A SOUVENIR

OF

Massachusetts Legislators

1893

VOLUME II.

A. M. BRIDGMAN
BROCKTON, MASS.
IN the fall of 1892, Republicans and Democrats all over the State nominated representative men as candidates for members of the General Court. There is no doubt that they were men representing the best elements of both parties, as a whole. The voters of either party are not foolish enough to put up their weakest men for these important offices. Men are nominated because it is hoped they will have the best chance of election. All these men, now members, were fairly and honestly elected. They are the chosen half of the men offered by the two great parties; and undoubtedly they are the better half. No less undoubtedly do they honestly and fairly represent their constituents; and they have done as their constituents would have done. They came to the business of making laws with a good equipment of intelligence and honesty. They were unfamiliar, of course, with the details of legislation. As in duty bound, they have investigated for themselves; and their decisions have been honestly reached. They may not have always agreed with those of their critics. But they have certainly been reached only after as careful, thorough, intelligent, and honest inquiry as has been made by those who flippantly criticise them. The legislators doing their work are the same intelligent and honest men who were so universally extolled when they were candidates. The man who was elected was, presumably, better qualified than he who was defeated. But the latter was still the choice of a large proportion of his fellow-citizens, and was their choice as a representative. Therefore give the legislators of 1893 the credit they deserve after their work is done that you gave to their intention when they were candidates. The men are the same. They have done their duty as they found it, not as others may have selfishly wanted them to find it. In this "Souvenir" you will find the personality of these legislators: their portraits, their history, their autographs. As legislators their work is done; and every receding year will make more clear that they wrought honestly and well for the good of the grand old Commonwealth alike dear unto them all.

THE STATE HOUSE.
STATE HOUSE EXTENSION. — All to right of dome.

Brigham & Spofford, Architects.

Corner-stone laid, December 21, 1889, by Governor Oliver Ames. To be occupied by Legislature of 1894. Estimated cost, $2,500,000; and expense thus far (1893) within the estimate.

Construction Commissioners: John D. Long, Wm. Endicott, Jr., B. D. Whitcomb.
Hon. W. M. Olin, Secretary.
His Honor Roger Wolcott, Lieutenant-Governor.
Hon. J. W. Kimball, Auditor.

Hon. G. A. Marden, Treasurer.
Hon. A. E. Pillsbury, Attorney-General.
THE OLD STATE HOUSE.

Built in 1748, on site of burned town hall, at the head of State Street, Boston.

In the foreground occurred the Boston Massacre of March 5, 1770. Been used as State House, City Hall, and Post Office. British troops quartered here, 1768, and General Gage held council of war here before battle of Bunker Hill. Declaration of Independence read from balcony in view; from other end Washington reviewed procession in 1789. Here State Constitution planned and ratified. William Lloyd Garrison took refuge here from mob, October, 1835, it being then used for City Hall.
THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.

Hon. Z. C. Keith, 1st District.
Hon. L. T. Jeffs, 6th District.  Hon. G. F. Morse, 7th District.  Hon. E. Morgan, 8th District.
Sam. Roads, Jr., Governor's Secretary.

E. F. Hamlin, Executive Clerk.
This is an exact reproduction of the old Hancock House, the home of Governor John Hancock, first Governor under the Constitution.

1780-85. His house stood just north of the State House, on Beacon Street, until within a few years, when it was removed to make room for the residences that now stand there.

FANEUIL HALL, DOCK SQUARE.

Built in 1763; dedicated March 14, and completed the same month; on the site of an earlier one, built in 1742, and burned on January 13, 1761. James Otis made the dedicatory address. Enlarged in 1805 to its present proportions. The grasshopper vane is an imitation of the pinnacle of the Royal Exchange in London, and was used on the first hall. The upper hall is the armory of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Faneuil Hall is also known as "The Cradle of Liberty," because here are held by common consent the mass meetings in the interest of efforts to aid humanity.
THE OLD SOUTH MEETING-HOUSE.

