THE GOVERNMENT OF 1886.

BIOGRAPHICAL AND POLITICAL SKETCHES OF THE MEMBERS OF THE EXECUTIVE AND LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENTS.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Governor.

HIS EXCELLENCY GEORGE DEXTER ROBINSON

Enters for a third term upon the highest office in the Commonwealth. A resident of Chicopee, he was born in Lexington, Mass., Feb. 20, 1834, and prepared for college in the Hopkins Classical School, Cambridge. He was graduated at Harvard University in 1856, and accepting the position of Principal of the High School in Chicopee, remained in that institution nine years, retiring in 1865. He was admitted to the Bar in Cambridge in 1866, and entered at once upon the practice of his profession. In 1874 he represented Chicopee in the House of Representatives, and two years later he was a member of the State Senate. In both branches of the Legislature he displayed marked ability, and his qualities as a legislator were recognized in 1876 by his election to represent the then Eleventh District in Congress. Prompt and regular in his attendance to the duties of his position, he distinguished himself by his ability to grasp quickly the merits of questions at issue, by his broad and honest aims, and by the excellent judgment he displayed in speech and action. A well-informed parliamentarian, he was regarded as an authority in that direction, was one of the best presiding officers in Congress, and in the Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, and Forthy-seventh Congresses, of which he was a member, he exerted a strong and useful influence. After the redistricting of the State in 1882, he was elected from the new Twelfth District, but before the organization of the Forty-eighth Congress he was elected Governor. He took his seat in Congress, nevertheless, to assist in the organization of the House, resigning in order to enter upon the duties of the Chief Magistracy of the Commonwealth. Gov. Robinson's triple term of service has been marked by a dignified and able discharge of all the requirements of his high official position. With the customary limitation, he will probably retire from the Chief Magistracy with the unqualified reputation of a faithful, judicious, "model" Governor, wellnigh realizing the "ideal" of the good citizen in his scrupulous fidelity and high sense of honor in the weighty responsibilities of his official career.
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Lieutenant-Governor.

HIS HONOR OLIVER AMES,

Of Easton, has held the office of Lieutenant-Governor three terms. He is a native of the town where his residence is, and was born Feb. 21, 1831. His education was received in the public schools, the Leicester Academy, and Brown University. He was trained as a practical mechanic in the factory of his father, the late Hon. Oakes Ames, to whose large manufacturing and railroad interests he and his brothers succeeded. In these concerns he is still interested. Prior to the War of the Rebellion, he was an officer in the State militia. He was on the School Committee in Easton a number of years, and was the ablest and most active member of the State Senate in 1880 and 1881. He represents the outcome of Massachusetts' skill, industry, and enterprise. His family for three generations have conserved the largest business and railroad interests with sagacity, foresight, and prudence that have given them a national fame. The country throbs from shore to shore with the grand results of their marvellous energy, and the implements of their industry stir the soil of every clime, and lighten the hands of toil in every land under the sun. Nor is this unostentatious industry and ability less characteristic of the four sons and cousins who manage the "millions" committed to their trust and have developed with such signal energy, efficiency, and ever-increasing prosperity, with a noble record of the highest citizenship and public-spirited philanthropy.

Councillors.

District No. 1. Hon. Jonathan Bourne, of New Bedford, is the senior member of the Executive Council this year, having served two full terms. He was born in Sandwich, Mass., March 25, 1811, was educated in the public schools, and is a merchant. Engaging in the famous New Bedford whale fishery, he prosecuted with such foresight and vigor as to realize a handsome fortune, become the owner of the largest whaling tonnage known to the world, and an important factor in New Bedford enterprise, which secured for it the repute of being the wealthiest city in ratio of population in the Union. He is a politician of the old-school Whig and stanch Republican type in the days of that great Congressional leader of the war, Hon. Thomas D. Elliott, who so long and nobly represented the First Massachusetts Congressional District. With Mr. Bourne were associated in those days, when patriotism and politics were introconvertible synonyms, Col. Wm. Fessenden, Hon. Geo. Marston, and Hon. Wm. T. Davis, all of the First District, with political opponents worthy of their steel in the persons of those old Democratic war horses, Major S. B. Phinney and Moses Bates, men who neither gave nor asked "quarter." Mr. Bourne was four times delegate to the National Convention, and first "broke" from Seward to Lincoln in 1860. For a whole decade was State Director in the Boston and Albany Railroad, five years Alderman in his own city, and thrice elected Councillor from the First District, President of the Merchants' National Bank, Bourne Mills, and Bristol County Insurance Company, and exceptionally complimented in the christening the new town set off from old Sandwich, his native town, with his own name of "Bourne." Still vigorous at seventy-five as most men of fifty, he is able to serve the interests of his beloved Cape Cod, the confidence of whose people he holds in unlimited trust.

District No. 2. Hon. Warren E. Locke, of Norwood, who returns to the Council for a second term, is a railroad agent. He was born in Lexington, Mass., May 28, 1841, and received his education in the High School and the Warren Academy in Woburn. Mr. Locke is a thoroughly bred railroad-man, commencing at the lower round of the ladder, and rising by native ability, keen oversight, and untiring industry through every grade of practical and clerical work, now occupying the responsible position of agent of the Fitchburg Railroad, just entering upon its new administration of the great through Hoosac Tunnel and Western route. Its advent from a local State road, so successfully managed in the past, to one of the only two grand trunk routes to the West and Pacific shore, will be one of the triumphs of judicious legislation and corporative enterprise and sagacity. Mr. Locke has always taken a public-spirited interest in town and local affairs, as Moderator of its town-meetings, and the lead in active Republican politics. He was chosen to represent his district in the Senate of 1882, and Chairman of the Committee on Labor; also serving on Street Railroads and Engrossed Bills. Re-elected to the Senate in 1883, he, besides serving on the Committees on Federal Relations, Rules, and Railroads, was Chairman of Street Railroads, and as such, led in one of the most severely contested senatorial contests on record, in opposition to Meigs' Elevated Railroad. In 1884, he was chosen to represent the Second Councillor District, and re-elected the present year, and is on the Committee on Finance, Harbor and Lands, Prisons, and Warrants.

District No. 3. Hon. John Haskell Butler, of Somerville, is a lawyer, and was born in Middletown, Mass., Aug. 31, 1841. He was graduated at Yale College in 1863. In 1880 and 1881 he was a member of the House of Representatives, and in 1884 he was elected by the Legislature to fill the vacancy in the Council caused by the death of Hon. Charles R. McLean, of Boston. He was elected in the district at the ensuing election.

District No. 4. Hon. Lawrence J. Logan, of Boston, the only Democrat elected to the Council for the current year, is a trader. He was born in Ireland in 1840, and has had no previous experience in public office. He is Lieutenant-Colonel of the Ninth Regiment M. V. M., having risen from the ranks through nearly all the grades.

District No. 5. Hon. Frank Dewey Allen, of Lynn, was born in Worcester, Mass., Aug. 16, 1850; was educated in the public schools of Worcester and High School, fitting for Yale College and graduating with honor in the Class of 1873. Studied law at the Boston University and in the office of Ex-Gov. Boutwell; admitted to the Bar, and has since practised his profession in Boston very successfully. Is now attorney for the Lancaster Bank, having in charge all its legal interests, and in prosecution of its criminal officials and accessories. Mr. Allen has been at the head of local politics in his closely contested districts, acting as Chairman of Town, Senatorial, and Congressional Republican Committees in 1884-85. Also chosen member of the State Central Committee. Elected to the Legislature in 1881, serving on the most active and important committees. Also Clerk of Judiciary Committee. Is now re-elected to the Executive Council for 1886. Committees: Hoosac Tunnel; Charitable Institutions; Prisons, and Warrants.

