
5 of all parts of the records and of records of prior proceedings in insolvency
6 deposited in his office, certified by the register, shall be prima facie 7 evidence of the facts therein stated.

6 Cush. 155, 362. 4 Allen, 77. 99 Mass. 64.
10 Cush. 345. 5 Allen, 129. 130 Mass. 368.
3 Gray, 252.

1 SECTION 11. Each register shall keep a docket with an alphabetical 2 index of all cases in his court, in which he shall enter every case by its 3 appropriate title and number with brief memorandum of all proceedings 4 and papers filed therein. The docket, books, records, documents and 5 papers in his office relative to insolvency shall at all reasonable times be 6 open to public inspection. He shall make computations of dividends and 7 orders of distribution, shall furnish to the assignee a certified copy of the 8 schedules of creditors and assets filed in each case, and of the orders of 9 distribution, and with each copy of an order of distribution a dividend
10 sheet, without charge therefor. He may administer oaths in proceedings 11 before the court, except the oath named in section eighty-eight.

1 SECTION 12. Assignments, and processes issued by the court shall be
2 under its seal, and shall be executed and obeyed throughout the commonwealth; and any person to whom they are legally directed may serve 3 them in any county. Warrants shall be returnable not less than ten nor 4 more than sixty days from the date of issue.

R. L. 163, § 12.

1 SECTION 13. Parties to insolvency proceedings may select the news
2 papers where notices ordered upon their petitions shall be published, but 3 the court may order the notice published in one other newspaper.

COURTS OF INSOLVENCY.

SECTION 14. Each county shall provide suitable court rooms and, in the town where the registry of probate and insolvency is situated, a suitable fireproof room where the records, books, documents and papers relative to the business of the court and the records in cases in insolvency shall be kept.

SECTION 15. Expenses attending the sessions of the courts and the transaction of business therein, for blank books, records, blank forms and stationery necessary for the business of the courts shall be paid by the commonwealth.

SECTION 16. The judges or a majority of them shall, as provided in section thirty of chapter two hundred and fifteen, from time to time make rules and prescribe forms for their courts.

SECTION 17. The supreme judicial court shall have general superintendence and jurisdiction of cases arising under this chapter; and, except as otherwise provided, may, upon the bill, petition or other proper process of a party aggrieved, hear and determine the case as a court of equity.

SECTION 18. The supreme judicial court and the courts of insolvency shall make rules requiring notice to be given to parties interested or their attorney of record of any motion, hearing or other proceeding before said courts.

SECTION 19. A duly authorized attorney at law may enter his appearance as attorney for the party represented by him in any proceeding in a court of insolvency. Processes and notices served upon such attorney shall have like effect as if served upon the party whom he represents.

PETITION BY DEBTOR. FIRST MEETING.

SECTION 20. An inhabitant of the commonwealth owing debts, contracted while such inhabitant, may file a petition in the court of insolvency for the county, if any, where he last resided or had a usual place of business for three consecutive months, otherwise in the court for the county where he resides or has a usual place of business, stating his inability to pay his debts and his willingness to assign his property for the benefit of his creditors, and praying that such proceedings may be had as are provided in this chapter.

SECTION 21. If it appears to the satisfaction of the judge that the debts due from the petitioner amount to two hundred dollars or more, he shall forthwith sign and issue a warrant to the sheriff of the county or one of his deputies ordering him forthwith as messenger to take possession 5 of all property of the debtor not exempt from attachment, and of all his 6 deeds, books of account and papers, and keep the same safely until the 7 appointment of an assignee; to publish notice in such newspaper or news-
8 papers as the warrant specifies, send written notice by mail or otherwise 9 to all creditors upon the schedule furnished him by the debtor and to to give such personal or other notice to any persons concerned as the war-11 rant orders. Such notice shall state that a warrant has issued against 12 the property of the debtor; that the payment of any debts and the de-13 liveries of any property belonging to such debtor, to him or for his use, and 14 the transfer of any property by him are forbidden; that a meeting of 15 the creditors of the debtor to prove their debts and choose one or more 16 assignees of his property will be held at a court of insolvency to be held 17 at a time and place stated in the warrant, not less than ten nor more than 18 sixty days after the date of its issue.

1 Section 22. The messenger shall forthwith demand and receive from 2 the debtor and other persons all the property in his or their possession, 3 ordered in the warrant to be assigned, with all deeds, books of account and 4 papers of the debtor relative thereto.

P. S. 157, § 18.
R. L. 163, § 22.
12 Met. 464.
2 Cush. 48.
8 Allen, 134.
146 Mass. 69.

1 Section 23. Upon demand by the messenger under the preceding
2 section, the debtor shall forthwith deliver to him such of the property
3 and other things demanded as is in his possession or power, and shall 4 disclose the situation of such portion thereof as is not in his possession.
5 The debtor shall also, except as provided in the following section, within 6 three days after the date of the warrant make on oath and deliver to the 7 messenger a schedule, containing a full and true account of his creditors, 8 with the residence of each, if known to the debtor, and the amount due 9 to each, and the nature of each debt, whether founded on written security, 10 account or otherwise, and also the true cause and consideration thereof, 11 and a statement of any existing mortgage, pledge or other collateral 12 security given for its payment.

1 Section 24. If by accident or mistake such schedule is not delivered 2 to the messenger within said three days it shall be so delivered within 3 such time thereafter as will enable the messenger to comply with the 4 warrant, and such delay shall not affect the granting of a certificate of 5 discharge unless caused by the debtor's default.

1 Section 25. If the court finds that the property of the debtor or any 2 part thereof is perishable or likely to deteriorate in value before an as-
3 signee can be appointed, it may order the same sold in such manner as it
4 orders under the direction of the messenger who shall hold the funds
5 received in place of the property sold.

1 Section 26. After warrant has issued against the estate of an insol-
2 vent debtor and before the appointment of an assignee, the judge may 3 order the messenger to commence action for recovery of a debt due the 4 debtor or do any other act which might be done by an assignee. The 5 messenger shall thereupon in his own name commence and prosecute 6 such action or do any other act so ordered as if he were assignee. If, upon the appointment of an assignee, an action or proceeding commenced by the messenger has not been determined, the assignee may in his own name or in the name of the messenger with his consent prosecute it or otherwise proceed.

Section 27. The debtor shall, except as provided in the following section, within five days after the date of the warrant make on oath and deliver to the register a schedule of his creditors as provided in section twenty-three, and a schedule of all his property, with a description thereof, stating where situated, and all encumbrances thereon, with the date of each and the consideration thereof.

R. L. 163, § 27.

Section 28. If by accident or mistake such schedules are not de-divered to the register within said five days they shall be so delivered before or at the first meeting of the creditors and such delay shall not affect the granting of a certificate of discharge unless caused by the debtor’s default.

Section 29. At the meeting held in pursuance of the notice, the messenger shall make return of the warrant and his doings thereon, and deliver to the register the schedule of creditors received from the debtor.
If the court finds that the notice to creditors required by section twenty-one has not been given, it shall adjourn the meeting and order such notice.

Section 30. If the debtor dies after the warrant has been issued, the proceedings shall be concluded in like manner and with like effect as if he had lived.

R. L. 163, § 30.

Debts and Proof of Claims.

Section 31. Debts due and payable from the debtor at the time of the first publication of notice of issuing the warrant may be proved and allowed against his estate at any meeting; and debts at that time absolutely due, although not payable, may be proved and allowed as if payable, with a discount or rebate of interest if no interest is payable by the contract. Money due on a bottomry or respondentia bond or policy of insurance may be proved and allowed, if the contingency or loss hapsens before the making of the first dividend, in like manner as if it had happened before the first publication of the notice. If the debtor is liable for a debt by reason of having made or endorsed a bill of exchange or promissory note before said first publication, or of the payment by a party to a bill or note of a part of the money secured thereby, or of payment of an amount by a surety of the debtor in a contract, if the pay-m ent is made before the making of the first dividend, such debt may be proved and allowed as if due and payable by the debtor before the first publication. All demands against the debtor for or on account of goods or chattels wrongfully obtained, taken or withheld by him, may be proved and allowed as debts, up to the value thereof.

1 SECTION 32. An equitable liability of an insolvent debtor may be proved and allowed against his estate in like manner and subject to like conditions as a legal claim.

1 SECTION 33. If any of the property of a debtor consists of a lease or written agreement, whereby he is liable for the rent therein reserved or for the use and occupation of premises as therein stipulated, the assignee at any time may, and upon written request by the debtor, or by the lessor or those having his estate in the premises shall, within twenty days after such request, by a writing filed in the case, elect to accept and hold under said lease or agreement or to disclaim it. If he elects to disclaim, such lease or written agreement shall be considered to have been surrendered as of the day when said disclaimer was so filed. If the debtor is discharged, he shall be discharged from all liability under or by reason of said lease or agreement, whether the assignee does or does not so disclaim it; and the lessor or those having his estate in the premises may prove any damages, caused by such surrender, as a debt against the estate of the debtor; but this section shall not apply to leases or written agreements as aforesaid in force on the twenty-second day of April in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-nine.

1 SECTION 34. Mutual credit or mutual debts between the debtor and a creditor shall be set off and the balance allowed or paid.

R. L. 163, § 34. 3 Gray, 237. 4 Allen, 367. 223 Mass. 553.

1 SECTION 35. The assignee, by written assignment of a non-negotiable legal chose in action, may prove a claim in insolvency, in his own name, subject to all defences and rights of counter-claim, recoupment or set-off to which the debtor would have been entitled if the claim had been proved in the name of the assignor.

1 SECTION 36. A creditor having a mortgage or pledge of property of a debtor, or a lien thereon, to secure payment of a debt claimed by him, may require such property to be sold, and the proceeds applied toward payment of his debt, and he shall be admitted as a creditor for the residue. The sale shall be made in such manner as the court orders, and the creditor and assignee shall execute necessary and proper deeds and papers. If the creditor does not require such sale and join in the conveyance, he may release and deliver to the assignee the property held as security, and be admitted as a creditor for all of his debt. If the property is not so sold or released and delivered the creditor shall not prove any part of his debt.

Mortgage, pledge or lien. 1838, 163, § 3. 9 Allen, 175. 143 Mass. 376, 455.

1 SECTION 37. A mortgage of land recorded more than four months after its date shall not be valid against an assignee of the estate of the mortgagor if insolvency proceedings are begun within one year from the recording of the mortgage.

Section 38. A mortgage or pledge of property, or payment of money given or made by an insolvent debtor for legal services rendered or to be rendered in, or in contemplation of, insolvency proceedings, shall be valid for such amount as the court allows. An appeal from the decision of said court shall be allowed in the manner provided in section forty-five.

Section 39. No debt shall be proved or allowed unless the creditor, or, if he resides in a foreign country and the debt is founded on a contract made by the debtor with the consignee or agent of the creditor residing in the United States, such consignee or agent makes oath in substance as follows:

I, do swear that, of whom proceedings in insolvency have been instituted, at and before the date of such proceedings was and still is justly and truly indebted to me in the sum of , for which sum or any part thereof I have not, nor has any other person to my use, to my knowledge or belief, received any security or satisfaction whatever, beyond what has been disposed of agreeably to law. And I do further swear that said claim was not procured by me for the purpose of influencing the proceedings in this case. And I do further swear that I have not directly or indirectly made or entered into any bargain, arrangement or agreement, express or implied, to sell, transfer or dispose of my claim, or any part of my claim, against said debtor, nor have directly or indirectly received or taken or made or entered into any bargain, arrangement, or agreement, express or implied, to take or receive directly or indirectly any money, property, or consideration whatsoever to myself, or to any person or persons to my use or benefit, under or with any understanding or agreement, express or implied, whereby my vote for assignee or my assent to the debtor's discharge is or shall be in any way affected, influenced, or controlled, or whereby the proceedings in this case are or shall be affected, influenced or controlled.

No claim shall be allowed unless all the statements set forth in the oath are true.

Section 40. If the creditor is disabled by absence from the commonwealth, illness or other cause from proving his claim, the above oath may be made by his agent or attorney testifying to the best of his knowledge and belief; but the court may require further proof of the statements therein.

Section 41. The oath may be made within the commonwealth before a justice of the peace, notary public or special commissioner, and without the commonwealth, before a justice of the peace, notary public or commissioner for Massachusetts, and, if the creditor is in a foreign country, before an ambassador, minister, consul or vice-consul of the United States. But the court may at any time require the affiant to appear personally before it to be further interrogated on oath. The debtor and any party proving a debt may be examined on oath in presence of the judge on all matters relative thereto.

Section 42. If a claim is presented for proof before the election of an assignee, and the court is of opinion that the validity or right of such claim ought to be investigated by the assignee, it may postpone proof of the claim till after the assignee is chosen.
1 Section 43. A person who has accepted a preference, having reasonable cause to believe that it was made or given by the debtor contrary 1 to any provision of this chapter, shall not prove the debt or claim on account of which such preference was made or given, nor receive a divi-1 dend thereon.

1 Section 44. The court shall allow all debts proved and shall cause
2 a list thereof to be made and certified by the register. It may upon
3 application by the assignee, a creditor, or the debtor, examine on oath
4 any person who has made proof of a claim and may summon any person
5 to give evidence relative thereto, and may alter or expunge such claim if 6 the evidence shows it to be founded in whole or in part in fraud, illegality 7 or mistake.

165 Mass. 582. 190 Mass. 507.

1 Section 45. A supposed creditor whose claim is wholly or in part 2 rejected or an assignee who is dissatisfied with the allowance of a claim 3 may appeal from the decision to the superior court; but no appeal shall 4 be allowed unless claimed and notice thereof given to the register, to be 5 entered with the record of the proceedings, and also to the assignee or 6 creditor, as the case may be, within ten days after the decision appealed 7 from. The appeal shall be entered at the return day of the superior court
8 for the county next after the expiration of fourteen days from the time 9 of claiming it. If the appellant in writing waives his appeal before the 10 entry thereof, proceedings may be had in the court of insolvency as if 11 no appeal had been taken.

165 Mass. 582.

1 Section 46. Upon the entry of an appeal the appellant shall file in 2 court a statement of his claim substantially as in a declaration at law.
3 The subsequent pleadings and proceedings shall be substantially as in 4 an action at law, except that no execution shall be awarded against the 5 assignee for the amount of a debt found due the creditor.

1 Section 47. The final judgment of the court shall be conclusive, and 2 the lists of debts shall, if necessary, be altered to conform thereto. The 3 prevailing party shall be entitled to costs, to be taxed and recovered
4 as in an action at law; if recovered against the assignee, they shall be 5 allowed out of the estate.

1 Section 48. A bill of exchange, promissory note or other instrument
2 used as evidence upon the proof of a claim and left in court or deposited
3 in the registry may be delivered by the register to the person who used 4 it, upon his filing a copy thereof attested by the register, who shall also 5 endorse upon it the name of the party against whose estate it has been 6 proved and the date and amount of any dividend declared thereon.

ASSIGNMENT AND Assignee.

1 Section 49. The creditors shall, subject to the court’s approval,
2 choose one or more assignees of the estate of the debtor in the presence
3 of the court at the first meeting. The choice shall be made by a majority 4 in value of the creditors who have proved their debts; but if the number a preferred claim shall vote thereon, except on so much of said claim as exceeds the amount preferred by law. If no choice is made by the creditors at said meeting, the court shall appoint one or more assignees. If an assignee so chosen or appointed fails within four days to accept in writing the trust, the court may fill the vacancy. The court may appoint additional assignees or order a new election, or it may at the first meeting without an election appoint one or more disinterested assignees.

SECTION 50. The court at any time may, and, upon written request by one fourth in number and value of the creditors who have proved their claims, shall, require the assignee to file a bond, approved by the judge, to the judge and his successors in office, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, which shall enure to the benefit of all creditors proving their claims and may be prosecuted in like manner as an administration bond. An assignee failing to give a bond within such time as the court orders, not exceeding ten days after notice to him of such order, shall be removed and another appointed by the court.

SECTION 51. The judge shall, by an instrument under his hand, assign and convey to the assignee all the property of the debtor, not exempt from attachment, and all his deeds, books and papers relative thereto.

SECTION 53. An assignee appointed in, but residing out of, the commonwealth shall not receive the instrument of assignment until he shall have appointed an agent as provided in sections eight to ten, inclusive, of chapter one hundred and ninety-five, and said sections shall apply to such appointment except that said writing shall be filed in the registry of insolvency. Notice of a new appointment of an agent, with his name and address, shall be given in the next notice required to be given by the assignee, or as the court may order.

SECTION 54. The assignment shall vest in the assignee all the property of the debtor, not exempt from being taken on execution, which he could have lawfully sold, assigned or conveyed at the time of the first publication of the notice of issuing the warrant in case of voluntary proceedings, or at the time of the first publication of notice of the filing of the petition in case of involuntary proceedings, and shall, subject to the following section, dissolve any attachment on mesne process made not more than four months prior to the said first publication. The as-ignment shall vest in the assignee all debts due the debtor or a person for his use, and all liens and securities therefor, and all his rights of action for, and of redeeming, property. The assignee may redeem all mort-12 gages, conditional contracts, pledges and liens of or upon any property of 13 the debtor, or sell it subject to such mortgage or other encumbrance, and 14 if a mortgage is foreclosed pending proceedings in insolvency and before, 15 or within sixty days after, the appointment of an assignee the assignee 16 may redeem the same within sixty days after his appointment, with reme
17 dies similar to those provided for the redemption of mortgages before 18 foreclosure.

1 Section 55. If a debtor whose property is attached conveys before
2 judgment in the action any part of such property, and subsequently 3 thereto and before execution issues, proceedings are commenced by or 4 against him as an insolvent debtor, or if a dissolution of an attachment
5 under the preceding section might prevent the property attached from 6 passing to the assignee, the court in which proceedings in insolvency are 7 pending or to which the writ of attachment is returnable, may, upon 8 application on or before the day of the third meeting of creditors by a 9 person interested, for cause, order the lien created by the attachment to 10 continue. The action may be continued or execution stayed until the 11 assignee is chosen and takes charge of the action. The assignee may 12 proceed with the action and levy the execution at the expense of the 13 estate; and the amount recovered, exclusive of costs due to the original 14 plaintiff, shall vest in the assignee.

1 Section 56. The assignee shall demand and receive from the mes
2 senger and all other persons the property in their hands assigned or 3 intended to be assigned under this chapter; and shall keep a regular 4 account of all money received by him as assignee, to which every creditor
5 shall at reasonable times have free access.

1 Section 57. The assignee shall, unless the court otherwise orders, at 2 or before the second meeting of the creditors, make and return on oath
3 to the court a true inventory of all the debtor's property, of all debts
4 due the debtor or another person for his use, of all his rights of action
5 for and of redeeming property, which the assignment has vested in such 6 assignee and which have come to his possession or knowledge. The 7 property included in such inventory shall be appraised in like manner as 8 the estate of a deceased person, and the appraisal returned at or before 9 said meeting.

1 Section 58. The assignee shall account for all property of the debtor
2 vested in him by the assignment, at the appraised value, except as herein
3 provided. He shall make no profit by the increase and sustain no loss by 4 the decrease or destruction, without his fault, of any part of the property;
5 if he sells any thereof for more than the appraised value, he shall ac
6 count for the excess, but if he sells for less, the court may, if it appears him for the loss. In either case the assignee shall return to the court a true account of sales, and shall sell the property at public auction unless the court, upon petition therefor, otherwise orders.

Section 50. He may recover all the property and debts, in his own name, as the debtor might have done had no assignment been made. If at the date of the assignment an action is pending in the name of the debtor for the recovery of a debt or other thing which might or ought to pass to the assignee by the assignment, the assignee shall, if he so requires, be admitted to prosecute the action in his own name, in like manner and with like effect as if commenced by him. No action pending in the name of the assignee shall be abated by his death or removal; but the surviving, remaining or new assignee, as the case may be, shall be admitted to prosecute the action. The assignment by the judge shall be conclusive evidence of the authority of an assignee to sue.

Section 62. The assignee shall, as soon as may be after receiving any money belonging to the estate, deposit it in a bank in his name as assignee, or otherwise keep it distinct and apart from all other money in his possession; and shall as far as practicable keep all other property of the estate separate and apart from all other property in his possession, or designated by appropriate marks, so that it may be easily and clearly distinguished and not be exposed or liable to be taken as his property or for the payment of his debts.

Section 63. If the court finds that the distribution of the estate may be delayed by litigation or other cause it may order the temporary investment of the money of such estate in securities approved by it, or may authorize its deposit in a bank in the commonwealth upon such interest as the bank may contract with the assignee to pay thereon.

Section 64. The court may for cause order the messenger or assignee to carry on the business of the debtor or any part thereof under its direction.
1 Section 65. The assignee shall give written notice to all known creditors by mail or otherwise of all dividends, and such notice of meeting after the first as the judge orders.

1 Section 66. He shall be allowed by the court from the money in his hands the necessary disbursements made by him in the performance of his duty, and a reasonable compensation for his services.

1 Section 67. He may, under the direction of the court submit any controversy arising in the settlement of claims by or against the estate to the determination of arbitrators to be chosen by him and the adverse party; and may under such direction compromise and settle any such controversy if in his judgment it is proper and for the interest of the creditors.

1 Section 68. If the court finds that the title to any property of the estate in the hands of the assignee is in dispute and that the property is perishable or liable to deteriorate in value, it may, upon petition by the assignee and notice to the claimant, or his agent, order it sold under the direction of the assignee, who shall hold the proceeds in place of the property sold; and such proceeds shall be the measure of the value of the property in an action or controversy between the parties. But this section shall not prevent the recovery of the property from the possession of the assignee by replevin commenced at any time before the court orders the sale.

1 Section 69. When an assignee has received from the estate assets sufficient to pay fifty per cent of the debts and claims proved against it, he shall certify the fact and render his accounts therefor to the court; and when he has received twenty-five per cent more from the assets, he shall in like manner certify and render his accounts therefor. He shall also certify and render his accounts when required by the court.

1 Section 70. At a meeting called by order of the judge in his discretion for the purpose, and which shall be called upon the petition of a majority of the creditors in number or value, the creditors may, with the consent of the court, remove an assignee by such vote as is provided in section forty-nine for the choice of assignee.
R. L. 163, § 70.

1 Section 71. If the court, upon complaint of any person interested in the estate, after notice and a hearing, finds that an assignee has fraudulently received, concealed, embezzled or conveyed away any of the money or other property of the estate or has been interested in an action relative to said estate for the purpose of securing to himself a preference or priority over the other creditors, or has in possession or control any part of the estate with intent to appropriate the same unlawfully to his own use, or has been guilty of a fraudulent act relative thereto it may remove him.

1 Section 72. The court may also remove an assignee who, having removed from the commonwealth, unreasonably refuses or neglects to prove himself.
obey a lawful order for calling meetings of the creditors, to settle his accounts, or otherwise to perform his duties; or for any other sufficient cause.

SECTION 73. An assignee may with the consent of the court resign his trust and be discharged therefrom.

SECTION 74. Vacancies caused by death or otherwise in the office of assignee may be filled by the court or in its discretion by an election by the creditors as provided in section forty-nine at a regular meeting or at a meeting called therefor, after written notice thereof to all known creditors by such person as the court orders.

9 Allen, 197, 190.

SECTION 75. The resignation or removal of an assignee shall not release him from performing all things required of him for the proper closing up of his trust and the transmission thereof to his successors, nor affect his liability or that of a surety on his bond.

SECTION 76. If by death or otherwise the number of assignees is reduced, the estate of the debtor not lawfully disposed of shall vest in the remaining assignees, or the persons selected to fill vacancies, with the same powers and duties relative thereto as if originally chosen.

P. S. 157, § 66. R. L. 163, § 76.

SECTION 77. A former assignee, his executor or administrator, upon request and at the expense of the estate, shall make and execute to the new assignee all deeds, conveyances and assurances, and do all other lawful acts, necessary to enable him to recover and receive all the estate; and the court may pass orders to secure performance of the duties of a former assignee, and the rights and interests of all persons interested in the estate.

SECTION 78. No person who has received a preference contrary to this chapter shall vote or be eligible as assignee; but no title to property, sold, transferred or conveyed by an assignee shall be affected by reason of his ineligibility.

SECTION 79. An assignee refusing or unreasonably neglecting to execute an instrument when lawfully required by the court, or disobeying a lawful order or decree of the court, may be committed to jail in the county where found or where he resided when appointed, until he obeys such order or decree.

SECTION 80. If an assignee has died and it does not appear of record that his accounts have been settled or that the property of the estate has been disposed of or distributed by him, and the court in which proceedings in insolvency were commenced, upon petition by a creditor or the insolvent or a person claiming under either of them, after public notice and a hearing, finds as alleged in such petition that there is property to which the assignee would be entitled if living and which, if real estate, does not appear of record to have been conveyed by him or his heirs, 9 representatives or devisees, it shall, unless cause is shown to the contrary, 10 although there may be no record of the proceedings in the case, appoint 11 an assignee who may be required to give bond in such form and with such 12 surety or sureties as it may order. Such property shall thereupon vest 13 in said assignee, shall be sold at public or private sale by him and the net 14 proceeds disposed of as hereinafter provided.

1 Section 81. The assignee shall give notice of his appointment in a 2 daily newspaper published in Boston and in one published in the county 3 where appointed, once in each of five successive weeks, calling upon cred- 4 itors to file their claims in said court within three months from a date 5 stated in the notice subsequent to the first publication thereof. The 6 court shall hear and decide all claims so filed within said period, subject 7 to appeal in like manner as other claims in insolvency, and all other claims 8 shall be barred. When the amount due on such claims finally allowed 9 has been ascertained or upon the expiration of said period without claim, 10 the assignee shall apply for a decree of distribution, which shall be made 11 after public notice, shall designate the claimants, to whom and in what 12 proportions the amount in his hands shall be paid, and shall bind all 13 parties. But this and the preceding section shall not divest any title 14 held by a bona fide purchaser claiming directly or indirectly under the 15 insolvent.

EXAMINATION OF DEBTOR.

1 Section 82. The debtor shall, if required by the court at any time 2 before the granting of his certificate, upon reasonable notice, attend and 3 submit to an examination on oath before the court, by the assignee or by 4 a creditor, relative to his trade and dealings, his property and debts, and 5 all matters affecting the settlement of his estate; and upon cause shown 6 by affidavit of any person interested in the estate, the court may summon 7 any person suspected of having fraudulently received, concealed, em- 8 bezled or conveyed away property of the debtor, or of having assets of 9 the debtor in his hands, or having knowledge of any material rela- 10 tive to the assets or dealings of the debtor, to appear and submit to an 11 examination in like manner. If the person summoned fails after notice 12 to appear and submit to such examination, or to answer such interroga- 13 tories as are lawfully propounded to him, the court may commit him to 14 the jail of the county until he submits to the order of the court. The judge 15 may require such examinations to be in writing, signed by the person 16 examined, and filed in court.

1 Section 83. If the debtor is in jail on a proceeding for or on account 2 of a debt or claim provable against his estate, at any time before the grant- 3 ing of his certificate and if his attendance is required before the court or 4 the assignee, or at a meeting of his creditors, the judge may, by a writ 5 require the jailer to produce the debtor for said purposes, at a time and 6 place specified therein.

1 Section 84. If the debtor, by reason of imprisonment, illness or 2 other sufficient cause, is unable to attend before the court or the assignee 3 or at a meeting of his creditors, the court or a person appointed by it and 4 the assignee, or a person appointed by him, shall conduct the examine- 5 tion of the debtor in jail or elsewhere, if within the commonwealth.
COURTS OF INSOLVENCY. [Chap. 216.

Section 85. If the debtor is without the commonwealth and unable to return and personally attend at any of the times and for the purposes specified in this chapter, and if the court finds such absence was not caused by his wilful default, and as soon as may be after the removal of such impediment he offers to attend and submit to an examination on oath before the court and the assignee as herein provided and to do all things required by this chapter for obtaining his certificate, he shall be entitled thereto in like manner as if he had done the same things at the times herein provided.

Section 86. The debtor shall, at the expense of the estate, make and execute such deeds and writings and endorse such bills, notes and other negotiable papers, draw such checks and orders for money deposited in banks or elsewhere and do such other lawful acts as the assignee reasonably requires and as are necessary or useful to confirm the assignment, and enable the assignee to demand, recover and receive all property so assigned, especially any part thereof without the commonwealth.

Section 87. If the debtor refuses or unreasonably neglects to execute an instrument lawfully required by the court or disobeys a lawful order or decree, the court shall issue its warrant to a civil officer, commanding him to arrest and commit the debtor to the jail in the county where he may be found, or where he dwelt at the time of his insolvency until he obeys such order or decree.

SECOND AND THIRD MEETINGS. OATH AND DISCHARGE.

Section 88. The judge shall appoint a second meeting of the creditors, to be held at a court not more than three months after the date of the warrant. The debtor may then amend and correct his schedule of creditors, and shall take and subscribe an oath before the court, which shall be certified by him and filed in the case, in substance as follows:

I, do swear that the account of my creditors contained in the schedule made and signed by me and now on file in court is in all respects just and true, according to my best knowledge and belief. And I do further swear, that I have delivered to the messenger, all my estate, not exempt from attachment, except such as has been necessarily expended for the support of myself and my family, and all my books of account and papers, relative to my said estate, that were within my possession or power when the same were demanded of me by the messenger; that I have delivered to my assignee such of my said estate, books and papers as has since come to my possession; and that if any other estate, books of account or papers, which shall or ought to be assigned and delivered to the assignee, shall hereafter come to my knowledge or possession, I will forthwith disclose or deliver them to him. And I do further swear that there is not any part of my property made over or disposed of in any manner for the future benefit of myself or my family, or in order to defraud my creditors.

Section 89. If a debtor or assignee who is required to make oath before the judge is unable by reason of illness or other cause to attend personally in court, the oath may be administered out of court by the judge or by a person to whom a commission is issued therefor.

Section 90. If by reason of proceedings in the supreme judicial court or for other cause, a failure to call or hold a second or third meeting...
3 within the time provided occurs, the court may, upon petition by an interested party, order such meeting held at a subsequent date.

P. S. 157, § 78. R. L. 163, § 90. 4 Cush. 329. 7 Cush. 341.

1 Section 91. Upon the death, resignation or neglect of the assignee, or his absence from the county, whereby a meeting to be notified by him is liable to be defeated, it may be notified by the register on order of the judge upon petition by an interested party, with notice at the discretion of the judge to the assignee if living.

R. L. 163, § 91.

1 Section 92. The judge shall appoint a third meeting of the creditors to be held within six months after the appointment of the assignee. If at such meeting or a meeting thereafter, the court finds that the debtor has made a full disclosure and delivery of all his property as herein required, and that he has conformed to the laws relative to insolvent debtors, the judge shall grant him a certificate which shall state all fiduciary debts exempt from discharge, and be in substance as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

, SS.

COURT OF INSOLVENCY.

To all people to whom these presents shall come, I, A. B., judge of the court of insolvency for said county of , send greeting.

Whereas it has been made to appear to me that C. D., of B., in said county of , whose estate has been assigned for the benefit of his creditors according to law, has made a full disclosure and delivery of all his estate, and that he has conformed to the provisions of law in that behalf and made, provided, I do certify that said C. D. is absolutely and wholly discharged from all his debts which have been or shall be proved against his estate assigned as aforesaid, and from all debts provable against his estate, and which are founded on any contract made by him within this commonwealth or to be performed within the same, and from all debts which are provable as aforesaid, and which are founded on any contract made by him, and due to any persons who were resident within this commonwealth on the day of last, being the day of the first publication of the notice of the warrant issued for the seizure of the estate of said C. D. — or in involuntary proceedings — of the first publication of the notice of the filing of the petition against said C. D.; and from all claims against him for or on account of any goods or chattels wrongfully obtained, taken or withheld by him, according to the provisions of chapter two hundred and sixteen of the General Laws. And I do further certify that said C. D. is by force of said chapter forever discharged and exempted from arrest or imprisonment in an action or upon any proceeding, for or on account of any debt or demand which might have been proved against his estate assigned as aforesaid.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court this day of in the year .

1 Section 93. The debtor shall thereupon, except as provided in sections ninety-six and ninety-seven, be discharged from debts proved against his estate and from all debts provable under this chapter and founded on any contract made by him while an inhabitant of the commonwealth, if made within the commonwealth, to be performed therein or due to any person resident therein at the time of the first publication of the notice of the issuing of the warrant in voluntary proceedings or of the first publication of the notice of the filing of the petition in involuntary proceedings, and from all demands for or on account of any property wrongly obtained, taken or withheld by him, as provided in section thirty-one, while such inhabitant. Such discharge may be pleaded by a

No discharge shall be granted to a debtor a third time insolvent, unless he has paid all the debts owed by him at the time of his previous insolvency or has been voluntarily released therefrom by his creditors.

150 Mass. 224.

1 Section 101. A creditor may assent to the debtor's discharge under the two preceding sections, although an appeal from the allowance of his claim is pending, and such assent shall be valid if the claim is finally allowed.

P. S. 157, § 89. R. L. 163, § 101. 3 Gray, 252.

1 Section 102. In determining the requisite assent of creditors, no preferred claim which is paid in full, and, if not paid in full, no part thereof which is paid, shall be regarded.

P. S. 157, § 89. R. L. 163, § 102.

1 Section 103. If a discharge has been refused a debtor for the sole reason that the assent of the requisite majority of his creditors has not been seasonably obtained or filed, or for the reason that he has not taken the oath required by section eighty-eight, the judge, upon petition by the debtor within two years after the date of the assignment and with the written assent of a majority, or, in case of his second insolvency, of three fourths in number and value of the creditors who have proved their claims, may, if the debtor takes the oath and obeys all lawful orders of the court, grant his discharge, if after notice and hearing, he finds that the failure to obtain or file the assent was caused by accident or mistake or other sufficient cause and by no fault of his own, or that the omission to take the oath was owing to his inability by reason of illness, accident or mistake to attend and take such oath.

1 Section 104. The debtor or the assignee may, within ten days after the decision of the judge upon the question of granting the certificate of discharge to a debtor, upon notice to the register to be entered with the record of proceedings, appeal from such decision to the superior court. The appeal shall be entered at the return day next after the expiration of fourteen days from the time of claiming it. If the appellant in writing waives his appeal before the entry thereof, proceedings may be had in the court of insolvency as if no appeal had been taken.

1 Section 105. The superior court shall, upon written demand filed with the clerk by the debtor, the assignee or a creditor, frame issues of proceedings.

fact for jury trial, which shall be tried as nearly as may be as an action at law; otherwise the appeal shall be heard and determined by the court.

The assignee or a creditor may appear and object to the allowance of the certificate. If upon hearing the court finds that the debtor has made a full disclosure and delivery of all his estate as herein required, and that he has conformed to this chapter, it shall cause a certificate thereof substantially as provided in section ninety-two to be made under its seal, signed by the clerk and delivered to the debtor.

MATTERS AVOIDING DISCHARGE.

Section 106. A discharge shall not be granted or be valid, if the debtor has willfully sworn falsely to a material fact in the proceedings, or if he has fraudulently concealed any part of his property or any books or writings relative thereto; or has made a fraudulent payment, gift, transfer, conveyance or assignment of any part of his property, or spent any part thereof in gaming; or if, within six months before the filing of the petition by or against him, he has obtained on credit from a person any property or other thing of value, with intent not to pay therefor; or has procured his property to be attached, sequestered or seized on execution; or has destroyed, altered, mutilated or falsified any of his books, documents, papers, writings or securities or has made or been privy to the making of any false or fraudulent entry in a book of account or other document with intent to defraud his creditors; or with intent to defraud his creditors has expended, invested or used any part of his property in the erection, alteration, repair or location of a building, portion of a building, structure or other object, on land owned or leased wholly or in part by another so that it cannot be lawfully removed; or has removed himself or removed or caused to be removed any part of his property from the commonwealth with intent to defraud his creditors; or if, having knowledge that a person has proved a false claim against his estate, he has not disclosed the same to his assignee within one month after such knowledge; or, except as provided in the following section, if, being a merchant or tradesman, he has not kept proper books of account. A discharge shall be void if the debtor or a person in his behalf has procured the assent of a creditor thereto by a pecuniary consideration.

Section 107. If the sole reason for not granting a discharge to a debtor is that he has not kept proper books of account and if no fraud is proved and the debtor has never been discharged in insolvency, the judge may after the expiration of six months from the date of the assignment grant his discharge if the total amount of the claims proved do not exceed five thousand dollars and two thirds in number and a majority in value of the creditors who have proved their claims assent thereto in writing.

Section 108. If a person, in contemplation of becoming insolvent and of obtaining a discharge in insolvency, makes a payment, pledge, assignment, transfer or conveyance of any part of his property, directly or indirectly, absolutely or conditionally, in order to prefer a creditor or person having a claim against him, or who is or may be under any liability for him, or in order to prevent the property from coming to his assignee in insolvency, or from being distributed under the laws relative to insolv-
8. In the event of insolvency, he shall not be entitled to a discharge, and a discharge, if received by him, shall be void.

1. Section 109. A creditor whose debt was proved or provable against an estate, or within two years after the date of a certificate of discharge, apply by petition to the court granting it to annul the same, on the ground that it was fraudulently obtained, specifying all acts mentioned in section one hundred and six relied on in avoidance, and no evidence shall be admitted as to any other of such acts; but the petition may be amended in the discretion of the court. If after notice to the debtor and a hearing the fraudulent acts charged or any of them are proved and the court finds that the creditor had no knowledge thereof until after the granting of the discharge, it shall be annulled; otherwise it shall not be affected thereby.

2. Preferences.

1. Section 110. If a person who is insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency, within six months before the filing of the petition by or against him, in order to prevent a creditor or person having a claim against him or who is under any liability for him, procures any part of his property to be attached, sequestered or seized on execution, or makes a payment, pledge, assignment, transfer or other conveyance of any part of his property, either directly or indirectly, absolutely or conditionally, the person receiving such payment, pledge, assignment, transfer or conveyance, or to be benefited thereby, having reasonable cause to believe such person is insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency and that such payment, pledge, assignment, or conveyance is made in fraud of the laws relative to insolvency, it shall be void; and the assignees may recover the property or its value from the person so receiving it or so to be benefited.

3. Section 111. If a person who is insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency, within six months before the filing of the petition by or against him, except as provided in section thirty-eight, makes a sale, assignment, transfer or other conveyance of any part of his property to a person having reasonable cause to believe him insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency, and that such sale, assignment, transfer or other conveyance is made to prevent the property from coming to his assignee in insolvency, or to prevent it from being distributed under the laws relative to insolvency, or to defeat the object of, or to impair, hinder, impede or delay the operation and effect of, or to evade, any of said provisions, the sale, assignment, transfer or other conveyance shall be void, and the assignee may recover the property or its value as assets of the estate. If such sale, assignment, transfer or conveyance is not made in the usual and ordinary course of business of the debtor, that fact shall be prima facie evidence of such cause of belief.
Section 112. The six preceding sections shall not apply to a payment of money or transfer of property in payment, not exceeding twenty-five dollars in amount, upon a debt contracted for necessaries furnished the debtor or his family.

ALLOWANCE AND SURPLUS.

Section 113. The debtor shall receive from the assignee one dollar a day for his attendance upon the court or the assignee if required under section eighty-two. He shall also be allowed out of his estate, for the necessary support of himself and family, such amount not exceeding the rate of three dollars a week for each member of his family, and for such time not exceeding two months, as the court orders. A debtor who is discharged shall be allowed five per cent on the net proceeds of all his estate received by the assignee, if such net proceeds after such allowance is sufficient to pay the creditors entitled to a dividend the amount of fifty per cent on their debts; but the allowance shall not exceed in all five hundred dollars. In case of the absence of the debtor or his failure to apply for either of said allowances the judge may allow the same amount to his wife or any minor child or children of the debtor.

Section 114. If an allowance to the debtor on the net proceeds of his estate becomes due and is not paid to him in his lifetime, it shall be paid to his executor or administrator, and be disposed of in like manner as other property of which he may be possessed at his decease.

Section 115. If after the payment of all debts proved a surplus remains in the hands of the assignee, it shall be paid or reconveyed to or revest in the debtor or his legal representatives.

ACCOUNTS AND DIVIDENDS.

Section 116. At the third meeting the assignee shall exhibit under oath to the court and creditors present fair and just accounts of all his receipts and payments relative to the estate, and may be examined relative thereto by the court. If there are two or more joint assignees their accounts may be allowed on the oath of one of them. The notice of the third and all subsequent meetings of creditors shall contain a statement that the accounts of the assignee will be presented, and that creditors may appear and object to the allowance thereof. Special notice of the presentation of accounts may be ordered at other times by the court to be given in such manner as it orders. In all cases the judge shall pass upon the reasonableness of the accounts of assignees, although no creditor objects.

Section 117. The judge shall at said third meeting order a dividend of the property, or a part thereof, among the creditors who have proved their claims, in proportion to their respective debts; but, at any time after the assignment, upon request of the assignee or a creditor, and upon notice to the creditors and assignee, the judge may order the payment, 6 in whole or in part, of claims entitled to priority or preference under this 7 chapter.

1 Section 118. In the order for a dividend under the preceding section, 2 the following claims shall be first paid in full in the following order:
3 First, The twenty-five dollars or expense of publication as provided 4 in section one hundred and seventy paid by a creditor and the legal fees.
5 paid by him, of an officer for the service of the order of notice to the 6 debtor upon the original petition and for the service of a writ of injunc- 7 tion issued to restrain the transfer or disposition of any part of the 8 debtor’s property, not exempt from attachment, and from any interfer- 9 ence therewith.

10 Second, The legal fees of the messenger.
11 Third, Debts due to the United States, and debts due to and taxes 12 assessed by the commonwealth, or a county, city or town therein.
13 Fourth, Wages to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars, due 2 Cush. 371.
14 to a clerk, servant or operative for labor performed within one year last 15 preceding the first publication of the notice, or for labor for the recovery 16 of payment for which an action commenced within one year after the 17 performance thereof is pending, or has terminated within one year from 18 said first publication.
19 Fifth, Debts due to physicians for medical attendance on the debtor 20 or his family, rendered within six months prior to the institution of proce- 21 dings in insolvency, to an amount not exceeding fifty dollars.
22 Sixth, Debts due to persons who by the laws of the United States or of 23 this commonwealth are or may be entitled to a priority or preference in 24 like manner as if this chapter had not been enacted.
25 Seventh, Other legal fees, costs and expenses of suit, and for the cus- 26 tody of the property proved as preferred under section one hundred and 27 seventy-four.

1 Section 119. Upon petition by a creditor upon whose petition a 2 warrant has issued against a debtor and after notice to such debtor and 3 his assignee, if any, the court may allow as a preferred claim against the 4 estate such amount as said creditor has actually paid for his expenses and 5 for counsel fees incurred for services rendered upon such petition and 6 in the legal proceedings connected therewith prior to the issuing of the 7 warrant. Such petition shall be verified by the oath of the creditor and 8 of the counsel to whom such money was paid.

1 Section 120. The estate shall be liable for wages due to an operative 2 from another operative who has contracted or agreed to do certain 3 specified work for the debtor, to the amount of one hundred dollars, for 4 labor actually performed on such work within one year last preceding 5 the first publication of the notice, and in the division of the estate such 6 wages shall have the priority given to wages due to operatives under 7 section one hundred and eighteen; but all payments under this section 8 shall be charged to the account of the operative who, as principal has con- 9 tracted or agreed to do the work, and such payments, and the liability 10 herein imposed, shall not exceed the amount due such principal operative 11 for such work performed within the time hereinbefore mentioned. This 12 section shall not apply to cases within the provisions of sections ninety- 13 six to one hundred, inclusive, of chapter one hundred and fifty-nine.

Section 121. If at the time of ordering the dividend it appears probable that there are just claims against the estate which for sufficient reason have not been proved, the judge in ordering the dividend shall leave in the hands of the assignee an amount sufficient to pay every such absent creditor a proportion equal to that which shall be then paid to the other creditors. Such amount shall remain thus unappropriated in the hands of the assignee until the final dividend is declared, or until the judge orders its distribution.

Section 122. If a dividend, which the judge has declared or which has become payable to a creditor who has proved his claim under a composition confirmed by the court remains for six months unclaimed, the assignee, or, in a case of composition, the register, may deposit it in a savings bank or other like institution or invest it in bank stock or other stocks, as the court may order, to accumulate for the benefit of the person entitled thereto. Such deposit or investment shall be made in the name of the judge and shall be subject to his order and that of his successors in office as hereinafter provided. The person making such deposit or investment shall file in court a memorandum thereof, with the original certificate or other evidence of title thereto, which shall be allowed as a voucher for such payment. When the person entitled to the money deposited has satisfied the judge of his right to receive the same, he shall cause it to be transferred and paid over to him.

Section 123. If money deposited with a register to secure the payment of fees or to carry out a composition confirmed by the court remains unclaimed for one year after the depositor or other person is entitled to receive it, the register may, under the direction of the judge, deposit it in a savings bank or invest it in the manner and subject to the preceding section.

All moneys deposited with the registers of the courts of insolvency to secure the payment of fees, and in composition, remaining unpaid to the persons entitled thereto, or to their attorneys, for more than ten years after the date of deposit, may be paid over to the state treasurer. The courts of insolvency shall have full power to regulate such payments and to decree what sums shall be paid and the time of payments thereof. The treasurer shall give his receipt therefor, which shall be in full discharge of the register for the same.

Any person asserting a right to money deposited with the state treasurer hereunder, may establish the same by petition to the court of insolvency having jurisdiction over the original case, and the treasurer shall pay such money in accordance with the decree of said court. Such sums as are not so paid within three years after the time of their receipt as aforesaid by the state treasurer shall escheat to the commonwealth.

Section 124. The assignee shall, at such time as the judge orders within eighteen months after his appointment, declare a second dividend, if the property was not wholly distributed upon the first dividend, and shall give notice of a meeting of all the creditors of the debtor therefor. At such meeting the accounts of the assignee shall be produced and examined as provided in section one hundred and sixteen and settled by the court; and any balance in the hands of the assignee, by order of the judge be divided among all the creditors who have proved their debts, in proportion thereto.
1 Section 125. If at any time before the final dividend any outstanding debts or other property due or belonging to the estate which cannot in the opinion of the court be collected and received by the assignee without out unreasonable or inconvenient delay, remain in the hands of the assignee he may under the direction of the court sell and assign such debts or other property in such manner as the court orders.

1 Section 126. An action upon a claim sold by an assignee shall be brought in the name of the purchaser. The fact of sale and of purchase by the plaintiff shall be set forth in the writ, and the defendant may avail himself of any matter of defence of which he could have availed himself in an action upon the claim by the assignee. Costs in such actions shall be recovered by or against the plaintiff, and the assignee shall not be liable therefor.

132 Mass. 335.

163 Mass. 70.

1 Section 127. The second dividend shall be final; but if an action relative to the estate is then pending or part of the estate is outstanding or other property of the debtor afterward comes to the hands of the assignee, another dividend shall be made by order of the judge. Further dividends shall be made in like manner as often as occasion requires.

1 Section 128. No creditor whose debt is proved at the time of the second or any subsequent dividend shall disturb a prior dividend, but he shall be paid so far only as the funds remaining unappropriated in the hands of the assignee are sufficient therefor.

PETITION BY CREDITORS.

1 Section 129. If a person arrested on mesne process in a civil action for the amount of one hundred dollars or more founded upon a claim provable against the estate of an insolvent debtor, has not given bail therein on or before the return day of such process, or has been actually imprisoned thereon for more than thirty days; or if a person whose property has been attached on mesne process in such action founded upon such contract has not before the return day of such process dissolved the attachment as provided by law; or if a person has removed himself or any part of his property from the commonwealth, with intent to defraud his creditors; or has concealed himself to avoid arrest, or any part of his property to prevent its being attached or taken on a legal process; or procured his arrest or his property to be attached or taken on legal process; or made a fraudulent payment, conveyance or transfer of any part of his property; or being a banker, broker, merchant, trader, manufacturer, contractor, builder or miner, has fraudulently stopped payment, or has stopped or suspended and not resumed payment of his commercial paper within fourteen days; any of his creditors whose claims provable against his estate amount to one hundred dollars, may, within ninety days thereafter, or, in the case of any such fraudulent conveyance of land, within ninety days after it has been recorded, if the debtor has resided in the commonwealth within one year, file a petition under oath in the court of insolvent for the county, if any, where the debtor has last resided or had a usual place of business for three consecutive months before the filing of said petition, otherwise in the court for the county where he resides or last resided, or has or has had a usual place of business.

stating the facts and the nature of their claims and praying that his 26 property may be seized and distributed according to this chapter.

SECTION 130. The register shall cause notice of the filing of such 1 petition to be published twice in not more than two newspapers, and 2 shall forthwith make and file a certificate of the fact and date of publication. The actual expense of such publication shall be paid from the 3 amount deposited by the creditor therefor as provided in section one 4 hundred and seventy; but a hearing upon the petition may be had or a 5 warrant issued thereon prior to the completion of the publication of said 6 notice. The court may, after the commencement of proceedings by or 7 against the debtor and before the hearing upon the petition, by injunction 8 restrain the debtor and any other person from making, transferring or 9 disposing of any part of the debtor’s property not exempt from attachment, and from any interference therewith; and if probable cause appears for believing that the debtor is about to conceal or remove from the 10 commonwealth his property or his evidence of property, or any part 11 thereof or to make a fraudulent conveyance or disposition thereof, the 12 judge may issue a warrant under his hand to the sheriff of the county or 13 one of his deputies, ordering him forthwith as messenger to take posses-ion of all the property of the debtor, not exempt from attachment, and 14 safely keep it until the further order of the court.