Built in 1730, on the lot of Gov. John Winthrop, corner of Milk and Washington streets, and dedicated in April of the same year. On November 27, 1773, here was held the meeting at which it was resolved that the English tea should not be landed; and on December 16 here was held the meeting, with 7,000 people attending, before the pouring of the tea into Boston harbor by the Sons of Liberty, disguised as Mohawk Indians. Here Warren spoke in March, 1775, three months before he was killed at the battle of Bunker Hill. In the siege of Boston it was used as a riding-school by the British. Its external appearance has not been changed for 150 years. No religious services have been held here since 1872. Now occupied by a loan collection of Revolutionary and other relics, the admission fees going to the preservation fund.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

BRIEF SKETCHES OF THE LIVES OF THE MEN WHO,
IN STATE AND NATIONAL GOVERNMENT,
HELPED SHAPE LEGISLATION IN 1893.

THE GOVERNOR.

His Excellency William Eustis Russell, Democrat, of Cambridge. This is his third term. He is the third Democratic governor of Massachusetts, and, next to the Hon. George S. Boutwell, the youngest man who has ever occupied the chair of the executive. He was born in Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 6, 1857; his father being the Hon. Charles Theodore Russell, the distinguished jurist. He began his education in the public schools of his native city, and pursued his studies further at Harvard University, graduating thence in 1877, and at the Boston University Law School, whence he was graduated in 1879, at the head of his class, winning the Lawrence prize for the best essay, and delivering the class oration. Admitted to the Suffolk bar in 1880, he has since practised as a member of the firm in which his father and his brothers are partners. He took an early interest in public affairs, and became a member of the Cambridge Common Council in 1882, following that with two terms in the upper branch of the city government. In 1884 he was elected mayor by about one thousand over the Hon. James A. Fox, and in the two succeeding years he was given the compliments of an almost unanimous re-election. In 1887 his return to the office was contested, but he was once more successful by about two thousand majority. Mr. Russell's administration as mayor was intelligent and impartial, and he did not allow his party affiliations and sympathies to control his action. An episode of his administration was the introduction of the policy of "no license," to which the city has adhered for six years; and Mr. Russell, although not a believer in the system, promised to enforce it impartially, and did so, to the general satisfaction of its advocates. Mr. Russell has been president of the Alumni Association of the Boston University Law School and of the Middlesex County Democratic Club. He occupied the chair at the convention of Democratic clubs at Baltimore in 1888. In the same year he was nominated for governor by the Democratic party, and the same honor was accorded him in 1889. In 1891 the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Williams College.

THE LIEUTENANT-Governor.

His Honor Roger Wolcott, Republican, of Boston, was born in that city July 13, 1847, being a lineal descendant of Oliver Wolcott, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He graduated from Harvard University in the class of 1870, and was class orator. He was a member of the Boston Common Council in 1877–8–9, and of the House of Representatives in 1882–3–4, serving on the committees on libraries, labor, and public charitable institutions, and being chairman of the standing House committee on elections. He was the first president of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, an overseer of Harvard University, and a trustee of the Massachusetts General Hospital. On the committees on pardons, finance, charitable institutions, prisons, military affairs, and railroads.

SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

Hon. William Milo Olin, of Boston, is the sixteenth incumbent of the office of Secretary of the Commonwealth since 1710. He is serving his third term there. He was born of New England parents in Warrenton, Ga., Sept. 18, 1845, but has been a resident of this State since 1859, and is a graduate of the public schools. He very early entered the office of the "Worcester Transcript," starting at the bottom of the ladder, as the "devil." He followed that with work at the case until the breaking out of the rebellion. Then, although very young, he enlisted in the Thirty-sixth Massachusetts Volunteers, and served throughout the war in that organization. Returning to civil life, he devoted some time to the completion of his studies, and then joined the reportorial staff of the "Boston Advertiser," with which paper he was connected for fourteen years, as reporter, editor, and Washington correspondent. In 1879 he was appointed private secretary and military secretary, with the rank of colonel, by Governor Talbot, and was reappointed by Governor Long in 1880, 1881, and 1882. Since then he has acted as private secretary to Collector Worthington, Senator Dawes, and Collector Beard, and he left the service of the last named to take up the duties of his present office. He has been lieutenant-colonel and assistant adjutant-general under General Wales, First Brigade. M.V.M., and adjutant-general of the National Encampment, G.A.R.

Vote of State: William M. Olin, Republican, 177,435; Charles S. Hamlin, Democrat, 160,036; Samuel B. Shapleigh, Prohibition, 9,074; George Kempton, People's Party, 3,197; Frederick A. Nagler. Socialist Labor, 1,585.

TREASURER AND RECEIVER-GENERAL.