District No. 6. Hon. Abraham B. Coffin, of Winchester, was a member of the Council last year. He is a lawyer, was born in Gilead, Me., March 31, 1831, and was graduated at Dartmouth College in 1856. Removing from Maine to Derry, N. H., he enjoyed the advantages of the Academy, and a full preparatory course at Andover, Phillips Academy. After entering Dartmouth, he carried on his studies with his class with creditable success, besides teaching in the high schools at Boxford, Andover, and Stoneham, graduating with his class in 1856, with that solid, self-reliant, rounded attainment, so well calculated to secure success, which characterizes the "Son of the old Granite State." The two years following graduation he spent in Virginia teaching and studying law. He was admitted to the Bar at Richmond, Va., in the fall of 1858, but with prudent yet not the lest vigilant analysis of the social and political elements brewing in ante bellum South, foreseeing the inevitable outburst of the gathering storm, and too true to the free air and liberty-loving instincts of his native hills, he returned to New England for permanent residence, studying law in the office of the late John P. Healey; he was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in 1859, was Trial Justice at Winchester from 1860 to 1864; School Committee, and member of Board of Health for several years. He has represented his town as counsel in its controversies with the Boston and Lowell Railroad, and in its important relations with the entire Mystic water system before frequent Legislative committees. Was chosen Representative to the Legislature of 1875, and Chairman of Committee on Elections, and again to the Senate in 1877–78, acting as Chairman of Committee on Taxation, on Judiciary, Revision of the Judicial System of State Courts, and Constitutional Amendments. To a sterling honesty of principle and sincerity of purpose, inborn and bred of his old New England home, he has brought a cool, safe judgment and professional accuracy that give him his well-earned prominence.

District No. 7. Hon. Henry Clay Greeley, of Clinton, is another representative of last year's Council. He is a dry-goods dealer, was born in Hudson, N. H., Oct. 15, 1830, and received an academical education. He has held various important town offices, has been a Trustee and Treasurer of the Lancaster Industrial School for Girls, and was a member of the State Senate in 1870 and 1871.

District No. 8. Hon. Lewis J. Powers was born in Springfield, Mass., Jan. 15, 1837; educated in the common schools of the same place; was a member of the City Council in Springfield in 1862, 1867, and 1869; was a member of the Board of Aldermen in 1874 and 1875; was Mayor of the city in 1879 and 1880; also a director of the Agawam National Bank, Hampden Savings Bank, Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, Springfield Electric Light Company, Wason Manufacturing Company, and Springfield Printing Company; is now President and Treasurer of the Powers Paper Company, and Treasurer of the National Trotting Association; now chosen a member of the Governor's Council for 1886, and on Committees on Pardons, Finance, Prisons, and Military Affairs. Mr. Powers has been one of the ablest and most successful business men in the State, without a rival in the rapidity, foresight, energy, and sagacity of his marvellously extended and prosperous enterprises. Has worked up from carrier of the Springfield Republican at $2.50 per week, through all the grades of salesman, partner, president, and proprietor of the largest paper manufacturing, importing and jobbing house in the country, with factories and sales warehouses covering an entire square in Springfield, and sales warehouses in New York and San Francisco. The bare outline of his business enterprises covers six solid quarto pages of the Paper World, with a running record of scores of his intimate and intricate handling of almost every official, business, and manufacturing interest his native city can boast, and their name is legion.

RECAPITULATION.

The Executive Council includes only one Democrat, as was the case last year. Three of the members take seats in the body for the first time. There are included in the membership three lawyers, two merchants, a manufacturer, a trader, and a railroad agent. With the exception of one member, born in Ireland, all the Councillors are natives of New England, and five of them were born in Massachusetts. Mr. Bourne is the senior Councillor, both in years and in point of service, and Mr. Allen is the youngest man in the body. The average age is 50 years and 6 months.

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Hon. Henry Bailey Peirce, of Abington, has been Secretary of the Commonwealth since 1876, and has been an efficient and popular official. He was born in Duxbury, Mass., Aug. 6, 1841, received his education in the public schools and in a mercantile academy, and in 1861 enlisted in the Twenty third Massachusetts Regiment, with which he served during the war of the Rebellion, being mustered out as a Captian. He was Adjutant-General of the Department of Massachusetts G. A. R., from 1870 to 1876, and has held the offices of Commissioner for the Care of Disabled Soldiers, and Secretary and Treasurer of that Commission. Under his special organizing and administrative abilities, the large and varied range of State archives, from the earliest colonial records, have been codified, arranged, and preserved in spacious and newly fitted rooms and fire-proofs, forming one of the largest and most important of the State departments.

Treasurer and Receiver-General.

Hon. Alanson Wilder Beard, of Boston, who takes charge of the treasury for a first term, was born in Ludlow, Vt., Aug. 20, 1825, and received a common school education. He was Postmaster at Pittsfield, Vt., six years, and removing to Boston, was engaged in business and took an active interest in public affairs. In 1870 and 1871 he was a member of the House of Representatives. He was appointed Collector of Customs for the port of Boston in 1878 and held that position four years. In 1884 and 1885 he was again a Representative in the Legislature, and was an influential member, serving on the Committees on Taxation, on Finance, and on Expenditures in 1884, being House Chairman of the first-named committee. In 1885 he was Chairman of the Finance Committee and House Chairman of the Committee of Expenditures. Mr. Beard has been for years an active member of the Republican party, was a delegate to the National Republican Convention in 1868, and was Chairman of the Republican State Committee in 1875 and again last year.

Auditor of Accounts.

Hon. Charles R. Ladd, of Springfield, became Auditor of Accounts in 1879 by appointment to fill the vacancy created in the office by the resignation of Hon. Julius L. Clarke. Elected for the following year, he has been re-elected every year since. Mr. Ladd was born in Tolland, Conn., April 9, 1822. He has held the offices of Register of Probate and Treasurer for Hampden County, has been a member of both branches of the Springfield City Council, was a member of the House of Representatives in 1853, 1854, and 1879, and was a State Senator in 1869 and 1870.

Attorney-General.

Hon. Edgar J. Sherman, of Lawrence, has held the office of Attorney-General three years. He was born in Weathersfield, Vt., Nov. 28, 1834, and received his education in the Wesleyan Academy and under private tutors. Enlisting in the Union army as a private, he attained the rank of Captain, and was given a brevet promotion as Major. From 1867 to 1876 he was Adjutant-General and Chief of Division Staff in the State militia, with the rank of Colonel. Under the United States government he has been a Register in Bankruptcy. He was a Representative in the Legislature in 1865 and 1866, was District Attorney for the Eastern District from 1868 to 1882, and resigned that office Dec. 20, 1882, in order to accept the office of Attorney-General, to which he had been elected.

Adjutant-General.

Samuel Dalton, Adjutant-General, was born in Salem, son of Col. Dalton of the Fortieth Massachusetts Regiment during the war. Was educated at the public schools, and at an early age acquired a special interest in military service as a member of that noted corps, the Salem Cadets, with which he was connected at the breaking out of the war. It had scarcely begun, when he enlisted in the Fourteenth Massachusetts Volunteers, afterwards known as the First Massachusetts Heavy Artillery. He soon received a Sergeant's warrant; Feb. 15, 1862, was commissioned as Second Lieutenant, and June 7, the same year, promoted to First Lieutenant. The Fourteenth left Fort Warren, Aug. 7, 1861, to occupy Maryland Heights and Fort Albany, then considered the key to Washington; afterwards at Cloud's Mills, Bull Run, Manassas, Fairfax Court House, returning to Maryland Heights at the close of the campaign. Through the winter of 1862-63 it occupied Harper's Ferry until June to, when ordered to Winchester; was at Frederick City, Boonsboro', Hagerstown, and Williamsport, returning to occupy Harper's Ferry in August and through the winter; from Dec. 11, 1863, to May 15, 1864, occupied the fortifications south of Washington, where it joined the Army of the Potomac at Spottsylvania. Went into action at Fredericksburg with sixteen hundred men, and lost over three hundred in the fight, killed and wounded; was at North Anna, Hanover Court House, and Coal Harbor, Bowker's Mills and Petersburg. In December was engaged at Weldon Roads and Petersburg. Opened the campaign of '65 in a heavy engagement at Hatcher's Run, and constantly at the front till Appomattox was reached, and the announcement of Lee's surrender was made by Gen. Meade, personally, at Clover Hill. Marching through Richmond, the regiment arrived at Washington just one year to a day from joining the Army of the Potomac. April 6, 1866, he joined the Second Corps of Cadets as Captain of his old company; promoted to Major's rank in May, 1876; appointed Inspector of Ordnance in December, 1881, by Gov. Long; Jan. 4, 1883, appointed Adjutant-General, with rank of Brigadier-General, and advanced to a Major-Generalship by Gov. Robinson. His admirable military and business management of his department is acknowledged to be of the highest order, and so recognized by the entire civil and military jurisdiction of the State.
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

