EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE HOUSE, BOSTON, August 15, 1935.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives:

I beg you will accept of my sincere appreciation for the splendid service which you have rendered during the past year in the enactment of legislation for the lightening of the burden upon those most heavily laden and by the adoption of remedial legislation beneficial to the people and to the state.

The session, while exceedingly protracted, has been helpful in the solution of many problems and the members of your honorable body are justified in taking a pardonable pride in accomplishments for which a discriminating and grateful public may well be duly appreciative.

In the opinion of competent authorities the legislative reforms enacted by your honorable body are greater in volume and more weighty in value to the people than any ever before enacted in any similar session either by the legislature of this or any other commonwealth in the United States.

JAMES M. CURLEY.