SECTION 131. If, after notice of the petition to the debtor by a copy 1 thereof served upon him personally or left at his last and usual place of 2 abode, and a hearing of the petitioner and debtor, or a default by the 3 debtor to appear in pursuance of said notice, the court finds the facts 4 stated in the petition to be true, the judge shall forthwith issue a warrant 5 to take possession of the property of the debtor. The warrant shall be 6 directed, and the property of the debtor shall be thereupon taken and 7 distributed in like manner and with proceedings similar to those herein 8 provided in case of voluntary petitions.

SECTION 132. If a person has committed an act of insolvency from 1 which he should be equitably relieved, the court may upon petition by 2 him, with or without notice to the petitioning creditor, stay proceedings 3 in insolvency and if, upon a hearing, it finds that he is solvent or that the 4 proceedings ought to be stayed it may dismiss the petition in insolvency.

163 Mass. 171.

PETITION BY CREDITORS OF INSANE PERSON.

SECTION 133. Any of the creditors of an insolvent insane person, 1 whose claims provable against his estate amount to one hundred dollars, 2 may file a petition under oath in the court of insolvency for the county, 3 if any, where the debtor has last resided or had a usual place of business 4 for three consecutive months before the filing of said petition, otherwise 5 in the court for the county where he resides, or has a usual place of business, stating his insolvency and the nature of their claims, and praying 6 that his property may be seized and distributed according to this chapter. 7
If after public notice and the appointment of a guardian ad litem for such 8 insane person, and a hearing, the court finds that the interests of the 9 debtor and creditors so require, the judge may issue a warrant to take 10 possession of the property of the debtor and thereupon like proceedings 11 shall be had as in the settlement of estates of other insolvent debtors.

1 Section 134. In such case, the schedules of creditors and of property required by this chapter shall be made and filed by the messenger, upon his best information and belief. The debtor shall not be required to attend at any meeting of creditors nor be subject to examination, unless ordered by the court.

1 Section 135. Within six months after recovering from his insanity, the debtor may petition the court for his discharge, and shall thereupon be required to deliver to his assignee for the benefit of his creditors any property which was in his hands or possession or to which he was entitled at the time of filing the original petition, and which had not come into the hands or possession of his assignee; shall make a full disclosure thereof, and shall take and subscribe an oath that he has so done; shall submit himself to examination thereon, and may within three months after the filing of his petition file the written assent to his discharge of a majority in number and value of his creditors who have proved their claims, as provided in section ninety-nine. If the court finds, at a meeting of the creditors called therefor, that he has made a full disclosure and delivery of his property as herein required, that he has conformed to this chapter so far as applicable and that his assets have paid fifty per cent of the claims proved against his estate, or that the written assent to his discharge of a majority in number and value of his creditors who have proved their claims has been filed, the judge shall grant him a certificate, which shall state all fiduciary debts exempt from discharge and shall be in the form and have the effect provided by this chapter for discharges of other insolvent debtors.

Concealment of Property.

1 Section 136. A debtor who after notice of the filing of a petition by or against him secretes or conceals property belonging to his estate, or any books, deeds, documents or writings relative thereto, or removes or causes to be removed the same or any part thereof out of the commonwealth, or otherwise disposes of any part thereof, in order to prevent it from coming to the possession of the messenger or assignee, or to hinder, impede or delay either of them in recovering or receiving the same, or who makes a payment, gift, sale, assignment or other conveyance of property belonging to his estate; or spends any part thereof in gaming, or otherwise except such as may reasonably be expended for the support of himself and family, not exceeding the amount allowable by law, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than five years, or in jail for not more than two years.

Partnerships.

1 Section 137. Upon petition by one or more partners who are insolvent to the court for the county, if any, where the partnership has last had a usual place of business for three consecutive months before the filing of such petition, otherwise to the court for the county where it has or last had a usual place of business, after notice to the other partners if within the commonwealth, or upon petition by a creditor of the partners, the judge may issue a warrant as provided in this chapter, upon which the property of the firm and the separate estate of each of the partners, not exempt from attachment, shall be taken, and the creditors of the firm}

2 Cush. 175.
Section 138. The assignee shall be chosen by the firm creditors and shall keep separate accounts of the joint property of the firm, and of the separate estate of each member thereof; and after deducting from the whole amount received by him the total expenses and disbursements paid, the net proceeds of such joint property shall be appropriated to pay the firm creditors, and the net proceeds of the separate estate of each partner shall be appropriated to pay his separate creditors. Any balance of the separate estate of a partner after payment of his separate debts shall be added to such joint property for the payment of the firm creditors. Any balance of such joint property after payment of the firm debts shall be divided and appropriated to and among the separate estates of the several partners according to their respective rights and interests therein, and as it would have been had the partnership been dissolved without insolvency; and the amount so appropriated to the separate estate of each partner shall be applied to the payment of his separate debts.

Section 139. The two preceding sections shall apply to insolvent limited partnerships formed under chapter one hundred and nine or the corresponding provisions of earlier laws; but the separate estates and separate debts of the special partners shall not be subject to the proceedings against the partnership.

Section 140. Each partner shall be entitled to allowance as provided in this chapter for the maintenance of himself and family; and the allowance from the net proceeds of the estates as provided in section one hundred and thirteen shall be computed on the firm estate and also on each of the separate estates as if there had been a separate warrant against each; but none of the partners shall receive in all more than five hundred dollars.

Section 141. The certificate of discharge shall be granted or refused to each partner as it would or ought to be if the proceedings had been against him alone; otherwise the proceedings against partners shall be the same as against an individual.

Section 142. If upon dissolution of a partnership, one or more of the partners or a new partnership formed by the addition of new members has agreed to pay any outstanding debts of such partnership, or if a person or firm, in consideration of the receipt or transfer of property, has agreed to pay any outstanding debts of the person from whom such property was received or transferred, and the person agreeing to pay has become insolvent, such debts may, if the creditors so elect, be proved against the estate of such insolvent debtor or debtors, and the proof and allowance thereof shall discharge the person originally liable therefor. If the original debtor, in either of such cases has been compelled to pay the debt so agreed to be paid, he may prove the amount so paid as the original creditor might have done.
CORPORATIONS.

1. SECTION 143. A domestic corporation or a foreign corporation mentioned in section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-one, except railroad and banking corporations and foreign insurance companies, may file a petition signed by an officer duly authorized by a vote of a majority of the corporators present and voting at a legal meeting called therefor, in the court for the county where the corporation has its principal place of business, stating its inability to pay its debts and its willingness to assign its property for the benefit of its creditors, and praying that such proceedings may be had as are hereinafter provided. The judge shall forthwith issue a warrant, as upon a petition by a debtor under section twenty, requiring that the notice given by the messenger shall state further that the making of any contract by the corporation is forbidden by law. The proceedings thereon, except as hereinafter provided, shall be the same as upon the petition of a natural person, and in the case of foreign corporations shall apply only to property of the corporation within the commonwealth and the oath provided for in section one hundred and forty-five shall be modified in accordance herewith.

1. SECTION 144. Claims on account of bills of exchange, endorsements, money due on bottomry or respondentia bonds or paid upon endorsements or as surety may be proved against an insolvent corporation before the making of the last dividend, in like manner as against the estate of an insolvent debtor before the making of the first dividend.

1900, 321, § 1. R. L. 163, § 144. 152 Mass. 596.

1. SECTION 145. The schedules to be furnished shall be prepared and furnished by the treasurer or other financial officer of the corporation, with such assistance from the other officers as he may require; and the provisions of this chapter which apply to the debtor or set forth his duties relative to executing papers, submitting to examinations, closing, making over, secreting, concealing, conveying, assigning or paying away his money or property, shall apply to each officer of the corporation relative to the same matters concerning the corporation and the money and property thereof. Said officers shall at the second meeting severally make and subscribe an oath in substance as follows:

I, (president, etc., or treasurer, etc.,) do swear that I verily believe the account of the creditors of the corporation, contained in the schedule signed by A. B., and now on file in court, is in all respects just and true; that I do verily believe that all the property and estate of said corporation, and all its books of account and papers, have been delivered to the messenger or the assignee; and that if any goods or estate not so delivered hereafter come to my knowledge, I will faithfully and diligently apprise the assignee thereof. And I do further swear that, to the best and utmost of my knowledge, information and belief, there is no part of the estate or effects of said corporation made over or disposed of in any manner in fraud of the laws relative to insolvency or of the creditors of said corporation.

1. SECTION 146. An assignee of a foreign corporation shall have like rights and duties as an assignee of a domestic corporation relative to property within the commonwealth or which may be put into his possession by said corporation. He shall as far as practicable so distribute the assets that all the creditors within or without the commonwealth shall receive proportionate dividends from the assets whether in the control of the assignee or not. The claims entitled to priority under this chapter shall have like priority in the case of such corporations.

SECTION 147. Claims against a corporation authorized to take land or materials for damages for such taking shall be preferred claims, next after debts due to the United States and to the commonwealth.

P. S. 157, § 133. R. L. 163, § 147.

SECTION 148. Sections one hundred and ten and one hundred and eleven shall apply to corporations subject to this chapter, and an allowance or discharge shall not be granted to a corporation, nor to a person as officer or member thereof.

SECTION 149. If a corporation described in section one hundred and forty-three whose property has been attached on process in a civil action founded on a contract for the amount of one hundred dollars or more, provable under this chapter, has not within fourteen days from the return day of the writ, dissolved the attachment as provided by law, or if such corporation has removed any part of its property from the commonwealth, with intent to defraud its creditors, or conceals any part of its property to prevent its being attached or taken on legal process, or has procured its property to be attached or taken on legal process, or has made a fraudulent payment, conveyance or transfer of its property or any part thereof, or has stopped or suspended and has not resumed payment of its commercial paper within fourteen days, any of its creditors whose claims provable against its estate amount to one hundred dollars may, within ninety days thereafter, file a petition on oath in the court for the county where the corporation has its principal place of business, stating the facts and the nature of their claims, and praying that its property or, if a foreign corporation, its property in the commonwealth, may be seized and distributed according to this chapter; and thereupon, if after notice to a domestic corporation by serving on its president, treasurer or clerk, or to a foreign corporation by serving upon the commissioner of corporations and taxation, thirty days at least before the return day of the notice a copy of the petition, and a hearing or upon default of the corporation to appear at the time and place appointed in the notice, the court finds the facts stated in the petition to be true, the judge shall forthwith issue a warrant to take possession of the property of the corporation or, if a foreign corporation, of its property in the commonwealth; and thereupon like proceedings shall be had as upon a warrant issued upon the petition of a corporation.

COMPOSITION.

SECTION 150. Instead of proceeding as required by the laws relative to insolvency, an insolvent debtor or an insolvent domestic corporation having capital stock may obtain a discharge from his or its debts as hereinafter provided.

SECTION 151. At any time after the filing of the petition by or against the debtor and the schedules required by law, he may file a written proposal for composition with his creditors, stating the amount of the proposed dividend, which shall be payable only in money, the date when payable and the security to be given for such payments so far as deferred.
6 Such proposal shall not be considered unless it conforms to such requirements, nor unless it provides for payment in full of all debts and charges entitled to priority.

1 Section 152. If the allegations of the petition appear to be true or if a warrant has been issued, the court, upon the filing of the proposal for composition, may stay or suspend any process or proceeding which would otherwise be required by law and may make appropriate orders relative thereto or to the custody of the estate. It shall order a hearing on such proposal or a modification thereof under section one hundred and fifty-six, of which the register shall send notice by mail postpaid to all known creditors not less than seven days before the day appointed therefor, stating the substance of the proposal or modification thereof.

1 Section 153. Books of account and papers of the debtor relative to his estate shall until the final hearing on confirmation of the composition be open at all reasonable times to examination by any creditor or his agent, and the court may enforce production thereof; and during such period the debtor or any other person may be examined by the court or by a creditor as provided by section eighty-two.

1 Section 154. The provisions of sections thirty-one, thirty-three, thirty-four, thirty-six, thirty-nine, forty, forty-one and forty-three to forty-eight, inclusive, relative to debts and proof of claims, shall apply to composition proceedings so far as applicable thereto; but the proceedings shall not be stayed or suspended on account of an appeal from the allowance or rejection of a claim.

1 Section 155. In composition proceedings where no warrant has been issued the date of the notice by the register to the creditors of the debtor’s proposal of composition shall have the same effect relative to the proof of claims and the debtor’s discharge as the date of the first publication of the issuing of the warrant in voluntary proceedings in insolvency.

1 Section 156. The debtor shall be present at the hearing and may then be examined by the court or by a creditor relative to his estate, and other evidence may be offered. At any time before the hearing is closed the debtor may file any modification of his proposal which shall thereafter be considered the proposal. The hearing shall then be adjourned not less than seven days, and if at or before the day to which such or any subsequent adjournment is made the debtor files in court the written assent to the proposal of a majority in number and value of his creditors who have proved their claims if the same be for the payment of not less than fifty per cent to the general creditors, or if less than fifty per cent, of three fourths in number and value of such creditors, the court shall at the hearing, or at a further adjournment thereof determine whether the composition shall be confirmed, and any creditor may be heard thereon.
Any matters which would prevent or avoid a discharge in insolvency may be considered in ascertaining the expediency of confirming the same, but not as an absolute bar thereto. If the only objection thereto relates 17 to the security for deferred payments, other security may then be offered.
18 No claim entitled to priority shall be counted nor shall a creditor whose claim is less than fifty dollars be counted in the number of creditors.
SECTION 157. If the court finds that the composition has been duly assented to and is consistent with justice and for the interests of the creditors, it shall order the same to be confirmed; and by the same order shall limit the time within which money for cash payments and vouchers and securities for deferred payments shall be deposited in court; and upon such deposit within the time so limited therefor, the judge shall grant to the debtor a certificate of discharge from his debts, which shall be substantially in the form and have the same effect as though obtained by the other proceedings in insolvency. It shall not be annulled for a cause which was brought to the notice of the court on the hearing for confirmation, or which was then known to the creditor petitioning to have the same annulled; nor shall it bar the debt of a creditor whose name was fraudulently and wilfully omitted from the debtor's schedule of creditors. But the debt of a creditor omitted therefrom by mistake only or want of knowledge, shall be barred and he shall be entitled to and may recover against the debtor the amount of the dividend to which he would have been entitled in the composition proceedings.

SECTION 158. If there are unsecured claims included in the debtor's schedule of creditors not proved at the time of the deposit, the debtor shall include a dividend at the rate proposed on all such claims computed on the amount set forth in the schedule; and after the expiration of five months and within six months from the time of the first hearing on the debtor's proposal for composition, the court shall order a hearing for the proof of such unproved claims, of which notice shall be given in like manner as of the previous hearings; and upon proof and allowance thereof at such hearing, the court shall order dividends paid on all debts so proved at the rate allowed on debts formerly proved, and the 10 money deposited on claims then remaining unproved shall then be re-11 funded to the depositor.

SECTION 159. Upon the granting of the discharge, the money, vouchers and securities deposited in court shall be paid and delivered by the register upon demand to the persons entitled thereto, and all other property of the debtor shall revert to and rest in him; and the court may order any necessary or proper release or reconveyance thereof by an assignee or trustee to whom the same may have been assigned or conveyed.

SECTION 160. After the expiration of one year from the deposit in court of the money, vouchers and securities, as provided in section one hundred and fifty-seven, the court may, after notice by mail postpaid, to creditors who have not taken up their dividends, order all such money, vouchers and securities then remaining on deposit in said court, to be paid and transferred to the depositor.

SECTION 161. If the money for the cash payments and the vouchers and securities for deferred payments are not deposited in court within the time limited by the order of confirmation, the case shall proceed in insolvency, and the register shall deliver to the assignee all money and securities which are the property of the debtor which shall have been deposited in court; and all other securities and vouchers which shall have been so deposited shall be returned by the register to the persons 8 who furnished or deposited the same or be otherwise disposed of as the 9 judge may order. In such case the stay or suspension of other proceed-10 ings by reason of the attempted composition shall not affect any rights,11 and the period of suspension shall be excluded in computing other periods12 of time provided by the laws relative to insolvency.

1 Section 162. This chapter shall not release an officer or stockholder1 of a corporation from any liability under sections thirty-five to thirty-2 seven, inclusive, of chapter one hundred and fifty-six, but if such cor-3 poration applies for a discharge as hereinbefore provided any creditor4 may, at any time after the filing of the offer in composition, file a bill in5 equity in behalf of himself and other creditors of the corporation, against6 it and all stockholders thereof at the time of the filing of the petition in7 insolvency by or against the corporation, or against all the officers liable8 for its debts and contracts, for the recovery of the amounts due from the9 corporation to himself and the other creditors for which the stockholders10 or officers may be personally liable by reason of any act or omission on11 its part or on that of its officers, stating the nature of his claim and the12 grounds upon which it is expected to charge the stockholders or officers13 personally. It shall be unnecessary to allege or prove a judgment against14 the corporation or the return of an execution unsatisfied. If the ground15 upon which it is expected to charge the officers of the corporation is an16 excess of debts above the capital stock, the extent of such excess shall17 be taken to be that existing at the time of the filing of the petition in18 insolvency by or against said corporation.

1 Section 163. If, at the time of the filing of the offer in composition1 by a corporation, an action is pending against it on behalf of a creditor2 who would be entitled to enforce a liability against its officers or stock-3 holders under chapter one hundred and fifty-six, the plaintiff may change4 his action into a suit in equity, making parties thereto the stockholders5 and officers who were such at the time of the filing of the petition in6 insolvency by or against the corporation, and may proceed thereafter in7 like manner as provided in the preceding section. If the ground upon8 which it is expected to charge the officers of the corporation is an excess9 of debts above the capital stock, the extent of such excess shall be taken10 to be that existing at the time of the beginning of said action.

1 Section 164. A suit in equity under the two preceding sections shall1 be subject to sections fifty to fifty-three, inclusive, of chapter one hun-2 dred and fifty-eight.

1 Section 165. A corporation making an offer of composition shall3 file, at the time of filing the schedules of assets and liabilities, a schedule4 of all its officers and stockholders who were such at the time of the filing5 of the petition in insolvency by or against it, with the holdings of stock6 at such time.

1 Section 166. A discharge under section one hundred and fifty-seven8 shall dissolve any attachment on mesne process made not more than four9 months prior to the time of giving the notice to the creditors of the10 debtor's proposal of composition.
Section 167. The court, except as otherwise provided in this chapter, may allow amendments and make appropriate orders, in the course of the proceedings or thereafter, necessary to carry the same into full effect.

Section 168. An insolvent debtor who knowingly places upon his schedule of creditors a false or fictitious debt with intent to deceive or defraud his creditors, or who having notice or knowledge that a person has proved or attempted to prove a false or fictitious debt against his estate, fails to disclose the same forthwith to the court or who makes a payment or gives or promises an advantage to a creditor with intent thereby to procure his assent to a composition, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than five years or in jail for not more than two years.

Section 169. A creditor of an insolvent debtor who knowingly proves a false or fictitious debt against the estate, or receives or procures or attempts to procure a payment or advantage in consideration of his assent to a composition, shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than two years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars.

FEES AND COSTS.

Section 170. A debtor’s petition for the institution of voluntary insolvency proceedings shall be received and entered by the register only upon payment to him of twenty-five dollars. A creditor’s petition for the institution of proceedings against a debtor shall be received and entered by the register only upon payment to him of the amount necessary to defray the expense of publishing the notice of the filing of such petition, but the warrant shall not issue until twenty-five dollars is paid to the register. A proposal by a debtor for composition with his creditors shall not be received or entered by the register after the filing of a creditor’s petition for involuntary proceedings, and before the issuing of a warrant thereon, until twenty-five dollars has been paid to the register.

Section 171. The register shall, annually on the first days of January, April, July and October, render an account on oath of all fees so received by him during the three months last preceding, and on or before the tenth day of said months pay over the same to the commonwealth.

Section 172. In composition cases no fees or compensation shall be payable to the register for giving notices to creditors or for the custody of money, vouchers or securities, or for the payment of dividends.

Section 173. In all cases in a court of insolvency the messenger shall be entitled to the following fees: for service of the warrant, two dollars; for necessary travel, at the rate of four cents a mile; for each written notice to creditors named in the schedule, ten cents; for the custody of property, publication of notices and other services, the amounts actually incurred and paid and returned by him in an itemized account on oath and approved by the court. For cause and upon a hearing the court may make a further allowance.
1 Section 174. If an attachment on mesne process has not been dissolved before commencement of proceedings in insolvency, or if such attachment has been dissolved by bond and the claim upon which the action was commenced is proved against the estate of the debtor, the plaintiff may also prove the legal fees, costs and expenses of the action and of the custody of the property to the date of the first meeting, and the amount thereof shall be a privileged debt.

147 Mass. 192. 152 Mass. 596.

1 Section 175. In matters of insolvency which are contested in a court of insolvency, the superior court or the supreme judicial court, said courts may award costs to either party to be paid by the other, or to either or both parties to be paid out of the estate. If costs are awarded to be paid by one party to the other, said courts, respectively, may issue execution therefor.

R. L. 163, § 175.

VACATING PROCEEDINGS.

1 Section 176. Upon petition by a creditor who has proved his claim the court may order the proceedings to be stayed and, after notice and a hearing, if no objection is made by the debtor or any such creditor, enter an order vacating all proceedings therein.

RETURNS.

1 Section 177. Each register shall on or before the tenth day of each month make a return to the state secretary of the name, residence and occupation of each person by or against whom, as an insolvent debtor, a petition has been filed in his court during the month last preceding, with the dates of such petitions. The secretary shall enter such returns, conveniently for reference, in a book open to public inspection.

CHAPTER 217.

JUDGES AND REGISTERS OF PROBATE AND INSOLVENCY.

Sect.
2. Two judges in certain counties.
3. Special judges, appointment of and provisions for holding court.
4. Registers of probate and insolvency.
5. Oaths of judge and register.
6. Judge, register, etc., to be disinterested.
7. Judge or register may be appointed guardian of his minor child.
8. Assistance of other judges.
9. Decree out of county.
10. Bonds to acting judge.

Sect.
11. Inspection of records, etc., by judges and liability on bonds of registers and assistant registers.
14. Registers shall certify amount of assistance.
16. Register to send notices, copies of inventories, etc., to commissioner of corporations and taxation, except, etc.
SECTION 1. In each county except Suffolk, Middlesex, Essex and Worcester, there shall be one judge of probate and insolvency, in this chapter called the judge of probate.

1907, 442, § 1.

SECTION 2. There shall be two judges of probate in each of the counties of Suffolk, Middlesex, Essex and Worcester. The senior judge shall be the first judge in each county, to whom, and to his successors, all bonds required by law to be given to the judge of probate for said counties shall be made payable. The probate court and the court of insolvency for said counties may be held by one or both of the judges, and, when so held, shall have and exercise all the powers and jurisdiction committed to the respective courts. The judges shall so arrange the performance of their duties as to insure a prompt and punctual discharge thereof. The judges may perform each other's duties when necessary or convenient. Simultaneous sessions of the courts in said counties may be held if public convenience requires. Citations, orders of notice and all other processes issued by the register of probate and insolvency, in this chapter called the register, for any of said counties, shall bear teste of the first judge of said court. Deposits or investments made in the name of the judge of probate shall be in the name of the first judge of the court, and shall be subject to the order of the court.

1908, 541, § 1.

SECTION 3. There shall be a special judge of probate and insolvency in each of the counties of Berkshire, Dukes, Franklin, Hampshire, Hampden and Middlesex, who may perform the duties of the judge of probate in the county for which he is appointed, in cases of vacancy in office, sickness, disability on account of interest of such judge, or whenever the judge in a writing filed with the register requests the special judge to perform his duties; or, in case of the absence of the judge from the county, whenever the register, in a writing certifying such absence, shall so request. The register shall certify upon the records of the court
10 the number of days, the dates upon which, and the occasions for which, the duties of the judge are performed by the special judge; and when the occasion is that of sickness, absence from the county, interest or other legal disqualification, or vacancy in office, he shall certify the same to the comptroller.

1 Section 4. There shall be in each county a register of probate and insolvency, who shall hold office for six years beginning with the first Wednesday in January in the year succeeding his election, and until his successor is qualified.

1893, 417, § 292.
1898, 548, § 316.
R. L. 11, § 319.

1 Section 5. Each judge of probate and each register, before entering upon the performance of his official duties, in addition to the oaths prescribed by the constitution, shall take and subscribe an oath that he will faithfully discharge said duties and that he will not during his continuance in office, directly or indirectly, be interested in, or benefited by, the fees or emoluments which may arise in any suit or matter pending in either of the courts of which he is judge or register, respectively. Such oath shall be filed in the registry of probate of the county for which he is appointed or elected.

G. S. 119, §§ 2, 7.
P. S. 158, §§ 2, 6.
R. L. 164, §§ 3, 10.

1 Section 6. No judge of probate, register, assistant register or person employed in any registry of probate and insolvency shall be interested in, or benefited by, the fees or emoluments which may arise in any matter pending before the probate court or court of insolvency of his county; nor shall he act as counsel or attorney, in any court of law, in any matter pending before said courts or in an appeal therefrom; nor shall he, except as otherwise provided, be appointed executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, commissioner, appraiser or assignee of any estate within the jurisdiction of his court; nor shall he be interested in the fees or emoluments arising from any of said trusts; and no judge shall be retained or employed as counsel or attorney, in any court of law, in any suit or matter which may depend on or in any way relate to a decision, warrant, order or decree made or passed by him; nor for or against an executor, administrator, guardian or conservator appointed within his jurisdiction, in any action or suit brought by or against the executor, administrator, guardian or conservator as such; nor in any action or suit relating to the official conduct of such party; nor for or against a creditor, debtor or assignee, in a cause or matter arising out of or connected with any proceedings before him; nor in an appeal in such cause or matter.

1 Section 7. If a judge or register desires to be appointed guardian of his minor child, who is an inhabitant of or resides in the same county, such appointment may be made, and all subsequent proceedings in regard thereto had, in the probate court of an adjoining county.

1570, 263.

1 Section 8. If a judge of probate is unable to perform his duties, or any part of them, from sickness, interest or other legal disqualification, assistance of other judges, 1728, 40, § 3.
or if, in his opinion, the court requires the assistance of another judge, or if there is a vacancy in the office of judge of probate, or if the judge is absent, his duties, or such of them as he may request, shall, if there is no special judge of probate in said county ready to act, be performed in the same county by the judge of probate of any other county who may be designated by the judge, or, in case of his failure so to designate, who may be designated by the register from time to time as may be necessary; but, unless objection is made by an interested party before the decree is made, any case may be heard and determined out of said county in the performance of such duties by such other judge, who may send his decree to the registry of probate for the county where the case is pending. Two or more simultaneous sessions of the court may be held, the fact of being so stated upon the record.

SECTION 9. A judge of probate may, in any case in which a decree, order or allowance can be made without a hearing, and in any case after a hearing, make such decree, order or allowance, and approve bonds, at any place in the commonwealth, with the same effect as if so made and approved in his county; and if such judge, under the preceding section, acts in a county other than his own, such decree, order or allowance may be signed, and bonds approved, outside the county where he may have been designated to act. This section shall not affect the validity of any decree, order or allowance signed or bond approved prior to March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight.

SECTION 10. Bonds required to be given to the judge of probate shall be given, in case of vacancy in the office of judge, to the acting judge, and to his successors in office, and all business shall be done in his name or in the name of the probate court or the court of insolvency for the county where the case or matter is pending; but bonds may be approved, and other acts required to be done or certified by the judge may be done or certified, by the acting judge.

SECTION 11. Judges of probate shall semi-annually inspect the doings of the courts of their counties, and see that the records and files are made up seasonably and kept in good order; and if the records are left incomplete for more than six consecutive months, such neglect, unless caused by illness or casualty, shall be adjudged a forfeiture of the bond of the register. In case of any neglect causing a forfeiture of the bond of the register or assistant register, the judge shall forthwith give written notice thereof to the state treasurer, who shall thereupon cause the bond to be put in suit; and the amount recovered in such suit shall be applied to the expense of making up the deficient records under the direction of the court in whose records the deficiency exists, and the surplus, if any, shall be carried into the account of such treasurer. This section shall not exempt registers or assistant registers from an action for any other breach of their bond, or from other liability for neglect or misconduct in office.

SECTION 12. Each register shall give bond to the state treasurer for the faithful performance of his official duties, in a sum not less than one thousand nor more than ten thousand dollars, as ordered by the judge, with one or more sureties approved by him.
1 Section 13. Upon the death, resignation, removal or absence of the register, if there is no assistant register, or if he also is absent, the judge shall appoint a temporary register to act until a register is qualified, or until the disability is removed. Such temporary register shall be sworn before the judge, and a certificate thereof, with his appointment, shall be recorded with the proceedings of each county in which he acts.

1 Section 14. The register shall certify upon his records and to the comptroller the number of days, the dates upon which, and the occasions for which, the duties of the judge of probate are performed by a judge of another county under section eight.

1 Section 15. The register shall have the care and custody of all books, documents and papers pertaining to his court, or deposited with him for the records of insolvency or in the registry of probate, and shall carefully preserve them and deliver them to his successor. He may, with the approval of the county commissioners and at the expense of the county, cause copies of the indexes, or new indexes, to the records which are in his custody, to be printed and sold at a price not less than the cost of paper, printing and binding. He shall perform all other duties pertaining to his office, required by law or prescribed by the judge. He may attest the records by the volume, and the attestation shall be sufficient when the volume containing the same bears the attest, with the written signature of the register or other person lawfully authorized.

1 Section 16. The register shall, except as herein provided, send by mail to the commissioner of corporations and taxation a copy of every inventory and appraisal filed in his court by an executor, administrator or trustee, within thirty days after the filing of the same. The register shall also, within the same period, send by mail to said commissioner a copy of the will of the decedent, if such has been allowed by the probate court. The register shall also furnish such copies of papers in his office as the commissioner shall require, and shall furnish information as to the records and files in his office in such form as the commissioner may require. A refusal or neglect by the register so to send a copy of such inventory and appraisal or to furnish such copies or information shall be a breach of his official bond; but the commissioner may excuse him from sending copies of inventories and of wills of estates, and may, in his judgment, appear to be subject to a tax under chapter sixty-five. If an executor, administrator or trustee fails to file said inventory and appraisal within three months from the date of his appointment, the register shall within thirty days after the expiration thereof notify the commissioner of such failure.

1 Section 17. The register shall forthwith report to the state secretary a vacancy in the office of assistant register and the name, residence and date of appointment of the person appointed to fill such vacancy.

1 Section 18. The register shall furnish copies of records or other papers in his custody and shall collect the legal fees therefor.

R. L. 164, § 15.
Register to send notice of charitable, etc., trusts to public welfare department. 1915, 14, 1919, § 87.

Section 19. Whenever any instrument creating or increasing an estate or fund for benevolent, charitable, humane or philanthropic purposes is filed for record in a registry of probate, the register shall forthwith send to the department of public welfare a statement setting forth the book and page in the registry where the instrument is recorded, with the name, if any, of the estate or fund, and further stating by whom said estate or fund has been created or increased, and by whom it is to be administered.

Section 20. The register shall annually, on the first Mondays of January, April, July and October, account for and pay over to the state treasurer all fees and compensation which have been received by him otherwise than by salary.

Section 21. He may at any time receive and place on file petitions and applications to the probate court or the court of insolvency, and may issue orders of notice and citations in like manner and with like effect as if issued by the judge; but if the judge considers such notice insufficient, he may order further notice.

Section 22. The register may issue process of attachment and of execution, and all other processes and all warrants, letters and licenses necessary to carry into effect any order or decree of the courts, and they may run into any county and shall be executed and obeyed throughout the commonwealth. A facsimile of his signature imprinted by him on all such warrants, letters and licenses and all processes except executions shall have the same validity as his written signature. He may appoint appraisers to make any inventory required to be returned to said courts.

Section 23. The judges of probate for each county except Dukes and Nantucket may appoint an assistant register of probate and insolvency, in this chapter called the assistant register, who shall hold office for three years unless sooner removed by the judge. Before entering upon the performance of his duties, an assistant register shall take the oath prescribed by the constitution, and shall give bond to the state treasurer for the faithful performance of his official duties in a sum not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars, as ordered by the judge, with one or more sureties approved by him.

Section 24. The judges of probate for the counties of Essex, Norfolk, Hampden, Middlesex, Suffolk and Worcester may appoint a second assistant register for their respective counties, who shall hold office for three years unless sooner removed by the judge. They shall be subject to the laws relative to assistant registers.

Section 24A. The judges of probate for the county of Suffolk may appoint a third assistant register for said county, who shall hold office for three years, unless sooner removed by the judges. He shall be subject to the laws relative to assistant registers.
1 Section 25. The judges of probate for Middlesex county may appoint a third and a fourth assistant register for said county, who shall hold office for three years unless sooner removed by the judges. They shall be subject to the laws relative to assistant registers.

1909, 494. 1923, 164, § 3. 1927, 198, § 1.

1 Section 26. The signing of the name of any second, third or fourth assistant register followed by the designation, "assistant register," shall be a sufficient official signature.

1 Section 27. An assistant register shall perform his duties under the direction of the register, and shall pay over to him all fees and amounts received as such assistant. He may authenticate papers and perform such other duties as are not performed by the register. In case of the absence, neglect, removal, resignation or death of the assistant register, the assistant register may complete and attest any records remaining unfinished and may act as register until a new register is qualified or the disability is removed.

1 Section 27A. The judges of probate for Suffolk county may appoint and at their pleasure remove a permanent officer to perform the duties prescribed by section fifty-six A of chapter two hundred and fifteen and such other duties as said judges may determine. Such officer shall be allowed such sums for necessary traveling and other expenses as may be approved by the judges. The salary and expenses of such officer shall be paid by the county of Suffolk.

1 Section 28. The register for Suffolk county may, subject to the approval of the judges of probate for said county, appoint a clerk and may remove him at pleasure. Said register may, subject to like approval, designate two employees as deputy assistant registers with the same powers as assistant registers and may revoke any such designation at pleasure.

1 Section 29. The register for Middlesex county may, with the approval of the judges of probate for said county, appoint a clerk who may administer such oaths required in probate proceedings as are not prescribed by law to be administered by the judge or register, and shall perform such clerical and other duties as may be required by the register, with the approval of the judges, and he may be removed by the register with the consent and approval of the judges in the manner provided by section forty-three of chapter thirty-one.

1 Section 30. The judges of probate for Suffolk county shall, and the judge of probate for Plymouth county may, appoint an officer to attend the sessions of the probate court and court of insolvency of the county for which he is appointed, and may at their pleasure remove him and fill any vacancy caused by removal or otherwise. The sheriff of Middlesex county may appoint, subject to the approval of the judges of probate for said county, two officers to serve as court officers for attendance at the sessions of the probate court and court of insolvency in said county. Each court officer appointed hereunder for Suffolk and Middlesex counties shall give bond with sufficient sureties approved by a court officer for Middlesex, Plymouth and Suffolk counties.

judge of his court for the faithful performance of his duties, in the sum of one thousand dollars payable to the county treasurer in Suffolk county, and in the sum of ten thousand dollars payable to the sheriff in Middlesex county. The court officer for Plymouth county shall, if required by the court, give a bond payable to said county for the faithful performance of his duties with sureties satisfactory to the court. Each 16 officer appointed hereunder shall serve the orders, precepts and processes issued by the probate court for which he is appointed or by a judge thereof; and, except in Plymouth county, shall at the expense of his county be furnished with a uniform such as the court shall order, which he shall wear while in attendance on said courts.

SECTION 31. The judges of probate for Middlesex county may appoint two messengers for the court of probate and insolvency for said county, may remove them at their pleasure, and may fill vacancies caused by removal or otherwise. Said messengers shall wait upon said court and perform such duties as the judges may direct, including duty as court officers of said court. They shall, while in attendance on said court, wear uniforms, such as the court shall order, to be furnished at the expense of said county.

SECTION 32. The judges of probate for Suffolk county may appoint a messenger for the court of probate and insolvency for said county, may remove him at their pleasure, and may fill a vacancy caused by removal or otherwise. Said messenger shall wait upon said court and perform such duties as the judges may direct, including duty as court officer.
He shall, while in attendance on said court, wear a uniform, such as the court shall order, to be furnished at the expense of said county.

SECTION 32A. The judge of probate for Hampden county may appoint a messenger for the court of probate and insolvency for said county, with salary payable by the county, may remove him at pleasure, and may fill a vacancy caused by removal or otherwise. Said messenger shall wait upon said court and perform such duties as the judge may direct, including duty as court officer. He shall, while in attendance on said court, wear a uniform, such as the court shall order.

SECTION 33. The registers for the several counties shall annually be allowed for assistance in their several counties, to be paid by the commonwealth, such sums as shall annually be appropriated by the general court. All employees in the various registries of probate shall be subject to the provisions of sections forty-five to fifty, inclusive, of chapter thirty.

SECTION 34. The salaries of all judges of probate shall be paid by the commonwealth, and, except in Suffolk county, shall be based upon 3 population as determined by the state census of nineteen hundred and 4 twenty-five, as follows:

1 SECTION 40. A judge performing any duty under section eight shall receive from the commonwealth, in addition to the amount otherwise allowed him by law, twenty-five dollars for each day that he performs such duties, and shall be reimbursed by the commonwealth for his traveling expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of such duties.

Section 41. Except as hereinafter provided, whenever a special judge holds a session of the probate court or court of insolvency, he shall receive from the commonwealth the same compensation that a judge of probate for another county would be entitled to receive for the same service. The special judge of probate and insolveney for Dukes county shall be paid his actual traveling expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of his duties, irrespective of the place of holding and attending court, and also ten dollars for each day's service. Compensation for sitting in the place of the judge of probate for said county in excess of thirty days in any one year shall be deducted by the comptroller from the salary of the judge.

Section 42. Judges and registers shall receive from their respective counties their actual and proper traveling expenses incurred by them in the performance of their official duties in holding and attending court at a place other than that where the registry of probate is situated, upon an itemized statement of such expenses being certified to, and approved by, the county commissioners of their respective counties.

Section 43. A temporary register shall be entitled to the same compensation as the register, and shall be paid by him if the appointment is caused by his absence; but if the appointment is caused by his death, removal or resignation, the temporary register shall be paid by the commonwealth. No judge or register shall receive any fee or compensation in addition to his salary for holding or attending courts or acting as judge or register in any county, nor for anything done in his official capacity, except as expressly provided by law, but any judge of probate assisting another judge in the performance of his duties may receive compensation from him, if not entitled to receive it from the commonwealth.

1 SECTION 9. In case of the absence, death or removal of a clerk of a 2 district court, the court may appoint a temporary clerk, to act until the 3 clerk resumes his duties or until the vacancy is filled. A temporary clerk 4 shall be paid by the county for each day's service an amount equal to the 5 rate by the day of the salary of the clerk; but compensation so paid to 6 a temporary clerk for service, in excess of thirty days in any one year,
7 shall be deducted by the county treasurer from the salary of the clerk.

153 Mass. 211.

1 SECTION 10. The clerk of a district court may, subject to the ap-2 proval of the justice, appoint one or more assistant clerks, who shall be 3 removable at his pleasure or at the pleasure of the court, for whose official 4 acts the clerk shall be responsible and who shall be paid by him unless 5 salaries payable by the county are authorized in this section or in section 6 fifty-three. Assistant clerks with salaries payable by the county may 7 be appointed in the central district court of northern Essex, the mu-8 nicipal court of the Charlestown district, the municipal court of the 9 Brighton district, the district court of western Hampden, the district
10 court of Newton, the district court of northern Norfolk and in courts
11 the judicial districts of which have, according to the national or state 12 census last preceding, a population of sixty thousand or more. Second 13 assistant clerks with salaries payable by the county may be appointed 14 in the municipal court of the Roxbury district, the East Boston district 15 court, the municipal court of the Charlestown district, the municipal 16 court of the Dorchester district, the municipal court of the West Roxburb district, and, subject to the approval of the county commissioners, in the first district court of eastern Middlesex, the third district court of eastern Middlesex, the district court of southern Essex, the third district court of Bristol and the district court of East Norfolk.

Third assistant clerks with salaries payable by the county may be appointed in the municipal court of the Roxbury district and, subject to the approval of the county commissioners, in the first district court of eastern Middlesex and the third district court of eastern Middlesex.

Section 11. In case of the absence, death or removal of a salaried assistant clerk of a district court, other than the municipal court of the city of Boston, the clerk, subject to the approval of the justice, may appoint a temporary assistant clerk, to act until such assistant clerk resumes his duties or until the vacancy is filled. A temporary assistant clerk shall be paid by the county for each day's service an amount equal to the rate by the day of the salary of such assistant clerk; but compensation so paid to a temporary assistant clerk for service, in excess of thirty days in any one year, shall be deducted by the county treasurer from the salary of such assistant clerk.

Section 12. The clerks, assistant clerks, temporary clerks and temporary assistant clerks of said courts shall be sworn, and in the case of any such assistant clerk, temporary clerk or temporary assistant clerk the oath of office may be administered by the justice or a special or associate justice of his court, who shall, upon administering the same, forthwith make return of such act with the date thereof to the state secretary. They or one of them shall attend all sessions of the court and shall keep a record of all its proceedings. The clerks shall have the care and custody of all the records, books and papers appertaining to, or filed or deposited in, their respective offices. A clerk paid by the county may make and issue writs and processes, shall make returns of the court, tax bills of costs and receive fines, forfeitures, fees and costs accruing from the civil and criminal business of the court, including fees for blanks and copies.

Section 13. District courts may destroy complaints, warrants, documents and other papers in criminal cases filed in said courts as completed business for not less than twenty years, except dockets and record books, and shall enter the fact of such destruction upon the records of the court. Thereafter the dockets and record books and the minutes and entries therein shall be admissible as evidence of the facts stated therein. The records, papers and documents of district courts relating to causes completed more than twenty years may, subject to the approval of the supervisor of public records, be stored and kept in fireproof rooms, vaults and safes, provided by the county commissioners in the towns where the courts are respectively situated, or in the county court houses.

Section 14. Clerks and assistant clerks of district courts may sign process issued by the said courts, and court records, documents or other legal papers or copies thereof, relating to criminal, delinquent, wayward and neglected cases made or issued by such clerks or assistant clerks in conformity with law, except search warrants and process authorizing arrests or commitments, by imprinted thereon a facsimile of the signa-TURE OF THE CLERK OR ASSISTANT CLERK; AND SUCH FACSIMILE SIGNATURES SHALL HAVE THE SAME VALIDITY AS THEIR WRITTEN SIGNATURES.

SECTION 15. Justices of district courts shall prescribe reasonable office hours of clerks. Such hours shall be fixed with reference to the business of said courts and the convenience of the public and of attorneys, and notice thereof shall be posted in a conspicuous place in each of said offices. Clerks shall also keep their offices open whenever the court so orders.

SECTION 16. The clerk of a district court before entering upon the performance of his official duties, shall give to the county treasurer a bond, with a surety company authorized to transact business in the commonwealth, as surety, in a sum approved by the justice of such court, but in no event less than one thousand dollars, conditioned as in his favor; and a special justice shall not be so retained or employed in any case in which he acts or has acted as justice.

SECTION 17. A justice, clerk or assistant clerk of a district court shall not be retained or employed as attorney in an action, complaint or proceeding pending in his court, or which has been examined or tried therein; and a special justice shall not be so retained or employed in any case in which he acts or has acted as justice.

SECTION 18. A justice, special justice acting in the place of the justice, or assistant clerk of a district court shall not receive any fee or compensation to his own use, other than his regular salary or allowance, for making complaints or issuing in any capacity warrants, subpoenas or other criminal processes which he is authorized to issue, or for any official services performed by him in court. A clerk or assistant clerk shall not receive, in addition to his salary, any fee or compensation for making out bail papers, or for admitting a prisoner to bail while the court is in session or during the hours when his office is required to be open.

CIVIL JURISDICTION.

SECTION 19. District courts shall have original jurisdiction concurrent with the superior court of actions of contract, tort and replevin, and also of actions in summary process under chapter two hundred and thirty-nine and proceedings under section forty-one of chapter two hundred and thirty-one.

SECTION 20. District courts may issue writs of scire facias against executors and administrators upon a suggestion of waste after a judgment against them and also against bail taken in a civil action before them, and proceed to judgment and execution as the superior court.
might do in like cases. Such writs shall be served not less than seven days before the return day, which shall be not more than sixty days after the date thereof.

1893, 396, §§ 14-16.
1894, 431.

Section 21. The justices or a majority of them of all the district courts, except the municipal court of the city of Boston, shall make uniform rules applicable to said courts, and the justices of the municipal court of the city of Boston shall make rules applicable to that court, providing for a simple, informal and inexpensive procedure, hereinafter called the procedure, for the determination, according to the rules of substantive law, of claims in the nature of contract or tort, other than slander and libel, in which the plaintiff does not claim as debt or damages more than fifty dollars, and for a review of judgments upon such claims when justice so requires. The procedure shall not be exclusive, but shall be alternative to the formal procedure for causes begun by writ. Actions under this and the four following sections shall be brought in the judicial district where the defendant lives or has his usual place of business.

Section 22. The procedure shall include the beginning of actions with an entry fee of one dollar but without writ, and without requirement, except by special order of court, of other pleading than a statement to the clerk or an assistant clerk, who shall reduce the same to concise written form in a docket kept for the purpose. The procedure shall include notice by registered mail instead of the mode of service heretofore required, and shall include provisions for early hearing. The procedure may include the modification of any or all rules of pleading and practice, anything contained in other chapters, sections or acts notwithstanding, and may include a stay of the entry of judgment or of the issue of execution. The rules for the procedure may provide for the elimination of any or all fees and costs, and that costs shall be in the discretion of the court. In causes begun under the procedure, the court may on application for cause shown issue writs of attachment of property or person as in causes begun by writ.

Section 23. A plaintiff beginning a cause under the procedure shall be deemed to have waived a trial by jury and any right of appeal to the superior court and any right to a report to an appellate division; but if said cause shall be removed to the superior court as hereinafter provided, the plaintiff shall have the same right to claim a trial by jury as if the cause had been begun in the superior court. No other party to a cause under the procedure shall be entitled to an appeal or report.
In lieu thereof, any such party may, prior to the day upon which he is notified to appear, file in the court where the cause is pending a claim of trial by jury, and his affidavit that there are questions of fact in the cause requiring trial, with specifications thereof, and that such trial is intended in good faith, together with the sum of three dollars for the entry of the cause in the superior court and a bond in the penal sum of one hundred dollars, with such surety or sureties as may be approved by the plaintiff or the clerk or an assistant clerk of the district court, payable to the other party or parties to the cause, conditioned to satisfy any judgment for costs which may be entered against him in the su-
Section 24. The court may, in its discretion, transfer a cause begun under the procedure to the regular civil docket for formal hearing and determination as though it had been begun by writ, and may impose terms upon such transfer.

Section 25. In any cause begun by writ which might have been begun under the procedure, the rules for the procedure may provide, or the court may by special order direct, that the costs to be recovered by the plaintiff, if he prevails, shall be eliminated in whole or in part.

Criminal Jurisdiction.

Section 26. District courts shall have original jurisdiction, concurrent with the superior court, of the following offences committed within their respective districts or otherwise made punishable therein: all violations of by-laws, ordinances, rules and regulations, made by cities, towns and public officers, all misdemeanors, except conspiracies and libels, all felonies punishable by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than five years, the crimes mentioned in sections eighteen and nineteen of chapter two hundred and sixty-six, and the crimes of forgery of a promissory note, or of an order for money or other property, and of uttering as true such a forged note or order, knowing the same to be forged, if in either case the sum of money or the value of the property named in such note or order does not exceed fifty dollars.

18 perior court in said cause within thirty days after the entry thereof; and thereupon the clerk shall forthwith transmit such original papers or attested copies thereof as the rules for the procedure may provide, and the superior court may try the cause as transmitted or may require pleadings as in a cause begun by writ, but the cause may be marked for trial on the list of causes advanced for speedy trial by jury. Sections one hundred and five and one hundred and seven of chapter two hundred and thirty-one shall apply in all district courts in causes begun under the procedure. Any party, in lieu of filing the bond required by this section, may deposit with the clerk the sum of one hundred dollars and the provisions of section one hundred and six of said chapter two hundred and thirty-one shall apply.

18 Discretion as to costs.

Section 27. They may impose the same penalties as the superior court for all crimes of which they have jurisdiction, except that they may not impose a sentence to the state prison.
SECTION 28. District courts may require persons found guilty of any crime within their final jurisdiction, except a violation of by-laws, orders, ordinances, rules and regulations, made by cities, towns and public officers, or of the laws and regulations relative to the public health or relative to defective highways, in addition to the punishment prescribed by law, to recognize with sureties, in a reasonable sum, to keep the peace or be of good behavior, or both, for not more than one year, and to stand committed until they so recognize. Sections thirteen, sixteen and seventeen of chapter two hundred and seventy-five shall apply to recognizances so taken.

SECTION 29. Except as provided in section sixty, they shall have jurisdiction, as provided in section twenty-six, of felonies not punishable by death or imprisonment for life committed by juvenile offenders under seventeen; and, upon their conviction, may sentence them to any punishment authorized for such crime, except imprisonment in the state prison, or may commit them to any institution established by law for the reformation of juvenile offenders, or may bind them over for trial in the superior court.