ALFRED F. HOLT, Surgeon-General, was born in Lyndeboro', N. H., Dec. 16, 1838; received his education in the public schools and Mount Vernon Academy. Studied medicine at the Harvard Medical School, 1858-60, also at the University of Vermont. Was practising medicine at Cambridge on the breaking out of the war, when he volunteered in Company C, Third Regiment M. V. M., organized April 17, 1861, the first company raised for the suppression of the Rebellion in the United States. The regiment was in service at Norfolk, Hampton, and Fort Monroe. Served as hospital steward at Fort Monroe. In November, 1861, joined the Thirtieth Regiment as Assistant Surgeon. Served in the Department of the Gulf till December, 1862, when promoted to Surgeon of First Texas Cavalry. December, 1863, commissioned Major of same regiment. Fall of 1864, received Lieutenant-Colonel's commission, serving in that capacity until October, 1865, participating in nearly all the campaigns and battles of the Gulf Department, until mustered out of service at the end of the war. He has since practised his profession in Cambridge. Was appointed Medical Examiner in July, 1879, and in January, 1884, Surgeon-General. Has been Health Officer of Cambridge, member of the American Medical Association, Massachusetts Medical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Medical Science, member of the Loyal Legion, and Grand Army of the Republic. Gen. Holt is still a comparatively young man, of fine physique, large experience and ability, and capable of giving many years of valuable and enduring service to the public and State.

CHARLES ENDICOTT, Tax Commissioner, was born in Canton, Oct. 28, 1822; received the usual aid offered by the common schools of the period, of which he availed himself to the utmost by an assiduity and perseverance, making ample amends for the lack of larger opportunities in academic education. Read law with the late Hon. Ellis Ames, of Canton, and admitted to the Bar in 1857. His first official appointment was to the office of Deputy Sheriff, following in most of the offices of trust and executive management in his native town. He was also for many years County Commissioner, and Commissioner of Insolvency for the County of Norfolk. Elected Representative to the Legislatures of 1851, '57, and '58, and to the Senate for the years 1866, '67, following as Executive Councillor for the Second District in 1868, '69. Chosen State Auditor, he served six years in that department, from 1870 to '76. Elected State Treasurer in 1876, he was re-elected continuously five years till the limitation of the statute expired in 1881, when he was reappointed Tax Commissioner and Commissioner of Corporations in 1881, conducting the important and intricate affairs of that department till the present time. This unbroken continuity of public service for forty years, in all their varied departments of official capacity, presents an honorable record, alike creditable to himself and valuable to the State. To his honor be it exceptionally recorded, he has never compromised the genial serenity of the refined, courteous, and urbane gentleman in the usual asperities and dictatorial assumptions of political and public life.

CHARLES W. HASTINGS, Commissioner of State Aid, born Jan. 19, 1831, in Schenectady, N. Y. Came to Boston in 1846. Employed in the printing establishment of S. N. Dickinson. Became a resident of Weymouth in 1851. Was a member of the Legislature from that town in 1861. In April of that year resigned his seat in the House, and enlisted in Company H, Twelfth Massachusetts (Webster) Regiment Infantry. Received commission as First-Lieutenant in the same regiment, April 29, 1861. Commissioned Captain, Aug. 10, 1862. Captured by the enemy on the 24th of May, 1864, and was a prisoner of war until March 1, 1865. Was mustered out of service March 12, 1865. In October, 1871, received an appointment as Clerk of the Board of Massachusetts State Police Commissioners, and held that position until the Board was abolished. Was appointed to a clerkship in the office of the Secretary of State in 1878, and in 1879, by Gov. Talbot, Commissioner of State Aid. Was a charter member of Reynolds Post 58, G. A. R., Department of Massachusetts, organized in 1868, and was its first Senior Vice-Commander. Commander of the Post in 1871-72, and Post-Adjutant for fifteen consecutive years.

JOHN WOODBRIDGE DICKINSON, the present Secretary of the State Board of Education, passed his early years in South Williamstown, Mass. Here he obtained the rudiments of a common school education in the public schools of the town. At the age of nine years he was taken from the school for work on the farm during the summer time, attending school during the winter months only. Having an overmastering desire for a liberal education, he entered Greylock Institute, a celebrated private preparatory school in South Williamstown, conducted by the brothers Benjamin F. and Josiah A. Mills. The last two years of his preparatory course were spent at Williston Seminary in East Hampton, under principal Luther Wright, well known as one of the most celebrated classical teachers of his time. On graduating from Williston Seminary, Mr. Dickinson entered the Freshman class at Williams College in the autumn of 1848, graduating in 1852 with the classical honors of the class. In September of that year he received the appointment of assistant teacher in the Normal School at Westfield, Mass., under the principal, Mr. David S. Rowe. He continued to perform the duties of assistant for four years, with marked ability, when, on the resignation of the principal, Mr. William H. Wells, he was appointed principal of the school. For twenty years he performed the duties of the office with great success, which gave to the Normal School a national reputation, and to the public schools of the State a large number of teachers well trained in the philosophy of teaching. Mr. Dickinson early became a most diligent student of a pedagogical science, and was among the first to introduce those reforms in teaching which have since been working their way slowly into the best schools of the country. The Westfield Normal School was the first to reduce the teaching of all subjects as well as objects to the oral objective method, requiring the learner to use his own active power in working out, under the simple direction of the teacher, his own problems for himself. In 1877, on the resignation of the Hon. Joseph White, Mr. Dickinson was called from the Normal School at Westfield to the office of Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Education. His study and experience in the Normal School had fitted him to perform the duties of his new position. During his term of service as Secretary, the cause of popular instruction has made great progress in the old Commonwealth. The old school-district system has been abolished; more stringent compulsory laws, relating to attendance, have been passed; the distribution of the income of the State School Fund has been rearranged in favor of the small towns, and the system of free school-books and free supplies has been established, rendering our schools literally free schools. The State Normal Art School, after having passed through a long struggle for simple existence, has at last found rest in a public appreciation of its solid merits. Within the last few years, by means of teachers' institutes, teachers' conventions, public lectures, and the Annual Reports of the Board of Education, normal schools, and the good work of the agents of the Board, the school spirit of the State has been made more intense and more intelligent. Mr. Dickinson, now in the prime of life, is in earnest to make Massachusetts still the leader in all that is excellent in the methods of popular instruction.

Librarian.

C. B. TILLINGHAST, in charge of State Library, was born in West Greenwich, R. I., April 3, 1843, and was educated in the public schools and public libraries of Windham County, Conn., where he was for several years a teacher and school officer. Became connected with the editorial department of the Boston Daily Journal in 1870, and was city editor for several years. Resigning this position, he accepted the charge of the State Library of Massachusetts, June 1, 1879. Under his supervision the valuable State Library, in its quiet, attractive, and orderly halls, has been brought to a high condition in selection, arrangement, and wide-reaching usefulness. In its specialties of law, history, and official records it affords invaluable aid to a large number of young students that constantly surround its ample tables and gather in its well-lighted alcoves.

