A SOUVENIR

OF

Massachusetts Legislators

1895

VOLUME IV.
(Issued Annually)

A. M. BRIDGMAN
BROCKTON, MASS.
PREFACE.

The "Souvenir" of 1895 is the first to contain records of men who sat in the State House Extension to make and unmake laws for the state. It was a Legislature remarkable for containing the largest proportion of members from one political party ever known. The House contained 194 Republicans and 46 Democrats, while in the Senate there were only four Democrats to 36 Republicans. There were not enough even of the former to secure a roll call. And yet there was no unusual partisan legislation attempted. The majority always passes more or less legislation against the protest of the minority. The business of the session, although of greater volume than ever, was completed decently and in order and prorogation reached at the unusually early date of June 5, or the earliest since 1888. The session of 1895 was also remarkable for the unusual number of deaths among its members. One Senator and two Representatives elect died without taking the oath of office, while two died after having served several weeks, and one on the very morning of the day the Legislature was prorogued. This "Souvenir" contains the portrait of every "Legislator" of the state, whether in Senate or House or Congress, as well as all members of the Executive Department. Nearly all of the Staff and a good proportion of the Sergeant-at-arms' force are also represented. The pictures of the new House and of the old Senate chamber, included for the first time, make the volume more complete than ever as a Souvenir. It now contains not only the portraits of the members, their biographies and their autographs, but pictures also of the halls themselves in which they sat to legislate. If their successors serve the state as well as they, the people will be well served indeed.

THE OLD ELM, BOSTON COMMON.

(The following inscriptions on the tablets adjoining the present young and thrifty elm briefly state the main facts of interest):

"THE OLD ELM destroyed by a gale Feb. 15, 1876. This elm planted A.D. 1876."

"THE OLD ELM.—This tree has been standing here for an unknown period. It is believed to have existed before the settlement of Boston, being fully grown in 1722; exhibited marks of old age in 1792, and was nearly destroyed by a storm in 1832. Protected by an enclosure in 1854.

J. V. C. SMITH, Mayor."

DORIC HALL.

This hall has seen varied gatherings, but none of greater interest than that of April 17, 1861. On that day, the first volunteer company of the whole country, during the late War of the Rebellion, assembled here, chose its officers, received overcoats from the government and in an hour and a half from the time of assembling was on its way to the front. The story, in more detail, is as follows: In Cambridge, in 1860, had been formed a company of "Wide Awakes" to help elect President Lincoln. Hon. J. M. S. Williams, congressman from that district, promised them that if they would keep up their organization they could go to Washington to see Lincoln inaugurated. But the United States government forbade the assembling of such bodies at the national capital. During the dark days of February, 1861, several of the company agreed to volunteer if they were needed, and, on the 14th of February, several of them signed an agreement to that effect. First on the list was the name of John Kinnear, now assistant door-keeper of the House. In the first week in March, he, with a few others, visited the State House and personally tendered their services to Governor Andrew. He advised them that there was no immediate need of their services and that they return to Cambridge, whence he would summon them if necessary. Then came the news of the breaking out of rebellion. They at once visited the State House, finding the Governor and Council in session. Governor Andrew told them to return to Cambridge and that they would receive orders in an hour. They returned and the orders speedily reached them. Then, again, they hastened to the State House, many of their members leaving their work and throwing their tools into the street. Reaching the State House, they assembled in Doric Hall, ninety-seven of them. In a small adjoining room they chose officers, electing James Prentice Richardson, now of Texas, as captain. They first went to the Old Colony station, but were soon ordered to the "S. R. Spaulding," where they embarked for Fortress Monroe. They were first assigned to the Fifth regiment, but were soon transferred to the Third, becoming Company C. This was, without doubt, the first volunteer company of the late war. It is a matter of history that this prompt, loyal and general response of this company, in contrast with the scattering returns from more pretentious organizations, did much to encourage the State authorities and "the great war Governor."

