Salutation

HE Town of Barnstable, proud of its boys in khaki and blue, has invited them, their families, friends and the "stranger within its gate" to gather together and celebrate the return of its veterans of the World War. Some of the lads have faced the enemy on foreign soil, baring their breasts to the rifle and shell fire, the bayonets and death-dealing attacks of poison gases; some have manned the naval ships that held the German navy prisoners in their own ports; some aboard the torpedo destroyers, scout patrols and submarine chasers kept the ocean lanes so cleared that over two million men were transported a distance of three thousand miles and more, and this enormous army was kept fully equipped for a year and a half; others protected the fifteen hundred miles of home coast against enemy raiders and submarines; while still others, answering the call of their country, gave themselves up to intensive training so that they might qualify to replace the losses at the front and on the seas. All have reason to be proud of their individual efforts in the great struggle for universal freedom and democracy and, from the last soldier, sailor, marine or mariner, with sleeve undecorated save by hard and perilously won stripes of service or wounds, to the highest rank insignia on collar or shoulder strap of our officers, the Town of Barnstable honors you one and all for what you did and the sacrifices you stood ready to make.

As for our lassies who donned the uniform of Yeoman (F), Army or Red Cross nurses, or joined up with the Telephone and Telegraph units "overseas," words fail to express our pride, but let us simply say that you are the worthy successors of those women of 1775 who, on many occasions, loaded the muskets for their men and succored the wounded and dying under fire.

To the three heroes of our Township who "gave their lives for their Flag and Country," our uncovered heads bend in reverential remembrance of their supreme sacrifice.

“Dulce Et Decorum Est Pro Patria Mori”

Pause, good people, and just "hold a thought,
For the lads who never returned;
The "Supreme Sacrifice" being the price,
Of the halo they have earned.

While we honor the brave lads here today,
And welcome them one and all;
We silently drop a tear for the boys,
Who are "missing" from roll-call.