Stephen Clarence Wrightington, born Feb. 15, 1828, in Troy, Mass., before and later known as Fall River; member of the Common Council of that city in the years 1855, 1856, and 1857, the two latter years as President of that body, resigning in 1857 to assume the office of Assessor, serving in that capacity during the succeeding two years. Member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1859, 1860, and 1861. In 1860 was in the employ of the Alien Commission, where he continued until its abolition in 1863, and further in the employ of its successor, the Board of State Charities, until 1868, when he was appointed General Agent of that board by Gov. Bullock, remaining in that position by successive appointments until the abolition of the board in 1879. He then received the appointment of Superintendent of In-Door Poor, which he has held for six years under the present Board of Health, Lunacy, and Charity. A quarter of a century in executive management of various departments of State charities, with a previous large experience in control of city and State affairs, has given him an enviable position as one of the ablest, most efficient, and popular officials in departmental business.

Thomas Parsons, Chairman of the Board of Commissioners of Prisons, was born in Boston, July 23, 1816, and educated in the Boston schools and at Harvard University. His grandfather was Chief-Justice Theophilus Parsons. Mr. Parsons has been a resident of Brookline since 1832, and has been prominent in the public affairs of the town, having been Selectman for sixteen years, and a member of the School Committee for a similar period, and Chairman of both Boards for many years. He was an original member of the Brookline Public Library, and for a long time has been a Trustee and President of the Board. He served in the House of Representatives as a Representative from Brookline, six years, 1858-60, 1862, 1863, and 1868. For five years he was a member of the Committee on the Revision of the Statutes in 1859, and on the Valuation Committee in 1860. He is president of the Lyman Mills, and interested in other manufacturing corporations. He was first appointed as a member of the Board of Commissioners of Prisons in 1878, by Gov. Rice. When the Board was reorganized in 1879, he was appointed a member, and was reappointed by Gov. Robinson in 1884. He has been Chairman of the Board since he became one of its members.

Warren F. Spalding, Secretary and executive officer of the Commissioners of Prisons, was born in Hillsborough, N. H., Jan. 14, 1841. He received a common school education in Nashua, N. H., where he lived from 1845 to 1870. He was engaged in the furniture business there for several years. He enlisted as a private in Company F, First Regiment N. H. Heavy Artillery, in the last year of the War of the Rebellion, and served nearly a year, and until the end of the war, being detached from his regiment during the latter part of the time, and assigned to clerical service at the War Department. He came to Boston in 1870, and was engaged in journalism, as reporter and editor, for nearly nine years, upon the Daily News, Daily Globe, and Commercial Bulletin. He was elected Secretary of the old Board of Commissioners of Prisons, in April, 1879, and became the Secretary of the new Board when it was reorganized in May of that year.

Abner Cheney Goodell, Jr., of Salem; born at Cambridgeport, Oct. 1, 1831; studied law with his uncle, Hon. George Haskell, of Ipswich, and with Northend and Choate, of Salem. He was admitted to the Bar at the November term of the Supreme Judicial Court, 1852, and immediately began practice at Lynn. In 1856 he was appointed first Register of the newly established Court of Insolvency for Essex County, to which he was also elected the next autumn; and, upon the consolidation of the Courts of Probate and Insolvency, in 1858, he was elected Register of the two courts to serve from January, 1859. This office he held for twenty years by successive elections. He relinquished his general law practice upon his election as Register of Probate and Insolvency. In 1856 he was appointed, by Gov. Andrew, one of the commissioners on the publication of the laws of the old Province of Massachusetts Bay. His senior associates were Ex-Gov John H. Clifford, and Ellis Ames, of Canton, both since deceased. In 1867 he was directed, by Gov. Bullock, to proceed with the editing and printing of the Province Laws, in conjunction with Mr. Ames, one of his associates under the former commission. The labor of this edition, which has reached the last volume of the Public Acts, making in all five volumes, and containing about six thousand pages, has devolved wholly upon Mr. Goodell. Throughout the war he served as chairman of the citizens' recruiting committee of Salem, and as secretary of the citizens' committee for the relief of soldiers and their families. In 1863 he received the honorary degree of A. M. from Amherst College. He has been for many years Vice-President of the Essex Institute, and has been Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Peabody Academy of Science from the foundation of that institution. He is a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, a life member of the New England Historic, Genealogical Society, and a corresponding member of the Historical Societies of New York, New Hampshire, and Rhode Island. He was formerly editor of the Historical Collections of the Essex Institute, and also one of the editors. of the Heraldic Journal. For nineteen years he was president of the Salem Street Railway, now the Naumkeag Street Railway Company. In 1865 he was elected Alderman of the city of Salem, and was appointed chairman of the Joint Committee on the Water Works, in which capacity he drew the ordinance establishing the Board of Water Commissioners. He declined a renomination. Of late he has withdrawn from all other pursuits, to devote himself exclusively to the editing of the Province Laws.

Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of Bureau of Statistics of Labor, is a native of the town of Dunbarton, N. H., born July 25, 1840. He is a son of Rev. Nathan R. Wright, a prominent Universalist clergyman, who was settled at different places in that State for many years, but has of late resided in Massachusetts. He attended the academies at Washington, Alstead, and Chester, Vt., and in 1860 commenced the study of law in the office of the late Hon. William P. Wheeler, of Keene, continuing the same, subsequently, with Erastus Worthington, of Dedham, Mass., and Tolman Willey, of Boston. In August, 1862, while on a visit to Keene, and before completing his legal studies, he enlisted as a private in Company C, Fourteenth N. H. Volunteers, but was commissioned Second Lieutenant before leaving for the seat of war. He filled various responsible positions in the service, was appointed Adjutant of his regiment in the fall of 1863, and was Assistant Adjutant-General in Louisiana and during Sheridan's campaign in the Shenandoah Valley, at the close of which campaign he was commissioned Colonel of his regiment. He subsequently resumed the study of the law, and was admitted to the Bar at Keene in October, 1865. In 1867 he opened an office in Boston, and soon succeeded in establishing a profitable business, making his residence in the town of Reading, which has been his home up to the present time. In 1871, Col. Wright was elected to the Massachusetts Senate by the Republicans of the Sixth Middlesex District, and was re-elected the following year, serving with ability as Chairman of the Committees on Insurance and Military Affairs, and secretary of the Judiciary Committee. In 1873 he was appointed by Gov. Washburn Chief of the State Bureau of Statistics of Labor, to the work of which office he has devoted his attention exclusively, since that time, winning a reputation as a thorough statistician excelled by that of no man in America. Concerning the results of the investigations which have been carried out under his direction, Hon. David A. Wells has said, they "constitute the most valuable contributions of exact knowledge that have ever been made in this country touching the relations of labor and capital, the accumulation and distribution of the wealth of an important and highly civilized State, the diversity and productiveness of its employments, and the relations between the earnings and the expenditures of the wage-earning and salary-receiving classes of its population." Col. Wright was Supervisor of the Federal Census of 1880 for the State of Massachusetts, performing his work with characteristic fulness and accuracy. He prepared for the Census Bureau an exhaustive special report upon "The Factory System of the United States," visiting the principal factory centres of this country and of Europe, in securing the information necessary to its thorough preparation. He also prepared, under the authority of the Boston City Council, a large volume, embodying the social, commercial, and industrial statistics of that city, which was issued some two years since. He is a graceful and eloquent speaker, and won distinction as a popular lecturer upon war and other topics, before entering upon his statistical work. He was prominently brought forward as a candidate for Congress by the young Republicans of his district in 1876. In December, 1879, he delivered a course of lectures on social topics before the Lowell Institute in Boston, and in 1881 was chosen university lecturer on the factory system at Harvard College.

Commissioner of Savings Banks.

Cadwallader Curry was born at Campobello, March 20, 1830, but removed to Eastport in 1835, and received early education in the public and high schools. Came to Boston, and for thirty years has been engaged in mercantile pursuits. Was appointed by Governor Rice on the Board of Savings Bank Commissioners in 1876, having served continuously in that position until the promotion of Commissioner Gatchell to the National Bank Service, when he became chairman of the present State Board of Commissioners, and responsible for the conduct and administration of the department conserving the largest financial interests of the State in their relations to the working and saving classes.

District Police.