Hon. George Augustus Marden, of Lowell, now serving his fifth term as treasurer, has been connected with thirteen legislatures as clerk or member. He was born in Mt. Vernon, N.H., Aug. 9, 1839, and was early taught his father's trade of shoemaking, besides spending much time on the farm. He fitted himself for and paid his way through Dartmouth College, by working at his trade and by teaching school. Early in the war he enlisted in the Second Regiment, Berdan's U.S. Sharpshooters, and soon obtained a commission, acting as assistant adjutant-general, Third Brigade, Third Corps. In 1865 he began the study of law at Concord, N.H., at the same time engaging in journalistic work, to which he has since paid steady attention. His work in that line has been on the "Concord Monitor," in Charleston, W. Va., on the "Boston Advertiser," and on the "Lowell Courier," of which he is now editor and part owner. He has also compiled and edited a history of each of the New Hampshire military organizations during the war. He was chosen member of the Massachusetts House in 1873, and its clerk in 1874, holding the latter office for nine years. He was again chosen to the House in 1883-1884, being chosen speaker each year. In 1885 he was a member of the Senate. In 1886 he was one of the four Grant delegates from Massachusetts to the National Republican Convention at Chicago.

Vote of the State: George A. Marden, Republican, 181,870; James S. Grinnell, Democrat, 158,414; Wilbert D. Farnham, Jr., Prohibition, 9,635; Thomas A. Watson, People's Party, 3,161; James R. Nugent. Socialist Labor, 1,466.
ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

Hon. Albert E. Pillsbury, of Boston, is a native of Milford, N.H., where he was born Aug. 19, 1840. After preparing for college in the local schools and at Appleton Academy, New Ipswich, N.H., and Lawrence Academy, Groton, Mass., he entered Harvard in 1867, but left before graduation and went West, teaching school and studying law at Sterling, Ill. He was admitted to the bar in that State and later in Massachusetts, and has been practising in Boston since 1871. His first public office was as a member of the lower branch of the Legislature in 1876, 1877, and 1878. In 1884, 1885, and 1886 he sat in the Senate. His chief committee service in both branches was on the judiciary, and in his last two years in the Senate he was president of that body. He was offered an appointment to the Superior Court bench in 1888, and in the following year the position of corporation counsel for the city of Boston. In 1890 he was elected attorney-general. His skill and ability in this office have added largely to his reputation.

Vote of State: Albert E. Pillsbury, Boston, Republican, 185,962; Charles S. Lilley, Lowell, Democrat, 156,932; Robert F. Raymond, New Bedford, Prohibition, 9,183; Herbert McIntosh, Worcester, People's Party, 3,679; James Waldock, Boston, Socialist Labor, 1,195.

AUDITOR OF ACCOUNTS.

Hon. John White Kimball, of Fitchburg, is a native of that city, and was educated in its public schools. He was born Feb. 27, 1828. He was a member of the House of Representatives in 1864, 1865, and 1872, being assigned to the committee on military affairs each year. He was again in the House in 1888, 1889, 1890, and 1891, with service on the committees on finance and railroads, being chairman of the latter committee in the two years last named, and was appointed on the joint special committee to convey to Congress the resolution relating to couplers and brakes on freight cars. He has held these offices: justice of the peace; tax collector, selectman, postmaster, and alderman of Fitchburg; police commissioner of Massachusetts; United States pension agent, Western Massachusetts District; custodian in United States Treasury Department, Washington; commander of the Department of Massachusetts, G.A.R.; before the war, captain and adjutant, Ninth Regiment, M.V.M.; during the war, lieutenant-colonel Fifteenth Massachusetts Volunteers, colonel Fifty-third Massachusetts Volunteers, and brevet brigadier-general United States Volunteers; since the war, colonel Tenth Regiment, M.V.M. He is a real-estate agent.

Vote of the State: John W. Kimball, Republican, 184,144; Irving B. Sayles, Democrat, 156,744; Alfred H. Evans, Prohibition, 10,039; Maurice W. Landers, People's Party, 3,739; Michael Lynch, Socialist Labor, 2,009.

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.