In this hall lay, in state, the body of Charles Sumner, Sunday, March 15, 1874, where it was viewed by a multitude as vast as time would allow.

In this hall gathered the "Army of the Unemployed," February 20, 1894, whence they were removed by detachments of the district and Boston police, but without violence. They had just been addressed on the Capitol steps by Governor Greenhalge.

This view is taken from the main entrance. In the distance are the cannon commemorative of the battles of Lexington and Concord, the battle flags of the Rebellion and, in the midst of all, the statue of Washington.
STATE HOUSE EXTENSION. — All to right of dome, built October 24, 1884, by Governor Oliver Ames. To be occupied by Legislature of 1884, estimated cost $3,262,000.

Built in 1763; dedicated March 14, and completed the same month; on the site of an earlier one, built in 1742, and burned on January 13, 1761. James Otis made the dedicatory address. Enlarged in 1805 to its present proportions. The grasshopper vane is an imitation of the pinnacle of the Royal Exchange in London, and was used on the first hall. The upper hall is the armory of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Faneuil Hall is also known as "The Cradle of Liberty," because here are held by common consent the mass meetings in the interest of efforts to aid humanity.
SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON REMOVAL OF "YE ANCIENT CODFISH."

MEMBERS WITH NO COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENTS.
Senator James P. Niles (Chosen To Fill a Vacancy).

THE OLD SOUTH MEETING-HOUSE.

Built in 1730, on the lot of Gov. John Winthrop, corner of Milk and Washington streets, and dedicated in April of the same year. On November 27, 1773, here was held the meeting at which it was resolved that the English tea should not be landed; and on December 16 here was held the meeting, with 7,000 people attending, before the pouring of the tea into Boston harbor by the Sons of Liberty, disguised as Mohawk Indians. Here Warren spoke in March, 1775, three months before he was killed at the battle of Bunker Hill. In the siege of Boston it was used as a riding-school by the British. Its external appearance has not been changed for 150 years. No religious services have been held here since 1872. Now occupied by a loan collection of Revolutionary and other relics, the admission fees going to the preservation fund.

THE SENATE CHAMBER.

The musket on the left bears this inscription: "The first Firearm captured in the War for Independence." The musket on the right is thus inscribed: "This Firearm was used by Capt. John Parker at the Battle of Lexington, April 19, 1775. The drum, sword of an infantry officer, Hessian helmet and musket are trophies of the battle of Bennington, as the document framed below testifies, as follows:

THE OLD STATE HOUSE.

Built in 1748, on site of burned town hall, at the head of State Street, Boston.

In the foreground occurred the Boston Massacre of March 5, 1770. Been used as State House, City Hall, and Post Office. British troops quartered here, 1768, and General Gage held council of war here before battle of Bunker Hill. Declaration of Independence read from balcony in view; from other end Washington reviewed procession in 1789. Here State Constitution planned and ratified. William Lloyd Garrison took refuge here from mob, October, 1835, it being then used for City Hall.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

BRIEF SKETCHES OF THE LIVES OF THE MEN WHO, IN STATE AND NATIONAL GOVERNMENT HELPED SHAPE
LEGISLATION IN 1895.

THE GOVERNOR.