Rufus Wade, Chief of District Police, was born in Boston in 1828; received his education in the public schools. For eleven years he was officially engaged in the various penal institutions, also at the Cambridge House of Correction and Charlestown State Prison. Was subsequently appointed Special Agent of the Post-Office Department at Washington, and afterwards Chief of Secret Service Department, United States government. In 1879 he was commissioned by Gov. Talbot as Chief of State District Police, upon the new organization of that department. Was reappointed in 1882 by Gov. Long, and again by His Excellency Gov. Robinson in 1885. Chief Wade had a narrow escape from death by a point-blank shot through the shoulder by a crank, who entered his office, who, having no personal grievance, sought to expiate the supposed wrongs he had suffered from police interference generally, in the person of the official representative of the Commonwealth. By a well-studied, wise, and efficient policy, the Chief has brought the inspection service of his department to a thorough and systematic efficiency, of incalculable benefit to the entire population of the State. What the character of the detective service is, and to what degree of silent efficiency it has been brought, is fully evidenced in the recent management of the widely famous and marvellously complicated history of the Lancaster National Bank conspiracy, forgery, burglary, and defalcation combination. With all the unassuming courtesy of the quiet citizen and business gentleman, the Chief is unrelenting and untiring in persistency of effort to secure the best outcome of the service, and the fullest results for the safety and benefit of the community, and the swift punishment of crime in every part of the State.

Messengers.

The exceptionally long and faithful service of two or three well-known habitués of the State House on the Sergeant-at-Arms corps makes it eminently fitting to place on record a brief notice. First of these, in seniority of service, is William S. Stoddard, Treasury Messenger, who was born in Boston, April 7, 1815, and bred as Boston boy at the public schools, learning and working at the carpenter’s trade. In 1840 he was appointed Messenger by Benj. Stevens, the first Sergeant-at-Arms, and served in the care of the halls and cupola. Afterwards Legislative Messenger, and subsequently one of the four Chief Messengers, with special duty at the Treasury office. For forty-six years he has given that constant conscientious devotion to his important trusts that has secured the respect and warm regards of hosts of friends. Of the “millions” consigned to his trust for exchange and deposit through all these decades, not a dollar ever missed its way or clung to an itching palm.

Probably no man living in the Commonwealth is more familiarly and favorably known to the legislative alumni of the State than James N. Tolman, Messenger in charge of the Legislatie Document Rooms, being but one remove in length of service from his long-time associate, Mr. Stoddard. Born in the same year, Feb. 9, 1815, and but two months earlier, of an old Boston family, for seventy-one years it has been his pride that he has hardly ever been out of Boston, and for forty years rarely absent from the State House during the daily and annual round of his measured duties, Sundays not even excepted. He fathomed the three "R's" at the old Franklin School, went to sea to serve his restless ambition, and work off the surplus vim of a tall, wiry, intensely active physique. Learned the carpenter's trade, and like his "twin" Messenger, worked at same until appointed to the Messenger corps at the State House in 1848. More than thirty years he was placed in charge of the Document Service in a room now taken into the treasury enlargement; thence removed to the fourth floor, now No. 11. The whole number of Bills and Acts for the session for both branches was less than fifty, now numbering, with Special Reports and Documents, nearly a thousand, of which over five hundred thousand are printed, distributed, and permanently filed each session. Its next move was to a small room, fourth floor over the Clerk's Room, with a basement annexed, and thence to the two "Dark Rooms" that constitute the meagre apartments allotted to the clerks of the two branches for their largely increased, indispensable, and exacting service. But for the accuracy of memory — and complete compendium that he is — of Mr. Tolman, the service would lapse from overweight and development beyond corresponding ordinary system for convenience in handling and reference. Mr. Tolman has in his fifty years' archives the material for a large and well-arranged department of Documents and Records that are invaluable for all concerned in new legislation. Not even the patience and modest apprehension of the clerks of their work, nor the daily recurring inconvenience of members of the Legislature, attorneys, et al., will much longer delay the necessary provision for the proper conduct of this service. Mr. Tolman should see the desired changes under his own invaluable supervision. No more public-spirited man than the faithful custodian of archives is now left to represent old Boston. For a long time the foremost of the veteran firemen, then champion "runner" and no less famous swimmer, he was able to be instrumental in saving thirteen lives from a watery grave. We remember with what honest pride he brought up the first gold medal from the Humane Society, Thomas Rich, President, on the 24th of June, two years ago, on the fiftieth anniversary of its presentation. But for the un-American idea of a civil pension list, these two faithful public servants would have enjoyed the benefit of a special act in their behalf. As it is, the treasury will ask the entire service of Mr. Stoddard, and the clerks that of Mr. Tolman, relieved of their former police service as Sergeant-at-Arms Messengers.
THE SENATORS.

President of the Senate.

Hon. Albert E. Pillsbury, President of the Senate, was born in Milford, N. H., Aug. 19, 1849, and receiving an academical education, took a partial course at Harvard University. He was some time engaged in teaching school, and then studied law in Illinois, beginning his practice in Boston about fourteen years ago. From 1876 to 1878 inclusive, he was a member of the House, serving on various important committees, including that on the Judiciary, and displaying marked ability as a legislator. A member of the Senate in 1884, he was Chairman of the Committee on the Hoosac Tunnel, and was on the Committees on the Judiciary and on Bills in the Third Reading. Last year he was unanimously chosen as President of the Senate, and this year is re-elected to that position, with the well-earned reputation of being one of the ablest of its presiding officers. In pleading at the bar and in forensic debate, Mr. Pillsbury has a perspicuity, terseness, and force that give entire weight to the subject-matter under discussion. Neither personality, language, mannerism, nor professional oratory is allowed to detract one iota from the clear continuity of argument, converging every collateral to a single objective point, with irresistible logic and conviction, without apparent effort. Less than with his compeers is this discipline of thought relaxed, and hence the impression of reserve, if not coldness of temperament, that discounts somewhat the legitimate influence of his signal abilities.

Clerk of Senate.

Stephen N. Gifford, for nearly thirty years Clerk of the Senate, was born in Pembroke, July 21, 1815. Was educated at Hanover Academy, finishing his course at the academy in Bridgewater. His earlier years were spent in teaching in the common schools; afterwards establishing a private select school in Duxbury, which was brought to a high state of perfection. He has always taken great interest in the local affairs of his town, representing it in all the historical celebrations and anniversaries so common to the colonial history of the old Pilgrim town. His indefatigable labors, in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles, secured the building of the South Shore extension of the Old Colony Railroad from Cohasset to Plymouth, and was for many years a director in that corporation. In 1850 he was chosen by the old Webster Whigs of the day to represent his town in the Legislature. In 1851, appointed Inspector in the Boston Custom House; and in 1854, Assistant Clerk of the Senate, and, by the Legislature, to fill the vacancy of State Auditor. He was appointed Assistant Clerk of the House in 1855 and in 1857. In 1858 he was chosen Clerk of the Senate, to which position he has been unanimously re-elected for the thirtieth year. This remarkable tenure of service, in one of the most important and exacting positions of the Commonwealth, has given him a high position as a parliamentary expert and authority in all technical rulings of the many able parliamentarians that have filled with distinguished ability the presidential chair of the Senate during his official service. The most notable of all legislative gatherings was the splendid ovation given him by the present and past members of the Legislature on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his occupancy of the senatorial clerkship. The spacious halls of “The States” were crowded with most loyal and enthusiastic friends and fraternal associates. Governors, judges, senators, and representatives, both State and national, vied in their congratulations, and indebtedness to his tutelage, and friendliness in their pupilage with the rudiments of statesmanship. The veteran Clerk is still in the best years of his long service, and will add another decade to his honorable record, if the warmest benediction and beneficent wishes of hosts of friends all through the land, to the occidental shores of the sea, can avail in the hopeful prospective.

Assistant Clerk of Senate.