Hon. Ziba Cary Keith, of Brockton, Republican, was born in that city when it was the town of North Bridgewater, and was educated in its public schools and Pierce Academy at Middleborough, becoming a book-keeper for a business firm after leaving the latter. In 1864, with Mr. Embert Howard, he opened a general store at Campello, now Wards 3 and 4 of the city. Mr. Howard left the firm in 1866, but Mr. Keith continued it until 1883, when he retired from active business. Mr. Keith has been honored to an unusual degree by his fellow-citizens. In 1875 and 1876, sent to the House of Representatives; in 1879, selectman; in 1881, on committee to draft city charter; in same year, chosen first mayor of Brockton; also chosen to the same position for 1884-5 and 1892-3. In 1887-8, he represented his district in the Senate. In 1887-8-9, tax collector. Was an incorporator of the Campbell Co-operative Bank, the Brockton Savings Bank, and the Brockton National Bank, and has been an officer of each. Is president of the recently incorporated Plymouth County Safe Deposit and Trust Company. On committees on harbors and public lands, charitable institutions, military affairs, and railroads.

Vote of district: Z. C. Keith, of Brockton, Republican, 23,565; D. D. Sullivan, of Fall River, Democrat, 14,167.

DISTRICT No. 2.

Hon. David Hall Rice, Republican, of Brookline, was born in Penn Yan, N.Y., May 6, 1841; educated in the common schools and by a partial course in Genesee College, now Syracuse University, which has given him the honorary degree of A.M. Lived on a farm until seventeen, then sold nursery goods until entering college. Left college in junior year to study law, thence going South directly after the war to locate; but about Jan. 1, 1869, removed to Lowell and opened a law office, removing his business to Boston in 1873, and his residence to Brookline in 1885. Has devoted most of his attention of late years to patent law, and has also made many patented inventions and improvements of machinery. Edmund Dowse, the chaplain, was born in Sherborn, Mass., Sept. 17, 1813; graduated at Amherst College in 1836; was ordained and installed pastor of Pilgrim Church in Sherborn, his native town, in 1838, and is still the only acting pastor. Was a member of the Massachusetts Senate in 1869 and 1870; was chosen chaplain of the Senate in 1880, and has been reelected each succeeding year up to the present time.

Henry D. Coolidge, of Concord, the clerk, was born in Chelsea, Aug. 26, 1858; was educated in the public schools; spent several years in mercantile business. Upon the death of the venerable Hon. Stephen N. Gifford, clerk of the Senate, in May, 1886, and the election of his assistant, E. H. Clapp, as his successor, Mr. Coolidge was appointed by the latter as his assistant. He held this position in 1887 and 1888, and was unanimously elected clerk in 1889. Mr. Clapp having removed from the State. He has been unanimously reelected each year since.

William H. Sanger, assistant clerk, was born in Louisville, Ky., March 12, 1862. His parents removing to Boston in 1866. Attended the public schools of Boston and Hyde Park, graduating from the high school of the latter in 1880. After graduation did "suburban" and "city" work for the "Boston Journal" until 1889, when he was appointed to his present position. Resigning his connection with the "Journal" in 1888, took charge of the New England correspondence of the "New York Sun," and still holds that position.

Herbert E. Stevens, clerical assistant, was born in Brockton, July 27, 1879. He graduated from the public schools of his native place, and entered the newspaper profession. He is secretary of the Plymouth County Republican Campaign Committee, one of the most influential political organizations in the State. He is manager of the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, for Eastern Massachusetts. He was appointed Senate page in 1888 and 1889, and has held his present position in 1890, 1891, 1892, and 1893.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THE SPEAKER.

Hon. William E. Barrett, for the last five years speaker of the House, was born in Melrose, Dec. 29, 1838. This town constitutes the Eleventh Middlesex District, which Mr. Barrett represents. His ancestors on both sides have long been residents of Middlesex County. He received his education in the public schools and at Dartmouth College, where he graduated in 1858, having by teaching and other occupations done much towards supporting himself through his college course. Immediately on leaving college he began the study of law, but gave it up to make a life work of journalism, in which he has been constantly engaged for the past thirteen years,—two years in St. Albans, Vt., and the last eleven years in Boston, where he began as a reporter on the "Advertiser," and has been connected with the paper ever since, rising through the different grades of reporter, Washington correspondent, managing editor and publisher, until he is now the chief owner of the "Advertiser" and the "Evening Record," both of which have become very prosperous under his direction. Politically Mr. Barrett has always been Republican. Born and brought up in that faith, he was first elected to office in 1887, when he was sent to the Legislature from his native town, and has been returned annually since, having served as speaker of the House every year except the first. This has taken him to some extent out of the active work of the floor, but his influence has always been felt in the interest of legislation designed to benefit the people. During the recent Legislatures he has been instrumental in securing to towns and cities the right to manufacture and sell gas and electricity, and also espoused the adoption of the principle in the charter of private water companies that they should be purchasable by the public at any time at a fair compensation for the money invested. His elections as speaker have always been with practical unanimity. Was nominated by the Republicans to fill the vacancy in the Seventh Congressional District caused by the election of Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge to the Senate, but was defeated by the Democratic candidate by about forty plurality. The People's Party put a candidate in the field at this election, although it had none at the regular election, who polled over one thousand votes. He is particularly a man of the people, having been from the beginning largely dependent on his own efforts, and rising in the face of opposition and difficulty which would have daunted a less courageous man. He is now but thirty-four years of age, and has had a remarkably successful and noticeable career.