Frederic Thomas Greenhalge, Republican, of Lowell, is a native of England, born in Clitheroe, a parliamentary borough in the county of Lancaster, July 19, 1842. His education begun in Clitheroe, was continued in the Lowell public schools, and finished at Harvard College. Upon graduation from the High School, where he ranked as first scholar in his class, he received the first Carney medal ever given. He entered Harvard in 1859, and afterward became editor of Harvard Magazine. In Oct., 1863, joined Union army; connected with commissary department at Newbern, N. C. While engaged in this service, in April, 1864, he was seized with malarial fever, and after several weeks of sickness was sent home. Upon his recovery he resumed his legal studies, and in 1865 was admitted to the Middlesex bar. In 1874 he was made a special justice of the police court of Lowell, and served ten years. In 1883 he was made city solicitor. His public life began with service in the Lowell Common Council in 1868 and 1869. From 1871 to 1873 he was a member of the School Board:
in 1880 and 1881 mayor of the city; in 1885 a representative of Lowell in the lower house of the Legislature; and in 1889-90 a member of the Fifty-first Cong-gress representing the Eighth Massachusetts District. At Washington he ranked with the leaders in the New England delegation, as a ready debater, and was frequently heard on the floor of the House. In 1890 he was renominated by the Republicans of his district, but after a hot canvass, lost the election by about four hundred and fifty votes. He was delegate to the National Republican Convention in 1884, and in 1890 was chairman of the Republican State Convention. The autumn campaign of 1893 ended with his election to the governorship as the successor of William E. Russell, and he was again elected in 1894.
He is a member of a number of societies and clubs, is president of the Humane Society, past president of the Unitarian and the History Clubs, and president of the People's Club in Lowell from 1885-93, and he also belongs to several clubs in Boston. He has been a trustee of the City Institution for Savings of Lowell since 1876, and is now president of the Institution. He is also a member of the Yorick and Highland Clubs of Lowell and of the University, Algonquin and Athletic Clubs of Boston.

Vote of state: Frederic T. Greenhalge, 189,307; John E. Russell, Democrat, 123,930; A. W. Richardson, Prohibition, 9965; G. H. Cary, People's Party, 9037;
D. Taylor, Socialist Labor, 3104.

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

His Honor Roger Wolcott, Republican, of Boston, was born in that city July 13, 1847, being a lineal descendant of Oliver Wolcott, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He graduated from Harvard University in the class of 1870, and was class orator. He was a member of the Boston Common Council in 1887-8-9, and of the House of Representatives in 1882-3-4, serving on the committees on libraries, labor, and public charitable institutions, and being chairman of the standing House committee on elections. He was the first president of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, is an overseer of Harvard University, and a trustee of the Massachusetts General Hospital. Was lieutenant-governor in 1893, and was on the committees on pardons, finance, charitable institutions, prisons, military affairs, and railroads. On the same committees in 1894, and also on committee on State House extension. On the same committees in 1895 as in 1894, and also on nominations.

Vote of the state: W. O. Dwinell, People's Party, 9290; M. E. Ruther, Socialist Labor, 3439; S. B. Shapleigh, Prohibition, 20,375; C. E. Stratton, Democrat, 118,149; Roger Wolcott, Republican, 178,821.

SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

Hon. William Milo Olin, of Boston, Republican, is the sixteenth incumbent of the office of Secretary of the Commonwealth since 1710. He is serving his fifth term there. He was born of New England parents in Warrenton, Ga., Sept. 18, 1845, but has been a resident of this state since 1850, and is a graduate of the public schools. He very early entered the office of the Worcester Transcript, starting at the bottom of the ladder as the "devil." He followed that with work at the case until the breaking out of the rebellion. Then, although very young, he enlisted in the Thirty-sixth Massachusetts Volunteers, and served throughout the war in that organization. Returning to civil life, he devoted some time to study, under the guidance of Rev. Edward Everett Hale, and then joined the reportorial staff of the Boston Advertiser, with which paper he was connected for fourteen years, as reporter, editor, and Washington correspondent. In 1879 he was appointed private secretary and military secretary, with the rank of colonel, by Gov. Talbot, and was reappointed by Gov. Long in 1880, 1881, and 1882. Since then he has acted as private secretary to Collector Worthington, Senator Dawes, and Collector Beard; and he left the service of the last-named to take up the duties of his present office. He has been lieutenant-colonel and assistant adjutant-general under Gen. Wales, First Brigade, M. V. M., and adjutant-general of the National Encampment, G. A. R.

TREASURER AND RECEIVER GENERAL.