E. HERBERT CLAPP was born in Dorchester, Mass., Oct. 17, 1838, receiving his education in the public schools of that town; was early engaged in business from 1854 to 1861, visiting the South in this capacity. Was appointed Page in the Senate, and afterwards Clerk in the Adjutant-General’s office. For nearly ten years following he was actively engaged in mercantile pursuits, and located some years in Colorado and Philadelphia. He was appointed Assistant Clerk of the Senate in 1880, having served seven years in that capacity with untiring assiduity and acceptance. Methodical and systematic in official duties, quiet and unobtrusive in manner, he has secured the well-earned reputation of a valuable and efficient purveyor of senatorial records.

RECAPITULATION.

In its political complexion, the Senate shows a considerable change from last year, though the Republicans still have a large majority, numbering more than two thirds of the entire body. Last year there were 34 Republicans, 5 Democrats, and 1 Independent, while this year the Republicans number 28, the Democrats 11, and there is 1 Independent Democrat. Hon. Charles S. Lilley, of Lowell, is the senior Senator in point of service, having been a member in 1880. In years, Hon. George W. Morrill, of Amesbury, is the senior, being in his 68th year, and Hon. John R. Murphy, of Boston, in his 30th year, is the youngest Senator. The average age is 47 years and 3 months. Of last year's Senators, 22 return; there are 4 Senators who step across from the House, where they served last year; and of the remaining number, 1 has had previous experience in the Senate, 9 have been members of the House, and 4 are members of the Legislature for the first time. The following tables show the business callings represented, the nativity of the Senators, and the division of the Senate in political lines.

POLITICS.

Independent Democrat. — Hayes — 1.

FERD. F. FRENCH & CO.

This long-established house, so widely known as the best representative Builders and Dealers in the Finest Styles and Finished Carriages, commenced business in 1851, under the original firm name of Sargent, Gunnison & Co., soon afterwards known as Wm. P. Sargent & Co.

In 1862, Mr. French came into the concern, and in 1869 was the established partner of the firm, as Wm. P. Sargent & Co., until the retirement of the senior partner.

In 1884, Mr. French assumed the principal management, for which his long experience and thorough business training so well fitted him. As an executive manager, of rare gentlemanly and successful business qualities, he probably has no superior in the trade.

The Extensive Manufactories on Sudbury Street, and the Splendid White Marble Front Salesrooms on Tremont Street, are the centres of attraction for all dealers and connoisseurs in the marvellous development of this trade, in artistic and utilitarian designs and patterns.
REPRESENTATIVES.

Speaker of the House.

John Q. A. Brackett, Speaker of the House of Representatives, was born in Bradford, N. H., June 8, 1842, attending the public schools until seventeen, when he entered the Colby Academy at New London, graduating in 1861. Declining a congressional district appointment at West Point, he entered Harvard College, where he maintained a high position, being elected class orator and graduating with honor in 1865. Studied law at the Harvard Law School, receiving the degree of LL. B. in 1868, and having been admitted to the Suffolk Bar, has successfully practised his profession to the present time. Public-spirited in all his relations, he has ever been zealous in the promotion of benevolent and literary interests of the city, and was prominent in the notable work of the Mercantile Library Association in its palmy days, and chosen president of the organization in 1871-72 and 1882-83. In 1874 he served on the Staff of Gen. Isaac L. Burrell, First Brigade M. V. M., as Judge Advocate-General, holding that position until 1876. Ever interested in State and national politics, he has been one of the foremost of political workers on the higher plane of party politics, at the head of the Young Men’s Republican organization in 1877, and for the last fifteen years the most efficient of orators in all State and Presidential campaigns. He was a member of the Boston Common Council from 1873 to 1877, and unanimously elected President of that body in 1876. In 1876 was chosen Representative to the Legislature, and re-elected in 1877-78-79-80, serving as House Chairman of Committee on Labor and Taxation, drafting and reporting bills for Co-operative Building Associations, and bills known as Double Taxation on Property. In 1878-79 he was Chairman of Committees on Education, Probate and Chancery, Rules and Orders, and Retrenchment, also a leading candidate for Speaker, receiving next to the highest vote cast. Was also selected in 1884, and received the highest position of the House as Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary. He was chosen unanimously as Speaker of the House in 1885, and re-elected without a dissenting voice for 1886. The session of 1885 will ever be memorable for one of the most determined, reckless, long-continued, and defiant obstructions to all parliamentary usage and the safe conduct of legislative business ever known. Nothing but the splendid, enduring, matchless self-possession, mental and parliamentary discipline, with an even, self-poised, immovable moral and physical courage of the Speaker saved the House from mob rule and anarchy. With such a record and following, not having yet reached his forty-fifth year, the Speaker can hardly fail to render valuable service and gain new honors in a still wider and more distinguished field of public service.

Clerk of the House.

Edward A. McLaughlin, Clerk of the House of Representatives, was born in Boston, Sept. 25, 1853. Was educated at Boston College, and Loyola College, Baltimore, from which he graduated with the degree of A. B. in 1871. Boston College also honored him with the degree of A. M. in 1877. The five years after receiving the degree of A. B. were spent as professor at Loyola and Seton Hall Colleges. Returning to Boston, he studied law with Ex-Gov. Gaston, received the degree of LL. B. from Boston University, and was admitted to the Bar in 1877. As a clinical expert in legal and statute revision, codification, and expression, the ex-President of the Senate, Hon. R. R. Bishop, as Chairman of the Committee having in charge the General Statute Revision of 1880, certifies as follows in his report of 1881: “To incorporate the changes recommended by the committee was a work requiring peculiar care, fidelity, and aptitude. It has been admirably performed since the adjournment of the committee, on the 13th of July, by Mr. Edward A. McLaughlin.” He was appointed Assistant Clerk of the House of Representatives in 1878, serving with much ability and acceptance until the accession of Mr. Marden to the Speakership, when he was chosen Clerk in the Speaker’s place. Mr. McLaughlin is still a young man, of fine presence, a clear, well-intoned voice, with all the refinement of native delicacy, thorough culture, and the instincts of the well-bred gentleman, qualities which have made him the most popular of Clerks, as his unanimous selection for the fourth term, by a House not in accord with him politically, most conclusively indicates.

Assistant Clerk.

ROBERT A. SOUTHWORTH, Assistant Clerk of the House, was born in Medford, May 6, 1852, of an ancestry whose lineage runs with even tenor to the earliest of the Pilgrims, and synonymous with the names of the “Mayflower” and the earliest Pilgrim records. He was graduated at Harvard College in 1874, and after a thorough course of law study was admitted to the Bar in 1876. In 1880 he was appointed Clerk of the high Commission, to revise, codify, and publish the General Statutes of the Commonwealth. By his critical, laborious, and responsible work in supervision of arrangement and printing, he commended himself to the approval of the Commissioners. As a resident of the Charlestown District, he has taken an active part in politics. In the report of the Joint Special Committee to Revise the General Statutes of 1881, Hon. R. R. Bishop, chairman of committee, says: “The committee should not omit to place its sense of the efficient and faithful services of its clerk, Mr. Robert A. Southworth, whose attention to the duties of the office and care of the matters in charge have been unremitting and constant.” For many years he has been member of the Republican District, City, and State Committees, and in 1883 was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Republican State Committee, and Assistant Clerk of the House of Representatives. This year he is promoted to the chief secretariaship of the new Republican State Committee, succeeding Col. John J. Whipple in that position. Although a young man of thirty-three, his energy, experience, finesse, and untiring industry will make a most creditable record in either of the hard-working positions he now occupies.

Suffolk County.

1. JOHN E. LYNCH, Republican, is a member of the firm of E. Hodge & Co., boiler manufacturers, and lives on Terrace Avenue, East Boston. He was born in St. John, N. B., Jan. 28, 1852, received his education in the Boston public schools, and was a member of the Common Council in 1884 and 1885; was a member of Battery A, Ninth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers Militia, 1884-85. Committee: Water Supply.
1. Joseph Henry Stevenson, Republican, mason and builder, lives at No. 41 Princeton Street, East Boston; was born in Wolftboro', N. H., June 25, 1838, and was educated in the common schools and Wolftboro' Academy. Committees: Water Supply; Drainage.