Vote of district: William E. Barrett, Republican, 1,933; George W. Farnsworth, Democrat, 482; Frank J. Hunt, Prohibition, 129.

District No. 22. — Ward 7 of Worcester. — Edward Issachar Comins, Republican, was born in Charlton, Nov. 16, 1833. He was educated in "the little red school-house," and, with one term in Leicester Academy, began teaching at the age of seventeen. Before he was twenty-one he attended Leicester Academy three and one-half terms and later graduated from Bridgewater Normal School. He then continued teaching until 1883, for the last twenty years of that period being principal of a grammar school in Worcester. At this time, owing to ill-health, he gave up teaching, and for the last ten years has been engaged in the manufacture of woollen goods. His father, the late Issachar Comins, of Charlton, represented that town in the Legislature in 1831–32. Mr. Comins was member of the Worcester Common Council in 1885–6–7–8, being president of the same the last three years of his service. He is at present a director of the Worcester Free Public Library, a trustee of Dean Academy of Franklin, and of several charitable organizations of Worcester.

Vote of district: John H. Bennett, People's Party, 84; Edward I. Comins, Republican, 1,530; Henry J. Gross, Democrat, 472; Carl C. T. Thomas, Prohibition, 59.

District No. 23. — Ward 8 of Worcester. — Eben F. Thompson, Republican, of Worcester, was born in that city, Jan. 29, 1859. He is a graduate of its grammar and high schools. He studied law in the Harvard Law School, and in the office of W. A. Williams, Esq., of Worcester, subsequently opening a law office in Worcester, where he now practises. Was a member of the Worcester Common Council for four years: in 1891 was its acting president, filling the position so satisfactorily that in the following year, 1892, he was unanimously elected president of that body. Mr. Thompson is the author of an abridgment of Kent's Commentaries, published by Houghton & Mifflin in 1886. Is a member of the Worcester Club, the Worcester Society of Antiquity, the Boston Athletic Association: also of the Masonic order. Chairman of the committee on bills in the third reading, and member of the committee on rules, 1893.

Vote of district: Benjamin W. Childs, Democrat, 340; Levi Smith, Prohibition, 59; Eben F. Thompson, Republican, 1,374.

THE CHAPLAIN AND CLERKS.

Daniel Wingate Waldron, the chaplain of the House, was born in Augusta, Me., Nov. 11, 1840. Graduated from Bowdoin College in 1862, from Andover Theological Seminary in 1866. Was ordained and installed pastor of East Weymouth (Mass.) Congregational Church, April 3, 1867: dismissed May 14, 1871, to become acting pastor of Maverick Congregational Church, East Boston, which position he held until Dec. 1, 1872. Since Feb. 1, 1873, connected with the City Missionary Society, Boston, now being its secretary and superintendent. Elected chaplain of the House in 1879, and has been re-elected each year since; preached the Election Sermon, Jan. 7, 1880.

Edward A. McLaughlin, clerk, was born in Boston, Sept. 25, 1853. Was educated in the public schools, at Boston College, and at Loyola College, Baltimore, Md., where he took the degree of A.B. in 1871. He entered the law office of Hon. William Gaston, and took the degree of LL.B. at Boston University in 1878; and in the same year, on motion of Mr. Gaston, was admitted to the bar. In 1871–74 he was professor of languages at Loyola College, and held the same position in 1875–76 at Seton Hall College, Orange, N.J. In 1891 he was president of the Charitable Irish Society, of Boston, established in 1737, and the oldest charitable corporation in the country. In 1879 he was appointed assistant clerk of the House by Clerk Marden, and held that position until 1883, when he was elected clerk. Mr. Marden having been chosen speaker. He has been re-elected every year since, with practical unanimity.