Hon. Henry M. Phillips, of Springfield, Republican, was born in Athol, Aug. 11, 1845. Educated in public schools of Athol and Fitchburg and at Deerfield Academy and Norwich (Vt) Military University. At sixteen enlisted as private in Seventh Squadron of Rhode Island Cavalry, one company of which was composed entirely of undergraduates of Dartmouth College and Norwich University. _Private Secretary._—Henry Andrew Thomas was born in South Weymouth, Mass., July 29, 1856; educated in its public schools, and graduated at the High School with honors at seventeen, when he entered the Boston post-office as a clerk under Gen. W. L. Burt. By hard work and careful attention to his duties he was advanced through the various stages until 1889, when he was appointed by Postmaster-General Wanamaker superintendent of mails at the Boston post-office, in which position he remained until September 1893. In early part of 1889, he was offered the position of superintendent of foreign mails at Washington, but declined in order to keep up his old associations in Massachusetts. During the Harrison administration he was a prominent candidate for postmastership of Boston, and was the choice of the post-office department at Washington as well as of a number of Congressmen and the Republican members of the Massachusetts Legislature. During the State campaign of 1893 he was an earnest advocate of the candidacy of Hon. F. T. Greenhalge for the governorship, and took a very active part in the preliminary canvass and in the campaign afterwards, which resulted in the election of Gov. Greenhalge. The first act of the governor after his inauguration was the appointment of Mr. Thomas as his private secretary. He has proven himself admirably fitted for this position, and his courteous manner and great tact have won for him a multitude of friends all over the State. In the public affairs of his native town he has always taken an active part, and has been instrumental in the formation of different organizations of a literary and social character, and is at present a member of the school board of Weymouth. On Memorial Day and other public occasions his voice has often been heard upon the platform, and his services as a public speaker are always in demand.

Vote of district: John Simpkins, Republican, 13,497; Robert Howard, Democrat, 8,548.

SEVENTH DISTRICT.

William E. Barrett, Republican, of Melrose was born in that town, Dec. 29, 1858, and his ancestors on both sides have long been residents of Middlesex county. He was educated in the public schools and at Dartmouth College, class of 1886, having by teaching and other occupations done much to support himself through his college course. On leaving college he began the study of law, but gave it up to enter on his life work of journalism. For two years he was in St. Albans, Vt., and then he began as reporter on the Boston "Advertiser" and has been connected with that paper ever since, rising through the different grades of reporter, Washington correspondent, managing editor and publisher, until he is now chief owner of the "Advertiser" and "Evening Record", both of which have become very prosperous under his direction. Mr. Barrett has always been a Republican. In 1887 he was sent to the House from his native town, and was returned annually for six years, and for the last five he was chosen Speaker. While this position took him largely from active work on the floor, yet his influence was always felt in the direction of legislation to benefit the people. He was specially instrumental in securing legislation to preserve to the cities and towns the right to make and sell gas and electricity, and the purchase by them of water company charters on equitable terms. His elections as Speaker were practically unanimous, and the last time he received every vote of the House. He is especially a man of the people, having risen largely by his own efforts and sometimes against strong opposition and difficulty which would have daunted a less courageous man. In the spring of 1893, he was the Republican candidate for Congress, to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge to the Senate, but was defeated by Hon. Wm. Everett, by about 40 votes. In this election, the People's Party put a candidate in the field, although it had none in the regular election, who received about 1000 votes. Renominated by the Republicans in 1894, he received the largest majority ever given in that district.

EIGHTH DISTRICT.

Samuel Walker McCall, Republican, lawyer, of Winchester, was born in Bedford County, Penn., Feb. 28, 1851, and passed his early life in Illinois. Studied at New Hampton (N. H.) In Senate of 1893-94 and chairman of committee on engrossed bills, and on committees on election laws and liquor law; on committees on rules, liquor law, taxation and transit, 1894. Elected member of 54th Congress and enjoys the distinction of being the sole representative of the Democratic party in New England in that body.