2. Patrick J. Kennedy, Democrat, liquor dealer, lives at No. 23 Border Street, East Boston; was born in East Boston, Jan. 14, 1858, and was educated in the Lyman School. Committee: Printing.

3. James E. Fitzgerald was born in Boston, 1835; educated in the public schools, and studied law at Boston University; was in Common Council in 1882-84; member Company H, Ninth Regiment Massachusetts Militia, and admitted to the Suffolk Bar in 1885, and now practising in Boston. He is a Democrat, well versed in political ethics; taken active part in the large range in city government and public affairs. Was chosen to represent the Suffolk Second District in the Legislature of 1885, and placed on the Committee on Cities, which brought him into prominent relations with all that radical legislation of 1885, known as the Metropolitan Police Bill and the new City Charter. Re-elected to the House for 1886, and serving on Committees on Engrossed Bills and Cities.

4. George A. Sanderson, Democrat, baker, lives at No. 31 Decatur Street, Charlestown; was born in Newton in 1843, and was educated in the local schools. He has been a member of the House the past two years, serving on the Committee on the State House. Committee: Prisons.

7. Philip J. Doherty, Democrat, lawyer, lives at No. 22 Rutherford Avenue, Charlestown; was born in that section of the city Jan. 27, 1856, and studied in the local schools and in the Boston University Law School. Mr. Dougherty was the one acknowledged leader of the minority in debate. He has the rare faculty of even, smooth, well-chosen language under the intense excitement of vehement partisan opposition. Hence his fiery philippics, epigrammatic and pungent as they are, have the force of genuine eloquence and effective oratory. With the courage of conviction and fearless fidelity to labor versus capital, he champions that great measure, the just and equitable Employers' Liability Bill, against the combined corporation capital of the State. He was in the House in 1884, serving on the Committee on Drainage, and again last year, when he was placed on the Committees on the Judiciary and on Election Laws. Committees: Judiciary; Rules.

8. John P. Reynolds, Democrat, law student, lives at No. 89 Chelsea Street, Charlestown, is a native of that district; was born May 31, 1859, and was educated in the public schools and the Boston University Law School. Committees: Probate; Insolvency.

RECAPITULATION.

In the House, as in the Senate, the Republicans lose some strength this year, but still have a very large majority. Last year there were 164 Republicans, 84 Democrats, 4 Independents, and 1 National; while this year there are 157 Republicans, 75 Democrats, and 8 Independents. Of last year's members, 82 return. There are 143 members who have not been members of the Legislature before, including one, however, who served two years in the Maine Legislature. One of the new members has been a State Senator, 3 have been in both branches, and 11 have been members of the House in former years. Mr. George Cowdrey, of Stoneham, is the Dean of the House, as he was last year. The senior member in years is Mr. Fletcher of Belmont, who is in the 74th year of his age, and the youngest is Mr. Brady of Lowell, who is in his 25th year. Middlesex County enjoys all these honors. The average age of the Representatives is 44 years and 2 months. The business callings represented, the nativity of the members, and the division of the House on political lines, are shown below.

POLITICS.

Sergeant-at-Arms.

The office of Sergeant-at-Arms is one of the most important of legislative appointments, uniting as it does the executive authority of the General Court and superintendent of all its affairs in detail, purveyor of all supplies, and only responsible custodian of all its capital buildings and public properties pertaining thereto. The present incumbent has had but three predecessors since the appointment of Jacob Kuhn in 1787, with the official title of Messenger, serving two years short of his semi-centennial re-election. In 1835 he was succeeded by Benjamin Stevens, of courtly memory, who first assumed the title of Sergeant-at-Arms, with a much wider range of authority and duties. With a service of twenty-four years, he was succeeded by Major John Morrissey, of Plymouth, who carried the wand till 1875, or sixteen years. The accession of Capt. O. F. Mitchell completes the tripartite occupancy with the antecedent "Messenger." After a service of eleven years, and the completion of a century since its organization, Captain Mitchell gives way to the present incumbent. Capt. John G. B. Adams, the present Sergeant-at-Arms, was born in Groveland, Mass., on the sixth day of October, 1841, and passed his boyhood and youth in that locality, until the early summer of 1861, when, inspired by that military spirit to which the stirring events of that time gave birth, he enlisted as a private soldier in Major Ben: Perley Poore's Rifle Battalion, which later became the nucleus of the Nineteenth Massachusetts Regiment. His kind, genial, and lively disposition won for him the regard of his officers and comrades, with whom he was deservedly popular and a general favorite. He left the State on the 28th of August, 1861, as Sixth Corporal of Company A, of that regiment, and on March 1, 1862, was promoted to First Sergeant, after passing the best examination of non-commissioned officers. His many soldierly qualities soon brought him to the favorable notice of his commanding officers, and for gallantry in action he was twice recommended by them for promotion, and passed rapidly through the grades of Second and First Lieutenant to that of Captain, which rank he held at the close of the war. He participated in every march, shared every hardship, and was engaged in every battle of the Army of the Potomac in which his regiment took part. At Fredericksburg, Captain Adams saved the colors of his regiment from capture, and bore them out of the battle in safety. He was twice severely wounded in the second day's fight at Gettysburg, and taken to the field hospital, where he was given over to die by the surgeon in charge. After a short leave of absence, and before he had recovered from his wounds, he rejoined his regiment to follow its fortunes in all the bloody battles from the Wilderness to the siege of Petersburg; and while in the advanced lines before that city, on the 22d of June, 1864, was captured with his regiment by the enemy. For nine months he was a prisoner of war, suffering the untold misery of an existence in the prison pens of Libby, Macon, Ga., Charleston and Columbia, S. C., and Raleigh, N. C.; at Charleston, he was one of six hundred who were kept under fire for three months. Twice he escaped from his captors, each time was recaptured, once after an absence of four weeks from his place of confinement, and when within sight of the Union lines. Soon after the war, Captain Adams entered the employ of Messrs. Benjamin F. Doak & Co., the large and well-known shoe manufacturers at Lynn, as foreman, where he remained for ten years, until failing health, caused by wounds received in battle, compelled him to resign his position. After closing his connection with the Messrs. Doak & Co., he accepted a position as Inspector in the Boston Custom House, which he filled for fifteen months and which he resigned to accept the appointment of Postmaster at Lynn, which position he held for nearly eight years, discharging his many duties acceptably to his townspeople, to the department at Washington, and creditably to himself. In January last, on the establishment of the reformatory prison at Concord, Captain Adams was appointed Deputy Warden, which position he has but just resigned. When Post 5, G. A. R., was instituted, he was the first recruit mustered in, and has a continuous membership up to the present time. He was three times elected its Commander, was Department Commander of Massachusetts for one year; has twelve times been a delegate to the National Convention of the order, and has been President of the Association of Survivors of Rebel Prisons for the past seven years. In all these organizations, Capt. Adams has been a member of more than ordinary prominence. As president of the Board of Trustees of the Soldiers' Home he is rendering most efficient service, and under his leadership most excellent results have been shown. A stanch Republican, he has always had the courage of his own convictions, and voted, as he fought, in a straightforward, open manner; was chosen messenger to forward the electoral vote of the State to Washington on the first election of Grant in 1868. With the above remarkable record, the gallant soldier is deserving of the position awarded him. Uniting as it does, in an exceptional degree, the executive duties of legislative administration in all its varied details, with that of semi-host, responsible for the comfort and well-being of his multitudinous guests, he has the opportunity to make the position a most agreeable one by disciplined and economic supervision, which he will doubtless improve, to protect the interests of the Commonwealth, and secure the confidence and grateful regards of the strangers within his gates, by popular and cheerful service in their behalf and welfare.

Doorkeeper of Senate.