SECTION 30. They shall commit or bind over for trial in the superior court persons brought before them who appear to be guilty of crimes not within their final jurisdiction, and may so commit or bind over persons brought before them who appear to be guilty of crimes within their final jurisdiction. In such cases the clerk of the district court shall forthwith transmit to the clerk of the superior court a copy of the complaint and of the record, the original recognizances, a list of the witnesses, a statement of the expenses and the appearance of the attorney for the defendant, if any is entered, and the report of the department of mental diseases as to the mental condition of the defendant, if such report has been filed under the provisions of section one hundred A of chapter one hundred and twenty-three, and no other papers need be transmitted. If such a person is committed for failure to recognize as ordered, the superior court shall thereupon have jurisdiction of the case against such person for the purpose of revising the amount of bail theretofore fixed.

SECTION 31. No order shall be made for the commitment of a person to a jail or house of correction upon a sentence of more than six months, imposed by a district court, until at least one day after the imposition of such sentence. Before such order is made, he shall be notified of his right of appeal to the superior court, and he may exercise such right, as provided by law, until such order is made. This section shall not apply to sentences the execution of which is suspended.

SECTION 32. District courts may receive complaints and issue warrants and other processes for the apprehension of persons charged with crime and found within their county, or who after committing crime therein escape therefrom, returnable before a court or trial justice of the county having jurisdiction of the trial or examination of the person charged with the crime.

SECTION 33. A clerk, assistant clerk, temporary clerk or temporary assistant clerk, paid by the county, may receive complaints, administer
3 to complainants the oath required thereto, and issue warrants, search 1588, 188, § 1
4 warrants and summonses, returnable as required when such processes 1577, 211, § 1

1 Section 34. Said courts may dispense with the issuing of a warrant if 2 the person charged with a crime has been arrested without a warrant 3 and brought before the court or admitted to bail; but in such case the 4 officer making the arrest shall endorse upon the complaint a statement 5 of his doings.

1 Section 35. A justice or special justice of a district court, or a justice
2 of the peace who is also a clerk or assistant clerk of such a court, may at 3 any time receive complaints and issue warrants and summonses, under 4 his own hand and seal, and such justice or special justice may likewise 5 issue search warrants, returnable before a court or trial justice having 6 jurisdiction of the trial or examination of the person charged with the 7 crime.

1 Section 37. District courts, justices, special justices, clerks, assistant
2 clerks, temporary clerks and temporary assistant clerks thereof, trial
3 justices, and justices of the peace designated and commissioned under 4 the preceding section, may issue summonses and other processes for 5 witnesses in criminal cases, and such processes and likewise warrants and 6 other processes in such cases, issued by said courts or persons, may be 7 directed to a court officer or probation officer of the court issuing the 8 process, or either specifically or in general terms to any person in the 9 commonwealth qualified to serve criminal process, and any such process 10 may be served and executed in any part of the commonwealth by the 11 person to whom it is delivered for that purpose. This section shall apply 12 to summonses, warrants and other processes for parties and witnesses in 13 cases of wayward, delinquent or neglected children.

Sessions and Proceedings.

1 Section 38. District courts shall always be open and business may 2 be transacted at any time, except as provided in section six of chapter
3 two hundred and twenty. Sittings of the courts shall be held in the court 4 houses or other places provided therefor by the county, at the times and courts, except the municipal court of the city of Boston, may procure all law books relating to the laws of the commonwealth, including the reports of the supreme judicial court, the Massachusetts digests, all blank books, blanks, stationery and other incidentals required by said courts and approved by the justices. The justice of a district court in any county other than Suffolk, the judicial district which has a population exceeding one hundred and twenty thousand as ascertained by the last preceding national or state census and in which there is no county law library, may, with the approval of the county commissioners, procure other law books required by said court. The expenses thereof shall be certified by the justices monthly, and shall be transmitted to the county commissioners who shall audit the bills therefor and order payment thereof by the county.

Powers and duties of special justice. 1913, 290.

Adjournment when justice absent. 1881, 188, 1893, 396, § 56, R. L. 160, § 44.

Section 41. A special justice of a district court shall at all times have and exercise all the powers and duties of a justice of such court, so far as to render decisions, make orders, and perform such other acts as he may deem necessary or proper in connection with or relating to matters which have been heard before him.

Section 42. If no justice or special justice is present at the time and place appointed for holding a session of a district court, the sheriff or any of his deputies or the clerk may adjourn the court from day to day or from time to time, giving notice thereof as circumstances may require.
Section 43. The justices, or a majority of them, of all the district courts, except the municipal court of the city of Boston, shall from time to time make and promulgate uniform rules regulating the time for the entry of writs, processes and appearances, the filing of answers and for holding trials in civil actions, the preparation and submission of reports, the allowance of reports which a justice shall disallow as not conformable to the facts, or shall fail to allow by reason of physical or mental disability, death or resignation, the reporting of cases reserved for report when a justice shall fail to report the same by reason of physical or mental disability, death or resignation, the granting of new trials, and the practice and manner of conducting business in cases which are not expressly provided for by law, including juvenile proceedings and those relating to wayward, delinquent and neglected children.

Section 43A. There shall be an administrative committee of district courts, which shall consist of the three presiding justices for the time being designated by the chief justice of the supreme judicial court under section one hundred and eight of chapter two hundred and thirty-one, to act in the appellate districts of district courts, other than the municipal court of the city of Boston. The committee shall be authorized to visit any district court, other than the municipal court of the city of Boston, as a committee or by sub-committee, to recommend uniform practices, forms of blanks and records, and to superintend the keeping of records by clerks.

The members of the committee shall be allowed the necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties, subject to the approval of the governor and council, and shall receive such compensation for their services actually performed in the work of such committee as the governor and council shall approve, to be paid from the treasury of the commonwealth.

To promote co-ordination in the work of the courts, the administrative committee may call a conference of any or all of the justices of the district courts, including the municipal court of the city of Boston, or of other officials connected with such courts, and the traveling expenses of such justices or officials for attending any such conferences shall be paid as the other expenses of the respective courts are paid.

Section 44. Processes issuing from district courts shall be under the seal of the court, signed by the clerk or an assistant clerk or temporary clerk or temporary assistant clerk, and shall bear terse of the justice, or in the municipal court of the city of Boston, the chief justice, unless he is a party or unless his office is vacant, and in such cases they shall bear terse of the special justice who holds the senior commission or the senior associate justice. The process, civil or criminal, of a district court shall run throughout the commonwealth for service in any case or proceeding within its jurisdiction.

Section 45. District courts have the same authority to issue commissions to take depositions in cases pending before them as the superior court has in cases pending therein.
Section 46. When judgment is entered by a district court upon demurrer, or upon a case stated, or when a decision is rendered in an action, except in open court, the clerk of the court shall forthwith give notice thereof to the parties or to their attorneys.

Section 47. Clerks of district courts, except the municipal court of the city of Boston, shall, on or before the tenth day of each month, account for and pay over to the county treasurer all money received by them from civil business, including fees for blanks and copies, and to city and town treasurers all fines and forfeitures received by them payable to said cities or towns, and render to said treasurers a detailed account on oath of the same. Such payments shall include the balances due and payable at the end of the month last preceding the day of payment. They shall, at the end of a criminal case, pay the fees and expenses of officers entitled thereto from the funds in their hands payable to the city or town liable for the payment of such fees and expenses, if they have sufficient funds therefor, and all such fees and expenses not so paid shall be certified at the end of each month to the treasurer of the city or town liable therefor, who shall pay them to the parties entitled thereto. They shall, at the end of a criminal case or inquest, pay the fees of witnesses for the commonwealth and the fees and expenses of officers inquests who are entitled thereto, from the funds furnished them by the county treasurer for that purpose, or out of any funds which may be paid into court and are payable to the county. They shall be allowed for the amounts so paid in their settlement with the county, city and town treasurers. If they do not have in their hands sufficient funds returnable to counties with which to pay such fees, as herein provided, they may make written requisition thereupon to the county treasurer, who shall pay to them not more than two hundred dollars each in any one month; but if it appears necessary to the director of accounts, he may approve in addition thereto a requisition for not more than two hundred dollars in any one month, and, upon receipt of a requisition so approved, the county treasurer may pay to them such amount as may be called for therein. They shall account therefor in their regular settlements with the county treasurer and shall be liable thereon for their official bonds. A clerk violating any provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

Section 48. In cases in which municipal courts in Boston or the East Boston district court are authorized to sentence to imprisonment in the house of correction or county jail, or to commit thereto for non-payment of fine, they may sentence to imprisonment in the house of correction at Deer Island or commit thereto.

Section 49. In the municipal courts in Boston, except the municipal court of the city of Boston, and in the East Boston district court, witness fees and the fees and expenses of officers named in section fifty of chapter two hundred and sixty-two and of all other persons shall, at the end of a criminal case or inquest in which such fees or expenses accrue, be paid by the clerks to the persons entitled thereto. If they do not have sufficient funds in their hands with which to make such pay-
8. The municipal court of the city of Boston shall consist of one chief justice, eight associate justices, and six special justices. Said court may from time to time make rules for regulating the practice and conducting the business therein in all cases not expressly provided for by law.

1 Section 51. The chief justice, or, in case of his death, illness, absence or incapacity, the senior associate justice, shall allow bills of costs, accounts, charges and expenses which arise in said court, and shall certify to the public officer by whom payable such amounts so allowed.

1 Section 52. The chief justice may from time to time make assignments for the attendance of a justice at the several times and places appointed for holding court. The chief justice, or, in case of his death, illness, absence or incapacity, the senior associate justice, if in his opinion the public business so requires, may provide for additional sessions of the court. A special justice may hold any such additional session at the request of the chief justice or senior associate as aforesaid, or a regular session at the request of the justice whose duty it may be to hold it, or in case of the illness or absence of any justice, or a vacancy, at the request of any justice. During the continuance of such requests, or during such illness, absence or vacancy, a special justice shall have and exercise all the powers and duties of a justice. The fact of holding court and the fact which gave him jurisdiction shall be entered upon the general records of the court, but need not be stated in the record of any case heard by him. His compensation shall be thirty dollars for each day's service; and, except when holding an additional session as above provided, the compensation for service in excess of thirty days in any one year which may be rendered to or for any one justice shall be deducted by the treasurer of Suffolk county from the salary of such justice.

1 Section 53. There shall be a clerk and eight assistant clerks of said court for criminal business, and a clerk and twelve assistant clerks of said court for civil business. The assistant clerks shall be appointed by the courts, respectively, subject to the approval of the justices or a majority of them, and the clerks shall be responsible for the doings of their assistants, and may remove them at pleasure. The salaries of said assistant clerks shall be payable by the county.

8. The clerk of said court for civil business may designate such employees in his office, as in his judgment may be necessary for the convenience of the public, as deputy assistant clerks of said court, who shall have the same authority to administer oaths as the assistant clerks of said court.
Section 54. In addition to the jurisdiction otherwise conferred, said court shall have jurisdiction of actions of contract, tort or replevin, if one or more of the defendants, or, in actions by trustee process, if one or more of the persons named in the writ as trustees, live or have their usual place of business in Suffolk county, or, in actions brought under chapter two hundred and twenty-seven, if an attachment of property or personal service of the writ is made in said county.

Section 55. The justices of said court may employ stenographic service for the court to an amount not exceeding three thousand dollars yearly. Said court may secure for its criminal business medical service, and the equipment necessary therefor, and for this purpose may expend annually such sum, not exceeding ten thousand dollars, as the justices of said court may from time to time determine, subject to the approval of the mayor of Boston. Sums so expended shall be paid by Suffolk county upon vouchers approved by the chief justice of said court.

Section 56. The clerks shall, on or before the tenth day of each month, account for and pay over to the collector of Boston, or to any other officer authorized by law to receive the same, the balance due and payable at the end of the preceding month of all money received by them payable by law to Suffolk county, and shall render to said collector or other officer a detailed account thereof under oath. Whoever violates this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

Special Provisions Relative to the Boston Juvenile Court.

Section 57. The Boston juvenile court, established by section one of chapter four hundred and eighty-nine of the acts of nineteen hundred and six, shall continue to have and exercise jurisdiction within the same territorial limits as are prescribed for the criminal jurisdiction of the municipal court of the city of Boston.

Section 58. Said court shall consist of one justice and two special justices. It shall have a clerk, who shall be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the council, for five years.

Section 59. Except as otherwise provided by law, said court shall have and exercise, within its jurisdiction, the same powers, duties and procedure as district courts; and all laws relating to district courts or municipal courts in the county of Suffolk or official thereof or proceedings therein, shall, so far as the same are applicable, apply to said court.

Section 60. Within the territorial limits prescribed in section fifty-seven, said court shall have and exercise jurisdiction, exclusive of the municipal court of the city of Boston, over cases of juvenile offenders under seventeen and cases of neglected, wayward or delinquent children. Said court may from time to time make general rules in reference to, and provide forms of, procedure.
COURT OFFICERS.

1. SECTION 61. Court officers in district courts shall be appointed by the justice of the court, or, in the case of the municipal court of the city of Boston, by a majority of the justices, and may likewise be removed for any cause considered by such justice or majority to be sufficient, and any vacancy caused by removal or otherwise may likewise be filled.

2. Such officers shall attend the sessions of the court, shall preserve order, and may serve warrants, mittimuses, precepts, orders and processes of the court.

MESSENGERS AND INTERPRETERS.

Section 66. There shall be a messenger of the municipal court of the city of Boston, appointed by a majority of the justices. 1906, 192.

Section 67. The justices of the municipal court of the city of Boston may appoint such official interpreters as they may deem necessary for the criminal and for the civil sessions of the court. The interpreters shall hold their positions at the pleasure of the court and shall render such additional service as the chief justice of said court may require. Said justices shall forthwith discharge any such interpreter who shall be found by them to have requested or received, directly or indirectly, any gratuity, bonus or fee in connection with any criminal or civil case pending or in course of preparation for presentation to any court. Other interpreters may be employed when the services of the official interpreter are not available.

Section 68. The justice of the East Boston district court may appoint an Italian interpreter for that court. Said interpreter shall be entitled to an annual vacation period of fifteen working days with pay.

CLERICAL ASSISTANCE.

Section 69. The clerk of each district court, except the clerks of the municipal court of the city of Boston for civil and criminal business, shall be allowed annually for clerical assistance such amount as the mayor of the city of Boston, if the district court is in Suffolk county, or as the county commissioners, if it is in any other county, may approve.

Section 70. The clerks of the municipal court of the city of Boston for civil business and for criminal business and the clerk of the Boston juvenile court shall each be annually allowed for clerical assistance such amounts as the majority of the justices of said municipal court and the justice of said Boston juvenile court, respectively, may recommend, subject, however, to the approval of the officers having in Suffolk county the powers of county commissioners.

Section 79. In courts in which the salaries of justices are fixed by law, the preceding section, the salaries of clerks shall be equal to seventy-five per cent of the salaries established for the justices of their respective districts.
1 Section 80. The salary of the clerk of the municipal court of the 2 Charlestown district shall be equal to seventy-five per cent of the salary 3 established for the justice of said court, and the salary of the first assist-4 iant clerk shall be equal to seventy-five per cent, and the salary of the 5 second assistant clerk shall be equal to sixty-six and two thirds per cent
6 of the salary of said clerk. The salary of the clerk of the municipal court 7 of the South Boston district shall be equal to seventy-five per cent of the 8 salary established for the justice of said court, and the salary of the as-9 sistant clerk shall be equal to seventy-five per cent of the salary of said
10 clerk. The salaries of the clerks of the first district court of Barnstable, 11 the second district court of Essex and the second, third and fourth district
12 courts of Plymouth shall be equal to seventy-five per cent of the salaries 13 established for the justices of their respective courts.

1 Section 81. If sessions of a district court are held in more than one 2 town in its district, the county commissioners of the county in which such 3 district lies shall designate in which town the clerk's main office shall be 4 established, and the justice, special justices, clerk and assistant clerks of 5 such court shall each be allowed by the county his traveling expenses 6 necessarily incurred in connection with holding sessions of said court at 7 any town in the county other than the town of his residence. All ex-8 penses allowed under this section shall be subject to the approval of 9 said county commissioners.

1 Section 82. The salaries of the justices, clerks and assistant clerks
2 of district courts, except the courts mentioned in sections seventy-five to 3 seventy-seven, inclusive, whenever the population of their respective 4 judicial districts, as ascertained by the last preceding national or state
5 census, permits it, shall so be readjusted in the year following such census 6 by the officer paying the salary as to apply the population according to 7 such census to the schedule and computation of salaries contained in sec-
8 tions seventy-eight and seventy-nine, and salaries so readjusted shall be 9 salaries of clerks and assistant clerks in certain courts.

28. Drunkenness, intoxicating liquor, etc.
29. Dairy products.
30. Hawkers and peddlers.
31. Felonies by juvenile offenders.
32. Penalties.

Section 1. The governor, with the advice and consent of the council, may designate and commission justices of the peace as trial justices in the towns named in the following section, and may revoke such designation. A justice of the peace not so designated and commissioned shall not have or exercise any judicial power, and shall not receive complaints or issue warrants, except as provided in section thirty-six of chapter two hundred and eighteen and in chapter two hundred and thirty-three.

Section 2. One such trial justice may be designated and commissioned in each of the following places: Ludlow, Hardwick, Barre, Hudson, Hopkinton, Saugus, Nahant, Marblehead, North Andover and Andover.

Location:
1. Designation and commission.
1588, 138, § 1.
1859, 193.
1860, 157, § 5.
G. S. 120, §§ 33, 36.
1877, 211, § 1.
P. S. 155, §§ 6, 7.
R. L. 161, §§ 5, 6.

Section 3. A trial justice may receive complaints and issue warrants and summonses against persons charged with crime and try criminal cases arising within the town where he resides at the time when he is designated and commissioned, and may interchange services with and act for any other trial justice within the county in which he resides. The trial justices residing in Barre and Hardwick shall have concurrent jurisdiction of offences committed in the towns of New Braintree and Oakham.

Section 4. A trial justice shall hold his office for three years from the time of his designation, unless during that period he ceases to hold a commission as justice of the peace or unless such designation and commission as trial justice is revoked. A trial justice, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall give a bond similar to that required from the clerk of a district court under section sixteen of chapter two hundred and eighteen, and failure to give such bond shall have like effect as in the case of such clerk.

Section 5. Cases before trial justices may be heard and determined at any convenient and suitable place. The reasonable and necessary expenses, not exceeding ten dollars a month, actually incurred by a trial justice for the rent of an office used by him for court purposes, shall be paid by the county where the office is located, in the same manner as the expenses for rent of district courts. Trial justices may adjourn their courts in all cases to any other time or place, but not exceeding ten days at any one time against the objection of the defendant.

Section 6. A trial justice may receive complaints and issue warrants and summonses in cases arising within his town, outside his jurisdiction but within the jurisdiction of a district court within the county, making the warrant or summons returnable to a court having jurisdiction.

Section 7. A trial justice, taking bail between nine o'clock in the forenoon and six o'clock in the afternoon in a case within his jurisdiction, shall receive no fee therefor.

Section 8. Trial justices shall have like power with district courts to file criminal cases.

Section 9. Trial justices may punish disorderly conduct interrupting any judicial proceedings before them, or which is a contempt of their authority, by a fine of not more than ten dollars or by imprisonment for not more than fifteen days.

Section 10. If a trial justice fails to attend at the time and place to which an examination or trial has been adjourned by him, any other trial justice within the same county may attend and hear or try said case and may further adjourn such examination or trial in the same manner as the justice before whom the case was first pending. The justice who so takes cognizance of the case shall make a minute of the proceedings before himself on the complaint and certify the same, and it shall be entered on the records of the justice who makes the final order, sentence or decree in the case. Any recognizance taken by the justice before whom the case was originally pending shall continue in full force and effect.

Section 11. Trial justices shall keep a record of all their judicial proceedings. They shall safely preserve all dockets and records thereof and other official papers in their custody, shall keep them open, under proper regulations, to public inspection and examination, and furnish copies thereof upon request and upon payment of such fees as are allowed in similar cases to clerks of courts. Whoever knowingly and wilfully destroys, defaces or conceals the dockets, records or other official papers of a trial justice shall forfeit not more than one thousand dollars, and shall be liable in damages to any person who is injured thereby.

Upon the death, resignation or removal from office of a trial justice, all his dockets, records of his judicial proceedings and other official papers in his custody shall be deposited in the office of the clerk of the courts in the county in which he was designated. A trial justice who neglects for three months after his resignation or removal from office to deposit his dockets, records and other official papers shall forfeit not more than five hundred dollars, and the executor or administrator of a deceased trial justice who neglects for three months after the filing of his bond to deposit in the clerk’s office the dockets, records and other official papers of the deceased which come into his hands shall forfeit a like amount.

Section 12. If a trial justice is commissioned and qualified anew at or before the expiration of his former commission, his authority shall continue; and all business commenced by or before him under the former commission may be prosecuted and completed in the same manner as if that commission had continued in force.

Section 13. If a trial justice ceases to hold office, he may nevertheless finish any case pending before him and certify copies of his records and papers; but, in such case, as well as in case of his death, the district court within whose judicial district such trial justice exercised jurisdiction may cause and allow the papers in the case to be brought and entered in said court, and may thereupon proceed as if the case had been originally begun therein.

Section 14. Trial justices shall not be retained or employed as attorneys before any court, upon appeal or otherwise, in any suit or action previously determined before themselves.

Section 15. Trial justices shall be subject to the same duties and liabilities as clerks of district courts under section forty-seven of chapter two hundred and eighteen, and the provisions of said section forty-seven relative to advances on requisition shall apply to such justices.

1 Section 19. They shall have jurisdiction, as aforesaid, of the crimes Breaches of the peace.
2 of assault and battery and of other breaches of the peace not of a high 3 and aggravated nature; of disturbing the peace to the great damage and 4 common nuisance of the inhabitants of the place where the disturbance
5 occurs; of affrays and riots; of going armed offensively to the terror of 6 the people; of uttering menaces or threatening speeches; and of being 7 a dangerous and disorderly person; and, upon conviction of the defend-8 ant, may punish him by a fine of not more than thirty dollars, or by 9 imprisonment for not more than ninety days.

1 Section 20. Whoever is brought before a trial justice for any of the Trial or 2 crimes named in the preceding section shall be examined by him, and 3 may be tried before him, and, if convicted, may be required to find sure-4 ties to keep the peace for not more than one year and be punished by 5 fine or imprisonment as before provided; or, if the offense is of a high
6 and aggravated nature, he may be committed or bound over for trial
7 before the superior court. If a person is committed under this section 8 or under section thirty-one for failure to recognize as ordered, the 9 superior court shall thereupon have jurisdiction of the case against such 10 person for the purpose of revising the amount of bail theretofore fixed.

1 Section 21. They shall have jurisdiction, as aforesaid, of the crime Larcenies, etc.
2 of larceny; of the crime of buying, receiving or aiding in the concealment
3 of stolen property, and of the crime of fraudulently obtaining property
4 by any game, device, sleight of hand, pretended fortune telling, or by 5 any trick or other means by the use of cards or other implements or in-6 struments, if the value of the property in respect of which the crime is 41, 44.

committed is not alleged to exceed ten dollars. In all such cases the defendant, upon a first conviction, shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifteen dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than six months; and upon a subsequent conviction of the like offence, committed after a former conviction, he shall be punished by a fine of not more than twenty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than one year; but if the person convicted of buying, receiving or aiding in the concealment of such stolen goods or property makes satisfaction to the person injured to the full value of the property stolen and not restored, the punishment may be mitigated as justice may require.

SECTION 22. They shall have jurisdiction, as aforesaid, of all the crimes mentioned in sections one hundred and thirteen, one hundred and fourteen, one hundred and fifteen, one hundred and seventeen, and one hundred and twenty-seven of chapter two hundred and sixty-six, if the value of the trees, fruit, flowers or other property injured, destroyed, taken or carried away, or the injury occasioned by the trespass, is not alleged to exceed one hundred dollars; and may punish the same by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or both; but if the value of the property so destroyed or injured or the amount of injury done is not alleged to exceed fifteen dollars, the fine imposed for a violation of said section one hundred and twenty-seven shall not exceed fifteen dollars or the imprisonment decease thirty days.

SECTION 23. They shall have jurisdiction, as aforesaid, of violations of the laws relative to the taking or using a boat or vehicle, other than a motor vehicle, or the taking, driving, riding or using a horse, ass, mule, ox or any draft animal; but they shall not impose a fine of more than fifty dollars or imprisonment for more than six months or both.

SECTION 24. They shall have jurisdiction, as aforesaid, of violations of the laws regulating the taking of fish and game, the penalty for which does not exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for six months.

SECTION 25. They shall have jurisdiction, as aforesaid, of violations of town ordinances, by-laws and orders; of offences of unlawfully keeping billiard tables or bowling alleys; of violations of the laws relative to the public health; and of offences against property in cemeteries; but no single penalty imposed for offences against property in cemeteries shall exceed fifty dollars.

SECTION 26. They shall have jurisdiction, as aforesaid, of the offence of keeping or maintaining a common nuisance, namely, a building, part of a building, place or tenement resorted to for prostitution, assignation, lewdness or illegal gaming, or used for the illegal keeping or sale of intoxicating liquor; and, upon conviction of the defendant, may punish him by a fine of one hundred dollars and by imprisonment for not less than three months nor more than one year, where the nuisance relates to prostitution, assignation or lewdness, and in other cases by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars and by imprisonment for not more than one year.
1. Section 27. They shall have jurisdiction, as aforesaid, of the common
2. law offence of keeping and maintaining a common, ill-governed and dis-
3. orderly house; and, upon conviction of the defendant, may punish him
4. by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for
5. not more than one year.

Clerks of Courts

Section 1. The justices of the supreme judicial court shall appoint the clerk of the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth for a term of five years from the date of his appointment, and may appoint an assistant clerk of said court for a term of three years from the first day of January next after his appointment, and may remove them.

Section 2. The clerk shall attend all sessions of the court, preserve all the files and papers thereof, keep a docket record of all questions transferred, and of all petitions, complaints or other processes presented to the court, and enter thereon the names of the parties in full and of the counsel who appear in their behalf, and a brief description of the nature of the action or proceeding. He shall also record thereon accurate minutes of all orders, decrees or directions of the court in each case, transmit forthwith to the clerks of courts in the several counties all rescripts made or ordered by the court and the papers which belong to the supreme judicial court or the superior court in each case, and receive and keep safely all papers transmitted to him by the clerks of the courts. He shall make copies of all papers on file in said court and of the docket record thereof, if desired, and certify them under the seal of the court. He shall issue such writs or other processes as the court orders, shall charge the fees provided by law for like services for clerks of courts, and, if no express fee is provided, he shall receive a fair compensation for the services required of him in analogy to like services for which a compen...
18 sation is fixed by law. He shall annually, before the last Wednesday 19 of December, account with and pay over to the state treasurer all fees 20 received by him.

1 Section 3. There shall be a clerk for the supreme judicial court
2 for the county of Suffolk, and two clerks for the superior court of said
3 county, one for civil and one for criminal business; and in each of the 4 other counties a clerk of the courts who shall act as clerk of the supreme 5 judicial court, of the superior court and of the county commissioners.
6 All of said officers shall hold office for six years beginning with the first
7 Wednesday of January following their election and until their success-8 sors are qualified.

1 Section 4. The justices of the supreme judicial court shall appoint
2 for a term of three years from the date of their appointment, and may 3 remove, assistant clerks of courts, as follows:

For the county of —

5 Barnstable, an assistant; 1855, 38, § 1.
6 Bristol, an assistant; 1855, 449, § 2.
7 Essex, an assistant, a second assistant, a third assistant and a fourth 8 assistant; 1866, 37, § 1.
9 Hampden, an assistant, a second assistant and, subject to the approval 10 of the county commissioners, a third assistant; 1857, 1.
11 Middlesex, an assistant, a second assistant, a third assistant and a 12 fourth assistant; 1859, 196, § 9.
13 Norfolk, an assistant; 1888, § 1.
14 Plymouth, an assistant; 1857, 1, § 1.
15 Suffolk, an assistant of the supreme judicial court;
16 Worcester, an assistant, a second assistant, a third assistant and a 17 fourth assistant.

18 Assistant clerks of courts except in Suffolk county shall act as assist-19 ant clerks of the supreme judicial court, the superior court and the 20 county commissioners.

1 Section 5. In addition to the assistant clerks provided for in the 2 preceding section, the clerks of the courts for the following counties
3 may appoint assistant clerks, with the same powers and duties, as 4 follows:

Norfolk, a second assistant, subject to removal by the court or by the 7 clerk.
8 Middlesex, subject to approval of a justice of the supreme judicial or 9 superior court, not more than two assistant clerks.
10 Suffolk, by the clerk of the superior court for criminal business, assist-11 ant clerks pro tempore or for the term of one year, subject to removal by the court or by the clerk; and by the clerk of the supreme judicial court for said county, a second assistant clerk, designated from his office.

1607, 234.

All other counties having no permanent second assistant clerks, assistant clerks pro tempore or for a term of one year, subject to removal by the court or by the clerk.

1931, 301, § 38.

Assistants pro tempore or for the term of one year appointed under this section shall be paid by the county monthly.

SECTION 8. If by reason of illness or other cause the clerk of the courts in any county, or of the supreme judicial court in Suffolk county, is unable to perform his duties, and there is no assistant clerk or he also is unable to perform the duties of his office, the justices of the supreme judicial court may appoint a temporary clerk, who shall perform the duties of the office until the clerk or assistant clerk resumes his duties. The justices of the superior court may appoint a temporary clerk if a clerk and assistant clerk of that court in Suffolk county cannot perform the duties of the office. When after any such temporary appointment the clerk or assistant clerk resumes his duties, he shall make a record of that fact, with the date, under his signature, in the latest book of records in each of his courts.

Temporary assistant clerks.
1863, 61, § 1.
P. S. 139, § 11.

SECTION 9. If an assistant clerk of the courts is unable to perform the duties of his office, a temporary assistant clerk may be appointed in the same manner as an assistant clerk and he shall perform the duties of that office until the assistant clerk resumes his duties.

Clerks to report convictions of SECTION 18. Any affidavit required in any action or proceeding pending in any court in the commonwealth may be made and sworn to before a clerk or assistant clerk of such court.

SECTION 19. The clerks shall cause one or more copies of all appeals, bills of exceptions and reports of cases in which the attorney general appears for the commonwealth to be printed and forwarded to him at Boston as soon as may be after they have been allowed and filed.

SECTION 20. When a rescript is filed in a case or proceeding in any court, the clerk, register or recorder of such court shall forthwith give notice thereof to an attorney of record of each party. The clerk of the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth shall transmit a copy of each rescript to the reporter of decisions.

SECTION 21. When judgment is entered by the superior court upon a demurrer or upon a case stated, or when a decision is rendered in an action heard without a jury, the clerk shall give notice thereof to the parties or their attorneys.

SECTION 22. A clerk of the courts may issue any order of notice upon any petition or other proceeding at law or in equity which might be issued by the court; but the court or a justice thereof may cause additional notice to be given.

SECTION 23. Each clerk shall keep an alphabetical list of the names of all parties to every action or judgment recorded in the records and a reference to the book and page thereof; and, if there are two or more plaintiffs or defendants, the name of each and a like reference shall be inserted in its appropriate place in the alphabetical list.

SECTION 24. The clerks of the courts for the several counties and the clerks of the superior court for civil and for criminal business in Suffolk county shall annually in July make returns of the civil and criminal business of the superior court for their respective counties for the last preceding year ending June thirtieth to the state secretary upon suitable blank forms to be prepared by him with the approval of the chief justice of the superior court. The state secretary may in his discretion verify such returns in such manner as he deems advisable, and for this purpose may inspect the dockets and records of said officials and shall be furnished by them with such further information as he deems necessary to complete such returns.

SECTION 25. The clerks of the courts and in Suffolk county the clerk of the superior court for civil business shall receive and safely keep the dockets, records and other official papers of trial justices which may be deposited in their offices under section eleven of chapter two hundred and nineteen, and shall make and certify copies thereof which shall have the same effect as if certified by trial justices. They shall be allowed the same fees for making such copies as are allowed to them in similar cases.

SECTION 26. The clerk of any court in which a physician registered in this commonwealth is convicted of a felony or of a crime in connection with the practice of medicine, or in which an unregistered practi-4 tioner is convicted of holding himself out as a practitioner of medicine, 5 or of practicing medicine, shall within one week thereafter report the 6 same to the board of registration in medicine together with a copy of 7 the court proceedings in the case. Failure to comply with this section 8 shall be punished by a fine of not less than one nor more than ten dollars.

1 Section 27. The supreme judicial court shall by general rule or 2 special order direct in what manner and to what extent, if any, the papers
3 in causes which are entered in said court or in the superior court shall 4 be extended upon the records, after final judgment or otherwise, and 5 shall be a final record. Such rule or order shall specify whether such 6 extension shall be in whole or in part, shall be in long hand, typewriting, 7 print or otherwise, or shall consist of the filing of original papers in such 8 causes by loose leaf system or otherwise.

1 Section 28. The clerks of the courts in the several counties and of 2 the supreme judicial and superior courts in Suffolk county shall at the 3 first sitting in each year of the supreme judicial court in their counties
4 exhibit their latest books of records to a justice of the court, who shall 5 cause errors and defects therein to be corrected.

1 Section 29. The justices of the several courts shall inspect the 2 doings of the clerks from time to time, and shall see that the records are 3 made up seasonably and kept in good order; and if the records are left 4 incomplete for more than six consecutive months, such neglect unless 5 caused by illness or casualty shall be adjudged a forfeiture of the bond 6 of the clerk.

1 Section 30. If any neglect causes a forfeiture of the bond of a clerk
2 or assistant clerk, the justices shall forthwith give written notice thereof
3 to the treasurer having custody thereof, who shall thereupon cause suit
4 to be brought thereon. The amount recovered in such suit shall be 5 applied to the expense of making up the deficient records under the direc-
6 tion of the court in whose records the deficiency exists, and the surplus, 7 if any, shall be carried into the account of such treasurer.

1 Section 31. The two preceding sections shall not exempt a clerk or 2 assistant clerk from an action for any other breach of the condition of 3 his bond or from his liability in any other way or to any party for neg-4 lect or misconduct in his office.

R. L. 165, § 29.

1 Section 32. The clerks of the courts in the several counties, and of 2 the supreme judicial and superior courts in Suffolk county, shall keep 3 cash books, which shall be county property and shall be and remain a 4 part of the records of the courts, in which they shall keep accounts of 5 all fees received by them for their official acts and services, including 6 fees for copies which are not required by law to furnish, fees and 7 money in proceedings relative to naturalization or for naturalization
8 certificates, and all fees and money of whatever description or character 9 received by them, or by any assistant or other person in their offices or 10 employment, for any acts done or services rendered in connection with 11 their said offices, and shall on or before the tenth day of each month pay over to the treasurers of their respective counties, or to such other 12 officers as are entitled to receive them, all fees received during the preceeding calendar month, and shall render therewith a sworn account 14 thereof; provided, that said clerks shall account for and pay over to the 15 United States bureau of naturalization in accordance with the federal 16 laws as to naturalization such part of any moneys received by them 17 under or by authority of such laws as they are required thereby to 18 account for and pay over.

[Note: — This section, as amended, effective January 1, 1935; see 19
1930, 331, § 2. For existing provisions see G. L. (ed. of 1920) 221, § 32.]

Section 33. Each assistant clerk shall under the direction of the 1 clerk perform any of the duties of the clerk and shall pay over to him 2 all fees and amounts received as such assistant. In the absence or upon 3 the resignation, death or removal of the clerk, the assistant clerk shall 4 perform his duties under the direction of the court until he returns or 5 until a new clerk has qualified, and upon the death, removal or resigna-6 tion of the clerk, the assistant clerk shall account with, and pay over the 7
money in his hands to, the officer to whom the clerk is by law required 8 9 to account.

Section 34. [Repealed, 1931, 426, § 291.]

Judicial Council.

Section 34A. There shall be a judicial council for the continuous 1 study of the organization, rules and methods of procedure and practice 2 of the judicial system of the commonwealth, the work accomplished, 3 and the results produced by that system and its various parts. Said 4 council shall be composed of the chief justice of the supreme judicial 5 court or some other justice or former justice of that court appointed 6 from time to time by him; the chief justice of the superior court or some 7 other justice or former justice of that court appointed from time to time 8 by him; the judge of the land court or some other judge or former judge 9 of that court appointed from time to time by him; the chief justice of 10
the municipal court of the city of Boston or some other justice or former 11 justice of that court appointed from time to time by him; one judge of 12 a probate court in the commonwealth and one justice of a district court 13 in the commonwealth and not more than four members of the bar all 14 to be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the 15 executive council. The appointments by the governor shall be for such 16 periods, not exceeding four years, as he shall determine.

Section 34B. The judicial council shall report annually on or before 1
December first to the governor upon the work of the various branches 2 of the judicial system. Said council may also from time to time submit 3 for the consideration of the justices of the various courts such suggestions 4 in regard to rules of practice and procedure as it may deem advisable.

Section 34C. No member of said council, except as hereinafter provided, shall receive any compensation for his services, but said council 1 and the several members thereof shall be allowed from the state treasury 2 out of any appropriation made for the purpose such expenses for clerical 3 and other services, travel and incidentals as the governor and council 4 5
6 shall approve. The secretary of said council, whether or not a member 7 thereof, shall receive from the commonwealth a salary of thirty-five 8 hundred dollars.

BAR EXAMINERS.

1 Section 35. There shall be a board of bar examiners consisting of 2 five persons, residing in different counties, one of whom shall annually 3 be appointed by the justices of the supreme judicial court for a term of 4 five years from October first in the year of his appointment, and who may 5 be removed by them. Such justices may fill vacancies.

1 Section 36. Said board may, subject to the approval of the supreme 2 judicial court, make rules with reference to examinations for admission 3 to the bar and the qualifications of applicants therefor, and determine 4 the time and place of such examinations, and conduct the same; provided 5 that any applicant for admission to the bar who is a graduate of a college 6 or who has complied with the entrance requirements of a college, or who 7 has fulfilled for two years the requirements of a day or evening high 8 school or of a school of equal grade, shall not be required to take any 9 examination as to his general education. The expenses of said board, as 10 certified by its chairman and approved by a justice of the supreme 11 judicial court, shall be paid by the commonwealth, together with such 12 compensation to each member as the justices of the supreme judicial 13 court approve, but said expenses and compensation shall not be in 14 excess of the amounts paid to the commonwealth under the following 15 section.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

1 Section 37. A citizen of the United States, whether man or woman, 2 may, if over twenty-one, file a petition in the supreme judicial or superior 3 court to be examined for admission as an attorney at law, and, if found 4 qualified, to be admitted as such; whereupon, unless the court other- 5 wise orders, the petition shall be referred to the board of bar examiners 6 to ascertain his qualifications and qualifications. If the board reports 7 that the petitioner is of good moral character and of sufficient acquire- 8 ments and qualifications, and recommends his admission, he shall be 9 admitted unless the court otherwise determines, and thereafter may 10 practice in all the courts of the commonwealth. The petitioner shall 11 pay to the clerk of the court in which his petition is filed a fee of fifteen 12 dollars upon the entry thereof, and a further fee of fifteen dollars upon 13 the entry of any subsequent petition. Such fees shall be paid over to 14 the commonwealth.

1 Section 38. Whoever is admitted as an attorney shall in open court 2 take and subscribe the oaths to support the constitution of the United 3 States and of the commonwealth; and the following oath of office shall 4 be administered to and subscribed by him:

I (repeat the name) solemnly swear that I will do no falsehood, nor consent 5 to the doing of any in court; I will not wittingly or willingly promote or sue 6 any false, groundless or unlawful suit, nor give aid or consent to the same; I 7 will delay no man for lucre or malice; but I will conduct myself in the office 8 of an attorney within the courts according to the best of my knowledge and 9 discretion, and with all good fidelity as well to the courts as my clients. So 10 help me God.
SECTION 38A. Every alien who has made the primary declaration to become a citizen of the United States under the federal naturalization laws shall, upon otherwise complying with section thirty-seven, be permitted to file a petition in the supreme judicial or superior court to be examined for admission as an attorney at law, and to take the examinations held under said section; provided, that upon passing such examinations and otherwise meeting the requirements for admission as set forth in said section, the board of bar examiners shall not recommend his admission until satisfied that the applicant has become a citizen of the United States. No alien who claimed exemption during the world war on the ground of being an alien shall be entitled to the benefits of this section.

SECTION 39. A citizen of the United States, whether man or woman, who has been admitted as an attorney or counsellor of the highest judicial court of any state, district, territory or country of which he was an inhabitant may, upon petition to the supreme judicial or the superior court be admitted to practice in all the courts of the commonwealth upon the production of satisfactory evidence of his good moral character and professional qualifications.

SECTION 40. An attorney may be removed by the supreme judicial or superior court for deceit, malpractice or other gross misconduct, and shall also be liable in damages to the person injured thereby, and to such other punishment as may be provided by law. Whenever a petition is filed for the removal of an attorney, the proceedings thereafter shall be conducted by an attorney to be designated by the court. The expenses of the inquiry and proceedings in either court shall be paid as in criminal prosecutions in the superior court.

SECTION 41. Whoever has been so removed and continues thereafter to practice law or to receive any fee for his services as an attorney at law rendered after such removal, or who holds himself out, or who represents or advertises himself as an attorney or counsellor at law, or whoever, not having been lawfully admitted to practice as an attorney at law, represents himself to be an attorney or counsellor at law, or to be lawfully qualified to practice in the courts of the commonwealth, by means of a sign, business card, letter head or otherwise, or holds himself out or represents or advertises himself as having authority or power in behalf of persons who have claims for damages to procure settlements of such claims for damages either to person or property, or whoever, not being an attorney at law, solicits or procures from any such person or his representative, either for himself or another, the management or control of any such claim, or authority to adjust or bring suit to recover for the same, or solicits for himself or another from a person accused of crime his or his representative the right to defend the accused person, shall be punished for a first offence by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months, and for a subsequent offence by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year.

SECTION 42. The clerk of the supreme judicial court for Suffolk county shall cause to be made, and shall keep, a complete record in suitable form of all persons who are, or ever have been, or hereafter become, attorneys at law in this commonwealth, and of the suspension, removal or disbarment of such as have been or hereafter shall be suspended, removed or disbarred. Clerks of courts and other persons in whose custody there may be any record of an admission to the bar of an attorney at law, any record of a petition for suspension or removal therefrom, or of a judgment or decree of suspension or removal from practice of any attorney at law, shall within one month after the date of such record report the same to the clerk of the supreme judicial court for Suffolk county. The record of said clerk relative to an admission to the bar, or a suspension or removal therefrom, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts recorded. A certificate thereof signed by the clerk or assistant clerk shall be admissible as evidence of such record.

1 Section 43. No attorney at law shall through any runner, agent or person who is employed by him solicit a person to employ him to present a claim for damages, or to prosecute an action to enforce such a claim, and no attorney at law shall directly or indirectly give or promise any person any money, fee, commission, profitable employment or other personal advantage in consideration of his employing such attorney on behalf of a person having a claim for damages, or soliciting or procuring the person who has such claim to employ such attorney to present such claim or to prosecute an action for the enforcement thereof. No attorney shall appear in any suit for the enforcement of a claim in connection with which he has violated this section.

1 Section 44. If it appears to the satisfaction of the court that an attorney whose appearance has been entered in any suit in connection therewith violated the preceding section, such attorney may in the discretion of the court be disqualified from further acting in said suit, and the court may make an order for continuance, or for another and speedy trial, or such other order for the protection of the interests of the parties, as justice may require, and may deny the right to collect costs wholly or in part to any party to the suit.

1 Section 45. A sheriff, deputy sheriff or constable who appears in court as attorney for any party to a suit, or draws, makes or fills up a writ, declaration, plea or process for such party, or, with intent to procure himself to be employed in the collection of a demand, or in any manner to make gain or profit therefrom, advises, counsels or encourages a person, directly or indirectly, to commence a suit or process shall forfeit fifty dollars.

1 Section 46. No corporation shall practice or appear as an attorney for any person other than itself in any court in the commonwealth or before any judicial body or hold itself out to the public or advertise as being entitled to practice law, and no corporation shall draw agreements, or other legal documents not relating to its lawful business, or draw wills, or practice law, or hold itself out in any manner as being entitled to do any of the foregoing acts, by or through any person orally or by advertisement, letter or circular; provided, that the foregoing shall not prevent any bank or trust company lawfully doing business in the common-wealth from furnishing to persons with whom it may deal or who may apply for the same, through its officers or agents, legal information or legal advice with respect to investments, taxation, or an issue or offering for sale of stocks, bonds, notes or other securities or property, nor shall anything herein prohibit a corporation from employing an attorney in regard to its own affairs or in any litigation to which it is or may be a party. Any corporation violating this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars; and every officer, agent or employee of any such corporation who, on behalf of the same, directly or indirectly, engages in any of the acts herein prohibited, or assists such corporation to do such prohibited acts, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars.

Section 47. The preceding section shall not apply to any public service corporation or to any corporation lawfully engaged in the examination and insuring of titles to real property, or lawfully engaged in the business of insurance against liability for damages or compensation on account of injury to persons or property, or lawfully engaged in acting as surety on motor vehicle liability bonds as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety, or lawfully engaged in assisting attorneys to organize corporations, or organized for and lawfully engaged in benevolent or charitable purposes, or organized under the authority of the common-wealth for the purpose of assisting persons without means in the pursuit of any civil remedy, or prohibit a newspaper from answering inquiries through its columns or any corporation from providing legal advice or assistance to its employees, or a corporation lawfully engaged in the business of conducting a mercantile or collection agency or adjustment bureau from employing an attorney to give legal advice concerning, or to prosecute actions in court relating to, the adjustment or collection of debts and accounts only.

Section 48. Parties may manage, prosecute or defend their own suits personally, or by such attorneys as they may engage; but not more than two persons for each party shall, without permission of the court, be allowed to manage any case therein.

Section 49. Any person of good moral character, unless he has been removed from practice as an attorney under section forty, may manage, prosecute or defend a suit if he is specially authorized by the party for whom he appears, in writing or by personal nomination in open court.

Section 50. An attorney who is lawfully possessed of an execution, or who has prosecuted a suit to final judgment in favor of his client, shall have a lien thereon for the amount of his fees and disbursements in the cause, but this section shall not prevent the payment of the execution or judgment to the judgment creditor by a person who has no notice of the lien.
1 Section 51. An attorney at law who unreasonably neglects to pay over money collected by him for and in behalf of a client, when demanded by the client, shall forfeit to such client five times the lawful interest of the money from the time of the demand.

1 Section 52. No person shall be employed or allowed to appear as an attorney before a court in any proceeding, civil or criminal, which shall have been previously determined before him as a judge of any court or as a trial justice.

Masters, Auditors, Referees, Assessors, etc.

1 Section 53. The governor, with the advice and consent of the council, shall, as vacancies occur, appoint masters in chancery, who may act throughout the commonwealth, so that the number thereof in the several counties shall be twelve in Suffolk, eleven in Essex, eleven in Middlesex, seven in Worcester, six in Norfolk, and not more than five in any other county. They shall be sworn, and shall hold their offices for five years.

1 Section 54. A master may complete any unfinished proceedings and processes pending before him or commenced under his direction notwithstanding the expiration of his commission.

1 Section 55. The supreme judicial court, the superior court or the probate court shall award reasonable compensation to commissioners, assessors, referees, masters in chancery and special masters, for duties performed under the direction of said court, and to arbitrators appointed under chapter two hundred and fifty-one upon whose awards judgment is entered, which shall be paid by the counties in which they are appointed. Reasonable traveling expenses shall also be allowed in the same manner as is provided for auditors.

1 Section 56. When a civil action is at issue, the supreme judicial or superior court, in its discretion, and a district court, if both parties assent thereto in writing, may appoint one or more auditors to hear the parties, examine their vouchers and evidence, state accounts and report upon such matters therein as may be ordered by the court. The auditor's findings of fact shall be prima facie evidence upon such matters only as are embraced in the order; but the court at the trial shall exclude any findings of fact which appears in the report to be based upon an erroneous opinion of law, or upon inadmissible evidence. Whenever the auditor makes a ruling as to the admissibility of evidence and objection is taken thereto, he shall, if requested so to do, make a statement of such ruling in his report. The auditor shall not make any finding of fact which depends upon the decision of a question of law, unless he makes alternative findings in his report the view of the law upon which his finding.

Penalty for not paying over to client. G. S. 121, § 38. 1889, 166, § 1.

Attorney not to act in suit previously decided by him. Masters in chancery. R. S. 84, §§ 31, 32. 1888, 162.

1814, 9, 173. 1815, 22. 1848, 277. G. S. 121, § 41. 1884, 165.

Section 57. After any account of an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee or other person required by law to render an account in the probate court has been filed therein, the judge of said court may, before approving it, appoint one or more auditors to hear the parties, examine vouchers and evidence and report upon the same to the court. The report shall be prima facie evidence upon such matters as are expressly referred to such auditors.

Section 58. Auditors shall give notice to the parties of the time and place appointed for their meeting, and may adjourn from time to time as may be necessary. If there is more than one auditor, all shall meet and hear the cause, but a report may be made by a majority. If either party neglects to appear at the time appointed for such hearing, or at any adjournment thereof, without just cause, or if at any such hearing either party refuses to produce in good faith the testimony relied on by him, the auditors may close the hearings and make a report recommending that judgment be entered for the adverse party. Judgment shall be entered accordingly at the first judgment day after the expiration of ten days from the filing of the report, unless the court, for cause shown, otherwise orders.

Section 59. The court may for cause discharge the auditors and appoint others and may remit the report for revision or further examination to the same or to other auditors.