TENTH DISTRICT.

Harrison H. Atwood, Republican, of Boston was born in North Londonderry, Vt., Aug. 26, 1862, but his parents soon removed to Boston and he was educated in his public schools, graduating from the Phillips Grammar school in the class of 1877. Then in law office of Godfrey Morse and John R. Bullard, but at seventeen took up the study of architecture. For four years with S. J. F. Thayer; and then a year with George A. Clough. Then began practice for himself, and some of his more notable work were his prize designs for Suffolk county court-house and First National Bank in Chelsea. In May, 1889, appointed Boston City Architect; re-appointed, 1890. Among the principal buildings he completed was the Horace Mann school-house. Chief of his new work were the four finest school-houses in New England, Henry L. Pierce and Bowditch grammar, and Prince and Adams primary. In 1887-8-9 member of House of Representatives, receiving in 1891 largest vote ever given for any candidate in his district; on committees on State House extension, liquor law, mercantile affairs and cities. In 1888, alternate delegate, and in 1892 a delegate to Republican national convention; for past eleven years member of Republican city committee, being its secretary for four years. In 1887-8 on Republican state central committee. In 1892, nominated for Congress and made splendid run. Member of St. John's Lodge of Masons, of St. Paul's Royal Arch Chapter, and of Boston Arch Commandery; also a member of the Odd Fellows.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT.

Ledward Bill, of Paxton, Republican, was born in Ledyard, Conn., May 14, 1836, and was educated in the public schools and academy. He then took Horace Greeley's advice to young men to "go West," and settled in Louisville, Ky., where he engaged in the publishing business, which business was destroyed by the breaking out of the Civil War. He then engaged in the publishing business in New York City, where he remained until removing to Paxton in 1874. His father, Gurdon Bill, served in the war of 1812, at the battle of Stonington, and was a member of the Legislature of Connecticut; and his grandfather, Joshua Bill, was wounded in the battle of Groton Heights, at Fort Griswold, Conn., in the Revolution, and was a Revolutionary pensioner. His ancestor and relative, Richard Bill, a merchant of Boston, was a member of the Governor’s council in 1737-8-9-40-41. In 1891 Mr. Bill was a member of the House and House chairman of the committee on agriculture; influential in securing passage of the “anti-oleo” law, successfully opposed the increase of salaries of members, defended the rights of the farmers’ boys on the game law question, opposed the granting of railroad passes to members (since become law,) and was always favorable to sound legislation. Has given a soldiers’ monument to his native town, and aided in founding the public library in his adopted town. Has always taken advanced position for State aid for public roads; and has, occasionally, for several years past, lectured on this subject. For the past dozen years has been chairman of selectmen, Overseers of the poor, and of the school committee, and has acted as town treasurer. He is a corresponding member of the Historic Genealogical Society of Boston, and of the Wisconsin Historical Society. He has written several volumes of travel and history. His first work on Florida met with quite a large sale, and was largely instrumental in calling attention of the North to that State as a winter resort. The Literary Review pronounced it as one of the few successful publications of the year. Later on, a work on Minnesota followed; then a volume on genealogy; his last volume was in 1890, being the history of the town where he resides. In the winter of 1860-61, the first Union League Club in the country was organized at Louisville, Ky., by Mr. Bill and a few of his friends. This organization spread rapidly over a large portion of Kentucky and East Tennessee, and was largely instrumental in saving Kentucky to the Union. In 1893, he redeemed his senatorial district, which had been Democratic for four years. NOTES OF THE SESSION.

The caucus committee of the House Republicans for the session was as follows: Chairman, Mr. Prevaux: secretary, Mr. Bailey; Messrs. Hibbard, Jones, Bancroft of Clinton, Porter of North Attleboro, Howe and White of Sandwich.