SAMUEL W. EDGELL, Doorkeeper of the Senate, was born in Westminster, Mass., Aug. 27, 1831, and educated in the public schools of that town. Removed to Fitchburg in 1847, and for fifteen years was engaged in the chair business until the breaking out of the war, when he enlisted in the Massachusetts Fifteenth Regiment, Nov. 20, 1861, and was with the regiment in Gen. Devens' brigade, Sedgwick's division, with the fighting Tenth, another Western Massachusetts Regiment, through all the "On to Richmond" campaign of '62, in the Chickahominy, Seven Days' Melee, Fair Oaks, and back to Malvern Hill. He also followed the fortunes of Grant in all the sanguinary conflicts of the Wilderness to Cold Harbor, where he lost his arm at the shoulder, on that memorable day of battle, June 3, 1864. Instead of honorable discharge and "going home" at expiration of service in six weeks, it was an arm and shoulder amputation, with all that that implies, it was eight months' suffering at the hospital. Mr. Edgell was appointed Messenger in the Senate in 1865, serving two years; then appointed Assistant Doorkeeper, serving nine years; promoted to Doorkeeper in 1875, which position he still holds after eleven years' occupancy, and is the oldest member in consecutive service of the Legislative Messenger Corps.
Doorkeeper of House.

Thomas J. Tucker, who has been for twenty years and more on the Messenger service of the General Court, was born in Boston, of an old West End family, Dec. 21, 1831; graduating at an early age from the old Mayhew School; was engaged in business in Boston until ill health compelled him to change his employment, and was offered an appointment on the Messenger Corps of the Legislature under the administration of Major Benj. Stevens, Sergeant-at-Arms. In 1869, Major Morrissey appointed him Assistant Doorkeeper, which place he held eight years, when he was promoted by Capt. O. F. Mitchell, in 1875, Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives. Mr. Tucker has served under three of the four Sergeant-at-Arms who have held that office, and antedates in appointment any other member of the Messenger service of the Legislature. Mr. Tucker has given a lifetime of efficient service to the cause of temperance, having served in all of the active and honorary offices of the Massachusetts Division of the Sons of Temperance to the Grand Worthy Patriarch. Also member of the National Division, and Life Director of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society. Mr. Tucker is recognized by a host of friends in the House as a long-time faithful, public official.

The well-known firm of Bent & Bush occupy the front rank in their lines of trade, with a well-earned reputation of half a century, manufacturing and selling the goods. In 1823, the factories were running in Lowell, and later on they occupied their consignee's agency on the old-time location, corner of Washington and Court, at the head of State Street. Following the drift of trade down Washington, near Summer, they still maintain the credit of the house for superior quality of Military Goods, Hat, Fur, and fine Furnishing Stocks.

ARTIST

PHOTOGRAPHER

493 Washington Street,

CORNER TEMPLE PLACE,

Offers special reduced prices to the members of the Massachusetts Legislature, 1886, and superior inducement to the public for obtaining first-class Photographs at prices that can't be equalled, quality considered. His facilities for making settings are double that of any gallery in Boston, he having two well-lighted, artistically furnished posing rooms, thus obviating the necessity of the long and tedious waiting which often occurs in galleries having but one operating room. Each room is under the management of a skilful and gentlemanly operator, and no pains is spared to make of every sitter a correct, pleasing and artistic portrait. Mr. Hardy's place offers special inducements to Families, Societies and Schools. Also, Copying of every description, and Enlargements finished in Crayon, Ink, Pastels and Water Colors. In the finishing he employs only the very highest order of artistic ability. As a new feature, he would call attention to his Life-size Photograph Portraits, not Crayons, that are truly wonderful; being a camera production, they are absolutely correct. Every one who has seen them is delighted. Price, $15; duplicates, $5.00. Please call and see us before giving your order elsewhere.

MASON & HAMLIN.

No other musical instrument has incited the efforts of inventive talent to such a degree as has the pianoforte; and yet, strangely enough, among all the undoubted improvements it has received, no one has hitherto been able to devise a practical and permanent improvement in the method of fastening the strings, upon which it may be said almost the whole value of the piano as a musical instrument depends, since a piano out of tune has no value as a musical instrument, and the capacity to remain in tune is almost wholly governed by the fastening of the strings.

Since the world began, or as soon after as pianos were invented, the end of the string has been wound around an iron peg driven into a plank; and this peg has leaned and bent under the string's enormous tension, and been twisted backward and forward under the hammer of the tuner in the tiresome effort to get it to the precise point where the string would be in tune, all the while loosening its grip upon the fibre of the wood, and providing a certainty that the tuner would soon have to be sent for again.

Every one knows how this same principle is employed in the violin, the strings winding around the peg, which has frequently to be adjusted several times in the course of an evening's performance.

And yet it has been expected that a pianoforte, with a strain upon it equal to between twenty and thirty tons, should remain in tune for months together!

The absurdity of it has not seemed to occur to the public, who wonder that their pianos are so soon wretchedly out of tune, and manufacturers have gone on, one after another employing this crude and unsatisfactory device in instruments that are otherwise models of the highest skill in the art, just as though the piano could be improved in every other respect but this.

At last it remained for Mason & Hamlin, accustomed for years to ransack the world for improvements in organs, to apply the same spirit of investigation to the field of piano making; and it is not too much to say that they have made the one improvement of all the others of this age.

By means of an entire metal frame in which is cast a projecting flange, iron "carriers," working on a screw thread, are placed, and to these the strings are attached and firmly held to their position. One perceives at a single glance that it is a mechanical impossibility for them to stir the millieth part of an inch from their true and proper tension, and the case with which every string is brought to its pitch with unerring certainty and smoothness must be a delight to the professional tuner who has all his life contended with the sticking and "jumping" of the pin in the old system.

It should be remembered that Mason & Hamlin haveavailed themselves of every improvement already made in other features of the piano as constructed by other makers, but to them all they have added this crowning excellence.

We had the pleasure of seeing and hearing this piano in the elegant rooms of Mason & Hamlin, on Thursday last, when we were at once convinced of the invaluable importance of the improvements described above as well as charmed with the quality of emitted sound and the aesthetic elegance of the instrument as a piece of furniture. As a musical instrument it seems perfection; as an article of furniture it would adorn the most gorgeously appointed drawing-room in the most elegant palace of America or Europe. The man of science must acknowledge the mathematical truthfulness of the principles which are called into action in the alterations, the musical connoisseur must be enraptured with its volume of clear-cut melody, while the artistic eye must see the perfect harmony of line and beauty of proportion in its form and adornment.

— Chicago Indicator: Art and Music.

The principal excellence which the Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Company claim for their new Upright Piano is that they are characterized by peculiarly pure, refined musical tones. Their new method of construction gets rid almost entirely of that mere noise (sound without musical pitch), which has heretofore been inseparable from the tones of this instrument. To the musically cultivated ear the Mason & Hamlin pianos certainly justify this claim. An incidental advantage which many will value almost as highly, however, is their greater durability. Any mechanic who examines one can see the reason for this in the fact that they use only accurate and perfectly secure metallic fastenings for their strings instead of merely winding them around pins set in wood. — Boston Journal.

BOSTON JOURNAL.
—Established 1833.—
Sheet Six Columns.

The Only Republican Morning Newspaper Published in Boston.

The Boston Journal has a Daily Circulation of 55,000 Copies.

The Boston Journal, by its fidelity to the principles of the Republican party, is now, as it has been for the past twenty-five years, the leading Republican newspaper of New England. The Presidential campaign of 1884 tested its editorial capacity, and the united expressions of opinion of both the press and the people testify to the very acceptable manner in which it met the responsibilities of a vigorous cause.

The Boston Journal is too well known to need any detailed description of its varied features. It is a paper which is of interest to every business man, and at the same time is always a most acceptable visitor in the family circle.

The Boston Journal is strong in its political convictions, but fair and just to its opponents. It aims not only to impress its opinions upon its readers, but it desires at the same time to give the reasons which are the basis of its opinions. It favors a protective tariff, and, consequently, protection to American labor. It gives to the business man the news of the markets and full reports of all sales of stocks in Boston, New York, and Philadelphia. Its object is the dissemination of news, avoiding all sensationalism, and seeking to make a daily newspaper, while in its news, as well as in its editorial columns, shall be clean and wholesome. It also devotes considerable space to miscellaneous matters and correspondence, and its contributors are known as experienced and versatile writers. It has its own