Section 60. The court in which a cause is pending may, upon application of either party, appoint a day certain for the hearing thereof before the auditor. The hearing shall be had upon the day appointed, and shall proceed, unless the parties otherwise agree or the auditor otherwise orders, from day to day until the conclusion thereof.

Section 61. The court shall award reasonable compensation and allow actual expenses of travel in attending hearings, if said expenses be approved by the court as reasonable, to auditors, and the same shall be paid by the county if they are appointed by the supreme judicial court, the superior court or the probate court. If they are appointed by any other court, the compensation awarded and expenses of travel allowed may be paid by either party and taxed in his bill of costs if he prevails; but the plaintiff shall be liable for such payment, and the court may make 9 all orders and decrees, and issue process to enforce the same. No allow-10 ance for the expenses of travel shall be allowed by the court, unless the 11 auditor shall file a true and correct account of such expenses, signed and 12 sworn to by him.

1 Section 62. Auditors, masters in chancery and special masters shall 2 file their final report in the office of the clerk or register of the court by 3 which they are appointed within ninety days after the hearing before 4 them has been closed or within such time as the court may allow, and 5 in default thereof, shall not be entitled to any fees, except as provided 6 in section sixty-two A.

1 Section 62A. If an auditor or special master, appointed by the 2 supreme judicial, superior or probate court, becomes incapacitated or 3 dies without having filed his final report, the court may award him or his 4 estate reasonable compensation, payable by the county, upon a finding 5 that he actually performed services which would entitle him to the comp-6 pensation awarded had he filed a report as provided in section sixty-two;
7 provided, that all his records and memoranda, or copies thereof, in the 8 case in which compensation is sought, are filed with the clerk or register 9 of the court.

REPORTER OF DECISIONS.

1 Section 63. There shall be a reporter of decisions of the supreme 2 judicial court. He shall be appointed by the governor, with the advice
3 and consent of the council, and hold office at their pleasure.

1 Section 64. He shall attend the law sittings of the court unless ex-
2 cused therefrom by the chief justice, make true reports of decisions upon 3 all questions of law argued by counsel, prepare them for publication with 4 suitable head notes, tables of cases and indexes, furnish them to the 5 publisher, and superintend the correction, proof reading and publication
6 thereof. He shall in his discretion report the several cases more or less 7 at large according to their relative importance, so as not unnecessarily to 8 increase the size or number of the volumes of reports. The reports of 9 all decisions argued and determined before September first in each year 10 shall be published within ninety days thereafter.

1 Section 65. The volumes of reports shall be styled "Massachusetts
2 Reports", and the name of the reporter shall not be added thereto.
3 Style of
4 R. L. 165, § 64.
5 reporter. 1867, 239.

1 Section 66. The county of Suffolk shall provide a safe and con-
2 venient place in Boston where the reporter shall keep the written opin-3 ions of the court in all law cases argued in the several counties until their 4 publication in the reports, and his dockets and copies of papers in such 5 cases, and where he shall afford due facilities for their examination.

1 Section 67. If the reporter is prevented from attending at a sitting,
2 he shall depute a suitable person to attend for him and take notes of the 3 decisions; or the court may appoint a person to act for him until he 4 resumes the performance of his duties, or until another is appointed.

Preservation of opinions until publication. 1874, 43.

142 Mass. 29.
SECTION 68. The reporter shall receive from the commonwealth a salary of six thousand dollars, and shall be allowed by the commonwealth for clerical and incidental expenses of his office such sums as shall be appropriated therefor. These amounts shall be in full compensation for his services and said expenses. All fees received by him for copies of opinions, rescripts and other papers shall be paid by him quarterly to the commonwealth, with a detailed statement thereof.

1920, 540. 1930, 89.

SEC. 69. Not more than four deputy sheriffs or court officers shall receive compensation for attendance upon any civil sitting of the supreme judicial court or a sitting of the superior court for civil business or for both civil and criminal business unless in the supreme judicial court the presiding justice and in the superior court the presiding justice or the district attorney in writing requires the sheriff to procure the attendance for the whole or a portion of such sitting of an additional number. Not more than six deputy sheriffs, court officers or constables shall receive compensation for attendance upon any criminal sitting of the superior court for criminal business unless the district attorney in writing requires the sheriff to procure the attendance for the whole or a portion of such sitting of an additional number.

SEC. 70. The sheriffs of Suffolk, Middlesex and Worcester counties may each appoint, subject to the approval of the justices of the superior court, officers for attendance upon the several sessions of the superior court in their respective counties, as follows:

For Suffolk, not exceeding four for each session for civil business held with juries; three for each session held without juries; and six for the session for criminal business; said officers shall be interchanged between the several sessions so as to secure as nearly as may be equal service by all.

For Middlesex, twelve for civil or criminal business, who shall, when required by the sheriff, attend the sessions of the supreme judicial or probate court when not in attendance on the superior court.

For Worcester, for civil or criminal business, such number as may be necessary, who shall also attend upon the sessions of the supreme judicial, probate and insolvency and land courts.

Each of said officers shall give to the sheriff appointing him a bond with sufficient sureties, in the sum of fifteen hundred dollars, for the faithful performance of his duties. They shall have the authority of constables to serve venires for jurors and the processes of said courts, and in Worcester county to summon witnesses; and they shall be paid by the county their actual expenses necessarily incurred in making such services.

SEC. 71. The sheriffs of Suffolk and Middlesex counties may each designate one court officer to act as chief deputy sheriff for attendance on the superior court in his county. In Worcester county the sheriff may designate one court officer as chief court officer for attendance on the supreme judicial and superior courts. Such officers, under the orders of the sheriffs of their respective counties, in addition to their regular duties as court officers, shall supervise, direct and assign the officers of their respective courts.

1 Section 72. Officers appointed as court officers to attend upon the sessions of the supreme judicial or superior court in any county, including chief deputies and the chief court officer in Worcester county designated under the preceding section, shall hold office during good behavior and until they are removed by the sheriff of the county for which they were appointed, for cause approved by the justices of the court for attendance upon which they were appointed. Court officers appointed to attend upon both of said courts may be removed for cause approved by the justices of either of said courts. In Suffolk county officers in attendance upon the supreme judicial court or upon the superior court may be interchanged or transferred from either of said courts to the other court by the sheriff, with the approval, in each instance, of the chief justice of the court to which the transfer is proposed to be made.

1 Section 73. Each officer in attendance upon the supreme judicial court in Suffolk county, not exceeding six officers, shall receive in full for all services performed by him twenty-four hundred and eighty-four dollars a year, of which nineteen hundred and fifty-six dollars shall be paid by said county and five hundred and twenty-eight dollars by the commonwealth.

1 Section 74. [Repealed, 1931, 301, § 40.]

1 Section 75. The compensation of deputy sheriffs not on salary and of constables for attendance upon the supreme judicial, superior or probate court, or upon the sessions of the county commissioners, shall be paid by the respective counties, except that for attendance upon the supreme judicial court in Suffolk county when said court is sitting for the commonwealth it shall be paid by the commonwealth.

1 Section 76. The messenger of the justices of the supreme judicial court in Suffolk county shall receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars, of which twenty-six hundred dollars shall be paid by said county and four hundred dollars by the commonwealth. The messenger of the superior court in said county shall also act as clerical assistant of the justices of said court. His salary shall be paid by said county and shall be in full for his services in both capacities.

1 Section 77. Premiums on bonds of court officers and deputy sheriffs in attendance on the supreme judicial or superior court in Suffolk county and on the courts in Worcester county shall be paid by their respective counties.

1 Section 78. Any officer in attendance upon the supreme judicial court in Suffolk county under section seventy-three, including the messenger of the justices of said court, may be designated by the sheriff of said county to serve venires for jurors and the processes of said court, and when so designated shall have the authority of constables for said employment.
purposes, and shall be paid by said county his actual expenses necessarily incurred in making such services. He shall first give to the sheriff a bond with sufficient sureties in the sum of fifteen hundred dollars for the faithful performance of his duties.

Section 79. Officers in attendance upon the sessions of the superior court for business in Suffolk county and the officers appointed for attendance on the sessions of the superior court for civil or criminal business in Worcester county shall summon witnesses on behalf of the commonwealth from any part of the commonwealth, but shall receive therefor no compensation in addition to their salaries except for expenses actually incurred and paid.

Section 80. Court officers receiving stated salaries and deputy sheriffs in attendance upon the supreme judicial or superior court in Suffolk, Middlesex and Worcester counties shall, while on duty in said courts, wear uniforms which shall be designated by the sheriff of the county. Such uniforms for court officers aforesaid in attendance upon either court in Middlesex or Worcester county or upon the superior court in Suffolk county shall be furnished at the expense of their respective counties; and court officers paid under section seventy-three who are appointed to attend upon the supreme judicial court in Suffolk county and any other officer designated as deputy sheriff in attendance upon said court in said county shall each be annually allowed by said county one hundred dollars in addition to the salary allowed by law in order to provide such uniform.

Section 81. No deputy sheriff or constable receiving a salary from the county shall be designated to attend, for compensation by the day, upon the sessions of the supreme judicial or superior court, and no deputy sheriff or constable shall receive compensation for attendance upon the sessions of more than one court, or upon more than one session of the same court, on the same day.

Section 82. The justices of the superior court shall appoint from time to time such official stenographers and additional stenographers for the several counties as the business of the court may require. Official and additional stenographers shall be sworn officers of the court, removable at the pleasure of the justices, may be appointed for more than one county, and shall perform such services in the county or counties for which they are appointed or in any other county, as may be assigned them by the justices or by their authority.

Section 83. The presiding justice at any sitting, trial or hearing in the supreme judicial court or the superior court, in case no stenographer is assigned therefor or in case of the illness or absence of a stenographer assigned, may appoint one or more temporary stenographers, who shall be sworn, and shall during his or their service have the powers and duties of an official stenographer.
1 Section 84. [Repealed, 1927, 332, § 3.]

1 Section 85. [Repealed, 1927, 332, § 3.]

1 Section 86. A justice of the superior court may, upon the request of the district attorney, appoint a stenographer, who shall be sworn, and who shall take stenographic notes of such testimony given before the grand jury as he may direct, and shall provide him with a transcript fully written out of such part of said notes as he requires. This section shall not authorize the taking of any statement or testimony of a grand juror.

1 Section 87. The justices of the superior court may make regulations not inconsistent with law relative to the assignments, duties and service of such stenographers appointed for that court, and any other matters relative to the stenographers.

1 Section 88. Upon request of the presiding justice or any party, the stenographer shall furnish a transcript of his notes or any part thereof, taken at a trial or hearing, for which he shall be paid by the party requesting it at the rate of fifteen cents a hundred words for one copy, and eight cents a hundred words for each additional copy if more than one copy is ordered at the same time; but if it is requested by the presiding justice or, in a criminal case, by the district attorney, payment therefor at the same rate shall be made by the county upon a voucher approved by him and, in a criminal case, the expense of transcripts furnished to said justice and to the district attorney shall be taxed like other expenses.

1 Section 89. The justices of the superior court from time to time may appoint one or more clerical assistants, removable at the pleasure of the justices, and fix their compensation, which shall be paid by the county, or the commonwealth, or by both in such proportion as the justices may determine. The justices may make regulations not inconsistent with law relative to the assignments, duties and service of such clerical assistants, and any other matters relative to them.

1 Section 90. [Repealed, 1922, 228, § 1.]

1 Section 90A. When a salaried official stenographer renders service in a county other than the one for which he is appointed, the justice shall allow him his reasonable and actual expenses for transportation, food and lodging, to be paid by the county in which he renders such service. At the conclusion of his assignment he shall send a statement of the dates when he rendered service in such county, attested by the clerk of the court for such county, to the treasurer of such county and also to the treasurer of the county for which he is appointed, whereupon the county in which he rendered such service shall pay to the county for which he is appointed ten dollars for each day’s service so rendered.

1 Section 91. In counties having a population of more than two hundred thousand, official stenographers, other than additional stenographers, appointed by the justices of the superior court shall receive salaries.

established in accordance with sections forty-eight to fifty-six, inclusive, of chapter thirty-five, to be paid by the respective counties. Other official stenographers, additional stenographers and temporary stenographers shall receive from the county in which they are employed, on the order of the presiding justice, compensation established as aforesaid for each day’s actual and necessary attendance; and if the service is rendered outside the county in which the stenographer resides or has his usual place of business, the justice shall allow him in addition to such compensation his reasonable and actual expenses for transportation, food and lodging. The stenographer appointed under section eighty-two for the county of Nantucket shall be allowed in addition thereto the sum of eighteen dollars for each sitting as compensation for time consumed in traveling.

115 Mass. 310.

INTERPRETERS.

SECTION 92. The justices of the superior court may appoint such official interpreters as they may deem necessary for the sessions of the court. Such interpreters shall hold their positions at the pleasure of the court and render such additional service as any justice of the court requires. No official interpreter shall request or receive, directly or indirectly, any gratuity, bonus or fee, in connection with any case pending, or in course of preparation for presentation to said court; provided, that upon request of the district attorney such interpreter may, in the discretion of the court, receive additional compensation for his services as an interpreter at such hours or times as the courts are not in session, which shall be paid under section twenty-four of chapter twelve.

This section shall not prevent the justices from employing other interpreters when the services of the official interpreters are not available. The expenses incurred hereunder shall be paid by the county in which the prosecution, suit or action is pending.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES OF CLERKS AND ASSISTANT CLERKS OF THE SUPREME JUDICIAL AND SUPERIOR COURTS.

SECTION 93. The clerk of the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth shall receive from the commonwealth a salary to be fixed by the chief justice of said court, with the approval of the governor and council, with fifteen hundred dollars a year for clerk hire, together with an additional sum not to exceed five hundred dollars a year for extra clerk hire in cases of emergency, subject, however, to the approval of the chief justice.

VENUE OF ACTIONS.

Section 1. A transitory action shall, except as otherwise provided, if any one of the parties thereto live in the commonwealth, be brought in the county where one of them lives or has his usual place of business; provided, that except in actions upon negotiable instruments if the plaintiff is an assignee of the cause of action, it shall be brought only in the county where it might have been brought by the assignor thereof. If brought in any other county, unless removed under section fifteen, the writ shall abate and the defendant shall be allowed double costs. If neither party lives in the commonwealth, the action may be brought in any county.

Section 2. Except as provided in section twenty-one of chapter two hundred and eighteen, a transitory action in a district court shall be brought in the county where one of the defendants lives or has his usual place of business, or, if commenced by trustee process, in the county where all persons named in the writ as trustees live or have their usual places of business, and, in either case, in a court within whose judicial district one of the parties lives or has his usual place of business, except that an action commenced by trustee process may be brought in the municipal court of the city of Boston if any trustee resides or has his usual place of business in Suffolk county.
11. Said courts shall have jurisdiction of a transitory action against a defendant who is not an inhabitant of the commonwealth, if personal service or an effectual attachment of property is made within the commonwealth; and such action may be brought in any of said courts in the county where the service or attachment was made.

Section 3. Every action for rent, use and occupation or breach of covenant shall be considered a transitory action.

1915, 146, § 3.

Section 4. An action of replevin shall be brought in the county where the goods or beasts are detained.

Section 5. A civil action in which the commonwealth is plaintiff or in which money due to the commonwealth is sought to be recovered may be brought in the county where the defendant lives or has his usual place of business, or in Suffolk county.

Section 6. A local or transitory action by a county shall be brought in the county where the defendant lives or in a county adjoining the plaintiff county. If the defendant lives in the plaintiff county, it shall be brought in an adjoining county. Such action against a county shall at the election of the plaintiff, be brought in the county where he lives, or in the defendant county or in an adjoining county.

Section 7. An action against a town or person to recover for injury or damage received by reason of a defect, want of repair or of an insufficient railing in or upon a public way shall be brought in the county where said town is situated or in the county where the plaintiff lives, except that such action against the city of Boston may be brought in Middlesex county, in Norfolk county or in the county where the plaintiff lives, and such action against the town of Nantucket or against any town in Dukes county may be brought in Bristol county. An action against a town or person to recover for injury or damage received in the commonwealth by reason of negligence other than that relating to such defect, want of repair or insufficient railing shall be brought in the county where the plaintiff lives or has his usual place of business, or in the county where the alleged injury or damage was received. This section shall not apply to actions that may be brought in a district court.

Section 8. Transitory actions, except those mentioned in the preceding section, to which a corporation, other than a county or the city of Boston, is a party, may be brought as follows:

1. If both parties are cities, towns or parishes, in the county where either party is situated.

2. If both parties are corporations, other than a city, town or parish, in any county in which either corporation has a usual place of business, or in which it held its last annual meeting, or usually holds its meetings.

3. If one party is a city, town or parish, and the other a corporation named in clause (2), in any county in which either party might sue or be sued.
(4) If one party is a corporation named in clause (1) or (2), and the other an individual, in any county in which the corporation might sue or be sued, or in the county in which the individual lives or has a usual place of business.

Venue of transitory actions by and against city of Boston, 1805, 12, § 1. 1815, 105, § 1. 1828, 13, § 1. R. S. 90, §§ 120, 121.

Section 9. An action by or against the city of Boston, except actions mentioned in section seven and actions by the collector of said city under sections thirty-five and thirty-six of chapter sixty, may be brought in Suffolk, Essex, Middlesex or Norfolk county, or in the county in which the plaintiff lives.

Section 10. The defendant in an action brought in Suffolk county by the city of Boston or by its collector may, if the action is brought in the supreme judicial or superior court, within thirty days after the day for appearance, or if the action is commenced in a district court and removed to the superior court, within thirty days after such removal, file a motion in writing for the removal of the action to Essex, Middlesex or Norfolk county; and the court shall thereupon order it to be removed to the same court in such one of said counties as the attorney of the city of Boston elects.

Section 11. A transitory action by or against an executor or administrator may be brought in a county in which it might have been brought by or against the testator or intestate at the time of his decease.

R. L. 167, § 10.

Section 12. If a tract of land lies in two or more counties, an action relative to it, to which neither a county, the city of Boston nor any corporation named in section eight is a party, may be brought in any of said counties, and the declaration shall be so drawn as to include the whole tract.

Section 13. If the supreme judicial or superior court finds that a party to an action or proceeding pending therein cannot, by reason of local prejudice or other cause, have an impartial trial in the county where the action or proceeding was commenced, it may, upon the application of either party, order it to be removed for trial to another county. Upon the entry of such order, the clerk of the court in which the action or proceeding is pending shall forthwith transmit all the papers in the case and a certified copy of said order to the clerk of the court for the county to which it has been ordered to be removed. The clerk who receives such papers and order shall forthwith enter them on his docket, and the case shall thereupon proceed as if it had been originally commenced in the county to which it has been removed.

Section 14. A civil action for the recovery of a forfeiture, except an action in which the commonwealth is plaintiff, or in which money is sought to be recovered for the commonwealth, shall be brought in the county where the offence was committed, unless the statute imposing the forfeiture otherwise provides.

Section 15. If a local action commenced in the supreme judicial or superior court has been brought in the wrong county, the court may:
1. If the error is discovered at the trial or motion order a non-suit, unless good cause is shown why the trial should be continued; or, if the error is discovered at any stage of the proceedings of an action, local or transitory, the court may, upon motion of either party, order the action, with all papers relating thereto, to be removed to the proper county upon terms to the defendant; and it shall thereupon be entered and prosecuted in the same court for that county as if it had been originally commenced therein, and all prior proceedings otherwise regularly taken shall thereafter be valid.

FORMS, ISSUING AND RETURN OF WRITS.

Section 16. Actions at law, unless founded on scire facias or other special writs, or unless otherwise authorized by statute or by established practice, shall be commenced by original writs. Such writs shall be signed, sealed and bear the same as required by the constitution, and shall be framed either to summon the defendant, with or without an order to attach his goods or estate, or to attach his goods or estate and, for want thereof, to take his body; or, in an action commenced by trustee process, to attach his goods or estate in his own hands and also in the hands of the trustee. Original writs shall be in the form heretofore established by law and by the usage and practice of the courts. If changes in their form are necessary in order to adapt them to changes in the law, or for any other sufficient reason, the courts may make such changes, subject to the final control of the supreme judicial court, which may by general rule regulate such changes in all the courts.

Section 17. A separate summons shall be served on the defendant after an attachment of property on the writ, and the service thereof shall be a sufficient service of the original summons.

When writ and summons may be combined.

Section 18. In actions against corporations, and in other actions liable to arrest, the writ of attachment and original summons may be combined in one, requiring the officer to attach the goods and estate and to summon the defendant.

Section 19. If the name of a defendant is not known to the plaintiff, the writ may be issued against him by a fictitious name, and, if duly served, shall not be abated for that cause, but may be amended, and terms may be imposed.

Section 20. Writs and processes in the supreme judicial and the superior court shall be signed, and may be issued, by the clerk, may be returnable to the same court in any other county, may run, and shall be executed and obeyed, throughout the commonwealth.
SECTION 21. Subpoenas on bills in equity shall bear testum of the first justice of the court who is not a party to the suit, and shall be under the seal of the court and signed by the clerk.

P. S. 161, § 22.

SECTION 22. An original writ issued by the supreme judicial or superior court, if required to be served fourteen days before the return day, shall be returnable at the election of the plaintiff at any return day which occurs after the expiration of fourteen days from, and within three months after, the date of the writ; and, if required to be served thirty days before the return day, shall be returnable at the election of the plaintiff at any return day which occurs after the expiration of thirty days from, and within three months after, the date of the writ.

SECTION 23. Except in actions by trustee process, an original writ issued by a district court shall be returnable not more than sixty days after the date thereof.

R. L. 167, § 22.

SECTION 24. The first Monday of every month shall be a return day in every county for writs, processes, notices to appear and citations in all actions, suits and other civil proceedings in the supreme judicial court and the superior court, and for the entry in the superior court of actions appealed from district courts. If said first Monday is a legal holiday, such writs, processes, notices and citations shall be returnable, and such suits entered, on the day following. Such writs, processes, notices and citations may be made returnable, at the election of the party who takes out the same, at any return day within three months after the date thereof; but said courts may make them returnable at other times. If they issue out of the supreme judicial court for Dukes or Nantucket county, they shall be returnable in Bristol county.

SECTION 25. Saturday of each week shall be the return day for writs, processes, notices to appear and citations in all civil actions and proceedings in district courts, and if said Saturday is a legal holiday, such writs, processes, notices to appear and citations shall be returnable, and such actions entered, on the next business day following; but said courts may make them returnable at other times. When the court is required to be held at two or more places, writs shall be made returnable at the place where the clerk's office is kept, except that when the regular session of the court for the trial of civil cases is held upon the return day at some other place, such writs may be made returnable at the place where such session is held, and notices and citations may be made returnable at any place appointed by law for holding the court.

SERVICE ON DEFENDANT.

SECTION 26. If the writ requires the officer to attach the goods or estate of the defendant and for want thereof to take his body, the plaintiff or his attorney may by written or verbal directions require the officer to serve the writ by an attachment of goods or estate or by the arrest of the defendant, if such arrest is authorized, and the officer shall serve the writ according to such directions.
Section 27. An original writ issued by the supreme judicial or the superior court shall be served fourteen days at least before the return. Service of original writs. C. L. § 330, § 1. 1869-1870, § 4. 1783, § 41. 1793, § 52. § 1. 1802, § 55, § 1. 1806, § 21. 1809, § 154, § 16. 1811, § 27. 1884, § 306, § 17. 1894, § 398, § 2. 1927. 1 L. § 167, § 27.

Section 28. A writ in an action against a county, city, town, parish 2 or religious society, or against proprietors of wharves, general fields or real estate lying in common, who are incorporated, or against a foreign fraternal benefit society, shall be served thirty days at least before the return day, except that when a county, city, town, parish or religious society is summoned as a trustee, or the incorporated proprietors of 7 wharves, general fields or real estate lying in common are summoned as trustees, by a writ which is issued by a district court, it shall be served 9 seven days at least before the return day.

Section 29. A separate summons which is served after an attachment of property shall be served by delivering it to the defendant or 3 by leaving it for him as hereinafter provided; and an original summons without an attachment shall be served by reading it to the defendant, 5 by delivering to him a copy thereof attested by the officer who serves it or by leaving such copy for him as hereinafter provided.

Section 30. The separate summons may be served at any time 2 after the attachment has been made, if it is served the number of days 3 before the return day required for the service of the original writ; and 4 a certificate of the service of the summons shall be endorsed on the 5 original writ.

Section 31. If the summons is not served personally on the defendant, the original or a copy, as the case may be, shall be left at his 3 last and usual place of abode, if he has any within the commonwealth 4 known to the officer. If he has none, it shall be left with his tenant, 5 agent or attorney, if he has any within the commonwealth known to the officer. If he has no such last and usual place of abode and no 7 tenant, agent or attorney, no service on him shall be required except as 8 provided in the three following sections.

Section 32. If an absent defendant whose property has been attached is sued with one or more others on a joint contract, and he has 3 no such last and usual place of abode and no tenant, agent or attorney, 4 within the commonwealth, the summons for him shall be left with one 5 of the co-defendants, if there is any within the commonwealth.

Section 33. If the tenant in a real action is out of the commonwealth 2 and has no last and usual place of abode here known to the SECTION 38. In an action against a foreign corporation, except an insurance company, which has a usual place of business in the commonwealth, or, with or without such usual place of business, is engaged in or soliciting business in the commonwealth, permanently or temporarily, service may be made in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section relative to service on domestic corporations in general, instead of upon the commissioner of corporations and taxation under section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-one.

1 SECTION 39. In an action against a foreign insurance company transacting business in this commonwealth, service may be made upon an agent of the company, licensed as such in the commonwealth, who has issued the policy the liability on which is sought to be enforced, or an agent who lives or has his usual place of business in the county and has control over or superintendence of subordinate agents of the company, instead of on the commissioner of insurance under clause third of section one hundred and fifty-one of chapter one hundred and seventy-five.

1 SECTION 39A. In an action against insurance companies severally liable upon a policy of insurance issued under section one hundred and two A, one hundred and eleven A or one hundred and seventeen A of chapter one hundred and seventy-five, or jointly and severally liable upon a policy of insurance issued under said section one hundred and six eleven A, or in a suit against insurance companies brought by a judgment creditor under section one hundred and thirteen of said chapter one hundred and seventy-five and clause ten of section three of chapter twenty-nine and fourteen under a policy of liability insurance issued under said section one hundred and eleven A, service upon any one of said companies shall be a valid and sufficient service upon all of such companies as are named in the process. Such service, if on a domestic company, shall be made in the manner provided in this chapter and, if on a foreign company, in the manner provided in section thirty-nine of this chapter, or in the third clause of section one hundred and fifty-one and section one hundred and fifty-four of said chapter one hundred and seventy-five.

1 SECTION 40. In an action against a voluntary association or trust described in section one of chapter one hundred and eighty-two, engaged in business in the commonwealth, service may be made upon any trustee or like officer thereof.

1931, 426, § 295.

1 SECTION 41. A writ of original summons or subpoena issued in a suit in equity shall be served the same number of days before the return day and in the same manner as an original writ in an action at law in the same court.

ATTACHMENT OF PROPERTY — GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1 SECTION 42. All real and personal property liable to be taken on execution, except such personal property as, from its nature or situation, has been considered as exempt according to the principles of the common law as adopted and practiced in the commonwealth, and except as provided in the three following sections, may be attached upon the original writ in any action in which debt or damages are recoverable, and may be held as security to satisfy such judgment as the plaintiff may recover; but no attachment of land shall be made on a writ returnable before a district court unless the debt or damages demanded therein exceed twenty dollars.

SECTION 43. Railroad cars and engines and street railway cars, in use and making regular passages on railroads or railways, and steamboats so in use upon water routes, shall not be attached upon mesne process unless the officer who makes the attachment has first demanded of the owners or managers thereof other property, upon which to make it, equal in value to the ad damnum in the writ, and such owners or managers have refused or neglected to comply with said demand; except that a steamboat so in use may be attached, if the attachment is made more than forty-eight hours before its fixed time of departure. Such attachment shall be void unless the officer certifies in his return that he has made such demand and that the owners or managers have refused or neglected to comply therewith.

SECTION 44. No ship or vessel shall be attached on mesne process in an action at law unless a declaration is inserted in the writ before service thereof, nor unless the plaintiff or a person in his behalf makes affidavit and proves to the satisfaction of a justice of a court or a master in chancery that he has a good cause of action and reasonable expectation of recovering an amount, exclusive of all costs, equal to at least one third the damages demanded in such writ, which affidavit and the certificate of the magistrate that he is satisfied that the same is true shall be annexed to the writ.

SECTION 45. The press, type, stands, cases, paper and other personal property used in printing and publishing newspapers shall not, within forty-eight hours previous to the issue of any edition of a newspaper, be attached upon mesne process unless the officer who makes the attachment has, at least twenty-four hours previously thereto, demanded of the owners or managers thereof other property, upon which to make it, equal in value to the amount of the ad damnum of the writ and such owners or managers have refused or neglected to comply with such demand. Such attachment shall be void unless the officer certifies in his return that he has made such demand, the time when it was made and that it has not been complied with. Such attachment, made after such demand, shall take effect from the time demand was made, so as to take priority of any mortgage, pledge, conveyance or attachment made subsequent to such demand.

SECTION 45A. If there is reasonable doubt as to the ownership of personal property or as to its liability to be attached on mesne process, before or after the attachment has been made, the officer may require sufficient security from the plaintiff to indemnify him for attaching or continuing to hold the same. If sufficient security is not furnished within a reasonable time after the officer has made a written demand upon the plaintiff or his attorney, the officer may refuse to attach such property or, if he has attached it, may release it from attachment, without liability to the plaintiff therefor.

SECTION 46. Successive attachments may be made upon the same writ by one or more officers and in one or more counties, before, but not after, service of the summons.

P. S. 161, § 40.

R. L. 167, § 41.
1 Section 47. Personal property which has been attached or taken on execution by a constable may be further attached or taken on execution by a deputy sheriff or other competent officer, upon any writ of attachment or execution which such constable is not qualified to serve; and thereupon such constable shall make return upon and deliver his writ or execution, with the possession of the property, to such deputy sheriff or other officer, who shall complete the service thereof. If such writ of attachment has been returned into court, the constable shall file in the case a certificate of the fact of such surrender of possession.

1 Section 48. The officer, if necessary, may appoint a keeper of personal property which has been attached or taken on execution, and in such case shall, upon the written request of the defendant, remove such property or the keeper without unreasonable delay.

1 Section 49. Personal property which has been attached may, subject to the preceding section, be kept on the premises where it is found, unless the owner or occupant of the premises in writing requests the officer to remove his keeper therefrom; and if the defendant in writing requests the officer to allow property which has been attached on the premises of the defendant to remain there until he may give bond to dissolve the attachment, the property shall not be removed until he has had reasonable opportunity to give such bond.

1 Section 50. If an attachment is made of articles of personal property which, by reason of their bulk or for other cause, cannot be immediately removed, a certified copy of the writ, without the declaration, and of the return of the attachment, may, within three days after the attachment, be deposited in the office of the clerk of the town where it is made; and such attachment shall be as valid and effectual as if the articles had been retained in the possession and custody of the officer.

1 Section 51. The clerk of the town shall receive and file all such copies, noting thereon the time when received, and keep them safely in his office, and also enter a memorandum thereof, in the order in which they are received, in the books kept for recording mortgages of personal property. Such entry shall contain the names of the parties to the action and the date of the entry. The clerk's fee for this service shall be twenty-five cents, which shall be paid by the officer and included in his charge for the service of the writ.

1 Section 52. If personal property has been sold or disposed of by consent of the parties, or after an appraisal as hereinafter provided, the proceeds, while remaining in the hands of the officer, shall be liable to be further attached by him as the property of the original defendant, in the manner in which the property itself might have been attached; and shall be held and disposed of in the same manner as if the attachment had been made on the property itself before the sale thereof. The foregoing provision shall not prevent the officer from paying over to the defendant the surplus of the proceeds of such sale, after retaining 11 enough to satisfy all the attachments actually existing at the time of 10 such payment.

Further attachment of property repleved.

Section 54. If there is judgment for a return of the property so repleved, the plaintiff in replevin and his sureties shall be liable for the whole of the property or the value thereof, although the attachment for which it is finally held was made after the property was repleved.

Attachment after death, etc., of first attaching officer.
R. S. 90, § 101.
G. S. 123, § 37.
P. S. 161, § 47.

Section 55. If an officer dies or is removed from office while an attachment which he has made remains in force, the attached property, whether repleved or remaining in possession of the officer or of his executor or administrator, may be further attached by any other officer so as to bind it or its proceeds, as if the later attachment had been made by the first mentioned officer.

G. S. 123, § 28.
P. S. 161, § 48.
R. L. 167, § 51.

Section 56. The officer who makes such later attachment shall not take the property itself, but he shall make a return of an attachment in the common form, stating by whom the property was previously attached, and, if it has not been repleved, shall leave a certified copy of the writ, without the declaration, and of the return of that attachment with the former officer, if living, or, if he is dead, with his executor or administrator or whoever then has possession of the property. If the property has been repleved, and the officer who made the original attachment is dead, such copy shall be left with his executor or administrator or with the plaintiff in replevin. The attachment shall be considered as made when such copy is delivered in any of the modes provided in this section.

1 Section 60. Property which has been attached in suits in equity
2 shall be held for thirty days after the right of appeal from a final decree
3 expires. If an appeal is claimed from a final decree and subsequently 4 waived or dismissed, property attached in the suit shall be held until 5 thirty days after such waiver or dismissal, and the time for doing any 6 act or thing ordered to be done within a specified period from the entry 7 of the final decree shall be computed from the date of such waiver or 8 dismissal.

1 Section 61. "Final judgment", as used in sections fifty-nine, one 2 hundred and fifteen, one hundred and twenty, one hundred and twenty-3 five to one hundred and twenty-seven, inclusive, shall mean that which 4 is rendered in the original action, whether upon appeal or otherwise, and 5 not such as may be rendered upon a writ of error or writ of review.

ATTACHMENT OF REAL ESTATE AND LEASEHOLDS.

1 Section 62. In attaching land, or a right or interest therein, the 2 officer need not enter upon the land or be within view of it. In attach-
3 ing leasehold estates, the officer shall state in his return in general terms
4 the leasehold property attached.

SECTION 66. If the copy of the writ is deposited, as aforesaid, within three days after the day when the attachment was made the attachment shall take effect from the time it was made, otherwise, from the time when the copy is so deposited; but attachments of land, and of leasehold estates which have an original term of more than seven years, shall in no case be valid against purchasers in good faith and for value, other than parties defendant, before the time when the copy is deposited as aforesaid, and no attachment shall be valid against such purchasers as to any particular parcel of land, or as to any particular leasehold estate as aforesaid, in any case where the name of the owner thereof under which he acquired title thereto as appears on the public records is not included in the writ unless the writ is seasonably amended to include such name and then only from the time when a corresponding amended copy is deposited as aforesaid.

SECTION 67. If an attachment on mesne process is made of land, or of a right or interest therein, which has been fraudulently conveyed by the debtor to a third person, or which has been purchased by the debtor, or the purchase money of which has been directly or indirectly paid by him, and the title thereto has been retained in the vendor or conveyed to another person, with the intent and for the purpose of fraudulently securing the land from attachment by a creditor of such debtor, or with the intent and for the purpose of delaying, defeating or defrauding creditors, or which is held on a trust for the debtor, express or implied, whereby he is entitled to a present conveyance, it shall not be valid against a subsequent attaching creditor, or against a subsequent purchaser in good faith and for value, unless the officer in addition to the return required by sections sixty-two and sixty-three also returns a brief description of the land which has been attached, by its locality, situation, boundaries or otherwise as known to him, and the names of the persons in whom the record or legal title stands.

SECTION 68. The register in such case, in addition to the names of the parties to the writ which he is required to enter as provided in section sixty-five, shall also enter in his docket of attachments the names of the persons in whom the record or legal title stands, as returned by the officer, in the same manner as if the estate of such persons were attached as defendants in the writ.

SECTION 69. Registers of deeds shall perform the same duties relative to the filing and entering of copies of writs and other papers in actions commenced in the courts of the United States which affect the title to land by attachment or otherwise as are required relative to the filing and entering of such papers in such actions commenced in the courts of the commonwealth.
1 Section 70. An attachment of land which is subject to a mortgage 2 or other encumbrance shall, if the mortgage is redeemed or the encum- 3 brance is removed before the levy of the execution, hold the land dis- 4 charged of the mortgage or encumbrance, and execution may be levied 5 in the same manner and with the same effect as if it had never existed.

ATTACHMENT OF SHARES OF STOCK.

1 Section 71. Shares of stock shall not be attached in an action at 2 law.

ATTACHMENT OF PROPERTY IN POSSESSION OF BAILEE.

1 Section 72. If goods are delivered to a carrier or other bailee by 2 the owner or by a person whose act in conveying title to a purchaser in 3 good faith for value would bind the owner and a negotiable document 4 of title is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession 5 of such bailee, be attached by trustee process or otherwise, or be levied 6 upon, unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotia- 7 tion enjoined. The bailee shall not be compelled to deliver up the actual 8 possession of the goods until the document is surrendered to him or im- 9 pounded by the court.

244 Mass. 425.

1 Section 73. Except as provided in the preceding section, property 2 in the possession of a carrier or warehouseman may be attached by 3 trustee process or otherwise; but if the bill of lading or receipt, though 4 non-negotiable, has been transferred, and the carrier or warehouseman 5 notified of the transfer, the title of the transferee shall not be defeated 6 by an attachment in a suit against a prior owner of the goods.

234 Mass. 477.

ATTACHMENT OF ENCUMBERED PERSONALTY.

1 Section 74. Personal property of a debtor which is subject to a 2 mortgage, pledge or lien, and of which he has the right of redemption, 3 may be attached and held as if it were unencumbered, if the attach- 4 ing creditor pays or tenders to the mortgagee, pledgee or holder of the 5 property the amount for which it is so liable within ten days after de- 6 mand as hereinafter provided.

1 Section 75. The mortgagee, pledgee or holder shall, when demand- 2 ing payment of the money due to him, state in writing a just and true 3 account of the debt or demand for which the property is liable to him 4 and deliver it to the attaching creditor or officer. If the same is not 5 paid or tendered to him within ten days thereafter, the attachment shall 6 be dissolved, the property shall be restored to him and the attaching

Mortgagee to state account.

Section 76. If he demands and receives more than the amount due to him, he shall be liable to the attaching creditor for money had and received for the excess, with interest thereon at the rate of twelve per cent a year.

11 Cush. 348.

Section 77. If property which has been attached and redeemed by the attaching creditor, as aforesaid, is sold on mesne process or on execution, the proceeds thereof, after deducting the charges of the sale, shall be first applied to repay to the attaching creditor the amount so paid by him, with interest.

Section 78. If the attaching creditor, after having redeemed the property, does not recover judgment, he may nevertheless hold the property until the debtor repays to him the amount which he paid for the redemption, or as much thereof as the debtor would have been obliged to pay to the mortgagee, pledgee or holder of the property, if it had not been attached, with interest from the time when it was demanded of the debtor.

Section 79. Personal property subject to a mortgage and in the possession of the mortgagor may be attached as if unencumbered; and the mortgagee or his assigns may be summoned in the same action in which the property is attached as the trustee of the mortgagor or his assigns to answer such questions as may be put to him or them by the court or by its order relative to the consideration of the mortgage and the amount due thereon.

Section 80. If upon such examination, or upon the verdict of a jury as provided in the following section, it appears that the mortgage is valid, the court, having first ascertained the amount justly due upon it, may direct the attaching creditor to pay the same to the mortgagee or his assigns within such time as it orders; and if he does not pay or tender the amount within the time prescribed, the attachment shall be void and the property shall be restored.

268 Mass. 305.
1 Section 81. If the attaching creditor denies the validity of the mortgage and moves that its validity be tried by jury, the court shall order such trial upon an issue which shall be framed under its direction.
2 If, upon such examination or verdict, the mortgage is adjudged valid, the mortgagee or his assigns shall recover his costs.
3 The interest, and the balance shall be applied to the payment of his debt.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROCESS.

1 Section 85. At any time during the pendency of an action, suit, libel, petition or other proceeding at law or in equity, upon the commencement of which an arrest or attachment is authorized by law, the court for cause may, on motion ex parte, order such arrest of the defendant or such attachment of his property by trustee process or otherwise wise to secure the judgment or decree which the plaintiff may obtain in said cause; but no arrest of the defendant shall be authorized unless the same facts as are required to be proved to authorize an arrest on mesne process are proved to the satisfaction of the court by affidavit as provided in section two of chapter two hundred and twenty-four. Except in Suffolk county, a clerk of such court may, under the same conditions, order such attachment of the property of the defendant. Such arrest or attachment shall be subject to all the provisions of law relative to arrest and attachment upon mesne process, so far as applicable.

Equitable attachments after verdict, etc. 1925, 170, § 1. 271 Mass. 258.

SECTION 86A. Upon motion of the plaintiff at any time after a verdict has been rendered or a finding of liability or otherwise made in his favor in any action at law in the superior court, or after a finding in his favor fixing the amount of an unliquidated claim has been made in a suit in equity in the supreme judicial or superior court, and before final judgment or decree therein, such court shall thereupon have jurisdiction in equity by appropriate procedure and process to cause to be reached, held and thereafter applied in payment of any judgment or decree in his favor in such action or suit the same kind of property, right, title or interest, legal or equitable, of a defendant, within or without the commonwealth, which may be reached and applied under clauses (7) and (8) of section three of chapter two hundred and fourteen, and any property, right, title or interest, legal or equitable, real or personal, including any shares or interests in corporations organized under the laws of the commonwealth or of the United States, and located or having a general office in the commonwealth, fraudulently conveyed by the defendant with intent to defeat, delay or defraud his creditors or to defeat or delay the plaintiff in the satisfaction of his claim, or purchased, or directly or indirectly paid for, by him, the record or other title to which is retained in the vendor or is conveyed to a third person with intent to defeat, delay or defraud the creditors of the defendant or to defeat or delay the plaintiff in the satisfaction of his claim; provided, that, in reaching and applying hereunder the interest of a partner in partnership property, the business of the partnership shall not be enjoined or otherwise interrupted further than to restrain the withdrawal of any portion of the defendant's share or interest therein until final judgment or decree in such action or suit. If such equitable relief is granted, the defendant may give to the plaintiff a sufficient bond payable to him with sureties approved by the court conditioned to pay him the amount of his judgment or decree within thirty days after it is rendered or made and, upon the filing of such bond with the clerk, the court shall proceed no further in the proceedings to reach and apply and any injunction previously issued in the course of such proceedings shall be dissolved.

SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY ATTACHED.

SECTION 87. Personal property which has been attached on one or more writs may, if the debtor and all the attaching creditors consent in writing, subject to sections seventy-four to eighty-three, inclusive, be sold by the attaching officer in the manner provided by law for selling like property on execution; and the proceeds of the sale, after deducting the necessary charges, shall be held by the officer subject to the attachments and be disposed of as the property would have been held and disposed of had it remained unsold.

SECTION 88. If an attachment is made of animals or of goods which are liable to perish, waste or greatly decrease in value by keeping, or which cannot be kept without great and disproportionate expense, and the parties do not consent to a sale thereof as before provided, the property so attached shall, subject to sections seventy-four to eighty-three, inclusive, upon the application of either of the parties interested to the attaching officer, be examined, appraised and sold or otherwise disposed of in the manner following.

270 Mass. 49.
1 Section 89. Upon such application, the attaching officer shall give notice to all the other parties or their attorneys, prepare a schedule of the goods and cause three disinterested persons acquainted with the nature and value of such goods to be appointed and sworn before a magistrate or the attaching officer to the faithful performance of their duty as appraisers.

P. S. 161, § 91.
R. L. 167, § 84.
6 Allen, 505.

1 Section 90. If the defendant is not within the commonwealth and has no attorney therein, the notice in writing shall be left at his last and usual place of abode, if any, in the commonwealth; otherwise, it shall be delivered to, or left at the dwelling house or place of business of, the person who had possession of the property at the time of the attachment.

1 Section 91. One appraiser shall be appointed by the creditor or creditors in the several actions, one by the debtor or debtors, and one by the officer; and if the debtors or creditors, respectively, neglect to appoint such appraiser, or do not agree in the nomination, the officer shall appoint one in their behalf.

1 Section 92. The appraisers shall examine the attached property and, if in their opinion it, or a part thereof, is liable to perish or waste or to greatly decrease in value by keeping or cannot be kept without great and disproportionate expense, they shall appraise the value thereof and the property shall thereupon be sold by the officer and the proceeds held and disposed of as provided in section eighty-seven, unless the goods are taken by the debtor as provided in the following section.

1 Section 93. The property so appraised shall, if he requires it, be delivered to the debtor upon his depositing with the attaching officer the appraised value thereof in money, or upon giving bond to the officer in a sufficient sum, with two sufficient sureties, conditioned to pay him the appraised value of the property or to satisfy all such judgments as may be recovered in the actions in which the property was attached, if demanded within the time during which the property would have been held by the respective attachments or within thirty days after the time when the creditors, respectively, would have been entitled to demand payment out of the proceeds of the property if it had been sold as before provided.

1 Section 94. The officer who takes such bond shall return it with the writ on which the first attachment is made in like manner as bail bonds are returned, with a certificate of his doings therein; and if the bond is forfeited, any of the attaching creditors may bring an action of contract thereon in the name of the officer.

R. L. 167, § 89.

1 Section 95. The writ in an action on such bond shall, in addition to the usual endorsement, have the names of the creditors by whom the action is brought endorsed upon it; and if judgment is rendered for the defendants, executions for the costs shall be issued against all the creditors whose names are so endorsed.
SECTION 96. If judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the money recovered shall be first applied, under the order of the court, to pay the reasonable expenses of prosecuting the action, so far as they are not reimbursed by the costs recovered of the defendant; and the residue shall belong to all the attaching creditors according to their respective rights.

SECTION 97. The court may, upon a hearing in equity, determine the rights of the several attaching creditors and award a separate execution for the amount due or payable to each, to be served and levied to his own use in the manner provided when a judgment is rendered on an administration bond; or it may award one execution for the whole amount due on the bond and cause the money received to be distributed among the creditors according to their respective rights.

SECTION 98. No judgment or execution shall be awarded for the use of a creditor without reserving as much as may be due upon any prior attachment, whether the creditor in such prior action is or is not one of those by whom the action on the bond is brought.

SECTION 99. A creditor who is entitled to the benefit of the bond, and who has not joined in bringing the action thereon may bring a writ of scire facias upon the judgment and recover any amount due to him upon the bond; or he may, upon motion at any time before final judgment, become a party to the action upon terms.

SECTION 100. No creditor whose cause of action on such bond accrued more than one year before the commencement of the action shall have judgment or execution, and no creditor shall bring a writ of scire facias upon the judgment, unless within one year after his cause of action accrues.

SECTION 101. If property which has been sold, or appraised and delivered to the debtor, in the manner before provided is attached by several creditors, any one of them may demand and receive satisfaction of his judgment, notwithstanding a prior attachment, if he is otherwise entitled to demand the money, and if a sufficient amount of the proceeds of the property, or of its appraised value, remains to satisfy all prior attachments.

ATTACHMENT OF SHARE OF JOINT OWNER OF PERSONALTY.

SECTION 102. If personal property of two or more part owners is attached in an action against one or more of them, it shall, upon the request of any other part owner, be examined and appraised in the manner provided in sections eighty-eight to ninety-two, inclusive, except that the part owner who makes the application shall, and the debtor shall not, appoint one of the appraisers. This section shall not apply to partnership property.

SECTION 103. The property so appraised shall be delivered to the part owner at whose request it was appraised, upon his giving bond to the attaching officer in a sufficient sum, with two sufficient sureties, 4 conditioned to restore such property in like good order or to pay to the 5 officer the appraised value of the defendant's share or interest therein.
6 or to satisfy all such judgments as may be recovered in the action in 7 which it is attached, if demanded within the time during which the 8 property would have been held by the respective attachments. Sections 9 ninety-four to one hundred, inclusive, shall apply to such bond and to 10 an action thereon.

1 Section 104. If such appraised value or any part thereof is so paid, 2 the defendant's share of the property shall thereby become pledged to 3 the party to whom it was delivered, and he may sell it, if not redeemed, 4 and shall account to the defendant for the remaining proceeds of the 5 sale.

1 Section 105. If the attachment is dissolved, the party to whom 2 the defendant's share was delivered shall restore it to the defendant, or 3 to the officer, to be by him delivered to the defendant.

P. S. 161, § 108.
R. L. 167, § 100.

FRAUDULENT ATTACHMENTS.

1 Section 106. If real or personal property has been attached in an
2 action, any person, other than the parties, who claims title or interest
3 therein by a subsequent attachment, purchase, mortgage or other title, 4 may dispute the validity and effect of such prior attachment on the 5 ground that the amount demanded in the first action was not justly 6 due or was not payable when it was commenced, by filing a petition in 7 the court in which the first action is pending, at any time before final 8 judgment therein, stating the facts and circumstances on which his 9 petition is founded, and the grounds of his own claim, and praying that 10 the prior attachment may be dissolved.

178 Mass. 272.

1 Section 107. The petitioner, or a person in his behalf, shall make
2 oath that his claim is just and legal and that all the other facts stated
3 in the petition are true or are believed by the deponent to be true; and 4 upon filing the petition, the petitioner, or a person in his behalf, shall 5 give a bond or recognizance with sufficient surety, conditioned to pay
6 to the adverse party such damages and costs as may be awarded to him 7 upon the petition.