James W. Kimball, assistant clerk, was born in Lynn, Dec. 17, 1858. He received his education in the public schools: and on leaving school he entered the printing business, which trade he has since followed. In 1883 he was appointed a page of the House of Representatives, was afterwards appointed a messenger of the same branch, and in 1888, when a vacancy occurred in the assistant clerkship of the House, he was appointed to fill that position, and has held the same ever since.
THE LEGISLATURE AND COMMITTEES.

The Personnel, Work, and Special Features of Each.

The two branches of the Legislature of 1893 are made up as follows: The Senate consists of 30 Republicans and 16 Democrats. The senior member is Hon. Robert Howard, of Fall River, whose first term of service was in 1886, and who has served continuously ever since. The oldest senator is Hon. Luther Dame, of Newbury, who was born March 3, 1826, and the youngest is Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, of Boston, who was born Feb. 11, 1863. Sixteen were members in 1892, and 5 were in the House of 1892. Only 7 have had no previous legislative experience.

Of the House of 1893, there are 87 who served in the House of 1892, and 8 who were in previous legislatures. There are 145 Republicans, 73 Democrats, one Democrat Independent, and one Republican Independent. The dean of the House, as in 1892, is Charles H. Nye, of Hyannis. The oldest member is Mr. Whitney, 75; and the youngest, William H. McMorrow, of Boston, 21. There are 30 lawyers, 25 farmers, 10 insurance agents, and 8 journalists.

Owing to the radical change in the rules this year, it would be impossible to compare the amount of business received with that of other years simply by number of items. But there was enough to keep the members quite as busy, take it all together, as they have been of late years. Looking at the matters more closely by committees, we find some interesting facts about their work and the personnel of the committees themselves. We find a great difference in the age and weight of the committee men, as well as in the number of matters they were called upon to consider. And yet the committee that has much business one year may have but little the next, and vice versa; but cities, finance, labor, mercantile affairs, railroads, street railways, and water supply may always be sure to have pretty weighty dockets. Each committee, under the new rules, consists of 11 members; and that number will be understood as applying to all the statistics of the committees in the following paragraphs. For many of the facts herein stated the editor is under obligation to the courtesy of the clerks of the committees. The smaller and special committees are not included in this summary:

Agriculture. — First meeting, January 12; meetings held, 23; last meeting, March 30; favorable reports, 8; unfavorable, 5. Oldest, Monk, 63; youngest, Bartlett, 49; average, 56. Miscellaneous. — The joint special committee on rapid transit was undoubtedly one of the hardest-worked committees of the session. It had 9 matters relating to rapid transit sent to it, and reported legislation far in advance of anything ever before brought from a committee towards solving this problem. The committee visited Chicago and New York in the course of its investigations. The committee on elections had only 1 case, and this was settled by a recount of the votes. The committee on county estimates had a dozen matters sent it for consideration, of the usual to routine nature.

The committee on public reservations had 12 matters to consider, including the important ones relating to the Metropolitan park system, and concerning the Pro-ince lands at Provincetown. There were also the unusual number of 9 committees of conference appointed during the session, and in nearly every case they reported concessions acceptable to both branches. The committee on libraries was done away with this year. The names of members on the committees sometimes show a peculiar fitness for the position. Thus on agriculture we have Hick-ox, Wood-ward, Bacon, Granger, Barnes, Wood-bury; drainage, a Potter and a Brooks; on education, Read and Carroll.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL NOTES.

At the beginning of the session, the Republicans held a caucus and chose these officers: chairman, Mr. Galloupe, of Beverly; secretary, Mr. Garfield, of Brockton; and Messrs Parker, of Boston, Rideout, of Cambridge, Roe, of Worcester, Nickerson, of Harwich, and Kneil, of Westfield, executive committee. Later in the session, this caucus committee was chosen: first division, Messrs. Parker and Wellman; second, Messrs. Garfield and Russell; third, Messrs. Brigham and Roe; fourth, Messrs. Mc-Carthy and Kneil; fifth, Messrs. Galloupe and Holmes; sixth, Messrs. Rideout and Myers.