The committee to arrange the annual legislative banquet of Republican members was: Messrs. McCarthy, Hayes, Irwin, Barnes of Chelsea, Harvey of Springfield and Prevaux. The banquet was held at the American House, Tuesday, March 26, Gov. Greenhalge being an invited guest.

Resolutions on the death of Fred Douglass were adopted in the House March 1, after remarks by Messrs. Teamoh, Roe, Myers, Dallinger, J. H. Mellen, Dickinson and Lowell. As a further mark of respect, on motion of Mr. Krebs, the House then adjourned. The same resolutions were subsequently adopted in the Senate without discussion.

Representative Cooke of Lunenburg died Feb. 18, and Messrs. Wallis, Ferson, Turner, Drury, Thacher, Clark and Hawkes were appointed a special committee to attend his funeral and prepare suitable resolutions.

Hon. James P. Niles, of Watertown, who had been chosen at a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death before the opening of the session of Senator-elect Oliver Shaw of Watertown, was qualified and took his seat March 11.

A special committee appointed by the Council reported that it was impossible to determine where was held the first "town meeting" and the first free public school.

The Senate met in its usual chamber until Feb. 16, when it was voted to remove for six weeks to rooms in the "Extension" pending the completion of certain changes in the walls of the old chamber in connection with the uniting of the same with the "Extension." At the expiration of the allotted time, the body removed back to the old chamber.

The Senate, on the first day of its session, on motion of Mr. Sanger of Suffolk, adopted resolutions on the death of Hon. Oliver Shaw of Watertown, senator-elect from the 2d Middlesex district.

The inauguration of the Governor took place in the hall of the new House, and it was 12:30 before he began reading his address, there being an unusual amount of delay necessary in the preliminary exercises by reason of the distance between the new House and the Executive Chamber, etc.

The addition of a new committee, this year, that on metropolitan affairs, tended to expedite business by relieving two or three that had been overloaded of late.

The committee for the caucus for the nomination of a United States senator was: Messrs. Speaker Meyer, Prevaux, Myers, Roe, Irwin, Warriner, Phelps, Hammond of Quincy, F. W. Hathaway, Porter of North Attleboro and Foss.
The session of 1895 was remarkable for several things. It assembled in the hall of the old House at 11 a.m., Jan. 2, the last legislative body ever to assemble in that hall. Mr. St. John, of Haverhill, senior member-elect, called the members to order and prayer was offered by Rev. William S. White, of Foxboro, a member-elect. The House was formally organized in the usual manner. In his address, on taking the chair of Speaker, Mr. Meyer called on Mr. Roe of Worcester to give the House the result of his extended research into the history of the State House, then being occupied for the last time. This was done by Mr. Roe in an eloquent and interesting address that held the closest attention of the members for upwards of an hour, and which was ordered printed as a House document. At 2.18, on motion of Mr. Tuttle of Boston, the House adjourned, and the sessions of a Massachusetts House of Representatives in this hall, which had been used for this purpose since 1798 were forever closed therein.

On Tuesday, Jan. 15, each branch made choice of a United States senator for the ensuing six years. The vote in the Senate was: Hon. George F. Hoar, of Worcester, 34; Hon. John E. Russell of Leicester, 4. In the House Mr. Hoar had 180 votes, and Mr. Russell 39. The following day the two branches met in joint convention in the hall of the House, and President Butler declared Senator Hoar to have been re-elected.

Representative Frank S. Bennett of Tyngsboro died, April 10, and Messrs. Hayes, George, Wheaton, Snow, F. H. Rourke, Roper, Hawkes, Holt and Putnam were appointed a special committee to attend the funeral and prepare suitable resolutions.

On Thursday, Jan. 10, Mr. Searls of Worcester announced the death of Henry Y. Simpson, member-elect from the 21st Worcester district, and offered resolutions, which were spoken to by Messrs. Searls, Roe, J. H. Mellen and Speaker Meyer.

The Middlesex county members had a reunion and dinner, April 24th.