1 Section 108. If the court finds that a part of the amount demanded
2 in the prior action is not justly due, or was not payable when the action 3 was commenced, it shall order the attachment dissolved in whole or in 4 part as justice requires; but such order shall have no other effect on 5 the prior action. If the hearing is in the supreme judicial or superior
6 court, the court shall, upon motion, order a jury trial of any question 7 of fact.

1 Section 109. The proceedings between the adverse claimants or 2 plaintiffs shall not be affected by any answer, plea or other act of the 3 defendant in the prior action nor by the judgment rendered therein.

Section 110. No attachment shall be dissolved as aforesaid by reason of a defence to the action which is founded on the laws for the limitation of actions or requiring certain contracts to be made in writing, or by reason of any other like defence, if the court finds that the demand is otherwise well founded and is justly and equitably due.

Section 111. The court may, upon such inquiry, award to either party reasonable costs and, if the prior attachment is maintained, may award to the attaching creditor reasonable damages.

Section 112. If, during the pendency of the proceedings, the action in which the attachment was made is transferred to another court, the inquiry concerning the attachment shall be transferred to the same court and be there heard and determined.

Section 113. The judgment of the court upon such an inquiry, whether the attachment is thereby vacated or held to be valid and effectual, shall be a bar to any action which may be brought by the petitioner against the party who made the attachment for any supposed fraud or deceit therein.

Reduction or discharge of attachment.

Section 114. If an excessive or unreasonable attachment is made on mesne process, the defendant or person whose property has been attached may apply in writing, in any county, to a justice of the court to which such process is returnable, for a reduction of the amount of the attachment or for its discharge; and such justice shall order a notice to the plaintiff, or, if the plaintiff is a non-resident, to his attorney, which shall be returnable before himself or any other justice of the same court as speedily as circumstances permit. If, upon a summary hearing of the parties, it is found that the attachment is excessive or unreasonable, the justice shall reduce or dissolve the attachment or order a part of the goods or estate to be released.

Dissolution of attachment.

By Operation of Law.

Section 115. If the final judgment is for the defendant, the attachment, except as provided in section sixty, shall be forthwith dissolved.

Section 115A. If real property of the defendant is attached in any action and no service is made upon him, the attachment shall be dissolved unless it appears of record that notice of such action has been given to him, in such manner as the court orders, within one year after the entry of the action.

Section 116. An attachment of real or personal property shall be dissolved if the debtor dies before it is taken or seized on execution and administration of his estate is granted in the commonwealth upon business in the commonwealth, therein setting forth the property with which each of said sureties proposes to qualify, and in case said property, as so set forth, be realty, then giving the name of the town where the same is located. Notice of the time and place of the hearing, containing a copy of the application to the magistrate, shall be given to the plaintiff or his attorney as provided in sections twenty-six to twenty-nine, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and thirty-three; but the plaintiff or his attorney may in writing waive such notice or may approve the bond at any time.

SECTION 122. If the attachment is dissolved and the defendant prevails, his costs shall include the fees of the magistrate and the premium or premiums paid for the bond dissolving such attachment, if it be a surety company bond.

SECTION 123. Such bond and the bond required by section one hundred and twenty-seven shall be filed by the defendant with the clerk of the court to which the writ is returnable, or in which the action is pending, within ten days after its approval, and the attachment shall not be dissolved until the bond shall have been so filed. The plaintiff may take such bonds from the files upon leaving on file a copy thereof attested by the clerk; and the plaintiff may tax the cost of such copy as part of his costs in an action on such bond.

SECTION 124. If, within four months after an attachment of property has been made on mesne process in a civil action founded on a claim which would, if proved, be barred by a discharge in insolvency of the defendant and after such attachment has been dissolved as provided in the four preceding sections, proceedings in insolvency are instituted by or against the defendant, the action shall, upon the suggestion of any party interested, be continued to await the result of such proceedings in insolvency; and if the debtor receives his discharge in insolvency, the sureties on the bond given by him to dissolve the attachment shall be released from all liability thereon.

SECTION 125. A defendant may, at any time before final judgment, release from attachment the property attached, or such part thereof as he may elect, by giving bond to the plaintiff with sufficient sureties, who shall be approved by the plaintiff or by his attorney in writing, by a master in chancery or by a justice of a court of record if the attachment is made within the jurisdiction of his court, conditioned to pay to the plaintiff within thirty days after final judgment in such action or after the entry of a special judgment therein under chapter two hundred and thirty-five the amount fixed as the value of the property so released, or so much of said amount as may be necessary to satisfy the amount, if any, which the plaintiff may recover; and the property so released shall be described in such bond. The defendant, or a person in his behalf, may make written application to any magistrate who is authorized to approve the sureties upon said bond in the county where the property is situated, stating the names of the parties to the action, the name of the officer who made the attachment, a description of the property which he desires to release from attachment, the names and residences of the proposed sureties, and, except in case the proposed surety is a surety company qualified to do business in the commonwealth, setting forth the property with which each of said sureties proposes to qualify, and in case said property, as so set forth, be realty, then giving the name of the city or town where the same is located. The magistrate shall forthwith cause a copy of the application, with notice of the time and place for the hearing, to be served upon the plaintiff, if he resides in the county, otherwise upon the officer who made the attachment; but the plaintiff or his attorney may in writing waive such notice or may approve the bond or sureties at any time, or may agree that the amount of the bond is sufficient without approving the sureties, in which case the appraisal hereinafter provided for need not be made. The notice shall be served twenty-four hours, at least, before the time appointed therein for a hearing and as much earlier as the magistrate may order. At the time and place appointed, after hearing the parties, the magistrate shall appoint three disinterested persons to examine and appraise the attached property described in the application, who shall be sworn, shall appraise the property at its fair market value and shall make return of their doings in writing to the magistrate at a time and place fixed by him to which the hearing shall be adjourned. At such adjourned hearing the defendant may give bond to the plaintiff, with sureties, who shall be approved by the magistrate as herein provided.

Upon the filing of such bond, as is required by the provisions of section one hundred and twenty-three, the attachment upon the property described therein shall be dissolved. When successive attachments in favor of different plaintiffs are made upon personal property the defendant may release from the attachments the property attached, or such portion thereof as he may elect, by giving bond with sufficient sureties to be approved as hereinbefore provided. The sheriff of the county in which the first attachment was made shall be the obligee on the bond, which shall be deposited immediately after it is given with the clerk of the courts for the same county, except that in Suffolk county it shall be deposited with the clerk of the superior court for civil business. The bond shall be conditioned on the defendant's paying to such sheriff within thirty days after final judgment in any such action or after the entry of a special judgment in any such action under said chapter two hundred and thirty-five, as the case may be, the amount fixed as the value of the property so released, and the amount so paid shall be held by the sheriff, after deducting the necessary charges, subject to the attachments in the order in which they were made, and shall be disposed of in the same manner as the proceeds of attached personal property sold under section eighty-seven.

Section 126. The magistrate may adjourn such hearing from time to time. He shall determine the fees of the appraisers. The applicant shall pay the fees of the magistrate and the appraisers; but if final judgment is in his favor, they shall be taxed as a part of his costs. The magistrate's certificate of the amount shall be filed before said fees are allowed as a part of the taxable costs.

Section 127. If an attachment of real property is made under sections sixty-seven and sixty-eight, the person in whose name the record title of the property attached stands, or a person in his behalf, may, before final judgment, dissolve the attachment by giving bond to the plaintiff, with sufficient sureties, conditioned to pay to him, if he establishes his title to the land in a writ of entry against the person having the record title thereto at the time of the attachment, the ascertained value of the land, or so much thereof as shall satisfy the amount, if any, which the plaintiff shall recover upon final judgment, or upon a special judgment under chapter two hundred and thirty-five, in the action in which such attachment was made. All proceedings required in the two preceding sections shall apply to the dissolution of an attachment under this section. In the trial of such writ of entry, the record of the attachment and of final or special judgment, as the case may be, in the action in which the attachment was made shall be conclusive evidence of a momentary seisin of the land in the plaintiff to enable him to maintain an action therefor upon his own seisin; but no such writ of entry shall be brought after the expiration of one year from the date of such final or special judgment. If the demandant recovers judgment on such writ of entry, he shall not have an execution for possession, but may have an execution for costs.

SECTION 128. A defendant may dissolve an attachment by depositing with the attaching officer an amount of money equal to at least the amount of the ad damnum in the writ, which the officer shall hold in place of the property attached and which shall be subject to be disposed of in the same manner.

SECTION 129. A defendant whose individual property has been attached in an action against several defendants may dissolve such attachment, or any part thereof, in any of the modes provided in the nine preceding sections. But the bond to dissolve such attachment shall be so conditioned as to apply only to a judgment recovered against such defendant alone or jointly.

SECTION 129A. The officer shall not be liable for the release of personal property attached by him if he receives a certificate from the clerk of the court to which the writ is returnable, stating that a bond purporting to dissolve such attachment has been filed in the office of said clerk.

By Appointment of Receiver.

SECTION 130. An attachment of property on mesne process shall be dissolved by the appointment by any court of competent jurisdiction in the commonwealth of a receiver to take possession of such property, if the bill or petition praying for the appointment of such receiver is filed in said court within four months after such attachment was made, unless the court at any time, in its discretion, continues such attachment for the benefit of the estate of the defendant. In such case, the court may authorize the receiver to prosecute the action upon which the attachment was made for the benefit of the estate of the defendant and may make further orders to enable the receiver to recover for its benefit the amount due to the plaintiff in the original action.

SECTION 131. If an attachment has been dissolved in the manner provided in the preceding section, the proceedings for the appointment of a receiver shall not thereafter be dismissed and the receiver discharged.
By Entry or Release in Registry of Deeds.

1 Section 132. An attachment of real estate shall be dissolved by an entry on the margin of the attachment book in the registry of deeds in which the attachment is entered, signed by the plaintiff in whose behalf the attachment was made, or by his executor, administrator or attorney of record, and attested by the register of deeds or by an assistant in his office thereto duly authorized; or it may be dissolved by a release signed and acknowledged by the plaintiff, or by his executor, administrator or attorney of record, and filed in the registry of deeds, or by a certificate from the clerk of the court in which the action was pending that the attachment has been dissolved or that the action has finally been determined.

12 Such a release describing sufficiently for identification any particular parcels of real estate shall dissolve an attachment in so far as it may affect the particular parcels described. The aforesaid releases, certificates of court and partial releases, shall be filed in the registry of deeds in the county or district where a certified copy of the original return of attachment is filed as required by section sixty-three.

EXECUTION OF BONDS.

1 Section 133. A bond which is required to be given by a party to a civil action or proceeding may be executed by any person other than the party to the action or proceeding, and may be approved in the same manner as if executed by such party, if it appears to the magistrate who approves it that there is good reason why it is not executed by him.

SECTION 2. No person shall be arrested on mesne process unless the plaintiff, or if the action is brought in behalf of the plaintiff by a guardian, conservator or next friend, or, where there are several plaintiffs, one of the plaintiffs or a guardian, conservator or next friend of one of the plaintiffs acting as such in the action, or, in the case of a corporation, an officer thereof, makes affidavit and proves to the satisfaction of the court to which the writ is returnable —

First, That one of the parties is a resident of or has a usual place of business in the commonwealth, and, except in actions upon negotiable instruments, that the plaintiff is an original party to the cause of action or is his executor or administrator;
12 Second, That he has a good cause of action and reasonable expecta-13 tion of recovering a sum amounting to twenty dollars exclusive of costs, 14 which have accrued in any former action, in an action of contract, or an 15 amount equal at least to one third of the ad damnum in an action of tort,
16 Third, That he believes and has reason to believe that the defendant
17 intends to leave the commonwealth so that supplementary preceedings 18 will not be effective against him;
19 Fourth, That he knows of no property of the defendant within the 20 commonwealth which can be reached by attachment or otherwise, suf-21 cient to satisfy any judgment he may recover;
22 Fifth, That he believes and has reason to believe that an examination 23 of the defendant will disclose property of the defendant which ought to 24 be held as security for any judgment the plaintiff may recover;
25 Or, instead of the third, fourth and fifth, that the defendant is an 26 attorney at law or a person, member of a firm, agency or association
27 engaged in the business of collecting money, and that the debt sought 28 to be recovered is for money collected by the defendant for the plaintiff 29 and that the defendant unreasonably neglects to pay.
30 Such affidavit, and the certificate of the court that it is found to be 31 true, shall be annexed to the writ. The court may refuse such certifi-32 cate if an arrest in the particular case would be unjust or unnecessary.
33 No arrest shall be made after sunset unless expressly authorized in the 34 certificate for cause.

1 Section 6. Except as provided in section five, all proceedings for the 2 examination, commitment or discharge of a defendant arrested on mesne
3 process or on execution, and all supplementary proceedings under this 4 chapter as to a judgment debtor, shall be had in the district court within 5 whose judicial district the defendant or debtor was arrested or lives or has 6 a usual place of business or employment; or, if the defendant or debtor 7 does not live or have a usual place of business or employment within the 8 commonwealth, such proceedings may also be had in the district court 9 within whose judicial district the record of the original action is kept.
10 When arrested on mesne process, the defendant shall be allowed a reason-11 able time to procure bail or sureties for his recognizance, and when 12 arrested on execution the debtor shall be allowed reasonable time to 13 procure sureties for his recognizance. If not released, he shall be taken 14 before a proper court, as provided in this chapter; or if he wishes to 15 recognize he may be taken at his request before a master in chancy. A before some court having jurisdiction, which time shall be within thirty 19 days after the time of his arrest and, in case of an arrest on mesne process, 21 before judgment, giving notice of the time and place thereof as provided 22 in this chapter, and appear at the time and place appointed for his 23 examination, and from time to time until the proceedings are concluded, 24 and not depart without leave of the court, making no default at any time 25 fixed for his examination, and abide the final order of the court thereon. 26

If the arrest is made when the court is not sitting and the defendant or 27 debtor does not recognize or give bail, the officer making the arrest may 28 deliver him to the keeper of the jail, to be detained therein until the next sitting of the court, when he shall be delivered to said officer to be taken 30 before the court. If the defendant, when taken before the court, does not 31 give bail or recognize to its satisfaction, the court shall cause a certificate 32 thereof to be attached to the writ, and the defendant shall be committed 33 to jail until he gives bail or recognizes or until the time appointed for his 34 examination, or, if no such time be appointed, then until the further order 35 of the court, when he shall be delivered by the jailer to the officer who 36 made the arrest, or, in his absence or disability, to any other officer, to be 37
by him taken before the court. 38

No person shall be arrested on execution in a civil action unless the 39 creditor or, in case the creditor is a corporation, an officer thereof, after 40 execution has issued makes application for a certificate authorizing said 41 arrest and files affidavit with and proves to the satisfaction of a district 42 court that he believes and has good reason to believe that the debtor 43 intends to leave the commonwealth so that supplementary proceedings 44 will not be effective against him. If a debtor, after being arrested on 45 execution, gives notice that he desires to take an oath that he does not 46 intend to leave the commonwealth, he shall be examined relative thereto, 47 and either party may introduce additional evidence. If the court is 48 satisfied that the debtor did not when arrested, and does not at the time 49 of examination, intend to leave the commonwealth, it shall make certificate thereof, and discharge the debtor from arrest; and immediately 50 upon such discharge, if the creditor so desires, such debtor shall be required, without further notice, to submit to examination and other 53 supplementary proceeding under this chapter. If the debtor when taken 54 before the court does not recognize to its satisfaction he shall be committed to jail until he recognizes or until the time appointed for his 56 examination, or, if no such time be appointed, then until the further order 57
of the court, when he shall be delivered by the jailer to the officer who 38
made the arrest, or in his absence or disability to any other officer, to be 39
by him taken before the court. 60

If there is reasonable doubt as to the identity of the defendant or debtor 61 or as to the lawfulness of his arrest, at the time of the arrest or thereafter, 62 either in the case of arrest on mesne process or execution, the officer may 63 require sufficient security from the plaintiff or creditor to indemnify him 64 for arresting the defendant or debtor or for continuing to retain him in 65 custody. If sufficient security is not furnished within a reasonable time 66 after the officer has made a written demand upon the plaintiff or creditor 67 or his attorney for such security, the officer shall not be obliged to arrest 68 the defendant or debtor or, if he then has the defendant or debtor under 69 arrest, he may release him from custody without liability to the plaintiff 70
Section 7. Whoever recognizes as surety for another as provided in this chapter may at any time before breach of the recognizance surrender his principal and exonerate himself from further liability, in the manner provided for surrender by bail, and all proceedings on such surrender shall be the same as provided in the case of bail. If a debtor arrested on execution is surrendered by his surety, he may recognize anew for his appearance at the time, place and upon the conditions expressed in the former recognizance.

Section 8. If the condition of a recognizance or bond taken under this chapter is broken, the creditor may, within one year after such breach, commence an action thereon; and judgment shall be entered for the amount of the penalty, but execution shall issue for so much thereof only as may be justly and equitably due. Such actions in favor of the commonwealth shall be brought in the court in which the original judgment was rendered.

Section 9. At the request of a defendant arrested on mesne process, whether he has recognized or given bond or not, the court shall appoint a time and place for the examination of the defendant and shall issue a notice thereof to the plaintiff. Such notice shall be served by an officer qualified to serve civil process, by delivering to the plaintiff, or to his agent or attorney, an attested copy thereof, or by leaving such copy at the last and usual place of abode of such plaintiff or if such plaintiff is a corporation then service shall be made upon an officer thereof. Service shall be made not less than one hour, or if service is made at the last and usual place of abode, not less than one day, before the time appointed for the examination.

If there is more than one plaintiff, or more than one agent or attorney, service on one shall be sufficient. If no plaintiff, agent or attorney is found within the county, the notice may be served on the officer who made arrest therefor. If a prisoner, arrested or committed on execution in a civil action, escapes with the consent or by the negligence of the officer, the creditor may recover in tort against the officer such damages as he has suffered by the escape, and may also have against the original debtor a seire facias or an action on the judgment. Any recognizance authorized by this chapter may be accepted on Sunday.
the arrest. The person who made the writ may in all cases be regarded as 15 the attorney of the plaintiff or creditor. If the time and place for examination be appointed when the defendant is brought before the court under 17 section six, an oral notice by the court to the arresting officer shall be 18 sufficient.

If the plaintiff or creditor, after the request of a defendant or debtor in 20 custody, makes default in payment of the fees, the defendant or debtor 21 shall, without examination and without payment of fees, be discharged 22 from arrest and shall be exempt from further arrest upon the same execution or upon any process founded on the judgment, and a certificate of 23 such discharge signed by the court shall be annexed to the writ or execution; but if, after the oath that he does not intend to leave the commonwealth has once been refused, the defendant or debtor again applies for 27 the benefit thereof, the fees for such subsequent application or examination thereon shall be paid by him. 28

9

SECTION 10. The court may continue the examination from time to 1 time, remanding the defendant to jail if still under arrest. If the plaintiff 2 does not attend the examination, personally or by attorney, the defendant 3 shall be discharged from arrest unless the court extends the time or orders 4 further notice. If the plaintiff does attend, the defendant shall be 5 examined on oath as to his intention to leave the commonwealth and 6 relative to his property, and such examination, if in writing, shall be 7 signed and sworn to by the defendant and filed with the court. Either 8 party may introduce additional evidence. The examination may be oral 9 or in writing, in the discretion of the court. If the court shall be satisfied 10 that the defendant does not, and did not when arrested, intend to leave 11 the commonwealth as alleged, or that he has no property which ought to 12 be held as security for any judgment the plaintiff may recover, or that he 13 has such property but has complied with all orders of the court in relation 14 to said property or with so much of said orders as the plaintiff desires, the 15 court shall order the discharge of the defendant from arrest. If the court 16 shall not be so satisfied, it shall make a certificate that the discharge of the 17 defendant from arrest is refused, and he shall, unless released by the 18 giving of bail or a bond as provided in section thirteen or by the written 19 order of the plaintiff or his attorney, be committed to jail until final 20 judgment, and, if final judgment be for the plaintiff, shall be held in jail 21 thereafter until discharged by order of court in any supplementary 22 proceedings in which service shall be made upon him within ten days after 23 such judgment; or, if no such service shall be made within said ten days, 24 he shall be discharged; After a discharge from arrest is refused, a second 25 examination shall not be given within ten days after such refusal. 26

SECTION 11. If, upon the examination, it appears that the defendant 1 has property which ought to be held as security for any judgment the 2

3 plaintiff may recover, the court may order him to deliver the same or so 4 much thereof as may be necessary to secure the plaintiff, or to execute,
5 acknowledge if necessary, and deliver a transfer, assignment or convey-
6 ance thereof to the court or to a person or persons named by the court,
7 to be held in trust, in such manner and form as the court may prescribe.
8 The court may require the plaintiff, from time to time, to advance the 9 reasonable costs of administering the trust. The court may make such 10 orders as to the disposition, control and management of such property as 11 it shall from time to time see fit. If the plaintiff makes application for 12 supplementary proceedings within thirty days after final judgment in his 13 favor, the court shall order that such property be delivered, transferred, 14 assigned or conveyed to the plaintiff, or to a person in his behalf, to be 15 held, sold or redeemed as provided in sections sixteen and seventeen.
16 If final judgment is rendered for the defendant, or if the plaintiff fails 17 to make such application within the time aforesaid, or refuses to receive 18 the property, or to advance the reasonable costs of administering the 19 trust, the property shall be returned or reconveyed to the defendant as the 20 court shall order and the court may enforce such order by process for 21 contempt.

1 Section 12. If the defendant or debtor while confined in jail or Support in 2 mesne process or on execution claims support as a pauper, the jailer shall 3 furnish his support at the rate of one dollar and seventy-five cents a week,
4 to be paid by the plaintiff or creditor, who in such case shall, if required
5 by the jailer, either from time to time advance the money necessary for 6 the support of the prisoner or give the jailer satisfactory security therefor.
7 If the prisoner or creditor neglects to do so for twenty-four hours after 8 demand upon him, his attorney or the committing officer, the jailer shall 9 discharge the prisoner.

12 court and making no default and abiding all orders of the court relative 13 to his property. An order for the discharge of the defendant, under sec-14 tion ten, shall be a discharge of the surety or sureties on such bond.

1 Section 14. A judgment creditor or a person in his behalf may file in Support
2 court an application for supplementary process under this chapter.
3 Upon the filing of such application, a summons may issue, requiring the 4 judgment debtor to appear at a time and place named therein and sub-5 mit to an examination relative to his property and ability to pay. Such 6 summons may be served by an officer qualified to serve civil process, by delivering to the debtor an attested copy thereof, or by leaving it at his last and usual place of abode, at least seven days before the return day thereof. If due service is not made, the court may order further notice. A judgment debtor who has been arrested on mesne process or on execution, or a person in his behalf, may file such an application and cause service to be made upon the judgment creditor or his attorney of record in the action, in a similar manner, requiring the judgment creditor to appear at such examination; and upon failure of the judgment creditor to appear personally or by attorney the proceedings under this section may be dismissed. The failure of a judgment debtor personally to appear without reasonable excuse upon such summons, or at an examination otherwise appointed, or to submit to the examination as provided in section fifteen, shall constitute a contempt of court. Supplementary proceedings shall be in order for examination at the return day and hour set forth in the summons or further notice, but may by order of court for good cause shown be continued from time to time for examination, and may be brought up for further proceedings at such time or times, and in such manner as the court by general or special rule or order may direct. The death of the judgment creditor shall not affect supplementary proceedings.

Section 15. The judgment debtor, if he appears, shall be examined on oath as to his property and ability to pay; and such examination, if in writing, shall be signed and sworn to by the debtor and filed with the court. Either party may introduce additional evidence; and if the debtor fails to appear at the examination it may proceed and orders may be made in his absence. The examination may be oral or in writing, in the discretion of the court. The execution, or a certified copy thereof, shall be sufficient proof of the judgment.

Section 16. If the court finds that the debtor has no property not exempt from being taken on execution, and is unable to pay the judgment, in full or by partial payments, or if the creditor fails to appear at the examination, personally or by attorney, the proceedings may be dismissed. If the court is satisfied that the debtor has property not exempt from being taken on execution, the court may order him to produce it, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment and costs of the proceedings, so that it may be taken on the execution; or may order him to execute, acknowledge if necessary, and deliver to the judgment creditor, or to a person in his behalf, a transfer, assignment or conveyance thereof; or if the debtor is able to pay the judgment in full or by partial payments the court may, after allowing the debtor out of his income a reasonable amount for the support of himself and family, which amount need not be stated, order the debtor to pay the judgment and costs of the proceedings in full or by partial payments from time to time; or the court may make an order combining any of the orders above mentioned. The court may prescribe the times, places, amounts of payments, forms of instruments and other details in making any of the orders above mentioned. The court may at any time renew, revise, modify, suspend or revoke any order made in any proceedings under the provisions of this 20
Section 17. The debtor may redeem real property within one year, and personal property within sixty days, after the date of any transfer, assignment or conveyance made under the provisions of section sixteen upon payment of the judgment and costs and the necessary expense actually paid by the creditor for the care or custody of such property.

If such property is not redeemed it shall be sold forthwith at public auction, unless in the transfer, conveyance or assignment thereof it was otherwise provided, and the proceeds, after deducting the expenses of such care, custody and sale, shall be applied to the payment of said judgment and costs, and, if any, the excess of such payments, shall be paid to the debtor; or the creditor may take said property at a valuation to be fixed by the debtor in the transfer, assignment or conveyance and apply such amount in payment as aforesaid.

The creditor may refuse to accept a transfer, assignment or conveyance, and his refusal thereof shall not impair his right to have his execution satisfied in whole or in part by a levy on other property in the manner provided by law. If, after such transfer, assignment or conveyance has been made and before the sale of the property conveyed thereby, the execution is satisfied in full by levy or otherwise, the court shall order that the creditor reconvey said property to the debtor upon such terms or conditions as it may determine and may enforce such order by process for contempt.

Section 18. The court may issue warrants for arrest and other processes to secure the attendance of debtors or creditors to answer for any contempt under this chapter. An arrest shall not be made after sunset unless specially authorized in the warrant for cause. Contempt of court under this chapter shall be punished by a fine of not more than twenty dollars or by imprisonment in the common jail for not more than thirty days. A debtor or creditor in custody, charged with contempt, shall be entitled to a speedy hearing therefor, and the officer having him in custody shall remain in attendance until excused by the court. A debtor or creditor in custody, charged with contempt, may be released by the court and the hearing on the alleged contempt may be continued.

A sentence for contempt shall not end the proceedings, nor any order made therein, and future violations of the order upon which the sentence was founded, or any other order, may likewise be dealt with as for contempt. The court shall retain jurisdiction of supplementary proceedings until an order shall be made expressly dismissing them. If the proceedings are dismissed, the creditor shall not, within one year after the date of such dismissal, file a new application against the same debtor upon the same judgment or a judgment including the same cause of action, unless the court otherwise orders. There shall be no appeal from any judgment, order or sentence under the provisions of this chapter, except as provided in section nineteen.

Section 19. At any time pending the examination of the defendant or debtor, the plaintiff or creditor or a person in his behalf may allege charges, to wit: —
First, That, since the debt was contracted or the cause of action accrued, the defendant or debtor has fraudulently conveyed, concealed or otherwise disposed of the whole or a part of his property, with intent to secure it to his own use or to defraud his creditors; or

Second, That, since the debt was contracted or the cause of action accrued, the defendant or debtor has hazarded his money or other property to the value of one hundred dollars or more in some kind of gaming prohibited by the laws of this commonwealth; or

Third, That, if the action was founded on contract, the defendant or debtor contracted the debt with intent not to pay it.

Such charges shall be in writing, subscribed and sworn to by the plaintiff or creditor or by a person in his behalf, and shall be considered in the nature of an action at law, to which the defendant or debtor may plead that he is guilty or not guilty, and the court may thereupon hear and determine the same. The plaintiff or creditor shall not upon the hearing give evidence of a charge which is not made or filed as herein provided, nor of a fraudulent act of the defendant or debtor which was committed more than three years before the commencement of the original action.

If the court finds that the defendant or debtor is guilty of the charges so alleged, he shall be sentenced to imprisonment in the common jail for not more than one year, and the proceedings for the examination of the defendant or debtor as to his property or ability to pay may be continued by the court to enable the defendant or debtor to appear.

A party aggrieved by a judgment rendered under this section may appeal therefrom to the superior court in the same manner as from a judgment of a district court in civil actions. If the plaintiff or creditor appeals, he shall before allowance thereof recognize with sufficient sureties to enter and prosecute his appeal, to file therewith a copy of all the proceedings on said charges, and to pay all costs if judgment is not reversed. If the defendant or debtor appeals, he shall recognize in like manner, and with the further condition that if final judgment is against him he will, within thirty days thereafter, surrender himself to be taken on execution and abide the order of the court, or pay to the plaintiff or creditor the amount due him upon the claim or execution as the case may be. In the superior court trial shall be by a jury or, with the consent of both parties, by the court.

Section 20. If at the examination of the debtor it appears that after service of supplementary process, the debtor has made a payment of money or a conveyance, assignment or transfer of property which is not exempt from being taken on execution, with intent to prevent it from being transferred or paid to the creditor or applied to the satisfaction of the judgment, and the court so certifies, the debtor may in the discretion of the court be committed as for a contempt. The payment by the debtor of a debt for necessaries, or a debt due on any judgment on which he has previously been summoned to appear in supplementary proceedings, or a reasonable fee for counsel relative to the proceedings, shall not render him liable for contempt.

Section 21. Supplementary proceedings shall be dismissed, and if the debtor has been imprisoned he shall be discharged from custody, on payment in full to the creditor or his attorney of the amount due on the judgment, with all the costs of the proceedings, or, unless the judgment is...
5 upon a bond or recognizance given under the provisions of this chapter, 6 on the giving to the creditor or his attorney of a bond, payable to the 7 creditor, with sufficient surety or sureties, approved by the creditor, his 8 attorney or the court, conditioned that the debtor shall pay to the creditor 9 the amount due on the judgment, with all the costs of the proceedings, 10 within sixty days after the date of giving such bond or within such longer 11 time as the court may allow.

1 SECTION 22. The court may issue a writ of habeas corpus to bring 2 before it for examination or disposition or for the purpose of giving bond, 3 a defendant or debtor who has been imprisoned under the provisions of 4 this chapter.

1927, 334, § 2.

1 SECTION 23. Constables qualified to serve civil process, as well as sheriffs and their deputies, shall have authority to serve any process under 3 this chapter.

1 SECTION 24. If a debtor committed to prison on a warrant of distress 2 in favor of the commonwealth is unable to pay the debt for which he is 3 imprisoned, he shall be entitled to discharge in like manner as a debtor 4 before a court on supplementary proceedings; and the laws relative to 5 such proceedings so far as applicable shall apply, except as hereinafter 6 provided.

G. L. (ed. of 1920) 224, § 44. 1927, 334, § 2.

1 SECTION 25. If he represents to the jailer that he desires to be ex- 2 aminated relative to his property and ability to pay, the jailer shall notify 3 the proper court. The court shall thereupon appoint a time and place 4 for the examination of the debtor and notify the district attorney for the 5 district by a notice, which shall be served by giving to him personally, or 6 by leaving at his usual place of abode, thirty days at least before the 7 time appointed for the examination, an attested copy thereof.

G. L. (ed. of 1920) 224, § 45. 1927, 334, § 2. 7 Cumb. 536.

1 SECTION 26. If the district attorney does not reside in the town 2 appointed for or is unable to attend the examination, he may appoint 3 counsel in his stead. For such attendance, suitable allowance shall be 4 made by the superior court for the county.

1 SECTION 27. If a defendant or debtor imprisoned on mesne process or execution is supposed to be insane, any person may file a petition in any court named in section fifty of chapter one hundred and twenty-three in the county where he is imprisoned, stating the facts. The court shall 5 appoint a time and place for a hearing, and shall order notice thereof to be given to the plaintiff, creditor or his attorney seven days before the time 6 so appointed, and in other respects shall proceed under said chapter one 7 hundred and twenty-three as in cases of insane persons not under arrest.

9 If satisfied upon the hearing that the person is insane, the court may order 10 his discharge from arrest and his removal to a state hospital, as defined in section one of said chapter one hundred and twenty-three. The legal rights of the plaintiff or the creditor shall not be affected by such discharge or removal.

SECTION 28. A person who has been committed to jail for the non-payment of a tax, if since his commitment he has not had any property, real or personal, with which he could have paid the tax, may be discharged at any time in the manner provided by section one hundred and forty-six of chapter one hundred and twenty-seven, for the discharge of poor prisoners who have been confined for three months for a fine.

SECTION 29. If a person arrested on mesne process or on execution becomes an insolvent debtor under the laws of this commonwealth or a bankrupt under the laws of the United States, he shall be discharged upon his application to a district court in the county where the arrest was made, after such notice as the court shall order.

SECTION 30. In any proceeding under this chapter the court may adjourn the case from time to time, and shall have the same powers relative to all other incidents thereto as other courts have in civil actions; and witnesses duly summoned shall attend as required in civil cases.

23. Liability of plaintiff.
24. Liability of bail.
25. Liability in case of surrender.

TAKING BAIL.

1 SECTION 1. A defendant arrested on mesne process shall be released upon giving bail. If he has been sentenced to imprisonment on a charge of fraud under chapter two hundred and twenty-four, the giving of such bail shall not discharge him from such imprisonment.

1 SECTION 2. Bail in a civil action shall be taken by giving a bond to the sheriff, if the writ is served by him or his deputy, otherwise to the officer by whom the writ is served, conditioned that the defendant shall appear and answer to the plaintiff, abide the final judgment of the court and shall not avoid.

12 Met. 364. 113 Mass. 325.

1 SECTION 3. An officer shall not be required to accept a bail bond unless with at least two sureties, each of them having sufficient property within the commonwealth; and he may examine on oath, to be administered by him, the persons offered as sureties, as to their sufficiency. If he takes a bail bond with only one surety, he shall be liable to the plaintiff for any loss sustained by the insufficiency of the bail, although the surety was actually sufficient when taken.

1 SECTION 4. The bond may be approved by a judge of a court of record or a master in chancery, and, when so approved, the sureties shall be sufficient.

1 SECTION 5. A bail bond shall bind the persons executing it, although bond to bind those executing it.
SECTION 6. The bond shall be returned and filed with the writ, and the clerk shall note on the writ that a bond is so filed. Upon an appeal, the bond shall be sent with the other papers to the court appealed to.

SECTION 7. In case of the avoidance of the principal and a return on the execution that he has not been found, or a return on the summons or further notice mentioned in section fourteen of chapter two hundred and twenty-four that after diligent search by the officer serving the summons or notice the principal has not been found, his bail shall satisfy the judgment, with interest thereon from the time it was rendered, unless he discharges himself by surrendering the principal before final judgment against him on the writ of scire facias, or by other sufficient defence in that suit.

103 Mass. 398.
146 Mass. 331.
197 Mass. 94.

5 Gray, 397.
103 Mass. 398.
113 Mass. 325.
197 Mass. 94.
1. SECTION 13. Such surrender may be made to the jailer in the county where the principal was arrested or where the original writ against the principal was returnable, who shall receive and hold him in like manner and with the same rights as if he had been committed on the original writ.

1. SECTION 14. The jailer shall not be obliged to receive a person so surrendered, unless the bail deliver to him a copy of the bail bond, attested by the officer who took it or by the clerk in whose custody it may be, which shall be a sufficient warrant for the jailer.

1. SECTION 15. The bail shall, within fourteen days after such surrender, deliver to the jailer a copy of the original writ or process whereby the prisoner was arrested, with a copy of the return endorsed thereon, attested by the officer who served the writ or by the clerk into whose office it is returned, and they shall also within said time give written notice to the plaintiff or his attorney of the time when and the place where the prisoner was so committed.

121 Mass. 400.

1. SECTION 16. If the surrender is made after a writ of scire facias is issued against the bail, they shall, within fourteen days after the surrender, pay the costs of suit on the scire facias to the creditor or his attorney, or to the jailer for the use of the creditor; but if the writ of scire facias has not been served on the bail, they shall not be required to pay the costs thereon until twenty-four hours after notice of the issuing of the writ and demand by the creditor for such payment.

1. SECTION 17. The five preceding sections shall not impair the right of bail in all cases to surrender their principal in the court in which the original action is pending, before final judgment; or, after judgment, to surrender him to the officer holding the execution, at any time before its return.

BAIL IN ACTIONS BEFORE INFERIOR COURTS.

1. SECTION 18. The rights and obligations of the bail in an action before a district court and all proceedings as to the surrender of the principal and the action against the bail shall be substantially the same as are provided relative to bail when taken in actions in other courts.

1917, 326.
1931, 426, § 100.

1. SECTION 19. When bail in an action before a district court surrenders their principal in court, either during the pendency of the original action or of the scire facias, they shall secure the attendance of an officer qualified to serve legal process in the case to whom the principal may be committed. Any such officer seasonably notified and requested to attend for such purpose shall attend and shall receive and take charge of the principal, if committed to his custody by the court.

1917, 326.

1. SECTION 20. If the principal is surrendered in such action, an entry of such surrender shall be made on the record and he shall be forthwith committed to the officer in attendance.

G. S. 125, § 25.
P. S. 163, § 25.
SECTION 21. If the principal is surrendered before final judgment in the original action, the bail shall deliver to the officer a copy of the original writ, with the return endorsed thereon, attested by the clerk of the court, if any, otherwise by the justice. If the surrender is after final judgment in the original action, the bail shall deliver to the officer a copy of the entry of the surrender, attested in like manner. The officer shall deliver the copy to the jailer upon committing the prisoner to his custody; and such copy shall be a sufficient warrant to the officer and to the jailer for receiving, committing and holding the prisoner.

SECTION 22. The officer shall be allowed the same fees, which shall be paid by the bail, as upon the arrest and commitment of a defendant on mesne process.

R. L. 169, § 22.

SUPPORT OF PRINCIPAL.

SECTION 23. If a principal, surrendered by his bail and committed to jail, claims support as a pauper, the jailer may require the plaintiff or his attorney in the action to give security or to advance the money for support of the defendant in like manner as if the commitment had been made by an officer. If the plaintiff fails so to do for twenty-four hours after being so required, the jailer may discharge the defendant.

SECTION 24. The jailer may, at the time of surrender, demand of the bail the advance of money for support of the principal, or security therefor, instead of demanding the same of the plaintiff; and if the bail, for twenty-four hours after such demand, fail to give such security or to advance the money for such support, the jailer may discharge him; and the bail and the principal shall thereupon continue liable to the plaintiff in all respects as if the surrender had not been made.

SECTION 25. If such demand is made upon the bail, they shall be liable for the support of the principal for seven days after they have given notice of the surrender to the plaintiff or to his attorney in the action. The plaintiff shall be liable for the support of the defendant after the expiration of said seven days; and if he fails to advance the money or to give security therefor as before provided, at or before the expiration of said time, the jailer may discharge the defendant.
CHAPTER 227.

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST ABSENT DEFENDANTS AND UPON INSUFFICIENT SERVICE.

Sect.
1. Actions against absent defendants.
2. Cross actions.
5. Certain individuals, etc., to appoint agents for service of process. Penalty.
6. Dismissal of action, when.
7. Notice.
8. Default.

Sect.
11. Execution levied on land.
15. Prosecution against those served. New action.
16. Absence of one of several tenants, etc.
17. Mixed actions.

1 Section 1. A personal action shall not be maintained against a person not an inhabitant of the commonwealth unless he or his agent appointed under section five has been served with process in the commonwealth, or unless an effectual attachment of his property within the commonwealth has been made upon the original writ, and in case of such attachment without such service, the judgment shall be valid only to secure the application of the property so attached to the satisfaction of the judgment.

1 Section 2. If an action is brought by a person not an inhabitant of the commonwealth or who cannot be found herein to be served with process, he shall be held to answer to any action brought against him here by the defendant in the former action, if the demands are of such a nature that the judgment or execution in the one case may be set off against the judgment or execution in the other. If there are several defendants in the original action, each of them may bring such cross action against the original plaintiff and may be allowed to set off his judgment against that which may be recovered against him and his co-defendants in like manner as if the latter judgment had been against him alone.

1 Section 3. The writ in such cross action may be served on the attorney of record for the plaintiff in the original action, and such service shall be as valid and effectual as if made on the party himself in the commonwealth.

1 Section 4. The court in which either of the actions is pending may order continuances to enable the absent party to defend the action brought against him, and to enable either party to set off his judgment or execution against that which is recovered against him, but the actions shall not be unreasonably delayed by the neglect or default of either party. The provisions of the following sections, relative to actions against persons absent from the commonwealth, shall not apply to a cross action brought under the two preceding sections.

Section 5. Every individual not an inhabitant of the commonwealth and every partnership composed of persons not such inhabitants, having a usual place of business in the commonwealth, temporarily or permanently, or engaged here, temporarily or permanently, and with or without a usual place of business here, in the construction, erection, alteration or repair of a building, bridge, railroad, railway, or structure of any kind, shall, before doing business in the commonwealth, appoint in writing a person who is a citizen and resident thereof to be his or its true and lawful attorney upon whom all lawful processes against such individual or partnership may be served with like effect as if served on such person or partnership; and said writing or power of attorney shall contain an agreement on the part of the maker that the service of any lawful process on said attorney shall be of the same force and validity as service on such individual or partnership. The power of attorney shall be filed in the office of the state secretary, and copies certified by him shall be taken as sufficient evidence thereof. Such agency shall be continued so long as such individual or partnership does business as aforesaid in the commonwealth, and the power of attorney shall not be revoked until a similar power is given to another citizen and resident of the commonwealth and filed as aforesaid. Every such individual or 20 partnership neglecting or refusing to appoint such attorney shall be notified by the state secretary, upon information and request by any 22 citizen of the commonwealth, of the requirements of this section; and every person who acts within the commonwealth as agent of any 24 such individual or partnership continuing to neglect or refuse, after receipt of such notice from the state secretary, to appoint such attorney, shall forfeit ten dollars, to the use of the commonwealth, for each day during which such person has so acted after such neglect or refusal.

Section 6. If real property of a non-resident is attached and no personal service is made upon him, the action shall be dismissed unless notice thereof is given, in such manner as the court orders, within one year after the entry of the action.

Section 7. If a defendant in an action in the supreme judicial or superior court is absent from the commonwealth or his residence is unknown to the officer serving the writ, and no personal service has been made on him or his agent appointed under section five, or if the service of a writ is defective or insufficient by reason of a mistake of the plaintiff or officer as to where or with whom the summons or copy ought to have been left, the court, upon suggestion thereof by the plaintiff, shall order the action to be continued until notice of the action is given in such manner as it may order. If the property of an absent defendant has been attached and the residence of such defendant is known to the plaintiff and no legal service can be made upon him within the commonwealth, except by publication, the court may order personal service to be made on him in such manner as it may direct and, upon proof that service has been so made, such defendant shall be held to answer to the action. If the defendant does not appear, the court may order the action continued and further notice given to him in such manner as it may direct.
1 Section 8. If, after such notice, the defendant does not appear within twenty-one days after the day specified therefor, a default shall be entered and judgment rendered against him as provided in section one.

1 Section 9. If judgment in a personal action is rendered under the preceding section upon the default of a defendant who is absent from the commonwealth or whose residence is unknown, the plaintiff shall not take out execution thereon within one year thereafter, unless he files with the clerk of the court a bond payable to the defendant within one or more sureties, approved by the clerk or, upon appeal from his decision as to the sufficiency of the sureties, by a justice of the court rendering the judgment, in a sum equal to double the amount recovered, conditioned to repay the amount so recovered if the judgment is reversed, or so much of the amount as shall be recovered upon a review brought by the original defendant within one year after the original judgment.

1 Section 10. If an attachment has been made upon a writ returnable to a district court and the defendant is absent from the commonwealth, so that no service can be made on him and he has no agent or attorney residing in the commonwealth, the court may order the action to be continued until notice thereof is given to the defendant in such manner as it may direct. If, upon proof that such notice has been given, the defendant fails to appear on the return day of such notice, judgment may be entered for the plaintiff. Thereupon execution may issue for the amount, upon his giving bond to the defendant with sufficient sureties in double the sum for which execution is to be issued, conditioned to repay the amount recovered, if, within one year from the judgment, proceedings are begun upon which it is reversed.

1 Section 11. If the execution in an action under this chapter, except as otherwise provided, is levied on land, no alienation thereof by the original plaintiff shall prevent the defendant from retaking the same or as much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgment which he recovers on review, if the writ of review is served out within one year after the original judgment.

1 Section 12. If the original judgment was for seisin of the land demanded in a real action, the writ of seisin may be issued in favor of the demandant without his giving bond; and if the judgment is reversed in whole or in part upon a review, whether sued out within the year or after, the original tenant may have restitution of the land as upon a reversal on a writ of error.

1 Section 13. An action of tort against several defendants, any one of whom is absent from the commonwealth at the time of the service of the writ, shall be conducted with regard to him relative to the service of the writ, judgment, review thereof and execution as if he were the sole defendant.

1 Section 14. An action of contract against several defendants, any one of whom is in the commonwealth and any other of whom is absent, in which the plaintiff recovers judgment shall not be subject to the provisions of this chapter relative to review, giving bond and alienation of land; but judgment shall not be rendered against any such absent defendant, unless under such circumstances as would entitle the plaintiff to judgment if the absent party were the sole defendant.

Section 15. An action of contract against several defendants in which legal service is not made upon all, either by attachment or otherwise, by reason of their absence from the commonwealth or for other sufficient cause, may be prosecuted against those who are duly served with process, without further proceedings against the others. If judgment so rendered against one or more of several joint contractors remains unsatisfied, an action on the same contract may be maintained against any of the other joint contractors in like manner as if the contract had been joint and several.

Absence of one of several tenants, etc.

Section 16. Real actions against several tenants, any one of whom is absent from the commonwealth, shall be conducted relative to him as if he were the sole defendant.

Mixed actions.

Section 17. The provisions of this chapter relative to judgment, bond and review in actions of tort shall apply to a mixed action if the defendant or one of several defendants is absent from the commonwealth, but, as to the service of the writ and notice to the defendant, it shall be conducted as a real action.

R. S. 93, § 12.
G. S. 127, §§ 11, 12.
P. S. 165, § 12.

Section 7. If any of several plaintiffs or defendants in a personal action, the cause of which survives, dies before final judgment, the action may be prosecuted by the surviving plaintiff or against the surviving defendant, as the case may be. If all the plaintiffs or defendants die, the action may be prosecuted or defended by or against the executor or administrator of the last surviving plaintiff or defendant, respectively.

REAL AND MIXED ACTIONS.

Section 8. If, in a real or mixed action, the demandant dies before final judgment, his heir or devisee of the land demanded or of the right of action may, within such time as the court allows, appear and prosecute the action in the same manner as if he had been originally a party thereto.

Section 9. If any of several demandants dies before final judgment, his heir or devisee shall be admitted, upon motion, to prosecute the action with the survivors, in the same manner as if he had been originally a party thereto.

R. L. 171, § 10.

Section 10. If the interest of the deceased party passes to the surviving demandants, or if there is no motion for the admission of an heir or devisee at the sitting when the death of the deceased party is suggested or within such further time as the court allows, the surviving demandants may prosecute the action for so much of the land in question as they may then claim.

Section 11. If the tenant dies before final judgment, his heir or devisee of the land demanded may, within such time as the court allows, appear and defend the action, which shall be conducted as if commenced against him. If the heir or devisee does not voluntarily appear, the court before whom the action is pending shall, upon the application of the demandant, summon such heir or devisee to appear and defend the action. If any of several tenants in such action dies before final judgment, the action may be prosecuted against the surviving tenants for so much of the land as they hold or claim.

Suits in Equity.

Section 12. If a party to a suit in equity dies and the cause by the rules of equity may be revived against or in favor of an executor, administrator, heir, devisee or other person, such representative may, in 4 lieu of proceedings to revive the same, appear or be summoned to proce-
5 cute or defend in like manner as in an action at law.

INSANITY.

1 SECTION 13. If, during the pendency of an action or suit, any party
2 becomes insane, it may be prosecuted or defended by his guardian in 3 like manner as if it had been commenced after the appointment of the 4 guardian, or the court may appoint a guardian for the action, as the 5 case may require.

8 Allen, 311.

REMOVAL, DEATH, ETC., OF PUBLIC OFFICER, ETC.

1 SECTION 14. An action on a note, bond, contract or other liability
2 made to or with any public officer or trustee appointed under a statute
3 may, after his removal, resignation or death, be commenced or, if pend-4 ing, may be prosecuted by his successor, as it might have been by the 5 person with whom the contract was made.

CHAPTER 229.

ACTIONS FOR DEATH AND INJURIES RESULTING IN DEATH.

Sect.
1. Damages for death from a defective way.
2. Damages for death by negligence of common carrier.
3. Penalty on certain corporations for death by negligence, etc.
4. Action against employer for death.
5. Action for death in general.

Sect.
7. Action by legal representative of employee for death after conscious suffering, etc.
8. Amendment of actions brought for death or injury of employee.
10. Notice and limitation in action against employer for death.
11. Interest.

1 SECTION 1. If the life of a person is lost by reason of a defect or a want
2 of repair of or a want of a sufficient railing in or upon a way, causeway or 3 bridge, the county, city, town or person by law obliged to repair the same 4 shall, if it or he had previous reasonable notice of the defect or want of 5 repair or want of railing, be liable in damages not exceeding one thousand 6 dollars, to be assessed with reference to the degree of culpability of the 7 defendant and recovered in an action of tort commenced within one year 8 after the injury causing the death by the executor or administrator of the 9 deceased person, to the use of the surviving wife or husband and children
10 of the deceased in equal moieties, or, if there are no children, to the use 11 of the surviving wife or husband, or, if there is no surviving wife or hus-12 band, to the use of the next of kin.