On the evening of April 20, the Republicans of the Senate and House, with invited guests, held a reunion and banquet at Young's. President Pinkerton presided, and speeches were made by Lieut.-Governor Wolcott, United States Senators Hoar and Lodge, Senator Parkman, of Boston, Representative McCarthy, of Boston, Senator
Lawton, of Lowell, Representative Bennett, of Everett, Senator Ratiesky, of Boston,
Senator Butler, of New Bedford, and Representatives Myers and Rideout, of Cambridge, Kneil, of Westfield, and Parker, of Boston. Letters of regret were read from Hon.
H. L. Dawes, Hon. W. W. Crapo, and Col. Samuel E. Winslow, chairman of the Republican State Committee.

At the last session of the House, while the "mock session" was in progress Mr.
Parkhurst, of Clinton, read a poem embodying some of the principal features of the session, from which quotations of the opening and closing lines are made, as follows:

"A five months' session having passed,
The ideas of June have come—at last;
'By Styx,' love swears,—for gods can swear, you know,
And when they do it thunders here below,--
'It's time this Great and General Court Should quit its capitoline fort."

"The long-expected hour draws nigh
When each shall say to each, 'Good-by;'
But whether we meet again or not
We'll have for all a kindly thought,
Each richer far than when we came
In that we've gathered many a name
Whose memory shall recall, where'er we be,
The scenes of '83."

The two branches elected Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge as United States Senator, to succeed Hon. Henry L. Dawes, Tuesday, January 17, the vote being as follows: Senate,

The Democrats, at the beginning of the session, chose Mr. McEvoY, of Lowell, as caucus chairman, and he subsequently appointed this caucus committee: Messrs. Mellen, Charles, Moriarty, McLoughlin, O'Neil, Rosnosky, Ashley, Rivers, Dodge, of

The Democrats of the Legislature, with invited guests, held a reunion and banquet at the Quincy House, February 28. Representative Moore, of Walpole, presided, and speeches were made by the following: Senators Stevens, Fitzgerald, and Buckley;

President Pinkerton entertained the Senate at Young’s, Monday evening, May 8.

MINOR NOTES OF THE SESSION.

It is an interesting fact that Senators Baker, of Suffolk, and Butler, of Bristol, and Representatives Kneil, of Westfield, Joy, of Winchester, and Worthen, of Weymouth, were all classmates at the Boston University Law School in 1882–83.

The Quinn family should change its name to the "Can" family. Two brothers, John Quinn, Jr., of Boston, and Timothy F. Quinn, of Sharon, are members of this House; and an elder brother, Philip H. Quinn, of Boston, served in the House in 1886–8.

Rarely, if ever, has there been a session in which there were so many deaths of members as in the one just closed. It is not often, indeed, that there is a single death to record; but in the past session, three members of the House died within three days. They were as follows: Asa Smith, of Chilmark, Republican, born Jan. 29, 1824, died Feb. 6. He was a member of the committees on county estimates and State House. This was his first term. Henry J. Jennings, Republican, of Worcester, who was born Nov. 29, 1829, died Feb. 8, and was serving his second term. He was on the committee on street railways. Samuel Crooks, of Hopkinton, Republican, who was seventy-one years old. He died Feb. 7. He was on the committees on elections and public service.

One of the special features of the session was the investigation of certain gas companies of Boston, by a special committee consisting of Messrs. Lyford, Meyer, Galloupe, Moriarty, Rosinsky, Joy, and Malone, to which were added the House members of the committee on manufactures, as follows: Messrs. Ackley, O’Neil, Ball, Kohlrausch, Whitney, McLoughlin, Gage, and Hammond. The report of committee finally resulted in the passage of the famous "Bay State Gas Company" bill.

The two branches met in joint convention, January 26, to take action relative to the death of "General Benjamin Franklin Butler, formerly governor of this Commonwealth." Senator Lawton, of Lowell, offered appropriate resolutions, which were supported by him and Senators Fitzgerald and Buckley, and Representatives Mellen, McEvoy, Charles, Roe, P. J. Farley, and John Brown, and unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Some very peculiar alphabetical freaks appear in the preparation of the names of nominees. For example, in Taunton the three representatives elected led the alphabet: A-lden, B-rown, C-rane. In the Tenth Essex District, out of twelve candidates the first three, alphabetically, were Prohibitionists, A. B. D, and the last three, who were elected also, Republicans: R-ichardson, S-mith, T-aucker. In the Fifth Norfolk, the first three nominees, alphabetically, happened to hail from Quincy, and the other six all came from Weymouth.