The Republicans had a caucus on nomination of treasurer, April 23d: Democrats, the 25th; and Hon. E. P. Shaw was chosen on the 25th.

Representative W. H. Burges of Kingston died, June 5, the last day of the session, and Messrs. Drew, Barker, Penniman, Eldredge, Harlow and Gray were appointed to attend the funeral and prepare resolutions.

Senators Galloupe and Frothingham and Representatives Jordan, Gauss, Russell, Drury, Woodfall and Parker were a special committee to escort the remains of Congressman Cogswell from Washington to Salem.

The Democrats had a reunion and a dinner, April 16. James H. Mellen presided and C. I. Quirk was toast-master. Speeches were made by Messrs. John F. Fitzgerald, Josiah Quincy, George Fred Williams, and John W. Corcoran.

The Senators, through Mr. Durant, presented President Butler, as a testimonial, an elegant colonial sideboard, Messrs. Corbett, Bessom and Southard also speaking to the resolutions: through Mr. Quinn, seconded by Mr. Miller, a beautiful rug to Clerk Coolidge; and through Mr. Morse a fine couch to Doorkeeper Remington. The Representatives, through Mr. Moriarty, seconded by Messrs. Harwood, Bates, C. G. Bancroft, Stanley, Sleeper, Young and Shea, presented to Speaker Meyer as a testimonial a solid silver salver; and, through Mr. Spring, to Clerk McLaughlin a set of Parkman's works.
THE PASSING OF THE COD.

One of the most interesting ceremonies of the session was that attending the transfer of the "Ancient Codfish" from the old hall of the House of Representatives to the new. This was on Thursday, March 7. At 3 p.m. the subject was taken up by special assignment. Consent was given to enter in full on the journal of the House resolutions from the Business Men's Association of the City of Gloucester in favor of retaining this emblem of their industry, symbolizing the sources of their original wealth, the nursery of mariners who manned their frigates, our issues and struggles with England; in 1804 the fleets of Gloucester took from the ocean fifty-three million ($53,000,000) pounds of this valuable fish product. Messrs. Woodfall of Rockport, Tarr of Gloucester, Wadden of Marblehead, Brown of Gloucester, Jordan of Salem, Foss of Cottage City, Russell of Salem, Cook of Provincetown, Irwin of Northampton. Roberts of Chelsea, Gallivan of Boston, Bullock of Manchester, Stocker of Beverly and Gardner of Nantucket were appointed a special committee to bring the Codfish from the old hall to the new. Escorted by the sergeant-at-arms they proceeded to the old hall and took position in front of the figure. It was just 4.12 when Assistant Doorkeeper John Kinnear lowered down the Ancient Emblem to the hand barrow wrapped in the American flag, which had been made ready for its transportation. Messenger Thomas Pedrick of Lynn took the forward end of the barrow. Messenger Sidney Gardner of Gloucester, the rear; and Messenger B. F. B. Willson of Boston walked beside to steady the same. When the House was reached, Messenger Edwin Gould of Reading was added to the force of bearers, and as they entered the House the Ancient Emblem was raised upon their shoulders. As the door was entered, Senator Sylvanus Smith of Gloucester, a fit representative of rock-ribbed Essex, bowed low in appreciative reverence of the symbol of his county's glory. The Speaker rapped the House to rise, and so with honors of state the Ancient Emblem of one of Massachusetts's most important industries was received back to the fold. Messrs. Roberts of Chelsea, Irwin of Northampton and Gallivan of Boston, a special committee to prepare a complete history of the "Codfish," made their report. Mr. Gauss of Salem introduced a resolve for the printing and distribution of this report; and Mr. Roberts of Chelsea put in a resolve for the proper painting of the Emblem and its suspension from the ceiling and above the Speaker's chair. But later in the session, owing to an objection by the architect that this position would not be harmonious with his design of decorating, it was suspended between the pillars of the main gallery and directly over the main entrance.