Section 2. If the proprietor of a common carrier of passengers, except a railroad corporation or street railway or electric railroad company, by reason of his or its negligence, or by reason of the unfitness or gross negligence or carelessness of his or its servants or agents, causes the death of a passenger, he or it shall be liable in damages in the sum of not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars, to be assessed with reference to the degree of culpability of the defendant or of his or its servants or agents, and recovered and distributed as provided in section one, and to the use of the persons and in the proportions, therein specified.

Section 3. If a corporation operating a railroad, street railway or electric railroad, by reason of its negligence or of the unfitness or negligence of its agents or servants while engaged in its business, causes the death of a passenger, or of a person in the exercise of due care who is not a passenger or in the employment of such corporation, it shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred nor more than ten thousand dollars, to be recovered by an indictment prosecuted within one year after the time of the injury which caused the death, which shall be paid to the executor or administrator, and distributed as provided in section one; but a corporation which operates a railroad shall not be so liable for the death of a person while walking or being upon its railroad contrary to law or to the reasonable rules and regulations of the corporation, and one which operates an electric railroad shall not be so liable for the death of a person while so walking or being on that part of its railroad not within the limits of a highway. Such corporation shall also be liable in damages in the sum of not less than five hundred nor more than ten thousand dollars, to be assessed with reference to the degree of culpability of the corporation or of its servants or agents, which shall be recovered in an action of tort, begun within one year after the injury which caused the death, by the executor or administrator of the deceased, and distributed as provided in section one. If an employee of a railroad corporation, being in the exercise of due care, is killed under such circumstances as would have entitled him to maintain an action for damages against such corporation if death had not resulted, the corporation shall be liable in the same manner and to the same extent as it would have been if the deceased had not been an employee. But no executor or administrator shall, for the same cause, avail himself of more than one of the remedies given by this section.

Action against employer for death.
1887, 270, § 2.
R. L. 106, § 73.

Section 4. If, as the result of the negligence of an employer himself, or of a person for whose negligence an employer is liable under section one, of chapter one hundred and fifty-three, an employee is instantly killed, 4 or dies without conscious suffering, the surviving wife or husband of the decedent, or if there is no wife or husband surviving, the next of kin, who, at the time of such death, were dependent upon the wages of the deceased or support, shall have a right of action for damages against the employer.
This section shall not apply to injuries caused to domestic servants or farm laborers by fellow employees.

1 Section 5. Except as provided in sections one, two and three, a person who by his negligence or by his willful, wanton or reckless act, or by the negligence or willful, wanton or reckless act of his agents or servants while engaged in his business, causes the death of a person in the exercise of due care, who is not in his employment or service, shall be liable in damages in the sum of not less than five hundred nor more than ten thousand dollars, to be assessed with reference to the degree of his culpability or of that of his agents or servants, to be recovered in an action of tort, commenced, except as provided by section four of chapter ten, two and sixty, within two years after the injury which caused the death by the executor or administrator of the deceased, to be dis-t tributed as provided in section one.

negligence of the employer himself, for an injury resulting in death which is not instantaneous or is preceded by conscious suffering, if there is any person who would have been entitled to bring an action under section four, the legal representatives of the deceased may, in the action under said section one, recover damages both for the injury and for the death, and, if the employer is also liable at common law, may in a separate count in the same action recover damages for conscious suffering resulting from the same injury.

action is brought by the legal representatives under the preceding section or under section one hundred and fifty-three, such an action shall not fail by reason of the fact that it should have been brought under the other section, but at any time prior to final judgment may be so amended as to provide against such failure.

Section 9. If under section four or section seven damages are awarded for death or for injury and death, they shall be assessed with reference to the degree of culpability of the employer or of the person for whose negligence the employer is liable.

The amount of damages which may be awarded in an action brought under section four shall not be less than five hundred nor more than ten thousand dollars.

The amount of damages which may be awarded for injury and death in an action brought under section seven shall be apportioned by the jury between the legal representatives of the employee and the persons who have been entitled under section four to bring an action for his death.

Section 10. An action under section four or section seven shall be subject to all the provisions of section six of chapter one hundred and fifty-three relative to notice to the employer of the time, place and cause of the injury, and the time within which the action shall be commenced.

Section 11. In any civil action in which a verdict is given or a finding made for pecuniary damages for the death, with or without conscious suffering, of any person, whether or not such person was in the employment of the defendant against whom the verdict is rendered or finding made, there shall be added to the amount of the damages interest thereon from the date of the writ, even though such interest brings the amount of the verdict or finding beyond the maximum liability imposed by law.

1 Section 2. If an action of tort is commenced or prosecuted against 2 the executor or administrator of the person originally liable, the plaintiff
3 shall recover only the value of the goods taken, or the damage actually 4 sustained, without vindictive or exemplary damages, or damages for any 5 alleged outrage to the feelings of the injured party.

1 Section 3. If the executor or administrator of a trustee, carrier,
2 depository or other person who claimed only a special property in goods
3 which he held for the use and benefit of another recovers such goods, or 4 damages for the taking or detention thereof, in replevin or tort, the goods
5 or money recovered shall not be assets in his hands, but shall, after the 6 deduction of the costs and expenses of the action, be delivered or paid 7 to the person for whose use and benefit they were so held or claimed by 8 the deceased.

1 Section 4. If judgment for a return in an action of replevin is 2 rendered against an executor or administrator, the property returned 3 by him shall not be assets in his hands; and if it has been included in the 4 inventory, he shall be allowed therefor in his account if he shows that 5 it has been returned in pursuance of such judgment.

1 Section 5. It shall be unnecessary to remove an executor or adminis-
2 trator in order that an action or suit to enforce a claim in favor of the 3 estate may be brought by an administrator to be appointed in his place, 4 when he refuses to bring such action or suit at the request of a legatee or 5 creditor, or is unable to do so by reason of his interest or otherwise, but 6 a legatee or creditor having an interest in the enforcement of any such 7 claim may bring a suit in equity to enforce it for the benefit of the estate
8 in like circumstances and in like manner as a person beneficially interested 9 in a trust fund may bring a suit to enforce a claim in favor of such fund, 10 and in case of such a suit in respect to real estate, it shall not be an 11 obstacle to the suit that a license to sell it has not been obtained by the 12 executor or administrator.

1 Section 6. Writs of attachment and executions against executors
2 or administrators for debts due from the testator or intestate shall run

4 of the probate court for the county where the executor or administrator 5 of the deceased person was appointed. This section shall not apply to 6 actions brought under section twenty-nine of chapter one hundred and 7 ninety-seven.

1 Section 8. If a judgment for costs is rendered against an executor or defence, he shall be personally liable for the costs, and execution shall be awarded against his body, goods and estate, as if it were for his own debt. Costs paid by him shall be allowed in his account unless the pro-bate court determines that the action was prosecuted or defended without reasonable cause.

SECTION 9. If the judgment is for damages and costs, an execution for the damages shall be awarded against the goods and estate of the deceased in the hands of the executor or administrator, and another execution for costs against the goods, estate and body of the executor or administrator, as if for his own debt.

SECTION 10. Upon the return unsatisfied of an execution against an executor or administrator for a debt due from the estate of the deceased, the court may, upon a suggestion by the creditor of waste, issue a writ of scire facias against the executor or administrator. If the defendant does not appear and show sufficient cause to the contrary, he shall be found guilty of waste and shall be personally liable for the amount thereof, if it can be ascertained, otherwise for the amount due on the original judgment, with interest from the time when it was rendered, and judgment and execution shall be awarded as for his own debt.

SECTION 11. If an executor or administrator dies or is removed from office during the pendency of an action to which he is a party, it may be prosecuted by or against the administrator de bonis non in like manner as if commenced by or against him; and the provisions of chapter two hundred and twenty-eight relative to the appearance or citation of an administrator and relative to a nonsuit or default shall apply to such administrator de bonis non.

SECTION 12. If an executor or administrator dies or is removed after a judgment has been rendered for or against him, the court may issue a writ of scire facias in favor of or against the administrator de bonis non, and a new execution may be issued in like manner as may be done in favor of or against an original executor or administrator in case of the death of his testator or intestate after a judgment rendered for or against him; except that a judgment against the first executor or administrator for costs for which he was personally liable shall be enforced only against his executor or administrator and not against the administrator de bonis non.

SECTION 13. If a judgment is rendered for or against an executor or administrator, a writ of error may be brought thereon by or against an administrator de bonis non in like manner as it might have been brought by or against the executor or administrator who was party to the judgment.

PLEADING.

Division of Personal Actions.

* Section 1. There shall be three divisions of personal actions — 1
First, Contract, which shall include actions formerly known as assumpits, covenant and debt, except actions for penalties.
Second, Tort, which shall include actions formerly known as trespass, trespass on the case, trover and actions for penalties.

Third, Replevin.

Parties.

* Section 2. In actions of contract for the recovery of money due for manual labor, two or more persons may join in one action against the same defendant, although the claims are not joint, if the claim of no one of such plaintiffs exceeds twenty dollars; and each plaintiff so joining may recover the amount found to be due to him solely. The claim of each plaintiff shall be stated in a separate count, and the court may make such order for trial of the issues as may be most convenient, may enter separate judgments, issue one or more executions and make such order relative to costs as the case requires.

* Section 3. Joint tenants or tenants in common may join in any action to recover damages for injury to real or personal property, or any one or more of them may sue for his or their damages.

* Section 4. All or any of the persons severally liable upon written contracts, including bills of exchange and promissory notes, may be joined in one action. The declaration shall describe the several contracts, and may contain one count against all the defendants, or several counts against the several defendants. The court shall make such order for the separate trial of the issues as may be convenient, and shall enter several judgments according to the several contracts and issue one or more executions.

* Section 5. The assignee of a non-negotiable legal chose in action which has been assigned in writing may maintain an action thereon in his own name, but subject to all defences and rights of counter-claim, recoupment or set-off to which the defendant would have been entitled had the action been brought in the name of the assignor.

* § || Section 6. An action or proceeding for the recovery of an outstanding debt or claim sold or assigned by an executor or administrator under a license of the probate court to sell or assign any outstanding debts or claims shall be brought in the name of the purchaser or assignee. The fact of the sale shall be set forth in the writ, declaration, bill or petition, 6 and the defendant may avail himself of any defence which would have 7 been open to him upon an action or proceeding brought by the executor 8 or administrator. Costs shall be recovered by or against the plaintiff 9 or petitioner, but not against the executor or administrator. Any such 10 action brought upon a promissory note signed in the presence of an attest- 11 ing witness shall not be barred by any provision of chapter two hundred 12 and sixty, if the action could have been maintained by the executor or 13 administrator.

Declarations.

1 Section 7. In declaring in personal actions the following require- 2 ments shall be observed:

3 First, The declaration shall state to which division of actions specified 4 in section one the action belongs.

5 Second, The declaration shall state concisely and with substantial cer- 6 tainty the substantive facts necessary to constitute the cause of action. 17 Mass. 389.

7 Third, It need not aver a fact not required by law to be proved.

- 5 Gray, 541. 105 Mass. 71.
- 9 Gray, 73. 112 Mass. 237.

8 Fourth, It need not contain more than one count for each cause of 9 action; but any number of breaches may be assigned in each count and, 10 if the nature of the case requires it, breaches may be assigned in the 11 alternative. Two causes of action arising on different contracts shall 12 not be embraced in one count except in a count on an account annexed. 240 Mass. 264.

- 13 Fifth, It may contain any number of counts for different causes of 14 action which belong to the same division of actions.

- 13 Gray, 536. 152 Mass. 133.

15 Sixth, Actions of contract and actions of tort shall not be joined; but 16 if it is doubtful to which division a cause of action belongs, a count in 17 contract may be joined with a count in tort, with an averment that both 18 are for one and the same cause of action.

- 12 Allen, 482. 125 Mass. 477.
- 97 Mass. 29. 128 Mass. 104.

19 Seventh, The common counts shall not be used unitedly, but any one 20 of them may be used if the natural import of its terms correctly describes 21 the cause of action.

- 214 Mass. 159.

22 Eighth, In an action for the recovery of rent or of any sum of money 23 payable by virtue of a contract under seal that might have been recovered upon a common count if the contract had not been under seal, the same may be recovered upon a common count in a form similar to that now used for other common counts. The bill of particulars in such cases shall refer to the document under which the claim arises, by its proper description and date.

Ninth, A count on an account annexed may be used in an action of contract if one or more items are claimed any of which would be correctly described by any one of the common counts according to the natural import of its terms.

Tenth, Interest accruing as damages for the detention of money or otherwise may be declared on, in addition to other forms of pleading authorized by law, by including in any count followed by an account annexed or bill of particulars the words "and interest", and by stating in the account annexed or bill of particulars the time and amount for and upon which interest is claimed and the amount of interest so claimed.

Eleventh, Written instruments shall be declared on by setting out a copy or such part as is relied on, or the legal effect thereof, with proper averments to describe the cause of action. If the whole contract is not set out, a copy or the original, as the court may direct, shall be filed upon motion of the defendant. If it is necessary and the court so orders, the copy so filed shall be part of the record as if over had been granted of a deed declared on according to common law. No profer or excuse therefor need be inserted in a declaration. If the instrument relied on is lost or destroyed, or if it is not within the control of the party relying on it, the substance thereof, as nearly as may be, and the reason why a copy is not given, shall be stated.

Twelfth, The condition of a bond or other conditional obligation, contract or grant declared on shall be set forth. The breaches relied on shall be assigned, and the performance of conditions precedent to the right of the plaintiff to maintain his action shall be averred or his reason for the non-performance thereof stated.

† Section 8. Declarations in real actions founded on mortgage titles shall allege the seisin to be "in mortgage".

Section 9. In an action of ejectment or quare eject the recovery of the possession of real property for a term of years or other interest for which such an action may be maintained, the action may be described in the writ as an action of ejectment, and a declaration in general terms, substantially in the form set out in the schedule at the end of this chapter, shall be sufficient; and, if the defendant is wrongfully in possession, it shall not be material how he obtained such possession. The plaintiff shall annex to such declaration a statement of the particulars of his title, which shall be deemed part of the declaration, and the court may require him to file a statement of such other particulars, as to damages claimed or otherwise, as it seems proper. The writ need not contain the particulars of title, and if the writ does not contain them, they shall be filed in the same manner and the like provisions of law shall be applicable thereto as in the case of a declaration in a personal action.
1 * Section 10. In actions of tort for breaking and entering the plaintiff’s close, the place of the alleged trespass shall be designated in the declaration by name, boundaries or other sufficient description.

1 * Section 11. In actions of contract or of tort, unless an arrest of judgment is had, there must be in the writ, as provided in section forty-four of chapter 89, a description of the person for whose use the suit is brought. The person is made defendant or plaintiff as the case may require, except the name of the division thereof; but if in such actions in district courts the declaration is not inserted before the service of the writ, the defendant shall, upon motion, be entitled as of right to a postponement for at least seven days after the return day.

9 Allen, 257.

1 * Section 12. The declaration, unless inserted in the writ, may be filed in the clerk’s office on or before the return day of the writ. In an action or suit in which there has been an attachment of property or an injunction restraining the transfer or encumbering thereof, a copy of the declaration and bill of particulars, when such bill is necessary, or, in equity, of the bill or petition, shall be furnished to the defendant or his attorney within three days after a written demand therefor upon the plaintiff or his attorney, and in case of failure so to do, the cause may, upon motion, be dismissed with costs.

R. L. 173, §§ 10, 11. 7 Gray, 499. 228 Mass. 429.
1920, 2. 167 Mass. 472.

1 * Section 13. If the plaintiff fails to enter his writ, or if he fails to insert a declaration in the writ or to file it in the clerk’s office on or before the return day of the writ, the action may at any time, upon motion of the defendant, be dismissed with costs; but the court may, upon terms agreed to by the parties, allow the plaintiff, at any time before the next regular return of term, to enter his writ and file his declaration.

1 * Section 13A. Any judgment entered in an action upon a contract, promissory note or other instrument in which or in a memorandum or writing relating to which is contained a stipulation whereby the defendant waives or agrees to waive or authorized another person to waive or to agree to waive the issue or service of process in such an action, shall be set aside and annulled on motion of the defendant, unless it appears that service in the usual manner was had upon him or that the plaintiff sent to him by registered mail at least seven days before the day of entry of such action a notice of his intention to enter the same on said day and at the time of entry filed an affidavit of giving notice as aforesaid, which affidavit shall be prima facie evidence of the giving thereof. Any stipulation in a contract, promissory note or other instrument, or in any memorandum or writing relating thereto, whereby a party thereto agrees to confess judgment in any action which may be brought thereon or authorizes or agrees to authorize another person to confess judgment as the case may require, shall not be binding unless presented in writing, unless the person upon whom the judgment is entered is a coparticipant thereto.

1 * Section 13B. A party to an action or suit in the nature of an injunction, for the enforcement of which an appeal may be taken as provided in section eighty-two of chapter 13A, may appeal from the judgment or order therein entered to the Supreme Judicial Court, but no right of appeal or review vests in the party to an action or suit in the nature of an injunction, for the enforcement of which no appeal may be taken as provided in chapter 13A, or in an action or suit in the nature of an action for assumpsit, or an action on a bond for an answer thereto, whereby a party thereto agrees to confess judgment in any action which may be brought thereon or authorizes or agrees to authorize another person to confess judgment as the case may require.
* SECTION 14. If one of the common counts is used, the plaintiff shall file a bill of particulars with his writ when it is entered. The items in such bill shall be numbered consecutively, and the bill shall be a part of the declaration and be answered as such.

Demurrers.

* ❧ Section 15. Either party may demur to the pleadings of the adverse party, but no mere defects of form in the declaration or in the subsequent pleadings shall be assigned as causes for demurrer. If the adverse party does not amend the pleadings demanded to, he shall be held to have joined in demurrer.

* ❧ Section 16. The defendant may demur to the declaration or to one or more counts therein, and shall assign specifically the causes of demurrer.

Demurrer to the answer.

* ❧ Section 17. The plaintiff may demur to the answer or to so much thereof as applies to one or more counts in the declaration, and shall assign specifically the causes of demurrer.

Causes for demurrer.

* ❧ Section 18. Demurrers may be for the following as well as other causes:

First. That a count in contract and a count in tort, or that a count in the plaintiff's own right and a count in some representative capacity, are improperly joined in the declaration; or that a declaration in contract or in tort is inserted in a writ of replevin.

Second. That the matters contained in the declaration or in some count thereof are insufficient in law to enable the plaintiff to maintain his action.

Third. That the matters contained in the answer are insufficient in law to constitute a defence to the action or to some count in the declaration.

Fourth. That, in some particular or particulars specifically pointed out, the declaration or some count thereof does not state a cause of action, or the answer does not state a defence to the declaration or some count thereof, substantially in accordance with the rules contained in this chapter.

1 *↑ Section 25. The answer shall deny in clear and precise terms every 2 substantive fact intended to be denied in each count of the declaration
3 separately, or it shall declare the defendant's ignorance of the fact, so 4 that he can neither admit nor deny but leaves the plaintiff to prove it. Answer.

1852, 312, § 14.
G. S. 129, § 17.
P. S. 167, § 17.
2 Gray, 521.
* Section 26. In answering the common counts and the count on an account annexed, the defendant shall answer specifically every item contained in the bill of particulars or account annexed, but he may make one and the same allegation or denial relative to any number of items to which such allegation or denial is applicable, specifying the number of the items thus answered together, if less than the whole. If the defendant denies that an item is due or payable, or that he owes the plaintiff as alleged, he shall state all the substantive grounds on which he intends to rest such denial, and shall specify whether the whole or a part of such item or demand is denied, and if a part only is denied, he shall specify such part.

* Section 27. A denial by answer, affidavit or otherwise of a time, amount, quantity or place alleged shall declare whether it is applicable to every time, amount, quantity or place or not; and if not, what time, amount, quantity or place it admits.

Answer in avoidance.

Section 28. An answer shall state clearly and precisely each substantive fact intended to be relied upon in avoidance of the action, and if it sets up the statute of limitations, the statute of frauds or any other legal bar, the defendant shall have the benefit of such defence although the answer does not deny the facts set forth in the declaration.

Signatures admitted unless genuineness is denied.

* § Section 29. A signature to an instrument declared on or set forth as a cause of action or as a ground of defence or set-off shall be taken as admitted unless the party sought to be charged thereby files in court, within the same length of time after such instrument is pleaded as is allowed for an answer, a specific denial of the genuineness thereof and a demand that it shall be proved at the trial.

Fiduciary or corporate capacity, or existence of public way admitted, unless, etc.

* § § Section 30. If it is alleged in any civil action or proceeding that a party is an executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, assignee, conservator or receiver or is a corporation, or that a place is a public way, such allegation shall be taken as admitted unless the party controverting it files in court, within the time allowed for the answer thereto, or within ten days after the filing of the paper containing such allegation, a special demand for its proof.

Equitable defences.

* § § Section 31. The defendant may allege in defence any facts which would entitle him in equity to be absolutely and unconditionally
1 *Section 32. Instruments relied on in an answer or in a subsequent pleading shall be set out, or copies or the originals filed, in the manner provided for declaring thereon in the eleventh clause of section seven.

2 *Section 33. If a conditional obligation, contract or grant is relied on in an answer or subsequent pleading, the condition shall be considered part of the instrument, and similar averments shall be required in pleading on the same as are required by the twelfth clause of section seven.

3 *Section 34. The plaintiff may, at any time before trial, file a replication to the answer, clearly and specifically stating any facts in reply to new matter therein; but, except as herein provided, no further pleading shall be required after the answer. Any new matter in avoidance of the action which the answer contains shall be considered to be denied by the plaintiff without a replication, unless the court, upon motion of the defendant, requires him to reply thereto, and to state what part, if any, he admits or denies.

4 *†§ ||Section 35. The plaintiff may, in reply to a defence alleged by the defendant, allege any facts which would in equity avoid such defence or which would entitle the plaintiff to be absolutely and unconditionally relieved in equity against such defence.

5 *Section 36. An answer or replication may allege facts occurring after the commencement of the action, and the court may allow a supplemental declaration, answer or replication to be filed, alleging material facts which occurred or came to the knowledge of the party after the former declaration, answer or replication was filed.

6 *Section 37. A party may allege a fact or title alternatively.

7 *Section 38. The allegations and denials of each party shall be so construed by the court as to secure as far as possible substantial precision and exactness of averments; and also to avoid vagueness and loose generalities. A substantive fact alleged with substantial precision and certainty and not denied in clear and precise terms shall be held to be admitted. No party shall be required to state evidence, or to disclose the means by which he intends to prove his case.
PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

Section 39. A personal action shall be considered at issue when the pleadings are closed, and a real or mixed action when the plea is filed.

Section 40. If, in an action at law, the defendant admits liability, and the amount thereof is not disputed, but it appears that such amount is claimed by the husband or wife of the plaintiff or by any person other than the plaintiff and that the defendant has no interest in the subject matter of the controversy, the court may, on petition of the defendant, stating the names and residences of all known claimants and the amount actually due from the defendant, and after such notice as the court shall order to the plaintiff and to such claimants, order such claimants to be made defendants, and shall thereupon hear and determine the rights of the respective parties in and to said amount. The defendant may hold such amount until final judgment, and shall then pay it over as the court orders, or he may pay it into court to await final judgment, and thereupon the action shall be discontinued as to him, his liability for said amount shall cease, and his costs shall be in the discretion of the court, and may be charged upon the fund.

Section 41. Whenever two or more persons claim any interest in property, or the proceeds or value of, or damages for the taking, detention or conversion of, any property deposited with any public warehouseman, or other depository for hire, or with any pledgee as security for a loan, such bailee or pledgee may, either in any action against him for the recovery of such property, or for such proceeds, value or damages, or as an original suit brought, if in the superior court, in the county, or if in a district court, in the judicial district, where such property is situated or was last held by such bailee or pledgee, file a petition stating the names and residences of all known claimants. After such notice as the court may order upon the petition to all such claimants, and within such time after the return of such order of notice as the court shall allow, such claimants shall file in said court written statements of their several claims, and any claimant failing to file such claim may be defaulted. The court shall hear and determine the rights and interests of the respective parties in and to such property, proceeds, value or damages, and shall enter judgment accordingly, and upon such final judgment may order such return or delivery of the property, and award such execution or executions for damages or costs or both for or against the respective parties as justice requires. Failure to comply with any such order for the return or delivery of such property may be dealt with as the court directs. The goods may remain in the custody of the bailee or pledgee until final judgment, and shall then be delivered as the court orders. If the petition herein provided for be filed in an action of replevin, any order for the return of the property repleived, or any part thereof, may be for its return to such party to the proceedings as is adjudged entitled to possession thereof; and if the order is not complied with, the bond in such case may, by leave of said court, be put in suit, in the name of the obligee therein, but for the benefit of the party entitled to said property, and in such suit the court may award judgment and execution in accordance with the respective interests of the parties thereto.
Endorsement of Process.

1 * § 42. Original writs, writs of audita querela, writs of scire facias by private persons on judgment or recognizance, writs of error in civil cases, writs of and petitions for review, petitions for certiorari or mandamus and bills in equity, in which the plaintiff is not an inhabitant of the commonwealth, shall, before the entry thereof, be endorsed by a responsible person who is such inhabitant; but if one of the endorsers is such an inhabitant, the process need not be so endorsed. Every endorser, in case of avoidance or inability of the plaintiff, shall be liable to pay all costs awarded against the plaintiff if an action therefor is commenced within one year after the original judgment.

1 * § 43. If a plaintiff, not an inhabitant of the commonwealth, fails, by accident, mistake or inadvertence, to have his writ, bill or petition endorsed as required by the preceding section, the court may in any stage of the case, upon terms, allow him to procure an endorser with the same effect as if the writ, bill or petition had been endorsed before the entry thereof.

1 * § 44. If, after the commencement of a proceeding mentioned in section forty-two, the plaintiff removes from the commonwealth, he may procure a responsible endorser, if the court, upon motion of any other party, shall, and of its own motion may, require the plaintiff to procure a responsible endorser.

1 * § 45. If an endorser removes from the commonwealth or ceases to be responsible, the court may require the plaintiff to procure another endorser.

2 supreme judicial, the superior or the land court, having been duly served
3 with process, fails to enter an appearance in writing within twenty-one 4 days after the return or entry day of the writ, his default shall be recorded,
5 and after the expiration of four days from such default, the plaintiff may 6 have judgment entered by order of the court or by the clerk as of course
7 without any further order. Upon a default at any stage of the proceed-8 ings in an action pending in any of said courts, the damages shall, upon 9 motion of either party, be assessed by a jury. If the defendant in an 10 action commenced in a district court, having been duly served with 11 process, fails to appear or answer thereto, his default shall be recorded 12 and judgment shall be rendered for the plaintiff with costs. Courts 13 may, for good cause shown, extend the time for entering an appearance, 14 and may, in their discretion and upon terms, take off a default at any manner as the court by rule shall direct, to the attorney of record, if any, of each party against whom such default, nonsuit or decree is entered. If a party has no attorney of record, and if, in case of the entry of a default or interlocutory decree as aforesaid, the officer's return does not show that personal service of the writ, bill, petition, or complaint, or order therein, as the case may be, has been made upon him, the notice shall be given to the party.

*Section 58A. Damages shall not be assessed, except by special order of the court, in an action of tort, the payment of the judgment wherein is secured by a motor vehicle liability policy or a motor vehicle liability bond, both as defined in section thirty-four A of chapter ninety, and wherein the defendant has been defaulted for failure to enter an appearance, until the expiration of four days after the plaintiff has given notice of such default to the company issuing or executing such policy or bond, and has filed an affidavit thereof. Such notice may be given by mailing the same, postage prepaid, to the said company or to its agent who issued or executed such policy or bond.

Advancing Causes for Speedy Trial.

Section 59. In any action of contract in which the defendant has appeared, any plaintiff, or if a corporation its treasurer, may at any time before the case is on the short list, so called, file an affidavit verifying the cause of action and stating that in his belief there is no defence thereto; and thereupon the clerk shall issue an order requiring the defendant to show cause in writing and on oath why judgment should not be given for the plaintiff. The plaintiff shall immediately give written notice of such order, in such manner as is prescribed by rule of court, to the defendant or his attorney of record, and unless the defendant, within seven days after such notice, or within such further time as the court allows, consents to a default and to judgment for the amount demanded, if the claim is to recover a debt, or liquidated demand, or unless by affidavit setting out specifically and clearly the substantive facts upon which he relies he discloses such facts as the court finds entitle him to defend, the court shall advance said action for speedy trial; but if, upon a hearing under such order and notice, the court does not so advance the action, it may award the defendant reasonable costs. The court shall require the defendant to disclose specifically and clearly the substantive facts upon which he relies. If, in an action removed by the defendant from a district court, the court is satisfied, upon an inspection of the declaration, that the plaintiff seeks to recover solely for his personal labor, with or without interest, the court shall upon motion advance such action for speedy trial. In any action in which a defendant has appeared and answered, such defendant, or if a corporation its treasurer, may at any time before the case is on the short list, so called, file an affidavit stating that in his belief there is no merit in the action; and thereupon the clerk shall issue an order requiring the plaintiff to show cause why he should not become nonsuit. The defendant shall immediately give written notice of such order, in such manner as is prescribed by rule of court, to the plaintiff or his attorney of record, and unless within seven days after such notice, or within such further time as the court allows, the plaintiff consents to a nonsuit, or unless by affidavit setting forth specifically and clearly the substantive facts upon which he relies he discloses such pleading and practice.

34 facts as the court finds entitle him to maintain his action, the court shall 35 advance said action for speedy trial. In any trial any affidavit filed by 36 any party, as herein provided, may be given in evidence against him.

1 *SECTION 59A. In any action at law or suit in equity in the su-
2 preme judicial court or in the superior court, the court may on motion
3 for cause shown advance said action or suit for speedy trial.

Expediting the Collection of Debts.

1 *SECTION 59B. In any action of contract where the plaintiff seeks 2 to recover a debt or liquidated demand, he may, at any time after the 3 defendant has appeared or, in a removed case, after its entry, on affidavit
4 by himself or by any other person who can swear to the facts of his own
5 knowledge, verifying the cause of action and stating that in his belief
6 there is no defence thereto, move for the immediate entry of judgment
7 for the amount of the debt or demand, together with interest if any is 8 claimed. The motion may be set down for hearing upon four days' notice and after hearing the court may, unless the defendant by affidavit, 10 by his own evidence or otherwise shall disclose such facts as the court
11 finds entitle him to defend, enter an order for judgment for the amount 12 of the debt or demand, with interest if any is due, and costs. Judgment 13 as aforesaid shall be entered at the expiration of seven days from the 14 order unless the defendant in the meanwhile files a demand for trial; 15 and if such demand is filed as aforesaid the case shall be advanced for 16 speedy trial. If the defendant does not appear at said hearing or file 17 at or before the time set for hearing an affidavit setting forth specifically 18 and clearly the substantive facts upon which he relies as a defence, the 19 court may enter judgment by default.

Claim of Trial by Jury.

1 *SECTION 60. A separate list of cases to be tried by jury shall be kept
2 in the supreme judicial and superior courts, and no action shall be en-
3 tered thereon, except as otherwise expressly provided, unless a party, 4 before issue joined, or within ten days after the time allowed for filing the 5 answer or plea, or within ten days after the answer or plea has by consent
6 of the plaintiff or permission of the court been filed, or within such time
7 after the parties are at issue as the court may by general or special order 8 direct, files a notice that he desires a jury trial; but in a case in which 9 damages are demanded, the court may of its own motion refer the assess-10 ment thereof to a jury.

Providing for Prompt Informal Trials in the Superior Court.

1 *SECTION 60A. In any action at law or suit in equity after issue
2 joined in the superior court, any party to the proceeding may, by a writ-
3 ing filed in the clerk's office, offer to waive any or all of the following:—
4 (1) A trial by jury if it has been claimed.
5 (2) The right to file interrogatories except as allowed by the court.
6 (3) The rules of evidence to the end that any evidence may be received 7 which the court considers probative.
8 (4) The right to appeal from, or take exceptions to, any ruling, order, 9 judgment or decree except on a question of substantive law.

Same subject. 1922, 590, § 1.

Motion for immediate entry of judgment. 1929, 172, § 1.

Jurisdiction. 1929, 173, § 1.
A written notice of such offer with a copy thereof shall be served by mail, with return receipt requested, upon the other party or his attorney not less than ten days before the trial of the action or suit. If such offer is not rejected by a writing filed in the clerk's office within ten days after such notice or within such further time as the court may allow, such offer shall be deemed to have been accepted and the matters in controversy shall be tried and determined in accordance therewith; and such action or suit shall be advanced for speedy trial.

Interrogatories.

* * * "SECTION 61. Any party, after the entry of a writ or the filing of a bill or petition, may interrogate an adverse party for the discovery of facts and documents admissible in evidence at the trial of the case. No party shall file as of right more than thirty interrogatories, including interrogatories subsidiary or incidental to, or dependent upon, other interrogatories, and however the same may be grouped, combined or arranged; but for adequate cause shown, the court may allow additional interrogatories to be filed. The word "party", in this section, in sections sixty-two to sixty-five, inclusive, and in section sixty-seven, shall be deemed to include parties intervening or otherwise admitted after the beginning of the suit."

Answers.

* * * "SECTION 62. The answers shall be in writing, on oath, and signed by the party interrogated, who shall, before making answer, make such inquiry of his agents, servants and attorneys as will enable him to make full and true answers to the interrogatories."

Same subject. Practice.

* * * "SECTION 63. Interrogatories shall be filed in the clerk's office, and notice of such filing, with a copy of the interrogatories, shall be sent by the party interrogating to the party interrogated, or to his attorney of record, and the party interrogated shall file answers to such interrogatories within ten days after such notice, unless the court otherwise orders; but no party interrogated shall be obliged to answer a question or produce a document tending to criminate him or to disclose his title to any property the title whereof is not material to an issue in the proceeding in the course of which he is interrogated, nor to disclose the names of witnesses except that the court may compel the party interrogated to disclose the names of witnesses and their addresses if justice seems to require it, upon such terms and conditions as the court deems expedient. A party shall not interrogate an adverse party more than once unless the court otherwise orders."

1 * ¶ § || Section 65. If a corporation is a party, the adverse party may examine the president, treasurer, clerk or a director, manager or superintendent, or other officer thereof, as if he were a party. If a municipal corporation is a party, the mayor or the chairman of the board of selectmen may be examined as if he were a party, except that no city or town official shall be interrogated concerning matters of public record.

1 If a minor or person under guardianship is a party, the adverse party may examine as if said party were not a minor or under guardianship; provided, that if the minor be not of such age as to appreciate an oath, or the person under guardianship be mentally incompetent to answer, the person appearing in the suit as the guardian, guardian ad litem or next friend of such party shall make answer.

before trial may strike out of such demand or any answer filed in response thereto any matter which is irrelevant, immaterial or improperly included therein. If no answer is filed in the clerk's office within ten days after the filing thereof of said demand or within such further time as the court may on motion, allow, the truth of the fact or facts or the execution of the paper or document shall, for the purposes of the case, be held to be admitted. Such demand, in so far as it relates to a material fact or document, and any answer filed in response thereto shall, if offered by the party who filed such demand, be admitted in evidence. If the party upon whom such demand is made refuses to admit any fact or the execution of any paper or document mentioned in the demand, the reasonable expense of proving such fact or the execution of such paper or document, as determined after summary hearing by the justice presiding at the trial, shall, unless the justice certifies that the refusal to admit was reasonable, be paid by said party to the other party and the amount thereof shall be added to the taxable costs of the party in whose favor such amount is awarded or deducted from the amount of any judgment or decree against him.

* Section 70. The court may in all cases order either party to file a statement of all particulars necessary to give to the adverse party and to the court reasonable knowledge of the nature and grounds of the action or defence.

* Section 72. Parties may make agreements relative to amendments and the time of filing papers, which shall be equivalent to an order of the court to the same effect. Any order mentioned in the preceding section may be entered by consent signed by the parties or their attorneys; but no agreement of attorneys relative to an action or proceeding shall be valid unless in writing, except as provided in section seventy-eight.

Offer of Judgment.

1 * § Section 74. If the defendant in an action at law or a suit in equity, wherein damages only are sought to be recovered, offers in court and by a writing consents to be defaulted, and to have judgment rendered against him as damages for an amount therein specified, the writing and the time of its filing shall be entered of record; and if the plaintiff within ten days, or such further time as the court allows, after receipt of notice thereof, accepts such offer, the court shall render judgment accordingly, and without costs to the date of the notice.

1 * § Section 75. If the plaintiff does not elect to accept such offer, and does not recover as damages an amount, excluding interest from the date of the offer, larger than the amount so offered by the defendant, the plaintiff shall have judgment for his costs only to the date of the offer, and the defendant shall have judgment for his costs after said date.

Frivolous Demurrer.

1 † Section 76. If a demurrer is overruled because it appears to the justice hearing it to be frivolous, immaterial or intended for delay, the case shall proceed to judgment as if no demurrer had been filed, and execution may be awarded or stayed upon terms. If execution is not awarded, any security taken shall stand as if no judgment had been entered until an order is made for final judgment.

Hearing or Trial.

1 † Section 77. Actions in which neither party has filed notice that he desires a jury trial shall, unless otherwise expressly provided, be heard and determined by the court. Demurrers may in the first instance be heard by one justice.

1 † Section 78. If the parties to an action upon the trial list at a sitting of the superior court file an agreement that such action shall be marked for trial on such day next after the cases, if any, which were on the list for the preceding court day; but, if it is in order for trial and is reached thereon it may be temporarily stricken from the list, and may be restored thereto on such day as the parties shall, by a writing filed with the clerk, agree, or after three days' written notice given by either party to the other.

P. S. 167, §§ 71, 72.

*† Section 79. A trial shall not be delayed for want of a reply to the defendant's answer, nor because interrogatories have been filed and the time for answering them has not expired, unless by special order of the court; nor shall an agreement of parties relative to filing amendments or papers operate to postpone the trial of an action beyond the time at which, by the rules of the court, it would be tried.
R. L. 173, § 78.

† Section 80. The trial of questions of fact shall proceed although exceptions have been filed and allowed therein, and such further proceedings shall be had as the court orders; but judgment shall not be entered unless the exceptions are adjudged immaterial, frivolous or intended for delay, or except as hereinafter provided.

† §|| Section 81. The courts shall not charge juries with respect to matters of fact, but they may state the testimony and the law.

‡|| Section 83. During the trial of a case in which an official stenographer takes stenographic notes of the evidence, no other person shall interrupt the examination of witnesses for the purpose of taking notes of their testimony.

Section 82. In counties containing two or more shire towns, the supreme judicial or the superior court, at the sitting held on or next after the return day on which an action is entered, may designate the shire town where it shall be tried, and it shall not then be put on the trial list for sittings held in any other shire town of that county except by agreement of the parties.

Section 84. If two or more actions for substantially the same libel, brought by the same plaintiff, are pending in the same court, either in the same or in different counties, any justice thereof may in his discretion make an order that some or all of them be tried together. A separate verdict, or, if the action is tried without a jury, a separate finding, shall be rendered in each action, and judgment shall be rendered in each as if it had been tried separately. If the plaintiff recovers judgment in two or more actions, the court shall make an order for the apportionment of costs between the defendants.

Evidence.

* Section 85. In all actions, civil or criminal, to recover damages for injuries to the person or property or for causing the death of a person, the person injured or killed shall be presumed to have been in

Contributory negligence an affirmative defence; presumption 4 the exercise of due care, and contributory negligence on his part shall 5 be an affirmative defence to be set up in the answer and proved by the 6 defendant.

1805, 107, § 2.
R. S. 100, § 18.
1801, 238, § 112.

* § 90. If a defendant answers two or more matters in his defence, no averment, confession or acknowledgment contained in one of them shall be used or taken as evidence against him on the trial of an issue joined on any other of them.

1897, 523, § 1.
R. L. 173, § 92.

193 Mass. 538.

* § 93. If, in an action for libel, the defendant, before the answer is required to be filed therein, gives written notice to the plaintiff or to his attorney of his intention to publish a retraction of the libel, accompanied by a copy of the retraction which he intends to publish, he may prove such publication in mitigation of damages. If, upon such notice, the plaintiff does not accept the offer of retraction, the defendant may prove in mitigation of damages his offer to publish such retraction and that the offer was not accepted, and that the alleged libel was published in good faith and without actual malice; and unless the plaintiff proves actual malice or want of good faith, or a failure either to retract or offer to retract as aforesaid, he shall recover damages only for the actual injury sustained; but in no action of libel shall exemplary or punitive damages be allowed.

Evidence in mitigation of damages.
1897, 529, § 2.
1901, 322.
R. L. 173, § 93.

* § 94. In an action for libel, the defendant may allege and prove in mitigation of damages that the plaintiff has already recovered damages for, or has received or has agreed to receive compensation in respect of, substantially the same libel as that for which such action was brought. In an action for libel or slander, he may introduce in evidence, in mitigation of damages and in rebuttal of evidence of actual malice, acts of the plaintiff which create a reasonable suspicion that the matters charged against him by the defendant are true.

160 Mass. 79.

* § 95. In an action upon a judgment obtained by default and without the knowledge of the defendant, brought within six years after the rendition thereof, the court may, in its discretion and upon terms, allow the defendant to show in defence any payment, satisfaction or extinguishment of the claim, prior to the obtaining of such judgment, or any matter of fraud, which in either case he might have shown upon a writ of review in the original suit.
Appeals.

1 § Section 96. A party aggrieved by any order of the superior court 2 sustaining or overruling a demurrer which alleges that the facts stated in 3 the pleadings demurred to do not in law support or answer the action, or 4 a party aggrieved by an order for judgment upon a case stated, or by any 5 order decisive of the case founded upon matter of law apparent on the 6 record in any proceeding, may appeal therefrom to the supreme judicial 7 court; but no appeal or exception shall be entered in the supreme judicial 8 court until the case is in all other respects ripe for final disposition by the 9 superior court. An issue of law joined in the supreme court shall not be 10 waived by consent of parties after such appeal has been entered in the 11 supreme judicial court, but that court may, for good cause, allow the 12 parties to withdraw or amend their pleadings, and, if they result in an 13 issue of fact, the case shall be remanded to the superior court for trial. 14 An appeal from an order of the superior court shall be claimed within 15 twenty days after it is made, and, except as otherwise herein provided, 16 no judgment shall be entered while an appeal is pending. If exceptions 17 are taken upon the trial of an action, any appeal taken in the case shall be 18 entered at the same time with such exceptions in the supreme judicial 19 court, and a party failing so to enter his appeal shall be deemed to have 20 waived it. If an appeal is groundless and intended merely for delay, the 21 court, on motion and after such notice as its rules require, and upon such 22 terms, if any, as it deems reasonable, may order judgment to be entered 23 notwithstanding the appeal, and at the same time may award or stay 24 execution. If execution is not awarded, any attached property or other 25 security taken shall stand as if no judgment had been entered, until final 26 disposition is made of the case.

except as provided in section ninety-nine, unless the appellant, within six days after the entry of judgment, or within such further time as the justice or clerk for cause shown allows, files a bond executed by him or by his attorney of record on his behalf, payable to the appellee in such reasonable sum and with such surety or sureties as may be approved by the appellee or by the justice or clerk, conditioned to enter and prosecute his appeal with effect, and to satisfy any judgment for costs which may be entered against him in the superior court upon said appeal within thirty days after the entry thereof.

*SECTION 99. The appellant or any person in his behalf, instead of filing a bond as provided in the preceding section, may deposit with the clerk, within the time required for filing a bond, a reasonable amount, to be fixed by the clerk or justice, as security for the prosecution of the appeal and the payment of costs. A certificate of such deposit shall be issued to the depositor by the clerk or justice, and the deposit shall be transmitted by him with the papers to the clerk of the superior court, who shall thereupon deliver a receipt therefor to such clerk or justice and shall hold such deposit until the final disposition of the case, when he shall pay it, or any part thereof, to the appellee for his costs, or to the depositor thereof, as the court may order. The superior court may give directions as to the manner of keeping such deposit.

SECTION 100. [REPEALED, 1931, 426, § 111.]

*SECTION 101. When an appeal is taken from a judgment of a district court, the clerk shall transmit to the clerk of the superior court the original writ or process, all papers filed in the case, all bonds, and a brief certificate of the proceedings, which shall be there entered by the appellant.

*SECTION 102. When such appeal is taken, the names of all the parties thereto, the nature of the action or proceeding, the doings of the court thereon, the final disposition thereof and the amount of costs taxed shall be entered on the docket; and no other record thereof shall be required.

*SECTION 103. If a party elects to bring in any district court any action or other civil proceeding which he might have brought in the superior court, he shall be deemed to have waived a trial by jury and his right of appeal to the superior court, unless the said action or other civil proceeding is removed to the superior court as hereinafter provided, in which case the plaintiff shall have the same right to claim a jury trial as if the action or proceeding had been originally brought in the superior court; provided, that if a declaration in set-off is filed in such action, the plaintiff may of right remove the cause and claim a jury trial in the manner and upon the terms set out in the following section, within the time allowed him for filing an answer to such declaration in set-off. This and the seven following sections shall not apply to actions under chapter two hundred and thirty-nine.
1 *Section 104. No other party to such action shall be entitled to an appeal. In lieu thereof, in case such action is an action of contract, tort or replevin in which the debt or damages demanded or the value of the property detained exceeds the jurisdictional limit of said district court immediately prior to September first, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, any such other party may, within two days after the time allowed for entering his appearance, file in said court a claim of trial by the superior court, with or without jury, and an affidavit by his counsel of record, if any, and if none, the affidavit of such party, that in his opinion there is an issue of fact or law requiring trial in the cause, and that such trial is in good faith intended, together with the sum of three dollars for the entry of the cause in the superior court, and a bond in the penal sum of one hundred dollars, with such surety or sureties as may be approved by the plaintiff or the clerk or an assistant clerk of said district court, payable to the other party or parties to the cause, conditioned to satisfy any judgment for costs which may be entered against him in the superior court in said cause within thirty days after the entry thereof; and, in lieu of such an appeal in case such action is not an action of contract, tort or replevin as aforesaid, any such other party may, within two days after the time allowed for entering his appearance, file in said court a claim of trial by jury, and an affidavit by his counsel of record, if any, and if none, the affidavit of such party, that in his opinion there is an issue of fact requiring trial in the cause, and that such trial is in good faith intended, together with the sum of three dollars for the entry of the cause in the superior court, and a bond as hereinafter provided.
26 The clerk shall forthwith transmit the papers and entry fee in the cause to the clerk of the superior court, and the same shall proceed as though then originally entered there, but, if a trial by jury is claimed, may be marked for trial upon the lists of causes advanced for speedy trial by jury.

1 *Section 105. In any action brought by or against two or more persons in which separate judgments are authorized by section two or four and in which the debt demanded does not exceed the jurisdictional limit of said district court in effect immediately prior to September first, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, the party seeking removal may specify in his claim of jury trial the parties as to whom such trial is claimed, in which case the cause shall be removed as to such parties only as are specified in such claim, and said district court shall retain jurisdiction as to the remainder. In such case the clerk shall transmit attested copies of the papers in the cause to the clerk of the superior court, in lieu of the originals.

1 *Section 106. Any party, in lieu of filing the bond required in section one hundred and four, may deposit with the clerk the sum of one hundred dollars. A certificate of such deposit shall be issued to the depos-itor by the clerk, and the deposit shall be transmitted by him, with the papers, to the clerk of the superior court, who shall receipt therefor and hold said deposit until the final disposition of the case, when he shall apply the same to the satisfaction of any costs awarded against the depositor, and pay the balance, if any, to the depositor or his legal representatives.

1 *Section 107. No bond or deposit under section one hundred and four or one hundred and six shall be required of a county, city, town or other municipal corporation or by a party who has given bond according to law to dissolve an attachment; and the court may in any case, for cause shown, after notice to adverse parties, order that no bond be given. Said district court may, upon cause shown and after notice to all adverse parties, permit such removal to the superior court, upon the terms above specified, at any time prior to final judgment.

*SECTION 108. There shall be an appellate division of each district court for the rehearing of matters of law arising in civil causes therein.
Said division of the municipal court of the city of Boston shall consist of three justices thereof, to be designated from time to time by the chief justice thereof. The appellate division of each other district court shall be holden by justices of such other district courts, not exceeding three in number out of five justices assigned to the performance of such duty by the chief justice of the supreme judicial court, as follows: —Such last mentioned chief justice shall assign five justices of district courts within the counties of Essex and Middlesex and that part of Suffolk included in the jurisdiction of the East Boston district court, the district court of Chelsea, the municipal court of the Charlestown district, the municipal court of the Brighton district, the municipal court of the Dorchester district, the municipal court of the Roxbury district, and the municipal court of the South Boston district, to act in the appellate divisions of such district courts within those counties and that part of Suffolk county, which shall be known as the northern appellate division district; shall assign five justices of district courts within the counties of Norfolk, Plymouth, Barnstable, Bristol, Dukes and Nantucket and that part of Suffolk included in the jurisdiction of the municipal court of the West Roxbury district, to act in the appellate divisions of such district courts within those counties and that part of Suffolk county, which shall be known as the southern appellate division district; and shall assign five justices of district courts within the counties of Worcester, Franklin, Hampshire, Hampden and Berkshire to act in the appellate divisions of district courts within those counties, which shall be known as the western appellate division district. Such assignment may be made for such period of time as such chief justice may deem advisable. In each of the foregoing three districts one of the justices so assigned shall be designated by the chief justice of the supreme judicial court as presiding justice, who shall from time to time designate those of the appellate justices who shall act on appeals in each district court in that district and direct the times and places of sittings. Two justices shall constitute a quorum to decide all matters in an appellate division.