It so happened that on the day the House enacted the "wide tire" bill, Mr. Samuel Dean, of Taunton, who was the originator of the measure twenty-eight years ago, was in the chair beside the speaker. Mr. Dean is one of the three survivors of the House of thirty-eight years ago.

Probably no bill ever had so many amendments offered to it as did the rapid-transit bill, over sixty being offered in the House alone. The fact that but very few were adopted shows how carefully it had been drawn.

During the closing hours of the session, the Senate presented President Pinkerton with a mantel clock and a pair of vases; and Clerk Coolidge with an easy chair. Speaker Barrett was presented by the House with a gold watch, while Clerk McLoughlin received a case of silverware from the appreciative members.
The "mock session" was remarkable for two things: The unparalleled resources of wit and words displayed by Representative Hayes, of Lowell, who occupied the chair for not less than four hours, showing an ability to interest and amuse, and yet restrain, the House, never before seen "by the oldest inhabitant."

The committee on rapid transit had a House chairman that was so highly appreciated by his fellow-members from the House, that they presented him, through Mr. T. F. Quinn, of Sharon, with a fine Southdown buck from the blue-grass regions of Kentucky, for him to put on his Maine farm.

Mr. White, of Brookline, was the first Democrat to represent that town since 1856.

The monitors of the House were as follows: 1st division, Messrs. Bliss and Mellen; 2d, Messrs. McEvoy and Rockwell; 3d, Messrs. Rosnosky and Hoyt; 4th, Messrs. Rivers and Richmond; 5th, Messrs. Galloupe and F. C. Wood; 6th, Messrs. Charles and Parkhurst.

A peculiar incident of the session was the petition of Albert N. Hoxie "for an investigation of the methods employed to procure the election of Hon. A. C. Ratshesky." The petition went to the committee on rules, which, after giving the petitioner all the opportunity he desired to present his evidence, which he failed to do, finally unanimously gave him leave to withdraw.

The yeas and nays were called in the Senate 129 times during the session, and 49 times in the House.

The Senate weighed a total of 7,021 pounds, and its aggregate age was 1,770 years. The right-hand half, as seated, averaged 41 years and 179 pounds, as against 47.5 years and 172 pounds for the left half. The total age of the House was 10,840 years, and its total weight 31,278 pounds. The first half alphabetically, averaged 45.08 years and 174 pounds, as against 45.16 years and 170.10 pounds for the last half.

The Senate was 1,770 years old and weighed 7,021 pounds, as against 1,935 years and 6,623 pounds for the Senate of 1892. The House was 10,840 years old and weighed 31,278 pounds, as against 11,509 years and 40,144 pounds for the House of 1892.

Of the Senate, 30 of the 40 were married and 28 smoked; of the House, 185 of the 240 were married and only 136 smoked.

The death of Ex-President Hayes was noticed by the adoption of appropriate resolutions in the Senate and by similar ones in the House, supported by Messrs. John Quinn, Jr., Roe, Moriarty, and Parker.

The death of Hon. James G. Blaine was appropriately noticed in the Senate, February 2, by the adoption of resolutions reported by a special committee, Senator Read, chairman, and supported by Messrs. Read, Buckley, Kittredge, Stevens, and Brown; and in the House, February 23, by special appointment, when Speaker Barrett delivered an eloquent eulogy of the deceased statesman. Speaker Barrett and Messrs. Moriarty and Graham were appointed a special committee to request that the remains of Mr. Blaine might lie in state in the State capitol one day on their way to Maine for interment, but the burial was finally made in Washington.

The special committee in the Senate on the death of Gen. Butler was as follows: Messrs. Lawton, E. H. Shaw, and Kimball. In the House the committee was as follows: Messrs. Parker, of Boston, Mellen, of Worcester, Jewett, of North Adams, Hall, of Woburn, Hayes, of Lowell, Tilden, of Boston, and Lowe, of Saugus.

The committee appointed to represent the State at the funeral of Gen. Butler was: Senators Lawton, Kimball, Butler, Stevens, Milton, Kittredge, and Conglin, and the Speaker; and Representatives Parker, Mellen, Jewett, Hall, Love, Tilden, Shute, Brigham, Kohlrausch, Smith, of Gloucester, Charles, Jackson, Benjamin J.
