6 and swimming pool. For said purpose said commission may 7 expend such sums as may be appropriated.

The Geography of the Alps

by [illegible]

The Alps are a mountain range that stretches across Europe from the Pyrenees in the west to the Caucasus in the east. They are the highest mountain range in Europe, with many peaks exceeding 10,000 feet. The Alps are a major geographical feature of Europe, and they have a significant impact on the climate and the environment of the region. The Alps are also a major source of water for many of the rivers in Europe, and they are a major center of tourism and recreation. The Alps are a complex and diverse region, and they have a rich history and culture.