A justice acting in the appellate division of a district court other than the court of which he is a justice shall be allowed in addition to his compensation as such justice the sum of fifteen dollars for each day he so acts, and his necessary traveling expenses, incidental expenses and necessary clerical assistance while so acting, to be paid by the county in which he so acts, upon his certificate approved by the county commissioners; provided, that the total sum expended for such incidental expenses and clerical assistance shall not exceed in any year the sum of fifteen hundred dollars in the northern appellate division district or the sum of seven hundred and fifty dollars in either of the other two appellate division districts; and no deduction shall be made from the compensation of such justice under section six of chapter two hundred and eighteen on account of compensation paid to a special justice of his court for service at any session which such justice is unable to hold by reason of so acting.
4

Any party to a cause brought in the municipal court of the city of Boston after August thirty-first, nineteen hundred and twelve, or in any other district court after September thirtieth, nineteen hundred and twenty-two, aggrieved by any ruling on a matter of law by a single justice, may, as of right, have the ruling reported for determination by the appellate division when the cause is otherwise ripe for judgment, or sooner by consent of the justice hearing the same. The request for such a report shall be filed with the clerk, in the municipal court of the city of Boston, within two days after notice of the ruling, and, in any other district court, within five days after such notice, and when the objection is to the admission or exclusion of evidence, the claim for a report shall also be made known at the time of the ruling. The justice whose ruling is complained of shall not sit upon the review thereof. If the appellate division shall decide that there has been prejudicial error in the ruling complained of, it may reverse, vacate or modify the same or order a new trial in whole or part; otherwise it shall dismiss the report, and may impose double costs in the action if it finds the objection to such ruling to be frivolous or intended for delay. If the party claiming such report shall not duly prosecute the same, by preparing the necessary papers or otherwise, the appellate division may order the cause to proceed as though no such claim had been made, and may in like manner impose costs. A single justice may, after decision thereon, report for determination by the appellate division any case in which there is an agreed statement of facts or a finding of the facts or any other case involving questions of law only. If a single justice is of opinion that an interlocutory finding or order made by him ought to be reviewed by the appellate division before any further proceedings in the trial court, he may report the case for that purpose and stay all further proceedings except such as are necessary to preserve the rights of the parties. The municipal court of the city of Boston shall make rules regulating the procedure and sittings of the appellate division of said court, for the preparation and submission of reports and the allowance of reports which a single justice shall disallow as not conformable to the facts, or shall fail to allow by reason of physical or mental disability, death or resignation, for the reporting of cases reserved for report when a single justice shall fail to report the same by reason of physical or mental disability, death or resignation, and for the granting of new trials.

* Section 109. An appeal to the supreme judicial court shall lie from the final decision of the appellate division of any district court. Appeals taken hereunder from the appellate division of the municipal court of the city of Boston shall be heard by the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth, and such appeals from the appellate division of any other district court shall be heard at the same sittings as other questions of law arising in the county in which the judicial district of such district court lies. Claims of appeal shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court within five days after notice of the decision of the appellate division.
The appeal shall not remove the cause, but only the question or questions to be determined. The completion of such appeal shall be in accordance with section one hundred and thirty-five. The expense of the preparation of the necessary papers and copies of papers and their transmission, and the entry fee in the supreme judicial court, shall be taxed in the bill of Report.

†|| Section 111. A justice of the supreme judicial, the superior or the land court, after verdict, or after a finding of the facts by the court, may report the case for determination by the full court. If a justice of the supreme judicial or the superior court is of opinion that an interlocutory finding or order made by him ought to be determined by the full court before any further proceedings in the trial court, he may report the case for that purpose and stay all further proceedings except such as are necessary to preserve the rights of the parties. A justice of the supreme judicial or the superior court may, upon request of the parties, in any case where there is agreement as to all the material facts, report the case to the full court for determination without making any decision thereon.

†§ || Section 112. If a justice presiding at a trial has reserved a case for report to the supreme judicial court, and fails, by reason of physical or mental disability, death or resignation, to make such report, any other justice of the same court may examine and report the same.

Exceptions.

†§ || Section 113. Exceptions may be alleged by any party ag- grieved by an opinion, ruling, direction or judgment of the supreme judicial court, of the superior court, or of the land court, rendered upon
4 any matter of law in any civil cause, according to the course of the 5 common law or otherwise, tried by a jury or heard by the court, or 6 upon a motion for a new trial. The exceptions shall be reduced to 7 writing in a summary manner and filed with the clerk, and notice thereof 8 shall be given to the adverse party in civil cases tried by a jury, within 9 twenty days after the verdict is rendered, and in cases tried without a 10 jury, within twenty days after the notice of the decision has been re-11 ceived, unless further time is allowed by the court. The presiding justice 12 shall thereafter, upon their presentation to him by any party to the 13 action, examine the exceptions, and after hearing the parties, determine 14 whether they are conformable to the truth. The excepting party may 15 be allowed to make such amendments to his bill of exceptions as will make 16 it a more accurate statement of the exceptions originally filed by him.
17 If the presiding justice finds that the exceptions, with any amendments 18 thereof thus allowed, are conformable to the truth, he shall allow them.

Entry of notice of filing of petition to establish exceptions.

1806, 516.
246 Mass. 482.

§ 118. Whenever a petition under the preceding section is filed, the clerk of the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth shall, within three days after the filing of the petition, send notice thereof to the clerk of the court in which the exceptions were filed, who shall thereupon enter in the case on the docket of that court notice of the filing of such petition in the supreme judicial court.

§ 119. If in any civil action tried before a jury in the supreme judicial or the superior court a bill of exceptions duly filed is not allowed by the presiding justice within three months after the date of the verdict therein, because the same is not found by him to be conformable to the truth, or is not found to state the facts and evidence in the case correctly and fully, the presiding justice may in his discretion reserve the ease and send to the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth the whole record of the case, including the pleadings and the evidence taken by the official stenographer and written out from his notes, and certified by him to have been so taken and written out; or so much of said record as is material to the issue. Said record shall be accompanied by the certificate of the presiding justice that the same is a true copy of the record and proceedings in said case, or of the part thereof transmitted, and shall be entered in the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth; and thereupon said record so made and certified shall stand in lieu of a bill of exceptions in all respects, and the questions raised by the exceptions in said cause shall be heard and determined by the full court on such record. In case of the disability of 19 or death of the presiding justice, any justice of the same court may 20 exercise the powers herein conferred. The expense of transcribing the 21 stenographer's notes and of copying exhibits shall be borne by the 22 excepting party, and if he prevails the same shall be taxed in his costs.
23 All provisions of law relating to bills of exceptions, so far as they may 24 be applicable, shall apply to proceedings under this section.

1 1 § | Section 120. When exceptions to any ruling or direction of a 2 judge are alleged, or any question of law reserved, in the course of a trial
3 by jury, and the circumstances are such that, if the ruling or direction
4 at the trial was wrong, the verdict or finding ought to have been entered 5 for a different party or for larger or smaller damages or otherwise than as 6 was done at the trial, the justice may reserve leave, with the assent of 7 the jury, so to enter the verdict or finding, if upon the questions of law 8 so raised the court shall decide that it ought to have been so entered. The 9 leave reserved, as well as the findings of the jury upon any particular 10 questions of fact submitted to them, shall be entered in the record of the 11 proceedings, and if upon the questions of law it shall be decided, either 12 by the same court or by the appellate court, that the verdict or finding 13 ought to have been entered in accordance with the leave reserved, it shall 14 be entered accordingly, unless the supreme judicial court, in accordance 15 with section one hundred and twenty-two, one hundred and twenty-16 three or one hundred and twenty-four, makes a different order. When 17 so entered, the verdict shall have the same effect as if it had been entered 18 at the trial.

1 1 § | Section 121. The presiding justice may order the appellant
2 or the excepting party in civil cases to provide him with a transcript of 3 the evidence and of the instructions to the jury, or such portion thereof 4 as he shall designate, written out by the official stenographer from his 5 notes, within such time, not less than ten days after the date of the order,
6 as the presiding justice designates.

Power of Full Court on Exceptions, Appeal or Report.

1 1 § | Section 122. When the justice presiding at a trial is requested
2 to rule that upon all the evidence the plaintiff cannot recover, and such 3 request is refused, and exception by the defendant to such refusal is duly 4 taken, and a finding or verdict returned for the plaintiff, then if the de-5 fendant's said exception is sustained in the supreme judicial court, and 6 exceptions, if any, taken in said trial by the plaintiff are all overruled, 7 the supreme judicial court may, by rescript, direct the entry in the trial
8 court of judgment for the defendant, and thereupon judgment shall so 9 be entered.

should be returned for the plaintiff, and such request is refused, and an exception to such refusal is duly taken, and a finding or verdict is returned for the defendant, then if the plaintiff's said exception is sustained in the supreme judicial court, and the exceptions, if any, taken in said trial by the defendant are all overruled, the supreme judicial court may, by rescript, direct the entry in the trial court of judgment for the plaintiff, and thereupon judgment shall so be entered.

* § || Section 124. Whenever a question in dispute at the trial of an issue of fact in any civil action or proceeding depends upon the decision of a question of law, the full bench of the supreme judicial court, upon appeal, exceptions or report or otherwise, may, if satisfied that it has before it all the facts necessary for determining the question in dispute, direct that such judgment or decree be entered or that such other action be taken as shall accord with the determination of the full court; or, if the full court shall be of the opinion that it has not before it sufficient facts to determine said question, it may direct such issues or questions as it shall think proper to be tried before a jury if the case be a jury case, or otherwise before a judge, and may direct in the alternative the action to be taken upon the verdict or finding. When such question of law shall arise in a trial, the judge shall, by leaving appropriate questions to the jury, or by his own findings where the trial is without a jury, ascertain so far as is practicable all the facts both as to liability and damages necessary on any theory of the law to enable the court to make the proper final disposition of the case, unless in the opinion of the court such a course is inexpedient under the circumstances of the case.

When special questions are submitted to a jury, the judge may or may not take a general verdict, and may report the case on the answers of the jury, or make such other order thereon as he deems proper. A judge reporting to the full court for its determination a question as to the correctness of any rulings of law made by him at a trial, or on a motion for a new trial, may make in any proper case a provision in the report that, if his rulings were correct, a judgment or decree shall be entered for the party in whose favor the rulings were made, and that, if his rulings were wrong, the judgment or decree shall be entered in accordance with such rulings as he ought to have made.

* § || Section 125. The supreme judicial court, upon any appeal, bill of exceptions, report, or other proceeding in the nature of an appeal in any civil action, suit or proceeding, shall have all the powers of amendment of the court below; and whenever exceptions have been taken to the exclusion of evidence, or where the alleged error arises from the omission at the trial of some fact which, under the circumstances of the case, may subsequently be proved without involving any question for a jury, and without substantial injustice to either party, the supreme judicial court shall have full discretionary authority to cause such further testimony to be taken as it deems necessary, either by oral examination in court, or by affidavit or by deposition, and the court shall have power to render any judgment and to make any order that ought to have been made upon the whole case.
1 * § | Section 126. Upon a case stated by agreement of the parties
2 for the decision of the court in any action, suit or proceeding, any court
3 before which such case shall come, either in the first instance or upon
4 appeal, exceptions, report or other proceedings in the nature of an appeal 5 shall be at liberty to draw from the facts and documents stated in the 6 case any inferences of fact that might have been drawn therefrom at a 7 trial, unless the parties expressly agree that no inferences shall be drawn.
8 9 New Trials.
10 1 § | Section 127. The court may, at any time before judgment
11 set aside the verdict in a civil action and order a new trial for any 12 cause for which a new trial may by law be granted; but a verdict shall 13 not be set aside except on written motion by a party to the cause, stating 14 the reasons relied upon in its support, and heard after notice to the 15 adverse party according to the rules of the court. A verdict shall not be 16 set aside as excessive until the prevailing party has first been given an 17 opportunity to remit so much thereof as the court adjudges is excessive.

18

19 * § | Section 128. Whenever a verdict is set aside and a new trial
20 granted under the preceding section, the justice granting the motion
21 for the new trial shall file a statement setting forth fully the grounds 22 upon which the motion is granted, which statement shall be a part of 23 the record of the case. If it appears from the statement that the sole 24 ground for granting the motion was that the damages awarded were 25 either inadequate or excessive, then the new trial shall be limited to 26 the question of the amount of damages.

27
28

29 * § | Section 129. A new trial may be granted, upon motion, for 30 a mistake of law or for newly discovered evidence in a case heard by the 31 court. When a decision has been rendered in such a case, the clerk 32 shall notify the parties, and a motion for a new trial may be filed within 33 three days after receipt of such notice or within such further time as the 34 court allows.

35

37 * § | Section 130. If a new trial is refused, the court may impose 38 terms upon the moving party, to be taxed as costs.

Effect of Error not Affecting Whole Case.

*‡ $|| Section 132. No new trial shall be granted in any civil action or proceeding on the ground of improper admission or rejection of evidence, or for any error as to any matter of pleading or procedure, if the judge who presided at the trial when application is made by motion for a new trial, or the supreme judicial court when application is made by exceptions or otherwise, deems that the error complained of has not injuriously affected the substantial rights of the parties; and, if it appears to such court that said error affects part only of the matter in controversy or some or one only of the parties, the court may direct final judgment as to part thereof, or some or one only of the parties, and may direct a new trial as to the other part only as or to the other parties.

† § || Section 133. If, at law, in equity or in probate proceedings, an appellant or an excepting party, or, in a case reported after a verdict, finding or decision, the party at whose request it is reported, or, in a case reported without decision under section one hundred and eleven, the plaintiff neglects to enter the appeal, exceptions or report in the supreme judicial court or to take the necessary measures by ordering proper copies to be prepared or otherwise for the hearing of the case, or if an appellant or an excepting party neglects to provide a transcript of the evidence or of the instructions to the jury within the time ordered by the justice under section one hundred and twenty-one, the court in which the appeal was taken or by which the exceptions were allowed or the case reported may, upon the application of the adverse party and after notice to all parties interested, order the appeal dismissed, the exceptions overruled or the report discharged, and thereupon, in the case of appeal or exceptions, the decision, ruling, order or decree appealed from, or excepted to, shall be in full force and effect. Whenever after the entry in the supreme judicial, superior or probate court of a decree after rescript from the full bench of the supreme judicial court in a suit in equity or in probate proceedings, an appeal is claimed from the decree, the justice by whom or by whose order the decree was entered may inquire into any reasons assigned for the appeal, and if he deems that the decree conforms to the terms of the rescript and the appeal is claimed merely for the purpose of delay, he may order the appeal dismissed, and such proceedings may forthwith be had and such processes may forthwith issue as are necessary to carry out the provisions of the decree. And if a further appeal is claimed from an order so dismissing an appeal it shall not operate to suspend or supersede the carrying into effect of the terms of the decree, and the full bench of the supreme judicial court may order such dismissal of appeal affirmed and the imposition of reasonable terms and double costs to the appellee.

Waiver of Appeal or Exceptions.

1. no appeal shall be waived except by leave of court after notice to the adverse party.

Transmission of Papers.

1. § 135. In all cases to be brought before the full court of the supreme judicial court,

2. court when held by a single justice, the superior court, the land court,

3. the probate court, the appellate division of any district court, the clerk,

4. recorder, register or other appropriate official of the court below, at the expense of the appellant or excepting party, or, upon a case reserved or reported, at the expense of the plaintiff or of the party at whose request it is reserved or reported, shall prepare and transmit to the supreme court for the commonwealth, or for the proper county, one copy of every paper on file in the case necessary to a full presentation of all questions of law intended to be raised before the full court, except papers used in evidence only, and of all papers made part of the case by reference in the record, for the use of the chief justice, and a like copy for the clerk of the supreme judicial court which shall be kept on file in said court;

5. five typewritten copies of any opinion or statement of reasons for decision filed by the court below, for the use of the full court; one copy of the record of the court below which transmits the questions of law, for the use of each associate justice, each party and the reporter of decisions. In

6. appeals from the appellate division of the municipal court of the city of Boston under section one hundred and nine, the court may order the expense of the necessary papers to be borne by some party other than the appealing party, or may in its discretion provide the required type-written copies of the opinion or statement aforesaid without charge.

7. Original papers used in the trial in the court below which are needed before the full court of the supreme judicial court shall be transmitted to its clerk to be kept on file by him until the rescript in such case is sent. The expense of such copies and transmission shall be taxed in the bill of costs of the prevailing party, if he has paid it.

8. In order to carry any question of law from the supreme judicial court when held by a single justice or from any other court to the full court of the supreme judicial court upon appeal, exception, reservation, report or otherwise as authorized by law, the party having the obligation to cause the necessary papers hereinbefore specified to be prepared shall give to the clerk, recorder, register or other appropriate official of the court in which the case is pending, within ten days after the case becomes ripe for final preparation and printing of the record for the full court, an order in writing for the preparation of such papers and copies of papers for transmission to the full court of the supreme judicial court. As soon as may be after receiving such written order, the clerk or other official shall make an estimate of the expense of the preparation and transmission of the necessary papers and copies of papers aforesaid and shall give such party notice in writing of the amount of such estimate. Such party, within twenty days after the date of such notice from the clerk or other official, shall pay to him the amount of such estimate and such further amount beyond such estimate as the clerk or other official may find to be then due for such preparation. The clerk or other official then without delay shall prepare the papers and copies of papers aforesaid for transmission and when they are ready shall give notice in writing of such fact to the party ordering them, who, within five days after the date of such notice, shall pay to the clerk or other official any balance then due therefor and shall enter the case in the supreme judicial court for the commonwealth, or for the proper county. The court in which the case is pending, or any justice or judge thereof, may, for cause shown after hearing, extend the Arrêt of Judgment.

*† Section 136. A judgment shall not be arrested for a cause existing before the verdict or finding, unless such cause affects the jurisdiction of the court. After the defendant has appeared and answered to the merits of the action, no defect in the writ or other process by which he has been brought before the court, or in the service thereof, shall be considered to affect the jurisdiction of the court.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

*† § 137. The court may allow suggestions as to changes occurring in an action after its commencement to be entered on the record in such form as it approves.

is a party.

*† § 139. If a corporation is a party to an action or proceeding referred to in this chapter, all precepts, answers, replications or other papers requiring the signature or oath of the party may be signed or sworn to in behalf of the corporation by an officer or agent thereunto specially authorized.
1 *Section 140. No action at law shall be discontinued, nor shall the 2 plaintiff in any such action become nonsuit after the action shall have 3 been referred to an auditor and hearings before such auditor have been 4 begun, except with the written consent of the defendant or in the dis-
5 cernion of the court.

(f) Board, or Board and Lodging. — Board (and lodging) furnished by the plaintiff for the defendant.

111 Mass. 390.

(g) Carriage of Goods. — The carriage of certain goods by the plaintiff for the defendant.

(h) Warehouse Room. — Warehouse room furnished by the plaintiff for the storage of certain goods for the defendant.

(i) Hire of Personal Property. — The use of a certain horse and carriage hired of the plaintiff by the defendant.

(j) Instalment computed. — The balance found due to the plaintiff by the parties on accounting together.

170 Mass. 422.

(k) Use and Occupation. — The use and occupation of a certain tenement hired of the plaintiff by the defendant.

(l) Rent under a Sealed Instrument. — The rent of a certain (house, or building, or land) held by the defendant of the plaintiff.

1915, 146, § 2.

BILL OF PARTICULARS.

(1) Rent of house No. , for one month, due 1st July, 19 , under an indenture of lease dated 1st January, 19 , $ .

(2) Interest on same from , $ .

Instruction: Interest is declared on by adding or inserting the words "and interest." An item of interest is also included in the bill of particulars.

2. ACCOUNT ANNEXED.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant owes him dollars, according to the account here-to annexed.
3. PROMISSORY NOTES.

(a) Payee against Maker. — And the plaintiff says that the defendant made a promissory note payable to the plaintiff or order, a copy whereof is hereto annexed, and the defendant owes the plaintiff the amount thereof, and interest.

(b) Bearer of Note payable to Bearer against Maker. — And the plaintiff says that the defendant made a promissory note, a copy whereof is hereto annexed payable to G H or bearer, and the plaintiff is the bearer of the said note, and the defendant owes him the amount thereof, and interest.

Instruction: If payments are endorsed on the note, the declaration may be varied as follows: "a copy whereof, with the endorsements thereon, is hereto annexed, and the defendant owes the plaintiff the balance thereof, and interest". If payments have been made which are not endorsed on the note, the allegation should be varied accordingly.

(c) Endorsee against Endorser. — And the plaintiff says that C D made a promissory note, a copy whereof with the endorsements thereon is hereto annexed, payable to the defendant or order, and the defendant endorsed the same to the plaintiff, and payment of the said note was duly demanded of the said C D, who neglected to pay the same, and due notice thereof was given to the defendant. And the defendant owes the plaintiff the amount of the said note, and interest.

R. L. 173, § 3.

(d) Endorsee against Maker and Successive Endorsers. — And the plaintiff says that the defendant C D made a promissory note, a copy whereof with the endorsements thereon is hereto annexed, payable to the defendant E F or order, and the said E F endorsed the same to the defendant G H or order, and the said G H endorsed the same to the plaintiff, and payment of the said note was duly demanded of the defendant C D who neglected to pay the same, and due notice thereof was given to the defendants E F and G H. And each of the defendants severally owes the plaintiff the amount of the said note, and interest.

(e) Payee against Anomalous Endorser. — And the plaintiff says that A B made a promissory note payable to the plaintiff or order, a copy whereof, with the endorsements thereon, is hereto annexed, and the defendant endorsed the said note before it was delivered to the plaintiff, and payment of the said note was duly demanded of the said A B, who neglected to pay the same, and due notice thereof was given to the defendant. And the defendant owes the plaintiff the amount of the said note, and interest.

(f) Endorsee against Anomalous Endorser. — And the plaintiff says that A B made a promissory note payable to C D, a copy whereof, with the endorsements thereon, is hereto annexed, and the defendant endorsed the same before it was delivered to C D, and C D endorsed it to the plaintiff, and payment of the said note was duly demanded of the said A B, who neglected to pay the same, and due notice thereof was given to the defendant. And the defendant owes the plaintiff the amount of the said note, and interest.

4. GRANTEE AGAINST GRANTOR IN A DEED OF WARRANTY FOR BREACHES OF COVENANT.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant made a deed of conveyance to him, a copy whereof is hereto annexed. And the defendant was not seized in fee simple of a part of the land described as follows: (insert description) but the same was held adversely by L M, and the residue of the said land was not free from encumbrances, but was subject to a mortgage to S T to secure the payment of six hundred dollars. And the defendant did not warrant and defend the premises against the rightful claims of all persons, but W S had a right of dower therein, and compelled the plaintiff to assign the same to her.

5. ON AN AWARD.

And the plaintiff says that the parties hereto by their agreement in writing, a copy whereof is hereto annexed, referred the matters therein mentioned to arbitrators, and the said arbitrators made an award thereon in writing, a copy whereof is hereto annexed. (After performance of condition by plaintiff, when necessary to be proved, and the non-performance by the defendant, which is relied on. If it is for the mere payment of money, as follows: And the defendant owes the plaintiff the amount of the said award.)
6. PROMISE TO PAY THE DEBT OF ANOTHER.

And the plaintiff says that E F owed him the sum of \( \text{for } \), and the plaintiff was about to sue the said E F to recover the same. And in consideration that the plaintiff would forbear to sue the said E F, the defendant made an agreement to pay the same to the plaintiff, a copy whereof is hereto annexed, and the plaintiff did forbear to sue the said E F, and the defendant owes him the said sum.

7. AGREEMENT TO CONVEY LAND, THE PLAINTIFF TO PAY IN PART AND GIVE A NOTE FOR THE BALANCE SECURED BY A MORTGAGE OF THE LAND.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant made an agreement with him in writing, a copy whereof is hereto annexed. And the plaintiff was ready and willing (or offered) to perform the said agreement on his part. But the defendant did not complete the said sale (or refused (or neglected) to convey the said land to the plaintiff).

Note. — The form in P. S., p. 977, did not state a breach. It is not right to allege tender of money and mortgage, and all that is required is to be ready and willing. Tinney v. Ashley, 15 Pick. 546; Cook v. Doggett, 2 Allen, 439; Cole v. Killiam, 157 Mass. 213; 2 Chitty Pl. (13th Am. ed.) 287. It would be improper for the plaintiff to execute a mortgage before he got a conveyance.

8. BREACH OF PROMISE OF MARRIAGE.

And the plaintiff says that she and the defendant promised to marry each other and she was always ready and willing to marry the defendant, but the defendant refused to perform his promise.

9. NON-DELIVERY OF GOODS SOLD.

And the plaintiff says that he purchased of the defendant the following goods, namely, for the sum of one hundred dollars, to be paid for on delivery and to be delivered by the defendant on the day of at the defendant’s store. And the plaintiff was ready and willing (or offered) to perform the said agreement on his part. But the defendant refused to deliver the said goods to the plaintiff.

Note. — See note to form 7 as to purchase of land, and 2 Chitty Pl. (13th Am. ed.) 269.

10. POLICIES OF INSURANCE.

(With or without copy of policy.)

(a) On a Ship for a Total Loss. — And the plaintiff says that the defendants insured the plaintiff for the sum of ten thousand dollars on the ship John, in which the plaintiff was interested, against the perils of the seas and other perils therein mentioned, on a voyage therein described (or from Boston to Cadiz in Spain, and at Cadiz, and thence to her port of discharge in the United States). And the said ship, while proceeding on the said voyage, was wrecked and totally lost by the perils of the seas, of which the defendants had notice, and the defendants were bound to pay the said amount to the plaintiff within sixty days thereafter. And the defendants owe the plaintiff the said sum of ten thousand dollars.

(b) For a Partial Loss and Contribution to a General Average. — (State as in the last count to the description of the voyage inclusive.) And the defendants thereby agreed that, in case of any loss or misfortune to the said ship, it should be lawful for the plaintiff and his agents to labor for and in defense and recovery of the said ship, and that the defendants would contribute to the charges thereof in proportion as the sum assured by them should be to the whole sum at risk. (Omit the preceding sentence if a copy of the policy is annexed.) And the said ship, while proceeding on the said voyage, was by the perils of the seas damaged, and otherwise damaged in her hull, rigging, andappurtenances, and it was necessary, for the preservation of the said ship and her cargo, to throw over a part of her cargo, and the same was thrown over for that purpose, and the plaintiff was obliged to expend two thousand dollars for repairing the said ship at Cadiz, and five hundred dollars as a contribution for the loss occasioned by the said throwing over of a part of the cargo, and the ship suffered damage that was not repaired at Cadiz, of all which the defendants had notice, and the defendants were bound to pay the same within sixty days thereafter. And the defendants owe the plaintiff the sum of dollars.

(c) For a Total Loss of Cargo by Fire. — And the plaintiff says that the defendants made a policy of insurance, (a copy of which is hereto annexed) insuring the plaintiff for the sum of ten thousand dollars on the cargo of the brigantine William, in which cargo the plaintiff was interested, against fire and other perils therein mentioned, at and from Boston, and on a voyage from thence to Hamburg, or any other port or ports in the north of Europe, and while the said vessel was proceeding on the said voyage the said cargo was totally destroyed by fire, of which the defendants had notice, and the defendants were bound to pay the plaintiff the amount of such loss. And the defendants owe the plaintiff the sum of ten thousand dollars.

Note. — These forms were adopted in 1851, 233, from those in 24 Pick. 406, but they did not mention the plaintiff's interest, as the latter did. They were not intended to have a copy of the policy annexed, and that change was made in 1852, in view of which the alternative methods of declaring noted in the forms may be used. It is, however, better pleading to set out the essential facts in the declaration, and avoid encumbering the pleadings with copies.

266 Mass. 543.
(d) Fire Insurance. — And the plaintiff says that by a policy dated the day of 19 , made by the defendant in the form of a Massachusetts Standard Policy, (or a copy of which is hereto annexed,) in consideration of $ paid to the defendant by the plaintiff (or A F) the defendant insured the plaintiff (or A F) against loss or damage by fire to the amount of $ on a dwelling house in the said policy described (and $ on the furniture and goods in the said dwelling house) for a year from the day of 19 at noon to the day of 19 at noon (and payable in case of loss to M F and the plaintiff as their interest might appear). And the plaintiff at the time of the making of the said policy and thenceforth until and at the time of the loss and damage hereinafter mentioned was interested in the several premises so insured to the amount so insured thereon respectively (or in the dwelling house so insured as mortgagee thereof to the amount so insured thereon in priority to any interest of the said M F therein). And while the said policy was in force and during the said year the several premises (or the said dwelling house) so insured were (or was) burnt and destroyed by fire, whereby the plaintiff suffered loss and damage on the said premises (or dwelling house) (and on the said furniture and goods) to the several amounts so insured thereon respectively (or otherwise according to the facts). And thereafter forthwithstanding sixty days before the commencement of this action a statement was duly rendered to the defendant in accordance with the provision in that behalf contained in the said policy, setting forth all the particulars required by the said provision to be set forth therein (or in case of waiver of the statement the necessity of the statement of particulars required by the provision in that behalf contained in the said policy was waived by the defendant), and the amount for which the defendant was liable to the plaintiff on account of the said loss and damage was agreed by them to be $ for the plaintiff and the defendant having failed to agree as to the amount of the said loss and damage, the same was duly referred to three persons as provided in the said policy, and by the award in writing thereupon made by the (or a majority of the) said referees in respect thereof the amount of the loss and damage was determined to be $, (or the provision in the said policy for a reference as to the amount of the said loss or damage was waived by the defendant). And the defendant has not paid to the plaintiff the amount for which the defendant was so liable or replaced the said property, and owes the plaintiff the sum of $.

Note. — This form, by alleging that the policy was in the Massachusetts standard form, makes it unnecessary to set out the provisions prescribed by law (Chap. 175, § 99), or to load the files of the court with copies containing provisions immaterial to the case. As to the allegations when the loss is payable to a mortgagee, see Frisbee v. Prussian Ins. Co., 223 Mass. 159; Palmer Savings Bk. v. Ins. Co. of North America, 166 Mass. 189. Performance of conditions precedent must be alleged as at common law. R. L. 173, § 6 (11th); Palmer v. Sawyer, 114 Mass. 1; 2 Chitty Pl. (13th Am. ed.) 224 n., or a reason for non-performance must be stated. Lawson Co. v. Prudential Ins. Co., 171 Mass. 433; Lawson & Goodnow Co. v. Russell, 112 Mass. 357.

And the plaintiff says that by a policy dated the day of 19 made by the defendant, in consideration of the payment of premiums by the said A B as therein provided the defendant insured the life of the said A B in the sum of $ for the term of his life payable at the office of the defendant at, or to its agents in exchange for receipts signed by its president or treasurer, until ten full years' premiums should have been paid or until the death of the insured if that event should sooner occur, and that the said policy should not take effect unless the first premium should be paid during the lifetime of the insured. And the insured duly paid the said annual premium to the defendant on delivery of the said policy and in each of the subsequent years, and afterwards and while the said policy remained in force the said A B died, and due proof of his death was produced by the plaintiff to the defendant, and the said sum of $ thereby became payable by the defendant to the plaintiff, but no part thereof has been paid. And the defendant owes the plaintiff the sum of $.

Instruction: If this form is used, any warranties or conditions precedent contained in the policy or application must be set out, and the truth of the warranties and performance of the conditions averred. Copies of the policy or application, or both, may be annexed to the declaration, in which case such of the allegations of this form as are clearly set forth in such copies may be omitted; but it is always desirable to avoid cumbering the record with bulky copies.

(II) Endowment Policy. Action by Insured or Beneficiary (without Copy of Policy). And the plaintiff says that by a policy dated the day of 19 made by the defendant, in consideration of the statements and agreements contained in the application therefor, which was made part of the said policy, and the annual premium of $ then paid by the plaintiff (or by A B) to the defendant and the like annual premium so to be paid on the day of in every year thereafter during the continuance of the said policy, the defendant promised to pay the sum of $ to the plaintiff (or the said A B the insured thereunder), if he should be living at the end of ten years from the date thereof, or, in case of his previous death, upon receipt at the office of the defendant at of satisfactory proofs of his death, then to (the plaintiff) C D, his wife, the beneficiary thereunder, if she should then be living, or otherwise to the executors, administrators, or assigns of the insured. (And it was thereby declared that the said policy should be incontestable after one year from its date of issue except for non-payment of premium, and that, after payment of the first annual premium thereon, payment of any subsequent premium might be made within thirty-one days after the same should have become due, the policy meanwhile continuing in force, but in the event of the death of the insured during the said thirty-one days, the premium, if unpaid, should be deducted from the sum payable on account of the policy, and that, if the age of the insured had been misstated, the amount payable under the policy should be such as the premium would have purchased at the correct age, and that the policy and the application therefor should constitute the entire contract between the parties, and all statements made by the insured should in the absence of fraud be deemed representations and not warranties, and no such statement should avoid the policy or be a defence to a claim thereunder unless contained in the said application.) And the plaintiff (or the said A B) duly paid the said annual premiums to the defendant in every year during the continuance of the said policy, and the said period of ten years elapsed, and the sum of $ mentioned in the said policy thereupon became due and payable by the defendant to the beneficiary thereof (or while the said policy was in force and before the end of the said ten years the said A B died, and satisfactory proof of his death was produced to the defendant at its said office, and the sum of $ mentioned in the said policy thereupon became due and payable by the defendant to the plaintiff by virtue thereof) and no part of the same has been paid to the plaintiff. And the defendant owes the plaintiff the sum of $.

Instruction: This form is subject to the instruction at the end of the preceding form.
Declarations in Actions of Tort.

Instruction as to all such declarations: The ad damnum is a sufficient allegation of damage in all cases in which special damages are not claimed. The latter, if claimed, should be alleged.

11. CONVERSION.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant converted to his own use one horse (or the goods mentioned in the particulars hereto annexed) the property of the plaintiff.

Note. — Both the form and the fiction of trover were abolished by 1851, 233, § 1, and conversion, which was the substance, is the only thing left.

12. DECEIT.

(a) And the plaintiff says that the defendant, by fraudulently representing to the plaintiff that ten bags of coffee were the property of the defendant, induced the plaintiff to buy the same of him, for which the plaintiff paid to the defendant the sum of one hundred dollars, whereas the said coffee was not the property of the defendant, as the defendant then knew, but was the property of A S, who has since taken the same from the plaintiff.

(b) And the plaintiff says that the defendant induced the plaintiff to buy a certain horse from him and to pay him three hundred dollars therefor by fraudulently representing to the plaintiff that the said horse was sound, so far as the defendant knew, whereas the said horse was not sound, but had a certain disease called , as the defendant then knew.

(c) And the plaintiff says that the defendant, by fraudulently representing to the plaintiff (in writing) that S C was a man possessed of a large property and able to pay his debts, (a copy of which writing is hereto annexed,) induced the plaintiff to sell and deliver to the said S C on credit the goods mentioned in the particulars hereto annexed, whereas the said S C was not a man of property, nor able to pay his debts, but was insolvent, as the defendant then knew, whereby the plaintiff lost the price of the said goods, and was unable to obtain payment therefor.

13. NEGLIGENCE IN DRIVING A MOTOR VEHICLE.

266 Mass. 242. And the plaintiff says that the defendant so negligently and unskillfully drove a motor vehicle in a public highway, called street, in Boston, that by reason thereof the said motor vehicle struck the plaintiff who was then properly crossing the said highway (or a carriage of the plaintiff in which he was then properly passing along the said highway) whereby the plaintiff was thrown down and had his leg broken and was otherwise much injured (or the said carriage was broken and damaged and the plaintiff was hurt, etc.) and was prevented from transacting his business, and suffered great pain both of body and mind, and incurred expense for medicine, medical attendance and nursing, (and in repairing the said carriage, and was deprived of the use thereof for a long time and was thereby delayed and injured in his business).

14. NEGLIGENCE OF RAILROAD CORPORATION TOWARD PASSENGER.

And the plaintiff says that he was a passenger traveling in a car managed by the defendant upon the defendant's railroad between A and B, and, by reason of the negligence of the defendant in using an insufficient axle in the said car, the said axle broke and the plaintiff was thereby hurt. (Add allegation of special damages, as in form 13.)

Note. — This form may be varied to adapt it to many cases by changing the allegation as to the cause of the accident. It is not intended to restrict a party to the statement of one cause if there were several concurrent causes, and if the plaintiff is in doubt which of several different causes occasioned the accident he may so declare.

15. WANT OF REPAIR OF HIGHWAY.

10 Allen, 18, 197 Mass. 374. And the plaintiff says that there was in the town of a public highway leading from to which the defendants were bound to keep in repair, and by reason of the want of repair thereof (or a defect therein consisting of, etc.), which the defendants negligently suffered, the plaintiff traveling thereon (fell and) was hurt (or a vehicle in which the plaintiff was traveling thereon was overturned (or if the accident was not the overturning of the vehicle, state what took place) and the plaintiff was hurt (insert allegation of special damages) (and the said vehicle belonging to the plaintiff was damaged), (insert allegation of special damages relating to carriage, if any). And due notice of the time, place and cause of the said damage was given to the defendants.

Note. — The words "which the defendants negligently suffered" are necessary, because the town is liable for the damage caused by the want of repair, under Chap. 84, § 15, if it negligently suffered the want of repair. A general allegation of the notice required by Chap. 84, § 18, seems necessary.

16. OBLITERATING WAY.

And the plaintiff says that he owned a piece of land (describing it), and had a way from the same over a certain close to (here mention the other terminus) and thence back again, for himself and his servants on foot and with horses, cattle and vehicles, and the defendant wrongfully obstructed the said way.

Note. — Cf. 2 Chitty Pl. (13th Am. ed.) 807; Bullen & Leake Pl. (1st ed.) 251.

17. IMMODERATE DRIVING.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant hired of him a horse and carriage to drive from Boston to Cambridge, and thence back to Boston, and the defendant drove the said horse so negligently and unreasonably that the said horse became sick and lame and was greatly damaged.

18. SLANDER IMPUTING PERJURY.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant falsely and maliciously spoke and published of the plaintiff the words following: "You swore false at the trial of your brother John", the defendant meaning thereby that the plaintiff was guilty of perjury in testifying as a witness at the trial of his brother J F upon a criminal proceeding against him in the District Court of an assault and battery.

Instruction: In actions of libel and slander, it is sufficient to allege that the words or matter complained of were used in a defamatory sense, specifying such defamatory sense, without a further statement of facts to show that they were used in that sense, and such allegation shall be put in issue by a denial of the alleged libel or slander. If, however, the natural import of the words is not intelligible without further explanation, or reference to facts understood but not mentioned, or parts of the conversation not stated, a concise and clear statement of such particulars as are necessary to make the words relied on intelligible to the court and jury in the same sense in which they were spoken may be required upon motion of the defendant.

Note. — The foregoing instruction changes the rule followed in Brettun v. Anthony, 103 Mass. 37, requiring all the circumstances, necessary at common law to make the words spoken slanderous or libellous, to be set out in the inducement of prefatory statement, followed by a colloquium or allegation that the words were used of and concerning those circumstances, and permits the simpler form authorized by the English Common Law Procedure Act, 1852, § 61. See Chace v. Sherman, 119 Mass. 387. It is, however, often desirable to draw a declaration containing an introduction or colloquium, and this may be required on an application for particulars.

19. SLANDER INDIRECTLY CHARGING A CRIMINAL OFFENCE.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant falsely and maliciously spoke and published of the plaintiff the words following: "Some of the folks up your way think that Henry burned the store. I have no doubt but what he burned it.", the defendant meaning thereby that the plaintiff burned a building and goods and chattels therein belonging to him with intent to injure certain insurance companies by whom the same were insured at the time against loss or damage by fire.

Note. — This form is based on the facts in Brettun v. Anthony, 103 Mass. 37.
20. Libel.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant falsely and maliciously printed and published (or wrote and published) of the plaintiff in a newspaper called the words following: "He is a regular prover in bankruptcies", the defendant meaning thereby that the plaintiff had proved and was in the habit of proving fictitious debts against the estates of bankrupts, with the knowledge that such debts were fictitious; [(or, if it is a picture, describe it, e.g.) falsely and maliciously composed and published of the plaintiff and a court-martial of which he was a member a lithograph picture and caricature of the said court-martial in which the plaintiff is represented in an awkward, ludicrous and contemptible light and posture and as saying of A B the respondent then on trial upon certain charges before the said court-martial the words following: (here set out the words) the defendant thereby meaning to impute to the plaintiff low, vulgar and contemptible language, views and motives;]

[(or, if it is a letter falsely and maliciously wrote and published of the plaintiff in a letter addressed to W D, by whom the plaintiff was then employed as bookkeeper, the words following: "There is a duplicity about your bookkeeper in serving your interest in this affair of ours which is sadly too transparent. I conceive there is nothing too base for him to be guilty of.")]

Note. — The first of these forms for actions of libel is taken from Bullen & Leake Pl. (1st ed.) 179, 180; the second from Ellis v. Kimball, 16 Pick. 132; and the third from Tighe v. Cooper, 7 Ellis & Bl. 639.

21. Trespass to Person.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant assaulted and beat the plaintiff (and imprisoned him and kept him in prison for a long time).

22. Trespass to Land.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant broke and entered the plaintiff’s close (describing it) and ploughed up the soil thereof and took and carried away fifty bushels of the plaintiff’s corn therefrom, and converted the same to his own use.

Note. — See also Bullen & Leake Pl. (1st ed.) 245. The form in 1851, 233 (P. S. p. 979), used the word "forcibly" as the older forms used "with force and arms" (2 Chitty Pl. 899), but no real force is necessary, and "every entry therefore therein without the owner’s leave . . . is a trespass". 3 Bl. Com. 208. As the statute dispenses with all averments which the law does not require to be proved (§ 7 of this chapter), the form ought not to require an allegation of force.

23. Penalty. Treble Damages for Injury to Aqueduct.

And the plaintiffs say that they had an aqueduct (describing it), and the defendant maliciously injured the same by cutting off one of the pipes thereof, whereby the defendant became liable to pay the plaintiffs treble the amount of the damage thereby sustained by the plaintiffs, and the amount of such damage was ten dollars.

Note. — See Chap. 165, § 24.

Mixed Action.

24. Ejectment Under Section Nine.

And the plaintiff says that the defendant is wrongfully in possession of a piece of land situate, etc., (description) to which the plaintiff is entitled by virtue of a lease for a term not yet expired.

Particulars of Title.

The premises were leased by A B to the plaintiff (or to X Y) by an indenture dated the day of 19 for a term of twenty years from the day of 19 (and were afterwards assigned by the said X Y to the plaintiff by an indenture dated the day of 19 for the unexpired residue of the said term).

Note. — This is the common law action of ejectment, not the action of summary process in which no declaration is required.
ANSWERS IN ABATEMENT.

25. NON-JOINDER.

The defendant says that, if he is indebted to the plaintiffs for the goods mentioned in the declaration, he is indebted to them jointly with G H, who is still alive, and not alone, and therefore he ought not to be held to answer to the plaintiffs' writ.

Note. — There is no use in saying that "the defendant comes", for "comes" is only the old way of entering on the record the statement of his appearance. 3 Chitty Pl. (13th Am. ed.) 892, 900; see 2 Bright 30, 106a. Cf. Bullen & Leake Pl. (1st ed.) 253.

26. MISNOMER.

The defendant says that the plaintiff's name is John Stiles, and not James Stiles, and therefore he ought not to be held to answer to the plaintiff's writ.

ANSWERS IN ACTIONS OF CONTRACT.

27. MONEY HAD AND RECEIVED, OR PROMISSORY NOTE, OR OTHER CAUSE OF ACTION.

The defendant denies all the allegations in the plaintiff's declaration [and denies the genuineness of the supposed signature of the defendant (or the said C D) to the promissory note therein declared on] [and denies that the plaintiff (or the defendant) ever was or is executor as alleged] (and denies that there was at the commencement of this action or is any such corporation as the supposed plaintiff).

Note. — An "answer denying all the allegations in the declaration" (Mesler v. Potter, 121 Mass. 89 at p. 90) has long been in general use, and no one would use the old forms given in P. S. at p. 98d. The bill of particulars is part of the declaration (§ 14 of this chapter), and so does not require special mention in the answer.

As to denial of genuineness of signature, see § 29. Spooner v. Gilmore, 136 Mass. 248.
As to denial of representative capacity or corporate existence, see § 30.
As to executor, etc., cf. Bullen & Leake Pl. (1st ed.) 335; Story Pl. (2d ed.) 192.

28. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.

The defendant says that the cause of action mentioned in the declaration 266 Mass. 543. did not accrue within six years before the commencement of this action.

29. PAYMENT.

The defendant says that he paid the plaintiff the sum of dollars, which was the full amount of the account stated in the plaintiff's bill of particulars.

(If there are several items, add and he annexes hereto a bill of particulars of the said payment).

30. ACCOUNT ANNEXED. GOODS SOLD AND DELIVERED. WORK.

The defendant, as to the first ten items of the plaintiff's bill of particulars, denies that the plaintiff sold and delivered any of the same to the defendant. And as to the eleventh item, he denies that the price was to be more than ten dollars, which sum he has paid.

31. PROMISSORY NOTE. ALTERNATIVE DEFENCES.

The defendant denies that he made the said promissory note as alleged in the declaration and denies the genuineness of his supposed signature thereto. And, if he made the said note, the same was paid.

32. MINORITY.

As to the note mentioned in the plaintiff's second count, the defendant says that at the time of making the same he was a minor under the age of twenty-one.
33. DURESS.
As to the contract mentioned in the plaintiff's third count, the defendant says that he was induced to make the same by the plaintiff's unlawfully keeping him in prison until he made the same.

34. PART PAYMENT. TENDER.
The defendant says that he paid the note mentioned in the declaration, except the sum of fifty dollars, and, before the commencement of this action, he tendered to the plaintiff the said sum of fifty dollars and now brings the same into court for the plaintiff.

35. ACCORD AND SATISFACTION.
The defendant says that he delivered to the plaintiff, and the plaintiff accepted, a wagon, in full satisfaction of the note mentioned in the declaration.

36. RES JUDICATA.
The defendant says that in the superior court held (etc.) the plaintiff recovered judgment against the defendant for dollars and cents damages, and dollars and cents costs, for the cause of action mentioned in the plaintiff's first count.

37. RELEASE.
The defendant says that the plaintiff by deed (a copy whereof is hereto annexed) released him from the cause of action mentioned in the second count.

38. INSURANCE.
(a) The defendants deny that the said loss was actually total, and deny that any abandonment was made.
(b) The defendants say that the said vessel was not seaworthy for the voyage in the said policy mentioned at the inception of the said voyage.
(c) The defendants deny that the said vessel was lost while proceeding on the voyage in the said policy described.

39. EQUITABLE DEFENCE.
Action for not forwarding goods by a specified steamer according to a written agreement and sending them by another steamer, alleged to be unseaworthy, which was lost.

The defendant says that the plaintiff delivered the goods mentioned in the declaration to the defendant to be forwarded by the defendant to L C B at Havre in France by the first steamer sailing from New York for Havre, and without any other directions from the plaintiff as to the steamer by which they should be sent, and the defendant agreed with the plaintiff to forward them accordingly. And by mistake of the defendant's agent the name of the steamer J S was written in the bill of lading and agreement mentioned in the declaration in the supposition that the said steamer J S was the first steamer sailing from New York for Havre after the delivery of the goods as aforesaid, whereas in fact that steamer was not the first steamer so sailing and was not then about to sail and did not sail from New York for Havre. And the defendant in accordance with the real agreement made between the plaintiff and the defendant as aforesaid forwarded the said goods by the steamer P, which was the first steamer so sailing and which sailed soon afterwards on the said voyage and was seaworthy at the commencement thereof.

ANSWERS IN ACTIONS OF TORT.

40. CONVERSION.
(a) The defendant denies that the horse mentioned in the declaration was the property of the plaintiff, and also denies that he converted the same to his own use.
(b) The defendant admits that the said horse was the general property of the plaintiff, but says that the defendant had a special property therein by reason of his having attached the same as the plaintiff’s property by virtue of a writ (describing it), which writ was delivered to the defendant, who then was a deputy sheriff in the county of , for service, and the said action is now pending. And so the defendant denies that he converted the said horse to his own use.

41. Deceit.

(a) The defendant denies that he made the said representation knowing that the same was not true.
(b) The defendant denies that the said horse was unsound, as alleged in the declaration.
(c) The defendant denies that he made the representation alleged in the declaration. And the defendant also says that the said coffee was the defendant’s property, and that he had a right to sell the same.

42. Obstructing way.

(a) The defendant denies that the plaintiff had a right of way as set out in the declaration.
(b) The defendant denies that he obstructed the said way as alleged in the declaration.

43. Slander or Libel.

The defendant denies that he accused the plaintiff of the crime of perjury as alleged in the first count.

And answering the second count, the defendant says that (the plaintiff feloniously stole ten dollars the property of S T and so) the words alleged to have been written (or spoken) and published of the plaintiff by the defendant were true.

Note. — The clause in parentheses at the beginning of the answer to the second count might be omitted. McLaughlin v. Cowley, 127 Mass. 315.

44. Assault and Battery.

(a) The defendant says that the plaintiff first assaulted him, and he thereupon necessarily committed the alleged assault in his own defence.
(b) The defendant says that the plaintiff was his apprentice and deserted and ran away from his service, and the defendant lawfully retook and restrained the plaintiff, using no more force than was necessary.

45. Trespass Quare Clausum.

The defendant says that a part of the close mentioned in the plaintiff’s writ was the soil and freehold of the defendant, the same being described as follows, etc. And he denies that he broke or entered any part of said close, except the part above described.

Replications.

46. Limitations.

(a) The plaintiff says that within six years before the commencement of this action the defendant in a writing signed by him (or his agent A B), a copy whereof is hereto annexed (or by part payment on account of the moneys then due) acknowledged that the debt mentioned in the declaration remained due and unpaid.
(b) The plaintiff says that during the six years next before the commencement of this action the defendant resided out of this commonwealth for three years.

Note. — The form in P. S., p. 981, is changed because the statute then in force, P. S. 197, § 11, was changed by R. L. 292, § 9. See Chap. 260, § 9.

47. Minority.

The plaintiff says that the articles mentioned in his bill of particulars were necessaries for the defendant and suitable to his estate and degree.

in favor of each for such amounts and an entry shall be made that the judgments are satisfied by the set-off, with costs to either party, or without costs, as the court orders. If, on the set-off in an action upon a claim assigned to the plaintiff before action is brought, a balance is found due to the defendant, or if a balance is found due from any person other than the plaintiff, judgment shall not be rendered against the plaintiff for the balance.

TENDER.

Section 12. The payment or tender of payment of the whole amount due on a contract for the payment of money after it is due and payable and before action is commenced shall, if pleaded, have the same effect as if made at the time provided in the contract. Such payment or tender may also be made after action has been commenced and at least four days before the return day of the writ, with costs to the time of payment or tender. The tender last mentioned may be made to the plaintiff or to his attorney in the action, and, if not accepted, the defendant may avail himself of the tender in defense in like manner as if made before the commencement of the action, bringing into court the amount so tendered.

Section 13. If such tender is accepted, the plaintiff or his attorney shall, at the request of the defendant, sign a certificate or notice thereof to the officer who has the writ, and deliver it to the defendant; and if any further costs are incurred for a service made by the officer after the tender and before he receives notice thereof, the defendant shall pay the same to the officer, or the tender shall be invalid.

Section 14. A person upon whose property a lien is claimed may make in any proceeding a tender or an offer of judgment relating thereto in like manner and with like effect as in matters of contract.

120 Mass. 118.
13 witnesses shall be summoned in the same manner, be paid the same fees 14 and be subject to the same penalties for default, as witnesses in civil 15 cases before the courts. The presiding officer of such council, or of 16 either branch thereof, or a member of any such committee, board or 17 commission, or any such commissioner, may administer oaths to wit-18 nesses who appear before such council, branch thereof, committee, 19 board, commission or commissioner, respectively.

1 SECTION 9. If a witness who has been so summoned and paid or 2 tendered the proper fees fails to attend in pursuance thereof, the presid-
3 ing officer of such city council, or of either branch thereof, or the chairman
4 of such committee, board or commission, or any such commissioner, may 5 issue a warrant to bring such witness before them, to testify in the case
6 in which he was summoned.

120 Mass. 118.

1 SECTION 10. A justice of the supreme judicial or the superior court,
2 upon application of a tribunal authorized to summon but not to compel 3 the attendance of witnesses and the giving of testimony before it, may,
4 in his discretion, compel the attendance of such witnesses and the giving 5 of testimony before any such tribunal, in the same manner and to the 6 same extent as before said courts.

1 SECTION 11. A justice of the supreme judicial or the superior court,
2 upon the application of a magistrate or tribunal authorized to summon
3 and compel the attendance of witnesses may, in his discretion, compel 4 the giving of testimony by them before such magistrate or tribunal, in 5 the same manner and to the same extent as before said courts.

175 Mass. 179. 185 Mass. 171.

1 SECTION 12. A justice of the peace, upon receipt of a certificate of 2 the clerk of a court of record in the state of Maine or in a state adjoining 3 this commonwealth that a criminal prosecution is pending in such court, 4 and that a resident of the commonwealth is supposed to be a material
5 witness therein, shall issue a summons requiring such witness to appear 6 and testify at the court in which such case is pending.

1 SECTION 13. If the person on whom such summons is served is paid 2 or tendered double the fees allowed by law for travel and attendance of 3 witnesses in the supreme judicial court, and double traveling expenses 4 for the whole distance out and home by the ordinary traveled route, he 5 shall, if he neglects without good cause to attend as a witness at the court 6 named in such summons, forfeit not more than three hundred dollars.

1 SECTION 14. Arbitrators, referees, masters and auditors appointed
2 according to law may administer oaths or affirmations to all persons 3 offered as witnesses before them.

1 SECTION 15. The usual mode of administering oaths now practiced 2 in the commonwealth, with the ceremony of holding up the hand, shall 3 be observed in all cases in which an oath may be administered by law,
4 except as provided in sections sixteen to nineteen, inclusive.

SECTION 16. If a person to be sworn declares that a different mode of taking the oath is in his opinion more solemn and obligatory than the upholding of the hand, the oath may be administered in such mode.

SECTION 17. A Friend or Quaker when called on to take an oath may solemnly and sincerely affirm under the penalties of perjury.

SECTION 18. A person who declares that he has conscientious scruples against taking an oath shall, when called upon for that purpose, be permitted to affirm in the manner prescribed for Quakers, if the court or magistrate on inquiry is satisfied of the truth of such declaration.

Persons other than Christians, how sworn.

SECTION 19. A person believing in any other than the Christian religion may be sworn according to the peculiar ceremonies of his religion.

SECTION 20. Any person of sufficient understanding, although a party, may testify in any proceeding, civil or criminal, in court or before a person who has authority to receive evidence, except as follows:

14 Gray, 186. 12 Allen, 559. 13 Allen, 244. 97 Mass. 171. 113 Mass. 157.

First, Except in a prosecution begun under sections one to ten, inclusive, of chapter two hundred and seventy-three, neither husband nor wife shall testify as to private conversations with the other.

Second, Except as otherwise provided in section seven of chapter two hundred and seventy-three, neither husband nor wife shall be compelled to testify in the trial of an indictment, complaint or other criminal proceeding against the other.

Third, The defendant in the trial of an indictment, complaint or other criminal proceeding shall, at his own request, but not otherwise, be allowed to testify; but his neglect or refusal to testify shall not create any presumption against him.

Conviction of crime may be shown to affect credibility.

SECTION 21. The conviction of a witness of a crime may be shown to affect his credibility, except as follows:

First, The record of his conviction of a misdemeanor shall not be shown for such purpose after five years from the date on which sentence on said conviction was imposed, unless he has subsequently been convicted of a crime within five years of the time of his testifying.

7 Second, the record of his conviction of a felony upon which a fine 8 only was imposed, or a sentence to a reformatory prison, jail, or house 9 of correction, shall not be shown for such purpose after ten years from 10 the date on which sentence on said conviction was imposed, unless he 11 has subsequently been convicted of a crime within ten years of the time 12 of his testifying.

13 Third. The record of his conviction of a felony upon which a state 14 prison sentence was imposed shall not be shown for such purpose after 15 ten years from the date of expiration of the minimum term of imprison- 16 ment imposed by the court, unless he has subsequently been convicted 17 of a crime within ten years of the time of his testifying.

1 Section 22. A party who calls the adverse party as a witness shall be 2 allowed to cross-examine him.

R. L. 175. § 22. 268 Mass. 270. 259 Mass. 46. 273 Mass. 578. 1920. 120.

Section 23. The party who produces a witness shall not impeach 2 his credit by evidence of bad character, but may contradict him by other 3 evidence, and may also prove that he has made at other times statements 4 inconsistent with his present testimony: but before proof of such incon- 5 sistent statements is given, the circumstances thereof sufficient to desig- 6 nate the particular occasion shall be mentioned to the witness, and he 7 shall be asked if he has made such statements, and, if so, shall be allowed 8 to explain them.

DEPOSITIONS.

1 Section 24. Depositions may be taken as provided in this chapter, 2 to be used before courts, magistrates or other persons authorized to 3 examine witnesses, except in criminal cases.

1 Section 25. If a witness or party whose testimony is wanted in a 2 civil cause or proceeding pending in the commonwealth lives more than 3 thirty miles from the place of trial, or is about to go out of the common- 4 wealth and not to return in time for the trial, or is so ill, aged or infirm as 5 to make it probable that he will not be able to attend at the trial, his 6 deposition may be taken.

G. S. 131. §§ 18. 59. 1785. 12. § 3. 1797. 35. § 1.

1 Section 26. After service of process in an action, or after a submis- 2 sion to arbitrators or referees, either party may apply to a justice of the 3 peace, who shall issue a notice to the adverse party to appear and propose 4 interrogatories before said justice or any other justice of the peace at the 5 time and place appointed for taking the deposition.

shall be filed in the clerk’s office and notice thereof given to the adverse party or his attorney, and upon cross interrogatories, if any are filed by him. But if the defendant does not enter his appearance in the action within the time required by law, no notice to him shall be required. The court may in any case order depositions to be taken before commissioners, in the manner provided by law for taking the depositions of witnesses within the commonwealth in actions at law, or in such manner as the court orders, and in such cases shall determine what notice shall be given to the adverse party, his agent or attorney, and the manner of service thereof, may authorize the taking of depositions of witnesses not specifically named in the commission, and may limit the extent of the inquiry. The court may order the production before the commissioner of any books, instruments or papers relative to any matter in issue.

SECTION 43. The courts may make rules for the issuing of commissions, the filing of interrogatories and all other matters relative to depositions taken without the commonwealth.

SECTION 44. Depositions and affidavits taken without the commonwealth in any manner other than is provided in the three preceding sections, if taken before a notary public or other person authorized by the laws of any other state or country to take depositions, may be admitted or rejected in the discretion of the court; but such deposition or affidavit shall not be admitted unless the court finds that the adverse party had sufficient notice of the taking thereof and an opportunity to cross-examine the witness, or that from the circumstances of the case it was impossible to give him such notice.

SECTION 45. A person may be summoned and compelled, in like manner and under the same penalties as are provided for a witness before a court, to give his deposition in a cause pending in a court of any other state or government. Such deposition may be taken before a justice of the peace in the commonwealth, or before a commissioner appointed under the authority of the state or government in which the action is pending. If the deposition is taken before such commissioner, the witness may be summoned and compelled to appear before him by process from a justice of the peace in the commonwealth.

DEPOSITIONS TO PERPETUATE TESTIMONY.

SECTION 46. If a person desires to perpetuate his own testimony or the testimony of another person, he shall apply in writing to two justices of the peace, one of whom shall be an attorney at law, requesting them to take his deposition or the deposition of the person whose testimony he desires to perpetuate, and stating briefly and substantially his title, claim or interest in or to the subject relative to which he desires the evidence perpetuated, the names of all other persons interested or supposed to be interested therein and the name of the witness proposed to be examined.

SECTION 47. The justices shall thereupon cause notice of the time and place appointed for taking the deposition to be given to all persons Section 45. If at the time and place so appointed a witness or a person interested appears and objects, the justices shall not take the deposition unless upon hearing the parties they shall find that such testimony may be material to the petitioner and, except when the witness is himself petitioner, that it is not sought for the purpose of discovering any evidence or of using it in an action then pending or thereafter to be brought against said witness, and that the petitioner is in danger of losing the same before it can be taken in any action wherein his right, title, interest or claim can be tried. In all cases the petitioner, his agent or attorney shall, at the request of such witness or of a person interested, be examined on oath relative to his reasons for taking the deposition.

Section 49. The deponent shall be sworn and examined, and his deposition shall be written, read and subscribed in the manner provided in sections thirty to thirty-two, inclusive; and the justices shall sign and annex thereto a certificate of the name of the person at whose request it was taken, the names of all persons who were notified to attend, of all who attended the taking thereof, of the time and manner of taking it, and that it was taken for the purpose of perpetuating the testimony therein.

Section 50. The deposition, the certificate and the application of the petitioner shall, within ninety days after the taking of the deposition, be recorded in the registry of deeds in the county or district where the land lies, if the deposition relates to land; otherwise, in the county or district where the parties or some of them reside.

Section 51. If, at the time of taking such deposition or afterward, an action is pending between the petitioner and the persons named in his application or any of those who were notified as aforesaid, or any persons claiming under any of said persons, relative to the title, claim or interest set forth in the application, the deposition or a certified copy of it from the registry of deeds may be used in such action in the same manner and subject to the same conditions and objections as if it had been originally taken therefor.

Section 52. Depositions to perpetuate the testimony of persons living without the commonwealth may be taken without the commonwealth upon a commission issued by the supreme judicial or the superior court.
six; and if the subject of the proposed deposition relates to land within the commonwealth, a copy of the application with the statement therein shall be filed in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land or any part thereof lies; otherwise, in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the parties or some of them reside.

SECTION 54. The court shall order notice of such application and statement to be served on all the persons named therein as adversely interested, and living within the commonwealth, fourteen days at least before the time therein appointed for hearing the parties, and shall order reasonable notice to be given to such persons living without the commonwealth.

SECTION 55. If, upon hearing the parties who appear, the court finds that there is sufficient cause for taking the deposition, it shall issue a commission therefor in like manner as for taking a deposition to be used in a cause pending in the same court.

SECTION 56. The deposition shall be taken upon written interrogatories filed by the applicant, and cross interrogatories, if any are filed by any party adversely interested, and it shall be taken and returned substantially in the same manner as if taken to be used in a cause pending in the same court.

SECTION 57. The supreme judicial court may make rules for taking depositions to perpetuate the testimony of witnesses without the commonwealth, taken under a commission from the supreme judicial or the superior court, and for filing or recording them.

SECTION 58. Depositions to perpetuate the testimony of witnesses which are taken without the commonwealth under this chapter may be used in like manner as if taken within the commonwealth.

SECTION 59. Depositions to perpetuate the testimony of witnesses within or without the commonwealth, so that they may be evidence against any persons, may, after public notice, be taken upon a commission issued by the supreme judicial court or the superior court.

SECTION 60. The person who desires to have such deposition taken may apply to either of said courts in the manner provided in section fifty-three, and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as are provided in sections fifty-four to fifty-six, inclusive.

SECTION 61. The court shall, in addition to the proceedings before provided, require the applicant, upon oath or otherwise, in its discretion, to state the names of all persons known or supposed to be interested in the subject matter of the application, and shall in the commission direct the commissioner or commissioners to publish in such newspaper within or without the commonwealth, or both, or in such other manner, as the court orders, such notice of the time and place of taking such deposition.
8 and of the subject matter thereof as the court approves. Such notice shall be addressed by name to all persons who are known or supposed to be interested in the subject matter of the application, and generally to all others, and shall state that they may attend and propose cross interrogatories to the witness. The court may require additional personal notice of the time and place of taking and of the subject matter of such deposition to be given to such persons and in such manner as it orders.

1 Section 62. After such deposition has been taken, it shall be returned to the court by whose order the commission issued, which, if the deposition is found to have been taken according to law and the directions contained in the commission, shall order it to be recorded within thirty five days after the date of the order in the registry of deeds, in the manner provided in section fifty.

1 Section 63. A deposition taken and recorded under the provisions of the four preceding sections, or a certified copy thereof from the registry of deeds, may be used by the person at whose request it was taken, or by any person who claims under him, against any person whatever, in any action or process wherein is brought in question the title, claim or interest set forth in the statement upon which the commission was founded, in the same manner, and subject to the same conditions and objections, as if it had been originally taken for said action or process.

DYING DECLARATIONS AND DECLARATIONS OF DECEASED PERSONS.

1 Section 64. In prosecutions under section nineteen of chapter two hundred and seventy-two in which the death of a woman is alleged to have resulted from the means therein described, her dying declarations shall be admissible in evidence.

8 tested by the secretary of the commonwealth under its seal or by the 9 clerk of such city or town, as the case may be.

1 Section 77. Copies from the records, books and accounts of a trust
2 company, national bank or savings bank, doing business in the com-
3 monwealth, shall be competent evidence in all cases, equally with the 4 originals thereof, if there is annexed to such copies an affidavit, taken 5 before a clerk of a court of record or notary public, under the seal of 6 such court or notary, stating that the affiant is the officer having charge
7 of the original records, books and accounts, and that the copy is correct 8 and is full so far as it relates to the subject matter therein mentioned.

1 Section 78. An entry in an account kept in a book or by a card
2 system or by any other system of keeping accounts, or a writing or record,
3 whether in the form of an entry in a book or otherwise, made as a memo-
4 randum or record of any act, transaction, occurrence or event, shall not 5 be inadmissible in any civil proceeding as evidence of the facts therein 6 stated because it is transcribed or because it is hearsay or self-serving,
7 if the court finds that the entry, writing or record was made in good 8 faith in the regular course of business and before the beginning of the 9 civil proceeding aforesaid and that it was the regular course of such 10 business to make such memorandum or record at the time of such act, 11 transaction, occurrence or event or within a reasonable time thereafter.
12 For the purposes hereof, the word "business", in addition to its ordinary 13 meaning, shall include profession, occupation and calling of every kind.
14 The court, in its discretion, before admitting such entry, writing or record, 15 in evidence, may, to such extent as it deems practicable or desirable, but 16 to no greater extent than the law required before April eleventh, nineteen 17 hundred and thirteen, require the party offering the same to produce and 18 offer in evidence the original entry, writing, document or account or any 19 other from which the entry, writing or record offered or the facts therein
20 stated were transcribed or taken, and to call as his witness any person 21 who made the entry, writing or record offered or the original or any 22 other entry, writing, document or account from which the entry, writing 23 or record offered or the facts therein stated were transcribed or taken, or 24 who has personal knowledge of the facts stated in the entry, writing or 25 record offered. When any such entry, writing or record is admitted, 26 all other circumstances of the making thereof, including lack of personal 27 knowledge by the entrant or maker, may be shown to affect its weight.
WITNESSES AND EVIDENCE. JURIES. [CHAPS. 233, 234.

SECTION 79. Records kept by hospitals under section seventy of chapter one hundred and eleven shall be admissible as evidence in the courts of the commonwealth so far as such records relate to the treatment and medical history of such cases; but nothing therein contained shall be admissible as evidence which has reference to the question of liability.

STENOGRAPHIC TRANSCRIPTS.

SECTION 80. Transcripts from stenographic notes duly taken under authority of law in the supreme judicial, superior or probate court by a stenographer duly appointed for the purpose and sworn, when verified by the certificate of such stenographer, shall be admissible as evidence of testimony given whenever proof of such testimony is otherwise competent.

OBLIGATION TO SERVE, AND LISTS.

SECTION 1. A person qualified to vote for representatives to the general court, whether a registered voter or not, shall be liable to serve as a juror, except that the following persons shall be exempt:

Qualifications and exemptions:
C. L. 55, § 2; 148, § 4, §52.
The governor; lieutenant governor; members of the council; state secretary; members and officers of the senate and house of representatives during a session of the general court; judges and justices of a court; county and associate commissioners; clerks of courts and assistant clerks and all regularly appointed officers of the courts of the States and of the commonwealth; registers of probate and insolvency; registers of deeds; sheriffs and their deputies; constables; marshals of the United States and their deputies, and all other officers of the United States; attorneys at law; settled ministers of the gospel; officers of colleges; preceptors and teachers of incorporated academies; registered practicing physicians and surgeons; persons over seventy years of age;
persons under twenty-five years of age; members of the volunteer militia;
superintendents, officers and assistants employed in or about a state hospital, insane hospital, jail, house of correction, state industrial school or state prison; keepers of lighthouses; conductors and engine drivers of railroad trains; teachers in public schools; enginemen and members of the fire department of Boston, and of other cities and towns in which such exemption has been made by vote of the city council or the inhab-21. 22
itants of the town, respectively.

Section 2. A person attending and serving as a juror in any court in pursuance of a draft shall not be liable to be drawn or to so serve again within three years after the termination of such service, except in Nantucket and Dukes counties, in which he shall be so liable once in every two years.

Section 3. Except as provided in section three A, a person shall not serve as a traverse juror in Suffolk county more than thirty days at any sitting of the court, except to finish a case commenced within that time, nor in the trial of criminal cases at more than one sitting thereof in the year.

Section 3A. The presiding justice at a sitting of the court with juries may, in his discretion, postpone the whole or any part of the time of service of a juror to a later day during the same or a subsequent sitting; and the presiding justice may thereupon make an order that such juror whose term of service is so postponed to a day certain, shall attend at the opening of the court on that day, and thereafter, until he is discharged from such service. But no such juror whose term of service or part thereof is postponed shall be required to serve for a greater number of days than he would have been required to serve if such postponement had not been granted.

Section 4. The board of election commissioners in cities having such boards, the board of registrars of voters in other cities and the board of selectmen in towns shall annually before July first prepare a list of such inhabitants of the city or town, qualified as provided in section one, of good moral character, of sound judgment and free from all legal exceptions, not exempt from jury service under section one or two, as they think qualified to serve as jurors. The board shall not place the name of any person on said list unless such person is determined to be qualified as aforesaid upon the knowledge of one of its members, or after personal appearance and, if the board deems it necessary, examination under oath. The board may summon persons to appear before it for examinations as to their qualifications for jury service and may compel their attendance before it and the giving of testimony in the same manner and to the same extent as may magistrates authorized to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses. Such examinations may be held before a single member of the board and for the aforesaid purpose each member may administer oaths. If the board elects, such examination may be in the form of a questionnaire to be answered under oath. The board may further investigate by inquiries at such person’s place of residence and of business or employment, or by other means, his reputation, character and fitness for such service. The chief of police or the police commissioner or the official having charge of the police shall upon request give the board all possible assistance in making such investigation. Upon the request of the board or any member thereof, any person shall answer all questions and give such information as he may have relating to the character or fitness for jury service of any person concerning whom such request is made, which information shall be confidential. To the name of each juror on said list shall be appended his place of residence and of business or occupation.

Such lists shall include not less than one juror for every hundred inhabitants nor more than one for every sixty according to the latest census, state or national, but in Nantucket or Dukes county it may include one for every thirty inhabitants. In no event shall a person’s name appear on the jury lists of more than three successive years or on more than three jury lists in any six year period.

If any question concerning the preparation of such list arises, as to which the board of election commissioners, registrars or selectmen are equally divided, it shall be referred, if arising in Boston, to the chief justice of the municipal court of the city of Boston, or, in case of his absence or disability, to the senior justice thereof, and, if arising in any other city or in any town, to the justice of the district court within whose jurisdiction such city or town lies, or in case of his absence or disability to the senior special justice thereof, and his decision on the question shall be final.

Failure by a registrar of voters or election commissioner to comply with the requirements of this section shall be sufficient ground for his removal from office.

SECTION 5. Jury lists prepared as above provided shall annually, before August first, be printed with the address and occupation of each juror, and a copy thereof shall be delivered to the mayor or selectmen and to the clerk of the city or town to which such list relates, and to the clerks and assistant clerks of the supreme judicial and superior courts in the county where such city or town is situated, to be kept by said clerks and assistant clerks for the use of said courts.

1 Section 6. If a list prepared as provided in this chapter includes 2 less than one juror for every one hundred inhabitants of a city, said 3 registrar of voters or board of election commissioners shall prepare 4 and submit as aforesaid a further list and like proceedings shall be had 5 as in the case of the original list, until the required number of jurors is 6 obtained.

1 Section 7. The aldermen or selectmen shall cause the names on 2 the list as completed to be written each on a separate ballot and shall 3 roll or fold the ballots so as to resemble each other as much as possible 4 and so that the name written thereon shall not be visible on the outside, 5 and shall place the ballots in a box kept by the city or town clerk for 6 that purpose.

1 Section 8. If a person whose name has been so placed in the jury 2 box has been convicted of any felony, or of any other offence punishable 3 by imprisonment in a jail or house of correction for more than one year, 4 or is guilty of gross immorality, or is found by the justice holding court to 5 be unqualified or unfit to serve as a juror, he may be relieved by said 6 justice from sitting in any case, or his name ordered by the justice to be 7 stricken from the jury list.

1 Section 9. The jury lists in cities shall be published as a public 2 document, with the address and occupation of each juror; and in towns, 3 the list with the occupation of each juror shall be published in the annual 4 town report.

VENIRES.

1 Section 10. The clerks of the supreme judicial and superior courts 2 shall, before each sitting and at such other times as the respective courts 3 may order, issue writs of venire facias for jurors, requiring their atten- 4 dance on such day of the sitting as the court may order. The number 5 of jurors required by such writs shall be apportioned among the cities and 6 towns, as nearly as may be, according to their respective populations.

1 Section 11. The venires shall be delivered to the sheriff of the 2 county to be transmitted by him to a constable in each of the cities 3 and towns to which they are respectively issued, who shall forthwith 4 serve them in cities on the board authorized to draw jurors and in towns 5 on the selectmen and town clerk.

1 Section 12. Either court may issue venires for additional jurors 2 when necessary for the convenient despatch of its business. They 3 shall be served and returned, and the jurors required to attend on such 4 days, as the court orders.
Section 13. If a case is pending in the superior court for Dukes county, in which the inhabitants of a town in said county are disqualified from serving as jurors, a justice of the court may order the clerk thereof to issue writs of venire facias for a sufficient number of jurors to try such case, from any town whose inhabitants are not so disqualified.

Section 14. At the sittings of the supreme judicial court in Bristol county for which jurors are summoned to attend, one or more jurors from Nantucket county and at least four from Dukes county shall be summoned, the venires for which shall be issued by the clerk of the courts for Bristol county. The cost of their travel and attendance shall be paid by the counties from which they are summoned.

Section 15. For the trial of an indictment found and returned in Nantucket or Dukes county for a capital crime, such number of jurors as a justice of the superior court may order shall be summoned from said counties, respectively, and the cost of their travel and attendance shall be paid by the counties from which they are summoned.

Section 16. No venires for the drawing and summoning of jurors for the sitting of the supreme judicial court for Barnstable county shall be issued unless at the time for their issue there shall be one or more cases to be tried thereby.

Drawing and Summoning of Jursors.

Section 17. All jurors shall be selected by drawing ballots from the jury box.

Drawing of jurors.

Section 18. If jurors are to be drawn in a city, the mayor and city clerk shall meet with the aldermen at its regular place of meeting. The ballots in the jury box shall be shaken and mixed and one of the aldermen, designated by the mayor, shall, without seeing the names written thereon, openly draw a number of ballots equal to the number of jurors required. He shall announce clearly and distinctly the names of the jurors so drawn, and shall then hand the ballots drawn by him to the mayor, who shall examine and verify them. The mayor shall then hand such ballots to the city clerk, who shall announce clearly and distinctly the names upon the ballots and return the same to the jury box, after making the endorsements thereon required by law, and the names so drawn shall be recorded as part of the proceedings and shall be published if and when the proceedings are published officially. In the absence of the mayor, the chairman or president of the board of aldermen shall perform the duties required of the mayor by this section.

Drawing of jurors in cities.

Section 19. When jurors are to be drawn in a town, the town clerk and selectmen shall meet at the clerk’s office or at some other public place appointed for the purpose, and, if the clerk is absent, the selectmen may proceed without him. The ballots in the jury box shall be shaken and mixed and one of the selectmen, without seeing the names written thereon, shall openly draw therefrom a number of ballots equal to the number of jurors required.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1 Section 25. On the day when jurors are summoned to attend at the court for the trial of civil or criminal cases, except capital cases, the clerk of the court shall cause the names, place of abode and occupation of each person so summoned to be written on separate ballots, substantially of uniform size, and shall cause them to be placed in a box provided therefor. When a case is ready for trial the clerk in open court, after shaking the ballots thoroughly, shall draw them out in the order of succession until the names of twelve are drawn who appear and are not excused or set aside. The twelve men so drawn shall be duly sworn in.
and impaneled and shall be the jury to try the issue, and one of them shall be appointed foreman by the court. The ballots containing names of the jurors so sworn shall be kept apart by the clerk until the verdict of such jury has been recorded or such jury has been discharged, when such ballots shall be returned to the box. If a case is ready for trial before the verdict in the preceding case has been recorded or the jury discharged, the court may order a jury for the trial of such issue to be impaneled by the drawing in the manner aforesaid of ballots from those remaining in the box.

Section 26. If a jury is to be impaneled for the trial of a capital case, the clerk of the court shall cause the name of each juror summoned therein to be written on a separate ballot and each ballot to be folded uniformly in such manner that the name written thereon shall not be visible, and shall cause such ballots to be placed in a box provided therefor. He shall then in open court draw the ballots in succession from said box, and the twelve persons whose names are upon the ballots first drawn and who are not excused or otherwise set aside, shall be sworn as the jury for the trial of the case.

Section 27. If, by challenge or otherwise, a sufficient number of jurors duly drawn and summoned cannot be obtained for the trial of a case, the court shall cause jurors to be returned from the bystanders or from the county at large, to complete the panel, if there are on the jury not less than seven of the jurors who were originally drawn and summoned as before provided. The jurors from the bystanders shall be returned by the sheriff or his deputy or by a disinterested person appointed therefor by the court, and shall be such as are qualified and liable to be drawn as jurors.

Section 28. Upon motion of either party, the court shall, or the parties or their attorneys may under the direction of the court, examine on oath a person who is called as a juror therein, to learn whether he is related to either party or has any interest in the case, or has expressed or formed an opinion, or is sensible of any bias or prejudice, therein, and the objecting party may introduce other competent evidence in support of the objection. If the court finds that the juror does not stand indifferent in the case, another shall be called in his stead.

Section 29. Upon the trial of an indictment for a crime punishable by death or imprisonment for life, each defendant shall be entitled to twelve peremptory challenges of the jurors called to try the case, and in other criminal cases each defendant shall be entitled to two such challenges. In every criminal case the commonwealth shall be entitled to as many such challenges as equal the whole number to which all the defendants in the case are entitled. In a civil case each party shall be entitled to two such challenges. Peremptory challenges shall be made before the 9 commencement of the trial and may be made after the determination 10 that a person called to serve as a juror stands indifferent in the case.

§ § 56, 37; 214, 5, 6.

1 Section 30. In indictments and penal actions for the recovery of a 2 forfeiture, it shall not be a cause of challenge to a juror that he is liable
3 to pay taxes in a county, city or town which may be benefited by such 4 recovery.

3 the evidence or any part thereof, explain to them anew the law applicable
4 to the case and send them out for further deliberation; but if they 5 return a second time without having agreed on a verdict, they shall 6 not be sent out again without their own consent, unless they ask from 7 the court some further explanation of the law.

1 Section 35. The court may, upon motion, allow the jury in a civil 2 case to view the premises or place in question or any property, matter
3 or thing relative to the case if the party making the motion advances
4 an amount sufficient to defray the expenses of the jury and the officers 5 who attend them in taking the view, which shall be taxed as costs, if 6 the party who advanced them prevails. The court may order a view by 7 a jury impaneled to try a criminal case.

or imprisonment for not more than one year.

SECTION 39. If, by reason of the neglect of a person upon whom any duty is imposed by this chapter, jurors are not duly drawn and summoned to attend a court, he shall be punished by a fine of not more than twenty dollars, to be imposed by the court to which they should have been summoned, to the use of the county where the offence is committed.

serve on any occasion other than in the supreme judicial or superior court, the officer before whom the jurors were required to appear shall report the fact to the superior court for the same county, which, after an examination and a hearing, may impose the fine provided by the preceding section.

SECTION 41. Whoever is guilty of fraud in the drawing of jurors, either by tampering with the jury box previous to a draft or in drawing a juror, or in returning to the box the name of a juror lawfully drawn out and drawing or substituting another in his stead, or in striking a name from the jury list, or in any other way, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars.

SECTION 42. This chapter shall not affect the power and duty of any officer or magistrate to summon and impanel jurors when otherwise authorized.

Section 2. Judgment in civil actions and proceedings ripe for judgment in district courts shall be entered at ten o'clock in the forenoon on Friday of each week, but if a legal holiday occurs on Friday, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of the Thursday preceding; or it may be entered at any time in a case ripe for judgment upon notice and motion.

Section 3. District courts may by rule establish the time for the entry of judgment in actions of summary process under chapter two hundred and thirty-nine which are ripe for judgment.

Section 4. Every judgment, order or decree of the supreme judicial or superior court shall bear date of the year, month and day when entered; but the court may order it to be entered as of an earlier day than that of entry.

Section 5. In an action upon a promissory note or other contract where the amount due appears to be undisputed, the debt or damages may be ascertained and assessed by the clerk under a general order of the court or by special reference to him. The judgment in either case shall be entered in the same form as if awarded on an assessment or computation made by the court.

Section 6. In an action against two or more defendants upon a contract express or implied, the plaintiff shall be entitled to judgment against such defendants as are defaulted and against those who upon trial are found liable, although it is found that all the defendants are not jointly liable.

Section 7. If in such action any defendants are defaulted, and upon trial any of the others are found liable, the court shall render judgment both against those defaulted and those found liable for the debt or damages, with costs to the time of the default, and against those who defend, for all costs which accrue after the default; and shall issue separate executions on such judgment.

Section 8. When judgment is made up upon an award of county commissioners, a committee or referees, or upon the report of an auditor or master in chancery, or upon the verdict of a jury or the finding of a justice, interest shall be computed upon the amount of the award, report, verdict or finding, from the time when made to the time of making up the judgment. Every judgment for the payment of money shall bear interest from the day of its rendition. The warrant or execution issued...
8 on a judgment for the payment of money shall specify the day upon which the judgment is rendered, and shall require the collection or satisfaction thereof with interest from the day of its rendition.

Section 17. An original execution shall not issue after the expiration of one year after the party is first entitled to take it out; and an alias or other successive execution shall not issue after the expiration of five years from the return day of that which preceded it. Subject to section twenty of chapter two hundred and sixty, alias or successive executions shall be of full force and effect for five years from the date thereof unless satisfied in whole or discharged by law. All executions shall be returned to the court issuing them within ten days after their satisfaction or discharge. If any execution is returned for any reason to the court issuing the same unsatisfied in whole or in part, the court may, subject to the provisions of this section, order the issue of a new execution for the amount then remaining due.

Section 20. If an execution is returned satisfied in whole or in part by the sale of property not liable to such execution, and if damages are recovered against the judgment creditor or the officer who served the execution on account of the seizure and sale of such property, the creditor may have a writ of scire facias on his judgment, and shall thereupon be entitled to a new execution for the amount then remaining due him.

Section 21. If an execution against a corporation is satisfied in whole or in part by service or levy on the person or property of a member thereof, and the property levied on or damages for the service or levy are subsequently recovered by such member from the officer or judgment creditor, the creditor may have a writ of scire facias on his judgment, and shall thereupon be entitled to a new execution for the amount then remaining due him.
1 Section 22. The forms of execution shall be the same as have heretofore been established by law and the usage and practice of the courts.

2 Executions issued upon judgments in civil actions in favor of the commonwealth shall be in form like those in favor of natural persons. Executions issued by a district court for an amount as damages exceeding twenty dollars shall be so framed as to direct a levy upon the lands and tenements of the debtor. Alterations in the forms may be made by the courts, subject to the final control of the supreme judicial court, which may by general rules regulate such changes in all courts of the commonwealth.

Section 23. Original executions issuing on judgments against executors, administrators, trustees and other fiduciary officers in their representative capacity, including any such original execution running against two or more parties, any one or more of whom are fiduciary officers as aforesaid in their representative capacity, or against sheriffs under section ten of chapter thirty-seven, or on special judgments entered under section twenty-four, shall be made returnable within sixty days after the date of the execution. In all other cases, original executions shall be made returnable within twenty years after the date of the judgment.

Special Judgments against Bankrupts or Insolvents.

1 Section 24. If a plaintiff would be entitled to a judgment or a decree, except for the bankruptcy or insolvency of the debtor or his discharge therein, and if, more than four months prior to the commencement of proceedings in bankruptcy, or, in voluntary proceedings in insolvency, more than four months prior to the time of the first publication of the notice of the issuing of the warrant, or, in involuntary proceedings, more than four months prior to the first publication of the notice of the filing of the petition, or, in proceedings in composition in insolvency in which no assignment has been made, more than four months prior to the notice by the register to the creditors of the debtor's proposal of composition, any property, estate, interest or money of a debtor has been attached, or brought within the control of a court of equity by proceedings under clause seven of section three of chapter two hundred and fourteen, by other proceedings in equity, or by payment into court, the court may at any time upon motion enter a special judgment or decree for the plaintiff, for the amount of his debt or damages and costs, or for such other relief as he may be entitled to, to be enforced in the first instance only against the property, estate, interest or money, so attached or brought within the control of a court of equity. If such property, estate, interest or money shall be insufficient to satisfy the judgment or decree in full, the court may thereafter, if the debtor's discharge is refused, or if he shall unreasonably delay to prosecute said proceedings to a discharge, order an alias or other successive execution or other process to be issued upon such judgment or decree for such portion thereof as remains unsatisfied. The creditor may also in case of such refusal or delay have a writ of scire facias or action as provided in section nineteen. This section shall not impair the powers which courts of equity may otherwise exercise.
JUDGMENT AND EXECUTION. [CHAP. 235.

SECTION 25. If a plaintiff would be entitled to a judgment or decree except for the bankruptcy or insolvency of a defendant, or his discharge therein, who has given a bond to dissolve an attachment or to release money or property brought within the control of a court of equity in any manner specified in the preceding section, which attachment was made or money or property brought within control more than four months prior to the commencement of proceedings in bankruptcy, or, in voluntary proceedings in insolvency, more than four months prior to the first publication of the notice of the issuing of the warrant, or, in involuntary proceedings in insolvency, more than four months prior to the first publication of the notice of the filing of the petition, or, in proceedings in composition in insolvency in which no assignment has been made, more than four months prior to the notice by the register to the creditors of the debtor's proposal of composition, the court may at any time, upon motion, enter a special judgment or decree for the plaintiff, which shall be a sufficient judgment or decree, within the meaning of the condition of the bond, if like that set forth in sections one hundred and twenty and one hundred and twenty-five of chapter two hundred and twenty-three, to enable him to maintain an action against the sureties thereon.

SECTION 26. The court may enter a special judgment, with like effect, if a defendant who petitions for a review is adjudged a bankrupt, or a warrant in insolvency is issued against his estate, or he is discharged upon proceedings in composition if no assignment has been made, before or after having given the security required upon such petition, and if the attachment in the original action was not made within the time named in the preceding section.

SET-OFF OF EXECUTIONS.

SECTION 27. Executions between the same parties may, if required by either party, be set off one against the other. In such case, the debtor in an execution which has been delivered to an officer to be served shall deliver his execution to the same officer, whether directed to him or to another, and the officer shall apply the smaller execution, so far as it will extend, to the satisfaction of the larger execution, and the balance due on the larger execution may be collected and paid by him as if there had been no set-off; but such set-off shall not be allowed —

First, If the creditor in one of the executions is not, in the same capacity and trust, the debtor in the other.

Second, If the amount due on the first execution was lawfully and in good faith assigned to another person before the creditor in the second execution became entitled to the amount due thereon.

Third, If there are several creditors in one execution, from a part of whom only the amount due on the other is due.

Fourth, If there are several debtors in one execution, to a part of whom only the amount due on the other is due.

Fifth, As to the portion of either execution upon which the attorney has a lien under section fifty of chapter two hundred and twenty-one.
LEVY OF EXECUTION AND PERSONAL PROPERTY EXEMPT THEREFROM.

1 SECTION 28. If an execution is in the alternative, so that it may be lawfully served in any of two or more ways, the creditor or his attorney may require the officer to serve it in any of said ways; and the officer shall conform to such directions if it is in his power.

R. L. 177, § 28. 3 Cush. 460. 3 Gray, 496.

1 SECTION 29. If the creditor directs an officer to levy his execution on land, the officer shall serve it as provided in the following chapter. If he directs the officer to levy it on the personal property of the debtor, the officer shall serve it as provided in the following sections.

1 SECTION 30. An execution against a corporation, if levied upon its property, shall be levied in the same manner as other executions.

R. S. 97, § 42. P. S. 171, § 30. 1931, 426, § 86.

1 SECTION 31. All property which by common law is liable to be taken in execution, may be taken and sold thereon, except as otherwise expressed and provided.

1 SECTION 32. Current gold or silver coin may be taken on execution, and may be paid to the creditor as money collected.

1 SECTION 33. Bank notes and all other bills or evidences of debt, issued by a moneyed corporation and circulated as money, may be levied upon and sold at the creditor's option, at their par value or money collected, if he will accept them; otherwise, they shall be sold like other chattels.

147 Mass. 81.

1 SECTION 34. The following property of the debtor shall be exempt from seizure on execution:

5 Allen, 148.
6 Allen, 292.
9 Allen, 156.

Seventh, Provisions necessary and procured and intended for the use of the family, not exceeding fifty dollars in value.
5 Allen, 158.

Eighth, One pew occupied by him or his family in a house of public worship; but this provision shall not prevent the sale of a pew for the non-payment of a tax legally laid thereon.

Ninth, Boats, fishing tackle and nets of fishermen actually used by them in the prosecution of their business, not exceeding one hundred dollars in value.

Tenth, The uniform of an officer or soldier in the militia and the arms and accoutrements required by law to be kept by him.

Eleventh, Rights of burial and tombs while in use as repositories for the dead.

Twelfth, One sewing machine, in actual use by each debtor or by his family, not exceeding one hundred dollars in value.

Thirteenth, Shares in co-operative associations subject to chapter one hundred and fifty-seven, not exceeding twenty dollars in value in the aggregate.

Fourteenth, Estates of homestead as defined in chapter one hundred and eighty-eight.

Section 35. If there is reasonable doubt as to the ownership of personal property or as to its liability to be taken on execution, before or after the execution has been levied thereon, the officer may require sufficient security from the creditor to indemnify him for taking or continuing to hold the same. If sufficient security is not furnished within a reasonable time after the officer has made a written demand upon the creditor or his attorney, the officer may refuse to levy the execution or, if he has already levied it, may discharge his levy, without liability to the creditor therefor.

Sale of personal property taken on execution.

Section 36. Personal property seized on execution shall be safely kept by the officer, at the expense of the debtor, for four days at least; and shall be sold by public auction within fourteen days next after the 4 seizure, except as provided in the following sections, unless the debtor
5 before such sale redeems it by otherwise satisfying the execution.

P. S. 171, § 36. R. L. 177, § 36. 7 Gray, 416.

1 Section 37. The officer shall give notice of the time and place of 2 sale by causing notices thereof to be posted forty-eight hours at least 3 before the time of sale in a public place in the town where the sale is to be 4 made, or by causing an advertisement of the time and place of sale to be 5 published in a newspaper, if any, published in the town where the debtor 6 had his last and usual place of residence.

1 Section 38. If the value of such property to be sold exceeds three 2 hundred dollars, the officer shall, at the request of either party, give 3 notice of the sale by advertisement in a newspaper as provided in the 4 preceding section; and the sale may be made at any time after the expira-
5 tion of four days, and within thirty days after seizure on execution.

1 Section 39. If, at the time appointed for the sale, the officer con-
2 siders it for the interest of all persons concerned to postpone it, he may 3 adjourn it for not more than seven days, and so from time to time until 4 the sale is completed; giving notice of every such adjournment by a 5 public declaration thereof at the time and place previously appointed for 6 the sale.

1 Section 40. If a sale of such property on execution is enjoined, it may 2 be adjourned by the court granting the injunction to await further order
3 of the court, and upon dissolution of the injunction the court may order
4 the sale to proceed, and may order additional notice of the adjourned
5 sale.

1 Section 41. If the highest bidder for an article at such sale refuses 2 to take and pay for it, the officer shall sell it again by auction, at the 3 same time or within ten days thereafter, giving notice of the second sale
4 and he shall account for what he receives on the second sale, and for any 5 damages recovered of the first bidder for a loss on the re-sale, as for so 6 much received on the execution.

1 Section 42. The officer making such sale shall in his return of the 2 execution particularly describe the property sold and the amount for 3 which each article was sold; and if he is guilty of fraud in the sale or 4 return, he shall be liable in tort to the party injured for five times the 5 amount of the actual damage sustained by reason of such fraud.

R. L. 177, § 42. 102 Mass. 414.

1 Section 43. The officer shall apply the money arising from the sale
2 to paying the charges and satisfying the execution, and shall return the 3 residue, if any, to the debtor on demand, or shall apply and pay over the 4 same as provided in the following sections.

1 Section 44. If the property sold on execution has been attached by 2 another creditor, or seized on another execution, either by the same or 3 another officer, or if before payment of such residue to the debtor another writ of attachment or execution against him is delivered to the officer who made the sale, the proceeds of the sale shall be applied to the discharge of the several judgments in the order in which the respective writs of attachment or execution were served, and any residue returned to the debtor.

Section 45. If an attachment or seizure on execution is made of any property which may be attached without taking and keeping the exclusive possession thereof, and if the same property is subsequently attached or taken on execution by another officer, he shall give notice thereof to the officer who made the first attachment or seizure; and if the latter, before he receives such notice, pays to the debtor the balance of the proceeds of a sale, he shall not be liable therefor to the person claiming under such subsequent attachment or seizure.

LEVY ON TERMS FOR YEARS.

Section 46. Terms for years, if the original lease was for one hundred years or more, and fifty years or more thereof remain unexpired, shall be regarded as real estate, for the levy of an execution thereon. Other terms for years shall be seized and sold on execution in like manner as personal property, except that the officer before selling the same shall give fourteen days’ notice of the time and place of sale, by leaving a written notice thereof with the debtor personally or at his last and usual place of abode, and by posting a notice on the leased premises.

Suspension of Levy.

Section 47. If personal property has been seized on execution, and the further service of the execution is suspended by reason of a prior attachment or seizure of the same property, such property shall remain bound by such later seizure until sold, in whole or in part, under the prior attachment or seizure, or until that attachment or seizure is dissolved.

DEATH, ETC., OF OFFICER OR PARTY AFTER COMMENCEMENT OF LEVY OR SERVICE.

Section 49. If an officer, who has begun to serve an execution or other writ or process, dies or becomes incapable of completing the service and return thereof, the service may be completed by any officer qualified to serve it; or in case of illness or absence, the judgment creditor or the officer who began to serve the writ or process may delegate any officer qualified to serve it temporarily to act for him during said illness or absence. If the first officer has not made a certificate of his doings, the second officer shall certify whatever he finds to have been done by the first officer, and shall add thereto a certificate of his own doings.
1. SECTION 50. If an officer has begun to serve an execution, he may complete the service and return thereof, although he is removed from office or although the service cannot be completed until after the return day.

1. SECTION 51. If either party dies after any property, real or personal, has been seized on execution, the service thereof may be completed in like manner and with like effect as if both parties were living and the officer may appoint an appraiser for the deceased party.

PENALTY ON OFFICER FOR DETAINING MONEY COLLECTED.

1. SECTION 52. An officer who, upon demand by the creditor, unreasonably neglects to pay money collected by him on execution shall forfeit to the creditor five times the lawful interest of the money from the time of the demand until it is paid.

LAND SUBJECT TO LEVY.

SECTION 1. All the land of a debtor in possession, remainder or reversion, all his rights of entry into land and of redeeming mortgaged land, and all such land and rights fraudulently conveyed by him with intent to defeat, delay or defraud his creditors, or purchased or directly or indirectly paid for by him but the record title of which has been retained in the vendor or conveyed to a third person with intent to defeat, delay or defraud the creditors of the debtor, or on a trust for him, express or implied, whereby he is entitled to a present conveyance, may, except as provided in chapter one hundred and eighty-eight, be taken on execution for his debts as provided in this chapter.

SECTION 2. Estates tail may be taken on execution in like manner as estates in fee simple; and whoever lawfully holds such land under the execution shall have an estate in fee simple therein.

SECTION 3. An officer taking land on execution shall give notice thereof to the debtor, if found within his precinct, cause the land to be appraised as provided in this chapter, if an appraisal is required, and complete the levy without unnecessary delay.

SECTION 4. If land, which was not attached on mesne process in the action in which the execution issued, is taken on execution, the officer shall forthwith deposit in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land lies a copy of the execution with a memorandum thereon that the execution is in his hands for the purpose of taking the land of the defendant, and no such taking shall be valid against a purchaser in good faith, for value and without notice, before such copy is deposited.

If land was attached on mesne process, a copy of the execution with a memorandum as aforesaid shall be deposited by the officer in the registry.
LEVY OF EXECUTIONS ON LAND.

10 of deeds for the county or district where the land lies, within forty days
11 after the judgment in the action, and the attachment shall become void 12 forty days after said judgment unless the copy is so deposited; provided, 13 that if land was attached on mesne process in Nantucket county and judg-14 ment was rendered in another county, or if judgment was rendered in 15 Nantucket county and land was attached in another county, said copy 16 shall be deposited within seventy days after judgment in the action, 17 and the attachment shall become void seventy days after said judgment 18 unless the copy is so deposited.

1 Section 5. The register shall note on every such copy the day,
2 hour and minute when received and shall file it in his office. He shall 3 enter in the book, kept by him for the entry of attachments of land, the 4 names of the plaintiff and defendant as stated in the copy and the time
5 when the copy was deposited.

LEVY BY SET-OFF.

1 Section 6. The officer shall cause the land to be appraised by three 2 disinterested persons, to be appointed, one by the creditor, one by the 3 debtor whose land is taken or, if the debtor is absent from or does not 4 reside in the commonwealth, by his agent or attorney if he has any 5 known to the officer, and one by the officer. If the debtor is absent from 6 or does not reside in the commonwealth and has no agent or attorney
7 known to the officer or if he neglects within a reasonable time to appoin 8 an appraiser, the officer shall appoint one for him.
